Constable J. H. Gobbell Now A Married Man

On Xmas Day Pledged Himself to Support Miss Ruby Nave Through Life

On Christmas day at 10 o'clock Rev. Leslie Robeson was the officiating party in a marriage ceremony that made J. H. Gobbell and Miss Ruby Nave man and wife. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gobbell drove through the country to Vernon, where they boarded the evening Frisco train for Fort Cobb, Oklahoma, for a visit with the groom's sisters.

Miss Ruby is one of the town's most popular young ladies, who with her mother, was for some time connected with the Orient Hotel at this place, she also for a year or more, filled successfully a position as operator at the local telephone exchange.

The groom is one of the pioneer citizens of our town, who came to this place when Odell first began to make her growth, and has since been the overseer on several important jobs in his line of business, that has made Odell a larger town. Three years ago he was elected Constable of this precinct, and has since filled the office to the satisfaction of the people.

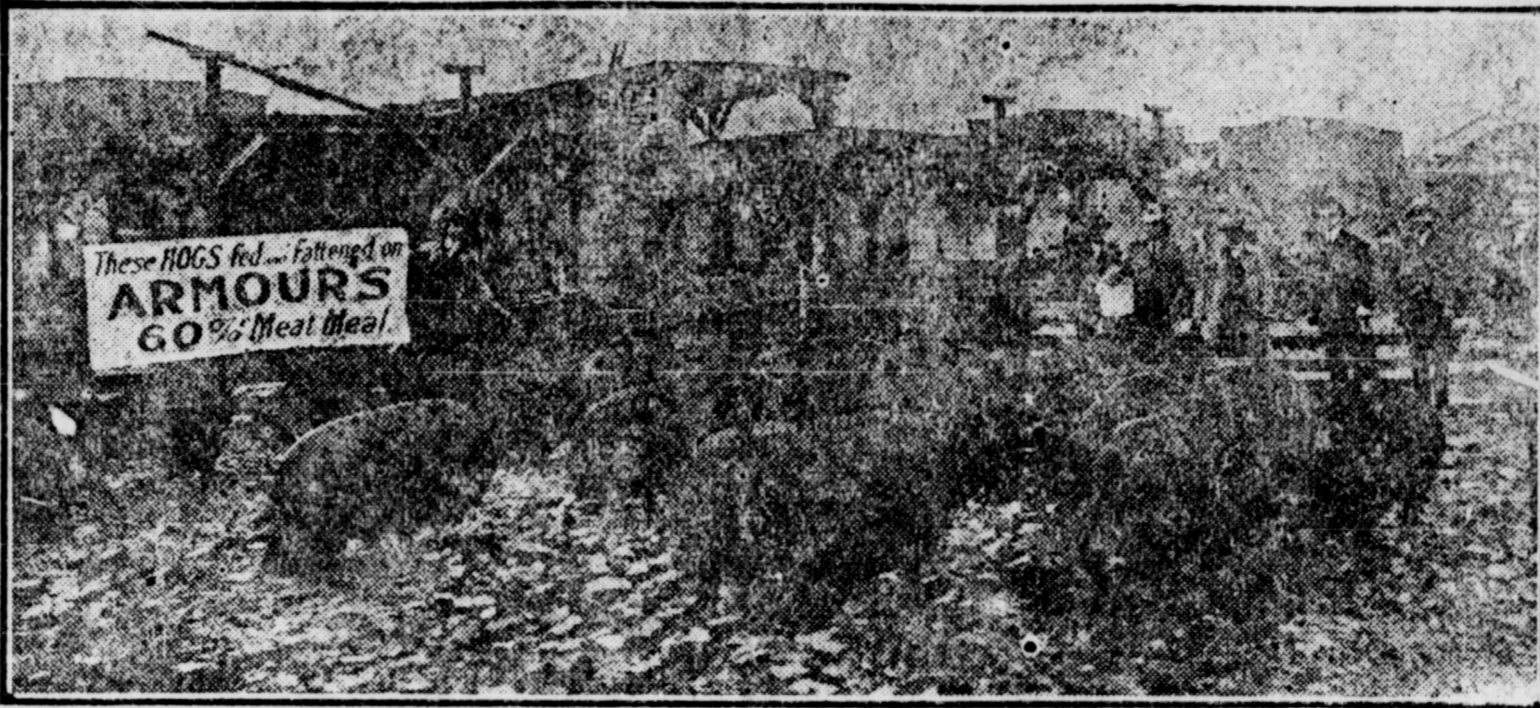

Both these popular young people have many friends in this part of the country, who will join the Reporter in extending to them their wishes for a long life of health and prosperity together.

Now a Blacksmith

H. C. Turner, formerly a resident in this part of the country, but who has been engaged in farming near Tolbert the past year or two, was a business visitor at Odell this week and informed the Reporter he is now in the blacksmith business at Tolbert. He has just lately entered into this business and has a fully equipped shop and is enjoying a nice trade.

BLUE RIBBON HOGS OF THE WORLD---TEXAS PORKERS WIN PRIZE

The World's hat is off to the Texas Hog. Competing with the finest products of the corn belt, for generations the prime hog producing region of the world, a magnificent carload of heavies, raised by Robertson Brothers, of Frisco, Collin County, Texas, captured the prize at the International Livestock Show at Chicago. The load also won the grand championship at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. This victory eloquently tells the world that Texas is no longer the home of the razor-back.

Moving to Collingsworth

W. C. Plunk, one of the country's young and substantial farmers, informed the Reporter this week that he is making preparations to move to his farm in Collingsworth county this next week. He has owned a good farm in that country for some time, but has been engaged in farming the Mrs. Florence Fain place near here; until this fall he decided to move to his Collingsworth place and improve it.

His wife will be with her mother, Mrs. Fain at Vernon until Mr. Plunk builds a house on their farm and improves it in other ways. The Reporter regrets to learn of this family's move, but hopes their new home in the upper panhandle will prove beneficial to them.

Red River Social Affairs

Both old and young people of the Red community enjoyed a number of socials at the different homes in that neighborhood during the holidays. Among the different families that entertained were: W. G. Perry, E. C. Austin, W. F. Barnes, R. J. Stowe, M. C. Stowe and Julius Johnson.

Jackson Springs Farmer Died Tuesday Night

John Black Moore, After An Illness of Two Weeks, Is a Victim Of Appendicitis

We regret this week to chronicle the death of one of the Jackson Springs community's prominent farmers, J. B. Moore, which occurred at his home, Tuesday, December 30th, after an illness of two weeks. He was the son of J. W. Moore and wife, and besides this aged couple, he leaves a brother, two sisters, a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

Mr. Moore was a man of twenty seven years of age at the time of his death, which was of no surprise to his relatives and friends, as he endured a great amount of suffering after he fell a victim to appendicitis.

His remains were followed by a large host of friends from here and his neighborhood, to where he was laid to rest at the Pleasant Valley Cemetery Wednesday evening. The bereaved relatives and friends have the deepest sympathy of the Reporter in the time of trouble.

Ham---Carpenter

Rev. Leslie Robeson was called to Doans Christmas day, where he united in the holy bonds of wedlock, Willie Ham and Miss Winnie Carpenter. Both are popular young people of that country and have numerous friends in the county who wishes them a successful married life.

Attending the wedding from Vernon were: J. H. Watts, wife and two sons Clyde and Roy, relatives of the groom. The newly wedded couple have the best wishes of the Reporter.

J. N. Braddy who lately moved his family from Robtow back to his farm near Doans, was in town Monday trading.

Godbey---Britton Wedding

On Christmas eve day at Crowell, Rev. Davis of the Methodist denomination, united in marriage, E. D. Godbey and Miss Virgie Britton, the latter being a native of this county.

The Reporter ask for the co-operation of the entire people of the town and the surrounding country in helping to make Odell a larger and better Odell this next year.

As the old year passes out and the new year is ushered in, let us all strive to forget what ever enmity, ill will or injury we hold towards our neighbors, and carry in its place love and friendship for them.

After a two week vacation from their books, which was granted the school children of the County on account of the meeting of Wilbargers County Teachers Institute and the holidays, the different schools of the county opened Monday and they again took up their studies.

Notwithstanding the fact that the general opinion of the business world everywhere now is, that we are living under stressed circumstances, with all indications of the scarcity of the coin producing much harder times, Harry A. Wheeler, President of the National Chamber of Commerce, comes forth with the statement, "that there is every cause for a conservative optimism in the business world." "The business outlook for 1914," says Mr. Wheeler, is better than fair, merchandise stock throughout the country are below, rather than above normal and liquidations has preceded during the the last year to the extent of making the general business outlook much more promising than it was a year ago.

The Value of Suggestion

Humanity is a slave to its wants, and oftentimes at the expense of its needs. As a rule desire rather than actual necessity, governs buying. Create a want and the needs will take care of themselves, is a saying true and true, and it contains more truth than fiction. Desire and demand always precede buying, and these elements are the net results of suggestion. The most effective way of placing the suggestions of your business before the buying public is through the columns of the newspaper. No investment can pay larger dividends than money put in advertising space in this paper, and as a business builder it has no rival.

The Golden Egg

Many theories have been advanced as to the egg famine and many plans devised for the purpose of restoring this barnyard product to normal price. Uncle Sam investigated the cold storage monopoly and the housewives the nation over have organized boycott leagues, but the purchasing price to the ultimate consumer continues to increase. Eggs are a commodity whose value is fixed in the hen house and not on the breakfast table nor at the cold storage plant. When Queen Biddy is properly fed and housed, the laying season will be every month in the year and the barnyard will be come the distributing center for the world's greatest food product.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Theford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

Poem Composed by Rev. Glaud R. Kuykendall, While Engaged In a Meeting Here Recently

Another day has passed,
 Another night has come;
 Thus does Eternity bear us on
 Unto our final home.
 Yea for none does she hesitate,
 But rushes them one and all;
 Rapidly through the waiting gate
 Beyond the dividing wall.
 Ah, see them rushing here and there,
 Men and women and children fair;
 Traveling ever, onward along,
 Some with a frown,
 Some with a song,
 All making up the busy throng.
 What part friend,
 In this drama do you play,
 As you are passing along this way?
 Some have come and some have gone,
 Time relentlessly bears them on.
 Through this raging season of strife,
 On beyond this present life,
 Be he evil or be he good,
 Not long can he tarry though he would.
 Oh time so insistent, rushing on,
 Never tarrying or idling along.
 On then, if thou must,
 Haste on in thy way!
 And bear us soon to that bright day.
 Yea, see on before us,
 The day is at hand!
 Then bear us onward
 To dwell with the grand.
 Then rapid and faster,
 Oh time, wilt thou fly,
 Until we shall dwell,
 With the one who did die.
 To make us free from the power of sin,
 Who shall conquer all enemies;
 And the great Victory win.
 Then come thou Lord Jesus,
 Who has promised abundant life,
 And make an end,
 Of all comotion and strife.
 Oh see! in the heavens,
 A Saviour appears,
 And the nations of the earth,
 Give vent to their fears.
 But Saints speak with rapture,
 And praise ye his name,
 And publish his goodness,
 And herald his fame.
 But hark to the words,
 The angel declares,
 And note how the nations,
 In fear say their prayers.
 He speaks with a voice,
 To be heard by all,
 And the wicked rend the air,
 With their wails as they fall.
 The message that he bears,
 As he stands on sea and shore,
 As one of vast importance,
 That "Time shall be no more."
 Oh now the saints,
 Have a glorious resting day,
 While the wicked to their place,
 From view pass away.
 Oh now we meet the loved ones,
 Who have gone on before,
 That have returned with the Saviour,
 To dwell with us ever more.
 But come, let us unitedly
 Render homage to our King,
 The one who died and lives again,
 And eternal life to us did bring.
 Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost,
 Our love for them proclaim.

MEAT PACKING LEADING INDUSTRY

Growth of Texas Plant - Remarkable

For many years Texas has held high rank as a livestock producing unit, but only during the past decade has the slaughtering and meat packing business assumed mammoth proportions. From a comparatively small industry ten years ago it has become the leading manufacturing enterprise of the state as measured by the value of products manufactured. In 1900 the nearest approach to a packing house in Texas was a sausage factory. We had four of these plants at that time and their combined annual output had a value of $12,000. The latest census reports show fourteen slaughtering and meat packing establishments operating in Texas whose yearly production is more than $42,000,000 in value. This gigantic industry furnishes employment to 4,300 persons, who receive $2,600,000 annually in salaries and wages and represents a capital investment of $12,438,500.

The packing houses of Texas slaughter 2,000,000 head of livestock annually, which is equivalent to the natural yearly increase and is 20 per cent of our meat animal supply. These animals cost the packers $37,500,000, while a decade ago animals slaughtered were valued at only $3,170,000.

In number the predominating class of meat animals slaughtered is hogs, the total number killed each year being 940,000, compared with 208,270 ten years ago. The demand for pork has increased with marked rapidity in Texas during recent years, and last year we consumed $240,000,000 more of pork and pork products than we produced.

Beeves and calves rank next to swine in number slaughtered, but the cost of the cattle killed yearly is $7,000,000 more than that of the hogs. As Texas is the leading livestock State she also ranks first in number of cattle. We had 6,056,000 head on January 1, 1913. In 1912 the value of beef produced in Texas had a value of $47,812,000, while the requirement for the year was only $19,646,000, leaving a surplus of $28,166,000. Our packing houses now slaughter a million head of cattle annually, while ten years ago the killing capacity was only 32,000.

The Texas sheep which at one time was raised only for his wool now has a dual commercial value and his flesh is one of our most delicate edibles. Within a decade the number of sheep slaughtered at our packing houses has increased more than thirteen fold.
