Rockwall County Commissioners Court. at its January 13 ig studied various issues about library improvements, road nance and a new county telephone system.

first matter at hand was the topic of county road maintenance Wanda Ridge Estates in Royse City. The private residence intained its own roads throughout the subdivision for the past ars. Recently, the owners of the property have proposed that ivate roads be turned over to the county. Rockwall County eer Pat Nesmith spoke on behalf of Wanda Ridge Estates reg the condition of the roads and how they were maintained.

: roads were well kept during the two year observation period. all signs throughout the residence were still posted properly e ditches were always clean," said Nesmith.

r a brief discussion, led by Commissioner David Magness, all ved the county's takeover of the road's maintenances in the lision.

t on the agenda was the issue of a new telephone system for unty. The county sought approval for an eight-month mainteagreement with Encover Contract Services effective January 09 through September 30, 2009. The requested amount needed e master voice network system was $1,804.45, which would the cost of new switches and routers.

idition to new system expenses, it was noted that all parts were ed under warranty and could be replaced for no cost during the of the contract. The Commissioners Court approved the system i related issues.

1 number three on the agenda was concerning a 36-month ription agreement with Thomson West for the annual maince of the county's government law library. The updates will 8,029.44 annually for the duration of the contract. Rockwall y Assistant District Attorney Brian Williams spoke on the issue plained reasons for the proposal in further detail.

is agreement is a standard subscription that is required by law county to maintain," Williams said.

orically, the county legal staff has had to frequently update the y as new legislation was passed at the state level. Not only must toks be up to date according to state law, they must be easily sible to the public.

for the Rockwall County Library. The proposed grant, in the amount of $10,298, was to be effective for the fiscal year of 2009. Marcine McCulley, Rockwall County Head Librarian, already has a plan set to see that the money is used appropriately.

"This grant will assist us in purchasing much needed audio/visual equipment, books on cassette and music CDs and DVDs for all ages groups to use," said McCulley.

Each year the Texas State Library Grant is awarded to public libraries that meet certain guidelines. Due to the fact that the money is awarded as a grant, the Commissioners Court is required to approve it in a government proceeding. The library staff requested the funds in October 2008 and they were approved earlier this month. After a brief discussion among the commissioners, the grant was approved.

Topics five and six on the agenda involved county road bond and space issues that were approved. The consent agenda included discussion of previous meetings as well as acknowledgements of the deputation of clerks Tina McClaine and Ashley McCoy.

Rounding out the meeting were issues concerning property acquisitions, non-emergency budget transfers and approval of accounts, bills, claims and payroll. The preceding topics went unopposed and were approved by the court.

Rockwall's Jamie Hullet enjoys success on the LPGA tour with full family support

by Stephen Woods

Rockwall native Jamie Hullett began playing golf at the age of five. Two years later she showed her competitive spirit by winning her first tournament held at the Dallas Municipal Golf Course. Although she was one of only four golfers competing, she faced off against fellow LPGA golfer Kelly Kuehne in a very tight match. As she got older, her talents improved and she embarked on an impressive career at Texas A&M, where she majored in Sports Management. After graduation, Hullett decided that she wanted to join the LPGA Tour. It was then that her parents encouraged her to attend qualifying school to turn pro.

"They told me if I was willing to go, they'd help me out with tuition. It was just one of many things they have done to encourage my career over the years," said Hullett.

After placing 28th at the LPGA Final Qualifying Tournament, she gained pro status in 1998. Since then she has appeared in numerous competition across the country. Hullett currently trains at the Dallas Athletic Club, where she has been a member since the 7th grade. During the off-season she spends about 2-4 hours a day practicing her skills.

This includes hitting balls and working on her short game. She does workout at a local gym but admits that most of her preparation occurs on the golf course. When the season approaches, her sessions on the green usually last more than six hours at a time.

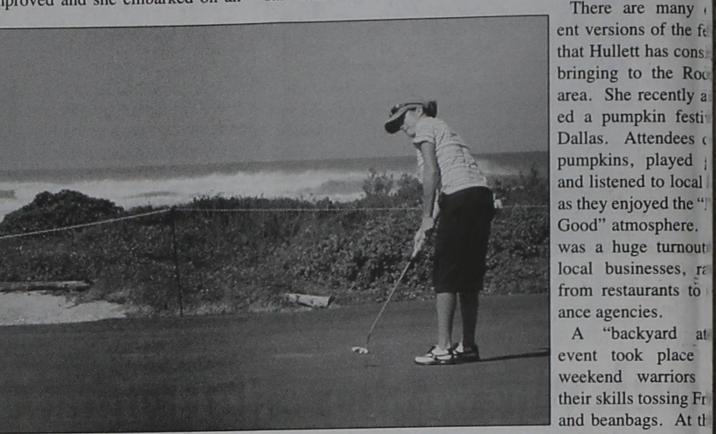

The added practice time will give her a competitive edge as when she flies to Hawaii on Feb. 12 for her first tournament of this season. Afterwards she will begin a grueling weekly schedule that will require her to spend a lot of time away from home.

"My schedule makes it hard for me to see my family, but fortunately they have been very supportive," Hullett said.

In fact, she has had several members of her family join her at tournaments throughout the years. In 2006, her dad served as her is currently organizing efforts to bring the "Life is Good" cc to the community. The organization holds annual festivals that proceeds for worthy causes.

"The 'Life is Good' company has been pivotal in my succes professional golfer and retail store developer. They organize vals to help others and I want to bring that effort to our commu said Hullett.

of the day, the "Life is Good" foundation was able to raise su tial funds for local children's charities. Hullett was very p with the results and credits such charity works as inspiration.

"My biggest goal in life is to use golf as a platform to give b others," said Hullett.

One of the most successful festivals was held at Boston' way Park two years ago. There the foundation raised mor $900,000 dollars for charities such as the Shriner's Children' pital and Project Joy.

"I would love to have a similar event in Rockwall at eith Harbor amphitheater or a nearby park," said Hullett.

With the amount of planning that is involved with such a p Hullett realistically expects to bring the festival to the comsometime during the summer of 2010. In addition to the " Good" festivals, she wants to found a charity of her own in th las area. Until then, she will be working hard to promote he is Good" campaign as a professional golfer and local business

Electronic recycling events set

A pair of electronic recycling events will be conducted Feb. 21 under the sponsorship of Wal-Mart and the Environmental Coop, a nonprofit environmental organization based in Terrell.

The local event will be conducted in the parking lot of the Wal-Mart Supercenter in Rockwall, located at 782 I-30, while the second event will take place at the Wylie Wal-Mart location on Hwy. 78. Both events will run from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Most items will be accepted at no charge, including computer CPUs, keyboards, laptops, scanners, printers, copiers, fax machines, cell and corded phones, inkjet and laser cartridges, stereos, microwaves, shavers, mixers, fans, air conditioners and batteries, both rechargeable and non-rechargeable.

Those dropping off items with hard drives will be responsible for wiping out all information before depositing their electronics.

Computer monitors will be accepted at a cost of $5 each, while televisions will be accepted as follows: $10 each for TV sets up to 13", $20 for sets 14" to 19" and $30 for any television larger than 19".

Organizers indicated in their news release that the charge is necessary because of the process required to recycle the glass in monitors and TV sets. "We welcome everyone who has old electronics to take advantage of these local events," said Marilyn May, executive director of the Environmental Coop. "Electronics contain toxic chemicals that contaminate soil and water if put in the landfill. Do the responsible thing and recycle them." e birth of Jesus Christ: Who were the wise men ontinuing with this series on the birth of Jesus Christ, we now closer look at the "wise men from the east," as recorded in ew 2:1. Little is said about these men. We know that they were he "east." These men had a more perfect understanding of the nd constellations in the context of true spiritual meanings. This seen in verse 2 where it is written, "...for we have seen his star east ... "

d on this scripture alone, we can ascertain that they knew exwhat star identified the "King of the Jews." It is also seen in Michael Lis and E word that the "wise men" were the only people to identify "his lle, Tenn.; his nie There is no record that anybody else caught on to the birth of her husband, Bob son by observing the stars. Who were these men? Where did ome from? How did they learn about God's word written in the These are reasonable questions that have been seriously add by a number of Biblical and astronomical scholars. Coun sub-series on the "wise men" and "his star," borrows from the Jesus Christ Our Promised Seed, by Victor Paul Wierwille. In ok, Wierwille showed how the Bible and astronomy fit perfecth regards to "his star." Wierwille cited (along with many other es), Ernest L. Martin's book, The Birth of Christ Recalculated. phrase "wise men" in Matthew 2:1 was a weak translation of rlier known Greek word "magoi." This religious caste, called can be traced back to Media and Persia before the rise of the strian sects. They were thought to be worshippers of nature. the Magi split into two sects, those who continued in the religion oaster, and those who went back to nature worship. Wierwille ned that a great number of the nature worship Magians later arrived into the Roman Empire. And it was from them that we get the terms "magic" and "magician." He also noted that their influence on religion still remains today.

Now let's go back to the time of Media and Persia, and look at how the Magi learned about God's word written in the stars. This can be found in the book of Daniel. Here, King Nebuchadnezar of Babylon, brought the Judeans across to Babylon. The Judeans had great influence in the royal courts where the Magi also served. God emphasized four Judeans in particular. They were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. They were renamed Belteshazzar, Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego (respectively).

Although all four meekly demonstrated God's power and dominion before the king, it was Daniel who boldly spoke for God and interpreted the king's dreams. This meant so much to the king that according to Daniel 2:48, he made him "chief of the governors over all the wise men of Babylon." He was referred to in 4:9 as "master of the magicians..." More detail can be gleamed from Daniel 5:11 where it says he was made "master of the magicians, astrologers, chaldeans, and soothsayers."

This is significant because Daniel, being a meek and humble man before God, would have instructed the Magi on God's word written in the stars along with the rest of His recorded word. This would have been passed down through the generations of the Zoroastrian Magi who split from the nature worshippers. And even after 500 years, their descendents still had this knowledge. According to God's word in Matthew 2:1-2, they knew exactly what the star meant. This is why they journeyed to Jerusalem in order to ask, "Where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him."

It is such a blessing to consider that these "wise men," who were not really part of God's Old Testament people, diligently studied and tracked the stars over many generation to the end that they were able to identify the timely celestial heralding of the birth of the king of Israel.

VIP needs volunteers for upcoming exercise

The Rockwall County Cities Readiness Initiative: Volunteers Informed and Prepared (VIP) and the Rockwall County Sheriff's Department will conduct a full-scale pod site activation exercise from 8 a.m. to noon on March 21 in the Rockwall High School parking lot.

Three teams of volunteers are needed for planning, exercise execution and exercise participation. Various types of volunteer positions will be available for individuals with varying levels of interest.

The exercise will simulate the drive-through mass dispensation of "antibiotics" through the distribution of M&M candies. The results will provide dispensing time and process improvement data, and volunteers are free to enjoy the candy.

The Rockwall County VIP program is a volunteer organization developed to support officials during county public health emergencies where local hospitals and medical providers may be unable to treat, prevent or handle the number of individuals seeking preventative care. The program operates under the direction and guidance of the county judge, the county's public health coordinator and the sheriff's office.

Volunteers need not reside in Rockwall County to be eligible to participate.

Father/daughter dance set Feb. 7

The annual Father-Daughter Black and White Ball, often referred to as the Daddy-Daughter Dance, is scheduled for Feb. 7 at the Hilton Bella Harbor.

The event is a family tradition for the Roberts family - Tom, Jeri and 10-year-old Baylee.

"This is my daughters one chance a year to be Cinderella," said Tom Roberts. "She knows I will bring her flowers and jewelry."

The Roberts family was the first to buy tickets to this year's event said Jeri Roberts, who admitted she attends because "I just have to watch them. Tom and Baylee practice year 'round for this.' Tom Roberts said it's something the entire family enjoys.

Because the event has, in the past, usually been a sell-out, this year's dance was moved to the Hilton in the hope that no one will have to be turned away, said Angie Smith, the city's recreation superintendent.

"The Hilton will also add a certain ambiance to the evening for our couples," she said.

The event will run from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., and all ages are welcome. Tickets cost $45 per couple for city residents and $67 per couple for non-residents. The ticket price includes a photo, a special gift for the father and a flower for the daughter.

Tickets may be purchased at The Center, 108 E. Washington St. For more information call 972-771-7740.

Auditions for the show were conducted in late October, so stud feb. 6 opening at the Rockw have pushed hard through the holiday season to ensure the performa are ready. Veteran students, as well as debuting performers, find 1 places in the cast and crew list.

Kennedy Cross, a fourth-grade student at Lakeland Academy, earned the top spot in the Geography Bee conducted last week at the school. He competed against students in grades four through seven, outlasting all other competitors for more than a dozen rounds. The winning question was: The Yamana are a people indigenous to Tierra del Fuego, an island at the southernmost point in South America that is divided between Argentina and what country to the west? The answer: Chile. In an essay he wrote following the contest, Cross said, "I knew the answer because my mom bought me a shower curtain that has the world map on it, and when I'm in the shower I look at the map.... I remembered at the bottom of South America is Tierra del Fuego, right next to Chile." As winner, Cross now will take a written test to be submitted for scoring. One hundred Texas students will be invited to the state-level contest in Austin.

Main Street Board applicants sought

The City of Rockwall is accepting applications for individuals interested in serving on the new Main Street Advisory Board, a group that will work closely with the city's Main Street manager and the Texas Main Street staff and resource team.

Applicants must reside within the City of Rockwall.

Rockwall recently was named a 2009 Texas Main Street City by the Texas Historical Commission. The Main Street program is a revitalization effort based on a four-point approach of organization, design, promotion and economic restructuring within the context of historic preservation. More than 140 Texas cities have participated in the program to date. Rockwall will receive technical advice and assistance in the areas of design, board development, strategic planning and economic development from the THC's Texas Main Street Program staff.

Individuals interested in this project should contact Kristy Ashberry, city secretary, at kashberry@rockwall.com.

Area students tapped for OBU honors

A handful of area students recently were recognized for their academic performances at Ouachita Baptist University.

Area students honored included Michael Krikorian and Joshua Lord, both of Rockwall; Molly Brown, Rachael Hermann and Holly Williams of Rowlett and Ryleigh Lay of Royse City, according to a university news release. Each was named to the President's List for the fall semester.

To be named to the President's List, a student must compile a 4.0 grade point average and be classified as a full-time student.

Eighth grade student Tristan Barry, pictured above, was the recent winner of the Cain Middle School National Geographic Bee. Other participants included Aysha Joseph, Lena Davidson, Ashley Davis, Kelly Dorsett, David Keaton, Ethan Kerbel and Samuel Scheele. Barry next will take a written test, which will be graded to determine whether or not he will advance to the next level of competition.

RC Chamber seeks volunteers for planning

The Royse City Chamber of Commerce needs volunteers to help organize community events planned for the coming year.

Help is needed with the following events and activities:

• Rockwall Business Expo (date to be determined) - design a booth; coordinate with members to create 'goodie bags' for distribution

• Chamber Golf Tournament & Scholarship Fund, April 24 - advertising; obtaining sponsorships; collecting prizes; coordinating 'goody bags'; hiring a caterer; assisting at the golf course on the day of the event

 Awards banquet/installation of officers, May 15 – design, address, stuff and mail invitations; research entertainment; research and order awards

 Fourthfest, July 4 – advertising; parade committee; recruit groups to host a game area; seek donations for refreshments; research entertainment; decorate stage

 Silent auction/Casino Night, Aug. 21 (tentative) – advertising; seek donations for the auction; design, address, stuff and mail invitations; research businesses who provide 'casinos'; seek donations for prizes/ door prizes

• FunFest, Oct. 17-advertising; send out letters seeking vendors; obtain sponsorships; organize an event: doggie contest, karaoke contest, pie-eating contest, dunking booth; help mark vendor spots; organize vendors

 Christmas festivities, Dec. 12 – advertising; help organize chili cookoff (invitations, rules, set-up, awards, etc.); parade committee (invitations, lineup, awards, work parade, etc.); parking committee; decorate Santa's stage/Christmas tree.

Volunteer input can be as much or as little as the volunteer chooses. For more information, call 972-636-5000 or e-mail info@roysecitychamber.com.

Woods lauded by state CPA group

Rockwall student Jill Woods, a student at the University of Texas at Dallas, was awarded a $1,000 Paychex/TSCPA Accounting Education Foundation scholarship.

Texas Society of CPAs' (TSCPA) Accounting Education Foundation honors Texas accounting students with scholarships for their academic achievements each year. This year, TSCPA has partnered with payroll and payroll tax company Paychex to offer a joint academic 2. scholarship and the recipient of that scholarship has been announced.

Since 1957, the TSCPA Accounting Education Foundation has distributed almost $5 million to promote, develop and advance accounting education in Texas. Through donations from Texas CPAs and interest on endowed funds, the TSCPA Accounting Education Foundation awards approximately $235,000 annually in scholarships to the top students enrolled in accounting programs in the state.

speech to the Mortgage Bankers Association, Frank advised, "People tend to pay their mortgages. I don't think we are in any remote danger bly in their duty to inform the public. This is particularly evident here. This focus on receivership, I think, is intended to create fears that aren't there." Protesting against greater controls against lax mortgage lending, Sen. Harry Reid said, "While I favor improving oversight by our federal housing regulators to ensure safety and soundness, we cannot pass legislation that could limit Americans from owning homes and potentially harm our economy in the process." One-third of the $15 trillion of mortgages in existence in 2008 are owned, or securitized by Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, Ginnie Mae, the Federal Housing and the Veterans Administration. Wall Street buyers of repackaged loans didn't mind buying risky paper because they assumed that they would be guaranteed by the federal government: read bailout from the taxpayers. Today's housing mess can be laid directly at the feet of Congress and the White House. Congress and the White House aren't finished with the taxpayers yet. Once a bailout parade gets started, it has a momentum of its own. President Bush, citing danger to the economy, signed a $17 billion bailout for the auto industry. According to the Wall Street Journal article "Shovel-Ready on Campus" (December 17, 2008), presidents of 36 state government universities have called for bailouts; they call it a "federal infusion of capital." Soon, if not already, state governors and city mayors will descend on Washington seeking bailouts. California is $15 billion in the hole, Florida $5 billion and things are so bad in Michigan that the governor has shut down one prison to save money. What kind of assumptions do politicians and news media make about the intelligence of Americans to expect us to buy the idea that our current mess results from deregulation and free markets? I do not find that assumption flattering. Walter E. Williams is a professor of economics at George Mason University. To find out more about Walter E. Bush Exits

by Bill O'Reilly

Partisan blather aside, let's take a no spin look at President Bush's two biggest legacy items: the terror war and the economy.

Bush leaves office with a 34 percent approval rating, according to a recent Gallup poll. That ties him with Jimmy Carter's approval rating when he left office in 1981, not exactly a place you want to be. However, the war on terror issue is still being defined and will likely help Bush when history is written down the line.

Immediately after the attack on 9/11, Muslim jihadists had a big wind at their backs. We saw TV images of Muslims dancing in the streets as the great Satan America was humbled by al-Qaida. Almost instantly, the invincibility of the United States was challenged and the physical safety of Americans, at risk. It was very possible that further attacks were close.

Moving quickly, the Bush administration reorganized the FBI into a terror-fighting organization and toppled the Taliban in Afghanistan, disrupting al-Qaida's command and control. Those successful tactics blunted a number of active terror plots and resulted in the capture of a number of al-Qaida big shots, all of whom broke under coerced interrogation. The information they gave up allowed the Bush administration to further damage the terrorist infrastructure.

Then came Iraq, an operation designed to cleanse the Muslim world of the huge terrorist enabler Saddam Hussein. The price of that war is still being debated, but what honest people don't dispute is that the al-Qaida foot soldiers who invaded Iraq hoping to defeat the U.S. military were eventually decimated. The price for America in Iraq has been enormous, but al-Qaida has also paid big.

Today, the terror threat still exists, but is no longer centralized and has lost most of its momentum. In short, the United States is winning the shooting war, and President Bush should get credit for that.

On the economic front, however, the picture is different. The dramatic rise in oil prices last spring was artificially driven by greedy speculators, some of whom worked out of brokerage houses like Morgan Stanley and Goldman Sachs. The oil company chieftains quickly realized they could make billions raising their prices to reflect the upward price speculation and did so with gusto. Thus, millions of consumer dollars were diverted to gas bills instead of other obligations. That lighted the fuse of the recession.

At the same time, banks were making risky home loans to unqualified consumers. The banks then sold many of those loans to quick-buck artists at places like Merrill Lynch and Lehman Brothers. When consumers began to default because money became tight, panic ensued and the recession roared in.

Where was President Bush while all this was happening? He continued to put forth that the economy was fundamentally strong when it was not. That is on the president. If his economic advisers misled him, he should have said so. But Bush is leaving office with no credible explanation for the collapse.

The Democratic Congress also stood by and did nothing to protect the folks. Last July, Congressman Barney Frank, chairman of the House Financial Services Committee, told the world Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac were "in good shape going forward."

A few weeks later those mortgage entities collapsed. Frank is now blaming the Republicans, but he is being flat-out dishonest in not taking any responsibility.

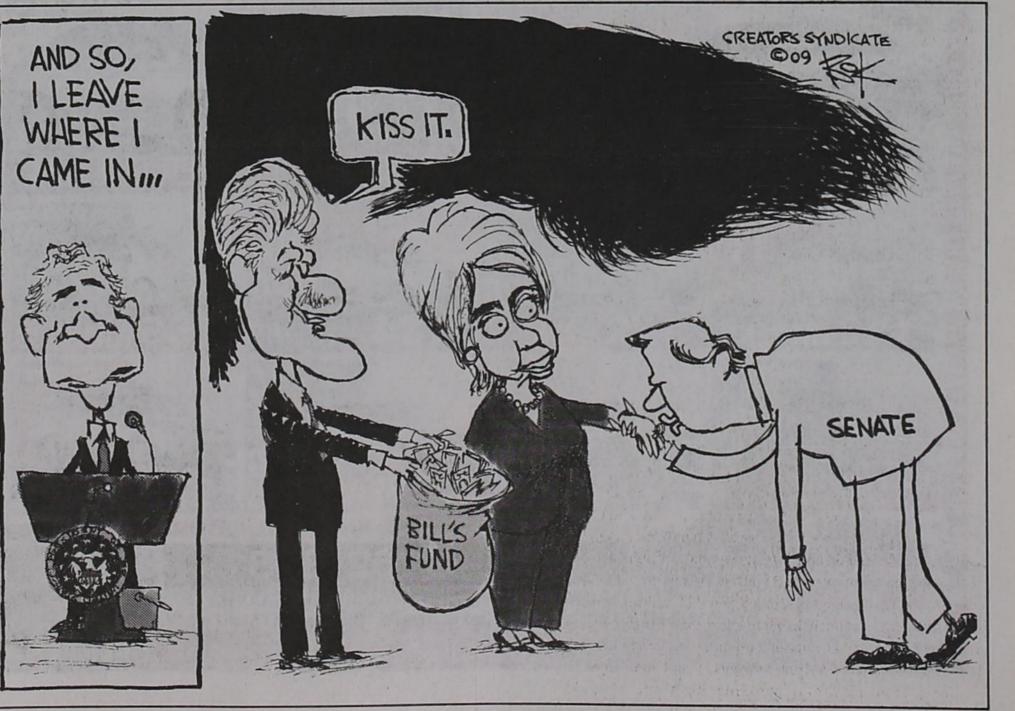

Like a sports team that loses big, the head coach is the main guy. After Iraq and the wobbling economy, the folks lost confidence in President Bush, and Barack Obama capitalized on that.

The truth is that the Bush administration did very well in protecting us against terrorist killers - but not so well in protecting us against Wall Street greed heads.

Rockwall ISD implements WATCH D.O.G. mentoring program for dads, father figures ad

by Stephen Wood

Several schools in the Rockwall ISD are using a unique mentoring program to involve fathers in what has traditionally been considered a mom's territory - assisting in classrooms and around the school with different events.

Virginia Reinhardt Elementary is just the latest RISD school to implement the WATCH D.O.G.S. program. With more than 90 dads in attendance, the school held its kickoff event on Jan. 15 to promote the program, which stands for Dads of Great Students. Assistant Principal Kayleen Lavene conducted the presentation and she said she was impressed with the initial support by the community, with several dads signing up on the spot.

"I heard about the program's success at Springer Elementary and couldn't wait to implement it here at Reinhardt. The dads bring such a powerful, positive energy to the campus from which everyone benefits. As our Top Dog, Derrick Elledge, put it, it's a win/win/win situation. The school and students, the community, and the dads reap great dividends from this program," said Lavene.

Lavene went on to explain the many duties in which potential Watchdog volunteers would participate. These activities included patrolling the campus, one-on-one tutoring and cafeteria duty.

Rockwall native Tony Hayes was so impressed with the presentation that he signed up to be the first Watchdog at Reinhardt Elementary. His son, Ryan, is a second grader who couldn't wait to have his dad come spend time with him and his friends.

"I joined the program because it gives me a chance to take on a more nurturing, supportive role for not only my son, but for the other kids in the community. I think that it is very important for all students to have the opportunity to spend time with positive male role models," Hayes said.

During his first day in the program, Hayes set the example for future Watchdog dads. He spent the morning monitoring a spelling bee and later helped a few students learn their presidents. Overall, Hayes feels that the time he took off work to volunteer has been well spent.

"I wanted my son and his classmates to know that they deserved my full attention, not only today but in the future," he said.

In addition to Hayes, several other dads at Reinhart are optimistic about becoming Watchdogs in the near future. Justin Mummey is the proud parent of kindergarten student Mckenna Mummey and will be signing up as soon as he can.

"I am excited about the opportunity to have positive male role models at the school. This program will give dads a chance to build better relationships with their kids as well as the teachers," Mummey said.

Reinhardt Secretary Tina Katzmann believes that having these new male leaders present on campus will bring positive results.

Jackets win a squeaker and a blowout

by Lary Bump

If the Rockwall boys' basketball team reaches the playoffs this season, the Yellowjackets can look back to the fourth quarter of Friday's game at Greenville as the moment that turned their season around.

With 3 minutes, 49 seconds remaining, RHS had just 24 points, none in the quarter to that point.

Fortunately, the Lions hadn't been doing a whole lot better. After taking a 13-1 lead in the first quarter, they had just a 26-24 advantage after three quarters. Greenville (5-16 overall, 1-5 in District 10-4A) then scored nine consecutive points to go ahead 35-24.

But down the stretch, the Jackets threw in 22 more points, nearly matching their output from the first 28 minutes, to come away from the Lions Den with a 46-45 victory.

Said Rockwall head coach Alan Simmons, "Greenville played really well against us. We were lucky to come away with a win. At the end, we shot well, we executed, we hit free throws. We prayed that one in."

At Greenville, Rockwall's junior varsity also won, 65-37.

Kyle Sandlin's 22 points led the Jackets that night. He came back with 34 more, outscoring Royse City's entire team, to power RHS to a 55-30 victory.

That improved Rockwall's record to 10-10 overall and 3-3 the district. That put the Jackets into a tie for fourth place, the final playoff spot, with their next opponent, Rockwall-Heath (9-14 overall). Royse City dropped into sixth place at 2-4 (10-11 overall).

Friday's 7:30 p.m. game at Rockwall-Heath will mark the district season's halfway point. The winning team would have an advantage in the playoff race. At 4-3, Rockwall would be on pace for an 8-6 record, with the further possibility of avenging a 55-54 loss Jan. 3 when the Jackets travel to Richardson Pearce.

Simmons said, "We talked about going into this week tied with Royse City and with Heath, knowing we could be tied with them when we go there. It's a big week for us."

Coming off a three-game losing streak, RHS seemed to be back on track with the comeback win at Greenville and a dominating decision at home over Royse City.

In a battle of two good defensive teams, the Jackets held the upper hand throughout, going ahead 14-2 after one quarter and 25-8 at halftime. After allowing the Bulldogs to score 17 points in the third quarter, Rockwall again clamped down for a 14-5 advantage in the final eight minutes.

"That was our best defensive effort in the first half," Simmons said. "All of our kids executed well. They did what we wanted to do, and we did something we hadn't been doing.

"We mixed up a zone with some match stuff that we had been spotting. (The Bulldogs) do a good job executing against a man defense. We felt we had to defend our home floor, and we did that."

Simmons said his team and Rockwall-Heath are similar. Dustin Morett

- averaging 16 points, including three 3-pointers, per game - is the Hawks' counterpart to Sandlin.

"Morett's a very good shooter, and they have a little size. We know they're well coached. It will be a battle. The team with the fewest turnovers will win it. We'll have to play better since we're on their home floor."

Rockwall boys win twice at Corsicana Tourney

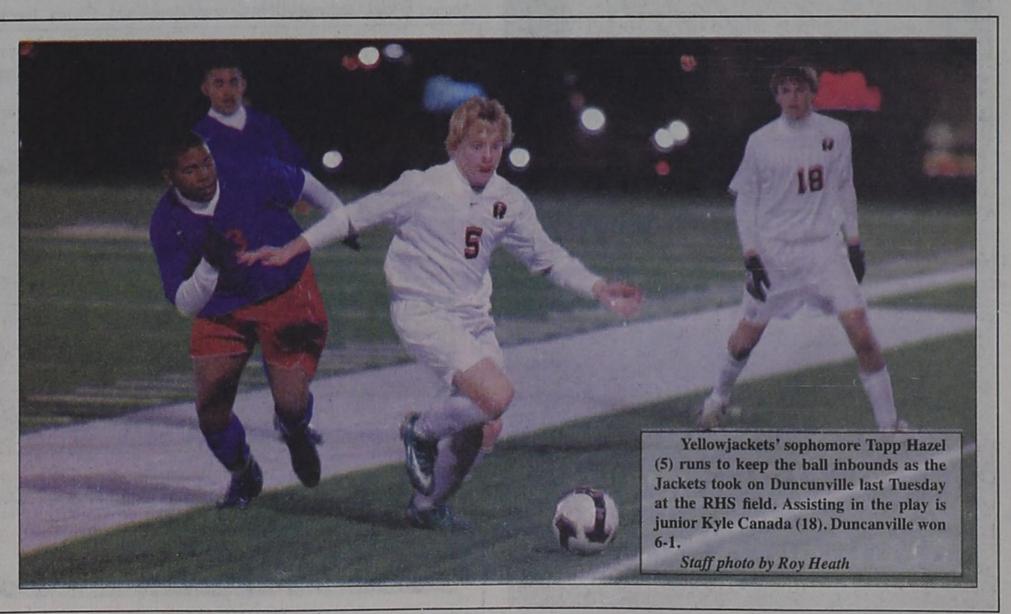

Rockwall has begun its boys' soccer season slowly, but the Yellowjackets West. got off to a very good start in last weekend's Corsicana Tournament.

On Thursday, Jan. 15, the Yellowjackets defeated Mansfield Timberview 3-0. Grant Gunderson, Tapp Hazel and Janson Rector scored for RHS. The next day, Rockwall shut out Terrell 1-0 before losing to Plano West 1-0.

Saturday was not a good day for the Jackets. They lost 6-1 to Dallas W.T. White, with Gunderson scoring their only goal, and 6-0 to Plano

On Tuesday, Rockwall fell to 2-8 by losing at home to Carrollton Newman Smith 5-2. Though the Trojans and Jackets compete in the same district in most sports, in soccer that was a non-district game.

This weekend, Rockwall is playing in the McKinney Tournament. The Jackets were scheduled to play South Garland Thursday, then meet Fort Worth Southwest Friday at 6 p.m. at Ron Poe Stadium before playing at McKinney Boyd Saturday at 11 a.m.

ite allowing just eight goals in seven games, the Lady Jackets took record into this weekend's Chick-Fil-A Lady Lobo Invitational at ew High School. They were scheduled to play Forney Thursday, untsville Friday afternoon and the Longview A team Friday eve-

Up by three points with a chance to push the lead to five on a pair of free throws with less than two minutes to play, the Rockwall-Heath Lady Hawks looked poised to knock off the Highland Park Lady Scots in an important District 10-4A game Jan. 16 at RHHS.

But when Macall Smith's first shot of the one-and-one missed, it set off a flurry of back-and-forth, up-and-down-the-court action that culminated in the Lady Scot's Emily Boone tossing in a short banker with just six seconds left to send the game into overtime at 46-46.

With starters Shanae Lowrance and Brooke Eddy already on the bench with five fouls and Smith soon to follow, Heath was no match for Highland Park in the extra period being outscored 12-2 on the way to an eventual 58-48 loss.

The defeat kept the Lady Hawks, now 3-4 in district and 6-13 overall, from taking over sole possession of third pace. Instead, the Lady Scots move to 4-3 (16-8 overall) and into third, trailing only Royse City (6-1, 21-4) and Rockwall (7-0, 17-9).

Heath falls into a three-way tie for the fourth and final playoff berth with their next opponent, Greenville (3-4, 6-16), along with Carrollton's Newman Smith (3-4, 4-7).

The Lady Lions, who traveled to Heath on Jan. 20, beat the Lady Hawks 54-47 on Dec. 9.

Following that game, Heath goes on a cross-town road trip to Rockwall Jan. 23 for a rematch with the Lady Jackets. RHS won the first contest 64-36.

Following Smith's miss, the Lady Scots cut the lead to one, 45-44, on two free throws by Hartley Hobson when Lowrance, Heath's leading scorer and rebounder, was whistled for her fifth personal with 1:50 to go.

The teams traded turnovers and missed shots until Heidi F a pair of foul shots to give the Lady Hawks a 46-44 lead with A Heath turnover, one of a whopping 37 for the game, with to play set up Boone for her tying field goal.

by Matt McGillen

It was a good news/bad news night for the Rockwall-Heath Hawks in their District 10-4A game with powerful Highland Park Jan. 16 at Highland Park High School.

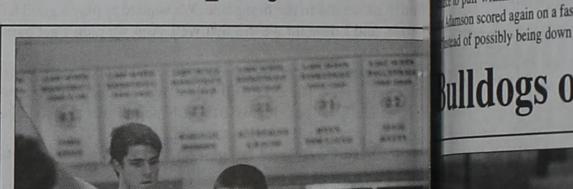

The bad news was they lost 50-36 to the Scots, who are now 5-0 in District 10-4A and 15-4 overall. The good news was they didn't lose any ground in their pursuit of the fourth and final playoff berth.

Despite the defeat, the Hawks, 2-3 in district and 8-13 for the year, remain in a three-way tie for fourth place with Royse City (2-3, 10-10) and Rockwall (2-3, 9-10).

Heath's leading scorer, Dustin Morrett, was held to just three points. well below his season average of 15.6. Morrett entered the game 5th in three-point goals made and 19th in scoring in the DFW area.

Highland Park came into the contest with the best Area defense, giving up just 44.9 points per game.

Lewis Snowton added 10 points for the Hawks, who are without senior Tony Tennison, who suffered a broken nose in the opening moments against RL Turner Jan. 9 in a 67-47 Heath victory. The Hawks were scheduled to play Greenville (1-4, 3-11) on Jan. 20, a team they have yet to play, before they finish their first half of their district games by hosting Rockwall Jan. 23.

Highland Park, meanwhile, remains tied with Newman Smith (5-0, 21-2) for first with Richardson Pearce (3-2, 7-14) sitting alone in third.

No Hawks basketball team has qualified for the postseason in the school's short history.

Managing just two points in the opening quarter, the Hawks fought back to trail just 31-29 entering the fourth period. The Scots reasserted themselves at that point, however, and pulled away from Heath, outscoring the Hawks 19-7 in the last eight minutes.

Lady Hawks' soccer loses shootout to Lake Dallas in consolation final at Little Elm Falling in a shootout after two scoreless overtime periods, the Rockwall-Heath Lady Hawks soccer team lost to Lake Dallas 3-2 in the consolation final of the Little Elm Lady Lobos tournament Jan. 16-17.

After winning their first game on the second day of the tournament by forfeit, Heath took a 2-1 lead at the half against Lake Dallas thanks to goals by Sarah McKinney and Amanda Penney. Brittany Gray set up McKinney's score while McKinney provided the assist for Penney.

Lake Dallas, however, tied the game at 2-2 in the second half, forcing the overtime, which consisted of two ten-minute halves. After both teams failed to score in the additional 20 minutes, the two squads went to a shootout.

Things looked good for the Lady Hawks when Brittany Gray powered her shot by the Lake Dallas goalie for 1-0 lead, which Heath goalie Kylie Robinette preserved by stopping the ensuing Lake Dallas shot.

Heath, however, failed to convert any of its next four shots, while Lake Dallas made two of its attempts to give them the game.

The Lady Hawks opened the tournament with a 0-0 tie against Denton Ryan that featured several outstanding saves by Robinette.

Heath then downed Newman Smith 3-0 to advance to the consolation semi-final.

McKinney's cross to Katy Ray gave the Lady Hawks a 1-0 lead before Gray set up McKinney for a goal of her own to make it 2-0 at the half.

Gray then completed the scoring herself in the second half by hammering home a penalty kick from 25 yards out.

The Lady Hawks, now 3-2-1 for the year, hit the road for their next two games, traveling to Frisco Centennial Jan. 20 and McKinney Boyd Jan. 22 for a pair of non-district games.

The Lady Bulldogs pulled back with seven three times in the third quarter and again at 50-43 with 6 minutes, 6 seconds to play. Each time, Rockwall held off RC's attempts to cut the deficit further and rebuilt its lead.

The last chance evaporated when Rockwall went on an 8-0 run, including a 3-point shot by Adamson, for its biggest lead, 58-43.

Adamson finished with 36 points, 18 in each half.

Bookout said, "Every time we came back, they made a big shot. Most of the time, it was Peyton. You can't give Peyton even a heartbeat of a look, and we did. We did a much better job on her the first time we played them.

Royse City went to Rockwall Tuesday with hopes of winning to remain in at least a tie for fourth place, the final playoff spot, in District 10-4A. For the second consecutive game, RC experienced a rough first quarter start.

But unlike their come-from-behind 69-51 victory over Carrollton R.L. Turner Friday, the Bulldogs didn't dig out of their hole. Instead, Rockwall poured on more dirt en route to a 55-30 victory.

Thus, it was the Yellowjackets (10-10 overall) who remained tied for fourth place with Rockwall-Heath at 3-3 in district games. Royse City (10-11) fell to 2-6 and sixth place in 10-4A.

At Turner, the last place team at 0-6 (0-20 overall), the Bulldogs trailed 14-9 after the first quarter. But a 28-2 second quarter produced a 37-16. halftime lead, and they coasted from there.

At Rockwall, it was Royse City that suffered through a two-point quarter as the Jackets took a 14-2 lead into the second quarter. It didn't get much better; Rockwall again outscored the visitors, 11-6, to go ahead 25-8 at halftime.

RC regrouped in the third quarter, outscoring the Jackets 17-16. But Rockwall pulled away from its 51-25 lead in the fourth quarter, when it held the Bulldogs to five points.

The Dogs' had used a balanced attack, with four players scoring in double figures and another adding eight, to defeat Turner. No one from Royse City scored as many as 10 points against Rockwall; Wynn Posey
