With the war finally over and the prisoners of war home, the American people can't seem to rest for lack of something else to complain about. Now they are biting the hand that feeds them.

With the current Housewives Lib movement to boycott the meat counters, the usual silent meat producing ranchmen are finally voicing their say too. And it is about time he tells his side because he has good reason too.

You see, he has borrowed money all winter to buy high priced feed for his livestock fattening the animals and readying them for market. He has tried to build his replacement stock and paid high prices to do so. But why shouldn't he...

...for sometime there has been more demand than supply so the monkey has been on his back. Now the housewives in the cities are on his back. The meat producer deserves a higher price for his product...

...he has been paying higher prices for everything he buys. Maybe the man in agriculture should strike... just stop taking his product to market for a while. Yes, let these housewives eat their fish. The law of supply and demand will soon catch up on the fishermen too and the price will go up!

All in all President Nixon's ceiling had to be done, I guess. Now retailers will not be able to sell those meats for more than the highest prices that they had collected in the past 30 days.

The President stopped short of placing controls on the price of animals on the hoof. Most stockmen would rather have seen him freeze the prices. This way they would have been assured of receiving some return for the expensive feed they have poured into their animals. As it is now with a ceiling at the butcher shop, ranchmen fear a roll back all the way to the pasture which will force another loss on their part.

With a domestic grain shortage staring them in the face, and consumers complaining about rising food prices, President Nixon and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz quickly reversed farm policy. Prodded by Treasury Secretary George Shultz, an ardent free marketeer, they proposed a new laissez-faire farm policy that would abandon some price supports and reduce other subsidies. They returned as much acreage as possible to production, dropped export subsidies and prepared to "empty" the Government storage bins. Though they forecast that such moves would cause food prices to level off after July, that was not soon enough for irate consumers.

True, the new ceiling on meat may keep the overall food-price index from rising as much as it otherwise would have for the next few months. Yet, it seems only fair to follow the advice of Texas Democrat Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, when he offers a bill to place a freeze on all retail prices and interest rates.

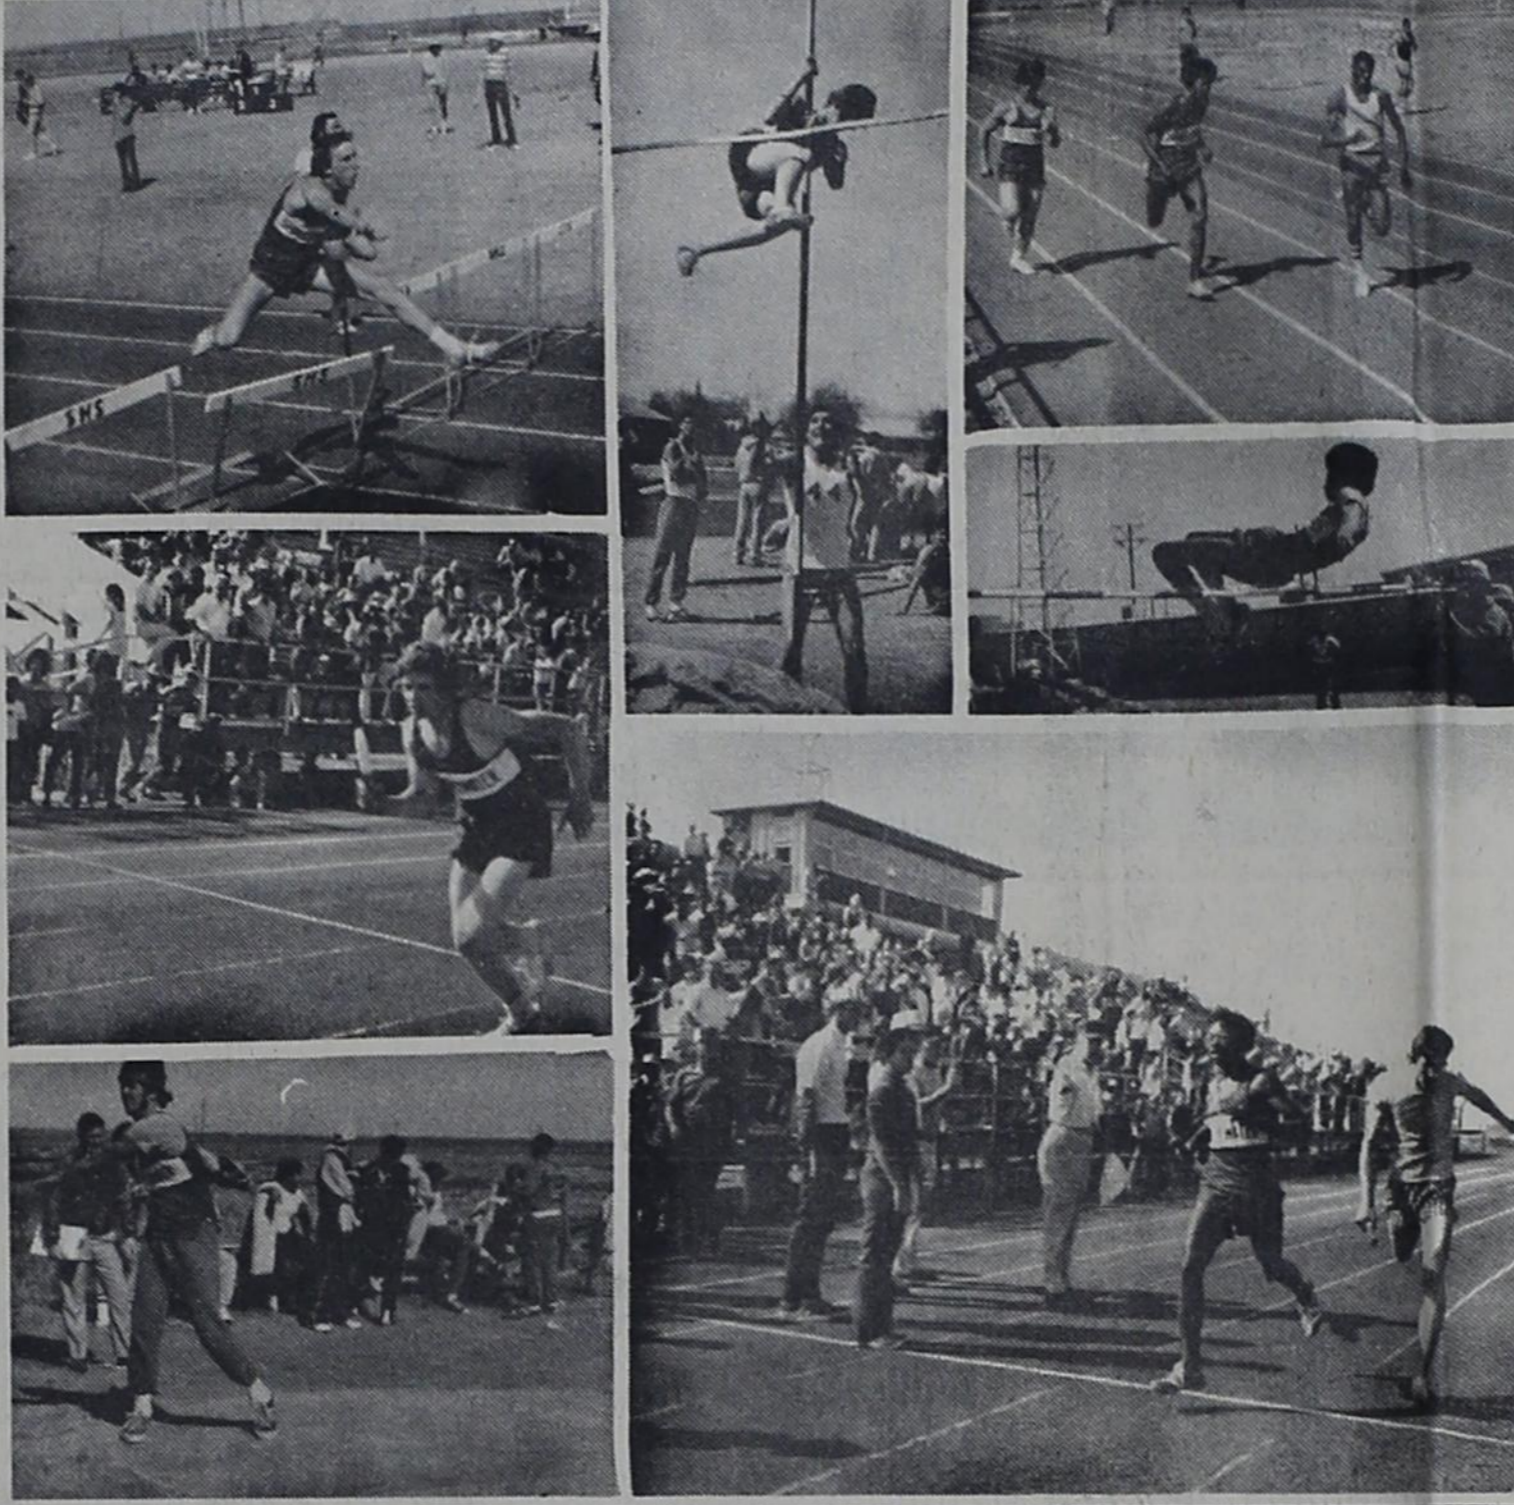

Though food prices have undeniably risen, they have not kept pace over the past five years or so with the jump in the cost of health care or housing or a variety of other goods and services that Americans just take for granted. Americans today are actually paying a smaller percentage of their income for food than ever before. In 1950, a full 24 percent of disposable personal income went for food; last year, it was down to 15.7 percent. In no other industrial country is the percentage so low. Germans pay 22.5 percent, Italians 31.9 percent and the Japanese 33.2 percent.

Americans are also making increasingly costly demands on the food industry. They buy more and more frozen foods and TV dinners, which add 25 percent or more to food costs.

The agriculturalist feels put on the defensive by criticism from his city cousins. He believes that he works harder than most other Americans and for longer hours and seven days per week. He feels his countrymen undervalue his moral and economic contributions to the nation and perhaps to the world.

So the simple lesson here might be... just don't bit too hard the hand that feeds us all.

President Dovec Middlebrook has called the Stockholders of Shallowater Cooperative Gin to meet at 6:30 p.m. April 21, 1973 at the Shallowater High School Cafeteria.

Reports on the season's operations, reports from regional cooperatives, and election of three directors are some of the items on the program.

The ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices, placed there by an Administration ostensibly championing a free market economy for agriculture, "makes no sense at all," according to Ray Joe Riley of Hart, Texas. Riley is President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and a feeder of both cattle and lambs.

Just recently Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told the House Committee on Agriculture that the Administration favors a farm law phasing out income supplement payments to farmers over a three year period "as we depend on a growing market demand to maintain farm income."

"How," asks Riley, "is a growing market demand going to maintain farm income if the Administration imposes price ceilings to keep that demand from increasing market prices?"

Cotton, feed grains and wheat, the three major commodities covered under present farm programs, are not affected, directly, by the meat price lid. "But it should be obvious that stockmen can't continue paying high prices for cottonseed meal and grain to fatten meat animals that must be sold under a price ceiling," Riley said.

"Nor do we have any assurance," he continued, "that the Administration won't yield to political pressures, as it has done in the case of meat, and impose ceilings on prices of other farm commodities if those prices should reach levels offering a fair return to producers."

Are the interests of the public served by price controls on meat? "Definitely not," says Riley.

What will happen is that existing plans for increased livestock production to meet increasing demand will be abandoned, because investors won't gamble on a high risk enterprise that offers little or no chance for profit. Supplies will shrink, and unless demand subsidies to the level of supplies, meat prices will remain as high as the law allows and eventually the housewife will be looking at empty shelves in the market.

Farm programs since the 1930's have helped to stabilize farm income, thereby assuring an abundance of agricultural commodities available to the public at much more reasonable prices than would have been possible otherwise, Riley points out.

But if the Administration's thinking on future farm programs should prevail, and if the price ceilings on meat are an example of policies the Administration has in mind to maintain farm income through greater market demand, then both agriculture and the consuming public in this country will very shortly find themselves in a very unhappy situation.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Fantastic as it may sound, food today is still a bargain. Put the situation in its proper perspective and you realize this is true. While we complain about the high cost of food, most of the world population's major concern is finding enough food to just stay alive.

While we complain that beef steak and hamburger and bacon and broilers "are out of sight financially", two-thirds of the world's peoples are happy if they can find a piece of bread or any scrap of meat to help them survive from one day to the next.

Because of the production efficiencies of agricultural producers, food in this country is in abundant supply and is of top quality. We are the only nation in the world that can produce enough for ourselves and have leftovers for the rest of the world.

This has not come about by accident. It is the quiet revolution that has been going on all around us without fanfare or notice by consumers. Ample food production is this nation's greatest blessing. Agricultural producers have constantly been increasing production. This is one of the major reasons food is still one of the best bargains in our economy today.

Consider these facts as they relate to farm prices before blaming the farmer for high costs of food:

Farm prices for food are up only six percent from 20 years ago.

The farmer gets only 40 cents out of each dollar spent on food; the rest goes for transportation, processing, packaging and marketing.

During the last quarter of 1972, the average American family spent only 15.8 percent of his income after taxes for food. Even with increases in early 1973, the level is about 16 percent. Compare this with 23 percent 20 years ago.

Farm production costs have more than doubled in the past 20 years; hired help is up two and half times higher than 20 years ago while farm machinery has more than doubled.

Average wage rates per hour of non-farm production workers are more than two and a half times higher than 20 years ago. In 1950, non-farm production workers averaged $1.33 per hour; in 1972 they averaged 3.65 per hour; in 1973 it was up to $3.78 per hour.

While retail food prices went up 33 percent from 1965 through 1972, per capita income was increasing 62 percent.

SINCE 1950 if prices received by farmers for cattle had risen at the same rate as first class postage, cattle would now bring $72 per hundred pounds. Had cattle prices risen at the same rate as hospital care costs, cattle would now bring $179.69 per hundred pounds.

Although farm prices have shown some increases in recent months, agricultural income is still below the rest of the economy. Parity—that figure used to show how agriculture is faring with the rest of the economy—is about 80 percent, still 20 percent under the rest of the economy. The prices the cattlemen get today for their livestock are only slightly higher than they were receiving 20 years ago.

Only six commodities are currently above parity; all others are at price levels below that ratio.

Texas Press Association
AUSTIN, Tex.—The first of major reform bills before the 63rd Legislature—strengthening of "open meetings" requirements—has reached the desk of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

The House quickly accepted Senate amendments, sending the measure (HB 3) on to the Governor.

Meanwhile, the Senate passed a version of the "shield bill" to protect newsmen's sources of information from forced disclosure—except on State Supreme Court order. The Senate revision providing that citizens may bring mandamus action to reveal sources doomed the bill (HB 10) to conference committee delay.

A second reform bill (HB 8) backed by House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.—to require detailed reporting of contributions and spending in speakership races—also landed on the Governor's desk. The senate passed it with only minor amendment and the House concurred.

Sponsors of the new open meetings law term it a marked improvement over the present statute, although it would still permit closed executive sessions of governing agencies for these purposes.

Discussions of personnel matters including evaluation, consultation with attorneys on pending or contemplated litigation or settlement offers, talks about real estate purchase, exchange, lease or sale, negotiated contracts for gifts or donations, and school board strategy plans for consultation with employees. Social functions could be kept private as long as no official action is taken and no formal agenda items are deliberated.

Fines up to $500 and jail terms up to six months are provided for known violations.

The House approved Daniel's final reform bill (HB 4), voting 140-3 to set up a State Ethics Commission to supervise tough new campaign finance reporting.

RIGHT TO REPLY BILL HEARD IN SENATE

Houston Senator Walter Mengden's bill which would require newspapers to provide a "right to reply" to political stories and editorials was heard by the Senate Jurisprudence Committee last week.

Senator Mengden copied the bill after the Florida law—which has been ruled unconstitutional by a County Judge in Daytona Beach, Florida and a Circuit Court and Appeals Court in Dade County, Florida. The Dade County decision is now on appeal in the Florida State Supreme Court.

The Houston Senator quoted so-called "attacks" on him by newspapers in his district, and felt he was entitled to reply to those attacks in the news columns of the newspapers. He cited the "equal time" doctrine of the broadcasting media under existing Federal law.

His measure, SB 541, would require newspapers to publish free of cost any reply a candidate "may make thereto in as conspicuous a place and in the same kind of type as the matter that calls for such reply."

Mengden did not have enough votes to get the bill out of committee, but Senators present did vote 5-2 not to send it to sub-committee and 5-2 to approve the bill and send it to the full Senate for a vote. Senate rules required seven votes to report the bill out, and many of the Senators were not in the meeting at the time of the vote.

The bill was opposed by the Texas Press Association on the grounds that it was unconstitutional.

INSURANCE CUT BILL OFFERED

State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie has recommended legislation which he said may reduce auto insurance rates.

The bill would permit some competition in retaking though not wide open competition.

Texas is the only state which retains the system of fixed rates set on a yearly basis by the state regulatory agency.

Two House members, Reps. Don Cavness of Austin and Ben Bynum of Amarillo, are pushing a straight-out competitive rating bill (HB 64).

Christie, a former senator, informally has requested the Legislature to hold off on the rating proposals until the Board has a chance to offer its own recommendations.

SCHOOL PLANS AIRED

Alternative plans for overhauling the public school finance formulas and rechanneling nearly $2 billion in public spending received a five-hour House committee hearing.

Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale, the Education Committee chairman, predicted best features of four bills will be incorporated into one and reported back to the House by April 19 or April 26.

A U.S. Supreme Court ruling last month that the Texas system of financing its schools is not unconstitutional virtually assured no final action on a reform plan this session. But a House test vote on one of the overhaul proposals is anticipated.

COURTS SPEAK

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed an El Paso murder conviction of a housewife who shot her husband because the trial judge did not instruct the jury to consider self defense.

Texas Public Employees Association is testing in federal court the Internal Revenue Service's right to levy income taxes on the mandatory contributions made by active state employees to their retirement system. The suit seeks to recover about $15 million in taxes paid since 1968.

The State Supreme Court affirmed lower court rulings upholding a retired Dallas school teacher's $10,000 bequest to National Cancer Foundation Inc. of New York.

Fourteenth Court of Civil Appeals reversed lower courts and ruled the Moody Foundation of Galveston should have just three trustees, and that Mrs. Mary Moody Northen has authority to fill two vacancies on the board as the only valid trustee at present.

AG OPINIONS

Two Bexar County legislators cannot continue their teaching jobs in public junior colleges, under a new attorney general's opinion.

In other recent opinions, Atty. Gen. John Hill held:

+ Failure of bills specifically to prohibit discrimination in insurance rates based solely on sex does not render them unconstitutional.

+ Bid documents for an armory at Fort Sam Houston are ambiguous, and bids submitted under them should not be accepted.

+ Texas A&I University has authority to receive as a gift property located in Kingsville for use directors feel advisable, and directors can purchase or lease a 26-acre tract for the A&I Citrus and Vegetable Training Center at Weslaco.

+ Domestic relations and juvenile judges whose courts are converted into district courts of general jurisdiction may

Diane Jackson, a junior, is a very active student. She is a member of FHA and also of the 1973 Annual Staff. Diane is also working hard on the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Rusty Lusk, a sophomore, is a young man with high potential. Rusty played football and would have continued athletics except a foot injury held him back. He is also a member of FCA.
