

FROM THE EDITOR'S WINDOW BY MRS. J. S. YEAGER

As the world's leading cotton market the city of Houston is anxious to receive the first bale of cotton from the 1946 season and is said to be guaranteeing the grower $500 to bring his first bale to the Houston market.

Mr. Harmon Whittington, president of the cotton exchange, is said to have posted the guarantee to stimulate the grower's interest in planting and tending more acreage to the staple. He stipulated that the cotton must have been grown this year and must be marketable to receive the money.

It is a good step in the right direction to restore to the South its greatest industry and President Whittington and the city of Houston are to be congratulated on the movement and the people of Texas and the south in general should cooperate in every way possible.

The professional "toucher" met a prosperous-looking gentleman and immediately began his talk. "Sir," he said, "I have had nothing to eat for three days and am on the verge of starvation. Will you please give me a dollar?"

"If it is as bad as that," said the gentleman, "I should think you would be modest enough to ask for a quarter, which you would probably be much more likely to get than a dollar."

"Give me a quarter or give me a dollar, whichever you like," said the other, "but please don't tell me how to run my own business."

"What," asked the car owner of the garage man, "will it cost me to have my car repaired?"

"What's wrong with it," "I don't know," "$89.75."

It is said the estate of the late Chief Justice Harlan Stone has been valued at $900,000 and a petition for probate of the will has been filed in district court.

ABILENE ORDINANCE VOIDS STATE STATUTE ON THE SALE OF MILK

A release from Austin June 14. Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer looked over newspaper reports of Abilene's amended milk ordinance today and wondered how a city can ignore a state law by an ordinance.

Dr. Cox noted that the state law prohibits the sale of milk from diseased cows with bangs disease. The Abilene ordinance apparently allows the sale of milk from cows with Bangs disease as long as the milk is pasteurized. "They have passed an ordinance that conflicts with a state law, despite it. They cannot do nay thing about ignoring a state law by ordinance."

The fact that some doctors believe that pasteurization does kill Bangs infection has nothing to do with it, state health department personnel pointed out.

In presenting the check, Capt. Steele, representing the citizens of Fort Arthur, expressed the voters' appreciation for his 12 years' faithful service to the district and reminded him that he was the youngest senator to take the oath of office when first elected to the Senate. Next Of Kin May State Wishes In Moving War Dead

President Truman has approved the Act of Congress authorizing disposition at Federal Government expense of the remains of personnel of the armed forces who died overseas since September 3, 1939, and the War Department has announced that all next of kin of the deceased will be asked to state their wishes as to what disposition should be made.

Indications are the program will not actually get under way until as late as the end of 1946, because of the inability of casket makers to meet schedules under the steel shortage. Relatives will be given four options as to the disposition of the remains of the war dead:

1. The remains may be interred in a permanent American military cemetery overseas. Establishment of permanent American military cemeteries overseas in the European and Philippine area is contemplated, should the number of requests justify it.
2. The remains may be returned to the United States for final interment in a national cemetery. This is restricted to burial of remains of members of the Armed Forces only. When this option is desired, the remains will be transported to the continental United States and interred in the national cemetery selected by the next of kin.
3. The remains may be returned to the United States or any possession or territory, for interment by next of kin in a private cemetery. Shipment will be made to the city or town designated by the next of kin.
4. The remains may be returned to a foreign country, the homeland of the deceased, for interment by next of kin in a private cemetery. Shipment to a foreign country is dependent upon the ability of the United States Government to obtain entry. If entry can be obtained, shipment will be made to the city or town designated by the next of kin.

It is likely, the War Department announces, that remains to be returned first will be from those areas where American soldiers fought and died. A majority will be brought home on ships which will be converted into vessels resembling the present hospital ships.

Beginning of the undertaking will not be delayed, however, should conversion of ships not be completed when contemplated. The vessels will dock at the ports of New York and San Francisco, but is not possible now to estimate the exact date when the first remains will reach these ports. After arrival at ports, the dead will be moved by funeral trains to 15 or more transfer points at strategic and convenient locations throughout the United States. From these cities, military escorts will accompany the flag-draped caskets to the places specified by the next of kin.

When next of kin requests burial in a national cemetery or in a military cemetery overseas, the War Department bears all expenses. If private interment in the United States or overseas is requested, the government will pay transportation costs to the city or town designated by next of kin up to $50.

Don't Hoard Old Medicines Warns State Health Man

There are many persons who naturally hoard anything and everything including old clothes, boxes, and other useless articles, some of which constitute a greater danger than a possible fire hazard, but a very real danger is present when this tendency is applied to hoarding old medicine in any form.

Most medicine finds itself into the home through a doctor's prescribing it for some specific illness. For the sake of safety, left-over medicines should be destroyed immediately when they have fulfilled their purpose and never be stored in the medicine cabinet for future unprescribed use in case of another illness, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Self-medication with the use of left-over drugs which were of great benefit to some previous illness can sometimes turn a simple ailment into a very serious condition of actual poisoning," Dr. Cox said. This is particularly true of the indiscriminate use of sulfa drugs which have been prescribed for some previous specific condition. "It is wise to use medicines as indicated for the illness for which they are prescribed by your doctor, and when they are no longer needed, destroy the remaining medicine immediately," Dr. Cox said. "Even if you expect a return of the same condition at some future date, it would be better to obtain new medicine if the condition recurs than to retain this old medicine in the cabinet and subject the members of your family to the danger of using it unwisely."

Mr. and Mrs. Nell Norred were guests of Mrs. Norred's parents one night last week. Mr. Norred was enroute to Dallas and while in Dallas Mrs. Norred stopped with her parents and brother, Bill Brandon, here until his return and then they returning to their home at Big Spring.

R. D. Williams was in town Friday afternoon and stated he had finished combining his wheat. He said he had about 130 acres and part of it yielded about two bushels per acre, but the rest was not so good. He was in the hall district and the grain was damaged pretty badly by the hail.

Drew Sprawls was in Putnam Friday afternoon and said he had just finished combining two hundred acres of grain and it averaged about 15 bushels per acre. He said, even this year when practically everyone used a combine he would have to start his old thresher up again this season.

Rev. H. Warder Lewis and wife, Rev. Janie McMillan Lewis, who have spent the week end visiting with Mrs. Mary Guyton in the Mission hotel, left Monday morning for South Texas where they will spend a few days visiting with friends and then will go from there to North Carolina where they are engaged to hold a meeting. They are both Baptist preachers.

The existing working rules on the railroads were put into effect many years ago, when train speeds, employment conditions in industry and other pertinent factors were quite different from what they are today. There can be no question that a thorough modernization of working rules is long overdue.

Technological conditions have changed drastically on the railroads during the past generation. Constructive mileage allowances of 100 or 150 miles as a day's work are patently unreasonable when a train will travel 300 to 500 miles in a day, giving employees several days' pay for a day's work. Conversely, employees who remain away from home because of their work are entitled to compensation, as is usual in other industries, for this.

From the railroads' viewpoint, modernization of working rules may make little difference financially. Added payments to those who will benefit from rules' changes will be offset by smaller payments to employees who now reap an unearned harvest because they happen to be employed on fast trains making a great deal of mileage in the course of a day.

Present rules are extremely favorable to train service employees working on fast, through trains. They penalize many working on short local runs. Railroad management has offered to discuss working rule changes with all the train service brotherhoods together, to fit these rules to current conditions. But employee groups that enjoy a great deal of "feather-bedding" under existing rules are so strongly opposed to change as those who feel they are treated unfairly insist upon relief.

What is needed is flexibility in working rules for railway train service employees. Revisions should be effected periodically, to allow for changes in technology and in prevailing practices in other industries. The public should be told that opposition to such periodic modernization of working rules stems primarily from the groups of employees who benefit inordinately from existing regulations, rather than from management.

There is a big surplus of protein in Texas this spring in spite of the shortage of protein concentrates on the market.

A recent USDA Bureau of Agricultural Economics study on sources and uses of protein, show that 60 per cent of all protein used by livestock in the United States comes from pasture, hay and silage. Grain supplies only 25 per cent of the total protein livestock eat.

Commercial concentrates such as cottonseed meal and soybean meal account for less than 8 percent of the nation's protein. Skim milk, buttermilk, fish meal, brewers meal and legume seeds including peanuts, cowpeas, and velvet beans are some of the hay sources which make up the other 7 percent.

There has been plenty of rain over most of the hay and pasture belt, and right now there is probably as much protein in Texas as at any time in the past 10 years. The protein is to be put where it can be used by livestock. Much can be saved if it is cut for hay while the grass is young and green, for that is when the protein content is highest. The same is true of crops such as sudan and Johnson grass, whether stored as hay or as silage.

When cattle and sheep are on legume hay less protein is needed to balance their ration, and it is easy to get an extra supply of digestible protein in the hay by harvesting legumes when they are at their best. The more hay and silage that is harvested and properly stored, of course, the further the slim supply of protein concentrates will go.

A training school for testing supervisors of Dairy Herd Improvement Associations will be held at Texas A. and M. College, College Station, Texas, June 10-14.

Persons interested in attending the training school should notify J. W. Davis, assistant dairyman, Extension Service, College Station, Texas. This training school and another held recently at Plainview will help qualify more men for testing work in the state.

College training is desirable, but not essential to the success of a tester, Davis says.

LONGER LASTING FENCE POSTS

Farmers and ranchers should experiment with the sap-stream method of treating fresh-cut saplings, says C. W. Simmons, farm forester for the A. and M. College Extension Service. The process is inexpensive to use and is very little trouble.

This method consists of soaking the cut end of the sapling in a chemical solution for one or more days, depending on the amount of sunshine. A few branches must be left at the top to help pull the chemical up the sap stream of the wood.

Best results are achieved by giving the treatment on bright sunny days in spring and summer when the sap flows fastest. Hardwood should be treated only from spring to late summer, but, pines and cedar can be treated any time except during freezing weather.

The chemical solution should contain either chromated zinc chloride or borax-boric acid. Although the latter solution is still somewhat in the experimental stage and needs to be tried with different species, it has proved to be much less expensive and safer to use, Mr. Simmons says.

The borax-boric acid must be dissolved by heating to 110 to 125 degrees Fahrenheit in equal quantities—three fourths pound of each to one gallon of water, or about a 15 per cent solution. The two boron chemicals dissolved together remain soluble in temperature as low as 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

After treatment the ground end of the sapling should be peeled and dried for about a week, then soaked in 2-3-2 per cent solution of pentachlorophenol for about two or three days. One half gallon of water soluble preservative should be absorbed per post and about one pint per quart of pentachlorophenol oil preservative.

This combination will not exceed much more than five cents for total cost of preservatives per post. Expected life service for average small line posts is 10 to 15 years.

MUCH FRUIT, LITTLE WOOD GROWTH

Prospects for a bumper fruit crop are good over all parts of Texas, according to C. R. Heaton, horticulturist of the Texas and M. Extension Service.

But, like the farmer who was saddened by his wonderful potato crop because there were no culls for the hogs, Heaton says the heavy load of fruit is using up so much plant food that there is a slow growth of limbs and twigs.

Next year's fruit crop, he points out, will be borne on the new wood now forming.

Since there will be lots of fruit on the market anyhow, Heaton recommends that fruit be thinned out from 4 to 6 inches. He suggests leaving the better quality fruit, removing the fruit that has been damaged by hail, brown rot, peach scab, or curculio. This will throw some strength to the new growth of limbs and twigs and will result in a high percentage of large, quality fruit.

The orchard should be cultivated at a shallow depth as often as necessary to protect the busy trees from completion.

Many sandy soils are short on nitrogen and a top dressing of a pound of nitrate of soda or ammonium sulphate per tree in late May or early June will help hold fruit and promote growth. If the trees show they need it—by light colored leaves or slow wood growth—a 200 pound per acre application of a balanced fertilizer, such as 5-10-5 is needed. The Red Cross can also supply information about insurance reinstatement.

When the First National Bank in Cisco was re-modeled, the side door opening on to the alley was eliminated. It was through that door the Santa Claus robbers marched out, using bank customers and members of the bank's force as shields, during the battle that cost three lives, back in 1927.

And the pole near the jail in Eastland, from which the Santa Claus later was hanged, is still standing.

Points To Use For Success In Freezing Foods

Many people have vegetables and fruit in abundance now. Quick freezing is one of the most desirable methods of preserving most foods. If food is properly processed, packaged, and stored, quick-freezing retains practically the same flavor, color, texture and nutritive value of the original foods.

Five Points To Success In Freezing Foods

1. Fruits and vegetables to be frozen should be of the right variety and at the right stage of maturity. The animal should be fat, properly killed, dressed, chilled, and aged.

2. Cleanliness is the first rule. The main precaution should be to prevent germs from getting in the food. Freezing does not destroy all germs, but it prevents their growth. Speed in preparation is essential. This is especially important with vegetables and fish. Promptness in handling, chilling, and freezing any product helps retain quality.

Be accurate in observing directions. Follow the proper treatment for the food you are preparing.

3. A moisture-vapor-proof container or wrapping should be used. The more nearly air-tight the package is, the longer the product will keep without losing flavor, food value, color and without changing textures.

4. Quick freeze foods or 20 degrees F. in moving air. Freeze produces changes to a minimum which results in better quality food. Storage at 0 degrees F. with variations of not more than 3 to 5 degrees F. is very important. Research has shown that the higher the temperature gets above 0 degrees F. the quicker the food deteriorates. Flavors lost; meat becomes rancid more quickly; and there are greater losses in food value. If temperature is allowed to go up and down food dries out and becomes tough.

5. Don't store food too long. It is not economical to leave food in storage longer than a year. Store only the amount needed between seasons and use it before the following season.

Thaw properly and use frozen food immediately after thawing. Since all germs are not killed by freezing they become active as the food thaws. Spoilage will occur quickly if frozen foods are left long after thawing; also more food value is lost.

Swing of Southwest Farm Markets

(USDA)—Prices were higher for cotton, lambs and cattle, steady for grain and hogs, and slightly weaker for vegetables and poultry and eggs last week, reported USDA's Production and Marketing Administration today.

Tight supplies of grain and feed continued to bring ceiling prices. Little movement of new crop oats and wheat was reported.

Last week saw slightly weaker prices for eggs and poultry at most southwest terminals compared to closing prices of the previous week. Demand was slow to fair. Heavy rains tended to clog receipts at country points.

Live stock receipts were light last week because of the rail strike and the holiday Thursday. Most southwest markets reported active cattle trading at steady to stronger prices. Houston quoted medium steers and yearlings at $13 to $14.50 per hundred pounds and medium cows at $10.75 to $12.25. Medium cows brought $10.75 to $12. San Antonio. Fort Worth moved medium beef steers and yearlings at $14 to $15.50 and common and medium cows at $9 to $12. Medium and good yearling steers and heifers ranged from $13.50 to $16, Oklahoma City. Bulk medium and good slaughter steers and yearlings realized $14 to $16 at Wichita. Denver quoted common and medium cows at $10.50 to $12.75.

Sheep and lambs were up 25 cents to a dollar at most southwest markets Friday compared to prices of the previous week. Good and choice spring lambs brought $13 to $14.15, San Antonio; $14.50 to $15.25,

Fort Worth; $15.50, Oklahoma City; and $15.50 to $16, Wichita. Good and choice clipped lambs, mixed numbers 1 and 2 pelts, moved at $16.25, Denver.

Tell a woman who is trying on shoes that one foot is larger than the other, and you have lost a sale; but tell her that one foot is smaller than the other, and you have gained a customer.

In time of danger, what is more to be desired than presence of mind? Absence of body.

Won't it be great when you can again order a ham sandwich and get ham—and not "pressed ham"?

Rambling over Texas: Near Springtown, a road runner scurrying across the highway, the first one this observer had ever seen in a long time; and, south of Sweet water, a hawk so big he looked like an eagle—he sat on a fence post and disdained to stir as the car whirled by.

Near Hondo, a vast field of yellow stubble with hundreds of red and white cows grazing—in the distance, a solid line of jagged mountains veiled in blue.

At Yoakum, chicken peering out of second and third story windows of a building—a poultry establishment, of course.

And in Abilene, a sign: "Frisky minnows."

Your columnist is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Texas. It would be deeply appreciated if you would say a kindly word to your friends about Boyce House. With your help, we can win.

There was a little discussion in this space a few weeks ago about whether it was grammatical to use a preposition to end a sentence with. E. Roberts of the Andrews County News sends in a story about a boy who was sick and asked his nurse to read to him from "Robinson Crusoe" but she brought in "Swiss Family Robinson" instead and he demanded, "What did you bring me that book to be read out of to from for?"

Miss Elen Williams spent the past week end visiting with friends and relatives in Abilene.

Mrs. Will McCoy
County Treasurer
Makes Statement

An asking re-election to the office of County Treasurer on my record of service and experience.

I have realized more fully with each passing year, the deep responsibilities connected with this office, through which all of the County finances are handled.

Outside of the regular office routine there have been many added duties, especially during the war and the present period of re-adjustment. To offset this, no provision has been made to give the County Treasurer any office assistance. The type of work required and shouldering the entire responsibility alone requires long hours and untiring energy to handle efficiently the large volume of business.

Due to above conditions and other problems confronting me at this time it makes it impossible to undertake an extensive campaign, a thing I have always managed to do in normal times and enjoyed very much.

Between now and the July Primary I will see personally as many of you as possible, however, I realize I will have to depend largely on the cooperation of my friends throughout the county who have known me for many years and understand my present situation. Anything done in my behalf will be sincerely appreciated.

Regardless of the outcome of this election I will be ever grateful for your kindness and support and the wonderful, understanding friends you have been to me while serving as your County Treasurer.

This sliced 39 minutes off the previous best speed, despite poor flying conditions that forced the plane 150 miles off course. The Neptune was piloted by Commander Thomas D. Davies, of Chevy Chase, Md., and carried three naval crewmen and two civilian passengers.

because they may be re-used. If cans have been used for canning, they may be cleaned and relined, then used for freezing. The "R" enamel cans should be used for all fruits. For asparagus, and for New Zealand spinach. Other vegetables may be packed in enamel or plain cans. Glass jars may be used, but they are hard to handle and break easily. Food must be almost completely thawed before it can be removed from a jar.

The size of a container should be suited to the family needs. Usually it is better to freeze in quarts or pint sizes.

Pinch Of Salt To Ward - Off Heat Cramps, Says Cox

If your work is such that it causes excessive perspiration, add a pinch of ordinary table salt to each drink of water you take to help prevent heat cramps. This is advised by L. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, to prevent a possible increase in the number of heat victims as the Texas thermometer hits 95 degrees and above.

Laborers, mechanics, farmers, and white collar workers whose work causes them to sweat profusely, are in danger of having their body salt content become deficient with resulting heat cramps or heat fog. Salt is a prominent constituent of sweat; the body may lose as high as 40 to 50 grams of salt during hot days.

In industry, a method of preventing heat cramps is to take a tablet of pure salt or a mixture of salt and dextrose with each drink of water. Workmen whose duties require muscular exertion should be especially careful to add more than the usual amount of salt to what they eat and drink.

Salt deficiency may be prevented by taking salt in various ways. Where prepared tablets are not available, table salt may be added to each drink of water. Milk is a source of salt and will help to make up for the deficiency caused by sweating.

Heat cramps is characterized by pains (cramps) in the abdominal region, headache, and in severe cases, by nausea and vomiting. The body temperature remains about normal, likewise the pulse rate. Body salt losses occur without the knowledge of the individual until there is a deficiency; then the abdominal muscles begin to cramp.

The Turkey Creek Baptist church will begin a revival meeting Sunday, June 23 at the regular morning preaching hour, 11 o'clock.

During the week, services are to be held at night only. A cordial invitation is extended everyone in the Turkey Creek vicinity, as well as any others who can and will, to come and be present in the meeting. Preaching will be done by Rev. W. H. Coulter, pastor.

Claud King made a last minute trip to Baird Saturday afternoon to file his application for a place on the Democratic ticket for commissioner of precinct No. 3, Putnam.

Rev. J. W. Swim, owner of the Swim Furniture store at Baird, made a business trip to Memphis, Tenn. He left Monday morning and will be gone for about a week before returning to Baird.

From Cisco Daily: Miss Nila Jones sustained a broken leg while skating at Lake Cisco last week. She went to Cross Plains Saturday for an indefinite recuperating period.

Miss Eula Sears, Massie Sears, Gene Hatfield and Lila Sears Thomson of Abilene and Merkel were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Douglas on Father's Day.

L. R. Pearson, Representative of the 107th district composed of Callahan and Eastland county, was in Putnam Saturday afternoon shaking hands with the voters of Putnam.

Mrs. Neal Logan of Knox City is visiting with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Clinton, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay of Sudan were down the first of the week visiting relatives and friends in Putnam.

While in Baird Monday the clever district attorney of the 42nd judicial district slipped a years subscription to the Putnam News, the best paper in Putnam. In talking of his grain crop Judge Hayden said his wheat was really better than he expected. Some of it made as high as thirty bushels and some as low as about ten, but the average was much better than expected as the hail damaged the crop considerably.

Home Making Hints

LORETA ALLEN

Double Trouble

Enough of the right tools for the job gives greater efficiency in the kitchen, but too many utensils have the opposite effect. This is the opinion of Loreta Allen, County Home Demonstration Agent, who maintains that "duplicates and unnecessary extras that tend to collect in kitchen drawers and cupboards take up space, slow down work, and waste time and energy.

Miss Allen recommends occasional "weeding out" of equipment. She advises getting rid of the unnecessary pans and kettles, the broken knife or wobbly egg beater, and the fancy gadgets that have proven unsuccessful.

One of a kind is enough for many items of equipment such as knife sharpeners and bottle openers.

Sometimes more than one utensil makes work more rapid, however, two measuring cups, one for dry and one for liquid ingredients, are necessary for efficiency. Twin sets of salt and pepper shakers—one at the stove and one at the mixing center—also will save steps.

A truly convenient kitchen has what is needed and when it is needed and nothing more.

The more air-tight and moisture-vapor-proof the container is, the better the food will keep during storage. Double cellophane linings, heavily waxed cartons, tin cans, and glass fruit jars are some of the containers which may be used for packing foods for freezing. Department stores, mail order houses, and local locker plants usually handle freezing containers which may be used for packing foods for freezing.

Paper cartons should be strong and rigid to prevent crushing. They should be liquid-tight to prevent leaking if brine or syrup is used. Square or rectangular cartons take up less space than round ones. Do not use plain ice cream cartons or card board boxes not especially treated for freezing. Tin cans are good
