Lions Given Music, Trial

Brooks Orchestra Appears Before Club, Mock Trial Is Held

Lions club had a double bill of entertainment Wednesday at their weekly luncheon. Thomas Brooks and his new 12 piece orchestra presented a varied musical program for the club. Brooks, pianist who makes his own arrangements, directed his unit in a series of current hits. Lonnie Jackson, tenor, was cheered in two numbers. L. G. Green and Cherry Robinson gave a tap routine with the former appearing in a novelty number. Ernest Balleja played a violin solo.

Firearms Taken From Casadena In Burglary

Three automatic pistols and one revolver were taken from the Casadena on Runnels street some time Tuesday night after the place closed at midnight. The pistols were prizes with a punch board. Entrance was gained to the building by prizing loose iron bars on a window at the back. City officers were investigating the robbery Tuesday.

WASHINGTON Sinking

America's two most politico-economic products are cotton and wheat. If their producers are feeling good next year it may suggest well for President Roosevelt's reelection, perhaps offsetting industrial disaffection. That explains the complicated cotton maneuvers of the last few days. Secretary Wallace has argued against pegging the price at 12 cents. He holds more than 6,000,000 bales and can't dispose of it here or abroad at anywhere near that price. But the president promised southern senators that he would continue the 12 cent loan if they approved the Bankhead act establishing a less costly quota system for the future. The senators kept their agreement.

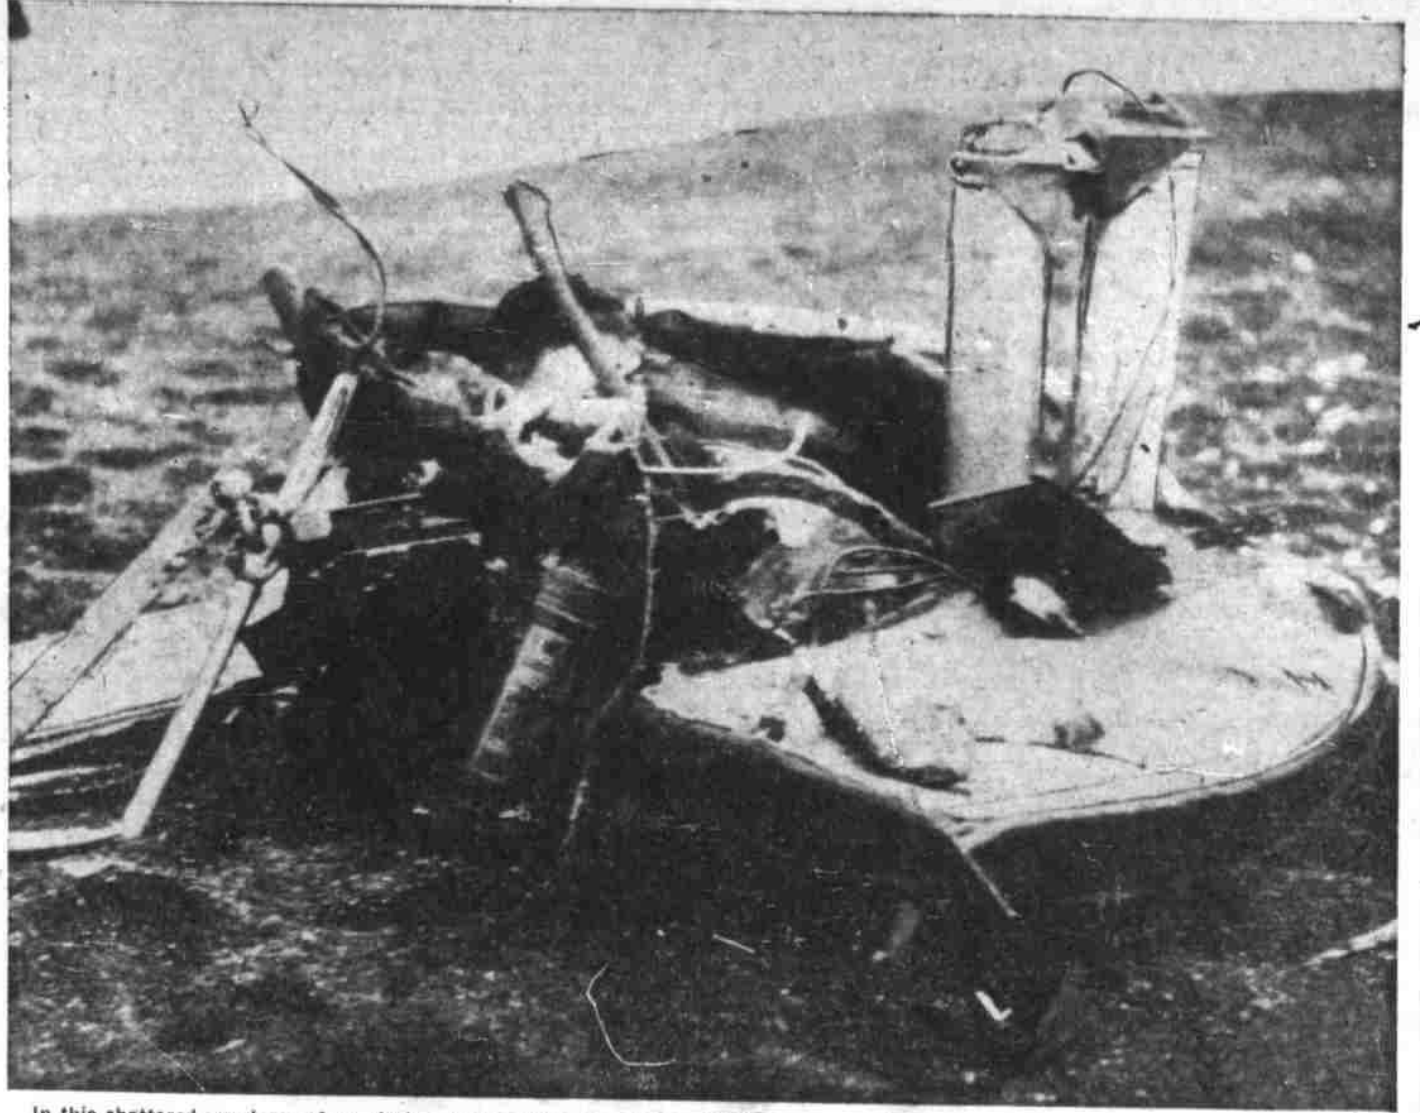

Huey

It was a dangerous situation. The Bankhead act was on the president's desk but he was out of town. The market might drop still lower and further endanger the amount of the loan. And Mr. Wallace gave no encouragement to anybody. Then, to maintain the market price while awaiting announcement of the loan figure, southern senators rushed to the rescue. First Senator George of Georgia announced that the 12 cent loan was a sure thing. Next day Senator Russell of the same state gave out the news that Mr. Wallace's attitude was responsible for the market decline but should be discontinued. It recalled the days when President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon alternated in releasing proclamations which kept stock market prices at boom levels.

Inflation

Anti-administration silverites have been caught napping. Secretary Morgenthau speaks and splits them whenever they remonstrate with him for not buying enough of the white metal to push the price to $1 or more. And Mr. Morgenthau speaks for President Roosevelt.

CRUMPLED WRECKAGE OF PLANE IN WHICH ROGERS AND POST MET DEATH

In this shattered wreckage of an airplane two famous Americans, Will Rogers and Wiley Post, met death on a bleak tundra, 15 miles from Point Barrow, on the northernmost tip of Alaska. This part of the wreck had been dragged from the river into which the plane plunged.

ROGERS-POST RITES THURSDAY

Public, Private Service Planned Cowboy Humorist

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—The Rogers family, Mrs. Will Rogers and her children, Will, Jr., Mary and Jim, were here Wednesday for the funeral of the famous comedian, Will Rogers, killed with Wiley Post in an Alaskan plane crash. Thursday a guard of honor composed of forty army flyers will attend the casket at the door of the Forest Lawn chapel, when coffins are opened to the public. Governor Frank Morrison announced he will proclaim a statewide moment of sorrow during the funeral hour at that time, 2 p. m. every movie studio will close and special services for the public will be held from Hollywood Bowl with Conrad Nagel, actor, and Rupert Hughes, author, in charge.

Senator Revealed As Rescue Hero

FON DU LAC, Wis. (AP)—United States Senator F. Ryan Duffey rescued a 4-year-old child from Lake Winnebago it was learned here. The senator, who spent several days at his lake cottage near here early last week, was riding in his motorboat when he saw Gertrude Hughes tumble from a pier. Duffey leaped into the water and swam to the child. He reached her after she had gone down twice. He supervised first aid treatment and Gertrude was quickly revived. The rescue was not reported until after the senator's return to Washington.

Utility Expenses Bared To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Expenses of the Cities Service Company in opposing the Wheeler-Rayburn bill were listed at $100,000 before the senate lobby committee today, and large additional items were disclosed. W. B. S. Winans, comptroller of the company, gave the total. Under questioning, he agreed it didn't include large legal fees to John W. Davis and others. The committee called him to warn him that files of the holding company and subsidiaries would be subpoenaed to Washington, if necessary. Chairman Black said the investigators had been refused access to some records. Winans reported that the company was willing to cooperate, so the subpoena was unnecessary.

Snyder Well Heads After Heavy Shot

White and Eastland Oil Co. No. 1 D. H. Snyder, wildcat well on a trend between the Chalk and East Howard pools headed after being shot with 800 quarts Tuesday. Force of the shot failed to blow out the 240 feet of sand packing. Much gas accompanied the head which sent an oil spray over the 40 foot mast of the National machine. The well flowed for approximately 15 minutes after the head. Bailing was underway Wednesday at about 2650 feet. The test was bottomed at 3,010 feet. About 25 barrels of oil were swabbed Wednesday morning, according to reports. Operators shut the well in several weeks after contract depth of 3,000 feet was passed. For the last several hundred feet, drilling was through saturated lime, but the well never showed a lot of oil in the hole.

Passenger On Mercy Plane Friend Of Gertrude Davies

If the Pan-American air line that bore the body of Wiley Post to Oklahoma City had gone through Big Spring instead of along the northern route, one of the passengers would have discovered a friend in Big Spring he did not know was here. The passenger was Tom Ward, chief engineer of the Pan-American company. The friend is Miss Gertrude Davies, of Santa Monica, Calif., who is visiting her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Davies. A large number of company officials traveled with the curtain-drawn plane as it crossed half the continent to carry the noted aviator home. Mr. Ward has been in Honduras and the coast of western Mexico, said Miss Davies, and she did not know until she read the papers of the trip, that he had returned to California. Airport officials at Big Spring, said there was little likelihood of the plane's returning via Big Spring.

COWBOYS COP SECOND GAME IN LAMESA TOURNAMENT

ACKERLY DOWNED BY 8-7 COUNT

Harris Collects Homer And Two Triples In Four Trips

By HANK HART
LAMESA (Spl.)—Led by Manager Miller Harris, who found "Lefty" Wright for a home run and two triples in four trips to the plate, the Big Spring Cowboys leaped another of the major obstacles in their race for championship honors in the Lamesa Invitational Baseball tournament by nosing out the strong Ackerly Eagles Tuesday afternoon, 8-7.

Wright gave up a total of 13 hits to the Big Spring sluggers but had the situation under control until the fourth when the Cowhands worked him for their first run.

Bud Mahoney and Berle Cramer, shouldering the pitching duties for the first inning but managed to ride out a general uprising in the stretch innings when their mates began to find Wright. The Big Spring pair scattered eleven Ackerly hits over the route.

Harris, who accounted for six of the Cowhands' eight runs, blasted the first Big Spring run across in the fourth when he tripled behind Baker, who had led-off with a double. He went on to score in that inning, returned in the following frame to put three more runs across with his circuit smash, and stepped up in the seventh to put Wallin and Baker into pay territory with another mighty triple.

"Mileaway" Baker, with a double and a single, and Horac, Wallin, Bill Brown, and Berle Cramer with two singles each, contributed to the Big Spring victory.

Ira Coffey, with a triple, double, and a single, and Bill Berry, with two doubles and a single, led the Ackerly assault.

COSDEN, FLEW WIN TUESDAY

Coden Oilers whitewashed the Howard County Refiners in Tuesday evening's first softball game, 4-0, to advance into the third round of the Runy playoff along with the Fiewellen Stationers, who blasted out a 23-1 victory over the WOW in the second tilt of the day.

The Codenites, counting all their runs in the fourth inning, were limited to six hits by Roy Lee, but they bunched four of them in the scoring stanza to ting up their victory.

The Refiners combed the offerings of Freddy Simmons for four hits but the ace Oiler pitcher stretched these out over the route, allowing one in the first, two in the third, and one in the sixth.

The Operators started their scoring in the initial frame of the second game and succeeded in crossing the plate in every inning except the fourth.

Grovelle Malone, on the rubber for the Stationers, set the Woodmen down with five hits through the seven innings and kept the opposition scoreless until the sixth when Wood's tallied on Sheppard's kick.

The Operators batted completely around in the third inning, scoring eight runs on seven hits and a free pass. Terrazza hit twice during the batting spree.

Around And About The Sports Circuit

OBIE BRISTOW and his football boys are more or less orphans without a place to practice. Slipshod, of course, to use Bristow field at the present time, Bristow has been on the look-out for a practice ground. Some place without a lot of rocks and tall weeds.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON Obie thought he had hit it right, and took his charges to a place in Washington addition that was fairly level and afforded plenty of room for a thorough workout. Within a short time, however, nearby residents requested the grid-iron to seek another locality.

BRISTOW EXPLAINED that his mental capacity was so limited that he was unable to thoroughly absorb all of the details, but he was sure of one thing—he was not wanted in Washington Place. P. 3.—Coach is still hunting for a practice ground.

WANTED — A game with some good Class A high school football team to be played here either Friday night, Nov. 22 or Saturday night, Nov. 23. See Prin. George Sudaph at Big Spring High School.

THE OTHER day Gentry made the writer wonder why he ever thought he could play tennis. For a man of his years, Gentry moved around the court fairly fast. He competed in the recent tennis tournament here, being eliminated by a boy from Midland. Gentry tried a bluff on the local youngsters but the idea didn't get home to the Midland ace.

SOME OF you are probably aware of the fact that the Southwest conference has a rule designed to prevent the start of grid training before Sept. 10, but it falls far short of serving the purpose, according to Al Parker in the Wichita Falls Times. The schools get around the regulation by bringing their players in about Sept. 1, but it is all quite unofficial and informal because the coaches at "east ostensibly, take no part in it. The fact that the colleges have found no way to enforce the rule probably is the reason the Interscholastic league has made no effort to curb the too early start of the high school coaches.

DISTRICT 3 coaches get at the training problem just about as early as possible. Big Spring and Sweetwater launched the grind this week, and Coaches Harry Taylor and Tonto Coleman down San Angelo way have completed all preliminary action for the big start the first of next week. When you consider the fact that the earliest games scheduled are about the middle of September, it does seem too early to be starting now. Not only that, but all of the schools in this sector go in for lengthy spring training sessions.

THIS DISTRICT this season will be one of the smallest circuits in the Texas Interscholastic League organization. McCamey and Colorado, two weak teams, dropped back to Class B football, leaving three good strong clubs in the district—Big Spring, Sweetwater and San Angelo. Less district games but they should draw big gates.

SAILOR MORAN, not so popular with the local mat fans, says Sailor Watkins and Otis Clingman, also ex-gobs, were afraid to join the Navy until he got out. "I'm not bragging," Moran said, "but I could knock 'em over faster than they could set them up." Moran, 32 years of age, has been following the fight and wrestling game for more than fifteen years. He turned to it professionally when he got out of the navy in 1924. He spent four years on the high seas. The sailor fought some of the best boys in the game in his time, including Ace Hudkins, tough Nebraska Wildcat.

MORAN IS some character, a typical rough, beautiful matman, but he can almost convince you that he's a clean performer. "Sometimes they accuse me of getting a little rough," he explained, "but

Steers Out For 1st Time

Eighteen Boys Spend Two Hours Passing And Running Signals

Eighteen ambitious Steer grid-ironers reported to Coach Obie Bristow Tuesday afternoon for the first get-together of the season. Bristow issued equipment early in the afternoon and then kept the boys out for about two hours tossing a few passes and running signals. Coach will have his charges down to hard work on play study by the first of next week. Practice will be held every day except Sunday from now on starting at 2:30 p. m. and lasting for about three hours. The squad will likely be a small one, not over 30 at the most, and by the first week of September Bristow will have it trimmed down to about 25. The youngsters sliced off from the Steer squad will be sent to Ben Daniel's Junior Devil team for further seasoning.

MORAN TOSSES BOB CUMMINGS

By HANK HART
If the waffle-haired Sailor Moran had taken time to cast his eyes around the ringside and into the bleachers, and if he had cared to wrangle with the threatening fanfare which had taken temporary residence there, the outcome of the main event of the Tuesday evening program of the Big Spring Athletic Club might have been different, but the ex-gob decided to fight his battles in the ring and he put such a tame finish to the bout the faithful could not get their ire aroused in time to catch him.

Despite the jeering of Cummings' following, Moran kept his head to twice force the Alabaman to pat the mat by applying the arm lock and added to Bob's pains by picking his elbow until the arm resembles that of John Kingling's India-Rubber Man.

Amid the cat-calls, those which the women had adopted from their cousins in Casey Stengel's Ebbetts Field, the sailor, whose map indicates that he brought part of the terrors of the seas back with him, strutted around with his hands locked over his head while the "sweet music" reached his ears, but the fanfare let it be known that it was Cummings they were backing and not the gob.

Otherwise, Cummings' supporters found little to abuse the vocal cords about. Only during the second fall, which the Alabaman took after a series of drop kicks, did he flash any offensive wrestling.

Buck Weaver forced the faithful to put up with 30 minutes of the illegal tactics of Don Hill in the semi-final but he couldn't toss him and the bout went to a draw.

Hill made several nice faces which didn't seem to scare the Indian and which amused the ring-riders no little, but otherwise had trouble in staying with Weaver what time he didn't seek protection outside the ropes.

Pat Dowdy gained his third victory in four starts here by tossing Slim Dolly in the Special Event. Dowdy used a series of body slams to down the newcomer.

RACKET DYING

This racket of dragging cars through from the factory to the Pacific coast seems to have been curbed so far as Texas is concerned. Early in the spring caravan after caravan crawled through Big Spring. Now there is only an occasional one. This evil, and it was an evil, was curbed by means of taxing power. Texas slapped a stiff license fee on the cars through the state. Other states did likewise, and if enough do it, henceforth the racket will be killed. The men who work a scheme like that have a double gain. They profit immensely on their car sales. They save transportation which rightfully should go to railroads.

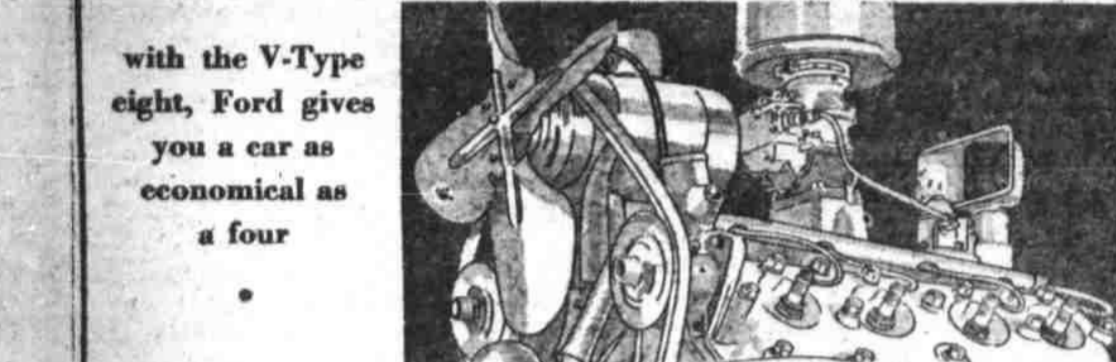

MORE SUPPORT

High school boys who go in for athletics and, we blush a bit to say it, the plaudits of the crowd, start training here today for the 1935 football campaign. There has been a tendency to over-emphasize football in many places, but half hearted support given by Big Spring to its football team could hardly be taken as an indication of over emphasis here. The city ought to back its teams more than it does. A good team is an asset to the town. A team doesn't have to always win to be good. What is more important that they be made up of good, clean, sport-loving youngsters. When we have to play cut-throat football with cut-throats, it's time to check out.

Why not own an EIGHT?

with the V-Type eight, Ford gives you a car as economical as a four.

FROM the driver's point of view, 8 cylinders make the ideal engine for a car. They give responsiveness, smoothness, quietness. And in the Ford V-8 engine, you get this performance at 4-cylinder cost. The Ford V-8 you buy today costs less to own than any car Ford ever built! Its initial cost is at rock-bottom, and includes many "extras," such as safety glass all around, big 6.00 x 16-inch air-ballon tires, built-in luggage space.

Operating costs have also been pared this year—in spring use of gas and oil, and in improvements which cut down brake, clutch, and tire wear.

When the sun is blazing hot, your motor heat goes up, too!

To protect your motor, use Germ Processed Oil, which has 2 to 4 times greater film strength and is less affected by extreme motor heat!

YOUR MOTOR runs lots hotter in Summer. That's why you must have oil that maintains high film strength under extreme temperatures to get safe lubrication. Otherwise, the lubricating film ruptures and the bearings and cylinders suffer damaging wear.

Plain mineral oils have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing methods have even less. As motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

You'll get better motor protection with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Timken machine tests prove that it has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil and that heat above 225° does not lessen this advantage.

More proof—supervised road tests were made in identical cars fitted with the new alloy metal bearings used in many 1935 cars. The bearings lubricated with a high-quality plain mineral oil showed 45% more wear than those lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil.

You'll be certain your motor is safely lubricated even at high temperatures if you say "O. K.—Drain" and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

Truth About Buying That Every Woman Should Know

"A very careful analysis of the comparative values of a number of lines of goods sold both through stores and by canvassers causes me to say that there is absolutely no question but that women who buy from stores receive more for their money."
"Exceedingly plausible sales talks have caused many women to hold the erroneous and costly belief that they can buy more cheaply from agents than from retail stores."
"They are given the impression that goods sold at the door cost less because a number of profits are wiped out. What they are not told is that the commission paid the canvasser is of necessity much larger than the regular profit of the merchant."
"All investigations show, and any woman who will investigate can prove it for herself that dollar for dollar, the retail store gives the greater value."

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie has consented to marry the wealthy airplane manufacturer, Mark Albery, because Albery has declared that otherwise he will ruin the career of Rex Moore, the airman. And Laurie loves Rex, and Rex loves Laurie, although they have allowed themselves to separate them. Now Laurie has met Rex by accident and has told him that she is to marry Albery. Rex is horrified, and disappointed with Laurie as well.

Chapter 28
ALBERY AGAIN

"It's by no means safe yet," said Rex Moore to Mark Albery, discussing the new fuel, a couple of days later. "It was just luck that we escaped yesterday. I only landed in the nick of time, and banged the engine."

"You wouldn't try it for a longer flight?"

"Not in its present state."

"It's a pity. It would make such a sensation. I think you had better put off the Pacific flight until we get it right. It would make such a huge difference to us both almost have your time."

Rex Moore looked gloomy. "I'm not at all sure that it's ever going to be any good," he said. "It's too tricky—anyhow, so far, you can't begin to tell the speed at which it becomes dangerous. Yesterday, when the first explosion happened, I was making much less than usual, owing to the wind. What can you do about that?"

"Get Gerard to go on with his experiments, my dear fellow."

"You don't want to risk lives, Mr. Albery?"

"Of course not. We must have patience and take every precaution, as we always have done. And you're not one to talk about risks, Moore!"

"I should hate to put off the Pacific flight," said the airman ungraciously.

"Well, think it over. Have a drink, Moore? You must be tired out. I asked you to come up to me so late because I was anxious to know what you really felt about it, not having seen you yesterday."

Albery got up and went to a table under a high window and poured out a whisky and soda for Rex Moore.

It was an unusual kind of room, this office of his in one of the great buildings of the Gretton Airplane Factory. It was high up on a glass-enclosed corridor that ran along one side of an enormous hangar, about 60 feet above the ground. One reached it by a spiral staircase.

Underneath was nothing but the sky.

SCENE IN AN ENGLISH GARDEN

And shut the door.

Rex Moore hesitated for a moment when he found himself in complete darkness, but he could find his way along the corridor blindfolded. He was terribly tired. The scene with Albery had upset him. There was a loud buzzing in his head. Why had he had those two drinks?

He hurried along. He would be glad to get to bed.

And, suddenly, the solid ground gave way under him. The floor of the corridor was not there. He stepped into a black abyss, with the sickening feeling of falling into space.

In the act of falling into space, Rex Moore found himself thinking of "This means death!" And in the same flash he saw himself jerklight.

Moore could see, but he could not hear for a few seconds. His heart was beating in his ears louder than any engine.

"Is anything the matter?" Albery shouted. "It that you, Moore? Did you call?"

And Albery began to walk along the corridor.

Then Rex Moore found his voice. "For God's sake, keep back!" he cried sharply. "There's a hole here. I nearly went through. Some of the boards are gone."

Albery gave vent to a shocked exclamation.

"Are you all right? Wait a minute! Don't move! I'll go down and switch on the lights."

The blackness vanished in a glare of strong white light that half blinded the airman for a few moments.

Then he slowly stood up and saw what had nearly happened to him. From the other side of the large gap in the flooring, about six foot square, Albery approached.

Rex Moore had never seen his face showing emotion before.

"Moore, what an escape! How ever did you save yourself in the dark?"

"I don't know. Instinct, I suppose," said Rex grimly.

They both peered down through the hole into the great hangar, the cement floor of which was quite 60 feet below. The explanation was simple enough. The boards that had been removed to form a trap door through which the workmen reached a narrow platform from where they could inspect the pulleys that lifted the planes up to any desired height if the hangar should be too crowded to hold them on the floor level.

Some workmen had evidently been using it, and neglected to replace it.

CHAPTER 4
WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Javert, inspector of police in a small town in France, suspects M. Madeleine, magistrate mayor of the town, and Jean Valjean, ex-galley slave, of being one and the same man. He reports the findings of his exhaustive research work to the authorities, but is laughed down as crazy. Convinced that he is right, however, Javert does M. Madeleine's every step certain that sometime, in some way he will make a mis-step—and then he'll get his man.

Fight and Flight
Jean has to make up his mind whether he will save Champmathieu or not. As he stares, he instinctively feels the iron collar round his neck—it calls him. He feels the chain in his foot. The cunning, Why should he give it all up? In a moment of hysterical rage he cries out:
"Foussant! Cancel the carriage; I'm not going."
As he comes to this decision his eyes light upon the bishop's candlesticks. The sight of them brings him up short. He stares at them fascinated. The cunning look fades.
"No. I go to Arras at once."
The court is filled to capacity, but Jean is ushered to a place behind the magistrate's chair. The old convict, Champmathieu, is standing between two gendarmes. The only similarity between him and Jean is in the build, and with his rough beard and hair he has the same expression. Jean bore while in the galley. There is no resemblance in features. The unfortunate, half-stupid defendant is added with all the evi-

"There is no M. Madeleine, there is only Jean Valjean."

Javert piled up against Jean Valjean, Champmathieu, Cocheppaille, Jean's companions of the galley, all too readily identify him.
"You all know me? You recognize me? Good—I say good—open did—ha, ha! All right, send me back to prison—You might as well—for all the chance they ever give you. If I'm not here, send me back, I say! Send me back!"

The helpless agony of the man is too much for Jean. He comes to a conclusion, and as Champmathieu concludes his hysterical outburst he leaps to his feet.
"Brevet! Champmathieu! Cocheppaille! Look this way!"
The eyes in the court turn to Jean. He stands among the privileged spectators. Jean walks across the court to the witness, turns and speaks to the court as a whole.

"I am Jean Valjean!"
"Sir—I apologize—I beg your attention—a great injustice—the witnesses are mistaken—this is not the man—I am Jean Valjean!"
The announcement makes a sensation. The court looks up at the judge.
"But it's M. Madeleine, isn't it?"
"Everybody knows him—he must be ill."
"You think I'm mad, gentlemen? My mind is clear, very clear. Look, I'll show you."
"Brevet! You had number 13 place. You paid the warden ten francs to change it to number 12!"
Brevet looks at him in amazement. "Champmathieu, your left shoulder is burned. You tried to efface the marks of the branding iron."

"Cocheppaille, your right arm, a date in blue letters put on with burnt powder. Lift up your sleeve!"
Cocheppaille does so and shows the mark.
"But, M. Madeleine," interrupts the judge.
"There is no M. Madeleine. There is only Jean Valjean. The law has a law against me. I shall be ready, you know where I am to be found."
But Jean never expects them to find him. His one thought is to lose

Buffalo Calf Takes Texas Mascot Job
CANYON, Tex. (AP)—The mascot job at West Texas State Teachers college here has been inherited by a young buffalo heifer, daughter of Charles C. and Mary Ann.
Charles C., who survived Mary Ann several years, died recently after breaking through a fence on one of his many escape attempts since the pair was purchased from the famous Goodnight ranch in 1922 for $200 each. He could run 40 miles an hour. He will be mounted and placed in the recreational hall on the Buff's campus.

Fields Plays Father Role In Laugh Hit

Henpecked Husband Herds Brood To Dream Orange Grove

W. C. Fields has acquired a family of three in his new starring comedy "It's a Gift," produced by Paramount and coming Wednesday and Thursday to the Lyric Theatre. They are Katherine Howard, as his wife, Jean Rouverol, as his daughter, and Tom Bupp, as his young son.
They, together with Baby LeRoy, form the featured supporting cast for the new Fields comedy about the henpecked grocer who yearns to own an orange ranch in California where he can just rest and watch the oranges grow.
An inheritance from his uncle makes his dream possible and, before his wife can interfere, Fields has bought the ranch from his daughter's young man and started cross-country with his family.
Their crazy voyage in a battered old car is full of thrills and comedy. But when they finally arrive at their destination they discover that the ranch is nothing but a bit of barren, sun-baked acreage.
How fortune intervenes to save the situation for Fields and give him his dream-ranch brings the film to a happy and satisfactory conclusion.
The picture has several new comedy routines by Fields, which have never before been brought to the movie, including his comedy shaving routine and a series of new stunts with Baby LeRoy.
Julian Madison, who was one of the Paramount Search for Beauty contract winners, is cast in the leading romantic role opposite Jean Rouverol.

Guests of the club were: Mmes. Emil Fahrenkamp, H. G. Foosebe, D. M. McKinney, Jim Davis, Harry Lester, Clyde Waits, Jr.
Members present were: Mmes. Herbert Whitney, W. W. Pendleton, R. F. Schermerhorn, Harold Parks, C. L. Branning, M. E. Tagum, Morris Burns, R. E. Lee and Virginia Wear, who will entertain the club next.

Optometrist Attends Lectures By Earstow

Lectures by Ralph Earstow, economist and sales counselor in Lubbock during the past week end, were heard by Dr. Amos R. Wood, local optometrist.
Earstow called attention to the tremendous economic value of the eye. Besides having an effect on the entire nervous system, the eye have a large bearing on earning power, etc. he said. Earstow also recalled how more attention is being given to children for preventative treatment.
Proper ocular training is gaining in favor and is now being used instead of glasses, in many cases, he said.
The eye is a busy organ. It makes about 72,000 fixations per day, or 6,800 per hour, said Earstow.
Dr. Wood was in Abilene Wednesday attending additional lectures by Earstow.

Team Withdraws
Due to lack of players, most of whom have gone to Lamesa, the VFW softball team has withdrawn from the playoff of the softball league.
The Carter Chevrolet Mechanics, although originally scheduled to go into the third round by reason of having drawn a bye, agreed to play the Herald Type Lice in tonight's game.
The second game will be between the Flash Refiners and the VFW, both losers of their first encounters Tuesday evening.

745 never bought so much!

Look at a Chrysler Six at $745 and up. See what it gives you for a low monthly payment that is only a little more than you would pay for the lowest-priced cars.

The Chrysler is bigger... 118 inch wheelbase. Faster, smoother... with 93 horsepower and Floating Power. Smarter, better looking, roomier, more comfortable with Chrysler's matchless floating ride. Costs very little to run.

WHY AMERICA PREFERS BUDWEISER..

It helps a perfect hostess to compliment her guests

To offer your guests beer... is simple hospitality. But to offer them BUDWEISER is a gracious compliment.

That is the reason why so many modern women, like their mothers and grandmothers before them, order BUDWEISER by the case for their homes. Its vivid taste blends with the flavors of choice foods—but is never lost.

Its nationally famous personality sets it brilliantly apart from ordinary beers. Order by the case for your home.

They thought that they were forcing the administration to buy until silver monetary stocks totalled one-fourth of the gold supply or until the price of silver reached $1.29 an ounce. But Messrs. Roosevelt and Morgenthau can't see it that way. They contend that their job is to reach the 1-to-3 ratio by buying as cheaply as possible, and not to gobble up silver so as to skyrocket the price.

The two silver spokesmen—Senator Pittman of Nevada and Senator Thomas of Oklahoma—are quarreling and that weakens their cause. Mr. Pittman is chiefly concerned with the price to the miner, and that is away up. Mr. Thomas is interested in silver as an inflationary agent, and he is getting nowhere.

Practical— The new dealers have shown smart strategy in staving off a bonus march on Washington like that which produced tragedy in July of 1932. First they sent incoming veterans to relief camps in the south, as reported in Whirligig two months ago. Then they placed the bonus bill on the calendar for next January—and it will pass.

But their cleverest stroke has had no publicity. They have won over Roy Robertson of Los Angeles, the author under Sims who staged the "death march" on Capitol Hill at the close of the 1932 session. No bonuser has as large a following as Robertson. No bonuser had as deep a grudge. Although he suffered a broken neck during his service, he could collect no compensation because of a medical technicality.

But Roy had a powerful friend—Jack Dempsey, the former prize-fight champion. Dempsey sent Roy to influential folks at Washington. They got him a lump sum of $3,600 for back compensation and $100 a month for disability. When he visits the capital now he rides in his own car. So does General Coxe, who headed the first bonus march on the capital. What's the answer?

Shift?— When New Englanders hear this news they will enter a new indictment against the New Deal.

Specifies. 3. Provides that in all counties justice precincts, and incorporated cities or towns that were dry by local option prior to adoption of the state prohibition amendment, it shall continue to be unlawful to sell intoxicants for beverage purposes at least until the subdivision itself votes a change. In a future local option election, this section will not affect the sale of 3.2 percent beer, however, in subdivisions which have legalized that beverage.

One of the first conclusions which strikes the voter is that nearly the entire state would still be dry even should the repeal amendment carry. Prior to adoption of state-wide prohibition there were only 10 counties in the state remaining completely wet and 44 partly wet.

Sees Jokers Thomas E. Love, Dallas, veteran prohibitionist sees jokers in the local option safeguards which the amendment would set up. First is the provision that local option action would bar sale of liquors for beverage purposes. This places on the state, the almost impossible burden of proving that liquor sales in dry subdivisions are for beverage purposes he says. Another is the proposal to allow the different option units to vote on prohibition of liquors of various alcoholic content. This would require proof of alcoholic content in cases of violators. A third joker Love sees is the provision for only counties, justice precincts and incorporated remaining dry if they were dry when prohibition came in. This does not provide for many dry school districts in wet counties, he points out, and the districts would have no choice but to be wet in a wet county.

In regard to the local option law, it will be noted that a unit could vote on different kinds of liquors; that is legalize beer and wines without whiskey, or vice versa; or could bar all.

Saloons? Much discussion arises over "What is a saloon?" Dry forces contend that dressing up or dignifying places which sell liquor will not alter the fact that it is a saloon. West argues that it eliminated the inherent and traditional features of the old time saloon. That is a question for consideration by the voter.

State control is another essential point. The amendment provides that the state "may" establish a control over sale of hard liquors. Should the amendment carry, it is almost certain another amendment would be up in 1936 to read the state "shall" control sale of liquors.

Arguments Chief argument of the wets is that the state to all intent and purposes is wet now and that much revenue is going untouched. They believe that if the state legalized liquor it would be brought in a measure under control and revenues boosted greatly. They also point that law enforcement of the dry law in Texas has become woefully impotent and ought to be repealed.

Dry forces point to the woes of repeal, that is the effect on drunken driving, hungry wives, children, widows, etc. They are fighting it toe nail and tooth on this ground—a moral ground.

Question arises as to whether the bootlegger would stay. Wets say no, drys yes. Wets say there would be no cause for his existence. Drys say he has increased in number since repeal in other states. Both wets and drys have been very active in the campaign. Drys have formed county organizations and carried on militant speaking campaigns. Wets have not gone so far in this respect but have gone long on publicity. After all is said and done, the voter will have to counsel with himself at the ballot box and ask if he wants prohibition or not. If he does, he should vote against the amendment. If he does not, he should vote for the amendment.

Exposition's Texas Day To Attract Many Lone Star Residents

SAN DIEGO—The great "summer roundup" of present and former residents of the Lone Star State at the California Pacific International Exposition on Wednesday, Aug. 21—Texas Day at the world's fair—is expected to attract many thousands of persons.

Chief features of the day's program, as planned by Byron C. Guyer, president of the Texas State Society of San Diego, will be Pat Neff, crack orator and former Governor of the Lone Star State and present President of Baylor University, and a record sized watermelon—weighing 100 pounds, the biggest of the 1935 Texas crop.

Neff will tell Texans and the world just where Texas stands today in universal affairs, and the watermelon will be awarded to the holder of a lucky number ticket. A special Texas Day program will start at the Organ Amphitheatre at 2:30 p. m. Besides speeches by Neff and other prominent Texans, all hands at the Bar-X ranch in Gold Gulch—realm of the pioneers in the days of '49, located in a picturesque canyon near the East Gate to the exposition and gentlemen of the Lone Star State, in 10-gallon hats, are expected to awake the echoes of familiar cries of the ranchlands. All Texas delegates will be "cowboys come to town," according to Davis, while at the world's fair.

At 2:30 p. m. in the Indian Village at America's Exposition, Chief Shooting Star will preside at ceremonies conferring the title of an Indian Chief upon Neff. Sign language interpreters, amateurs all, claim that Neff will be named Chief Popping Comet by Chief Shooting Star, but the rumor is unconfirmed.

When asked about it, Shooting Star answered "Ugh!" Mrs. J. B. Hodges, Sr., and Mrs. W. D. McDonald returned Tuesday night from a trip to several southern states, Tennessee, Georgia and Arkansas, where they visited relatives. Mrs. McDonald will leave for her home in Los Angeles this week.

Laughter, Drama Combined With Love In Movie

Laughter and drama, combined with a real love story, characterize the new Warner Bros. comedy "Don't Bet on Blondes" which will be the feature production at the Ritz Theatre, Thursday only.

Warren William, for the first time cast in a light comedy role, and Guy Kibbee, have the principal parts. They are supported by a big cast of film favorites which includes Claire Dodd, William Garagan, Vince Barnett and Hobart Cavanaugh.

"Don't Bet on Blondes" is the story of a big time gambler, Warren William, who discovers that the insurance business not only offers all the thrills of his old profession, but is entirely respectable. So he opens a miniature "Lloyd's," and undertakes to write insurance on or against anything presented to him.

One of his customers is Guy Kibbee, portraying a lovable, but worthless, old scamp who is supported by his daughter, Claire Dodd. Guy insures her against marriage for $50,000, and William, to protect his investment, adopts racketeer methods to scare off her suitors.

How he failed to frighten one of them away, and how he was compelled to pay $50,000 to his father-in-law, form but a few of the many strange and laughable situations which feature the plot of the story. Claire Dodd, heretofore a screen menace, is said to reveal new and delightful talents in a sympathetic "good woman" role. Others in the cast are Mary Treen, Spencer Charters, Herman Bing, Clay Clement, Errol Flynn, Maude Eburne, Walter Byron, Jack Norton and Eddie Shubert.

Robert Florey directed.

Allene Good Is Made Texas U. Instructor

AUSTIN—Numerous changes in the teaching staff of the University of Texas were approved by the board of regents at that institution in its regular meeting.

Appointments include: Miss Allene Good, part-time instructor in physical training for women.

Miss Good was a teacher in junior high school here for the year 1933-34. Last year she went to Mercedes. The last half of the year she taught in Thomas Jefferson high school, San Antonio. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Good of this city.

Mrs. A. S. Barnett, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wasson, returned to Dallas Wednesday morning.
