The political pot in Texas is beginning to boil right along now. United States Senator O'Daniel will open his candidacy for reelection at Fort Worth soon with Mrs. O'Daniel as his campaign manager. He will be opposed by Dan Moody, James V. Allred, and Floyd E. Ryan.

Our present Governor, Coke R. Stevenson, will be opposed by Gene S. Porter, Hope Wheeler, Charles Somerville, Hat Collins, and Alex M. Ferguson.

Nine candidates aspire to the office of Lieutenant Governor. They are Vernon Lemens, Harold Beck, John Lee Smith, Virgil Arnold, Doss Hardin, Alton Mead, J. Dixie Smith, Boyce House and Arthur Miller.

A long list also for State Treasurer and so on down the line. John Barrymore, noted actor, died in Hollywood May 30. He was 60 years old. At his bedside were his brother, Lionel Barrymore, his friends Author Gene Fowler and Artist John Decker. Mr. Barrymore had been ill with liver and kidney ailments since last November but had been confined to his bed during his last illness only eleven days.

The actor had been married four times and is survived by three children, Diana Barrymore, daughter of the second marriage and herself an actor, and Dolores Ethel May Barrymore, 12, and John Bly-the Barrymore, 10, children of the third marriage.

Just before lapsing into his final coma he said to his brother Lionel, "This is wonderful. What a wonderful place." It is supposed he had reference to his passing. He had often expressed the wish to die like an uncle, John Drew, who M. Barrymore said, "Died like a gent."

"Is Mary your eldest sister?" "Yes." "And who comes after her?" "You and two other fellows." "So your name is O'Shea. Are you related to Patrick O'Shea?" "Very distantly. I was my mother's first child and Pat was the seventh."

Among the jurors summoned was a woman who wished to be excused. "Well, madam, why don't you want to serve on this jury?" asked the judge.

"Your Honor, I am opposed to capital punishment." "But this is merely a case in which a wife is suing her husband for an account. It seems she gave him $4.00 to pay for a fur coat, and he is alleged to have lost the money at poker."

The woman juror spoke up promptly. "I'll serve, maybe I am wrong about capital punishment."

It is said that automobile junk heaps in Texas have yielded more than 200,000 tons of scrap metal to date. The scrap from Texas yards was enough to make 500 medium sized tanks according to Thomas L. Mulligan, region executive of the War Production Board. Practically all of us can help in the work of collecting the scrap metal around our homes and piling it up in some convenient place where it can be picked up later and used by our country for defense.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrived in the United States again the past week for a ten days visit. The Duke announced that the visit was strictly a business mission. They were entertained at luncheon at the White House one day last week where the President and the Duke discussed affairs in Europe, supposedly. The Duke hopes to fit the islands into our American war economy.

They were forced to cut short their stay and return home on account of news of labor troubles breaking out in the islands.

As was expected this country was bombed last Wednesday for the first time in its history. The bombings took place at Dutch Harbor on the Aleutian Peninsula, Alaska. Considerable damage was inflicted and fires started which were soon extinguished.

Authorities at Washington had issued warnings to the people along the entire western coast to be prepared and on the alert for the bombings as Japan would be sure to retaliate for the bombing of Tokyo by the Allies. It is thought that other bombings in various places by the Japs on our sea-coasts will follow.

Farmers Not To Lose On Account Of Flood Waters

According to reports out of Washington contingencies will not cause a loss of income among farmers participating in the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, J. Carl Wright Washington, assistant manager of FCIC, told representatives of the cotton industry at a state meeting at the Jefferson Hotel Wednesday, because the insurance plan has been modified to cover such situations.

A farmer who suffers crop loss because of inability to get labor or needed repairs on his equipment or inability to obtain fertilizer or insect poison will be paid his claim, but from the sum paid him will be deducted the normal amount of money such labor or repairs on material would have cost him, had they been available.

Under the insurance plan, farmers are required to follow the same practice of good farming they would follow without being insured. For example farmers who suffer from North Texas, floods normally would replant their fields, since the floods came early enough to make that possible. Therefore, they would be allowed claims for crop loss if they did not replant.

The program this year insures 172,000 cotton farming units and 5,602 wheat farming units.

Pullman Company Owns 2,342,186 Sheets For Use

Enough cotton sheets and pillowcases to tuck 349 times the entire population of Putnam, into beds were purchased by the Pullman Company. Its total bed linen inventory, announced in Chicago last week by Frank S. Rick, general manager, would be sufficient to give clean sheets and slips to each of the 487 men, women and children of Putnam, every night, 2,401 nights. Pullman owns 2,342,186 sheets and 1,881,357 slips, worth about $2,000,000.

This unique view into the operations of the sleeping car company which was probably the largest user of linens in the world, before the war expanded the requirements of the armed services, was offered to the cotton industry which in 1941 sold more than 7,260,000 worth of sheets and slips alone to Pullman.

The total estimated value of all linens in the inventory report was put at $2,571,000 and the annual laundry bill in recent years has exceeded $1,500,000.

LESTER BOONE

Pledging himself to "an all-out war effort," Lester Boone, Fort Worth Representative, has formally announced his candidacy for the Texas Railroad Commission, and called attention to the fact that it was one of Texas' most vital factors in the war effort. He further pledged in his announcement to attend all commission meetings.

Boone, who is now serving in the Texas Legislature from Fort Worth, sponsored the Omnibus Tax Bill which made possible the payment of old age pensions, teachers retirement pay, aid to the blind, and aid to crippled and dependent children. As a member of the House Military Affairs Committee, he aided in the passage of the Texas Defense Guard Bill, which became a law, thereby giving Texas greater security in the present crisis.

"I pledge an administration of harmony and will cooperate with other members of the commission," Boone said in his announcement. "I pledge myself to an all-out war effort in this vital department of State Government and will attend all commission meetings."

11.24 Of An Inch Rain As Compared With 19.99--1941

The rain Saturday of 41 of an inch was very acceptable to the farmers as the top of the ground was getting pretty hard and many farmers did not think feed and cotton planted would come up unless it rained. Most of them are through planting, but as a rule most farms are pretty grassy and it will take considerable work yet to clean them out.

The rain Saturday of 41 of an inch brings the rain fall to date up to 11.24 of an inch to the night of June 6th, against 19.99 of an inch in 1941. In May last year we had 7.80 of an inch as compared with 3.41 of an inch in 1941. We have had 7.75 of an inch less this year than in 1941.

Large Onion Crop Is Now Moving To Market In County

One of the largest crops of mature onions ever produced at this time of year is now on the market, according to J. C. Shockey, Callahan County Agent. Local merchants are cooperating in the nation-wide campaign to feature onions, which Secretary Wickard has designated a Victory Food Special.

Clever cooks who know the chief value of the onion is its flavor will not fail to take advantage of the plentiful supply of onions which are being sold at such reasonable prices. For with a little ingenuity, onions, can prove their weight in gold by varying the flavor of nutritious foods which are served from day to day, he said.

But Vitamin "Z", a make-believe vitamin that adds zip and zest to your meals, is not the only value of onions. In their raw state they have a little vitamin B-1, riboflavin, vitamin C, iron and calcium. Young green onions are fair sources of carotene, which the body can change into vitamin A.

All onions fall into two classes: the strong and the mild. The typical mild type of onion is the Bermuda, which is on the market only during the spring. So it's now or not until next April if you want to buy all you want of Bermudas.

If you're buying nature onions, look for those that are dry, bright, clean, hard and well-shaped. Avoid onions that are moist at the stem end of the bulb as moistness here may mean the onion is decaying inside. Buy green onions that have fresh green tops—and medium-sized, well-bleached necks for at least 2 or 3 inches up the stem, Mr. Shockey explained.

Mrs. Henry Power (Wanda Kennedy) of Fort Worth has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Ella Kennedy and other friends and relatives in Putnam this week.

Consumers Paying 22 Percent More Than One Year Ago

According to a report from Austin, housewives paid 22 percent more retail for food than they paid in 1941.

A report from labor commissioner John D. Reed, showing the trend of retail food cost in Texas today, revealed an increase of 1.4 per cent over April 1942 and a steady increase, for each month of 1942.

Compared with April 1941, January food cost were up 14.4 percent, February 17.6 percent and March 19.6 percent.

The small increase of 1.4 percent for May over April should not be taken as evidence that the price ceiling are not effective.

The sales in the department stores last week fell off about ten to 15 percent from the week before and below the sales a year ago, the first time that sales have been below the 1941 level this week.

Sugar Rationing Only Three Days In Each Week

As long as there is fruit to can, sugar may be obtained for such purposes. According to O. P. A. instructions, each family is allowed one pound of sugar for every four quarts of finished canned fruits and one pound per person annually for jellies, jams and preserves.

Persons who received sugar certificates before the above regulations were received by the local board must use the sugar allowed by such certificates before other sugar may be obtained, and must be used in the same manner as is specified in the present regulations.

Fort Sam Houston, Texas May 1, 1942

Hon. B. H. Freeland, County Judge, Callahan County, Baird, Texas

Dear Judge Freeland: You have probably been advised by the Texas Highway Department that it is desired to proceed at once with the construction of that deficiency in the strategic military network on U.S. Highway 80 in your county extending from Clyde to the Eastland County Line.

It is considered most essential to the war effort that this project on the military network be placed under construction at the earliest possible date. The project is to be financed by Federal and State funds and the right of way is to be secured by your county.

I know that your county will proceed as early as practicable with the securing of this right of way in order that your part of this project development may not delay the work that is so urgently necessary on this military network project. Sincerely,

Richard Donovan, Major General, U.S. Army, Commanding

To Obtain Sugar Must Have Fruit Ready For Canning

According to a news story in the Albany News, the rationing board in Shackelford County has put in force some pretty radical orders on sugar for canning purposes.

The board is issuing certificates for extra sugar for canning fruits this week, and housewives are applying for the ration so they can preserve the family's supply of fruits, jellies, preserves, etc., for the year.

Some very stringent regulations accompany the issuance of extra rations for canning. The regional office has authorized the local board to announce the following changes in the section of "home canning" effective immediately.

Consumers who have registered may obtain sugar for canning or preserving fresh fruits for their own use in an amount of one pound per person per four quarts of finished canned fruit, and one pound per year per person for use in preparing preserves, jellies or fruit butters.

Citizens are not allowed to get more sugar than the amount allowed to can fruit on hand and in season. In other words the individual must have the fruit on hand and ready to can when the sugar is requested. No one will be allowed to get sugar for canning fruits at a later date. In no event may an individual or family unit be permitted more sugar than is necessary to can the quantity which the board thinks is reasonable, giving due consideration to the season, the practices of the individual and the community and all other pertinent information.

CALLAHAN COUNTY WAR BOARD URGES FARMERS TO CONSERVE TRUCKS

The Callahan County USDA War Board this week urged farmers to comply with the spirit of the ODT order restricting transportation by making the best possible use of their trucks. The board urged pooling of facilities, best possible care of equipment—especially tires, and elimination of all unnecessary driving. Farm trucks are exempt from the Office of Defense Transportation Order requiring truckers to carry at least a three-quarters load on all return trips. Mr. Farmer, chairman of the board, explained, but farmers are expected to comply with the order voluntarily insofar as possible.

"There's no sense in several folks driving in one vicinity making separate trips to town when all could have gone together," Mr. Farmer declared. "We don't intend to force farmers to save their tires and equipment by pooling facilities, but we feel that they will all do their part if they understand the situation." Transportation tie-ups would cause serious damage to Callahan County agriculture, and to the Food for Freedom program.

Miller, Anson attorney and newspaper publisher, said he did not feel able to make a vigorous campaign because of the serious illness of his father, J. B. Miller of Stamford, 90-year-old Southern war veteran.

Tire rationing and the prospect of gasoline rationing likewise influenced his decision, Miller said. His retirement from the race cancelled an opening rally here Friday night, and others being planned at Sweetwater, Rotan, Eastland and other towns.

Miller issued this statement: "I regret that the critical illness of my father, J. B. Miller of Stamford, and the consequent inability on my part to make a vigorous campaign have dictated my withdrawal from the race for congress. I want to express my sincere appreciation to friends over the district who have shown me so many courtesies. It is with genuine regret that I withdraw from the race, but I feel that under all the circumstances this is the best course to pursue."

Several Putnam People Attend Concert At Stephenville 6-5

A Piano Ensemble Concert, was held in the auditorium of John Tarleton College on June 5, in which Mrs. Ernest Waddell, Putnam's music instructor, was invited to participate by entering several of her pupils. Those entered by Mrs. Waddell were Wanda Merle Lowery, Ellen Williams, Clinton Waddell, and David Park Clinton, Robert L. Clinton, Jr., a former student under Mrs. Waddell's instruction, but a student the past year in John Tarleton College, also took part in the program.

There were thirty pianos and sixty performers in the ensemble and the pianos were arranged on graduated platforms in which a way that each performer was easily seen from the audience.

Students from Weatherford, Hico, Havelin, Dublin, Stamford, Mason, Gustine, Ranger, Eastland, Comanche and Putnam participated in the ensemble.

The concert was opened with Caprice Espagnole by Moskowski—two pianos and two performers, Margaret Henderlite and Robert L. Clinton. This was followed with music by four performers and four pianos and so on up until the entire thirty pianos with sixty performers was reached.

Clinton Waddell and David Park Clinton took part in Schubert's March Militaire and played without a mistake although thirty pianos and sixty performers were taking part.

Wanda Merle Lowery, Ellen Williams and Robert Clinton also brought much credit to themselves in Hunarian Rhapsodie No. 2, in which thirty pianos and sixty performers participated.

The closing number, The Star Spangled Banner, was rendered by all including the large audience and the Piano Ensemble at Tarleton Auditorium will not soon be forgotten by those privileged to attend.

VICTORY GOALS ARE MET BY CATTLEMEN

Reports on movement of cattle to market indicate that Texas Cattlemen are meeting the goals they accepted in the Food for Freedom program, the Texas USDA War Board announced today.

The USDA War Board announcement cited the BAE range and livestock report for May 1, which declared that "total market movement of cattle and calves for the first quarter of the year 1942 was 421,000 head, which was the second largest movement on record for that period and compares with 451,000 head for the same period last year."

The USDA War Board goal for 1942 called for the marketing of 3,521,287 head of cattle, an 18 per cent increase over 1941.

B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA War Board, declared that the increased cattle marketings were a good indication that cattlemen, along with other branches of the agricultural industry, intend to meet their pledges and to do their share in providing food for freedom.

To encourage more beekeeping on farms, priorities as to certain basic supplies—sugar, wax forms and foundations, equipment—are promised by war production heads. Beeswax is in great demand for special purposes for which no substitute has been found. They honey bee is looked upon as an important food and energy producer during the war.

Eliminates Billy Barton In Finals Sunday Afternoon; Jimmy Phillips, Medalist

Frank Steidle, long driving Camp Bowie soldier and amateur champion of Arkansas, became the fifth man ever to win the championship of Philpeco country club's annual invitation golf tournament Sunday afternoon as he downed Billy Barton, sweet-swinging southpaw, who grew up at Pioneer and learned his shots on the Philpeco course. Steidle beat Barton seven up with six to play.

In the 10' years of Philpeco invitations there have been but five different titleists. The first event was won by Gid Faircloth while Sam Conner and Tommy Bolt also have a tournament conquest to their credit. All others were won by J. T. Hammett, the lad who literally put the local course in the map.

Medalist honors in the tournament ended Sunday were won by Jimmy Phillips, Coleman flying instructor, who fired an even par 72. Driving contest laurels were taken by C. E. McLister, of Ranger.

Other prize winners included: Bobby Sikes, Eastland, who won the championship consolation; Cecil Cantrell, Brownwood, first flight; W. A. (Red) Milner, Cisco, first flight runner-up; C. B. PRIVATE PEANUT GOES TO WAR

I'm Private Peanut and I'm plenty tough! My hitting power is in terms of oil. From 12,000 pounds of peanut oil, can be made 3,000 pounds of soap and enough nitro-glycerine to fire a 16-inch gun on a battleship. One blast from that gun sure could mess up a lot of Japs! Many other things needed by our fighting men and civilians can also be made from peanut oil, such as cooking fats and oleomargarine. Huge supplies of these things will give the United Nations the power to bury the hatchet—in the Axis' neck. Uncle Sam has asked farmers to mobilize five million acres of boys like me. And they're doing it!

PLACING AUTO IN STORAGE REQUIRES CARE TO PROTECT

If you simply put the family automobile in dead storage for the duration, expecting to take it out in a year or two as good as new, you may be in for a surprise, it was indicated by the National Bureau of Standards' list of suggestions on storing cars issued through Carl F. Bartz, regional manager of the Department of Commerce.

Wasps may build their nests in the engine, moths may eat the upholstery, the battery probably won't work and the cooling system may be rusted. And as for those precious tires, if they aren't stored properly in a cool, dark place, they'll be deformed.

First Wash Car

First the car should be washed, the bureau said, and then waxed and thoroughly lubricated to force out any water in the bearings and joints. The chassis and underbody should be sprayed with oil.

Corrosive products of combustion can be eliminated by opening the throttle wide and switching off the ignition when the engine speed gets high, leaving the throttle open until the engine stops.

Oil that has been in the engine over 200 or 300 miles also may contain corrosive materials and should be removed while hot. Gasoline left in the fuel system may form deposits of gum to interfere with fuel pump and carburetor. The cooling system should be drained and hose connections removed to reduce rusting.

To protect tires the car should be blocked up and the tires deflated if the storage space is cool and dark. Otherwise, the tires should be stored in a cool, dark location with the tubes in them. Soapstone powder dusted on will give added protection.

Care of Battery

A battery can be stored in moist condition; however, according to experts, the chances of saving a battery more than a year are not good, the bureau said, and suggested that the battery be sold, since lead is needed for essential industries.

Wasps may be prevented from entering the engine by tying rags over the openings. The car's upholstery should be protected from both dirt and moths. Paradichlorobenzene crystals or flake naphthalene was recommended, and the car should be tightly closed and the supply renewed when the odor is no longer present.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Navy Cruisers are built in two classes, light and heavy, the latter displacing about 10,000 tons. Our navy has about an equal number of light and heavy Cruisers, the 19,000 ton Cruiser costing approximately $20,000,000. Many Cruisers are under construction and many more are needed.

To pay for these speedy and powerful ships with their heavy guns and armament we must buy War Bonds. Citizens of a large town or a given community, working in unity, could buy one of these ships for the Navy if they put at least ten percent of their income in War Bonds every pay day.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Army's fighter planes are the finest in the world and develop speeds up to 400 miles an hour. They cost approximately $100,000 each, provide fighter escorts for the huge flying fortresses, and combine speed, range, altitude and blistering fire power.

America's plane production plants are working over-time turning out thousands of these fighter planes. War Savings Bonds will help pay for them and the American people are committed to at least ten percent of their income to finance their cost in War Bonds. Every American, buying his share every pay day, will make it comparatively easy to supply our army and navy air corps with these supreme Eagles of the air.

We can and will win this war but—

We won't win this war by whining about sugar. In the days of the Texas Republic, people ate an average of 30 pounds of sugar a year; we have been eating 90 pounds a year.

Nor will we win this war by complaining about daylight savings time. Our good old daddies and mothers worked from sunup to sundown.

And we won't win this war by whimpering about automobiles and tires. Old Sam Houston never even owned a Model T—and he got along all right.

We won't win this war by repeating rumors and saying harsh things about our Allies. And we won't win this war by continually finding fault with our leaders. Under our Constitution, Franklin D. Roosevelt is and will be President for the next two and a half years and we will fall or rise with Roosevelt. Of course, we have a right to criticize things we consider wrong—but let's be sure that our criticism is constructive and not mere grumbling or nagging.

We will win this war by everybody—farmers, industry, business and workers—pulling together.

Gather Eggs Often and Keep 'em Clean

Produce infertile eggs, keep 'em clean, gather them at least three times daily, and more Texas eggs will reach the consumer, says Geo. F. McCarthy, Poultry Husbandman of A. and M. College Extension Service.

As fertile eggs tend to spoil rapidly, McCarthy suggests removing all roosters from the flock when the hatching season is over. He also warns that overcrowding in a flock will do as much harm as the outbreak of a disease, and often is a contributing cause to cordidiosis.

Management is a highly important factor in obtaining satisfactory production from a poultry flock. If the hens are not eating as they should, are pale and losing weight, and feathers are rather dry and brittle, they should be treated for intestinal parasites, McCarthy says.

Floor line ventilators in summer are one of the best things to have in a poultry house. It makes the house cooler, and a flock of chickens which are comfortable can be expected to produce. (A copy of the poultry house bulletin may be obtained from county agricultural agents).

As careless handling and packing are responsible for most breakage, McCarthy suggests packing all eggs in standard cases, with the small end pointing downward. Cover the top of the case with a pad of excelsior because it is the top layer which most often gets crushed.

Silage From Grasses & Legumes It is imperative that dairy cows should maintain production, and during a dry summer and fall an abundance of grass or legume silage will do the trick.

According to E. R. Endaly, dairymen of the A. and M. College Extension Service, there are three methods of preparing it:

(1)—Put green grass or legumes into the silo immediately after cutting, using six to eight gallons of molasses per ton. Mix the molasses with from 18 to 24 gallons of water and sprinkle the mixture on each ton as it is distributed in the silo.

(2)—After cutting, let the grass or legumes wilt or dry sufficiently to reduce the water content to about 35 to 40 percent. In effect, it should be about one-half dry enough to bale for hay, but should be dampened to the extent of a dew as it is being distributed in the silo.

(3)—Grass or legumes may be put into a silo immediately after cutting, provided it is first run through an ensilage cutter with some dry hay or bundle feed added. The green and dry feed should be mixed in equal parts by volume, which would be the equivalent of about one-third as much dry as green feed by weight. The dry feed will absorb the excess moisture in the green and permit it to get hot and ferment.

Abundant rains have made a large supply of grass, and in some cases legumes. "These should be saved if at all possible," Endaly advises.

We shall not be satisfied until the ships under our flag handle at least one-half of the maritime traffic affecting our nation.—Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman U. S. Maritime Commission.

Krauting the Surplus Cabbage

For generations people have enjoyed crisp, tart sauerkraut. More recently sauer-ruben and sauer lettuce have come into their own. The tart flavor makes these foods palatable and appetizing. The lactic acid fiber content aids digestion and because of the vitamin C content in kraut is a preventative of scurvy.

Sauerkraut is made from shredded cabbage fermented in its own brine, while sauer-ruben is manufactured in the same way from turnips. Lettuce kraut, prepared in much the same manner as sauerkraut, retains the healthful properties of lettuce with the added value of lactic acid as in cabbage and turnip kraut.

Brine in which these three vegetables are fermented is formed when salt is added to the shredded cabbage, turnips, or lettuce. In each case the salt draws the sugar from the vegetables; their bacteria cause this sugar to ferment. One of the products of this fermentation is lactic acid which gives the food its characteristic flavor and which changes these vegetables from non-acid to acid products.

Although not as familiar a food as sauerkraut, lettuce kraut is a most satisfactory product. It is mild in flavor, practically free of the "loud" odor of kraut made from cabbage and turnips, and therefore should appeal to many who cannot eat cabbage and turnip kraut. Attractive in appearance and of excellent cooking quality, lettuce kraut is also a good canned product.

Equipment necessary for making kraut includes a stone jar or keg with a capacity from one to ten gallons, shredding machine, saw cutter or simply a sharp knife, cheese cloth or other piece of material and large plate or board for covering the container, a weight heavy enough to cause the brine to rise above the cover. A tightly sealed glass jar filled with water or wet sand makes a good weight. Avoid the use of iron or lime rocks for weights; these materials will produce an undesirable brownish black brine and prevent the desirable acid from forming.

All equipment should be clean and scalded. A pure salt be used. Cheese or dairy salt is good. Use soft water for making brine when added brine is needed. When using water than can be softened by boiling, let it stand 24 hours to cool and settle. Skim off the top and pour off the water without stirring the sediment from the bottom.

Mature sound heads of cabbage should be selected, late cabbage is best. To prepare the cabbage, remove all damaged or dirty leaves; then quarter the heads and slice off the core section. Remember that washing the cabbage too thoroughly removes lactic acid bacteria needed for fermentation. Weigh out five pounds of cabbage and two ounces of salt. Shred the cabbage, exposing it to the air as little as is possible, as this reduces the amount of vitamin C, in the fermented product and also causes loss of color, texture and flavor. Sprinkle the cabbage with the two ounces of salt, bearing in mind that too much salt prevents fermentation of the product, and uneven distribution may cause red streaks in the brined product. Proceed with a layer of cabbage, sprinkled with salt until the container is almost filled. Place uneven pieces of cabbage and leaves on top. Then cover with cheesecloth and then the plate or board, then place weight on top, and set aside. The best temperature for fermentation is between 75 and 85 degrees F., and this will require from 10 days to 3 weeks. Too low temperature retards fermentation and too high may cause roty brine and spoilage of the product. Keep under the brine. A scum will form on the top of the brine in a day or two, this should be carefully skimmed off each day as it tends to destroy the acidity, break down the vegetable, and weaken the acid content. The cloth covering the kraut should be washed and boiled each day during fermentation. When fermentation is complete bubbles cease to rise to the top and the liquid settles. The kraut is then ready to store.

Brining is marked by an increased crispness, a greater degree of translucency, and a characteristic acid flavor. It should be fairly firm in texture, without being tough, and it must never be mushy. The flavor indicative of a properly fermented product is never bitter, sweet or rancid. The perfectly cured product is uniform in color without the appearance of any whitish or opaque portions. In color, the kraut should be a light straw or golden, rather than white or dark yellow and should be free from black and brown spots.

Kraut may be stored by pouring a layer of hot paraffin over the surface of the brined kraut to seal it. When the paraffin seal is broken the kraut should be used in a short time. Kraut will keep one or two years if the seal is not broken.

To can kraut, pack the completely brined kraut into glass jars or tin cans, before sealing tight, exhaust eight minutes in water bath. Then seal and cool, quickly, and store in a cool well ventilated place. If cool storage is not available, after exhausting and sealing process pint jars and number two cans for 10 minutes and quart jars and number three cans for 15 minutes, in water bath.

A ROUGH IDEA

Of how much money a billion dollars is may be obtained from Bill Cooke's paragraphing is his "Rambling" column of the Bookplate Reporter. Says he:

If a person started his own business in the year 1 A.D., with a billion dollars capital, and if he managed his business so poorly that he lost $1,000 each day, at the present time he would still have enough capital left out of his original billion to continue in business, still losing $1,000 a day, for almost an additional 800 years — or until the year 2739 A. D. If you don't believe it, try it sometimes.

LARGE DEMAND FOR TOMATOES FORECAST

Civilians will have difficulty in buying processed tomatoes over the grocery counters this fall and winter, forecasts Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning of the A. and M. College Extension Service. An abundant crop in Texas is indicated, but advance orders from the Quartermaster General's department of the United States Army will absorb practically all of the 100 million cases of tomatoes processed in the nation this season.

In view of this, Miss Camp says, "every patriotic housewife, institutional manager and dietitian; every school lunch room supervisor, and restaurant and hotel dining room manager should collect and get in readiness immediately every available glass and second-hand tin container, and see that sealing supplies for these are on hand. They should obtain the latest approved recipes, improvise water bath containers, and supply themselves with some kind of efficient juice and puree-making equipment so that as many persons as possible may have tomatoes 'some way every day,' unless citrus, melons, raw cabbage or strawberries are available as substitutes."

Miss Camp suggests that farm housewives and other buyers should pool their needs under the neighborhood, community and county agricultural Victory leaders, interview local wholesale and retail vegetable distributors and contract with them to supply the high quality tomatoes they will need in addition to what their own gardens will produce.

Ripe or green tomatoes are a rich and cheap source of vitamin C which prevents bleeding gums, loose teeth, sore joints, and loss of appetite and weight. Ripe tomatoes have abundant vitamin A which guards against "dry eye" and night blindness.

Eden, Texas, — District Attorney, O. C. Fisher of San Antonio, candidate for Congress, in a patriotic Memorial day address recently paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson's ill-fated vision of a permanent peace and cautioned that to gain a full victory in this war the peace to follow must also be won.

"We can outlaw war," he said, "only when we effectively outlaw the men who plan and provoke war."

The speaker warned that the humanity of the future must be in some manner guarded by a world police force so strong that no combination of international gangsters can plunder and murder anew, sticking its head in the sand.

Fisher said we can keep faith with the memory of the heroic dead by resolving that after this war is won we will win the battle at the peace table, as well.

"Wilson's ideal of a world free from the agony and fear of recurring war," he reminded, "was blocked by a small group of isolationists in Congress who adhered to the old fallacy that the ostrich can protect itself from violence by sticking its head in the sand."

"We won the last war but we lost the peace," the speaker told a large audience gathered at the Eden cemetery, where he was the principal speaker.

DOCTOR FORGETS PATIENT; LOCKS HIM UP IN OFFICE

COLUMBUS, O. — Patrolman C. D. Miller heard a beating from the inside of a door to a downtown establishment late in the evening.

He forced the door and the imprisoned man, who gave his name as Igotius Raines, 45, Negro, told the officer that he was a patient of a doctor at the establishment.

The doctor and his assistant forgot that Raines was in consultation room when they locked up for the night and went home.

Rayon, wool and cotton largely have replaced the use of silk in the manufacture of fine flags, said Hugh J. Campbell, of Dallas owner of a flag business. "It's a good thing, too," declared Campbell, "for rayon, wool and cotton all will outlast silk and we don't have to depend upon Japan for our patriotic banners."

NEWSPAPERS CAN'T WIN WAR SAYS DRAFT BOARD

Matador, Texas. — Newspapers are not important to the war effort according to a ruling at Austin by the state head-quarters for selective service.

The Motley County draft board asked for suggestion and advice on classification of 41-year-old Douglas Meador, editor and publisher of the Matador Tribune, only publication in Motley County.

Reply to R. Stapleton, chairman of the Motley County board, and signed by Capt. George S. Nalle, Q. M. C., said: "This registrant has no grounds for occupational deferment. Unfortunately, we cannot win the war with newspapers and he would be worth infinitely more to his country looking down the sighting end of a gun barrel."

Meador said he had made no request for deferment.

ALLOWING SOLDIERS TO VOTE IS ILLEG

Those who assert persons employed in the armed forces of the United States are qualified voters and may legally vote in the primaries primaries should re-examine the matter, W. S. Bramlett, Dallas attorney, said Saturday, commenting on State Democratic Chairman F. B. Germany's holding that soldiers and sailors may participate in the Democratic primaries.

"The laws of this state provide that soldiers, sailors and seamen employed in the service of the Army or Navy shall not be allowed to vote in this state," Bramlett said.

"The law that disqualifies soldiers and sailors has a fundamentally deep-seated background relating to the preservation of our representative form of government and of the personal liberties and freedom established and intended to be preserved thereby. In these times we should not forget the lessons of history touching the basic concepts of our governmental system."

Suppression or repression of criticism serves as a shield for the protection and continuance of incompetence and dishonesty.—Geo. Creel, World War U. S. Director of Information and Censorship.

Mr. Clifton's special message to the voters appears on another page of today's issue of the Review.

WAR BOARD URGES USE OF ENRICHED FLOUR

A plea for every family in the state of Texas to use only enriched flour and bread in the interest of war-time health needs, was issued today by B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA War Board.

Flour which is plainly marked "enriched," can now be obtained in practically all retail stores throughout the state, it was pointed out. This enriched flour contains thiamin in chloride (vitamin B-1), riboflavin (vitamin G), niacin (a pellagra-preventing vitamin substance) and iron. These vitamins and minerals are an essential part of any well balanced diet. Enriched flour also may contain added calcium and vitamin D.

Flour which has been enriched by adding vitamins and minerals after milling, closely resembles ordinary white flour in taste and color. Other enriched flour, produced under a new milling process which retains more of the vitamins and mineral content of whole grain wheat, may be a light cream color.

"USDA War Boards, Nutrition Committees, and cooperating agencies, especially throughout the South, are making a concentrated effort to get all white flour and bread enriched as soon as possible," Vance said. "The quickest way to get enrichment of flour and bread sold in Texas is for consumers to insist on receiving products plainly marked 'enriched'."

"Nutritionists and other interested persons have long realized the need for addition of vitamins and minerals to white flour products. This need has become more and more urgent, however, as increasing demands are made upon the strength of all our people," Vance said.

Enriched flour has been listed as a Blue Stamp Food under the Agricultural Marketing Administration's food stamp program since August, 1941. Whole-wheat flour, also containing essential vitamins and minerals, likewise can be purchased with either blue or orange food stamps. The AMA also furnishes large quantities of enriched flour for use in Community School Lunch Programs and for distribution to needy families in areas where the Food Stamp Program is not operating.

SHEEP SHEARING ADVICE

Secretary Wickard asks Texas, New Mexico and California sheepraisers to make a slight change in their shearing practice by leaving one-quarter to one inch of wool on the pelts of lambs and yearlings to be sold for slaughter. These pelts will be made into flying suits for our air forces. Those ranchmen who have shorn their flocks early should sell them when the wool again has grown an inch or less. Tanning plants have been advised to co-operate with the Army. The ceiling on pelts has been raised considerably.

AT PENNEY'S

JUNE WHITE EVENT

STARTS THURSDAY

We Welcomed the Establishment of Price Ceiling. For we saw our opportunity to prove how low Penney prices have always been. When shortage forced up the cost of all kinds of merchandise, we kept our selling prices down as long as we could.

And since our prices had steadfastly withstood the general price rise, our ceiling prices are set at levels that make Penney's, now, more than ever, a place for thrifty people to shop. And by thrifty people we mean everybody!
