

Local School's Defense Class Gets Approval

Instruction May Begin Here By February 15

Application of the Big Spring school board for a national defense training class has been approved by the state board of vocational education, Pascal Buckner, district supervisor, said Saturday.

This left action on an application for equipment as the only remaining factor in the way of a comparatively early start on the program. Requisitions for machinery must be passed upon in Washington, said the district supervisor. If the material is forthcoming, it is possible that classes could be started by Feb. 15.

Refresher courses in machine tooling, electricity, and possibly aviation sheet metal and automobile mechanics are within the scope of the training program as well as job schooling for out-of-school youths between the ages of 17 and 24.

The school board has made available around 5,000-square feet of floor space in the wing of the high school building which formerly was ground floor for the old auditorium wing. In addition, a limited amount of hand tools will be furnished.

There are no accurate estimates on the capital outlay involved in equipment to be furnished out of federal defense training funds, but informed sources said that it might conceivably approximate $10,000 to $12,000. In the absence of definite information, it was stated positively that the shop would be equipped "adequately."

Federal funds also provide for instructors, supplies, light, power, and janitor service.

According to Texas State Employment Service figures, there are 115 men eligible for refresher courses and 147 out-of-school youths in the classification for job training in connection with national defense industrial training needs.

If Washington approves equipment appropriations, the school here will be the first in West Texas to go into operation. Lubbock and Amarillo have in operation but are providing new building space. Monahan and Odessa have in smaller applications.

Dana X. Bible To Talk Here

Dana X. Bible, miracle man of Southwest football for the moment, will be the featured speaker at the annual football banquet here Jan. 21.

Burke Summers, president of the sponsoring Lions club, said that Bible had accepted an invitation to appear here on that date.

Members and coaches of the district championship Big Spring grid team will be honor guests of the club. Summers said that tickets for the affair would go on sale soon. Bible, already one of the better known coaches of the nation, achieved a full measure of recognition the past season by setting a plan whereby his Texas team upset the mighty Aggie machine.

WILLIAMSON RETURNS
H. F. Williamson is back in Big Spring after an absence of five months. For 18 years a resident of this city, he was transferred to Baird last summer as storekeeper for Texas and Pacific Railway, but has been returned here as sectional stockman.

CAMP FINISHED
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—All facilities at a new tent camp at Fort Bliss, Tex., will be ready next Wednesday for reception of the 26th Coast Artillery (anti-aircraft), District of Columbia national guard, the war department announced today.

OKLAHOMA INDIANS MAKE TOP SOLDIERS, U. S. ARMY LEARNS

FORT BENNING, Ga., Jan. 11 (AP)—Whooping redskins whose untamed grandparents roamed the western plains seem delighted with the white man's way of making war, talking to the army's tough recruit training with irrepressible good humor.

"They'll fight a circular saw at the drop of a hat," boasted veteran Sergeant John H. Hooper of Columbia, S. C., who said he had been handling recruits for fifteen years and found these twelve Indians from Oklahoma "the best I ever saw."

The Indians are volunteers furnished by the Oklahoma tribesmen in response to a call from the army and there's nothing of the silent inscrutable red man about them.

Major T. J. Tully, signal officer for the fourth division, recalled that Indians were useful in signal work in the World War and proposed to utilize their "latent talents as woodsmen."

Hitler Suggests Roosevelt Use Teddie's Mode Of Talk

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (Sunday)—(AP)—A front page editorial called "Thus Spake Roosevelt" in today's issue of Velkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, cites excerpts from speeches of Theodore Roosevelt and declares it would be worthwhile for Franklin Roosevelt to re-read that "elegant bundle of spoken wisdom."

The article, which reflects German pique at recent talks by the United States president, quotes Theodore Roosevelt's Chicago address of April 2, 1903, in which it said he declared that "great statesman of a great people owe it to the nation's self-respect to speak politely of foreign powers."

Bulgars Tell Futility Of Resistance Against Requests Of Germany

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 11 (AP)—Apparently referring to the supposition that Germany may soon demand the privilege of sending troops through Bulgaria toward Greece and the Dardanelles, a member of the government majority in parliament declared in effect today that Bulgaria must open her doors if requested by a great power to do so.

Druggists To Convene Here March 18-20

Dates for the spring convention of the West Texas Druggists association in Big Spring have been fixed as March 18, 19 and 20, Charles Frost, past president of the organization, announced Saturday.

At the same time, he disclosed committees for the convention had been named and arrangements were started for the gathering.

Frost will serve as general chairman. Speakers for the event have not been chosen, but the convention usually manages to secure outstanding leaders in the drug store field.

Other committee chairmen are: Alfred Collins, attendance; Monroe Johnson, attendance and registration; Wayne Gound, program; J. D. Elliott, advertising; Shine Phillips, gifts and prizes; Willard Sullivan, luncheons; and Tom Brennan, introductions and activities.

Attack Claims C. E. Popejoy

Charles E. Popejoy, 63, died Saturday afternoon shortly after suffering an attack.

He expired at headquarters of the 24 Taxi company, operated by his son, C. V. Popejoy, a few minutes after the attack, which came on a downtown street.

Funeral will be held at Eberly chapel at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon with the Rev. Homer Sheats, Assembly of God minister, officiating. Drivers for the 24 Taxi company will serve as pallbearers.

A native of Groesbeck, Mr. Popejoy had lived in Big Spring 10 years.

Survivors include two sons, C. V. of Big Spring and C. A. of Odessa; a stepson, Joe Jackson of Lubbock; and four daughters, Mrs. Flora Bell Oldham of Arkansas, Mrs. J. C. Huffer of Wichita Falls, Ada Ruth Popejoy of Odessa, and Mrs. Wayne Hayward of Kermit.

After the community groups have finished work, the adjustments will be reviewed by the county committee before becoming final.

The staff committee, composed of S. F. Buchanan, R. E. Martin and Lem Dennis, will convene at the AAA office on Tuesday and the west committee, made up of R. D. Anderson, M. L. Hamlin, and Cecil Phillips, will meet Wednesday.

Solons Believe FD Could Seize Ships
WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A study of the administration's British aid bill led some legislators to the conclusion today that it would empower President Roosevelt to seize foreign merchant ships in American ports and turn them over to Britain, if he desired.

There were 266 such vessels—refugees from the war—tied up in American ports on Jan. 1. Spokesmen in Berlin and Rome have indicated that it would be regarded as an act of war if the United States made these craft available to Britain.

Fast Work Of Firemen Saves Much Of City

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP)—This Citadel of Britain stood firm tonight against an onslaught of hundreds of fire and explosive bombs dropped by squadrons of heavy German bombers in a short but intense raid.

The attack threatened but never achieved the destruction done in London's great fire of 1940—the "fire blitz" Dec. 29 on the "City," London's crowded, old financial district.

If, as it seemed for a while, the Luftwaffe was trying to repeat that devastation on an even wider scale, observers said it failed.

Volunteer fire watchers and fighters rallied as incendiaries hurtled down. They extinguished fire which were so bright for a time that you could read a newspaper on the blacked out city's roofs.

An Associated Press reporter saw at least 50 incendiaries splash to the ground at one time and start rows of bright blue lights. One by one they went out as firemen reached them.

The dome of St. Paul's Cathedral once again stood out impressively against the flaming backdrop. But, unlike the earlier raid, the main blazes were speedily put out, even in sections where there are no residents or night workers and even though there were more planes and more bombs in a shorter time.

The strain on fire fighting apparatus appeared not to be as great and there was no indication that it was necessary to call in fire-fighting apparatus from outlying districts.

Changing weather conditions were believed to have caused the abrupt all-clear after about four hours because of the risk of landing crashes for the bombing bombers.

The raiders appeared to have developed a new "dynamic sandwich" technique. First they dropped incendiaries, then high explosives—as they usually do after fire bombs light up targets—but tonight they finally loosed more incendiaries. It was believed they hoped to set fire to debris caused by the high explosives.

The fire officer reported "there were at least 20 watchers for every bomb that fell and we had them out in no time."

Completion Of Electric Co-Op Lines Nears

O. E. Bryan, manager of the Caprock Electrical Co-Operative, announced that 28 miles of active line had been added Saturday to Howard county's unit of the REA with energization of the system from airview northeast to the Luther and Gay Hill communities.

Completion of the Howard county unit will become a reality next Friday or Saturday with installation of service wires to Center Point, Sand Spring and R-Bar. Bryan said 85 miles of line had been energized and the work next week will bring the mileage to 134.

Plans for a B system of REA for this area of West Texas are still hanging fire, Bryan announced. He predicted that the secondary unit would be approved near the first of February.

AAA Committees To Fix Allotments
Community committees will convene this week to make individual farm allotments of general crop acreage for Howard county farms.

The allotment is virtually unchanged this year in comparison with a year ago. M. Weaver, county AAA administrative assistant, said Saturday.

Looks like now the school is going to get a national defense training program. If some way could be worked out to get an additional 5,000 square feet of floor space, there is every reason to believe that a CAA approved aviation shop (See THE WEEK, Page 10, Col. 2)

Ticket Sale For Chamber Dinner Starts

Mayor Dunham Buys
First Duca's For
January 23 Event

Mayor G. C. Dunham tossed in the "first ball" Saturday for the ticket drive for the annual chamber of commerce banquet January 23 by purchasing the first pair of tickets placed on sale.

Meanwhile, J. C. Douglas, Jr., and Schley Riley, head of the attendance committee, met to map plans for securing a large crowd for the event.

Dr. George C. Hester, head of the department of government at Southwest University in Georgetown, will be the principal speaker and the Rev. P. D. O'Brien, Stamford, will be toastmaster.

As officials concentrated on re-organization details in advance of the banquet, considerably more than 100 members had returned lists of 20 men as nominees for directors. The 20 highest will be tabulated and sent out by Tuesday for selection of 10 by the membership. When canvass of returns is complete, a meeting of the new board will be called to complete the list with five appointees and to name a nominating committee.

A preliminary draft of new by-laws for the chamber will be presented to chamber directors Monday for study. Later a draft will be furnished to members of action. The directors' parley is set for noon Monday at the Settles.

School Term Ends Here On January 27

End of the first semester for the Big Spring high school has been set for Jan. 27, school officials disclosed Saturday.

Examinations for the semester will start on Jan. 23 and registration of new students is to get underway the following day. Report cards will be issued on Jan. 27 and new schedules and assignments will be made the same day in preparation for start of the second half work the following day.

Extra time for Christmas holidays, occasioned by the flu epidemic, will be added to the second semester, pushing the school closing date back three days to May 29. Only remaining holiday on the calendar is March 14, date of the West Texas Teachers association annual meeting here.

'No Comparison' In Raid Results, Says Germany's Goering

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—"No comparison is possible" between the bombs Germans have dropped on Britain and those the British have dropped on Germany, Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering declared tonight.

The German air force, he said, has inflicted 80 to 70 per cent of British production and the British have put out of commission not a single German factory.

The Reichsmarshal, head of the Nazi Luftwaffe and Adolf Hitler's No. 1 lieutenant, spoke at the Fliers' club before 574 miners honored with war service crosses. His speech, on the eve of his 48th birthday, was broadcast.

Goering told the miners that Britain needs the arrival and departure of from 200 to 300 ships a day to keep up her economy and that "when these ships become fewer and fewer and eventually none," difficulties ensue.

Five Get Chance At Boulder Job

BOULDER, Colo., Jan. 11 (AP)—Five coaches have been invited to Boulder for interviews regarding the head football coach opening at the University of Colorado. Athletic Director Harry G. Carlson reported tonight.

The coaches to be interviewed and their present positions are: Blair Cherry, assistant football coach, University of Texas, Austin; Russell Murphy, assistant football coach, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.; Stanley Williamson, line coach, Oklahoma University, Norman, Okla.; W. B. Woodson, head football coach, Arkansas State Teachers College, Conway, Ark.; and James Yeager, head football coach, Iowa State College, Ames, Ia.

Air-Raid Alarms Sound In Geneva
GENEVA, Jan. 12 (Sunday) (AP)—Five air raid alarms in Geneva last night and early today set a record for any Swiss city in a single night as waves of unidentified planes were reported over the western tip of this neutral country.

The planes were said to be passing toward Italy and back. Reports reaching Bern said the northern Italian industrial city of Turin was being bombed.

SITES FOR EIGHT BASES IN ATLANTIC SELECTED

WAR ON TWO AFRICAN FRONTS—While the British army of the Nile pressed on across the Libyan desert west of Tobruk (1), Cairo headquarters announced extension of the war to Italy's East African possessions. Capture of Serobatib (2) on the Ethiopian-Sudan border was claimed by the British who also said they had recaptured Buna in Kenya colony and had taken El Wak (3) in Italian East Africa. The East Africa campaign, the British said, was encouraging native uprising against the Italians.

The principal delay in reaching agreement on the sites resulted from study of several possible bases at Trinidad.

Trinidad officials proposed reclamation of 25 square miles of marsh land, which was found unacceptable for the American military and naval experts.

The state department announcement included a statement by the governor of Trinidad explaining the reclamation proposal but accepting the American choice of sites.

In return for leases on the eight bases, the United States already has turned 50 World War destroyers over to Britain. This country will pay no rent on the sites, but must reimburse individuals whose property is taken over for the bases, or who suffer damages as a result of their construction.

State department officials said that actual construction work already has been started on the Newfoundland base, and that survey and preliminary engineering work has been completed or is in progress at Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Trinidad, St. Lucia, Antigua, British Guiana.

1,000 Pay Poll Taxes

Howard county's visible voting strength stood at little more than 1,000 Saturday as the time for poll tax payments and acquisition of exemption certificates narrowed to 17 days.

At closing time Saturday there had been a total of 978 poll taxes paid and 42 exemption certificates issued. Not counted in voting strength were eight poll tax aliens, who must pay poll tax along with ad valorem taxes although they have no right of franchise.

Actually, voting strength would be considerably higher due to the permanent exemptions. Deadline for qualifying as voters for 1941 is Jan. 31. School trustee and city elections are on tap for the year and special elections could be called.

AAA CHECKS ARRIVE
More checks for soil conservation activities are expected here this week as the AAA office announced Saturday as 61 checks totaling $9,452.55 were distributed. The checks were first on applications transmitted after Dec. 1. To date 791 checks for $118,917.14 have been received here for soil conservation and building activities.

Italians Don't Run, Greeks Don't Stop--
THEY JUST SHOOT, STAB, DIE

By J. WES GALLAGHER
WITH THE GREEK ARMY ON THE CENTRAL ALBANIAN FRONT, Jan. 9 (Delayed) (AP)—Here on a misty mountain slope of Devil's Gap leading into strategic Klisura lay the twisted green-clad bodies of Italian infantrymen I saw die under a Greek bayonet charge today.

Their calms were little mounds of bright red unexploded Italian hand grenades.

From nearby mountain posts I saw a two-day battle in which the stocky Greek mountain troops defeated two Italian divisions, captured a great number of prisoners, and smashed fascist communications between Klisura and Berat to the north.

From an observation post 2,000 feet up I watched Greek columns fight their way down into the valley from even higher posts.

Great Britain, U. S. Agree On All Locations

State Department
Says Work Underway
In Newfoundland

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Secretary Hull tonight announced that agreement had been reached by the United States and Great Britain on sites for eight American air and naval bases to be constructed on British possessions in the western hemisphere.

Formal 99-year, rent free, leases will be signed, officials added, as soon as an American mission composed of Charles Fahy, assistant solicitor general; Col. Harry J. Malony, U. S. army; and Commander Harold Blesemer, U. S. navy, work out technical details with British officials. They will go to London via Lisbon on the Clipper leaving January 17.

The sites agreed upon were those recommended by a board of American experts headed by Rear Admiral John W. Greenleaf, which inspected proposed sites in the autumn.

The principal delay in reaching agreement on the sites resulted from study of several possible bases at Trinidad.

Trinidad officials proposed reclamation of 25 square miles of marsh land, which was found unacceptable for the American military and naval experts.

The state department announcement included a statement by the governor of Trinidad explaining the reclamation proposal but accepting the American choice of sites.

Train Length Law Upheld In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 11 (AP)—Constitutionality of an Oklahoma law limiting flight train lengths to 70 cars or less was upheld today by a special three-judge federal tribunal.

Lack of a supreme court ruling on the subject had brought widespread attention to the case. Six similar suits are pending in federal district court here.

The tribunal held in a majority decision agreed upon by Judges A. P. Murray and Sam G. Houston that the statute involved a safety measure upon which the state legislature properly could act.

They ruled the preponderance of evidence showed that the longer the train, the greater the shock to employes and case takers when air brakes are applied and that it is impossible to see effectively from caboose to engine on the longer trains.

Judge Edgar S. Vaughn, in a dissenting opinion, said evidence tended to show that trains longer than 70 cars were freer from accidents than the shorter trains.

thin line of advancing Greeks showed gaps under a heavy machinegun fire, but the attack never wavered.

With a yell the Greeks dove into the Italian positions. Temporarily out of sight they appeared a little later leading a string of prisoners.

Guards were hastily detailed for those captured, and this Greek unit now veered off toward Klisura and plunged down toward the valley floor where small pockets of Greeks and Italians were struggling.

But caught between Greek forces advancing from both ends of Devil's Gap these fascists soon surrendered, and the noise of a bugle drifted up to us.

Romance And Comedy In Europe Is Theme Of 'Arise, My Love'

Claudette Colbert, Ray Milland Stars At Ritz

With the magnificent surge of the drama of our times; with the frothy light-hearted gaiety of romance in Paris; with the poignance of love on the brink of disaster, a stirring new photoplay brings Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland to the Ritz theatre today and Monday.

It is "Arise, My Love," produced by Arthur Hornblow and directed with all the genius and insight that have characterized the previous motion pictures of Mitchell Leisen. "Arise, My Love" is the story of fighters. Claudette Colbert, as an audacious newspaper woman, fights the despots of Europe with words. Ray Milland, a flying fool, speaks above the clouds with roaring machine guns.

They meet in Spain where she saves his life. He pursues her deviously to Paris, where in one outrageously gay scene Claudette looks her shoes in the safe to keep her heart from straying. But it is inevitable that they lose their hearts to each other. With the realization of love comes a new timidity. They want to run to the safety of America. They almost do, but a submarine intervenes and they are thrown back on the shores of

LOVE WITH FRICTION—Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland are teamed in a new comedy romance which has war and European adventure as a background. It is the Ritz theatre's offering for today and Monday, "Arise, My Love," and depicts a couple of strong-willed characters scrapping, loving and having fun.

Europe in the middle of the battle of France.

Their story goes on to the bitter end at the Forest of Compiègne, and here the lovers meet again and resolve to come back to America. But now it is with chins held high and hearts singing, because they are ready to tell their land what the great fight is about.

With the two leading roles splendidly portrayed by Miss Colbert and Milland, there is no lack of fine supporting characters. Outstanding are the portrayal of a harassed press editor by Walter Abel, and the brief but unforgettable role played by Esther Dale.

Red Cross Office Is Busy Scene

The Red Cross sewing room next door to Hodges grocery continues to be a scene of busy activity.

Mrs. George Hall gives some time each day to cutting dresses, and Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, director of the sewing work, has challenged anybody to show more speed. Mrs. C. C. Miller and Mrs. Rudd have finished their dresses and taken more out to work on. Mrs. White has finished knitting the collars on two sweaters. Mrs. Ernest Brewer has tied up several bundles of convalescent robes and hospital pajamas for shipment. Mrs. Doll Long has brought in a report from Garden City community on the sewing work there. Mrs. R. V. Jones has started her third sweater since Christmas. Mrs. Parmalee, Mrs. Lenox, Mrs. Orme, Mrs. Carlington are knitting. Mrs. Fiewellen brought in a whole box of baby garments recently and took out yarn for a sweater.

The world war troopship Mount Vernon, once the pride of the German merchant marine when she was the Kronprinzessin Cecile, is being scrapped at Baltimore.

Charlie Chan Fights Spies In New Film

'Murder Over New York' Offered At Queen Theatre

Here's the picture Charlie Chan fans have been waiting for — the case of the stratosphere bomber! It's the latest mystery hit from 20th Century-Fox, "Murder Over New York" and plays today and Monday at the Queen theatre, with Sidney Toler again portraying the famed oriental sleuth.

Charlie battles death-dealing spies high in the skies over America's greatest city in "Murder Over New York" and in one of the screen's most unusual climaxes, Chan solves a diabolical plot to sabotage a stratosphere bomber. Called by previewers "the strongest of the Chan pictures," "Murder Over New York" is said to give Toler not only his ablest supporting cast but the best story he's ever had.

Among the prominent players in the cast of the picture are Marjorie Weaver, Robert Lowery and Ricardo Cortez.

"Murder Over New York" depicts the adventures that befell Chan in New York when he comes to attend a police convention. En route he meets an old friend from Scotland Yard who enlists Charlie's help in attempting to locate a notorious saboteur, but before Chan can aid, the Englishman is murdered.

Sensing the implications of the case, Chan bends all his efforts toward a quick solution. He narrows down the list of suspects, and is about to make his solution when a sudden attack destroys his evidence. Undaunted, Charlie continues his pursuit of the criminal mastermind.

The thrilling climax of the picture takes place in a plane high over New York. It develops into a battle of wits, with but six seconds separating Chan from death — and a more suspenseful job has never been turned out by the mystery masters of Hollywood.

Outstanding in the supporting cast are Donald MacBride, Melville Cooper, Joan Valeria, Kane Richmond and Sen Yung.

Lum and Abner In Comedy At The Lyric

'Dreaming Out Loud' Billed For Today And Monday

Two popular radio stars, Lum and Abner, carry their talents to the movies to star in "Dreaming Out Loud," a comedy romance which headlines the Lyric theatre's program for today and Monday.

The rustic team has appeared for many seasons before the microphone, and "Dreaming Out Loud" is a story adapted to the individual comedy talents of Lum and Abner.

Frances Langford, the songstress who also made a name for herself on the radio, and Robert Woolcott, provide the romantic interest.

Marie Sadder, approved BTU instructor for West Texas, will be a special speaker at East Fourth Street Baptist church Sunday night, the Rev. R. Elmer Dunham, pastor, announced last night.

Miss Sadder, a member of the Park Heights Baptist church in San Angelo, is beginning a tour that will carry her to El Paso. After the evening service, she will be a guest at the young people's fellowship hour.

'Gone With The Wind' Returning Here For Three Day Showing

The picture that had movie fans agog in 1940 is returning for an early 1941 run.

It's the spectacular "Gone With The Wind," which the Ritz has booked for a return showing in Big Spring on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Three showings a day have been scheduled, with the first starting at 11 a. m. "GWTW" has a running time of nearly three hours.

Prices have been greatly reduced for the second showing, with a 25-40c schedule prevailing for matinees and 25-55c at night. These prices include tax.

As the producers promised, GWTW was not shown anywhere during 1940 except at road show prices, and the local showhouse is prompt in getting a return at reduced tariffs.

Followers of the movies do not have to be told of the picture version of Margaret Mitchell's sensation novel of the South in Civil war transition. It is produced in Technicolor, with sweep and yet with great detail. In the cast are Clark Gable as Rhett Butler, Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara, Leslie Howard as Ashley Wilkes, Olivia DeHavilland as Melanie; and a large cast of supporting featured players which includes Thomas Mitchell, Hattie McDaniel, Ann Rutherford, Ona Munson, Barbara O'Neil, Laura Hope Crews, Harry Davenport, Oscar Polk and Butterfly McQueen.

Volunteers Fill Martin Quota

STANTON, Jan. 11 (Sp)—Martin county's quota for the January selective draft call, has been filled by volunteers, with one extra.

The quota for the county was six men, and the seven who have volunteered their service are Ralph Hedrick, Reuben Cox, Burford Bush, Westley Ashley, Don Elwood Wilkerson, Will Resd Mints and Vernon Hightower.

Only the first six will be needed for this call, and Hightower will be in line for the next draft. The other six will go to Lubbock, Jan. 28, to be inducted into the army.

But Some To Ask Security For All Loans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP)—A poll indicated today that the administration could count on a majority of the senate foreign relations committee to support its legislation giving President Roosevelt broad powers to send war supplies to nations resisting "aggressors."

Eight committee members said they were for the measure; four declared against it; four said they had not made up their minds, and five were either available or made no statement.

Before the committee acts, however, two new members will be chosen to fill vacancies and the leadership certainly will pick appointees who favor the program.

In addition, it was indicated that the administration would receive the votes of at least three of those now uncommitted, making a total of 13 of 21 members for the measure.

The house will act first on the legislation, and on meeting Monday will have to settle a dispute over which of its committees should handle the bill.

The military committee decided, 15 to 4, today to demand control of the measure, which already had been assigned to the foreign affairs committee.

Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the latter group said that there was "no doubt" that his committee properly had received the bill.

House leaders expressed confidence the bill would remain with Bloom's committee, and the latter called his group to meet Monday to begin consideration of it. He said he hoped to complete hearings by Thursday.

Speaker Rayburn told reporters that there was not a "particle of doubt" that the house would approve the legislation.

A strong fight was in the making on the senate side, however, and a group led by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) began organizing to oppose the bill. A meeting of opponents was scheduled tentatively for next Wednesday.

Even among some supporters of the measure there was talk of restrictive amendments. Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the foreign relations committee predicted that it would be amended to require that nations receiving war materials post nominal security for future payments.

This security, he said, might take the form of an exchange of property interests now in the hands of foreign citizens.

"If we could acquire some interest in the tin and rubber business of the British," he said, "it wouldn't be a bad deal for us."

BE WISE INVEST IN A MODERN HOME

Wisdom is the art of doing the right thing at the right time. The facts of the case show that no time could be righter—hence wiser—than NOW for building a home.

THE FACTS WHY A NEW HOME IS A WISE INVESTMENT TODAY

Government figures show building costs to be below normal and the outlook for general prosperity excellent. Modern financing methods make monthly home-buying costs less than the average rent. Improvements in building construction methods, materials and equipment have more than doubled the value, convenience and household work-saving you get in the modern, low-priced home. If inflation comes, your home investment will increase in value while cash savings will not.

Cameron's Complete Building Service

No longer is building a lot of work, worry and bother for you—if you build the Cameron way. Cameron's offer you a "Complete Building Service." This includes advising with you on the type, size and style of home you want and need. From this survey Cameron's will develop and prepare exact plans and specifications. Next they will quote you a completed price for your home and arrange the financing for you on easy monthly terms. Finally, they will secure for you the necessary labor; furnish quality materials; supervise the entire construction; delivering to you your completed home ready to be moved into. Behind each home stands the warranty of Wm. Cameron & Company's 73 years of sound construction methods. You will have a home tailor-made to your tastes and needs—but all the work, worry and details handled for you by Cameron's. It's easy to have just the home you've dreamed of—on monthly terms as low as rent, if you use Cameron's "Complete Building Service." Every fact points to the wisdom and ease of building your own home—the one you have always wanted—NOW!

Get the Cameron-Plus Services and Values in Your Home

Cameron's offer you eight plus services at no extra cost to assist you in solving your home building problems. Cameron designed homes contain 20 extra-values. Ask your Cameron man about these. He will be glad to discuss any building problem with you—and without obligation on your part.

Fashion Declares Independence For Spring

By AMY PORTER AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — Dropped shoulders, harem draped skirts, and capes promise to be the novel trends in spring wearing apparel. These three style points were featured again and again in models shown at Fashion Futures, New York's large-scale January style show.

The show represented the co-operative effort of manufacturers, designers and leading retailers to establish New York as the new style center of the world and to point style trends for the coming season. Show plans were in charge of the Fashion Group, Inc., a nation-wide organization of women engaged in fashion careers.

More Than 500 Styles More than 500 advance spring styles were shown to an audience of 20,000 retailers.

This will be the first season of real independence for American fashion (the influence of Paris still was strong last fall).

If the Paris influence prevails, we'll wear skirts a trifle shorter than at present. We'll gradually modify our padded squared-off shoulder line until it slopes naturally. We'll adopt capes, long ones, short ones, bright-colored ones, for all-occasion wear in the spring.

Split Skirt Effect We'll have at least one dress with a harem draped skirt, the hemline caught up to give a split-skirt effect. We'll endorse big splashy prints rather than neat little prints for sports and evening wear.

And, Fashion Futures or no, you can be sure we'll continue to be patriotic in our dress.

HAREM DRAPE frock in purple and pink — a prophetic model from the Fashion Future show in New York. The hemline is caught up at the center front for a drape effect. Pink mousseline de soie skirt and parasol. Purple bodice. Gaudy but neat!

Miss Laneous Notes

By MARY WHALEY

When you have something all the time, you just naturally don't appreciate it. But when it is something hard to get and seldom possible, then it has a glamour and a thrill to it.

At least this works out with regard to coming to town after being out in the country during the week. Our office really isn't that far out but when it comes to making the old feet pedal you in each time, it seems like the country.

Saturday morning there was anticipation in the air and everybody hurried and hustled about—they were going in to town. Some to get haircuts, some to cash checks, and all to visit.

It used to amuse us to see folks around the bank and stores downtown catching up on their talking with folks that they knew. But now, it is more than understood.

It's a big thrill to see a lot of people and find out what they have been doing and sort of get into the madding crowd, or something. We didn't even object when we got shoved and pushed around in the downtown traffic.

It was even sort of exciting when we almost got run over because out in the quiet of the country, such things don't occur very often. We saw all sorts of bargains in the windows and all the store windows had been changed since the last trip.

Time was when such things were so commonplace that we didn't even glance up, and to get pushed in a crowd brought a snarl from our lips. But no more. The clean and simple life in the country changes all things.

Contract Club Meets With Mrs. E. Conley In Her Home

GOLDEN GLOVERS INCREASE AT PRACTICE RING AS MEET NEARS

At Least 20 Will Fight In Tourney

Friday night brought out the largest number of Golden Glovers thus far in training sessions, with the lads getting primed for a fast bit of fisticuffs, the first rounds of which will be staged next Monday night, January 20, at the city auditorium.

About twenty prospective battlers have signed up or signified their intention of entering the Herald-sponsored bouts. Of this list a few will likely withdraw before the show starts, but the decrease will not cut down on the card because of last-minute entries that are expected—such being the case in previous Golden Glove tournaments in Big Spring.

Clifton Patton, Big Spring footballer, is a new addition to the list. Patton, a 210-pounder with a pile-driving wallop, is new at the boxing game but has already given indication of making things hum in the heavyweight division. Fought for a boy his size, the Steer grinder is on the cards to go a long way in amateur competition.

Mike Carr, another heavyweight with a natural style of scrapping, has been absent from workouts lately, but, according to reports, he will be back for his share of leather-pushing at the meet.

With the loss of Marshall Hamilton from Big Spring's bevy of boxers, the featherweight division is wide open for any new hopeful. Hamilton, a 1940 champion of the Fort Worth District of Golden Gloves, has moved to another town.

Lads who have been hitting the training grind fairly consistently are Sonny Peach, welter; Clifton Patton; Blackie Patton, bantam; Red Franklin, welter; Pepper Martin, lightweight; Buster Malone, lightweight; Billy Jackson, flyweight; Red Womack, lightweight; Brady Piper, middleweight.

Also on the list of tournament entries are Daniel Blackwell, welter; J. D. Coates, light-heavy; D. R. Gartman, welter; Pilar Yanez, lightweight; Preacher Yanez, flyweight; and Mike Carr, heavy.

Fisticuffs are booming at Colorado City and Midland with both towns out to send an outstanding aggregation to Big Spring.

Monday night of this week, Midland's Golden Gloves prospects met to organize a foray to Big Spring. Earl Pace, top-ranking pro welter scrapper of Texas, is managing and training the Midland lads. Six former or present district champs are on the Midland team. Included are: Lloyd Pittman, middleweight; Mike Buffington, heavy; Flash Duncan, middle; Dexter Jay, featherweight; Fatsy Wright, middle; and Brooks Roberts, light weight.

Other Midlanders making bids for places on the crew are: "Sachal" Smith, welter; Roy Johnson, lightweight; and Speck Grimes, bantamweight. Ray Bush, light-heavy, and Joe Collins, lightweight, are also expected to fight under the Midland colors.

Colorado City's boxing efforts are under the direction of Truett Fulcher, a former state heavyweight champion. Thus far, Fulcher has six lads on tap who are slated to make a strong try at district titles. On the roster are: Charlie Watson, James Paul Cooper, Cecil Smith, Jack Morrison, Jimmy Harrison, and Dudley Bush.

As for Big Spring, Bob Stinnett and White Whittington are the maestros who are due to send a team into the ring against all comers. Stinnett stated that time was drawing short but he hoped to have the leather-pushers in trim for the meet.

GENEVIEVE LOVE, 6' 3" member of the All American Redheads, will be seen on a Big Spring court on January 23, when the world champion girls basketball club meets Phillips Tiverna. The Redheads, playing only men's and boys' teams under straight men's rules, have marked up a record of 719 games in four seasons before one million spectators.

Lookin 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Shirley Robbins, manager of the Big Spring country club, tells us plans are underway to sod the front nine holes of the golf plant. Although nothing definite in the way of letting contracts has been done, Robbins said that grass-covered greens for summer trade at the club is a certainty.

Work will probably start by the first of March, according to Robbins, with the intention of having the whole system in top-hole condition by May. Following today's trends in greens fashions, bent grass will be set out.

Evidently spring is getting an early start in this neck of the woods. Divoters were giving both of Big Spring's golf courses, Munny and country club, a big play Saturday, making it one of the best days in many moons. About 45 hopefuls were taking a crack at par at the country club stand, and between 35 and 40 club-wielders were trying their luck at Munny.

Clyde Angel brings out a new angle on the coaching situation now up for debate in district 3-AA football circles—namely, that Big Spring may not be able to keep its attitude of strict neutrality during the period of contract rippings and resignations.

Angel points out that Pat Murphy, Steer mentor who took his boys to a district championship in 1940, is the apple-of-the-eye of several more ardent Abilene fans.

Dewey Mayhew's resignation from the Abilene coaching staff a few days ago leaves that spot hotly and looking for a man to take a football crew back to the place once held by Abilene's Eagles.

Murphy delivered the goods at Big Spring, and, according to Angel, there are a goodly number of Abilene people who think that Big Spring air does not just naturally develop football champions—the coach has something to do with it.

Well, Murphy has come in for his share of hair-tearing while he has been in the saddle here but last season he definitely proved that he could give the paying customers their money's worth when he had the material with which to work.

Now that Murphy has finished on top, this department is of the opinion that any threats of larceny by Abilene should be nipped in the bud. We are hoping they leave us to our gloating—for another year at least.

Obie Bristow predicts something about the possible new coach at Texas Tech with which this department is inclined to agree.

Hack Miller Gets Lamesa Manager Job

LAMESA, Jan. 11 (Sp)—Hack Miller, former catcher-manager of the Lubbock Hubbers of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league, has been offered the job of playing skipper of the Lamesa Lobos for the coming season.

Miller follows Jodie Tate as pilot of Lamesa's baseballers. Tate, for two years non-playing manager of the club, closed a deal the latter part of this week for outright purchase of the Odessa franchise and, with his partner, Tink Rivers, will move the club to Big Spring.

Miller is now connected with the Meridian (Miss.) club and has said he would take the job at Lamesa only on the condition that he could get a release from his present bosses. Miller stated that he was certain of coming to Lamesa.

A group of Lamesans have underwritten the Lobo club for 1941. This list includes Dan Davis, Bill White, L. B. Vaughn, Vernon Bryant, H. R. Daffern, C. C. Peterson, S. J. Jordan, T. E. Fulkerson, J. H. Harp, Loo Randall, F. M. McLendon, B. F. Morris, Maurice Pamphre, Jimmie Colters, Millard McDonnell, and Jesse Carroll. Jack McLaughlin, B. D. Wiggins, H. L. McQueen, W. L. Marr, Dr. S. Z. Frazier, Carl Kaddity, W. H. Huse, Dr. R. F. Nix, Dr. O. L. McElroy, D. L. Adcock, Joe Alexander, Jud Watson, Dr. J. C. Burleson, Tim Boyd, Sam Richardson, Cecil Speck, Bernice Holt, Olin Wise, and Ben Randall.

Most Baseball Players In Line For Army Draft

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Fully 99 per cent of major league baseball players are "pie" for the nation's draft program—but they are ready and willing to trade a year from brief and hurried careers for "shoulder arms duty."

So says Pinky Higgins, husky third baseman of the Detroit Tigers and a 1940 world series hero.

"The draft hadn't become law when the baseball season ended, but it was being discussed and the ball players had it on their minds. They are ready, just as every other citizen."

"Sure, it would hurt many brilliant careers, just as it would in any other profession. But there is little more than baseball at stake now."

"Take the case of Hank Greenberg, our Detroit outfielder—and one of the best ball players in modern history. He's only 29 and he's very likely to be drafted. If he goes in June and returns to baseball in June of 1942, he has had not one, but two, seasons taken from his career."

"Ball players, even if they are extremely fortunate, can't hope for more than 10 major league years. The people forget that a ball player must cram his career into a far briefer span than the average individual. If Hank should be in two years, he would have a hard time getting back to his old form."

"But I'd bet that Hank, or any other ball player, wouldn't whimper a second about being called in the draft."

Higgins said he had heard rumors that efforts might be made to form training groups among ball players that would permit them to continue playing baseball, perhaps train an hour or two daily under army supervision.

"But I doubt that a thing like that would work satisfactorily," he added.

Only a few of the big names in baseball, such as Charley Gehring and Red Ruffing, are over the draft age limit, Higgins pointed out.

Donkey Game Set At Forsan

FORSAN, Jan. 11 (Sp)—A donkey baseball game, sponsored by the senior class of Forsan high school, is scheduled for Tuesday night, January 14, with Cosden and Humble cagers riding on the court at Forsan's gym.

Bill Conner is skipper of the Cosden quintet while I. O. Shaw ramrods the Humble basketeers.

Fifty percent of the proceeds will go to the school class to finance a student trip. Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

Mioland Captures $10,000 Purse

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—The favored Mioland, owned by Charles S. Howard, won the $10,000 San Pasqual handicap today in the feature race at Santa Anita park, with Gen'l Manager second and Valinda Groom third.

Mioland, ridden by Jockey Leon Haas, ran the mile and one-eighth distance over a muddy track in one minute 51 3-5 seconds. The Howard candidate was the favorite in the field of nine starters and paid $420 to win, $220 to place and $220 to show. Gen'l Manager paid $4.50 and Valinda Groom $4.50.

Forsan Takes Three Games From Crane

FORSAN, Jan. 11—Crane basketball teams took a three-way count at the hands of Forsan here Friday night.

Forsan's senior boys, rampaging toward another successful season, topped the Crane team by a 37-12 count, using a red-hot second quarter which produced 19 points for the margin. Sharpshooters for the Buffaloes were Cowley, forward, with nine points, and Smith, guard, with 11. T. Burnett's five points were high for Crane.

Closest game of the evening went to the Forsan "B" team, 15-14 with Dunlap leading Forsan scorers with five points. Vaughn got one more than that for Crane. Forsan junior boys held a tighter defense to win their game, 15-4, with Green tossing in five field goals. Earp made all the Crane tallies.

Forsan seniors have won eight out of nine games this season, dropping one early to Sterling City by two points. Since then, the Buffaloes evened scores with Sterling City. Friday they will play at Garden City.

Line-ups Friday were: Seniors—FORSAN, Cowley, Qualls, Tarbro, Smith, Griffith, Gardner, Peek, Grant and Dunlap; CRANE, N. Burnett, Manyard, Browns, T. Burnett, Hogan, Pettit, and Teague.

"B" Teams—FORSAN, Hold, Wilson, Grant, Peek, Gardner, Dunlap, and McCluskey; CRANE, Vaughn, Grounds, Hutchinsworth, Brightman, Teague, Harris and Pettit.

White Swan's Team Leads Bowling Loop

White Swan's kegglers are leading the field in Big Spring's Classic bowling league, having closed the week's play with a season's standing of 29 victories and 19 losses.

A competition are Harry Hoekendorf, leading with 191; J. C. Loper, second with 189; Jake Douglas, marking up a 189 score to tie for second; Pete Howze, in the fourth place slot with 182; and Luke Le Bleu, bringing up in fifth place with 181.

The top quintet in class B includes "Senator" Moore, 162; Harry Lester, 161; E. B. Compton, 159; Ray Ogden, 159; and Roy Gilliam, 157.

In the past week's joust, E. and R. Showmen beat Barrow's kegglers, 2 to 1; Club Cafe's team rode over Lee Hanson's bowlers, 2 to 0; Lester's crew downed Douglas' Hotel's tribe, 2 to 1; and Cornelson's five swamped White Swan, 3 to 0.

Stanley Wheeler shot eight straight strikes and ended up with 256-618, the only 600 series of the night's competition.

Douglas' aggregation is lined up for a series of tournaments during late winter and early spring, and will wind up at the American Bowling Congress at St. Paul, Minn., probably in May. On January 18 they will make an Abilene tournament, and will perform at Midland and San Angelo during February. They will also move into the state meet at Dallas in the spring and will test their wares in a southwestern tourney near the same time.

Tentative lineup for the Hotelmen includes Loper, Howze, Ward, Hall, Rat Ramsey, Mel Richards, Douglas and Wheeler.

Plain Man Makes Strong Bid At Miami Fishing Tournament

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—The plain man makes his bid for sporting fame and for more material prizes when the $10,000 Metropolitan Miami fishing tournament opens at sunrise tomorrow.

This fellow can't play golf or tennis for sour apples.

He won't shine particularly, either, during the brilliant marine pageant that opens the tournament. The great white queens of Miami's winter pleasure fleet will be on parade then and the plain man most likely will be in a dinky rowboat or a small cruiser.

But when the lines go splash into the blue waters of Biscayne bay and the Atlantic, he'll be on a virtually an even footing with any of the wealthy sportsmen competing and the chances are he'll hold his own against all comers.

Expensive equipment may help catch fish in some instances, but in general it's pretty well established that all the money in the world can't guarantee fishing luck.

The array of awards, including almost everything from pretty little cups to a highly utilitarian automobile, helped swell the total participation to 166,000 anglers last year.

Trophies and prizes covering almost every conceivable type of angling endeavor will be given out after the 99-day competition ends.

Local Bowler Rolls A 300

The toasts of Big Spring bowlers went to Luke LeBleu yesterday.

He rolled a perfect 300 in a practice session Saturday afternoon, an accomplishment as rare as a hole-in-one in golf.

Playing with LeBleu at the time were "Rat" Ramsey and Roy Stice.

Alloo Makes Way To Net Finals

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—Eddie Alloo, tiny netter from Rollins college at Winter Park, Fla., today upset himself into the finals of the 17th annual Dixie tennis tournament.

For the third straight day the little fellow blasted his way through a high ranking star, and today's victim was Bobby Riggs of Chicago, former national singles champion, and the present No. 2 player in the country.

It was an exhibition of some of the greatest tennis courage ever witnessed in the Dixie tournament and took Alloo five sets to whittle Riggs, tennis master shot-maker, down to his size for the kill.

The scores were: 3-6, 7-6, 10-8, 6-3.

The victory moved the Rollins star into the finals tomorrow afternoon against tall Frankie Kovacs, the country's third-ranking player from Oakland, Calif., who beat Don McNeill, the national singles champion from Oklahoma City 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Lamesa Lets San Angelo Win 23 To 19

LAMESA, Jan. 11 (Sp)—Lamesa's basketballers fell before an early-game onslaught by San Angelo's Bobcats and lost their first home contest with a district 3-AA quintet, 23-19.

The Bobcat five turned on the heat in the opening moments of the initial period and had the host of the evening dragging in the dust, 14 to 7, as the frame ended.

Lamesa rallied somewhat during the final roundelay but the visitors were not to be stopped, keeping in the lead to the finish.

Lamesa's forward, Red Gill, paced the scoring with a night's count of five field goals and a give-away throw, making a total of 11 points.

Bobby Lonson, Bobcat forward, took top honors for his crew, tallying nine points for the evening. He racked up three field goals and a trio of free shots.

Season's book for Lamesa's Tornados stands at five victories and two losses. On Tuesday night, January 14, they invade Big Spring's gym for a conference affair.

FENNER FUNERAL SET

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11 (AP)—Joe Fenner, screen, stage and radio comedian whose death yesterday saddened Hollywood and Broadway, will be buried Tuesday afternoon at Forest Lawn burial park in Glendale, Calif.

Colorado City Quintet Takes 14-12 Victory

Big Spring high's basketball record for district 3-AA competition is now two played and two lost after dropping a slow game to Colorado City Friday night, 14 to 12, on the local hardwood.

"They just can't seem to hit the basket," is the way Big Spring Coach John Daniels sums up the situation. Court work that shows promise but under-loop tries that fizzle out in the clutch is the thing that has kept the Steers from making a more impressive showing in their three jousts since Christmas.

The Big Springers were forced to bow to a fast-breaking crew of Sweetwater cagers last Thursday, eked out a 14 to 11 win over Stanton Thursday night and followed the procedure of inconsistent ball-shooting in their affair with Colorado City's Wolves.

Blake Talbot took the nod for a fancy bit of maneuvering in Friday evening's performance and led the Steer field with tallies, marking up a total of four points with a couple of goals the hard way.

Clayton Henderson, Colorado City's stellar center and main scoring threat, led his quintet in the points department, chalking up a total of six to the good.

First half play left much to be desired by both clubs, the entire period being featured by uncertain scrambles under the hoop. The second half opened with both teams displaying a brand of speed that was lacking during the initial frames.

Henderson was the star-out performer of the show, coming out with a dazzling piece of footwork that left the Big Springers holding the bag.

Zactine Wins Hialeah Stakes

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—F. J. Buchanan's Cinderella of the tracks, the dark bay colt Zactine, came up from far, far back today to win the $5,000 added Hialeah Stakes by a head over Circle M. Ranch's Battle Colors.

Zactine, apparently out to show the racing world what he thought of the $3,000 claiming tag he wore last fall, staged a stretch drive that had the tall birds gasping.

Zactine won't be 30 for two shot in winning his sixth straight and most important victory.

Landon Assails Roosevelt Efforts For Federal Oil Industry Control

Harrison Leads Oakland Field

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP)—Lanky E. J. "Dutch" Harrison, from Arkansas, led the parade but half-pint Benny Hogan, a transplanted Texan, was beating the bass drum today in the third round of the 72-hole, $5,000 Oakland open golf tournament.

Hogan, now registered from White Plains, N. Y., banged out a phenomenal 62, eight under par, for the Sequoyah course. It set a new record for P. G. A. sanctioned tournaments and equaled the score made by Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia, in sectional qualifying for the P. G. A. championship last year.

The sensational round of last year's leading money winner among the pros overshadowed the efforts of the balance of the field.

Kansan Says FD Committed To War Policy

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 11 (AP)—Alf M. Landon charged tonight that President Roosevelt had "committed himself to a war policy" in his message to congress by urging full support of peoples resisting aggression.

"If this policy is to prevail, we must fight, if need be, in order to make the president's word good," the 1936 presidential nominee asserted in a speech prepared for delivery at the Alexander Hamilton club's annual dinner.

"What then becomes of his pledge not to send an armed expeditionary force to Europe? x x x"

Landon also charged that Roosevelt was "manufacturing behind the screen of national defense to seize control of the oil industry."

"Where is there the slightest foundation for his statement of last week of the 'urgent need' of federal control?" Landon asked in an address of national defense policies prepared for the Alexander Hamilton club's annual dinner.

The Kansan oil man and 1936 republican presidential nominee said he supported the federal oil control bill when it was first proposed by the administration eight years ago.

Later, he added, he supported the interstate oil compact commission, an independent body of oil state representatives seeking to conserve the nation's oil supplies without federal supervision.

The commission, Landon asserted, "has grown stronger with the years" and the states have learned how to handle the conservation problem, thus ending the "urgent need" for federal legislation.

"Today the states, with the exception of Illinois, are doing a pretty good job of conservation," he said. "I wish the national administration was doing as good a job in national defense."

"The attempt to take the oil conservation problem out of the hands of the states is a warning of what will be attempted under the smoke-screen of national defense."

Man Plays Three Football Games With Neck Broken

EMPORIA, Kas., Jan. 11 (AP)—Merton Wisler, College of Emporia junior fullback, played three football games this fall with a broken neck.

Wisler was hurt Oct. 2 in a game with Southwestern College of Winfield, Kas., but X-rays revealed no broken bones and after treatments for a concussion and five weeks on the sidelines he played brilliantly in the last three games.

Frequent stabs of pain in the neck since the close of the season sent him to Kansas City for more extensive X-rays. They showed a broken vertebra. He was fitted with a special "collar" which will keep his head immobile until the bone heals and returned to the campus today to continue his studies.

Duke Of Windsor Visits Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—The smiling, affable Duke of Windsor, governor of the Bahamas, came to town again today, completely stopping Miami's annual mid-winter air show for 45 minutes.

He had little to say beyond the usual amenities, but what he did say was roundly cheered by a crowd of some 10,000.

Asked if he had anything to say about American aid to Britain, he replied, "I always go to the embassy in Washington for what you call the 'low-down'."

Houston Gets Women's Meet

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 11 (AP)—The fifteenth annual women's Trans-Mississippi golf tournament will be played over the River Oaks country club course at Houston, Tex., May 26-31, Mrs. C. R. McCubbin of Kansas City, president, said today.

The 1940 title was won by Miss Betty Jamason of San Antonio, Tex., who defeated Miss Patty Berg of Minneapolis, in the final round at St. Louis.

Big Spring To Get Special Day At Rodeo

FORT WORTH, Jan. 11 (Sp)—Big Spring today had a special invitation to visit the forty-fifth annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth, March 7-16.

In a letter to J. M. Greene, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, Secretary-Manager John B. Davis of the stock show suggested that an official Big Spring Day be selected and a delegation be sent to the exposition.

Such a contingent, Davis said, would be of mutual benefit to Big Spring and to the show.

Visiting delegations have been invited to bring home town talent as they did last year for morning roundup programs in the Silver Spur, smart amusement center on the show grounds.

Shaughnessy To Teach Coaches

ATHENS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Clark Shaughnessy, coach of Stanford's Rose Bowl champions, will show his famed T formation at the ninth annual Texas High School Football Coaches Association Coaching School.

Saughnessy, who went from downtrodden Chicago to football's pinnacle in one season, was chosen as one of the instructors of the August school by the association executive committee meeting here tonight. He will serve with Jess Neely, coach of Rice Institute, these two being known as co-instructors, with Frank Leahy, coach of Boston College's Sugar Bowl champions, to be the instructor of line play.

Site of the school will not be announced until Monday, President Ted Jefferies of the association said.

Editorial

Austin reports that the lines are forming for a legislative battle over a proposal for creation of a new state appointive oil and gas commission.

That strong opposition has developed and will develop is not unexpected. There are political angles, you know, to be protected, and these will be defended furiously.

This newspaper has pointed out what it believes are advantages of an appointive oil and gas commission, and hopes to add further evidence in support of the bill as time goes on.

The oil men should know better than anybody else what is wrong with the present setup, and how various grievances might be remedied.

There was, for instance, the spectacle of 19 candidates running for state railroad commissioner last summer, and there was a reported drain on the oil industry for burdensome contributions. It strengthened the determination of oil men to seek the creation of an appointive commission.

Outspoken complaints of oil men against the present regulatory board have included charges that the setting of allowables is influenced by politics, that many orders are issued without adequate notice and hearing, and that special allowances decreed after statewide orders are issued result in discrimination.

It is true that some of these troubles could be corrected under the present commission. But there is no way of erasing the stigma of politics, and most oil men know that. That is why they want a better system. They should have the public's support.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Rally around, folks. Pick you a town crier—a fellow with a foghorn bellow that can rattle the shingles on every house in the neighborhood. Give him a bell and send him crying "oyez, oyez" through the village. There's a move to try to revive the old town meeting.

It started with President Roosevelt. The president said he would like to see the old town meetings revived in every hamlet, village and city in the land, with the people individually and collectively studying and acting on problems that beset them.

Several congressmen and senators of both parties took up the cry. One congressman decided to try to do something about it. He is Jerry Voorhis, the young sage of San Dimas, Calif. (At age 27 and for ten years thereafter, he was headmaster of his own school for boys.)

Representative Voorhis is a busy man. He's on five committees, one of them the always-active Dies committee, but he took time out to try to get the town meeting ball rolling.

SEES AID TO DEMOCRACY

He dipped into history books to find out just what the old town meetings were like. Then he sat down and wrote letters to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, to Commissioner of Education Studebaker, to Secretary of Labor Perkins and to the director of the American Youth commission.

Among other things, he said: "Right now, it seems to me, nothing could be done for all of our people and by all of our people which would be of greater advantage to our government than to decrease and re-establish an active agency of democracy as was the old town meeting.

"This could not and would not be a partisan project in any way. It couldn't even be a government project, else it would defeat itself before it started. No effort should be made by any agency to attempt to tell these meetings what their problems are or how to solve them. We can depend on the people themselves to do that job and do it far better than an agency of government can do it."

The town meeting is about as old as Plymouth Rock—and about as American. It consisted of everybody in the settlement or village's turning out to settle in the democratic way of debate and ballot the problems of the community. It was the local government of nearly every budding village in New England, and it was carried into the Midwest and West when the nation rolled that way.

Throughout the East today there still are many hamlets where the town meeting is operating with the same simplicity of 300 years ago.

LAUGHS WITH THEIR LAWS

One of the most treasured portions of the library of humor which comedian Fred Allen has collected are volumes of minutes from these town meetings. The old folks had a way, it seems, of mixing a little humor with their governing, whether it was hitting another roll of hose for ye olde fire house or making the town loafer repair the hole in his chicken-yard fence.

Of course, the modern town meeting would have to be a little different. Voorhis suggests that they might follow more the trend of the Nova Scotia study clubs.

Study club or whatever, if the idea gets anywhere at all, it'll still be the old town meeting with everybody in town taking a hand. The only thing that occurs to me is what a merry rumpus some of them would provide—problems today being what they are.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Doubtless you know all about the "vice raids" being conducted by the police, for the wire services have carried the story, and only the other night a raiding party did surround an up-town manor and take into custody a half dozen attendants and a score of important people who were standing around a roulette table, apparently mesmerized by the antics of the little jumping ball.

But what seems slightly incredible is the "amazement" on the part of many officials that such things exist. I am not much of a betting man myself, especially after you pass the two-bit limit, because my luck and my judgment, or possibly both, have never brought me any appreciable returns, but even such a disinterested stamper as I could have pointed out a dozen or more doorways that lead to those rooms where only coarse money is used and where it is nothing to see hundreds swap ownership on the turn of a card.

It is one of those open secrets which everyone except apparently the police knows all about, and so when the raiding squads "blow off the lid" of the big gambling business in New York the effect on the reading public is something less terrific. There never has been a time on Broadway when a man with a yen to bet his judgment against the unpredictable spin of a wheel couldn't find someone to accommodate him, and there never will be. There must be 50 places in New York where gambling in stiff white shirt fronts is routine. These places shift addresses occasionally—that is a part of their technique—but they are invariably backed by the same bankroll and the profits are shared by the same organizers.

There used to be a place in 38th street where one man won so much money he had to carry it away in a bag. That was the night of the Notre Dame-Army game. Two weeks later the place wasn't there. Probably it was in 39th street, or maybe in 42nd street.

Gambling hasn't changed through the years but the idea behind the game has altered to some extent. It used to be the custom for the gambler Rothstein and his like to operate the floating games, from one hotel room to another, with the word passed along only a few hours before play was to begin. Those were the days when gun-play was less sensational on Broadway than it would be now, and indeed that is how Rothstein died—shot in a midtown hotel.

But today the people who have the money to gamble make a sort of ritz game of it. You can't admitted unless you wear evening clothes. The ladies generally arrive beautiful and the gentlemen rich. They arrive and depart in luxurious cars—except when the raiders step in and take them away in black marinas—and on the whole it is regarded as a pleasant if expensive way to idle away a few handy hours. I thought everybody knew this.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—It was bound to happen sooner or later.

A movie director has just discovered a new use for legs, one of the staples of the picture business. George Stevens is not concerned here with legs as the picture business sees them ordinarily, i. e., ornamental appendages supporting pretty torsos and pretty faces and comprising, in the movie still man's philosophy, his surest passport to the printed page. Stevens is concerned with legs as drama.

It's for a scene in "Penny Serenade." In preparation, the camera went into a pit, below the sound stage floor, so that its eye was at floor (or leg) level. Throughout the sequence, Stevens planned, it would not raise its face—and an important bit of action in the story would be told entirely by legs.

You will see, in other scenes, the entire persons of Irene Dunne, Cary Grant, Edgar Buchanan and the baby, whichever baby is being used that day. (Stevens has twins on call, doubling for each other, besides three other infants he has used in course of production.)

"It's not a trick, not a touch," says George, who doesn't like tricks or touches. "It's just the best way we could figure to put over the point, considering what follows. It's the scene in which Dunne and Grant think they have to give up the child they've adopted. Buchanan is their faithful friend and helper.

"So we shoot from floor level. Right in front of the camera is the baby's teddy bear, lop-eared. Buchanan comes in, starts picking up this and other toys from the floor, so we know it's moving day. Then we see his legs by the baby's high chair, and the baby's legs being lifted. We pan along the floor to Irene, who is standing by the window looking out—dreadfully, of course, though we don't see her face. Then we pan to Grant, see him putting on his overcoat—just the tail of his coat shows. We're not using any dialogue, only the baby's occasional gurgling.

"Yeah, I know it sounds as if I'm trying to do it the hard way, to be continental. I'm not for crazy camera angles for their own sake, or just to be different. But this is a scene that could easily be mawkishly sentimental, and this approach avoids that.

"It's necessary, too, for another reason—the scene that follows. That's where Grant has to break out emotionally, telling how it is with him and Dunne and the baby. This leg scene lets us know what's going on, and serves as a build-up for the next scene without forcing us to try to top it emotionally."

So the legs have it, and they stand a chance to become famous actors.

They won't be the first legs, however, to achieve dramatic fame. Others quickly recalled: The silk-stockinged leg that dangled behind Gary Cooper and Adolphe Menjou in a tavern scene of "A Farewell to Arms"; the stockinged, gartered, swinging leg of Miriam Hopkins in the Fredric March version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"—a scene that caused some censoring shears to snip.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

Chapter 44 COOPEE UP

"It seems to me," Mr. Marshall went on, "that there's no further use holding everyone here for somebody to take potshots at them with these—darts or to strangle them on stairways. I admit I don't feel any too safe myself. Wouldn't it be the sensible plan to let us all go back to town and you take over the place for as long as necessary? We can be reached at our respective homes. I assure you that nobody will make any attempt to escape. I—I feel that I can be just as responsible as though we remain here."

"Sounds like a sensible idea to me," said Bill. "This place has been searched a dozen times already and no results. I'll stay here with you if necessary, but I see no reason for further inconvenience for anyone else."

"But I won't let you stay," I shuddered, "unless I stay, too." Everybody, white-faced and a d some of us more than a little shaky, looked hopefully at Lieutenant Gregory. The servants, quiet now in their little huddle, added a petition. "Please, Mr. Policeman," implored Thomas, "just let us get out of here alive."

For a long moment Lieutenant Gregory stood there and it was something to see the look of indecision on that usually determined face.

"No," he said finally. "You can't go yet. I was ready to call things off and go to town. But Mr. Dodson insisted on his pretty little tea party. And where does it land us? One of you confesses and then everybody else says, 'Oh, no, she couldn't be guilty. I did it with my little hatchet.' Everybody so polite. Everybody so ready to say it was all his fault. Or maybe everybody decided if they would just confess right quick, we'd have to shut up shop and go home."

"Well," he announced, "we are not going to. Maybe those confessions were just a little leg pulling to break up the show. It may be that somebody on the outside did open the door and turn on the lights. Maybe, he even threw the dart. But somebody in this house party knows who it was. Maybe you all know. All these wholesale confessions look like it. And I'm going to clean things up before anybody leaves this place. I'm tired of all this funny business." And with that Lieutenant Gregory stalked from the room. A few minutes later we could hear him growling into the telephone.

Bob closed the door and turned the key in the lock. "Feel a little safer that way," he said, with an attempted grin. "Andrew, look that other door, please. As least we can make the police knock when they want to come in." Exhausted

There was nothing to talk about or there was too much to talk about. For what is there to say to four people who have all confessed themselves guilty of the same murder?

Besides, we had all been under severe nervous strain for nearly twenty-four hours. We had struggled to maintain an outward appearance of casualness but that was no longer possible. I was tired even of trying to think.

If Alice were guilty of Eve's murder, had she killed Aunt Maggie too? Had Alice really seen something on the stairway before she fainted? And even though Ephraim conceivably might have killed Aunt Maggie or any one of us have killed Eve, who could have opened the door and turned on the lights while we all sat together in this room? And last, but not least, how puzzling too, where was Pli-tarch? That luxury-loving animal would never have remained out of doors.

So we sank into the lethargy of waiting. Once I roused myself sufficiently to ask Mr. Dodson, "Are we going to find out anything before we are all murdered?"

He smiled. "I don't think that dart was really meant for anybody," he said, "unless perhaps for Gregory or me. I think it did just what it was intended to do, at least to an extent. That is, it has broken up the meeting. But if its purpose was to persuade Gregory to go back to town, it doesn't seem to have succeeded very well."

I don't know how long we sat there before Lieutenant Gregory finally came back and told us we could have the run of the house but not to go outside. I must have slept finally, slumped on the sofa with my head against Bill's shoulder, for I know it took me a moment or two to reorganize things when I heard Lieutenant Gregory's voice.

He hadn't appreciated the humor in locking out the police. And they had found no one in their search of the house or grounds. "No need to wait for anybody from the solicitor general's office," he concluded, "going to finish this up. Mr. Stuart, want to question you again. We'll take the rest in turn. Stay within call," he ordered tersely.

"What time is it?" Claire asked listlessly, as a disconsolate move was made toward the drawing room. "You mean what year is it?" I heard Bob reply. And, indeed, it was all horribly like something that has been happening over and over for at least a hundred years. I lingered a moment to reassure the servants, who were reluctant to leave. When they were gone, I turned to Mr. Dodson. "May I ask a question?" I begged, in the face of Lieutenant Gregory's frown.

"It seems to me," I told Mr. Dodson, "that there was something wrong about what Andrew said Aunt Maggie said. Did it sound all right to you?"

"Ah," said Mr. Dodson, and I noticed Lieutenant Gregory and Roberts stiffen a little at his tone. "So it didn't sound exactly right to you? What seemed to be wrong?"

"I don't know," I confessed helplessly. "I thought perhaps you could figure it out."

"I think he told us what she said, all right," Mr. Dodson admitted. "But you are right, there was something a little wrong about it." He paused, seemingly to enjoy the effects his words produced, or perhaps to prolong the suspense, and it is true that we were all looking at him with bated breath. There was an expression of mingled bafflement and exasperation on Lieutenant Gregory's face which seemed to say, "He's at it again."

"What was wrong," said Mr. Dodson finally, "was the interpretation given by Andrew and everyone else to what Mrs. Ambler said. To me it was perfectly clear that when Mrs. Ambler called out 'Willie,' she was not speaking to her assailant. She was calling for help against him. Who more likely for her to call than her niece's husband?"

"Oh, yes, yes," I cried, "that's it! I see it now."

New Version "She was calling to your husband in a desperate plea for him to come to her assistance," Mr. Dodson went on, "but unfortunately he was too far away to hear her and before she could call out again for anyone else to hear, the murderer had stopped her voice with his hands at her throat. I don't know whether murder was the original intention but, if not, I think he realized after he had gone so far that he could not turn back. So he strangled Mrs. Ambler and hurried away, perhaps just in time not to be discovered by you, Mrs. Stuart, as you came out through the breakfast room to the passage. He would not have gone into the breakfast room, knowing that the servants might be there. But, as you have shown me, there are four other exits through which he might have stepped into anonymity and comparative safety."

I was a little limp when Mr. Dodson finished speaking. "Oh, thank you, thank you," I cried fervently, while Bill wrung his hand and Mr. Marshall said, with great satisfaction, "I knew he'd save the day."

Surprisingly, Lieutenant Gregory did not seem as pleased as the rest of us. "But you do see that it is all right?" I insisted. "That's the way it must have been."

"Sounds very pretty," he admitted. "But you haven't proved anything. No evidence to support all this. Still got to find your murderer. If Mr. Stuart is not guilty, let him produce the killer and I'll be the first to congratulate Mr. Dodson."

Even Mr. Dodson raised his voice in protest, but Lieutenant Gregory was not to be moved. He had had a perfectly good murderer taken away from him, and unless another could be provided it was just no sale. But he finally agreed that he would make an actual arrest that night and with this we were forced to content ourselves.

"I suppose you realize, Mrs. Stuart," he firmly informed me, "that if your husband is freed of suspicion, you become the next most likely suspect unless, of course, someone else has been proved guilty in the meantime."

Bill got pretty red-headed at this, but we were all a little more accustomed to the idea of being regarded as killers and were ready to forego useless argument.

And so far as my personal feelings went, there didn't seem to be much difference whether it was Bill or I who was accused. Either way, my life looked equally rosy.

"Did you draw any other conclusions?" I asked Mr. Dodson. "I mean about Eve's murder?"

Before he could answer, Lieutenant Gregory cut in. "If you will excuse us, Mrs. Stuart, I should like to finish my little talk with your husband."

In the hall I stopped by the powder room and gazed at my strained countenance, making what repairs were possible at the moment. Again my mind started its round of vicious circles. If I could only find the secret room. Why couldn't I remember that crazy jingle? Where could Pli-tarch have gotten to?

Dr. Paul J. Jakmauh, state health commissioner, said no new reports of increased infection had been received for the past 24 hours.

The ailment, described by some health officials as a mild form of influenza, affected its victims for three or four days, but unlike the influenza epidemic of 1917, did not lead to pneumonia.

Market Limps As Week Ends

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—The stock market took a rest today at slightly lower levels after another week of generally rising prices.

A few rubbers and specialties managed to tack on advances but steel, motors, aircrafts and lead and other groups finished with a perceptible limp.

A large portion of the relatively negligible volume was accounted for by several low-priced shares, the majority of which ended a shade ahead.

The Associated Press average of 80 issues was off 1/2 of a point at 44.3, the first dip since the creeping recovery got under way Jan. 2.

On the week the composite showed a net gain of .7, its third consecutive weekly upturn.

Grippe Epidemic Hits New England

BOSTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Hundreds of New England businesses carried on short-handed today as a grippe epidemic confined thousands to their beds and forced the closing of scores of schools.

In Massachusetts at least, the disease apparently had reached its peak.

The ailment, described by some health officials as a mild form of influenza, affected its victims for three or four days, but unlike the influenza epidemic of 1917, did not lead to pneumonia.

Dr. Paul J. Jakmauh, state health commissioner, said no new reports of increased infection had been received for the past 24 hours.

Draftees To Get Gentle Treatment At Camp Bowie

CAMP BOWIE, BROWNWOOD, Jan. 11 (AP)—None of the 325 draftees absorbed daily into the thirty-sixth division here will be "pushed around" in the process of breaking them into the army, and there is an official order out to make it stick.

With movement of 12,000 troops of the thirty-sixth virtually complete, detailed plans were ready for reception of an additional 6,000 draftees.

Man strength at Camp Bowie passed the 12,000 mark with today's arrival of more than 2,000 officers and enlisted men of various artillery units from over the state.

Divorces were granted to Edna Robinson from Houston Robinson and to O. C. Manning from Robert Manning.

Dismissals on motion of plaintiffs include: Dora Roberts versus J. E. Terry, et al, debt and foreclosure; Curtis Zant versus Lona Zant, divorce; Myrtle Andrus versus Norman Andrus; Howard A. Reid versus Owen M. Murray, wage and hour law; Rose Morgan Taylor versus Willah H. Taylor, divorce; and Ollie Simmons versus W. E. Simmons.

Firm Penalized For Operating Without Permit

AUSTIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—A district court jury here today found the Miller Management company, incorporated in Tennessee, had done business in Texas for more than 39 months without a Texas business permit and levied a penalty of $10,000.

The Nashville company was sued by the attorney general's department, which alleged it managed and supervised approximately 180 loan companies, including 36 in Texas.

The defendant concern contended it engaged in interstate business. It dissolved its charter last Dec. 31 and entered a plea in abatement but was overruled.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Postmaster General Frank C. Walker reported to congress today that postal revenues reached a record high of $766,948,626 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1940. This was a gain of $21,500,276 over 1939 when the previous record was set.

The word "Yankee" has been traced to Indian attempts to pronounce "Anglais," the French settlers' name for their English rivals.

Cotton Reacts After Upswing

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Cotton futures reacted today after demand based on an estimated record breaking December consumption lifted prices to new highs for the season. The final range was unchanged to 4 points lower.

Buyers were hesitant around 10.60 cents a pound for March and May. Increased spot house and southern hedge selling checked rising tendencies.

The New York Cotton Exchange estimated domestic consumption of all cotton in December at 785,000 bales. This compared with 745,000 in November and the record of 777,000 in March 1937.

Exports in March. Season so far 618,712 bales; port receipts 2,835. Port stocks 3,446,139.
