WHATSOEVER THINGS

—by Donald E. Wildmon

There's discontentment in the land. You can see it everywhere. But one of the places where it is most visible is in the area of race relations. There it stands out and stares at you.

We have got to learn, in this country and in this world to live together as brothers. We have got to learn to work together and worship together. We have got to learn that this is a world in which there are white men, and black men, and red men, and yellow men, and brown men.

How shall we do this? We must do it as individuals first and then as a society. It will have to come from inside us if it is to be effective outside of us. Laws are not effective unless they are in accordance with the will of man.

True, the Negro and the Indian haven't been treated fairly. But an honest attempt toward providing justice for all men is now afoot. And those who have, in the past, been mistreated must now take their place in this effort for equality.

New freedoms are opening everyday for those who were once denied them. But with every freedom comes a responsibility. That's what those who are gaining new freedoms faster than any race in the history of man must learn. Free people, to remain free, must become responsible people.

Now there is one aspect of freedom that we are forgetting in our rush to get the laws on the books, and that is that these laws must be written in the hearts of men. That's where the Grand Man of Galilee comes in. He changes the hearts of men, makes it possible to have laws of brotherhood written on them. And in all our rush to give rights we have overlooked the One Who makes right.

We need today, perhaps as never before, the Spirit of that mighty Galilian in our hearts. We need it because it is the missing ingredient in all our haste to do good. We need it because without it all the laws we may ever pass will not be effective nor ease the situation.

This means that this Message we have been listening to for years must now be put into practice in everyday life. It means that we are going to have to apply those high callings from the Cross. We can no longer keep that Spirit conveniently separated from all other areas of life. We must learn to apply it in the world.

"Love one another" is what He taught. Love means respect, acceptance, and the willingness to help. It has never meant looting and robbing and killing and burning. It never will. Every incident of looting, robbing, killing and burning only means the separation is wider than before. Nobody wins when these rule.

We must learn to live together, to love one another. And we must learn it soon. If we don't learn to love one another — all of us — then all of us will lose.

Regional Meeting of FHA Will Be Held in St. Louis

How to check the flow of rural people into urban centers will be discussed at a regional meeting of the Farmers Home Administration, to be held June 25-28 in St. Louis. Mr. L. J. Cappleman, Texas State Director for the agency said today.

Texas officials attending the meeting will include Mr. Cappleman, John O. Barnes, Assistant State Director, L. D. Smith, Rural Development Specialist, Arnold H. Paul, Executive Officer, J. C. Hayes, Assistant to State Director, Farm Management, J. D. McKenzie, Chief, Operating Loan and W. E. Lawson, Chief, Community Services.

Agency leaders representing 18 states will attend.

Mr. Cappleman said that the Farmers Home Administration will loan about 1.3 billion during the coming year to create jobs in rural America, improve rural housing, strengthen family farms, develop needed rural community facilities.

The main drive in all Farmers Home Administration programs is to strengthen the economy of rural America, to make it a place that will attract rather than repel people Mr. Cappleman said.

He estimated that 4 million people would benefit from the services of the Farmers Home

Administration in fiscal 1969. The Farmers Home Administration through 1,600 county offices located in rural areas in all states provides development credit accompanied by management aid. Funds advanced by the agency are used to help low-income rural families obtain needed resources and raise their incomes, and to help disadvantaged rural communities obtain modern community facilities.

As of December 31, 1967, the agency reported losses of less than one percent on funds advanced through current programs.

City Dads Say Alleyways to be Cleaned; Ask your Aid

We were requested this week to ask local citizens to please burn tree limbs and other debris which will burn, that is in your alley this week.

The City Council is making arrangements to have the alleyways cleared and mowed. Residents will then be expected to keep their alleys clean and clear of obstacles.

These lanes must be clear in order for your trash to be hauled; for the city maintenance man to go through; for the fire truck to pass in cases of emergency; for a cleaner, healthier and more attractive city, which is our home.

The Council also reminds citizens that a fine may be imposed for cluttered alleys. After they are cleared and mowed by the City, it should not be too difficult to keep them clean.

SIX FLAGS REVUE SALUTES THE RED, WHITE AND BLUE

Faces of American Youth—Ten Texas collegians appearing in SIX FLAGS Over Texas' "Red, White and Blue Revue" are bringing audiences to their feet in patriotic acclaim for the rousing ways these youngsters romp through a fast-moving series of familiar tunes ranging from American folk music, spirituals, musical comedy, and western to popular music.

Arlington, Texas—Performances of SIX FLAGS Over Texas' new musical show, the "Red, White and Blue Revue," with a cast of ten talented collegians, are being greeted by enthusiastic audiences with standing ovations of approval.

The annual show is one of the featured highlights of the popular theme park's 80 rides, attractions and shows. The general musical approach to the "Red, White and Blue Revue" does not hinge on a plot, but rather on a fast-moving series of familiar tunes from American folk music, spirituals, musical comedy, Western and popular music.

Robert Douglass, Music Critic for the Fort Worth Star Telegram, reviewed the show, saying in part: "Nostalgia is a major force at SIX FLAGS, but somehow it was timely and heartening to hear these youngsters romping their way through patriotic and regional songs with convincing fervor. It brought goose pimples, too. The grand finale with 'It's A Grand Old Flag' backed by a tremendous 20-by 20-foot flag brought a standing roar from the crowd."

The "Red, White and Blue Revue," written by C. R. Meeker, Jr., and produced by David Blackburn and Michael Jenkins with David Bright conducting the orchestra and ensemble, is staged in the Park's new 1,200-seat, air-conditioned Southern Palace Music Hall. Shows are scheduled for six or seven performances each operating day. SIX FLAGS, 140-acre, $18,000,000 theme park located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, is open during the Spring on weekends only but commences daily operation from May 25 through the 7th of September.
