Linda Kaye Henning, "Petticoat Junction" Betty Jo, Appearing at Hayloft Theater

Today's Linda Kaye Henning is a far cry from the girl who played the role of simple, homespun Betty Jo on "Petticoat Junction" for seven years. That girl has grown into a warm, sophisticated and talented actress whose roles have run the gamut from the gentle daughter of Tevye in "Fiddler on the Roof" to a sexy striptease dancer in "Gypsy".

Now, Miss Henning is giving Lubbock theater audiences a treat as Josefa, the childlike and completely captivating chambermaid in "A Shot in the Dark", at the Hayloft Dinner Theater.

Those who followed "Petticoat Junction" will remember that Linda married her co-star Mike Minor, both on and off screen. After four and one half years of marriage, they are now divorced.

When she is at home and at leisure, she attends classes at UCLA, specializing in English Literature, purely for the pleasure of learning. She also attends, as well as addresses, acting seminars. She is involved in dancing and singing lessons and works out in a gym regularly. And, there are

"On Cap's Corner" Column to Appear For "Try-Out" Position in Local News

A country town Texas newsman syndicates column for publication in small daily and weekly newspapers in Texas.

Clark Williams, author, lecturer, singer and artist lives in Mt. Pleasant, Texas. He has been working at the Mt. Pleasant Daily Tribune for the past five years as a news feature writer and advertising man. Most of his working career was spent in New York City as an advertising man working on some of America's "blue chip" accounts. While at the Mt. Pleasant Tribune, Williams developed a column, "On Cap's Corner," where he recaptured the days of his youth in Mt. Pleasant in the thirties.

In it he told of his experiences during both his youth and adult life, and reviewed his many thoughts. One day he can be humorous and light, then deep and thought provoking in another. His thoughts can lead to deep analytical penetration or explode into enthusiasm in helping improve conditions and bring about a positive attitude.

Williams has been known at times to become a little controversial when necessary to aid in a worthy cause.

One of his many readers wrote, "I've never lived very far from home during my adult life, nor experienced the things of life that are hard. Through your writings I understand things that I've never heard of before."

From Houston a reader writes, "I definitely feel you, Mr. Williams, have much to share with your readers. We are avid readers of the Dallas Morning News, the Houston Chronicle and the Mt. Pleasant Daily Tribune. Your column is one of the best written and truly journalistic of most we read in any paper."

This newspaper plans to run "On Cap's Corner" for the next few weeks to see how you like this new column from the pen of an East

Tips on Cotton Disease Control

Cotton farmers can reduce disease losses and increase profits by purchasing high quality seed and planting early, notes Alan J. Fires, County Extension Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Five of the nine major cotton diseases in Texas are seed-borne. These include Anthracnose, Ascochyta or wet weather blight, bacterial blight, boll rot and the seedling diseases.

The fungi and bacteria causing these diseases can be eliminated or reduced by using high quality, acid delinted seed that has also been treated with a fungicide. The acid delinting process eliminates or reduces disease causing organisms on the seed surface while the fungicide provides protection for the seed and seedling in the soil.

Since cotton root rot organisms require soil temperatures above 80 degrees to grow, early planting can reduce root rot losses and maximize production, continues the agent.

The earliness complex maturity within 120 days of planting can be accomplished by using high quality seed that will insure a good stand with the first planting. Early maturing cotton varieties are also available.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has developed several strains with an earliness factor that allows earlier planting to achieve a good stand under adverse conditions. These strains, TAMCOT SP-21, 23 and 37, will achieve their maximum potential if planted seven to ten days earlier than standard varieties. They are both storm resistant and multiple disease resistant.

Additional information on these new cottons can be obtained from the County Extension Office. Some have been grown in demonstration tests in the county.

Reduce Necessary Ironing

Cutting down ironing chores saves two kinds of energy, your own as well as electrical.

Man made fibers and permanent press finishes have significantly reduced ironing chores in many households. Even so, recent reports indicate the average U.S. family uses more electricity for ironing than for radio-record players.

To reduce need for this, don't overdry clothes. Also avoid hot temperatures with permanent press items. Using a dryer's "cool down" cycle removes most wrinkles.

Regardless of dryer cycle, remove clothes as soon as they are dry. This way, most won't even need a touch up. To prevent wrinkling, removed bed sheets from dryer while slightly damp.

EASTER - THE RESURRECTION

Luke 23:50, 55-56 & Luke 24:1-9

From The Living Bible

Then a man named Joseph, a member of the Jewish Supreme Court, from the city of Arimathea in Judea, went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. As the body was taken away, the women from Galilee followed and saw it carried into the tomb. Then they went home and prepared spices and ointments to embalm him; but by the time they were finished it was the Sabbath, so they rested all that day as required by the Jewish law. But very early on Sunday morning they took the ointments to the tomb - and found that the huge stone covering the entrance had been rolled aside. So they went in - but the Lord Jesus' body was gone. They stood there puzzled, trying to think what could have happened to it. Suddenly two men appeared before them, clothed in shining robes so bright their eyes were dazzled. The women were terrified and bowed low before them. Then the men asked, "Why are you looking in a tomb for someone who is alive? He isn't here! He has come back to life again! Don't you remember what he told you back in Galilee - that the Messiah must be betrayed into the power of evil men and be crucified and that he would rise again the third day?" Then they remembered, and rushed back to Jerusalem to tell his eleven disciples - and everyone else - what had happened.

SIT DOWN BUM AND BRING ON DE GOILS

Many years ago in Jersey City, I was given a job to sing in a strip joint. I almost turned around and left, after finding out what the place was. For some unknown reason I stayed on for the show. The crowd was really noisy when it came my turn to sing; so I stood in front of the microphone and didn't utter a sound.

The crowd yelled, "Bring on de goils! Sit down bum and go!" Finally a great big fellow said, "Ain't you gonna do somepin'?"

"I was going to sing," I answered, "but I feel more like talking. How about talking to you soldier?" The soldier came forward and I asked "Why did you come here tonight?"

He didn't say a word, just reached into his shirt pocket and handed me a telegram. I read it aloud, "Dear Son, You better come home quick - Stop - Pop just died - Stop - Love Mom."

The crowd grew quiet during the reading of the telegram. "We are glad you came tonight," I said, "so we may share with you in remembering your father by singing his favorite song. What is it?"

"The Lord's Prayer," the young soldier answered. "What do you want me to sing?", I asked. He replied, "The Lord's Prayer." I leaned over to the pianist, who was Jewish and asked, "Lennie, do you know Mallotte's Lord's Prayer?" He stopped chewing on his gum and said, "Sure!" You could have heard a pin drop, it was so quiet.

About halfway through the song an inebriated couple came in and the woman screamed out, "Its sacrilegious to sing that in here." She kept repeating it, until someone quieted her. Tears swelled in my eyes and my throat became dry. When I finished singing, the smoke-filled bar was so quiet that the silence was deafening.

I don't know what made me say what I did. It was as though words were formed in my mouth. I remember saying, "If I offended anyone I am very sorry. If any of you thought you left the Great Architect outside the door, you are sadly mistaken, because he stands beside me now. I feel like the old darkie, Vincent Youmen wrote about in 'Without A Song.' Play it Lennie." When I finished singing, the applause was deafening. People jumped upon the little stage, shook my hand, and put their arms about me. I not only stayed there for the rest of the weekend, but for many more.

No matter how dingy or low, life may seem to be, there's always a spark to light and shine for all to see. Be not afraid to do what is asked of you, when you know it is right within the confines of your heart. To do is the greatest lesson in the art of living.

Fold them and they'll press themselves. Or line dry them, most wrinkles will hang out.

Certain items such as work or play clothes, benefit little from pressing. They are wrinkled so quickly in these activities that ironing won't matter. Iron several items at one time to make the most of the energy used to heat the iron. Also, dampen clothes, or use steam, to save time. To prevent repeated temperature adjustment, iron items requiring similar temperatures at the same time.

Henry Aaron played, had two strikeouts and a groundout and would you be surprised if Bowie Kuhn opened an investigation to see if the new home run king had goofed off on purpose?

Since this is being written Sunday, I have no way of knowing if Kuhn ordered such an investigation, but in view of his ordering the Braves to play Aaron, it would be in keeping. The commissioner far overstepped his rightful bounds in such an order.

Is the commissioner going to step into every case and order managers to play star players on any occasion? Why doesn't he just take over making out the lineups each day for every team?

Aaron played in the opening game, hit a record-tying 714th home run. He, and the Braves, did their part and who can fault Eddie Matthews for saving the possible tie-breaking 715th home run for the Atlanta fans? No one, except the commissioner of baseball.

This is an unprecedented situation, because no one has ever come close to breaking Babe Ruth's mark. No one thought that Aaron, or anyone else, would do it. Thus, Ruth wasn't held out of the lineup so that he could hit the 714th in his home park.

Do you think that Aaron really had his heart in the game Sunday? Of course he didn't. He played because he was told to play, and because the penalties otherwise might have been too much to overcome.

So, the 1974 baseball campaign is off to a rousing and controversial start. Otherwise, it is running about true to form. It looks like a successful season and Aaron wasted no time in answering a lot of questions, on and off the field.

It should be a good season. There are too many teams, but that decision was made some time ago and must be lived with, while a new league looms on the horizon. If it comes to fruition, the question will be, is it really major league baseball we're watching?

Can't you use your influence, we implored Polk Robison Sunday morning, to do something about the proposed conference playoffs in basketball.

"Shoot, I'm all for it, I helped to get the idea across," Polk replied, launching into an explanation of why he thought it was a good idea for the conference. In short, the main concern is money, as last week's column indicated.

If you remember, Bob Galt of the Dallas Times-Herald disclosed that Tech was the only league school to support basketball, and Tech made something like $60,000 according to Galt.

Arkansas lost about $100,000 and Texas about $90,000 despite winning the championship. Everyone else lost money, and in this day of increasing athletic expenses, no school can afford this luxury. Therefore, something has to be done.

Polk said that he wasn't sure yet that he was for the eventual tournament winner being named conference champion or not. The regular season first place team could be declared the champion, with the post-season tournament winner going to the NCAA playoffs.

The post-season tournament ought to generate a lot of enthusiasm, Polk pointed out, with every team having a chance to win. The first place team would draw a bye to the finals, with the other teams fighting for a chance to play for the NCAA berth.

Polk wouldn't buy the idea that a cellar team that won and went to the NCAA playoffs, if that should happen, would be a weak representative.

"They'd have momentum going for them," Polk said. "They'd have won four straight games. Every team would have a chance and it ought to generate a lot of interest. And the schools need financial help. This tournament would get it for them."

The Atlantic Coast holds a post season tournament and the winner of that is the conference champion. Polk isn't sure that he'd like to see the SWC follow the same pattern, but he does favor the tournament.

"In fact, I'd like to see a pre-season tournament again", he declared.

The conference once had one, in the period just before the Jan. 1 bowl games. It never was a rip-roaring success and, too often, it merely gave all the teams a chance for heavy scouting.

We, around here, have taken spring for granted because there has been virtually no winter, but in other parts of the country snow, ice and blizzards have been common.

Thus, the arrival of the L.L. Bean Spring Catalogue has been almost forgotten. This catalogue generally precedes spring and sets the snow-bound angler panting for the opening of trout season. Had a letter from a friend in the frozen North and he was ready to go, even though ice covered the lakes, rivers, ponds and brooks.

The Bean catalogue changes little from year to year, except prices, which have risen steadily, in keeping with nationwide trends. Still, it is a pleasure to pore over the pages.

Many of the items can be purchased in local stores all over the nation. But many are time-tested productions of the late Mr. Bean, who never sold an article that he hadn't first used to test. Whether you buy or not, the Bean catalogue deserves a place in your sports library, spring and fall.

This isn't a sports note, but an observation on one of the things that is wrong with this nation.

The speed limit was set at 55 mph to conserve gasoline, make it go farther and be equitable to all. It probably has been as successful as prohibition was.

In travels from here to Fredericksburg and Junction, to set the extreme of my area, I have cruised at 55 mph. I found I got better mileage and economy definitely is a factor in my job.

Aside from saving money, and not taking that much longer, it gives you a good opportunity to see who's on the road, for almost everyone passes you, including cars with "exempt" license plates.

The general public passes you as though there is no tomorrow and to heck with you, or anyone else, if gas runs short. The attitude is "I'm not going to change my habits."

Fall Fertilizer Use Up Sharply

Texas farmers applied more fertilizer to their cropland last fall than usual. Recent figures show that fertilizer use increased a whopping 67 per cent during the last half of 1973 compared to the same period in 1972.

"The trend definitely points to more fall fertilization", says Dr. Charles Welch, soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who heads up the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory at Texas A&M University.

"Of course, the energy crisis which has curtailed fertilizer production, uncertainty about prices and other factors had a hand in persuading farmers to put down their fertilizer early."

According to Welch, suppliers normally build up an inventory of fertilizer during the fall and winter months. "But that's not the case this year. There has been little building of inventories over the past few months, so spring fertilizer supplies will definitely be tight"

The increased use of fertilizer last fall pushed the total volume of fertilizer used by farmers in 1973 to 26 per cent more than the 1972 volume.

Vows Exchanged Friday Night

Miss Teresa Ann Mason became the bride of Randel Ray Bowler in a double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 5th in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Mason of Shallowater.

Mother of the bride groom is Mrs. Joy Hickman of Lubbock. Performing the nuptial service was Rev. Max Browning, minister of the First United Methodist Church of Shallowater. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Bowler attended Shallowater School and will graduate from Frenship High School in May.

Grandmother of the bride is Mrs. Antha Huffman of Post, Texas. The bridegroom is a graduate of Frenship High School and is now employed by Bob's Import Service in Lubbock.

The couple will reside at 4410-B Boston Avenue in Lubbock. A reception immediately followed the ceremony.

Services Held for Mrs. Gertrude Holloway

Mrs. Gertrude Holloway, 67, of Shallowater, died at 1 a.m. Thursday in Central Plains Hospital in Plainview.

Services for Mrs. Holloway were held April 6th in Sanders Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Allan Cartrite, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Shallowater, officiating.

Burial was in the City of Lubbock Cemetery under the direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

A native of Louisville, Miss., Mrs. Holloway was a resident of Shallowater for 10 years before moving to Plainview three months ago.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Shallowater.

Survivors include her husband, Lenaid; four sons, Earnest who is now in Germany, Joe of New York City, Melwyn of Fort Worth and Robert of Shallowater; three daughters, Mrs. Maxine Weaver of Fort Worth, Mrs. Remona Miller of Tulsa and Mrs. Annie Lou Moburg of Bakersville, Calif.; two brothers, Hubert Dempsey of Winnsboro, La., and Huey Dempsey of California; two sisters, Mrs. Kathrine Thompson of Iota, La., and Mrs. Dorothy Coleman of Winnsboro, La. and 10 grandchildren.

1974 hold as far as fertilizer production and use is concerned?

"About 2.5 million tons of fertilizer should be available to Texas farmers through June if production continues at the present pace. But this is below the amount farmers would like to use," notes the A&M Specialist.

However, fertilizer use during the first six months may be a little difficult to predict due to the increased volume applied last fall, says Welch.

In past years about two-thirds of the total volume of fertilizer used has been applied during the first half of the year. If that holds true this year, then the total volume of fertilizer used from July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974 could reach almost three million tons, about one-half million more than the volume for the same period a year ago.

"With the nationwide move toward increased agricultural production, Texas farmers appear to be well on their way to contributing their share," believes Welch.
