JEST SOME THOUGHTS —

We think this West Texas weather is not to be fooled around with. First the wind blows your eyes full of sand, so you can't see what's coming later. Then the first thing you know, the sun is shining, and all is calm and peaceful.

But not for long, you can bet on that.

Our weather is a little confused. April is supposed to be the month of showers, and March the month for sand, but Sunday and Monday night on set a record for the little particles of dust roaring through the air.

Regular chores during such weather include wiping the sand off the table so you can set it. Then you set it. By the time you get the food to the table, you have to wipe the plates out and get new drinks that aren't coated with sand, set the food down, and then just close your eyes and eat sand and all. It gives a different flavor to all foods. Makes them have real grit.

Drink your liquids and you have something that will stick to your ribs — mud.

After one has swallowed so much sand, there is not enough liquid to dissolve it, so then you shake out the toothpicks, and pick out the rest of the sand particles. But you must learn to pick your teeth with your mouth closed, or the sand gets ahead of the job of removing it.

Another enjoyable factor of a sand storm is the static electricity. Brush your hair, and it flies everywhere. Get in or out of your car and receive a shock or two. But to top it all, try feeding paper through the printing presses, and the sparks fly, and then the paper lovingly enfolds the ink-coated rollers and must be dug off by hand, piece by little piece. This is a nice, clean job that coats your fingernails with ink, and more gritty, sticky sand.

The quality of one's patience can be told by how their temper holds out after stopping the press several times to dig the paper out. Also the quality of one's vocabulary. It is possible to think of many new words not now on the market when this happens several times late at night.

The art of laughing to keep from crying sure doesn't work in this atmosphere — whoever is helping you would be sure to take you off to the nut house if you so much as smiled after a paper or two.

The real fun begins when you begin to feed papers back through the press. About fifty of them cling together, and they will not come apart. Touch the paper and any part of the steel on the press at the same time, and you might as well have stuck your finger in a light socket.

Then after the laughs, ruined papers and fun of the press comes the time of cutting and folding. The cutting goes pretty good because several are cut at one time so it doesn't hurt if they stick together. But they must be folded separately. Everything around you had better be made of wood. The papers must be literally forced apart, for each fold.

We love the sandy weather.

We look forward to it every year with a sick grin and a hearty moan.

Being it's also the season for fishing, we are reminded that the ability to sin differs among people — a short-armed fisherman isn't as big a liar as a long-armed one.

And so, we dust our way off the page for another week.

It Is Our Belief . . .

(An Editorial)

That the majority of the merchants in Ropesville need to take a course on the value of advertising.

In a letter to the Plainsman this week, a gripe was aired about some out of town advertising. Just where do people in this town think the advertising comes from for the paper? If we had to depend on advertising and business from the Ropes merchants, we would have had to close our doors long ago.

We appreciate any advertising we can get, and we also urge our readers to trade with our advertisers. Only those who care advertise. Those who do not advertise have enough business already, or they would be using the columns of this paper to tell the people what they have to offer, the prices for same, and have their phone number and name in the paper each week for the convenience of the readers, and potential customers.

Not only will advertising bring in more business, it is totally deductible. If you had to pay ten dollars, or five hundred dollars income tax, it could have been spent for advertising, which would have been of mutual benefit for the paper and for your business.

This paper didn't start out to be a free gratis operation, but it has ended up that way. The merchants in Ropes who support this paper can be counted on one hand, and have some fingers left over.

We firmly believe that everyone should work for the betterment of their community, and we will push any good that we can for this purpose; but if one receives no cooperation, how are they supposed to stay open; and why should one support a merchant who in turn refuses to support them.

The merchants from other towns, such as Levelland (mainly), Lubbock and Brownfield do want your business. They advertise every now and then in this paper to tell you so. They are willing to spend some money to tell you what they have to offer, and extend an invitation to you to come and trade with them.

In a week or so we will be printing a special edition on soil and water conservation — there are many, many advertisers in this issue, and they are all from out of town. They care about the land, the farmers, and in general the trade area of this territory. They want your business. If they didn't, they wouldn't bother to spend the money, take the time and effort to see that they have an ad in the paper.

People read this paper, all four pages of it, including the advertisements. Then if they need what is offered, they trade there. They also read the ads in other papers and compare. If there are no prices, or ads in the Ropes paper, then there is no comparison to make. They just go elsewhere and trade. This is their privilege.

If every merchant in Ropes would spend just a few dollars a week, or a few dollars a month, we would not have to take advertising from outside firms. We could afford to advertise only what Ropes has to offer. But who is going to know just what Ropes has to offer, when it is not in the paper.

You may write them a letter, or send them a flyer of some sort, but these end up in the trash before they are even read. They say, "Oh, that's only an advertisement." The paper is read thoroughly, and lays around for a few days, is passed from family member to member, and sometimes on to the other relatives, and the ads are read along with the reading matter.

We would like to urge people to trade only with those who advertise in the paper, but my goodness, this would become a ghost town in two weeks.

Perhaps those out of town do not trade with us, but then those in town do not either, so why shouldn't we, (and our readers alike) go somewhere else to trade. Really, if the Ropes business firms do not care enough to try and get your business, why bother?

We have a pride in our town. We always have had. We are hanging on by the skin of our teeth, and with the help of outside advertisers and job work, with the definite faith that Ropes is going to grow, and when it does grow, it will be with merchants who will advertise and support this paper.

Some people may have the idea that the subscriptions keep the paper going, but this is not true. All the subscriptions do is pay for the postage to mail the paper each week and a portion of the paper it is printed on.

If we didn't have a pride in our town, and want it to prosper, we would have closed our doors long ago. But we hope to be able to say we live in "Ripping Roaring Ropesville" for many years to come.

PREPARATIONS

— Don McWhorter

When we go on a long trip we have to take certain things with us. We must pack our clothes, get our travelers cheques, load the car, call the mail man and notify some of our friends. When we begin to build something we must get our materials, our tools and our plans together. We must seek some guidance from an expert or someone else who is qualified to help us build correctly.

The same is true when we are building our Christian Faith. We must have the right materials. That is, we must accept what has been taught to us. We must have some understanding of the Christian Faith and we must be willing to do our part to make a good Christian life. Then we must begin in our building by getting the right plan. Christ showed us how and we can find a very good blueprint in the Christian teachings of the Bible. We must then seek help in selecting the tools for the building of a Christian Faith. We need guidance in the use of the tools.

The sharing of Christian Experience with one another is the best place to find the expert, or the qualified help to build a faith. Someone who has had an experience with God can witness to this experience from first hand information, and show you a way to find the same experience and thereby build a good strong Christian Faith.

The joy of being a Christian is not nearly as good as the joy of sharing the Christian experience with someone else. This is the idea and the purpose behind personal evangelism.

We have tried all manners of ways to reach people for Jesus Christ. We have tried to "preach to them" in mass evangelism. We have tried to "teach" them in Christian education. Jesus is a reality and He must be experienced to become real. The only way we can reach people is for other people to share and witness to the power and love of Jesus Christ.

Our Apologies

We offer our sincere apologies to J. T. Drake who asked us last week to announce that the Lions Club was selling tickets in a block to the residents who wanted to attend the All-American Football Game to be held at Jones Stadium June 27.

The seats sold for $6 apiece, and were to be located on the thirty to forty-yard line. You were supposed to contact Charles Shannon, and the deadline was April 22 (yesterday).

We don't know is this deadline could be extended or not, but if you are interested, you might contact Charles and see.

Our scratch pad was taken to the front telephone, and numbers written on the back of this item. We did not discover it until we were preparing to obtain news for this week's paper.

We are truly sorry this dated item was missed.

Progress of Ropesville

(Editor's Note: Following is an article turned into the Plainsman for publication, written by one of our citizens. The article is signed, however we are withholding the name by request. We welcome views and comments by our readers. The only stipulation is that the article or letter be signed. We will print them, and withhold the name if so desired. The opinions expressed in the following article are those of the author, and not of the editor.)

Is the direction that Ropes is headed to be called progress? Are we progressing in a manner in which we can be proud or is it time for the taxpayers of Ropesville to take a look around!

First are our elected officials, (Mayor and City Council) doing the things that we want done. Let's look about and see:

1. A Motor Grader was bought at a large expense to do a job that the county has been doing.
2. A Ford Tractor and Shredder

Farm Bill To Be Explained Friday

Bureau secretary-treasurer, presiding. Carrol Chaloupka of Dalhart, TFB state director from District 1, will be in charge of the Amarillo meeting which begins at 2 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, West.

The proposed compromise farm legislation is expected to be reported favorably out of the House Agriculture Committee early next week. It is said to combine provisions from the "consensus" or Administration farm proposal and the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 which is scheduled to expire at the end of this year.

was bought to cut weeds and keep down the mosquitos. The tractor stays in the garage more than it stays out cutting weeds. Also a charge is made to shred vacant lots even though these items were bought with tax money.

3. Our Mayor uses the local paper to advertise for out of town business to do jobs in our city. There is no saving out of town and they do not pay any taxes here.

4. What about our antique Water System? Shouldn't the truth be told to the tax paying public?

5. What about taxes? They are the highest of any town around us and what do we get for them. Also could it be that plans are being made to change the evaluation of property to make them higher.

My fellow citizens of Ropesville: Let us have a pride in our town that is second to none. But let us not do it by expensive mistakes.

THE OBSERVER AND THE OBSERVED

by Dave K. Powers

Everyone has supposedly heard of TEXAS, the Lone Star State, either by joke or by fact. If anyone has a right to brag or boast of their lovely state, Texans are high on the list. Being a native New Mexican (and proud of it!), these three years spent in Texas have been enlightening years. I suppose that even on the mission field, we'll be getting the West Texas dirt out of our teeth and ears!

"It has been said that Americans never fought better than they fought in Texas, and with a measure of truth it might be added that never did they manage their affairs worse." These words describing the Texas revolution are from "TEXAS: THE LONE STAR STATE" by R. N. Richardson. What exciting days must have been the early days of this great state. Think of the ALAMO. Travis sent out dramatic appeals to Andrew Ponton at Gonzales, to Fannin at Goliad, to the convention at Washington on the Brazos, to the people of Texas and to all the Americans in the world. Runners risked their lives. At dawn on the morning of March 6, 1836, Santa Anna took the place by storm, its defenders fighting until death. They had not died in vain: their sacrifice delayed Santa Anna and gave their countrymen a few more precious days to prepare to meet the advancing horde." Yes, TEXANS fought well at the Alamo.

Then at San Jacinto, in an 18 minute battle, fought to the tune of a popular love song, "Will You Come to My Bower I Have Shaded For You?" Texans fought well. This was the afternoon of April 21st. Under the leadership of Mirabeau B. Lamar, a line of infantrymen extended for a thousand yards, a cannon was placed at each end and their flag in the center of this long line. Santa Anna and 1,200 men were taken by surprise by nearly 1,000 Texans. There were 630 of the enemy killed, 730 taken captive and a handful of Mexicans escaped. Nine Texans were killed and thirty-four wounded.

Both were short battles but they were turning points in Texas history. There is still a battle going on... Not a battle over who shall own the land or which flag shall we live under, but a battle of good against evil. May it be said of us, in the battle for righteousness, "They fought well and handled their affairs well." Are you fighting for HIS cause, the greatest cause of the universe?

GO-CARTS and MINI-BIKES

The operation of motorized go-carts and mini-bikes on public streets and roads is illegal, unless the vehicle is equipped with the equipment required for registration.

Very few mini-bikes or go-carts are equipped, and cannot be licensed. If they cannot be licensed, obviously they cannot be legally driven on the street.

There are many reasons why this is the law, not the least of them safety reasons. Such vehicles are so small they are difficult to see. Without the necessary safety equipment such as brakes, horns, rear-view mirrors, mufflers, and stop lights, they cannot be licensed.

State law provides penalties for violation of the equipment requirements.

Even when such vehicles are equipped to meet licensing standards, the operator must hold a valid operator's license if he is going to operate the vehicle anywhere except on private property.

All of these legal requirements are aimed at just one thing — the safety of the operator and others who use the streets and highways.

Enforcement of these laws is not just a matter for police officers. It is important that parents enforce them as well, not only for safety of the child but as part of his training for responsible adulthood.

SOUTH PLAINS AREA HIT BY TORNADOES

Twenty-five persons lost their lives, and damage was expected to exceed ten million dollars from the tragic tornado that ripped across the South Plains last Friday night. Hundreds were hospitalized, the injuries ranging from cuts and bruises to severe.

The storm originated around Plains, and Tatum, New Mexico, with some damage being reported at these points. The first real heavy damage was reported at Whiteface, some 35 miles north of Ropes, when the twister dipped down at that small community, causing extensive damage. Most of the residents were gathered at the school auditorium for the annual senior play. Several were injured when this edifice was struck. Most injuries were reported to have been suffered from flying glass and debris.

Next to go under severe alert, and to be hit was the community of Whitharral, with Cotton Senter following. Here homes were demolished, and two people lost their lives. A twister also hit Lazbuddie and Claytonville and Edmondson.

Extensive damage was suffered at Plainview, some 40 miles north of Lubbock. Several lives were lost, and a complete section of that small city destroyed.

Dimmitt, Pampa and Silverton were also hit. The trailer park at Sherwood Shores, with over two hundred trailers, was swept before the big blow with only one trailer standing. Here, most of the casualties were suffered.

Beginning about 9 p.m. Friday, the hectic day of storms and warnings ended around 3 a.m. Saturday morning.

The devastation left by the storm is almost unbelievable. The ruins appear to be about the worst we have ever seen. Loss was complete in most cases. The majority of people interviewed were either in their cellars, or trying to reach them.

Man is rendered completely helpless by one of these storms. All you can do is try to find cover, and await the outcome, being thankful to come out with your life.

WHATSOEVER THINGS

by Donald E. Wildmon

In Chicago Police Lt. Emmett J. McMorrow rushed to a currency exchange and arrested a man who later was charged with armed robbery. "Everything seemed sort of familiar," said McMorrow. And it should have. He arrested the same man 20 years earlier on the same charge and — you guessed it — at the same currency exchange!

And then up in Idaho another strange incident happened. A bottle tossed into the Portneuf River was found 38 years later, by workers on a Pocatello flood control project. Inside the bottle was a yellowed note: "This bottle was thrown into the Portneuf River at Pocatello Idaho, March 31, 1930. Finder please write to Eva Brockway, Robert Brockway, and Mayme Brockway." The workmen contacted a retired railroad engineer, Clarence Brockway, of Pocatello. He said that Mayme was his wife, Eva was his daughter, and Robert was his son.

Back several hundred years ago a fellow by the name of Koboeth, who was a preacher, said these words: "Cast your bread upon the waters, for you will find it after many days." Maybe the two incidents above are evidence of this truth. But the truth of the statement covers more than incidents like those. There are other things that come back to us if and when we cast them.

One of the things that comes back to us is the good that we do. The good that we do is never wasted no matter how much it may seem like it is. And the good we do will come back to us eventually. It doesn't always have the fairy book ending that we like to place with it but our good will return to us.

And love is another thing that if we will cast it upon the waters of human experience will return to us. The best way to be loved and lovely is to love. Fact about the business is that it is the only way. You see, if we will love then we will be loved. It is just that simple.

The Man of Galilee said that with what judgement we judge, we would be judged with. You see, if we do good people will do good to us. And if we love, then people will love us. He wasn't the first to say it, but he was the first to put it in the proper setting when he said, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." That may seem childish, and too simple, and old-fashioned, and out of step with modern man, but it is true. It is still one of the best rules on which to build one's life. J. C. Penny believed in it so much that he built a financial empire on it. Ever heard of the "Golden Rule Stores"? They were the forerunner to the J. C. Penny stores.

One indisputable law of life we need to learn early is this — whatever we cast upon the waters of life will come back to us. It would be a better world if all of us would learn that. Maybe then we would cast out bread that we would like to get back.

When you're not like yourself, Lydia Pinkham understands

All of a sudden you might feel you're changing — not a good feeling. You're tired, edgy, out of sorts and that's not you. Lydia Pinkham understands.

A long time ago, when ladies couldn't be as frank as we can today, Lydia Pinkham recognized the problem and set about finding a remedy. She knew it was not natural for women to have to suffer with what was obviously a natural process.

So she turned to nature for a remedy. She developed a marvelous compound of medicinal roots and herbs that turned the trick for the women she knew. Because it is a natural answer to your natural problems, it can turn the trick for you, too.

Try Lydia Pinkham's root and herb remedy to help you feel better, more like yourself.
