Sedate Garb Finds Refuge In Aisles Of Sleeping Cars

By SUE McNAMARA

WASHINGTON (AP)—Decorum of style still prevails in sleeping car aisles, despite the gaiety of beach attire and the informality of automobile dress.

Black robes of silk, reaching discreetly to the ankles, seem still the favorite negligee of the woman who rides by train.

Though she may wear the briefest of bathing suits on a beach crowded with strange, she seems to hesitate to walk between the rows of swaying green curtains in very gay attire.

Some of the larger traveling bags have a complete dressing table equipment attached to the lid.

These offer the woman who travels everything from various bottles of cologne and skin freshener to nail polish.

Color schemes of the traveling bags are carefully thought out. Gold accessories fit into tan silk linings in a brown or tan case.

Green ones nestle in a background of blue in a black case. Silver gleams from green lining.

Some of the bags break out into gay colors not in keeping with the modest Pullman robes, but these smart patent leather affairs are only meant to hold a few things for an overnight journey.

"The Best Place To Shop After All"

Sinclair Lewis Again At Peace With Main Street When Home Town Memories Mellow Caustic Career

By ROY F. HENDRICKSON
SAUK-CENTRE, Minn.—(AP)—
Main Street is at peace once again with its favorite son and worst critic.

Its pavement
still burns under the noon-
day sun, gangs
still gather around the drug store corner and sing "Sweet Adeline"—but somewhere,
somehow things
seem a little better since Sinclair Lewis announced that
Main Street, after all, is "all right."
He didn't come out here and make a speech at a local luncheon club; instead he was given a space in the high school annual to pen his impression of the town which once felt some pretty intensive resentment when it was accepted as the venue of scenes in his best seller,
"Main Street."

If he could have a second boy-hood, Lewis writes in the annual "O'Sa-Ge," he again would choose a prairie village, and in his article Main Streeters believe they read an explanation that his novel never was aimed directly at its people, ways and talk at all.

"It is extraordinary how deep is the impression made by the place of one's birth and rearing and how lasting are its memories," Lewis said under the title, "The Long Arm of the Small Town."

"It is 29 years now since I left Sauk Centre to go east to college.
In this more than a quarter of a century I have been back two or three times for a couple of months, several times for a couple of weeks, but otherwise I have been utterly out of touch with the town.
Yet it is as vivid in my mind as though I had left there yesterday.

"I find myself thinking of its streets and its people and the familiar, friendly faces when I go on the great avenues of New York, Paris, Berlin or Stockholm; when I am in little stony hilly villages of Italy or sun-basking villas in Spain or the ancient yellow temples of Athens.

"To me, forever, 10 miles will not be a distance in the mathematical tables, but slightly more than a distance from Sauk Centre to Melrose.

"To me, forever, the direction west will have nothing to do with California or the Rockies; it will be that direction which is to the left—toward Noboken hill—if you face the house of Dr. E. J. Lewis.

"So primitive and inherent the impressions of Boyhood. And I, who am writing this in Connecticut and shall go in mid-day to the farm I have bought in Vermont,
that

STREET OF FRIENDLY FACES

Main Street out in Sauk Centre, Minn., which Sinclair Lewis left 29 years ago to become, in time, the severest critic of all such Main Streets everywhere. Now he tells his home town he knows he could have found no more friendliness anywhere else.

I haven't the slightest regret that I was born and reared in a prairie village instead of in New England or New York, old England or the continent of Europe, for matter of that.

"If I seemed to have criticized prairie villages, I have certainly criticized them no more than I have New York or Paris or the great universities.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this contains your voice box—your vocal chords.

From the report of a famous scientist who studied the effects of LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive
"TOASTING" Process—

"During the course of some recent investigations...we became interested to ascertain whether Ultra Violet Rays produced any change in the quality of the cigarettes. It may interest you to know that I was able to detect a very definite difference in the irritant qualities of the treated and untreated cigarettes. Several tests were made, not only on myself, but others as well, and we experienced little difficulty in selecting the treated or irradiated cigarettes as distinctly less irritating to the mucous membrane of the nose and pharynx than the control or untreated cigarettes."

Sunshine mellows—heat purifies
—that's why LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. Remember—LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that brings you the added benefits of "TOASTING". And so we say "Consider your Adam's of cigarettes.

Wiley Post, Silent and Efficient Called Most Unworried of All Men Who Have Flown Across Atlantic

By LEON H. DURST

For a job at pilot, Wiley Post was chief test pilot at the Lockheed factory, all the time carrying on the training that has made him not only one of the best pilots but a skilled mechanic, thoroughly versed in the type of plane used in the round the world flight.

A friend in Washington, D. C., says that Wiley knows more about that type of plane than any other individual now.

A test pilot's job call for competence in many phases of flying. It is admittedly one of the most difficult jobs in aviation, but Wiley took his steps in his career. It was his in his stride as he took the other job and he did it.

Russell Pecht, superintendent of the aircraft factory at Burbank, credits the preparation and ability to foresee circumstances of the world with the success of the project.

Pecht says Post was as silent on the event as he is credited with being in Oklahoma. Once when the pilot made a record flight from Seattle to Los Angeles with four passengers aboard, Pecht recalled that while the passengers were elated over the trip, Post didn't seem to think much about it, and only said, "It was a nice trip."

Evidently Post had much the same feeling about his world flight. He wanted to go from New York back to New York via Berlin, Moscow and certain other points. He knew he must make careful preparations. He realized he would need gasoline, oil, maps and weather information. Once he had these and the other necessary equipment all he had to do was fly around. It was just a job and he did it.

That fellow Post was the most unworried man that ever flew across the Atlantic. In the way Al Ford, superintendent of the service department at Roosevelt field sizes up the Oklahoma farm boy who streaked around the world to a place in future school books.

Tomorrow, there is more than needed a job, one would be waiting for him at Burbank.

For a little more than a year Wiley was chief test pilot at the Lockheed factory, all the time carrying on the training that has made him not only one of the best pilots but a skilled mechanic, thoroughly versed in the type of plane used in the round the world flight.

Texas Wheat Belt Could Change U.S. Situation He Says

AMARILLO, Texas, July 7 (UPI)—The wheat belt of the Texas Panhandle could revolutionize the wheat situation of the United States, Walter Pitkin, author and journalism instructor at Columbia University, said after visiting this territory in making a survey of agricultural conditions.

"Wheat farmers of the Panhandle could dominate the market of the nation if they would begin consolidating acreage," Pitkin said. "The time is here for a shake-up. Wheat growers should reorganize on a big business scale."

"They are to organize one big factory—not a cooperative—and produce and sell wheat as part owners in a big business. Under a plan of this kind, they could produce wheat at 20 cents a bushel and sell it for 60 cents and make plenty of money."

"Farmers must get into big business. Everyone else has."

Chief Pitkin's plan, the farmers would buy, produce and sell as one unit, each sharing according to the number of bushels produced. He said production costs would be reduced and the land could be made to produce its maximum by employing experts to direct the work.

"Panhandle wheat growers, by selling direct and as a combined unit, could get five cents more a bushel for wheat right now, and that five cents is the difference between bankruptcy and success," Pitkin said.

His branded "the federal farm board's statement as 'lamest and foolish,' and sure ruin for the small farmer. He said the farmers should turn their backs on Washington and quit counting on government relief."

Mrs. Bennett Awarded Husband's Insurance

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 7 (UPI)—Mrs. Martin Bennett, who accidentally shot and killed her husband after they quarreled over a bridge game, Monday was awarded John G. Bennett's $25,000 worth of insurance policies in Probate Court.

Mrs. Bennett was tried and acquitted of a murder charge on May 8 this year. Twelve relatives of her husband filed for Bennett's insurance, contending that Mrs. Bennett had forfeited her claim to his estate because of the manner in which he had died.

Judge Julia K. Guinotte, however, issued an order declaring Mrs. Bennett to be the legal beneficiary of her husband's estate. The relative suits will be dropped, it was believed.

Dr. M. H. Bennett has gone to Dallas on a short trip.

Gold Thieves In San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, July 7.—Apparently gold thieves, stealing from the dentist located in the Central National Bank Building, have ceased their activities. Recently more than $300 worth of gold, to have been used for fillings and plates, were stolen from Dr. W. A. Griffin, Dr. W. R. Carrington and Dr. F. B. Atkinson.

The greatest loss was sustained by Dr. Carrington, who missed about $200 worth of gold. Dr. Griffin's loss was from $50 to $60 and Dr. Atkinson from $60 to $75.

It is not known whether the stealing was done at night or during the day while the doctors and attendants were out of the office. No trace has been found by the local police department which has been working on the case for the last several days.

Similar robbing from dentist's has been reported from other parts of the state. It is indicated from warnings issued to the dentist from wholesale dealers of the gold

More Powerful than Any Gasoline

..... says the official power-measuring machine

the Dynamometer

CAN the increased power that Esso gives be measured? Absolutely!

The dynamometer was used to test Esso against five leading premium fuels. The six fuels were all tested in the same engine, a special motor with a high-compression ratio of 7-to-1. This engine gives a grueling test to any motor fuel.

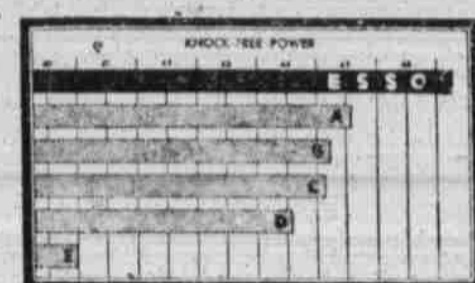

The chart at the right reveals the results—Esso in the lead, developing 4% more power than the best of the others and 11% more than premium fuel "E."

Far more astounding results would be obtained if Esso were compared with ordinary gasolines.

A phenomenal success in 20 foreign countries, Esso was perfected in America by the world's leading petroleum technicians. It contains Ethyl—but it is far more than an ordinary Ethyl fuel.

Compare Esso with the gasoline you are now using. You will get a thrill from driving you have never had before. Make a ten-day test of this new fuel. Find out for yourself what your car can do with Esso. Then change back to any other type of gasoline—if you can. Fill up your tank today at the nearest Humble station.

The actual amount of increased "knockless power" delivered by ESSO depends, of course, upon the compression ratio of your motor. The higher the compression, the more outstanding does the superiority of Esso become. The above chart shows the difference between Esso and 5 leading premium fuels when tested on a 7-to-1 compression motor.
