Absentee Voting

Absentee voting for the Second Primary (Run-Off) Election will start May 24th, and continue through May 30th, in the County Clerk's office, Levelland, Texas. Qualified voters who expect to be absent from the County on election day, (June 3rd), may vote absentee by personal appearance during the period mentioned above. Also, those persons who have registered in another County in Texas, and have been a resident of Hockley County for less than thirty days must vote in the Clerk's office during the absentee period. This type voter may vote a limited ballot only. That is to say, they will not be permitted to vote for Sheriff or Tax Assessor-Collector, but may vote for all state offices listed on the ballot. Residents of Hockley County who have resided here less than thirty days prior to June 3rd, and have not registered, must re-register with the Tax Assessor-Collector at their earliest convenience, so that they may qualify to vote a full ballot in the General Elections this fall at their regular precinct voting place.

Also those persons who are sick or disabled and can not come to the polls and vote June 3rd, may vote absentee, by mail. A person who is qualified to vote in the run-off election and is sick at home or in the hospital must make written request to the County Clerk by mail, requesting the Clerk to mail them a ballot. They must sign the request, give their voting precinct number, and return address. If they are confined in the hospital, their temporary hospital address must be given. All persons making application by mail either by letter or official application must sign the request with the identical signature that is on their voter registration certificate. This is very important, since the Clerk's office can not mail a ballot to a "Mrs. Leonard Jones" when the voter registration lists show her to be registered as "Vera Jones." This is an example, of course, but could keep someone from voting, if this should happen. Voting hours in the Clerk's office will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day during the absentee voting period. This period for absentee voting includes both Democratic and Republican voters.

grown and prospered. Ropes Schools has been fortunate to have such a man at its helm.

In the announcement made to the Plainsman by Mr. Fuller, he stated that Glynn Braden, who has been serving as high school principal, will now head the elementary schools as principal. It is felt he will do a fine job, as in the past.

Braden will be filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Terry Redford, who has been principal of Elementary Schools for a number of years. Mr. Redford also resigned at the last school board meeting. Mr. Redford is held in high regard, and his presence will be missed. When we think of him, we remember the interest he always takes in the young children, and we appreciated it with our own.

To date, no one has been hired or selected to fill the office of junior high or high school principal.

RIGHT TOOLS AID
HOME SEWING

Women who sew need proper cutting tools. Sharpness is the most important quality of good cutting equipment.

"An ideal kit of tools might contain eight-inch shears, six-inch snipping scissors and three-inch embroidery scissors. Though you could get by with less, a minimum set should include at least a pair of bent handle dressmaker shears and pair of scissors."

Shears are usually larger than scissors and are used for heavy cutting jobs. The handle's bent to let the blade rest flat against the cutting surface.

The openings in the handle of shears are of unequal size so that two or three fingers can be inserted in the opening of one handle and the thumb in another.

Use scissors for lighter cutting tasks. The handle features smaller openings of equal size.

"Later, when you want to add some luxury items to your minimum kit of sewing tools, consider embroidery scissors, pinking scissors, buttonhole scissors and thread clips."

Buttonhole scissors, designed to cut buttonholes of uniform size, provide adjustable cutting edges.

Thread clips are a modified form of scissors that have only one finger opening. They fit snugly in the hand and provide maximum flexibility of movement.

For the homemaker who likes to carry her needlework with her, folding scissors offer the perfect solution. These tiny scissors fit into their case which is the size of a match box.

"Buy good quality cutting tools and have them resharpened when necessary, select shears and scissors with the blades connected by a screw that can be adjusted."

Avoid buying cutting tools that have blades riveted together or a rivet made to look like a screw.

Keep the blades in proper adjustment. Blades connected too tightly are tiring to use. Those too loosely connected cut sloppily.

Since shears and scissors are expensive, keep all cutting equipment for sewing only. Keep them in a safe place away from children who need to cut paper, husbands who need to cut a piece of wire and little brothers who need to trim finger nails.

"With good sharp shears, you can cut out a garment easily. And sharp, well-kept tools make your work more accurate than dull ones do."

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Noise comes in many forms and it is described by many people as unwanted sounds. But whatever the definition, noise is a problem—one that has been creeping up on all of us over the years.

Noise pollution is fast becoming recognized as great a public health problem as is air or water or land pollution.

The increased use of machinery has resulted in a growing assortment of industrial situations which threaten the hearing capabilities of workers. But noise goes far beyond the confines of plant sites.

The sounds of our cities are the result, not only of elevated plant noises, but of the roar of traffic, the blare of horns and sirens, construction noise-maker such as jackhammers and the roar of jet airliners. No one anywhere is immune to these noisy, irritable influences.

Noise can actually surround you. It travels in pressure waves from its source, like the ripples caused by a rock tossed into a pond. Invisible, it is usually carried by air, but it can also be conducted by the wood walls of a home, the steel floors of offices, by the glass in windows and by the metal bodies of autos and airplanes.

The federal government requires that the environmental impact—including noise effects—be assessed before proceeding on federally funded construction projects.

Within our own state, members of the legislature have asked the State Health Department to study measures available for control of noise in the general environment.

The State Health Department's Industrial Hygiene Program has long been involved in noise control. Op-

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 17 accidents on rural highways in Hockley County during the month of April, according to Sergeant H. E. Pirtle, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and 13 injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first four months of 1972 shows a total of 47 accidents resulting in one person killed and 33 injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for April, 1972 shows a total of 445 accidents resulting in 44 persons killed and 232 injured as compared to April, 1971 with 454 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 276 injured.

The 44 traffic deaths for the month of April, 1972 occurred in the following counties: Castro, ten; Donley and Montague, five each; Parker and Wise, four each; Archer, three; Carson, Hale and Wilbarger, two each; Gray, Hall, Floyd, Palo Pinto, Randall, Terry and Wichita, one each.

erating out of the Division of Occupational Health and Radiation Control, the program has routinely worked with members of industry to implement the recommended noise control measures.

The Health Department Program's involvement in community noise control is just beginning to delve into this phase of noise control, and requests from local governments for assistance in forming ordinances have been received.

The Program is assisting in the research of legislation enacted by and under consideration in other states. On the basis of exposure and experience on noise problems, consideration may be given for expanding the legal support for the Department to include environmental noise control with the industrial responsibilities.

Emphasis on noise pollution is bringing results, and sometime in the future Texans may be able to enjoy that "silence that is in the starry sky" about which Wordsworth once wrote.

There are thousands of children in Texas today who are susceptible to one or more preventable diseases. Most of these youngsters are between one and four years of age. State health authorities have mounted a massive immunization campaign aimed at the preschool child in an effort to reduce the number of preschoolers who remain unimmunized against several deadly and common childhood diseases.

"The Texas Legislature moved last year to require certain immunizations for all school-age children as a prerequisite for those who attend school," said Texas Health Commissioner Dr. J. E. Peavy, "and it will go a long way toward reaching all school-age children who have not maintained their immunization levels. But even this measure will not reach what we consider the prime group of susceptible children—the preschooler between the ages of one and four."

Dr. Peavy stressed the importance of giving protective immunization to all preschool children immediately. "Otherwise, parents run the risk that potentially deadly diseases like diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella, tetanus or whooping cough may strike their unprotected preschool child," said Dr. Peavy.

Diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (or whooping cough) can all three be prevented by triple vaccine DTP. The first dosage is given as early as two months of age, and is followed at one month intervals by the two remaining doses. All three doses are necessary before complete protection is given.

Today, one dose of measles vaccine given to children one year of age or older offers almost 100 per cent protection. It's the best odds a parent can find anywhere in child health care these days.

Since the Salk and Sabin vaccines were discovered a decade ago there has been no major polio outbreak in Texas. But Texas has always had more than its share of this disease. In a five-year period in Texas, 121 of 133 victims of polio were under five years of age. Nothing further need be said on the necessity of immunizing all preschoolers against this disease. Again, three doses are necessary for complete protection.

Comedian Bob Hope received the award last year for his continuous concern and work in sight conservation and eye research.

When a youngster transmits the rubella virus to a pregnant mother—particularly during the first three months of her pregnancy, the results can be devastating—a baby born with severe birth defects. That is why it is important to have mass immunization of all children between one year of age and puberty.

Rabies in man doesn't happen too often, but the disease still is one to be reckoned with because of its presence in wildlife and the increase in the number of pets owned by Texans.

Those who believe that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure should guard their pets against rabies by having them vaccinated, says the Texas State Department of Health. It is a good way of protecting your pets—and yourself—against the threat of rabies.

Rabies last year was on the increase after a record low number of cases in 1970. Following a low of only 226 cases, laboratory confirmed animal rabies rose to 322 cases in 1971.

Surprisingly, cat rabies outnumbered the number of dog cases last year. This can be interpreted two ways. First, it could be interpreted to mean that the vaccination of dogs is showing results. Or, it could mean that cat exposure to rabies is increasing and that cat vaccinations aren't on par with those of dogs.

Whichever reason you choose, you'd be correct.

Of the 39 pets which came down with rabies, the cats outnumber the dogs 21 to 18. Dog rabies cases showed a decline by one case, but the number of rabid cats increased from 16 to 21 in one year.

The Veterinary Public Health Division of the State Health Department instituted a bite surveillance program during 1971, and the nine-month results showed the need for more pet rabies protection. Of 5,119 dogs involved in biting episodes, only 34.1 per cent—or about one-third, were known to have been vaccinated. The percentage was much worse for cats. Of 835 cats involved in biting incidents, less than 10 per cent were known to have rabies protection.

As usual, wildlife rabies cases took the spotlight in 1971 with 252 cases. Rabid skunks headed the list with 186 of the 252 confirmed cases. Thirty-one cases of rabies were confirmed in livestock last year.

To protect the public, the State Health Department furnished 689 anti-rabies treatment series (14 injections) to bite victims last year. This treatment is doing the job, and the last human fatality to naturally-acquired rabies in Texas was in 1962.

The record is good, but Health Department officials believe that the odds against rabies can be better if all pets—dogs and cats—are protected against rabies.

Squirrels are fond of lettuce.
