Navy Recruit Remembers Mother on 'Mother's Day'

The following letter which appeared in last week's issue of the Chillicothe Valley News, was written by Edward Carter and forwarded to his mother Mrs. B. C. Carter on Mother's Day.

Edward lately enlisted with the Navy, and since he is well known to a number of local people and is the author of a letter to his mother that is worthy of reproduction, the Reporter takes pleasure in reproducing it:

New Port R. I., U. S. N. T. S. May 12—Dear Mother of Mine: You will realize from this that is "Mother's Day" and that I am thinking of you.

Today is almost like the day in Clarendon when we brought to you the white carnations which represent your purity.

I only wish I were able to see you today and share in your presence the love you have always shown toward your boys, and though we didn't seem to appreciate it we did all the same, and miss you so much since we are away.

The kind things you did for me are not done in the Navy and that makes me realize what we miss by being away from home.

Sure wish I could be home today and be with you awhile.

The many pleasures of care-free boyhood are strongly imaged on my mind today, and of course you are the sun of all its joy, giving warmth and sunshine of a new spring day.

Today, everything is beautiful; the trees are putting forth a green hue and spring in full bloom seems to be opening up.

I am getting along nicely in the training and we are expecting to leave here most any time. Can't tell how long it will be before we see service. I am not afraid of any service, that is what I came to the Navy for.

Guess I can undergo war as well as anyone, but I will be glad when the war is over and everything is peaceful, then it will be a pleasure to come back to Texas and live in a "free State."

You needn't ever worry about my getting in bad here. The principles you and father have taught me at home will follow me all the days of my life.

Have services here every Sunday morning. Have some very good sermons. Don't have any Sunday School, but I have almost read the New Testament. Elmer gave me before leaving Dallas.

Am so sorry to hear of Brother's Lynn's illness. Hope he recovers soon.

How many chickens have you, and how many eggs do you get a day? It sure sounds homelike for we never hear or see anything like that here.

You would see a pretty picture if you were here today. You can look out over the blue waters and see all kinds and sizes of ships, and the country is surrounded by evergreens, which gives it a beautiful hue.

Have several more letters to write and haven't much time. Hope you are well and happy, and never forget your own kid.

Edw.

Red River Farmers Checking The Army of Worms

County Farm Demonstrator N. R. Tisdal was a caller at the Reporter office Mon. while in this part of the county. He stated while here that he and an A. & M. College man were among the farmers of the Red River community last week, going into their neighborhood with hope of being some assistance to them in destroying the worms which were proving so destructive to growing crops. He said they found the farmers using about the best method they could recommend then, and that was, ditching across their fields ahead of the worms. Most of the farmers he said, had their crops clear of vegetation, and where conditions of that kind existed, poison couldn't very well be applied ahead of the worms.

According to reports from the Red River community the farmers have just about succeeded in checking the drive of the worms.

AMERICAN NAVY ELIMINATES WASTE

SLICING BACON ON BATTLESHIP

FATKIES in the American navy are classed as the best fed body of men in the world. In the ship's galleys every effort is made to eliminate waste. In the upper photo one of the cooks on the North Dakota is operating a meat slicer that cuts bacon with the least possible wastage. Fat is fuel for fighters. Bacon is badly needed in the allied armies and navies. The allied needs in pork products are 150,000,000 pounds monthly, three times as much as before the war. Another waste eliminator on the North Dakota is the potato peeler, shown in the lower photo. Nothing is lost except the actual potato skin. There is a sufficient quantity of po-

School's Closing Exercises Draws Large Crowd out

A large crowd was present each of the three nights at the closing exercises of the local school. The entertainment Saturday night, which was a miscellaneous program, made up principally of songs, readings, and drills, was witnessed by one of the largest crowds that has ever gathered at the auditorium. Monday night's program was a play entitled "Topsy Turvy". This was a three act comedy and brought forth a big applause from the people. Those having a part in the play were:

Abby Starr, Annie Mae Shelton, Beulah Callaway, Elsie Tombs, Grady Becknell, J. D. Scott, Sam Williams and Lou Stults.

The pupils of Miss Beulah Callaway's music class which rendered a recital at the Methodist church Tuesday night were:

Frances Johnson, Ruth Tolbert Wilma Bell, Anna Lou Kester, Ollie Crain, Margarette Crownover, Lena Tolbert, Etta Faye Hart, Fern Kester, Zula Chandler, Gilmer Starr, Fay Wynn, Willie Dooley, Mrs. C. E. Foster, Miss Letha Davis, Faye Dooley, Mrs. Dan Carter, and Mrs. J. R. Huie.

Fred Glascoe, merchant at Doans, and Prof. N. A. Liscomb who has lately moved into that neighborhood, were business visitors in Odell Tuesday. The former ordered his name placed on the Reporter's mailing list.

Quarterly Conference Convenes Sat. at M. E. Church

Presiding Elder M. Phelan of the Vernon District will occupy the pulpit at Methodist church Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Saturday evening at three, the local congregation will meet in business session at the church.

Sunday morning at eleven the Presiding Elder will deliver a sermon, and will also occupy the pulpit again at night.

A general invitation is extended to everybody to attend the meetings.

R. L. and Raymond Olive, prominent farmers of the Haulk community, were in town Tuesday.

Boys Reaching 21 Since June 5 1917 Called to Register

All young men who have attained the age of 21 since June 5th, 1917, will be required to register according to a late ruling of the War Department.

The following notice, which reached us too late last week for publication, was received by the Reporter from Cecil Story at Vernon, who is chairman of the local exemption board. The notice he requests to be published follows:

"We have today received a telegram from General Crowder announcing that Congress has passed the Act providing for the registration of men who have become 21 years of age since June 5th, last, and further advising that a proclamation by the President will be issued shortly, naming June 5th, 1918, as the day for registration. General Crowder requests that the widest publicity be given to the fact that all men who have attained the age of twenty-one since June 5th, 1917, will be required to register on the day mentioned."

Eastern Star Elect Officers

At a meeting of the local Eastern Star Chapter last Thursday night the following officers were elected:

DRIVING RIVETS SLOW WORK

Not Only That, but Enormous Number of Them Are Needed in a Steel Ship.

The largest single item in the labor of fabricating a steel ship is in the riveting of her hull; therefore the driving of rivets is taken as a standard of size and of progress by most of the shipbuilders. To build a 10,000 ton ship a week means the driving of about 650,000 rivets in that time. The Union shipyards of San Francisco, as at present equipped and freed from labor troubles, can drive about 300,000 rivets, although in a record week it drove 411,000 rivets; the four next largest yards in America—at Fore River, Mass., at Newport News, Va., at Camden, and at Philadelphia upon the Delaware—can drive 200,000 to 275,000 rivets a week each. A half dozen smaller steel shipyards will drive from 50,000 to 150,000 each seven days.

Riveting, despite all the inventions devised to speed it up, remains hand work and slow work. A riveting gang consists of two men and two boys—the riveter, his "holder-on," the passer boy and the heater boy. The gang drives from 300 to 375 rivets in the course of a ten-hour day and is tired at the end of it. But when you know that it takes four men all of a working day to drive an average of a little less than 350 rivets, you can begin to see the full size of the labor problem of driving at least 650,000 rivets a week necessary to turn out a 10,000-ton ship at the end of that length of time. In other words, you need 1,200 men for the riveting gangs alone.

Look at the matter from another angle, writes Edward Hungerford in Harper's. Ten ships a week—the tremendous program for 1918 to which we stand committed—means 6,500,000 rivets a week. And the rivet capacity of our five greatest yards—with a total working force of 50,000 men at the end of 1917—was but 1,350,000 rivets a week. And riveting represents only about 20 per cent in the construction of a ship.

RAISE MISCHIEF WITH WIRES

Remarkable Effect of Aurora Borealis on the Telegraph Wires of the Country.

When the aurora borealis, or "northern lights," pay us a visit there is trouble on all the telegraph and telephone lines. The reason for this seems to be that the aurora borealis, which is really an unusual electric emanation from the sun, sets up abnormal earth currents. The strength of these currents has been measured many times and found to have a potential varying between 425 volts positive and 225 volts negative and a resistance of about 2,000 ohms.

Donald McNicol, assistant electrical engineer of the Postal Telegraph company, who has given much study to this subject, made an official report in 1892, quoted in the Electrical Experimenter, in which he described the effects of earth currents on the ten Atlantic cables then in existence. Most affected was that from Brest to Miquelon Island, and the disturbances were greater at the western than at the eastern end, so that often St. Pierre could send messages to Brest but could not receive any.

Long cables were more affected than short ones, southerly ones more than northerly ones, and the abnormal currents seemed to travel mostly from east to west. Sometimes the earth currents are so strong that they injure the condensers. But they are most erratic in their nature and behavior.

The First Romanoff.
Romanoff is the name of the Russian Imperial dynasty regnant in the male line from 1613 to 1730, and thenceforward in the female line. Constant intermarriages with German princely houses, however, have made the Romanoff strain of today more German than Russian. Nay; the oldest ancestor of the house of Romanoff, Andrew Kobyla, is said to have come to Moscow from Prussia (1341). The name Romanoff was given to the family by the boyar Roman Yurievitch, the fifth of direct descent from Andrew, who succeeded in getting a female member of his family on the throne of the czars by marrying his daughter to Ivan the Terrible. In February, 1613, Mikhael Feodorvitch Romanoff, a boy of seventeen, was proclaimed czar, grand duke and autocrat of all the Russias in the Red square of Moscow. With this accession to the throne of the famous, or rather ill-famed, dynasty began a 304 years' misrule that—let us hope—has ended forever with the forced abdication of Czar Nicholas, in March, 1917.

FEAR RECURRENCE OF PLAGUE

Government Experts Favor Extermination of Rats Also as a War Measure for Saving Food.

Government experts are urging that the rat be exterminated as a war measure for saving food. The waste each year due to the rodent is estimated at $200,000,000. A full-grown rat consumes more food than a baby. In addition, the animal is a menace to health.

The terrible scourge of the bubonic plague in Europe and Asia was spread by rats and their parasites. When the plague was carried by the animals in ships to our Pacific coast, a campaign for their extermination was conducted in the seaports at much cost. The disease was thus stamped out as it had been in the Orient, by the pound of cure instead of the ounce of prevention.

The plague returns at intervals from its breeding places in the overcrowded and filthy cities of Asia. War, pestilence and famine travel hand in hand. A recurrence may be expected as a result of the deprivations of war among the impoverished eastern people.

RESPECT FOR FALLEN FOE

How Scottish Aviator Dropped a Wreath on Funeral Procession of Man He Killed.

A true incident that reveals the respect shown by allied aviators for the memory of a daring enemy flier is told in "Tam o' the Scots," by Edgar Wallace, writing in Everybody's. Tam, an intrepid Scotchman, was told that the man he had brought down the day before was a well-known German aviator named Von Zelditz, and on behalf of the Royal Flying corps, Tam was selected to take a wreath to the funeral.

"The wreath in a tin box, firmly corded and attached to a little parachute, was placed in the fuselage of a small Morane—his own machine being in the hands of the mechanics—and Tam climbed into the seat. In five minutes he was pushing up at the steep angle which represented the extreme angle at which a man can fly. Tam never employed a lesser one.

"Evidently the enemy scout realized the business of this lone British flier and must have signaled his views to the earth, for the anti-aircraft batteries suddenly ceased fire, and when, approaching Ludezeel, Tam sighted an enemy squadron engaged in a practice flight, they opened out and made way for him, offering no molestation.

"Tam began to plane down. He spotted the big white-speckled cemetery and saw a little procession making its way to the grounds. He came down to a thousand feet and dropped his parachute. He saw it open and sail earthward and then someone on the ground waved a white handkerchief.

"'Guld,' said Tam."

RECRUIT HAD OWN METHOD

Showed He Could Do Some Shooting When Sergeant Let Him Do it as He Wanted.

Among a batch of recruits sent up from the recruiting office was a tall, lanky, tow-headed East Tennessean, whose habit stuck out all over him. He took to the training all right enough until the company went to the target range for rifle practice.

The sergeant in charge of the practice showed the recruits the regulation position for firing—left elbow resting against the side and all that. But to his disappointment the Tennessean could not hit the target at a range of 100 yards. Finally in disgust the sergeant blurted out:

"Say, Jim, I thought you told me you used to go out in the mornings and shoot the head off a squirrel for your breakfast, and now you can't even hit that target!"

To which came the drawling response: "Wal, sergeant, we all do do that, an' if you'll let me shoot the way I'm used to I can knock all h—I outhen that target."

The amused sergeant agreed and the recruit proceeded to spread his legs wide apart, extended his left arm to its full length—grasping the rifle near the muzzle—and put ten shots through the center of the bull's eye.

"Jim's performance with the rifle was spectacular," added the narrator, "and put an abrupt end to the sergeant's efforts to teach him how to shoot. In after years he carried off the highest shooting honors three years in succession—won the Buffalo medal."

Made 10,000 Shark Hooks.

The government is going in for shark fishing, but not as a sport, however. It is going after this aquatic monster that the skins of the sharks may be tanned and used as a substitute for leather.

The experiment is now under way, and the man who has given Uncle Sam a leg over the fence, as it were, is J. W. Fordham, a New London, Conn., artisan, whose blacksmith shop is in the vicinity of picturesque Shaw's Cove, for in that little smithery 10,000 shark hooks were made in three sizes for the United States government.

Mr. Fordham signed the contract and was allowed thirty days in which to complete the order. By keeping his force working day and night he was able to ship the entire consignment to the government agents in New York in little more than half the time called for in the contract.—Marine News.

Hands and Feet.

At a busy crossing in Edinburgh a cabman was stopped by the policeman on point duty in order to allow the cross traffic to proceed.

The man in blue, evidently proud of his authority, kept the cabby waiting longer than was necessary.

The cabman began to proceed, although the hand of the policeman was against him.

"Did ye no' see me haudin' up my hand?" roared the angry policeman.

"Well, I did notice that it began to get dark suddenly," said the cabby; "but I didn't know it was your hand."

Out of His Range.

A young man stepped into a sporting goods store recently, relates the Indianapolis News, and asked to see some guns. His remarks indicated that he was a sportsman of a decidedly amateurish sort. The obliging salesman brought forth all manner and varieties of weapons, from a .22-caliber rifle to latest model "pump" gun, but nothing brought any response of satisfaction into the young fellow's face. Finally the salesman handed him a high-power rifle, used for big game, with the remark, "This beautiful little gun, sir, is just what you want, I believe. It kills at 3,000 yards." The young man shook his head, more in doubt than ever. "No," he said, "I am afraid I couldn't use it at all. You see, I have to get much closer than that."

Increasing Use of Rare Metals.

"Among the remarkable industrial developments to which the European war has given impetus has been the enlarged use of the rare metals," says Maj. William A. Mensch of San Diego, Cal. "Tungsten, vanadium and molybdenum, used in making steel, seem to be the leaders. Of these three perhaps the least familiar to American steel makers is molybdenum, which, though well-known to European forge masters, has but comparatively limited use in this country.

To Remodel Japanese Army.

The return of distinguished Japanese officers who have been in Europe studying the latest military tactics on the battlefronts will be followed by army reorganization, reports the Tokyo Jiji. Under the new system one division will consist of three regiments instead of four, as now, and a force composed of two reorganized divisions will become the fighting unit of the Japanese army. Increase in the number of regiments is not contemplated, but the number of divisions will be necessarily augmented. Whether or not the new formation will be seen in the forthcoming annual maneuvers is unannounced. The military arsenal at Tokyo is preparing to build airplanes for army use, and an appropriation of $3,750,000 will be asked from the diet. The exact type of airship has not been decided.

Delight of Berlin Life.

One of the beauties of autocratic government, says the Springfield Union, is shown in the snow-removal order issued by the military authorities in Berlin, under the provisions of which every property owner is required to remove the snow not only from his sidewalk, but from the roadway as far as the center of the street, and is authorized to call on all tenants between the ages of fourteen and sixty to assist him in this work. Failure to comply with the order is punishable with a fine of not more than $375 or imprisonment for not more than a year, and the police are authorized to handle all such cases without the formality of a trial.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
