SEVEN DEATHS REPORTED IN TEXAS COLD WAVE

Thousands Of Cattle Freeze To Death

Great Suffering Reported Among Needy In State From Cold

(By Associated Press)

Seven persons lost their lives, thousands of cattle were frozen to death, vegetable crops damaged south to the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and there was great suffering among the needy Tuesday by the severest cold wave since February, 1933.

The latest victim, Mrs. Modesta Magellan, 80, was found dead on a sidewalk near her Laredo home. A coroner attributed her death to exposure.

A High Island business man said he counted 644 dead cattle in a five mile stretch along the beach Monday. Tuesday they were strewn along the beach frozen and close enough together to be walked upon. Cattle farther north suffered likewise.

Temperature at Brownsville reached twenty-six. Vegetable crop damage was believed to have occurred.

Farmers over the state expected a heavy crop damage.

A "MORBIDLY CURIOUS" LAWMAKER

Nothing but "morbidity" impelled him to sit in the house of representatives chamber in Washington and listen to another member confess the cowboy congressman, F. L. Gussaway of Oklahoma. Here he is, boots, big hat and all, at his desk in the capital ready to tell what he thinks of the "futility of congress." (Associated Press Photo).

Railway Officials Confer With Local C.O.C. Committee

A commitment that if "sufficient evidence that such railway can and will be built," this organization will make every effort to see that you are provided with right of way in Howard county and satisfactory division terminal in Big Spring" was furnished by the Chamber of Commerce Monday to Ed Kennedy and W. T. Nelson, officials of the Corpus Christi, San Angelo and Roswell railway.

Kennedy, a director of the proposed road, and Nelson, secretary, conferred Monday afternoon with a chamber of commerce committee.

The proposed road, according to Kennedy, who has been working on the project for the past four years, would be approximately 600 miles long and would furnish a shorter route to deep water for products of this region.

Kennedy said the contemplated route would shorten the distance to port approximately 200 miles from this point.

It would run from Corpus Christi over the Texas-Mexico line to San Diego and thence northward to San Angelo, Big Spring and Roswell, New Mexico. Most of the line would be new construction.

"The people of West Texas are anxious for a road of this sort because it will afford direct shipment to port at Corpus Christi where new industries are springing up to care for products produced in this region," said Kennedy. He added that the route would offer shorter, quicker service with cheaper freight rates. "Moreover," he added, "it would serve many places not now touched by railroads."

Kennedy has been prominently identified with development of three other lines which he said are now under management of trunk lines and paying dividends.

The chamber resolution was to the effect "that within 2 years of this date if you are able to produce sufficient evidence that such railway can and will be built, this organization will make every effort to see that you are provided with right of way in Howard county and satisfactory division terminal in the city of Big Spring."

Kidnap Ladder Brought Into Evidence Today

FLEMINGTON, N. J., (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann Tuesday was identified for the second time as the man seen lurking near the Lindbergh home before kidnaping and murder of baby Charles A. Lindbergh.

Millard Whited, logger of Sourland country surrounding the Lindbergh estate, testified he saw Hauptmann in the vicinity on Feb. 18, 1932 and again between Feb. 25 and 27.

The Lindbergh baby was stolen March 1.

Before Whited's identification the state succeeded in getting the kidnap ladder into evidence. The defense brought out that a plaster cast had been made of a footprint which it was claimed would show Hauptmann was not the man who collected $50,000 ransom in Straymond's cemetery, April 2, 1932.

Edward J. Kelly, chief defense counsel, elicited information about the cast in renewed cross-examination of Federal Agent Thomas H. Sisk.

Sisk explained "there is no positive connection between that and the man who took the ransom."

"Mrs. Elsie Whitley, wife of the Lindbergh butler, was recalled to confirm finding of a thumbprint by Betty Gow near the Lindbergh home and to say lights were on in the house on the night of the kidnaping."

Search Immediately Concentrated At Detroit And Resort In Michigan

DETROIT (AP)—Trail of Alvin Karpis and companion, Harry Campbell Tuesday led into Michigan with discovery of an automobile in which it was believed they fled through Ohio Monday night.

Search was immediately concentrated here and at an Lake Erie resort near Monroe, Mich.

The car belonged to Dr. H. H. Hunsicker, Philadelphia, whom two men stopped near Quakertown, Penn., at midnight Sunday and forced him to drive west.

Senate Passes Connally Bill

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate Tuesday passed the Connally bill prohibiting transportation of "contraband" oil in interstate commerce.

The measure now goes to the House.

Ennis Man Gets Labor Position

AUSTIN, (AP)—Governor James V. Allred Monday appointed Fred E. Nichol, 38, of Ennis, as State Labor Commissioner. Nichol, who served overseas 19 months during the World War, has been a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for 21 years.

Resolution Sent Allred By Solons

AUSTIN, (AP)—The legislature Tuesday sent Governor Allred a concurrent resolution making effective immediately the law passed at the last special session remitting penalties and interest on delinquent taxes.

The resolution would authorize collectors to accept delinquent taxes without penalties and interest.

Rev. Bickley Conducting Missionary Institute

Rev. C. A. Bickley, conference missionary secretary, left Tuesday morning for Abilene, where he will join Dr. Rawls of Nashville, Tenn., to conduct a missionary institute in this conference. The itinerary calls for institutes at Abilene on Tuesday, Haskell on Wednesday, Thursday at Sweetwater and Friday in Lubbock.

COMMISSION MEETING

The city commission will meet this evening at 7:30 p. m. in regular weekly session.

WASHINGTON

Rival—

Anti-union industrialists are quietly laying the groundwork for a national association of company unions designed to function in opposition to the American Federation of Labor. There would be a president who can make as much noise as William Green.

This subject wasn't on the agenda when the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce met jointly some weeks ago at White Sulphur Springs but you can get safety from the national organization.

Missionary work in the steel industry is in the hands of Arthur H. Young, vice-president of U. S. Steel in charge of personnel. Young ran Industrial Relations Counselors, Inc., a Rockefeller organization, for some years. He came up from the ranks, starting life as a roll-hand, leverman and timekeeper in Illinois and Colorado plants.

Keeping the prospects in mind, the activities of Coordinator Richard B. Bickley and Senator Wagner will be better understood.

Scouters From 30 Surrounding Towns Expected For Confab

Scouters from the corners of the Buffalo Trails council which embraces more than 30 towns in this area, were arriving here Tuesday afternoon for the annual council meeting to be held from the Sotles hotel.

Business sessions will be held in the afternoon with divisions for troop committees, scouters and assistants, and scout officials. A banquet will be held from the ballroom beginning at 6:30 p. m.

James P. Fitch, regional executive is, to be here for the affair.

Strikes—

Recently this column reported that Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Steamfitters and Helpers, was essaying the role of peacemaker in the bitter row raging in the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L.

In the current issue of the official magazine of his union, Tobin has this to say:

"There is a serious division within the National Building Trades but it should not branch out into the Local Building Trades. In other words, local building trades groups in cities and towns should not be made to suffer because of misunderstandings existing in the National Building Trades Department. Building trades employes have been suffering from unemployment for several years and now that things begin to look a little better it would not only be an injustice but absolute cruelty to have any such thing as a dispute obtaining in the national body interfere with local groups of building trades employes. We can not and will not stand for a stoppage of work because of this dispute."

Predicts Quick Adoption Of Huge Public Works Bill

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Quick House adoption for the $1,580,000,000 public works bill with authority for the President to administer all funds, was predicted by Speaker Byrnes after a White House conference Tuesday.

Body Of William Weiss Recovered

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The body of William Weiss, kidnaped and slain night life character, was recovered Tuesday from Neshaminy Creek, northeast of Philadelphia.

The body, reputed to be a victim of Robert Maif's notorious "Tri State gang" was found near a spot in which authorities were directed Monday by a member of the band.

Sweetwater Men Inspect Hospital

SWEETWATER—A group of men, including Dr. A. H. Fortner, R. M. Simmons and Sam H. Bolwell, spent Sunday in Big Spring where they went in interest of inspecting a hospital.

The trip was made in view of making plans for the erection of a $76,000 hospital in Sweetwater, which is to be partially financed by the PWA program. Some $21,000 is to be received from a government grant.

Sweetwater citizens voted bonds January 18, overwhelmingly favoring the issue four to one.

Selection of the site is underway but at present no definite announcements have been made. The site, which is to be away from the downtown section, is to be donated for the two-story 30-room structure.

French Forces Sent To Crush Tribal Warfare

PARIS (AP)—French forces, including airplanes, were ordered to the southwest frontier of French Somaliland Tuesday to crush the tribal war which cost the lives of ninety-seven members of a French colonial administration.

The action followed the battle on January 18th, in which M. Bernard, French chief of the Fobad region, sixteen native soldiers and eighty natives were slain in Lake Abbe region.

Bernard and his men had gone to investigate a battle reported raging between rival tribes.

The natives overwhelmed his men and a massacre ensued.

Knights Of Pythias To Confer Degrees

Work in the rank of esquire and other important business is on docket for Knights of Pythias this evening at the Woodman Hall. Officials said that character of the business demanded attendance of every knight. Visitors were invited to attend.

Russian Cossacks Entertain Small But Appreciative Audience Monday

To deal in a description of the Don Cossack Russian male chorus which appeared in the Municipal Auditorium Monday evening with anything but superlatives would be harsh.

The chorus, under the direction of Serge Jaroff, was all that critics had said—and more.

Only one thing marred the entire performance, and that was a pitifully small crowd. The cold must have kept many away, but lack of appreciation for the finer arts kept more from coming.

Plead Guilty In 70th Court To Charges Of Theft; To Run Concurrently

L. L. Harrison and C. W. Rogers were Tuesday morning sentenced to serve two years each on three counts of theft.

They pleaded guilty to the charges in 70th district court, witnesses testifying were Deputy Sheriff Andrew Merrick, G. L. Welsby, who had a car stolen, J. P. Anderson who had a horse stolen, Dee Davis, who also lost a car and E. Cato, deputy sheriff at Mount Pleasant.

The latter presented the most damaging testimony in telling that he had arrested the pair in possession with the Davis car.

In passing sentence, Judge Charles Klapproth ruled the sentences should run concurrently. By reason that there was more than one count against each of the defendants they were not eligible to a suspended sentence. Mount Pleasant officers hold a warrant for their arrest.

Elbert Gray, negro, charged with assault with intent to murder, Tuesday served as his own counsel. He testified that he and C. M. Gray, against whom he is alleged to have committed the offense, were arguing about his right to vote in an organized labor election. He said C. M. Gray struck him in the mouth and in turn he delivered a blow to C. M. Gray's head with a sledge hammer handle.

C. M. Gray, car inspector for the Texas and Pacific Railway company, said that he was struck without warning with an iron pin about 12 inches long and 1 5/8 inches in diameter. As he hit the floor, he said he recovered from impact of the blow and saw a negro running.

The negro was scheduled to argue his own case before a jury shortly after noon Tuesday. District Attorney Cecil C. Collings will close for the state.

In the case of H. Clay Read, et al vs C. E. Thomas, et al, resulted in an instructed verdict against the plaintiff and for the defendants. The court ruled that charges of plaintiff asked a contract be rescinded, had not been established.

A. J. Redmond was to go to trial Tuesday afternoon on a charge of burglary.

Mrs. Meskimen Laid To Rest

Well Known Resident Succumbed Here Monday Afternoon

Funeral services for Mrs. H. S. Meskimen, who died at 3:17 p. m. Monday at the family home, 601 Ayford street, were held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 from the Rev. S. J. Shettleworth, pastor of the First Christian church, in charge. Interment followed in the I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Mrs. Meskimen, who has been in declining health for several years, suffered a paralytic stroke Thursday afternoon at her home, from which she failed to rally. She was 63 years of age at the time of death, having been born in Alabama on April 7, 1871.

Resident 30 Years

Deceased had been a resident of Howard county for thirty years. She was a member of the First Christian church of this city, with which organization she had been active and prominently identified until her health failed. She was also a member of the Rebekah lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Meskimen were married in 1890. Four children were born to this union, three sons and one daughter, all of whom were at the bedside when death came. They were Clarence Meskimen, Big Spring; E. H. Meskimen, Colorado; and Freeman H. Meskimen of Pampa; and Mrs. W. A. Seibert of Hollywood, California.

The following served as pall bearers: Active—A. D. Wimberly, Fred Wasson, Clarence Miller, J. I. Johnson, J. R. Creath, Frank Lovelace, Clyde McGinnis, John Bates, Loyd—E. G. Towler, R. E. Loyd, W. E. Carrick, A. E. Dyer, W. M. Delinger, Sol Leatherwood, Marvin Wood, Lee Counts, E. E.

Rogers To Eat Chili As Guest Of Allred

AUSTIN—Will Rogers is going to be embarrassed if the hasn't meant all the things he has said about liking chili.

Governor Allred, who will entertain Rogers Tuesday, said Monday Rogers would be fed chili in the executive mansion.

Rogers is to speak at a benefit performance here for crippled children.

Sheriff's Gun Selection Back From Long Trip

Part of Sheriff Jess Slaughter's prized collection of guns has come back from another long journey.

In their service careers many of the firelocks were carried over the southwest on the hips of bad men.

Recently they have been carried over the R. & R. Theatre circuit as part of an advertising scheme for a Jesse James show.

The collection includes a heavy, long barrel pistol christened "Indian Killer," an old time black jack, a handy sawed-off shot gun, a flint rock pistol, a cap and ball pistol, as well as a number of other interesting makes of pistols common to the pioneer days of this section.

Weather Holds Up Building Of Slaughter House

Cold weather has slowed work of installing a slaughter house and cooling unit at the Samuel Greer feeding yard east of here.

The project was to have been completed by Saturday of this week according to original plans.

S. P. Jones, who holds the building unit contract, an Eiton Taylor, who holds the cooling unit contract, returned Monday from a trip to Dallas where they bought refrigerating machinery and insulation materials.

The cooling unit will consist of a Frigidaire unit, the latest type of flowing cold mechanism. Instead of air circulating through coils, it will be blown by fans. One coil will be located in a chilling chamber and the other in a storage vault. The cooling unit will be 12 feet by 18 feet in an accommodate approximately 20 carcasses.

The abattoir is to be glassed in to prevent flies and dust from contaminating meats. The improvements will become a part of Greer's large feeding pens and barn near the stockyards.

Greer, a well known Glascock county rancher, is going to feed out his own cattle and offer them on the market here. At the present time he has a large number of head on feed in the pens.

C-C Officials Inspect Huge Sign Near City

Mrs. Gordon Phillips, acting manager, and other officials of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday inspected the huge sign which has been erected 2 miles north of Big Spring.

The sign, which is equipped with reflectors, gives a concise, graphic description of Big Spring and its commercial and recreational advantages.

Barackman To Be Back In Ring

Ken Gaston, the youthful grappler who ranks high in the middleweight class, will be into Merwin Barackman tonight in the main go at the Big Spring Athletic club.

Dutch Aultman, the tough German, will meet Bloney Crane of Abilene in the semi-final. Aultman is a lot tougher than the majority of fans figure, but Crane has improved so rapidly that he can give any of the boys a wild scrap.

During the nine years he has been at the helm here, Western Maryland teams have won 61 games, tied 7, and lost 13—something more than an achievement for a "small" school traveling in comparatively big-time company.

FOOD SPOILS IN WINTER AS WELL AS IN SUMMER

Too many people forget their food preservation problems in winter time, apparently expecting Mother Nature to take care of them—but she won't. Food spoils in winter just as it does in summer, sometimes more rapidly because of sharp changes in temperature from cold to exceedingly warm in a short space of time, before steps can be taken to prevent food decay.

With electric refrigeration, temperature changes are met automatically and instantly by corresponding increases in the amount of refrigeration provided so that food temperatures are at all times maintained at the proper level—below fifty degrees.

"POLITICAL PARSONS"

The prohibition cause owes much to the preachers. In the days when the country was going dry by towns, counties and states, the ministers from their pulpits fearlessly presented the issue to their congregations, often at the expense of their popularity with individual members of their church, or with those who contributed to its financial support, sometimes at the cost of their positions.

One of the impressive incidents at the National W.C.T.U. convention at Seattle occurred at the time when a large company of ministers of the city sat upon the platform and listened to one of their number, chosen as their spokesman, plead with his fellow preachers everywhere to throw themselves into the breach and fight over again the prohibition battle from the vantage point of their pulpits. The speaker was a veritable Boanerges (son of thunder) and he did not mince words in expressing his opinion of those of his brethren who hesitated to speak courageously on this controversial question. He closed his eloquent and fervent appeal, with the statement that he believed the second great battle for prohibition would be fought from the pulpits of the nation.

"Political parsons" is a term of ridicule that has been applied by the wets to those ministers who have seen fit to speak the truth fearlessly. William Judson Hampton, writing in Zion's Herald recently, has used it as the title of an enlightening article. He calls attention to the great prophets and priests who in ages past spoke out bravely against the social and political evils of their day. At the funeral of John Knox the Earl of Morison is reported to have said, "He never feared the face of man." Knox himself once said, "I have learned to call wickedness by its own terms—a fig, fig; a spade, a spade." Coming down to our own country, reference is made to Henry Ward Beecher, whose old Plymouth Church pulpit resounded with oratory against slavery, the climax being reached on a certain Sunday when there was a sale of a little black girl from his pulpit. Mr. Beecher giving a description of what such a sale of a human being meant.

There is nothing the wets more desire than to silence the preachers, and prevent the truth from being thundered from a thousand pulpits. Well do they know that if every preacher in this land were on fire for the destruction of the liquor traffic, legal and illegal, the church membership would soon become so aroused that no combination of gangsters and corrupt politicians could stand against them.

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—A football player who has never had his suit soiled, who has never practiced with his team and who is listed as a center but has never played the position, still is figured as an important cog in next year's Washington State college grid machine.

He is Mel Johansen, a specialist at field goal kicking. He is the ace that Coach "Babe" Hollingbery holds on the bench to rush into the game if opportunity offers for a field goal attempt, or if a critical try-for-point has to be negotiated.

Sports All Year 'Round Is Schedule At Oxford

OXFORD, (AP)—The seasonal sports depression that hits American schools between Thanksgiving and the start of the basketball campaign has no parallel here at Oxford, where nine major and 15 minor sports are recognized.

The track season, restricted to warm weather in America, begins in October and ends only with the Oxford-Cambridge meet in March. There is no indoor track and field house and wet or cold weather is no drawback.

Rowing follows much the same schedule, the husky oarsmen baring their flanks to winter's blasts right through until June.

Other sports which are played almost without let-up and each recognized by the "Blue" committee include soccer and rugby football, field hockey, tennis, court tennis, rackets, ice hockey, boxing, swimming, yachting, polo, golf, rifle shooting, lacrosse, chess and billiards. Cricket is confined to the warm months.

Texas Tech Is Named Government Depository Library By Geo. Mahon

WASHINGTON (Sp.)—The announcement has been made from the office of George Mahon, Congressman of the 19th District, that Texas Technological College at Lubbock had been named as the Government Depository Library for his district.

After contacting the government printing office, Mr. Mahon found that he was entitled to designate one school in his district to serve as a depository for all government documents and official publications.

He never has run signals or engaged in scrimmage. He turned out daily for practice—all by himself—with only a center to toss the ball back, and a lad to "set" it during the last season.

Johansen helped Washington State score important points on several occasions the last two years, but once he made his try he was rushed right back to the bench.

How a nation-wide telephone network is organized

The Bell System is big... but its organization is not complex.

The A. T. & T. is parent company, service and research organization, and financial headquarters of the System. It owns Western Electric and jointly with Western, owns Bell Laboratories. Also, it owns more than 90 per cent of the voting stock of the 24 associated companies (of which the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is one.) It operates the long distance trunk lines linking the territories of these companies.

Its staff carries on for these 24 associated companies an intensive study to find better, more economical methods of giving good telephone service.

Western Electric buys supplies for the System, and turns out for it the 100,000 different parts that go into the telephone plant. Associated companies are not required to buy from Western... but experience has led all to do so, for two reasons: (1) Because Western Electric parts have the advantage of uniformity. They fit equally well into the telephone system anywhere. (2) Western prices are about a fourth below the prices for similar equipment in the competitive market.

Bell Laboratories is a non-profit corporation, whose 4,000 workers constantly carry on a great program of scientific research to find better and cheaper ways to give your telephone service.

Each part of the Bell System exists because the function it performs is essential to the job of giving good telephone service at fair cost to you.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

CHAPTER 44 THE FORMULA

"I don't know how my husband knew about Osborne and me," Mrs. Gowland went on, "unless he may have found a letter which came for me after—after Jack went away. Perhaps he had been watching us all the time."

By a desperate effort she managed to moisten her lips. "My husband went up to London—went up by the train. He was there for two days and when he came back he told me what he had done. At first I didn't believe him, but it was true—oh, my God, it was quite true! I thought he would kill me too."

"Sometime—once more she buried her face and sobbed brokenly—"sometimes I wish he had."

"You poor soul!" Molly bent over her and softly touched her hair. "I am so terribly sorry for you. I'm dreadful to think what you must have been through."

With an impulsive gesture Mrs. Gowland caught hold of her hands. "Oh, you're good—I don't know who you are, but you're good and kind. No one has ever been kind to me—except him."

"Understand, too," I said, "and I don't blame you in the least. I am only grateful to you for telling us the truth now."

Jerry stepped forward. "You have cleared up one great injustice, Mrs. Gowland," he said quietly, "but there's someone else you've wronged besides Mr. Trench."

She stared up at him. "Someone else?" she whispered. "There were some papers which belong to Miss O'Brien in Osborne's safe. He stole them from her rather than when he was in America. They were taken out of the house on the night that he was murdered."

"Papers?" She sat up with a quick gasp. "Yes—there were papers—a whole packet of them. He took them away to make it look like a robbery."

"What did he do with them?" Jerry stepped out the question like a pistol shot.

"He brought them back here to show me. There was blood on them—Jack's blood. He wanted me to see it."

She rose unsteadily, holding on to the back of the chair. "They're over there, in the bottom drawer of the big chest. He used to take them out every night and look at them. He was mad, I tell you, mad—mad."

Crossing the room in a couple of swift strides, Jerry gave an ineffectual tug at the two handles. "It's locked," he exclaimed.

"Where's the key?" She moved slowly towards the sofa, turning back the blanket, bent down over the stiff, sprawling object beneath.

"Here it is," she said. We watched breathlessly while Jerry wrenched open the drawer. For a moment he knelt there, fumbling amongst its contents; then, suddenly jumping to his feet, he swung round towards us.

In his hand was a loosely wrapped brown paper packet. "Take a look through these, Molly," he said quietly.

He slipped off the covering as he spoke, and half a dozen stained and crumpled documents tumbled out on to the table. The largest and most conspicuous of them consisted of two sheets of blue paper fastened together by a brass clip and with a quick movement Molly snatched it up from amongst the others.

"This is it! This is the formula! Father described it to me. He said—"

A low, started cry rang out through the room, and we all three turned sharply towards the sofa. Mrs. Gowland was standing there, pale and rigid—one hand stretched out towards the open window.

"A face—" she gasped, "out there in the bushes! Look—look!"

I span round in a flash, but I was just too late. There was a squiver of branches, followed by a scuffling rush amongst the undergrowth, and at the same moment Jerry fired. In the low-ceilinged room the noise of the report was deafening.

"Did you see him, Nick?" It was that swine from the Milan. Springing towards the hearth, I grabbed up Gowland's gun and jerked open the breech. There was an unused cartridge in the left barrel.

"Are you sure?" I demanded. "Quite. I'd know him again anywhere."

I stared out into the shrubbery. "Pity you missed him," I said. "He is off now to tell the others. We shall have the whole gang here in a minute."

"Looks that way," Jerry glanced round calmly, and then walking up to the table, stuffed the remaining papers into his pocket. "Only one thing to do," he continued. "We must make a run for the boat and trust to luck."

Molly stepped forward. "Can't we take Mrs. Gowland with us?" The white-faced woman shook her head.

"I shall stay here," she said stoically. "Jerry held out the still smoking revolver. "You take this, Nick and give me the gun. It's no use to you with that shoulder of yours." He flung open the door. "Come along, children—time we were off."

With Molly between us, we hurried along the dark passage and out into the narrow porch. It was only a short distance to the beginning of the path and, clicking forward the catch of his gun, Jerry, who had paused one moment for a quick look up and down, led the way forward across the gravel.

If I live to be a hundred I shall never forget that stretch of moonlit path, or our stumbling run through the muddy and silent farmyard.

All my senses were keyed up to their highest pitch by the deadly first because I know the path. Keep an eye behind you, Nick and if you see any trouble coming sing out at once.

Ten or twelve yards in the rear, and with frequent backward glances over my shoulder, I followed

At last the truth was out—at least the black cloud which had hung over me so long was shattered and dispersed. I was free now—free to look the world in the face—free to marry Molly and take up my life and work where it had been broken off.

The thought sang through my mind like music, and the shrieking of the wind as it whistled across the desolate marsh made a brave and fitting accompaniment.

"We can't rush the last bit—not in this light," Jerry had pulled up again in front of the stile. "I'll go them along the uneven track I had a haunting feeling that at any moment half a dozen figures might come bursting through the hedge in hot-foot pursuit, but in the faint moonlight that filtered down through a veil of driving cloud, the long line of black bushes remained silent and unbroken.

All the same I was thankful enough when I at last scrambled up the gorse-clad slope and found myself looking down on the friendly little Seagull as she lay bobbing about at her anchor.

With the wind blowing strongly against the incoming tide the peaceful-looking estuary we had left now presented a very different appearance. What met my eyes was a tossing sea of broken water stretching away to the entrance, where a long, curving swell of white-capped breakers smashed suddenly against the half-submerged bar.

It was not too encouraging a prospect, and with an uneasy doubt as to how long it would be before we could get away, I hurried down to the dinghy, in which Molly and Jimmy had already taken their places.

"What do you make of it, Jerry?" I asked. "Not too bad," was the reply. "We can't start just yet, but there'll be plenty of water in another hour."

He jerked his head towards the boat. "Tumble in and I'll shove her off. We can get as far as the Seagull, at any rate."

Read The Herald Want Ads

Wagner and organized labor continued the contrary that existing laws limit labor activities already without tacking on further restrictions. Richberg's proposal—if enacted—might lead to court decisions that strikes and picketing are illegal and thus deprive labor of its only effective weapons.

The big question is where FDR stands on this issue. Under the present setup any piece of legislation that wants White House endorsement must theoretically bear Richberg's K—lack of White House endorsement killed the previous Wagner bill along the same lines. Industrial opposition to the Wagner proposal will be minimized if the Richberg reservation is included—which indicates that labor apprehensions have some foundations. Betting is that the President will continue to back his coordinator.

Tactics

Business and the unions are jockeying for position in other directions as their major contest approaches.

Labor will probably soon be offered a heavily sugared but potent pill. The sugar will be recognition of the principle of majority rule—the unions' primary objective at the moment. The pill will be something very like the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes—which would sharply curtail the right to strike. This proposal will have the private backing of many industrial leaders—who would be glad to concede majority rule under those conditions. It's a smooth dose but the chances are that labor will see through the coating.

Meanwhile labor is pushing a slick idea of its own. If it can induce the Steel Labor Board to order abandonment of employe representation under company auspices in the Carnegie Steel plants—which the Amalgamated contends is a travesty on collective bargaining—a company union will be on the spot. If such an order is issued it will of course be contested in the courts. Labor leaders know that but have decided the only way they can get a showdown on this company union business is to force one.

Emasculated

Wide circulation of the Raskob letter showing the DuPont origin of the American Liberty League has badly handicapped that organization. Its opinions on budget and other matters seem to have no weight on Congress.

Senator Nye has pumped shrapnel into the DuPonts in his demand for further investigation of munitions activities here and abroad. While Nye makes no headway in the move to nationalize munitions manufacture, he certainly has put a crimp in the Liberty League.

Adjustments

The Senate hasn't much to do while waiting for bills from the House. It dragged along on the world court debate for lack of something more important. By adjourning over it can mark time. The House has the big appropriation bills to put through, besides relief and social security measures.

The Securities Commission and other agencies too sharply pruned by the House are counting on more generous treatment by the Senate. The House often cuts over deep, knowing that the Senate will add a lot of trimmings, and then in conference they strike a happy balance.

Ponies

In connection with the anti-crime drive race track officials very quietly are spurring the Department of Justice on to war against bookmakers.

The bookies have been raising hob with the profits of the tracks. Last year the Chicago tracks were in the red despite the World's Fair and Jockey Club officials attributed it to the fact that thousands of hand books were operating in the Loop and elsewhere.

Running down and arresting bookies is, of course, a function for local police and authorities. What the track owners want the Department of Justice to do is break up the wire service which furnish bookies all over the country with their instant information. These services run in interstate commerce.

Repeat

There has been talk lately about the possibility that John Nance Garner might be replaced on the Democratic ticket in 1936.

This rumor has been inspired deliberately by some of the Junior Brain Trusters. They reason that although Garner has gone along gallantly with President Roosevelt he is NOT in private sympathy with many actions of the New Deal. Therefore, they argue, if anything should happen to FDR his successor in the White House might upset a lot of their pet ideas.

The White House doctor, however, reports Mr. Roosevelt to be in the best of health. Further, FDR has a high regard for Cactus Jack. Alas for the conniving of the Young Liberals—John Garner will be Vice-Presidential candidate again.

NEW YORK

Labor—By James McMullin

The chief point at issue between Senator Wagner and Adviser Richberg is the question of "coercion". Wagner wants to provide legal penalties for coercion of workers by their employers. Richberg insists on including comparable safeguards against coercion of labor by employers. Insiders say he has such developments in mind as the flying squadrons which were used in the textile strike to force a shut-down in mills where the employes were reluctant to stage a walkout. He is said to believe these tactics constitute a dangerous menace to future relations between industry and labor and threaten to impair the fundamental rights of workers who wish to keep on working. The majority of business men share this view.

Dream

All the talk about merging the independent automobile companies into a collective rival for General Motors, Chrysler and Ford is still in the dream stage. The spirit may be willing but the cash position is weak. Unless one of the few independents that have money be interested the boys might as well be planning a trip to Mars.

Fans

Stock Exchange insiders say that Joe Kennedy must be getting a lot of the "fan mail" that used to come to Richard Whitney. At any rate Mr. Whitney doesn't have as many critical correspondents as he used to. Reports are that on a recent occasion when the market sagged rather sharply the Securities and Exchange Commission received over 1000 letters asking them what the hell was the idea in letting that happen and what good are they anyhow.

Velvet

The New York Planning Board's proposal for the state to buy six million acres of sub-marginal and other land in the next twenty years is music in the ears of shrewd real estate traders. The state won't pay any fancy prices but the property involved can now be had for a song—and it wouldn't be a good song. A fair proportion of the land is in the hands of banks as a result of foreclosures. They've been wondering what the heck to do with it and this suggestion is a beacon on a foggy night.

The navy's new giant biplane, XP2H-1, carefully guarded from prying eyes while under construction at Hampton Roads, Va., completed its scheduled non-stop hop of 2,000 miles to Coco Solo, Canal Zone, from Norfolk, Va., in 25 hours. Six men made the flight. The plane is shown as it was being launched at Norfolk to start the flight. (Associated Press Photo)

J. P. Smith Honored On Anniversary

Picnic Style Dinner Given By Family And Friends On Birthday Sunday

J. P. Smith was pleasantly surprised Sunday when his family and friends remembered his 51st birthday with a picnic style dinner. The guests started to call early Sunday morning and when the last of them arrived, each one bringing some delicacy to add to the meal, the large birthday cake, topped with 81 candles, was presented to Mr. Smith. Those celebrating with Mr. Smith were Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Arnett and children, W. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Arnett and son, Palmer Smith, Mrs. Sam Coffey and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Coffey and children, Mrs. William Arnett and children all of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott and children and Mrs. Oscar Smith of Stanton; Mrs. J. B. Sample and daughters of Knott, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. Herahel Smith and family, Mrs. Ruth Olsen, and Gordon Smith and son of Big Spring. All of the children were present except Mrs. Haskel Coffey of Anson who was unable to attend. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robinson were guests for the day.

conflicting meeting dates was given as the reason.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Miss Jessal Shusser, who will be married January 27 to George Bath of San Antonio, was honored at a shower at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Shusser.

Misses Juanita Shusser, sister of the bride-elect, and Myrtle Jones were hostesses, and led the guests in playing many entertaining games, prizes for which were presented to the honoree. At the end of the games Miss Shusser was made to pay a forfeit by walking around the house. When she returned she found many lovely gifts from her friends.

Miniature brides were favors on the refreshment plate that was served to Mmes. S. M. Barber, E. H. Josey, Coy B. Cook, E. W. Lowmore, George White, A. D. Meador, George Brown, I. Shusser, C. A. ## and the beautiful budget

"MY OTHER piece of advice, Copperfield," said Mr. Micawber, "you know. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditures nineteen six, result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds, aught and six, result misery. The blossom is blighted, the leaf is withered, the God of days goes down upon the dreary scene, and—and in short you are for ever floored. As I am!"

Take it from Mr. Micawber, or from any one of thousands who know it for the truth, there's no friend like cash! And there's no way to be so certain of cash as to spend within your budget.

Begin today! Say to yourself—so much will go for food, so much for rent, so much for fuel, so much for charity. Stick within your budget and you'll find it bountiful enough to leave you something over!

One of the very best ways to budget as you go is to read the advertisements in this newspaper. Daily, as in a parade, the good values of the good stores march before you. Roast beef or chops for Sunday dinners, a special style in men's shirts, new drapes for the living room... the advertisements will help you choose them all, and often at a saving!

"FELT MISERABLE MOST OF THE TIME"

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Checked Her Constipation*

Read Mrs. Marsden's letter: "I have been a subject of constipation for the last 11 years. I felt miserable and irritable most of the time.

"ALL-BRAN helped me right away. I have taken it now for the past 5 months, and I am as regular as a clock. My health is fine, and I am full of pep."

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.
