DIVORCE

—Ted Dotts

In our society no sin is so prevalent as the sin of divorce. Divorce indicates that one or both parties to a marriage refuse to pay heed to the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth. In short, one or both parties sin. And the saddest cases, I think, are in those marriages where one partner is trying and the other partner is not.

But even more sad than divorce is the unbending, self-righteous attitude many of us who are not divorced take towards those who are. True, divorce is a sin. But are there any who are not sinners? I have never met a single person who is not a sinner.

The following story is copied from a book by Paul Tourner who is a Swiss physician and psychiatrist. Dr. Tourner is taking a cruise around Norway with a group of Christian doctors. They are studying the relation of the Christian Faith to medicine. All the doctors are renowned men and Christians.

"I was leaning on the rail one day watching the wonderful Norwegian landscape slip by, with its incredibly green islands and its shores contrasting with the great glaciers which come down almost to the sea. A doctor passed in silence, and stood leaning against the same rail beside me, studying the same spectacle. After a moment or two he said, 'I'm quite upset. I have just been told that one of our colleagues here has been divorced and remarried. Is it true?'

'Yes,' I said. After a further silence he went on, 'How is it possible? How can you agree to his taking his place among us Christian doctors?'

"I said nothing for the moment. Then my friend added, 'Do you not believe that divorce is disobedience to God? a sin?' 'Certainly,' I said, 'but if we could only have sinless men among us, there would be no one here; at any rate, I should not be here. We are all alike, we are all forgiven sinners.' A long silence followed. My friend went away. Later he returned, 'You are right,' he said briefly, 'now I know what grace means.'"

(Guilt and Grace, page 125)

Divorce is a sin. So is the THOUGHT of adultery. So is envy. So is hate. So is a wrong relationship between any two people. A divorced person is no more a sinner than is the person who dislikes his neighbor, who gossips about his neighbor, who desires his neighbor's goods.

The Letter of James drags us all down from our self-righteousness when he says in chapter two, verse ten: 'Whoever keeps the whole law but fails in one point has become guilty of all of it.'

We are all sinners living on the grace of God and we dare not throw stones at one another.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson announce the forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Mary Katherine, to Thomas Boyer Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Johnson of Brownfield, at 8:00 p.m. July 3, 1965 in the First Baptist Church in Ropesville.

Did The Rainmaker Bring The Big Rain?

Report Of City Council Meeting

The Ropesville City Council met on Tuesday, June 8, with the following business being discussed and acted upon.

A contract with Southwestern Public Service Company was signed. This contract is concerning any additional street lighting that the City of Ropesville should elect to have installed will be done for no additional charge, other than the monthly rate, as long as there are standard poles available.

The Board of Equalization of Taxes was appointed. They are: Everett Wallace, Gene McKee and Bill Odom.

The auditor has finished auditing the city books. Each year a special meeting is called for suggestions, and the meeting has been set for Tuesday, June 22. The Council also adopted to have the City Park cleaned up and to have a city-wide clean up campaign.

Tom Wall was accepted to mow the grass and weeds around City Hall for $5.00 per month.

The council also set a date as to when the water bills should be mailed out, which is no later than the 3rd day of the month.

Word was received that the contract for the land on which the sewage disposal plant will be located has been sent to Mrs. Thornhill and Mr. Blankenship, but word has not been received on the acceptance or rejection of it. No other business was discussed.

City Clean Up Campaign

The City of Ropes is trying to plan and carry through a clean-up campaign. This will require the interest and cooperation of all citizens of the community.

To begin with the alleys are being graded, and the City Park is being cleaned.

Each family is asked to clean their property and put the trash in piles. Then trucks will come by and you will assist them in loading your trash into the truck. If you are unable to help load your trash, it will be done for you, if you will say so. Let's get busy and help clean up our community. There are tree limbs, boards, rocks and other useless trash on most lots in Ropes.

If enough people will participate, the City Council will set a date to pick up trash at their next regular meeting which is Tuesday, July 13.

You are asked to call the Plainsman office and leave your name if you will take part in this clean up. All names received will be turned over to Mayor C. R. Johnson.

Tom Wall

by Troy Morris

Out at Busterville, four miles east of Ropesville, we asked Buster McNabb, "Does a rainmaker really make rain?"

Buster laughed and said, "Let's put it this way, this is the first rain we have had in three years. There is no way to prove whether the rainmaker made it or not."

Some four weeks ago, the farmers in that section, being desperate for moisture, sixteen of them went in together and had a rainmaker placed at the Busterville Gin.

"The man who installed the rainmaker," explained Buster, "did not promise us a thing, but he did point out that it was all according to what direction the wind was blowing the clouds, saying that the crystals from this rainmaker might cause it to rain in Lubbock."

And almost immediately after the rainmaker was installed, it rained in Lubbock, and at points between Lubbock and Busterville.

A rainmaker can be used only when there are clouds, and each time there were clouds the rainmaker was turned on—and rain did come, but it fell all over the country. No one knows whether the rainmaker had any influence on the amount of rain at Busterville or not. But to say the least, it was installed at an opportune time.

This particular rainmaker operates on electricity—some twenty-four hundred volts—and makes the crystals from salt and just plain water. The crystals formed by the salt and water are blown into the heavens at terrific speed by a huge fan.

This is what is called cloud seeding. This is the same plan as most rainmakers—they seed the clouds, and if there is any moisture in them it will cause it to fall to earth.

The fact remains that the rainmaker was in operation when it did rain and there is just a possibility it might have had some influence on the amount of water which fell.

However if they really work we think there would be sky juice machines all over the country.

MOCK TRIAL AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

On Sunday evening at 6:00 p.m., during the worship service, a mock trial will be presented at the Methodist Church.

Attorneys for the prosecution are Crate Snider and Helen Rucker. Attorneys for the defense are Richard Parchman and Jerry Beth Chambers.

The case involves four sailors who are cast adrift in a small boat. One sailor is murdered and cannibalism prevails.

After the attorneys have argued their case, the congregation will be asked to make any statements they might desire and then to vote 'Guilty' or 'Not Guilty'.

The community is invited to attend.

How About a Swimming Pool For Ropesville

Are you interested in a swimming pool for Ropesville?

A swimming pool for the Ropes community is in the "talking" stage. Location for the pool could be in the City Park or behind the community building.

Right now it is trying to be found out how many people would be interested in a pool, and could donate either labor or money or both to the project. If enough people are interested, it will be brought before a civic organization of the City.

You are asked to call the Plainsman office and leave your name if the idea appeals to you.

Estimated cost of the pool, to be fifty by seventy feet, is a little over $3,000.00

Tornado Warning

City Marshal Dub Riney informed us Wednesday that in case of a tornado approaching Ropes, five long blasts will be blown on the siren.

This is not to be confused with a fire warning, or fire practice signal which is two long and one short blast.

It was thought that five long blasts were needed to insure everyone in the community of hearing it.

FROM THE MAILBAG

(The following letter is from Mrs. Clarence Sommerfeld of Hamilton. Mrs. Sommerfeld is the former Myrlene Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abbe Russell of Ropes. She has been married six and a half years, and has been receiving the Plainsman all this time. Don't know just how it happened, but we had the wrong name and the right address on her paper last week.

Anyway, the mistake had a good side to it, as we enjoyed hearing from her, and it sure helps the ole morale to know the paper is read and looked forward to!)

Dear Plainsman, I would like to tell you how much I enjoy the Ropes paper each week. I read it from cover to cover, I am always looking for the mailman each Saturday (which is when I receive my paper)

There was something wrong this week so I decided to write you because I sure do want to keep receiving it each week.

Some way you put the wrong name on my paper. The mailman sure did have a good laugh. He knew the paper and knew it was ours. Thank you very much.

Mrs. Clarence Sommerfeld

CARD OF THANKS

Researchers have announced that fishing is one of the very best ways to "clear the cobwebs" from our minds and rid ourselves of work-a-day tensions. Millions of fishermen have known that for years. Fishing means relaxing to most fishermen. Ever notice the contented look on a man's (or woman's) face as he sorts through his tackle box, picking out a favorite ABU-Reflex or other lure? Some fishermen, though, fall into the unhappy habit of basing a "good day's fishing" on the number of fish they catch. No fish, or only a few, and they are likely to get upset—sometimes downright irritable. These folks are missing most of the fun of fishing—and they certainly aren't relaxing. Catching a "limit" of fish overshadows all thought of getting as much fresh air, sunshine and enjoyment as possible. They overlook the pleasure of making perfect casts with Garcia tackle and the natural beauty of unspoiled surroundings.

Even getting ready for a fishing trip should quicken the pulse, and the anticipation of the out-of-doors should take the mind off everyday problems. Next time you sit down to wind some new Super-Playl monofilament line on your Mitchell or Ambassador reel, or try some back yard practice casting, consider how you measure your fishing fun.

Fishing is not a competition—even though there are many contests (for youngsters, especially) which emphasize catching a lot of fish. Putting a fish back for the future is lots more rewarding than bringing it home and ending its recreational value forever. Fishermen who develop the reputation for returning some fish to the water never have to "prove" they caught a "limit" by showing a full stringer or creel, either.

Fishing offers something new and a lot of excitement each time you go afield. It offers a real chance to become completely absorbed in the fun at hand, "away from it all." So if the fish are few, remember there's always another day. You're bringing home a revitalized spirit (and probably a big, healthy appetite) every time you go, and that's a full stringer in any man's sport.

Nola Knows

By Nola White

Dear Nola - How can I get rid of a 35 year old divorced man who keeps phoning me for dates? I'm not interested in him and Mother says I shouldn't talk to him.

Carol

Dear Carol - Try hanging up!

Dear Nola - I am in love with a girl who is perfect. We were engaged, but I broke it off because all my friends say I'd be crazy to give up being single. They say every thing is swell before marriage but all wrong afterwards. I think it would be wonderful to have a wife and family, but the experiences of my friends make me afraid to try it. What do you think?

Timid

Dear Timid - I think you're right, but if you're no better at picking a wife than you are at picking friends, you'd better wait awhile before you pop the question.

Dear Nola - George said we'd go to church every Sunday after we married, but I'm ashamed to tell you how few times we've been in the church house in the last three years. Since the social life in this town revolves around the church, we don't have any. What should I do about this?

Backslider

Dear Backslider - If you're going to church solely for the "social life", you might do better in the nearest bar. Maybe George see through this hypocrisy and wants no part of it. I'd suggest that you go to church for the purpose of worship. If that's your motive, you'll have the strength to get there without George!

Personal to Dejected - Someone once said that both a wise lover and a good cook know when the fire is out.
