Storms Sweep States, Three Persons Dead

Rainfall Sends Streams Out Of Banks, Much Damage

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15. (AP)—Lightning and wind storms accompanied heavy general rains killed three persons, injured many others and caused considerable property damage in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma over the week-end.

The rainfall, which reached torrential proportions at some points in the area, filled creeks to overflowing and threatened to send larger streams to high stages. In Oklahoma the precipitation dissipated a heat wave, which had sent the mercury to the 100 degree mark in the northern section of the state.

A lightning bolt striking during a rain and hail storm near Rush Center, Kas., Saturday killed Roy Case, 37, of Rush Center and Herbert Herber, 52, Tulsa, Okla. Gilbert Solto, 9 years old, was killed by lightning yesterday near St. Charles, Mo. His uncle, Louis Solto, was made unconscious by the bolt.

Windstorms of near hurricane velocity swept northern Oklahoma late yesterday causing $100,000 damage at Tulsa and injuring four persons. A huge oil tank near Maul, Oklahoma, exploded when struck by lightning, destroying seven dwellings. Four persons were injured, none seriously. Minor damage was reported from other sections.

Heavy rains in northeastern Oklahoma filled the Caney river to its banks. Tulsa reported approximately an inch and Muskogee had 3 1/2 inches in 15 minutes. Northwestern Missouri had four inches of rain. Saturday night, while a heavy downpour at St. Louis last night, clogged sewers and flooded basements. Linneus, Mo., was struck by a small tornado early Sunday wrecking a two-story building.

Heavy rains were reported in northern and eastern Kansas. Topeka had 4 1/2 inches in a 19 hour period ending at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was the heaviest recorded there since August 10, 1921. Measurements at other points in the state included Kanawha 5 1/2 inches, Valley Falls 2 1/2, Overbrook 1 1/2, Manhattan 1 1/2 and Cambridge 1 1/2.

Rainfall here totaled 92 inches.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 15. (AP)—Approximately $500,000 damage resulted here last night from a tornado which ripped through Mt. Vernon about 11 o'clock, striking hardest in the business section of the city.

A dozen or more persons were injured, none seriously. Scores of dwellings and business houses were destroyed, plate glass windows were smashed and much merchandise was ruined by rain.

A stockstack at the plant of the Illinois Power & Light Company was blown down and transmission lines were wrecked, leaving the entire city without lights and power. Streets were blocked by trees, fallen poles and wires. Members of the National Guard company of Mt. Vernon were on duty today directing traffic.

Business was suspended today while merchants repaired the damage and checked the loss. Industrial plants were closed for lack of power.

OKLAHOMA HIT

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 15. (AP)—Wind rain and lightning bore down on Eastern Oklahoma last night with sudden fury, causing damage estimated at more than $150,000 and resulting in injuries to eight or more persons.

A huge oil tank near Maul was fired by lightning during a spectacular electrical storm. Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Holt and their two sons, living nearby, were injured by falling plaster. Seven buildings in Maul were damaged and oil valued at $25,000 destroyed.

Four persons were injured at Tulsa and damage was placed in excess of $100,000 as wind of near hurricane velocity swept down from the north accompanied by heavy rain. It was estimated that more than an inch of rain fell in less than an hour, filling underpasses and stalling hundreds of automobiles.

W. A. Moore, radio technician, Mount Vernon, Ill., suffered a broken ankle when he slipped and fell.

R. V. Moore, Tulsa, received a skull fracture when the wind slammed a window on his head.

Mrs. Jim McCabe, Vera, Okla., and her small daughter were injured slightly in an automobile accident.

The fair grounds at Tulsa received the brunt of the storm and having reigned as cattle stampeded during the height of the gale.

Find Body Of Officer Of Navy

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Lieutenant Woodward Phelps of the United States Navy, eldest son of Rear Admiral William Woodward Phelps, was found dead last night aboard the U. S. S. Northampton, in drydock at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, with a bullet wound in his temple.

Lieutenant Phelps' father has been commandant of the United States Navy Yard at Portsmouth, N. H. since 1928. He was formerly chief of staff of the Naval War College, Newport, R. I., and commander of the fleet base force.

Captain Vernon of the cruiser had no reason was known why the young officer should have committed suicide, and declined to call the death a suicide until an official report was made. But the lieutenant was believed to have shot himself.

Lieutenant Phelps was graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in 1921. He was 29 and married.

WOMAN HELD AS ACCESSORY IN SLAYING

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15. (AP)—Mrs. Ruth B. Weimer was arrested today for the slaying of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Agnes Steele, 41, whose death admitted shooting, police said, to "clear her of a broken heart."

Grieving over the kidnapping of her two children, allegedly by her estranged husband, Mrs. Steele attempted suicide several times, and was placed in a psychiatric ward, police said. Apparently recovered, she was released recently.

Yesterday she returned weeping bitterly for her children.

A niece of Mrs. Weimer said her aunt told Mrs. Steele:

"If you don't stop crying I'll shoot you."

"I want to die. Please do," the niece quoted Mrs. Steele as replying.

Five bullets pierced the grief-stricken woman's body.

Convicted Slayers Appeal From Verdict

AUSTIN, Sept. 15. (AP)—Appeal to the state court today against the verdict of 23 years against Jack and James Millsap for the murder of Howard Booth in Orange County on Thanksgiving Day, 1929, was filed in the Court of Criminal Appeals today.

Booth was stabbed and fatally wounded on the road "side near Beaumont and died on Christmas Eve. The Millsap brothers were convicted on testimony showing they had been with Booth the night before and that one of them had fought with Booth after a poker game.

The boys denied any connection with the slaying and offered an alibi.

Highway Body Submits Huge Work Project

Drought Stricken Area To Be Benefitted By Expenditures

AUSTIN, Sept. 15. (AP)—Acting in accordance with the request of Governor Dan Moody and the Texas Drought Relief Committee that all available highway maintenance projects be started this fall, the maintenance division of the state highway department today submitted a list of 55 projects to the state highway commission for consideration.

The projects call for the expenditure of slightly more than $1,000,000 in about 25 counties in the drought stricken area. Highway officials expressed the belief that a majority of the projects would be approved by the commission and work started in the immediate future.

Although the list of available work was submitted today, the commission probably will not be able to act until Wednesday owing to the rush of the meeting and to tomorrow in which contracts would be awarded for work in 22 counties at an estimated cost of approximately $1,726,000.

Contracts for the maintenance work will specify that they be started this fall and be carried on through the winter. The use of local labor wherever possible also will be specified.

The commission today was to award contracts for construction in Cottle, Fisher and Nolan, Ellis, Culberson, Navarro, Upson, Dallas, Hutchinson and Aransas counties. The estimated cost of the work was $736,000.

Bidding today on the projects was exceptionally heavy and highway officials said the state would receive advantageous prices for the work.

In addition to awarding the contracts, the commission was to hear delegations from numerous counties seeking additional state aid, state designation of roads and requests for work to be advertised at the next meeting of the commission.

Southwest Waterworks Body Meets Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex., Sept. 15. (AP)—Six states were represented by delegates to the nineteenth convention of the Southwest Waterworks Association, which opened a four-day session here today.

Max M. "Mac" Blackwell, Okla. president, in opening the meeting used the gavel wielded by Pat Brackley of Baytown, Texas, founder of the organization, at the first convention in Temple, 18 years ago.

States represented in the membership are Texas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Louisiana and Arkansas. Lewis A. Quigley, superintendent of the Fort Worth waterworks, is secretary-treasurer.

State governors of the organization are S. R. Brough of Little Rock, Ark., Charles F. Linck of Leavenworth, Kan., Thomas I. Amis of Shreveport, La., Leonard Day of St. Louis, Mo., E. E. Endacott of Tulsa, Okla., and John B. Winder of Dallas.

AUSTIN, Sept. 15. (AP)—One of two injunction suits destringing George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, from barring importation of Florida citrus stock into Texas, was dismissed in Federal court today and the other suit was scheduled for dismissal pending settlement of minor disagreements between parties of the suit.

World Series Tickets Are Placed On Sale

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. (AP)—Philadelphia fans who want to see the champion Athletics play whatever National League team turns up at Shibe Park October 1 for the world's championship, began filling their applications for tickets today.

Under the conditions laid down by the club management, applications must reach the club today by mail and each applicant must take one or two tickets for each of three games. Money to be refunded if a third game is not played in Philadelphia.

The first mail truck to drive up to Shibe Park today contained ten sacks of applications.

Those in charge of the ticket distribution said the applications this year probably would outnumber those of last year, despite the fact that it is not yet known which National League club will oppose the probable winners in the American League.

As soon as the first sacks of mail were received fifty men and girls were put to work sorting and checking the applications.

Bromley, Co-Pilot, Forced To Return

TOKYO, Sept. 15. (AP)—The fourth attempt of Harold Bromley, American aviator, to span the Pacific ocean ended today when he and his co-pilot, Harold Gatty, were forced by adverse weather to return to within a few miles from where they had taken off for America nearly twenty-five hours previously.

Bromley landed the huge monoplane "City of Tacoma" near the village of Shitsukari on Cape Shirayama, Aomori Prefecture, at 6 a. m. (1 p. m. eastern standard time). Neither the pilot nor Gatty were injured, but dispatches did not say whether the plane was damaged.

The monoplane, attempting a 4,500 mile flight over the ocean to Tacoma, Wash., was in the air 24 hours and 52 minutes and from calculations apparently had flown approximately 2,400 miles.

The plane had reached 300 miles beyond Cape Lopatka, nearly half way to the western-most Aleutians, before turning back when the fliers encountered thick fog and head winds.

Fear for the fliers' safety had increased when no reports were received after they began their hazardous flight. Although the plane carried wireless, operators apparently were unable to pick signals from the fliers. It was believed rain had disabled the radio set.

Encounter Fog

Before their take-off from Samishiro Beach, near Sambongi, at 5:08 a. m. Sunday (12:03 p. m. Saturday, P. standard time), the aviators had been promised ideal weather along almost the entire distance of the great circle route to Tacoma.

Shortly after the plane left the sandy runway of Samishiro Beach it encountered fog, rain and headwinds over the Kurile Island.

Headwinds and adverse weather halted the progress of the big seven-million monoplane, which was capable of flying less than 100 miles an hour, and Bromley apparently realized the futility of trying to reach Tacoma and turned back.

TO CONTINUE

TANAE, AOMORI, Japan, Sept. 15. (AP)—Still defying the series of misfortunes preventing him from flying across the Pacific, Harold L. Bromley, tonight told a Tengu news agency reporter he would continue his efforts to span the ocean to Tacoma by airplane.

Bromley said a broken gas line feed pipe was the decisive factor in causing him to turn back and here today after having flown several hundred miles eastward in his attempted non-stop dash to Tacoma.

But the "Adverse elements" contributed to the decision.

The break, Bromley said, was noticed late Sunday off Kamohatka Peninsula, when gasoline began spraying him, chafing his face and inflaming his eyes. Bromley said he and his navigator, Harold Gatty, alternated at the controls throughout the night, suffering great discomfort.

Eyes Treated

Soon after the landing near here at 6 o'clock this morning (1 p. m. Sunday, Pacific standard time) a physician treated the fliers' eyes.

ENTERPRISE AGAIN BEATS SHAMROCK V

U. S. S. KANE, Off America's Cup Course, Sept. 15. (By Radio to the Associated Press)—Enterprise, defending the America's Cup from the challenger of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, won the second consecutive race of the series today.

The slim American defender coasted across the finish line at 2:41:31.

Whistles on the spectator fleet played a noisy chorus as Enterprise slipped between the buoy and the boat marking the end of the thirty mile triangular course.

Her time for the course was four hours and thirty one seconds. Shamrock finished at 2:51:30, almost ten minutes behind the American defender.

With the first two races stowed away safely, Enterprise needed only two more victories to retain the cup which has been held on this side of the Atlantic for 73 years.

Albert Darby, 22, negro, Athens, Ga., was scheduled to go to trial in district court this afternoon for the slaying of Francisco Martinez, 35, Mexican store owner.

The negro, who had been in Big Spring four days when the Mexican was shot to death, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last week.

Although it has not been definitely stated, it is expected that the death penalty will be asked by the state. Martinez was shot and instantly killed by a negro who attempted to rob him.

Darby was arrested near the scene of the robbery. At the time of the arrest he was found in a house. A pistol was found under the house.

The negro, through his attorneys, C. C. Collins and H. C. Hoover, will attempt to prove an alibi.

Rogers and Smith are assisting in the prosecution of the defendant. The trial was scheduled for this morning, but a delay was caused on account of the absence of a material witness.

Second South Bend Slaying Stirs Public

Young Girl Slain As She Sleeps, Children Guarded

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 15. (AP)—Another girl murder as atrocious, as unprovoked and apparently as barren of clues as the first, has transformed South Bend into a city of agitated citizenry calling upon the law for the quick arrest and punishment of the slayers.

Alice Wolman, 17 years old, was murdered in her bed early yesterday. Her throat was cut with a razor. So quick was the killing and so silent that three other children asleep in the same room—one of them beside her in the bed—were unaware of it. A few minutes later the thumping of the girl's body on the stairway to which, dying, she had crawled, awakened the household.

Two young men who had been paying her attention have been questioned by police without, however, any clue to the identity of the killer.

Less than three weeks ago the body of seven-year-old Mableine Appel was found in an alley near her home. She had been attacked, then murdered.

The two killings today prompted the taking of added precautions for protection of South Bend school children. There was a noticeable absence of children from the streets last night.

Alex Pietrak, 18, who was twice questioned yesterday and who was to be requested today, told police he and Alice were engaged to be married. Pietrak had taken the girl to a dance Saturday night and had been with her and her mother in the kitchen of the Wolman house up to a few hours before the murder.

Barney Kikayuski, 23, who was Alice Wolman's escort to several dances recently, was taken into custody in the belief that questioning might draw from him information of value in hunting the girl's slayer. Crowds gathered about the Wolman home yesterday in such numbers that police had to stretch tapes about the place to hold them in check.

HUSBAND KILLS WIFE, SELF

MCCAMEY, Tex., Sept. 15. (AP)—Jasper B. A. Sturdivant returned a verdict of murder and suicide yesterday after Leon Eckert, 33, shot and killed his estranged wife, Dorothy, the shot himself twice. He died soon afterward.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Eckert's sister, Mrs. George Finch, but according to Finch, there were no eye-witnesses.

The couple had resided at Odessa until three weeks ago, when they separated and Mrs. Eckert came here with her small daughter, Laura.

Eckert left a note advising that in case of accident his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Eckert of Fletcher, Okla., be notified. Mrs. Eckert is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Matson, of Lawton, Okla.

The American government had requested his recall because of his propaganda activities directed largely against the "English penit" and toward the urgent necessity of more dreadnaughts and submarines.

It was largely under Boy-Ed's direction that the broad masses of the German nation were taught the Kaiser's so-called "bitter lie" of great German sea power.

Boy-Ed was looked upon as one of the ablest of German naval officers.

Abie Officer

Captain Boy-Ed was a tall, broad shouldered soldierly appearing officer. He spoke English fluently and, in order to "Americanize" his appearance shaved off the "Prussian Henry whiskers" which German naval officers traditionally wore.

About 45 years old when at the height of his career in Washington, he wore with ease the prestige attached to his office.

The Boy-Ed case attracts widespread attention. It was one of the causes of bitterness in America prior to this country's entry into the Great war. His diplomatic immunity prevented his arrest. Alleged passport frauds, which resulted in the arrest of Richard Peter Stegler and others in New York caused public clamor for the internment or expulsion of the German ambassador. The State Department, in February 1915, announced it would not ask Count Von Bernstorff, then German ambassador, for Boy-Ed's dismissal but would call the attention of the ambassador to the connection of his naval attaché's name with the incident. The inevitable outcome of the case, in a nation then growing daily more hostile toward all things German, was Boy-Ed's ultimate dismissal.

Captain Boy-Ed, on February 11, 1915, was dismissed.

Howard County commissioners will attend the state convention of County judges and commissioners, to be held at Fort Worth, it was announced today.

O. C. Bayes, Pete Johnson, George G. White, W. B. Sneed will attend the session. County Judge H. R. Dabbsport will not attend.

The convention is to be held Sept. 17 to 19, inclusive.

Love Seeking Final Decision On Appeal

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 15. (AP)—Seeking final decision before the next session of the legislature, State Senator Thomas B. Love today filed a motion in the supreme court asking early consideration of the appeal in his case in which the constitutionality of the non-resident tuition fee for high schools was attacked.

Love lost his case in the appellate court which held that the statute, providing a payment of $7.50 monthly as tuition for high school students coming from school districts in which there was no high school, was invalid.

The appellate court found that in Dallas county the cost of instruction for each student amounted to about $15 a student and that to allow students to come in from another district for half that amount was unconstitutional.

The two bandits made cashier C. A. Banks and his wife lie on the floor and rifled the bank, the report said.

One of the men menaced the banks with a pistol while the other robbed the tills and safe. Both bandits were armed.

A customer discovered the robbery when he found Mr. and Mrs. Banks still lying on the floor. Chief Heard was told.

North Dakota Doctor Member Tariff Group

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. (AP)—Dr. John Lee Coulter of Fargo, N. D., chief economist of the tariff commission, has been selected by President Hoover as one of the members of the re-organized tariff commission.

Coulter is a Republican, the second representative of that party to be placed on the bipartisan commission of six members.

Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, also a Republican, has been appointed chairman by the president and the selection of Thomas Walker Page of Virginia, a Democrat, also has been announced.

The North Dakota man is a former president of the North Dakota Agricultural and Mechanical college. During the war he was connected with the war industries board and before that was a member of the American commission to Europe to study rural economics and credit.

President Hoover is to complete tomorrow the selection of the re-organized commission, the incumbent body retiring after tomorrow.

Reports today indicated only one member of the incumbent commission would be retained, with Chairman Edgar B. Brossard, of Utah, and the vice-chairman, Alfred P. Dennis of Maryland, both prominently mentioned.

When the I. C. C. hearing is called his department has determined that it will be beneficial for it to intervene in order to protect the interests of the business.

Following the hearing the attorney general's course would be governed by evidence brought out as to whether the state would file pleadings for or against the T. & P. N. application.

Woman Admits Slaying Broken-Hearted Sister

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (AP)—A woman, rare figure in the kaleidoscope of Chicago gang murders, stood out today in the circus-stances surrounding the Sunday slaying of Jack Costa, one of the Moran-Allelo "boys."

Margaret Reardon, 23 year old blonde with whom Costa had been living was held incommunicado by police who said they would charge her with being an accessory before the crime if efforts were made to obtain her immediate release.

Costa was shot down early Sunday by shotgun slugs and pistol bullets fired from the windows of an apartment building, directly across narrow court from his own apartment. He died several hours later.

Preceding him out of the door of his apartment when the shots were fired were the Reardon woman and a man she knew only as "Fred."

Police said there might be a link between Costa's murder and the slaying two weeks ago of his former friend "Ashcan Pete" Inarra.

Intermediate Credit Bank Policy Given

HOUSTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Federal Intermediate Credit bank at Houston will extend credit to farmers and stockmen throughout the drought stricken sections of Texas, M. H. Gossett, president, has announced.

After a conference with Gov. Dan Moody, United States Senator Tom Connally and others, Mr. Gossett outlined the bank's determination of policy in a letter to B. Martin of College Station, chairman of the Texas drought emergency committee.

"This bank supply is a reserve," the president wrote, "of funds for agricultural and livestock purposes upon sound business policies, where and when there are eligible financial institutions available."

"The permanency of this system of banks depends upon the safety and marketability of the debenture, and therefore the bank must follow sound business policies and must operate with assurance of the safety of the loans discounted for eligible incorporated banks, credit corporations, livestock loan companies and other financial institutions. The Federal Intermediate Credit bank cannot make direct loans to individuals."

"The present discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank is four per cent, and is governed by the interest rate at which the bank can sell its debentures. Borrowers must not be charged a rate of interest on production loans exceeding two per cent or on livestock loans exceeding two and one-half per cent above the discount rate of the Intermediate Credit bank."

"In obtaining re-discount privileges with the bank, they will be required to invest at least one-half of their capital in approved securities—a pledge same with the bank as additional collateral securing the obligations of the corporation to the bank. The ratio of discounts to the unimpaired capital of the company will be determined by the character of loans made by the company, its management and the manner in which that part of the capital not pledged with the bank is invested."

RECOVER BONDS KILL ONE IN RAID

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15 (AP)—One suspect is dead, his companion was under arrest and stolen Liberty bonds and money orders valued at $100,000 were in possession of police by Dr. Aure Goodwin, city health officer, today as the result of a raid on what they described as a "safe blowers' nest."

The slain man, shot down when he sought to escape a raiding party of police and postal inspectors yesterday, was tentatively identified as John Williams of Sioux City, Iowa, the outbreak of the current epidemic, 37, his companion, died. So far this year 242 cases have served three prison terms. The men posed as solicitors for a photography firm.

The recovered valuables were identified, officers said, as part of loot taken in robberies recently in Stillwell, Kan., and Frederick and Central City, Okla.

Police found a number of guns, 200 rounds of ammunition, a quantity of nitroglycerine and the stolen valuable in the room occupied by Peliser and his slain companion. The alleged members of the gang, arrested at Topeka, Kan., furnished information which led to the raid, officers said.

Expect Chaos As Result Of Germany Vote

Fall Of Bruening Government One Of Developments

BERLIN, Sept. 15 (AP)—A parliamentary chaos, in which no government will be able to survive, loomed in Germany today as a consequence of Reichstag elections Sunday.

So extensive may be the results of the polling, in which Fascists and Communists, themselves bitterly antagonistic, received almost a landslide of votes, that fall of the present Brüning government—now almost a certainty—appeared the least serious of the developments which now threaten.

The Social Democrats, one of two bases for the defunct government of Chancellor Müller, remained the largest single group in the Reichstag as a result of the polling, with a probable 143 deputies elected, a loss of ten under their 1928 figure.

The Fascists of Adolf Hitler, the young Austrian responsible for the notorious 1923 Munich Putsch, made astounding and sweeping gains in virtually every section of the country, and jumped from twelve seats in the 1928 elections to 107, a figure which surpassed even the claims of their campaign managers.

Third Largest Communists, at the opposite end of the parliamentary scale, were made.

Fascists, but with them opposed to the republic and to the peace treaty, gained 22 new seats in the Reichstag, jumping from 54 to 76 to become the third largest party in the body.

Other totals, estimated by the Federal Election Supervisor on the basis of total votes cast were: Centerists 69, Nationalists 41, People's Party 26, Economic party 23, States party 22, Bavarians 18, Farmer's League 18, Christian Socialists 14, Peasants Party 6, Hanoverians 5, Landbund 3, Conservatives 2, total 373 against 491 seats in the 1928 elections.

Chancellor Brüning's fall might almost be taken for granted unless he can enlist the collaboration of the Social Democrats who preceded the elections refused continually to ally themselves with him in most of his important moves.

New Government A new government, it would appear, will have to be built around a left combination in which the Social Democrats have the greatest authority. In such a case there practically always would be a certain opposition comprising Communists, Fascists and Nationalists who together can muster 224 Reichstag votes, not a majority but sufficient with other probable opposition elements to make any government step dangerous.

United in their opposition, this group could never get together to form a government themselves. The Communists, in the first place, do not seek a part in a government which they cannot form entirely by themselves, and of all the parliamentary groups the Fascists probably are their greatest enemies.

The Fascists could work in a coalition only alongside the Nationalists of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, at whose expense their gains principally were made. Their total of

We will have on display this week several of the new De Luxe Bodies that have been especially designed for the Ford car.

The Ford Motor Company has made available to the public a complete line of De Luxe Bodies that have been designed for those who desire something different in appearance—appointments and colors—and yet who want the outstanding performance, reliability and economy of the Ford car. The De Luxe types are in addition to the Standard line and consist of Town Sedan, De Luxe Sedan, De Luxe Coupe, Cabriolet, De Luxe Phaeton and De Luxe Roadster.

These cars, while luxuriously appointed, are still kept low in price in accordance with the usual Ford policy.

Visit our showrooms any time this week between 9 A. M. and 9 P. M. and see the beautiful new De Luxe bodies on display.

Merrick And Bristow Team Cops Oilbelt Championship

Merrick and Bristow—the athletes of all wells—won the Oilbelt League Championship Sunday afternoon by whipping Magnolia. If there is anyone that knows, and has the time to spare, we would appreciate his dropping by the stadium and telling us how. Behind the steady twirling of none other than Lefty Lyday, the M. & B. crew made 10 errors, ten grievous errors, no one of which should have been made. Yet Charlie Ferguson and his cohorts went down, by a one run margin. We've seen baseball games in our time, and we can search the records diligently and fail to find one as exciting as that melee played Sunday afternoon out at Foran. Three times the count was knotted, and not until Roy Lamb snarled Fletcher's tricky one and shot it to Nesbitt at the first sack, did our blood pressure get back to the vicinity of normal. In that last of the ninth it looked like the Magnolia crew would get over the hump. Two men were on bases when the end came. It is said the winners will get gold baseballs for their prowess with the bat and the orbit. Which reminds us that the Richardson aggregation won a silver loving cup in the local City League, but at the present we are using it for a copy holder, and it makes a right nice one at that. Of course, every once in a while, some smart creak craves to know if we are for being Mr. America, or something.

The Merrick and Bristow supporters—and there were lots of them, take it from us—took the kopeks and the shekels right out of the Magnolia jeans. What we mean is that what was Magnolia money at 4 p. m. was Merrick and Bristow cash at 7 p. m. Although we are certain, almost, that Bookkeeper Garrett of this concern, did not waver on the outcome, he so completely forgot himself in the excitement that it was just a sweet breeze for us to excavate a bottle of soy out of him during the game. We claim that when a humble scribbler rises to great heights and invigiles the keeper of the coin to cough up and purchase a drink he deserves some kind of mention, even though he has to give it to himself. Maybe, should he hear about it, the donor of the gold baseballs to the M. & B. crew, will give us one for work under fire.

In our own backyard, so to speak, although we never had a backyard that resembled Ducky D. the Lamson b. b. contingent jumped into the big middle of J. Lawrence Crouch's twirling and rattled the boards in the vicinity of Roscoe or thereabouts. In other words, just to be specific, they whammed the Big Spring aggregation on Big Spring's battlefield. Perhaps Lamson doesn't know it, but it goes against all propriety to invade Big Spring and win a ball game. It probably happened because we were out of the village and Kid Throp didn't do right by the boys. Crouch, it will be remembered, was the Frigidare dispenser that went to Lamson and knocked 'em over. However, what is sauce for the goose is a chaser for the gander, so it was nothing but right, we presume, that the Lamsons should send. Crouch's offerings back in the direction from whence they came. Anyway, Big Spring lost the ball game. There wasn't any play by play report of the Wichita Falls-Port Worth game as planned.

It is just a matter of days now. A cold tank (which sounds like a good word, whether it is or whether it isn't) in the air wouldn't do these Steers any harm. Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the p. m. the Steers took and barge into the bus and he themselves across the state to the Mineral Wells water hole. At that lithamlet they will take on Coaches Moore and Stovall's Mountaineers in the first Class A game of the season in District Two. On the following Saturday the Brownwood Lions trek to Ranger. It is remembered—it must be—that the same Lions crept up behind the Bulldog's last year and knocked their collars off. They are not expected to repeat their unique performance. There is little room for predictions on the outcome of the Resorters-Steers clash down in the heart of Memorial Field. Not having had a chance to see the herd work on a sodded field in the p. m. to test their true worth. Put Harvard on the local gridiron in its present shape, and Stanton could take 'em running. The Mineral Wells field is one of the best high school gridirons in the state. And it is upon this field that the Steers will start carving their 1930 future.

To Jeff Chapman, the bulky Merrick and Bristow shortstop, should go the honors of winning Sunday's fray with the stock. It was Chapman that drove in four runs with two singles, when Cramer, Magnolia pitcher, had walked Lyday intentionally 1 oget to the unexpected slugging. Three times in, that fray Cramer passed Lyday, twice he issued free trips to Nesbitt.

San Angelo's meek slaughter of the Big Lake Owls proved just another fray for Bill Blasett's paper champions. He used everyone possible in the fray, at one time running in a string of water boys and body vendors. And the Thundering Herd of Mustangs of Nolan County prominence, did right well by their mentors in the first game. Amassing 58 points against Rotan may not be such an honor, but it is still 58 points.

Incidentally the San Angelo scribe predicts the Steers will be just another soft spot in the Bob-

CONNIE MACK--HIS FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

The Story Of A Man Who Always Has Done The Things He Likes To Do Best

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McGillicuddy christened him Cornelius. That was in the little shoe town of East Brookfield, Mass., on December 23, 1882.

The boys in the factory and on the sandlot diamond near by, where the lunch hour consisted of 10 minutes for lunch and 50 minutes for baseball, called him "Slats." That was around 1880.

For a half century and over he has been identified with America's national game as Connie Mack, smart as a player, famous as a manager, strategist and maker of world's championship teams, beloved on and off the field as a leader and counselor.

The career of this lean and upright, soft-spoken and Irish blue-eyed man parallels the history of baseball, throbs with its ups and downs, sparkles with its triumphs. In his keen glance, firm handshake and spontaneous enthusiasm in 1930 there is the flash of spirit that you know was manifested by 'Slats' McGillicuddy in 1880.

"BASEBALL always has been a great game to me," he remarks. "I played it because it was the thing I liked to do best as a boy. It seemed too good to be true when I discovered they were willing to pay me for it and offer me steady work. I was very fortunate."

And so baseball became the life-work of the slim young Irishman, to whom as he neared three score and ten years it was still "a great game" and the thing he "liked to do best."

When Connie Mack broke into the big leagues in 1888, with the Washington club of the National League, Adrian C. (Pop) Anson was in the prime, the slugger of the Baltimore Orioles, greatest of old-time teams, ruled the roost when Mack had his first engagement as a major league manager with Pittsburgh in mid-season of 1894.

Hans Wagner was then only a boy playing on the sandlots. Hugh Duffy of the Boston was batting kingly with the record major league percentage of .438.

John McGraw, later Mack's great world series rival, was just taking over the helm of the Giants when Connie won his first American League championship in 1902 with the Philadelphia Athletics, the club with which the "tall tutor" became permanently identified in the formation of the second major circuit.

Mack led another championship club into the first official world's series in 1905, the year that Ty Cobb broke into the big leagues with Detroit.

Twenty-three years later Cobb played his last major league season under the leadership of Mack, who has stamped the Georgian with his unqualified choice as the greatest all-around player the game has ever known.

Babe Ruth bounded into the big show as a southpaw pitcher in 1914, when Mack was leading his fifth championship machine. That was the team that brought him his greatest fame as well as his worst world's series defeat: the combination with the $100,000 infield that he started the baseball world wrecking in 1915.

The old master has known the depths as well as the sunlit heights. He has heard the raucous cry for his scalp from the bleachers, as well as the frenzied cheers. He has seen his club finish last over a stretch of seven straight years of post-war depression and struggle. He has known the glory that goes with eight pennant-winning clubs, four of them over a span of five years, and the thrill of world's championship triumph with his 1929 team after a lapse of sixteen years.

In 1915 Mack asked waivers on three of the greatest pitchers of all time—Chief Bender, Eddie Plank and Jack Coombs, mainstays of the four-time champions. Fifteen years later he enjoyed the satisfaction of having developed another trio almost as brilliant in Bob Grove, Ruhe Walberg and George Earnshaw, aces of the championship clubs of 1929-1930.

Connie Mack was a great manager, manipulating his men and the plays with his famous scorecard, in the days when the squeeze play was in vogue and a home run was a sensation.

He was still a great pilot when the post-war slugging era dawned and altered the game's course, with Babe Ruth rising in majestic vehemence to demand an $80,000 salary by the sheer power of his ability to propel the liveliest ball farther than anyone else in history.

Looking backward after he had regained the peak in 1929, Mack confessed to me that he had "underestimated the rapidly with which the game would come back after the war."

"I'll have to admit I was two or three years late in catching up with the parade again," he said. "I figured we were due to win again as early as 1925, but the pace was fast and then there was Ruth and that wonderful team the late Miller Huggins rebuilt. At their best they were unbeatable."

League, Adrian C. (Pop) Anson was in the prime, the slugger of the Baltimore Orioles, greatest of old-time teams, ruled the roost when Mack had his first engagement as a major league manager with Pittsburgh in mid-season of 1894.

Hans Wagner was then only a boy playing on the sandlots. Hugh Duffy of the Boston was batting kingly with the record major league percentage of .438.

John McGraw, later Mack's great world series rival, was just taking over the helm of the Giants when Connie won his first American League championship in 1902 with the Philadelphia Athletics, the club with which the "tall tutor" became permanently identified in the formation of the second major circuit.

Mack led another championship club into the first official world's series in 1905, the year that Ty Cobb broke into the big leagues with Detroit.

Twenty-three years later Cobb played his last major league season under the leadership of Mack, who has stamped the Georgian with his unqualified choice as the greatest all-around player the game has ever known.

Babe Ruth bounded into the big show as a southpaw pitcher in 1914, when Mack was leading his fifth championship machine. That was the team that brought him his greatest fame as well as his worst world's series defeat: the combination with the $100,000 infield that he started the baseball world wrecking in 1915.

The old master has known the depths as well as the sunlit heights. He has heard the raucous cry for his scalp from the bleachers, as well as the frenzied cheers. He has seen his club finish last over a stretch of seven straight years of post-war depression and struggle. He has known the glory that goes with eight pennant-winning clubs, four of them over a span of five years, and the thrill of world's championship triumph with his 1929 team after a lapse of sixteen years.

In 1915 Mack asked waivers on three of the greatest pitchers of all time—Chief Bender, Eddie Plank and Jack Coombs, mainstays of the four-time champions. Fifteen years later he enjoyed the satisfaction of having developed another trio almost as brilliant in Bob Grove, Ruhe Walberg and George Earnshaw, aces of the championship clubs of 1929-1930.

Connie Mack was a great manager, manipulating his men and the plays with his famous scorecard, in the days when the squeeze play was in vogue and a home run was a sensation.

He was still a great pilot when the post-war slugging era dawned and altered the game's course, with Babe Ruth rising in majestic vehemence to demand an $80,000 salary by the sheer power of his ability to propel the liveliest ball farther than anyone else in history.

Looking backward after he had regained the peak in 1929, Mack confessed to me that he had "underestimated the rapidly with which the game would come back after the war."

"I'll have to admit I was two or three years late in catching up with the parade again," he said. "I figured we were due to win again as early as 1925, but the pace was fast and then there was Ruth and that wonderful team the late Miller Huggins rebuilt. At their best they were unbeatable."

HE FOUND ARGOTANE; TROUBLES NOW GONE.

"Honestly, I've been trying for ten years to get the relief two bottles of this Argotane has given me," declares E. F. Welty, a well known farmer residing on Route 1, Plainview, Texas.
"Yes, ten years ago," he continued, "I started having trouble with indigestion and from that time
on I have certainly had my share of it. I kept taking medicine, thinking I would get over the trouble, but I just kept on suffering. My appetite was no good and I had an awful burning of the stomach and about my stomach. I got to where I was disgusted with medicine because nothing helped me. I was blue and despondent, had no ambition and was just getting clear down and out as far as health was concerned."

"I was so miserable I just felt like I must get some relief somehow and when I saw so much in the papers about Argotane, I decided to see if it would do me any good, and upon the recommendation of the friends who had used it,
I bought my first bottle. My appetite is good now, I eat hearty, and sleep like a log. I may have had some in that, but I do know that I feel like a new man, and Argotane is the cause of it. If anyone will inquire I certainly will tell them what this medicine will do. I'm satisfied there's nothing to equal
it."

EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF

THE KICK FROM PLACEMENT.

Talking A Bit Too Much

IF YOU could lay end to end all of the editorials and special articles that have been written about the current business depression you would have a mass of verbiage of most depressing length.
In fact, as the days go on, sometimes people are beginning to suspect that we are spending altogether too much time simply in talking about the depression. A superabun-dant of talk seldom did anything or anybody any good. It may be that our "hard times" have had about all the vocal attention they need.

Among the people who feel that way is Mr. Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific railroad.
Mr. Shoup was in Kansas City
the other day and reporters asked him what he thought had caused the industrial depression, and how long it would last. He replied to them as follows:

"Why waste time trying to find out the cause of the present business depression? What difference does it make? These periods of depression come along, they last a certain time and go. They are about due to go now. When things are at their worst, generally, it may be two months from that time that the change comes."

There is a lot of sound sense in that remark. Sometimes it does seem as if we have become a nation of talkers and not doers. It indicates this quite as clearly as it indicates the past. But it is matters.

The stock market smash, However, was bad, and so was the overproduction that revealed itself in certain big industries about the same time; but is there any doubt that we have on the whole made the effects of both of these disasters a good deal worse by talking about them? By the excess of talking we have worked ourselves up into a pessimistic
frame of mind which has intensified the depression. We have scared ourselves more than the facts warranted.

All of this doesn't sit well with Mr. Shoup. He remarks that the day to meet hard times is to prepare for the better times are sure to follow, and to illustrate this philosophy he points out that his railroad is now spending $12,000, 000 to build a bridge over Carque-ra Straits to replace the ear-ferry formerly used. Actions of that kind speak louder than words. Henry Ford remarked recently that prosperity will be back with us before we know it. He meant, of course, that we are worrying more than we need to worry, and that we shall continue to work after all reason for worry has passed. So probably, would a good many other Americans who are getting tired of a superfluity of words.

Why Not Supply The Truth?

TEXAS CAN really sympathize
with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its fight to gain recognition in text books on geography, but the proposal to file damage suits against authors and publishers who describe that area
as "semi-arid, unfitted for agriculture, swept by piercing winds and having no oil, wheat or cotton production," appears somewhat ridiculous.
Of course such statements are utter nonsense, grossly untrue, misleading, damaging and most of the other things that West Texas may say of them, but we can hardly imagine that court action is the best solution of the situation.
Wouldn't it be much better for a West Texan, or a group of West Texans, to rise to the occasion by furnishing an accurate geographical picture of that vast empire? We have no doubt that if the truth,
nothing more, nothing less, had been furnished in suitable form
several years ago, and supplied to the educational authorities, such misrepresentation would never have occurred.

As a matter of fact, we fall to wondering why the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the oldest sectional body of its kind in the country, did not long ago supply
this deficiency as one of its major contributions to the development of that territory. Certainly it could have no objective more worthy of its attention than to supply the school children of America a true picture of the economic development and possibilities of that huge section that in 1929 produced 40 percent of the state's cotton, one-fourth of the state's oil and four-fifths of its mohair.

HEALTH

ACCIDENTAL POISONING

In case of accidents due to poisoning, while waiting for a doctor
first aid should be administered as quickly as possible.
Try to discover the nature of the poison used. Knowing this give an antidote if you know what it is
and have it available.
If you do not know the nature of the poison or have not the specific antidote at hand, give the sufferer
white of eggs beaten up in water,
milk or strong tea.
These substances can do no harm
and may counteract a number of common poisons.
Except where poisoning is due to strong acids or alkalies, try after having given the antidote, to empty the stomach of its contents
by vomiting or an emetic.
An emetic may be made by mixing a heaping teaspoonful of mustard with a cupful of lukewarm water. If mustard is not available,
use a heaping teaspoonful of salt
instead, give it to the patient to drink.
If there is no vomiting within 10 minutes, repeat the dose. The syrup of Ipecac, two teaspoonful in a cup of lukewarm water, will also induce vomiting.
To make sure that the stomach is completely emptied of the poisonous material, it is best to induce vomiting several times. Subsequently the patient may have plenty of lukewarm water to drink.
In case of poisoning by acids,
give baking soda or chalk mixture of the white of eggs beaten up with water or milk.
Unless you know exactly what
and why you are doing something to the poisoned individual, especially in the case of poisoning by acids, don't do it. You may further injure the patient.

FORMER NAVY PILOT TEACHING WIFE TO FLY

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (INS)—
The question—what does an aviator do on his vacation?—is being answered by Lieut. Alford J. Williams, who was the Navy's crack speed pilot before resigning to enter commercial aviation. It seems that the aviator and postman have much in common, for while the latter is enjoying his Sunday stroll,
the pilot is teaching his wife to fly.
At least, such is the case in the Williams family. Mrs. Florence
Hawes Selby has already had ten lessons at Roosevelt Field, L. I., in the Lieutenant's fleet biplane,
with her husband's expert instruction. She hopes to receive her pilot's license before their summer vacation ends.
Lieutenant and Mrs. Williams are spending their vacation at the Garden City Hotel, going to the flying field for a spin every day that weather permits. Mrs. Williams is the daughter of Thomas Samuel Hawes of Bainbridge, Ga., former general counsel to the Georgia, Florida & Alabama Railroad. They were married after the death of her first husband in 1926.

HOLLYWOOD

The passing
years often play as grim havoc with the child actor as with the grown-up star who fights desperately against the approach of gray
hair and wrinkles.
Often movie directors cast
about in their minds for some child to play a role and suddenly comes an inspiring memory
of a great little performance in
some past production.

THEY DO GROW UP

It isn't often that the grown-up child actor, thus summoned, has a baby brother or sister to take his place, as Frankie Lee had when called for the part that Davey took in "The Singing Fool."
Jackie Coogan's baby brother,
would fill the bill easily if anyone
were looking for Jackie-as-he-was,
but the brother, by paternal decree,
is not in pictures.
Four youngsters, it may be recalled, appeared in a prolog to "Beautiful" in 1926, and now that Horney is directing "Beau Ideal," a sequel, he needs a similar quartet for the new picture. Portraying Beau, Digby, John and Isobel as children, But the kids of "Beau Ideal" are in their teens now.

DIMMED FOR A WHILE

Comparatively few of the child wonders continue shining on the screen through their awkward years. Jackie Coogan at 16, is playing his first role in several years,
and Ben Alexander, discovered as a boy by Griffith, only recently re-emerged in "All Quiet."
Wesley Barry, freckle-faced Penrod of another day, now is playing juvenile leads.
To return to "Beau Ideal"—Bren-
on is peculiarly fortunate in assembling his principals as adults. For Beau (Ronald Colman), and Digby (Neil Hamilton) both died in the earlier picture, and John (Ralph Forbes) is left to carry on in the sequel.
Forbes now available, has his old role, and Doug Fairbanks Jr., takes the other lead. Mary Brian, being busy at her own studio, probably will not be Isobel again but there is an abundance of leading ladies hereabouts.

Chapter 1

The door of the telephone booth
swung outward as Jack Winslow stepped out by its departing occupant
as he stepped as to job her elbow.
Taking out her vanity case the woman happily added a touch of powder here and there to her already rouged cheeks, her eyes being more busily engaged in watching young Winslow's features reflected in the powerful magnifying mirror on the open lid of her case, than in observing her own countenance.

"What's that you say?" came Jack's clear voice, carrying a hint of impatience. "Father's in conference, what don't you tell me? I speak to Miss Elma?" What? In his astonishment Jack thumped the telephone stand. "Central, give me a better connection. Lambert, you fool, speak into the telephone. Did the messenger get to the house with Miss Elma's medicine? He did!
All right, I'll be home soon."
But it was some seconds before Jack left the booth and in that time, the woman eavesdropper was safely across the bank. Jack's subsequent interview with one of the tellers sent him with puckered brow to another window. Then walking over to one of the high mahogany desks, he proceeded to fill a blank in his very anxious notebook, the same woman eaves-dropper, by way to his side and under pretense of writing a check at the long desk, she read the document lying in front of him.
"Sixty days after date I promise to pay (Jack's blotter covered the name) $10,000 dollars for value received."

"I'd like a few moments' conver-

Oil Field May Raise Output

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15 (AP)—
It was learned on good authority that operators of the Oklahoma City oil field will ask that the allowable open flow of the field
be raised to a maximum of 180,000 barrels daily, when the state wide production committee meets in Tulsa
next Tuesday.
This will be on a basis of about 12 1/2 per cent open flow, in view of the 5.55 per cent flow of the present time. At this time the pipe lines are taking an average of 85, 000 barrels daily by agreement, but for several weeks the shipments exceeded this amount.
Under the existing state corporation commission order, the city
field is allowed a maximum of 25 per cent open flow, but this has been reduced by voluntary agreement of the operators here.

Kansas Officers Hold
Man For Bank Robbery

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 15 (AP)—
A warrant was issued by W.
J. Wertz, county attorney, charging Willis E. Branson, Belle Daine, with the robbery September 2 of the Citizen's State bank at Viola, Kan., near here.
Branson is in jail at Ottawa,
where he was arrested a few days
ago charged with forcing a taxi driver to accept a worthless check
at the point of a revolver. Branson's picture has been identified,
police say, by C. H. Merriweather, cashier of the bank, as the picture of the man who robbed him.

Herald Cooking School Opens Tomorrow At 2:30 P. M.

Local Firms Assist In Bringing Noted Lecturer
Here For Four DaysPrize Of $10 To Be Given To Adult Women's Sunday School Class Securing The Most Registrations During School

The Herald Free Cooking school will open tomorrow afternoon at the High School Auditorium at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. B. Reagan will introduce Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, who will conduct the school for the four days it will be in session.

Every possible arrangement has been made to care for the crowds expected to attend.

Mrs. Ihrig, who arrived in Big Spring today, has been conducting such cooking schools for many years.

Absolutely free in every respect, the amazing contributions this remarkable woman will be able to make in the one short week she is here, will prove a revelation to every woman attending. Solutions of household finance, menu balance, actual cookery, economical buying, accompanied by a visual platform demonstration of each and every ceremony involved in the preparation of a meal that is as scientifically balanced as modern dieticians can provide, will trip over themselves in startling rapidity as this genius of the range and serving table fascinates her audience with a personality and knowledge of her subject that has been drawing crowds of thousands of the nation's best posted women, to her classes.

Last year the school drew 1,617 women to its meetings. It was the first community wide cooking school in Big Spring and was most popular.

This year, as last year a prize of $10 will be given the Women's Sunday School class securing the most registrations during the lectures. Several of the classes have already signified their intention of working for the prize.

The following local firms with the Herald are sponsoring the school: Big Spring Hardware Co., Cole's Gas Range and Vollrath Aluminum Ware; Texas Electric Service Co., General Electric Refrigerator; Allen Grocery, groceries and meats; Big Spring Laundry, laundry service; Montgomery Ward & Co., kitchen cabinet and porcelain tables; Big Spring Public Service Co., use of gas as fuel; United Dry Goods Stores, Inc., Brownie May House Dresses; King Chevrolet Co., use of Chevrolet for lecturers; Big Spring Creamery Co., milk and cream.

National accounts: Cico, Schilling's Coffee, Tens and Spices, Gladiola Flour, K. C. Baking Powder.

MUSSELI HAS NO
FEAR OF "YELLOW PERIL"

LONDON, (INS)—Mussolini in an article in the London Daily Express, discusses the situation in the East, especially India, and expressed the view that nothing will come of the troubles which are being witnessed there now.

"The intermittent eruptions of the temper of the East stimulate speculation whether or not these eruptions will have in influence on world policy," writes the Italian dictator.

"Fear is expressed of a great Asiatic threat against the western world. I see no reason for this so-called 'Yellow Peril'."

"Though the Asiatic peoples reach the hundreds of millions, they are yet living in the musty atmosphere of the distant past, centuries behind in civilization and lost in racial and religious hatreds which again require centuries to weld into one organic whole and solidify in one pride of race."

"The problem of present peace rests with the Great Powers. They are in a position to thwart and obstruct any combination coming from periodical uprisings in the East."

Women Have Control
Of Commerce In This Little English Town

BENFLEET (Essex), Eng. (U. P.)—Women have the commerce situation so well in hand in this village that there is some discussion that the "Ben" is much too masculine and the name should be changed to give it more of a feminine touch.

The best barber in town is Marie Nunn, who says anyone can be a barber if possessed of a steady nerve and is a teetotaler. She boasts that she hasn't knived a chin in twelve years.

Mrs. J. Keats doesn't promise that her work will be painless, but as the leading dentist she assures one that the job will be neatly and efficiently done.

Many men buy their Sunday clothes from Mrs. E. E. Good, known as "a woman man's outfitter."

There are also women newspaper vendors, fruiters and taxicab drivers. More men can find some consolation at the shop of the village smithy who has a daughter capable of doing part of his work but thus far has resisted this invasion.

Clyde E. Thomas and J. F. Wolf left Monday morning for Brownfield where they will attend court this week.

Confesses Murdering
Six-Year-Old Child

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Sept. 15.—Having confessed, according to Sheriff S. B. Sawyer, that he killed six-year-old Helen Cass with a butcher knife, Harry Coon, 23, a farm laborer was held for a coroner's inquest today.

The child's body was found in woods early yesterday after a posse had searched for her since Saturday night. Coon was found in a deserted farm house near the Cass farm in Allegheny township. He was said to have claimed he killed the child because her father, H. D. Cass, had reprimanded him on account of his work.

London Bridge Is Not Falling;
Has Been Used For 99 Years

LONDON, (U. P.)—For ninety-nine years London Bridge has been fooling the public. Whatever the origin of the doggerel which informs the fair lady of its tottering condition—and the lines have more currency outside London than elsewhere, for they are never heard here—it makes no impression on the bulk of the population which moves daily to the tune of 125,000 foot-passengers back and forth over the granite span between their homes and their work through East Cheap to the "City." And the much heralded fall has not happened yet.

The stately arched traffic-way which next year will have been in service for a century, is still a fledgling, compared to its predecessors. The Old Bridge (the present one is the "new" London Bridge) was begun in 1176 and completed in 1209. It was the only bridge over the Thames until 1750, when the first Westminster bridge was built, and when it (Old London Bridge) was destroyed, many thousands of Roman coins and medallions were found under the piling. This was taken as proof that a Roman bridge had stood on the site, since this method of marking their work was common among the Romans.

The date of the first bridge across the Thames has been established as A. D. 43. There is some controversy as to whether this was Roman or Briton. The Roman bridge was built perhaps a century and a half later.

The "Old" Bridge looked much more like a common thoroughfare than the present one, due to the rows of shops which lined it from one end to the other. These were later removed, but its massive arches and fortified gate still gave it a rather sinister look. The gates frequently were to be seen decorated with heads of traitors, exposed on spikes. In the center was a chapel, dedicated to St. Thomas of Canterbury. Peter Colechurch, who began construction of the bridge, was buried there.—Columbia Missourian.

MERCED, Cal., (INS)—A real picnic is in store for 10,000,000 ladybugs, which arrived from the Yosemite Valley to help growers of cotton, melons, and beans in Merced county destroy aphids, a plant parasite.

Dooley P. Wheeler, county agricultural commissioner, said the 10,000,000 ladybugs were capable of consuming 250,000,000 aphids in one day.

Suspected Slayer Of Oklahoma Farmer Held

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 15 (AP)—Stanley Rogers, sheriff of Oklahoma county, said today he would ask the county attorney to file a murder charge against Badge Kenney, 50, for the alleged slaying of W. H. Folwell, 75, ten miles northwest of Britton last night. The aged farmer was beaten to death. Kenney who was arrested on an interurban car from El Reno here last night, denied that he killed Folwell, his former employer.

Rogers said questioning of farmers in Folwell's neighborhood revealed a strong enmity between the two, originating when Kenney left Folwell's employ after operating his farm for 12 years.

The sheriff said spectacles worn by Folwell were found in a trash box at the interurban station here shortly after Kenney was arrested there.

Mrs. Folwell, 68, who witnessed the slaying of her husband, was under a physician's care today, suffering from shock.

Weather Conditions Help Plane Grounded

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. They landed there Saturday in the Columbia, Clarence Chamberlin's old transatlantic plane, while en route from Montreal to Harbor Grace, N. Y., on the first leg of their flight to London.

They said they did not expect they would be able to take off before tomorrow morning.

Boyd is a Canadian world war aviator and Connor accompanied Roger C. Williams on his recent round trip flight between New York and Bermuda.

CROOKS STEAL PARK BENCH SLEEPER'S CLOTHES

AKRON, O. (INS)—Oscar Burgess, of this city, has added another resolution to his last New Year's list and for all New Years in the future. It is this: Never again to sleep on a park bench.

Oscar learned this lesson here recently when he awoke from a snooze in a local park to find that his outer clothing—everything but his underwear—were missing. A police investigation of the case revealed that some clever clothing bandits had relieved him of his garments as he slept. He was taken home in a patrol wagon.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Lincoln, Neb.
In a recent discussion with a friend regarding the usefulness of people who retire to monasteries and monastic life, particularly with reference to monks, that they had done much good during the development of this country and Canada by their charitable activities.

sort is not as courageous and helpful as the one who stays in the world and fights that battle to the end?
Self-sought is the cause of little conflict and few individuals have waged it more triumphantly than those who separated themselves from the world in order to serve what they believed were its best interests.

This was the controlling motive of monasticism at its best. Like other religious movements, it has had its gray and golden periods, its secular and its spiritual adherents. But that merely goes to prove that in its expression monasticism blends the human with the divine. Read lives of the Benedictines, Augustinians, Franciscans and Dominicans. They rendered great service to stricken humanity through the long centuries of the medieval period and afterward and endured fearful visitations of war, famine and pestilence. Their broken and distressed survivors were comforted by recurrent revivals of genuine religion.

Their days were spent in prayer and work, their nights in study and worship. They contended with the forces of darkness and ignorance and threw themselves heart and soul into everything connected with the advance of God's Kingdom. Their one demand was that good deeds must be done far from the busy haunts of men and never for the applause of the multitude. In other times the monastery was frequently the only retreat for a woman who wished to escape the sexual evils of her day. It was also the sanctuary of those who wished to dedicate themselves to sacrificial ministries for the poor, the sick and the needy. If monasticism of either sex can find peace for themselves and transmit it to others from their hallowed seclusion, I for one prefer they should do so. Why not describe them not as cowards but as valiant servants of the Christ. Surely it requires as firm a determination for those who hear the divine call to enter the monastic life as it does for you and me to remain in the world at large. Compensation about for all who surrender themselves to what they believe to be God's Will.

No science can measure goodness as to its precise value and effect. What, for instance, are the comparative merits of a mother's devotion, a son's rectitude or a daughter's love? These are among the best qualities of life, yet there is no criterion of judgment to be set up between them except that by their fruits ye shall know them. If the benefits of the monastery of women are compared with the sacrifice of feminine life in other spheres of activity, I think history would favor your friend's opinion.

Lexington, Ky.
I notice you seem to believe there will be a second chance for the soul after death that does not accept Christ's doctrines in this life. This raises in my mind the following question: Why was it necessary for Him to live among men and die on the cross if there is a time and place after death when a man's soul can be regenerated and saved?

I can find nothing in the Bible which supports your idea of another chance after death. Does not your idea lead to postponing the acceptance of Christ's teachings at some future time, and a consequent lowering of social betterment?

I believe that the only way in which a man can be fully "saved" is by attaining to complete possession of that spirit which Jesus Christ perfectly exemplified, and of which His death on the cross was the final evidence. Therefore I do not believe that salvation means simply "not going to hell" or not being "punished." It means rather the remaking of the entire being of man.

I cannot conceive of God as not desiring this for all his creatures. This involves, first, that every one shall indeed know that such is God's purpose expressed in His gift of Christ; and, second, that those who do without knowing it here shall know it hereafter.

So there is only one question you need to raise, namely, whether those to whom this great truth has been revealed here and now, and who deliberately rejected it, will have it brought home to them again at some future time.

can speak definitely? We can, however, say there is a great law which determines that character embodies choice, and that the longer any character continues in a given direction, the more difficult it becomes to choose the opposite direction.
The person who does not understand the meaning of Christianity or that of moral decisions may deliberately postpone his choice. But surely no sane person who understands the vast importance of those favors will deliberately defer his decision in the hope of "a second chance."

Entire Cast Of Play, With Author, In Tails

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP).—The entire cast of the play "Frankie and Johnny," arrested in a raid Thursday night on a suburban "tryout" theater at Jamaica, was held for trial for taking part in an immoral performance.
The company manager and state manager also were held, the owner and manager of the theater were charged with permitting an immoral performance, and John M. Kirkland, author of the play and husband of Nancy Carroll, film star, was charged with writing an immoral play.
Police, who objected to the dialog of the play, said if it opened in Manhattan next week it would be raided again. It was being ground for Broadway presentation when the arrests were made. Last season it had been presented briefly in Chicago.

Two Bank Robbers Are Given Heavy Sentences

WAGONER, Okla., Sept. 15 (AP).—Two of the three men who robbed the Security National bank at Coweta August 7, were convicted in district court here today and given 30-year penitentiary sentences. The two were Eddie Cowden and Ralph Rhodes.
The third man, Ray Stewart, went to trial shortly before noon. The trio was captured and the loot, approximately $2,000, discovered after Tulsa police intercepted the robbers in their flight from Coweta.

VOL. 1 SEPT. 14, 1930. NO. 35

Published in the interests of the people of Big Spring by Wm. Cameron & Co., Inc., G. R. Porter Editor.

The federal constitution was signed on Sept. 15th, 143 years ago. An annual celebration of its merits should become permanent among our patriotic occasions.

To talk about sleeping porches is not yet out of order; they will be mighty pleasant these hot nights.

The most EFFICIENT form of FARE relief is that provided on her abundant DINNER table by the farmer's WIFE.

A celebration of the merits of Ideal Built-In Features is an every day affair among our customers, and you will be happier, too, if you will install some of them. Those kitchen cabinets save the wife lots of steps during the preparing of just one meal. They are mighty handy.

Be a self starter, and the boss won't have to be a crank.

The most effective way to make the whole family happy that we have ever seen is to build and Own Your Home. It just makes you a different person—to know that it is yours and you can do with it as you want to.

THE WORST OF IT
We are glad people can go on vacations and enjoy themselves but we'll be hanged if we are willing to be bored to death hearing about it.

Wouldn't now be a good time to lay some new oak floors over the old ones and begin to fix the old house up for the fall season? The cost will be surprisingly low to you. We will be glad to get some one to figure what you desire in this line.

Fred Stephens says, "The only sure thing about the other fellow's game is that you're a sucker for biting at it."

And right now we're going to talk some more about the Minnesota Paints and Varnishes we have been telling you so much about.

If this horse you to death let us know. We know they are better because they spread further and last longer, therefore they are cheaper.

DANGER, SLOW! We hate to tell this but we must. The 't made us awful sore;

At an auto race in the movies, We pushed a hole in the floor.

Are you letting that good automobile stand out in this hot sun? Let's build a garage for it. We have lots of designs for you to select from, and will be glad to assist you in any way in building it.

A college town is a place where the locomotive that hits the coupe kills all seven passengers.

Are we going to build that new railroad? Let's do it and then we will put Big Spring over. We should have a little city of twenty-five thousand people within five years after it is completed. It will help everybody, so let's everybody help.

We are for Big Spring and Howard County and want to see both of them go over BIG. We are willing to work for that end.

In any way that we can serve you we will be glad to do it. Ring our phone. It is number three-one-one.

Ex-City Marshal Files Suit Against Walker

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—

Job Cash, former city marshal, filed in supreme court today the complaint in his suit for $250,000 against Mayor Walker in which he charges the mayor attributed his removal from office to the "meanest kind of preying upon poor people."

Cash makes a general denial of the charges alleged to have been made against him by the mayor and declares that he suffered losses in business and social affairs through the charges.

The Christian Scientist's Side

Editor Herald: Medical legislation being a matter of general and vital concern, the current discussion thereof through your columns is timely; due consideration of the subject including taking note of how our medical statutes affect spiritual healing.

The medical practice act of Texas exempts spiritual healing, provided no charge is made for the ministrations. In other words, healing the sick through religious means, or prayer, becomes the "practice of medicine" (and so, illegal) only when a charge is made for the service. That a definition, it is submitted, is as absurd and indefensible as it is unconvincing and unjust; a device intended to accomplish by indirection what would be plainly wrong, and impossible, if attempted openly and directly.

Spiritual healing, it is true, could be practiced for compensation under the law, provided applicants for license conform to the medical requirements governing admission to remedial practice; but the ability to heal the sick through spiritual means, or prayer, is gained through religious study and devotion—not by attending medical schools. Moreover, the subjects comprising the licensure examination are not only wholly extraneous to Christian or religious healing, but are positively inimical thereto. All of which shows how the legal invention known as the "medical practice act" operates to prevent the normal and constitutional exercise and enjoyment of religious freedom in our commonwealth. (Articles 4504 and 4510 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1925.)

The legislatures of over 40 of the United States, as well as those of Canadian Provinces, and the two foremost law-making bodies of the world (the United States Congress and the British parliament) have exempted spiritual healing equitably from their medical statutes; thus leaving Texas practically alone, of all states, provinces and countries where the Anglo-Saxon ideal of religious freedom prevails in its intolerance of healing based on Christian or religious principles.

Some years past, when the Massachusetts legislature had under consideration a bill having for its purpose the restriction of spiritual healing, the eminent philosopher-physician, William James, M. D., of Harvard University, voluntarily appeared before the committee having charge of the measure, and opposed it. He told the committee that the state had no right to medical opinion; and denounced all such movements as, favoring ignorance. He further stated that there was no public demand or justification for such laws; and the proposal failed of passage.

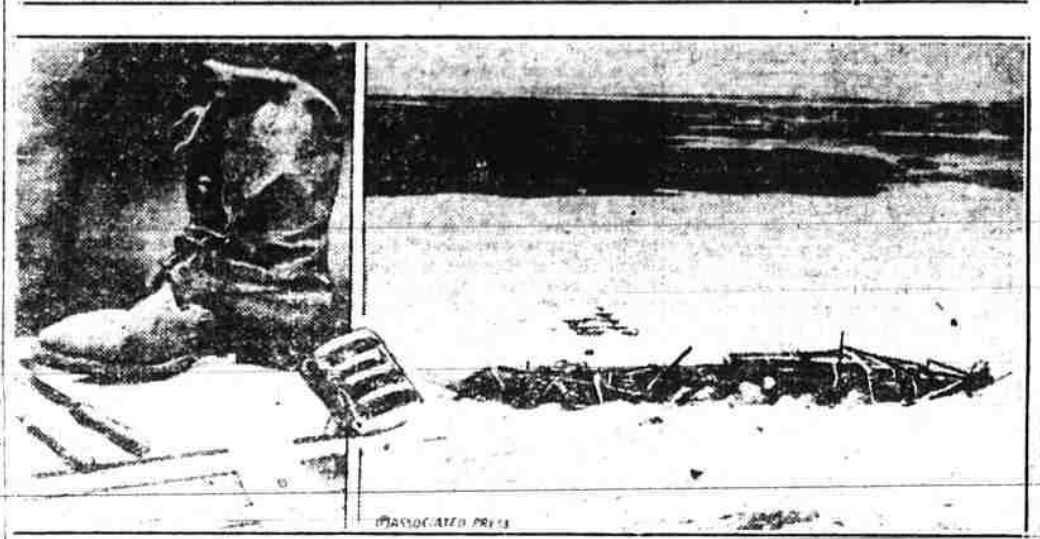

Former Governor Baxter of Maine also said something apropos to the present discussion; that "it is fundamental that each person is entitled to choose his own school of medicine or treatment, just as he may choose his politics or religion." Dr. Walter N. Dickie, while Secretary of the California State Board of Health, declared the same principle.

It is worthy of note that the medical standard governing admission to remedial practice in Texas is the charges alleged to have been

National Guardsmen Watch Georgia Jail

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 15 (AP)—National Guardsmen were dispatched here today at the direction of Adjutant General Parker after crowds gathered at a jail in which John Willie Clark, 22, negro, is being held for the slaying of Police Chief Joe Jenkins.

A detachment of fifty men reinforced sheriff's deputies and police at the jail where the crowd was harranged by a man who said he was from Atlanta. The speaker urged the crowd to seize the negro and lynch him immediately but his plans went unheeded and the crowd dispersed after officers had spoken.

Clark, an escaped convict, was captured yesterday after being shot twice through the hip. He is said to have told officers he shot Chief Jenkins, accidentally September 15th in a scuffle.

THREE GENERATIONS CHERISH CANDY HEART

GRIDLEY, Cal. (IS)—A candy heart too pretty to eat, is the most treasured possession of the Fred Fink Jr. family.

A little girl in Pennsylvania won that heart in 1790 at a church social. An inch across, it was neatly encased in a paper frame. The little girl liked the prize so much she would not eat it.

Before that little girl died, age 90, about 40 years ago she gave the treasure to her children and it was handed down through three generations to Fred Fink, Jr., who produced the heart for exhibition at a display of antiques here.

ANCIENT WORKSHIPPED BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

IRKUTSK, Siberia (INS)—Evidence that slim feminine figures were appreciated by alleged Mongol barbarians 20,000 years ago was discovered by Soviet archaeologists excavating near here. They dug up three statues of beautiful women, 30 inches in height, carved from mammoth tusks. The nudes had extremely slender figures, short but bobbed hair and fairly large feet. Excavators believe they have found a city of ancient man with a civilization much higher than that of present day Mongolia.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15 (AP)—The charred hull of the Stern-Wheeler Steamboat Illinois lay at the bottom of the Mississippi River today, supposedly burned by incendiaries who sought to cover up the operations of the old craft as a floating distillery.

Just as federal prohibitionists were about to investigate the boat, it disappeared from a dock at Alton, Ill., early yesterday and was sent floating down the river, a towering mass of flames.

It was the first floating distillery ever to come to the attention of federal operatives here, and they suspect it was the largest source of alcohol hereabouts. Estimates of its daily capacity ranged from 600 to 1,000 gallons.

The old vessel had a long and honorable career on the Mississippi and Illinois Rivers, first as a packet and later as a fish and game conservation boat. It was equipped with large tanks, formerly used to carry live fish.

The Illinois first came to the attention of prohibition agents in August, when it was found anchored between two barges, one of which was filled with whiskey mash and the other with distilling utensils and fuel. The agents returned next day with a search warrant, but the old Stern-Wheeler had vanished and the barge with the mash was scuttled before they were able to reach the scene. The Illinois was located only Saturday in a dock at Alton.

Sunday morning St. Louis papers, containing a story that federal agents had located the craft and were investigating its activities, reached Alton at 5 p. m. Saturday night. Less than six hours later the vessel was "cut loose from its moorings, and apparently towed out into the current."

Opinion was current in Alton today that the boat was fired immediately after its owners learned of the federal inquiry.

For several months the craft had operated without a marine license, and federal customs and prohibition agents were unable to ascertain who the Illinois' new owners were.

Bromley's first plane moved into ground a year ago as he was taking off from Tacoma, Wash., field for Tokyo. Bromley was not injured but the plane was wrecked. The tail assembly fell off his second plane while Lieut. Harold Fahy was testing it. Fahy was seriously injured. He was killed in a plane crash several months later.

Bromley's third plane burst into flames in the air, fatally injuring H. W. Catling when it crashed.

Bromley's plane "City of Tacoma" plowed deeply into the soft earth at Shitukari 17 miles from here, but escaped serious damage.

Tanabe is the nearest railway station and telegraph station and the roads to Shitukari are impassable by automobile. Japanese experts said it would take several days to dig the plane out and repair it.

GEHART STATEMENT

SEATTLE, Sept. 15. (AP) —Valentine Gehart, technical director of the National Aeronautic association, upon reading press reports of the outcome of Lieut. Harold Bromley's projected transatlantic flight, issued the following statement here last night:

"This flight was sanctioned because it was represented to the association that Bromley was carrying a navigator who was known to us to be reliable and because the Black Island had been represented to us that the plane could carry sufficient gasoline to make the trip.

"But we will not sanction further attempts until satisfactory evidence is presented to us of the reason for his turning back and abandoning this flight, as press reports indicate."

PREMATURE

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 15. (AP) —Backers of Harold Bromley's Japan to Tacoma flight expressed amazement last night at the statement in Seattle of Valentine Gehart, technical director of the National Aeronautic association in this section, in which he said that further such attempts would not be sanctioned until satisfactory evidence is presented of the reason for Bromley's turning back and abandoning the flight.

"In view of the fact that absolutely no information has come from Bromley direct it seems that Mr. Gehart's statement is premature to say the least," said Guy Kelly, legal adviser of the flight committee.

"Until such time as we have direct word from Bromley it strikes us that the fact that he represents to the association which he represents to would be to withhold judgment."

It will be remembered that Dionne Coste, the French flyer now being idolized for his air voyage from France to New York made one unsuccessful start in which he went far out to sea and then returned because he met a wall of wind. May we not wait in all fairness for Bromley's explanation?

Swindled Mate Hungry
Males, Girl Arrested

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. (AP) —Sally Le Blanc, alias Ruth Miller, dimply blonde and 21, thought fondly to cotton picking days in Mississippi today as she awaited arraignment in magistrates' court, on a charge of swindling mate-hungry males by means of a "marriage racket."

Awaiting arraignment with her were Jack Madison, his wife Rose and Rose's father, Delia Meffler, whom Sally blamed for her plight.

Sally was arrested in New Bedford, Mass., where she had gone to elope with a man, on a charge of having swindled $750 from a Japanese cook, Sujaka Sukaki, by a promise to marry him for $1,000 to help her sick mother.

Frank Mangrato says Sally, on Ruth, extracted $500 from him by the same promise.

Sally's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Allen, live near Oxford, Miss., she told reporters today. She and her husband Henry Le Blanc, a Canadian who drifted to Mississippi, married her and picked cotton in the fields with her. They came north she said, in response to glowing pictures painted by the Madisons of wealth easily won. Rose Madison, she said, is her husband's sister.

When they came north they got jobs in a radio factory at low pay. Sally went on. She lost her job and her husband got work as an elevator operator. They lived on $20 a week.

Then Rose Madison got the idea of the "marriage racket," she said. Her husband objected at first, but finally consented that she offer herself when the Madisons taunted him with cowardice.

would make a recommendation to the interstate commerce commission regarding need for the line.

While the commission did not definitely commit itself the indication was that it would favor the construction, all members declaring they were for anything for the development of Texas. The decision to assign one or two commissioners to the case was made without hearing any testimony.

From the railroad commission the committee went to the governor's office and received assurance of aid at all times.

General Robert Lee Robbitt, who was asked to present an intervention on behalf of the line before the interstate commerce commission, said the interstate commerce commission hearings probably would be about November 1, at Big Spring and possibly at Lubbock and Amarillo, the latter two towns to be served by spur lines from the main line.

Because development of a section only sparsely served by rail lines, the proposed line was advocated by some members of the committee as a means of better service on railroads already operating in the territory by making competition keen.

Dr. O. H. Lloyd of Vega, served by the Rock Island, declared he would make a better carrier for the line than the Rock Island to have direct competition.

Low Station said that service was so inadequate that in one of the counties alone, the total freight cost was as great or greater than in Harris, Dallas or Tarrant counties, since the haul was so much longer.

Foreign Minister
Combats Proposal

GENEVA, Sept. 15. (AP) —Foreign Minister Marinkovitch of Yugoslavia in the League of Nations assembly today combatted the proposal of delegates to send French foreign Minister Briand's "United States of Europe" plan to cold storage by the political commission route.

He put up a stubborn opposition to what he believed meant an indefinite hold up in the fruition of the Briand plan in the hands of the sixth or political commission of the assembly and urged that a special committee of the nations involved be appointed to study and elaborate the program.

This procedure is known to be the one favored by M. Briand and in conflict with the ideas of some of the governments that had expressed themselves in cautious acceptance of the principle involved.

It is understood that the French have been rounding out British foreign Minister Arthur Henderson particularly in the last few days on the appointment of a special committee and that he thus far has not favored such a step.

Roxas Urges Countrymen
To Fight For Freedom

MANILA, Sept. 15. (AP) —Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives, returned from the United States today and in a speech on the pier where he debarked, asserted Filipinos must express their desire for freedom in a manner more convincing than in the past.

"More assertions by popular leaders, manifestos, declarations by political and civic organizations, and even resolutions of the legislature are not sufficient," Roxas declared before the large crowd which assembled to receive him.

"The desire for independence must be shown in a way the American people can understand, and not merely through means which to ourselves might seem adequate and convincing. A people struggling for freedom who vehemently desire it may exhibit a peculiar mood which is eloquent."

"It is not understood in America even by our friends why such a manifestation does not appear in the Philippines. Very often our national indignation is interpreted as weakness or lack of sincerity. Certainly advocacy of independence with apology and timidity has that effect."

Tour Of Eleemosynary
Institutions Started

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 15. (AP) —Inspection of state eleemosynary institutions by the legislative committee empowered to make this tour was started from Austin today, with San Antonio the first scheduled stop.

The committee of four members of the legislature will be accompanied by R. B. Walthall, member of the state board of control.

Walthall said the committee was not an "investigative" committee, but would merely inspect the various institutions and make recommendations to the next legislature as to needs for improvement. He said, however, that any conditions found that need remedying would be reported.

Starting with the state hospital at San Antonio, the committee planned to visit the institutions in this order: Carlisle sanitarium, Abilene state hospital, Wichita Falls state hospital, Girls' Training School, Gainesville; Terrell state school, Rock state hospital, State Home at Corsicana, Waco State Home, Boys Training School, and finally, if the committee holds together that long, the State Institutions at Austin.

Members of the committee are: Representative Helen Hoare, Texas City, chairman; Representative Primrose Metcalfe, San Angelo; Sen. Elbert W. K. Hopkins, Gonzales; Sen. J. W. E. H. Beck, Del Rio.

New X-Ray Tube Is
Invented By Doctor

PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 15. (AP) —A new giant x-ray tube designed to unleash healing powers which cannot be surpassed even with the use of costly radium has been developed at the California Institute of Technology here, it was learned today.

While the institute physicians do not profess to have discovered a new cure for cancer or other diseases, they say their new tube more than answers the recent appeal by the Radiological Research Institute of New York for tubes to produce x-rays of a hardness and penetration hitherto unknown.

The tube was designed and developed by Dr. C. C. Lauritsen and his associates. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted physicist, acted in an advisory capacity. Funds for the research were furnished by the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

Advanced Cancer Study
Before Surgeons, Medics

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15. (AP) —Surgeons and physicians from many sections of the country gathered here for advanced cancer study, were told today that there has been a "tremendous and startling" increase in the number of cures of cancer of the bone since 1923.

Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, director of the research fund bearing his name, said that in 1923 there was not a single verified case of cancer of the bone cured by any treatment. In 1924 but four percent of the less than 500 cases registered at Johns Hopkins Hospital were cured as cures, and these by radiation only.

Figures of cures for 1929, he said, vary from 11 to 41 per cent in the different types, and two methods of treatment cover two categories have been found successful.

"There is only one explanation," said Dr. Bloodgood, "and that is the people have been educated through the press of the importance of immediate x-ray examination whenever there is any symptom of pain or swelling in the region of a bone or joint."

The meeting of x-ray specialists, surgeons and pathologists was the third of the kind here, but this was more widely attended, approximately 20,000 invitations having been sent out. The expenses were met by the Chemico Foundation, of which Francis P. Garvan is president.
