Jana Gail West - James Alton Synatschk Exchange Wedding Vows August 10th

Miss Jana Gail West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard West of Sudan, and James Alton Synatschk, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Shockley of Ropesville, were united in marriage Saturday evening, August 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Sudan with Rev. Eddie Freeman, pastor, officiating.

The couple exchanged double ring vows beneath an archway decorated with clusters of green fern and flowers. The altar was centered with a memory candle and a kneeling bench. Flanking the altar were two spiral candelabras, entwined with greenery, holding blue candles. To each side of the candelabras were classic urns filled with white and blue gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza fashioned with a high Victorian neckline and long sheer bishop sleeves with a lace cuff. The empire bodice had a sheer see-thru yolk edged with permanent pleated organza accented with seed pearls on chantilly lace. The softly gathered A-line skirt extended to a chapel length train. A band of scalloped lace formed a deep edge on the skirt. Her headpiece was a mantilla of matching lace-edged chapel length train of illusion. The bride carried a Victorian bouquet of white roses, baby's breath, and Phalaenopsis orchids atop a white Bible.

For something old, the bride carried a handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother Chester. Something new was her bridal gown. She wore her sister's opal necklace for something borrowed, and for something blue, she wore the traditional blue garter. In her shoes she wore pennies minted in the years of the couple's birth.

Mrs. Gary Kelley of Dallas attended her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathey Fisher of Sudan, Miss Alexis Anderson of Shallowater, and Miss Beatrice Synatschk of Anton, cousin of the groom.

The attendants wore formal length gowns of pale blue organza with moss green flocking. The dresses with princess seamed skirts featured basque bodices with high duchess necklines highlighted in Venice re-embroidered lace. The caplet sleeves were encircled with lace. They wore white picture hats trimmed with blue velvet ribbon accented with lace and carried white lace fans decorated with fresh flowers and ribbon streamers.

Shawnda Masten of Sudan, cousin of the bride, and Rhonda Synatschk of Anton, cousin of the groom, were flower girls. They wore dresses fashioned similar to the attendants' and blue velvet bows in their hair.

Candlelighters were Keewan Masten of Sudan, cousin of the bride, and Herman Synatschk of Anton, cousin of the groom.

The groom wore a light blue

Mrs. James Alton Synatschk

Prince Edward dinner jacket, a white shirt edged in blue, black bow tie, and black pants trimmed with satin.

John Synatschk of Anton served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Stanley Shockley of Ropesville, Paul Choat of Haggerman, New Mexico, and Allen Hobratschk of Littlefield. Ushers were Gary Kelley of Dallas and Lonny Kuss of Slaton. They all wore black tuxedos with blue shirts.

Wedding Music was presented by Mrs. Tommy Evins of O'Donnell, organist. Soloist, Mike Fisher of Ralls, sang "Walk Hand in Hand", "Whither Thou Goest", "The Wedding Song" as the couple lit the memory candle, and "The Lord's Prayer".

Mrs. Mark Hanna of Sudan, cousin of the bride, presided at the registration table with Shawnda Masten presenting scrolls to each guest.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. West chose a pink chiffon floor length gown with matching accessories. Mrs. Shockley, mother of the groom, wore a mint green floor length gown with bone accessories. They wore orchid corsages.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall with Mrs. Tommy Evins presenting piano selections.

The bride's table was laid with a blue net over blue satin floor length cloth with a centerpiece of a silver candelabra with white candles surrounded with the attendants' fans. The three-tiered bride's cake featured tiny blue flowers and was topped with white satin bells with pearls. The cake and white punch were served by Cheryl McCloy of Morse, Luinda Verden of Wheeler, and Kim Kelley of Earth. Nuts and mints served from silver and crystal appointments completed the bride's table.

The groom's table was laid with a white polyester floor length cloth. The red velvet cake in the shape of an open book decorated in gold with blue roses featured the names of the couple and the date. The cake and coffee were served by Cindy Moss of Sudan and Terri Chester of Sudan, cousin of the bride.

Members of the houseparty included Mesdames Waymon Bellar, Audrey West, Wayne Doty, Raymond Harper, Dexter Baker, Eddie Wilson, and Glen Cardwell.

The bride chose a blue suit with a light blue blouse and black accessories for her traveling attire. She wore a white orchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will reside at 4117 Brownfield Highway, Space 40, Lubbock. The bride is a sophomore home economics education major at Texas Tech. The groom is a senior secondary education major at Texas Tech.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Correcting the Record

There is substantial concern, and rightly so, over the low public image of business today.

Unfortunately, there are a few bad apples in most barrels which give impetus to this feeling. However, if the nation's antitrust laws had been enforced as urged by the independent business people through the National Federation of Independent Business, these situations would not exist either.

The biggest problem is the belief that business earns huge profits. In fact, surveys have shown that a majority of the public believes that business makes 28 per cent profit on sales. The true facts are, that with the exception of big oil, the average profit on sales is high when it hits 5 per cent.

This erroneous impression could easily be solved. A headline showing a company made so many millions in profit for the year looks huge, but these figures are not related to the volume of sales.

The public relations directors of many corporations could easily correct this false impression by giving out the details along this line. "For the year just ended X Company showed a net profit of 2 per cent on sales of $100,000,000. This is slightly over (or under as the case may be) than last year."

Of course, any public relation director who adopted this sensible course instead of releasing box car figures related to earnings per share would get his head chopped off by the company management.

But the average consumer, noting the box car profit figures for a company whose products he or she buys immediately says, "my goodness, they are really gouging me," when in reality, the profit only amounts to 2 or 3 cents per dollar spent for the product.

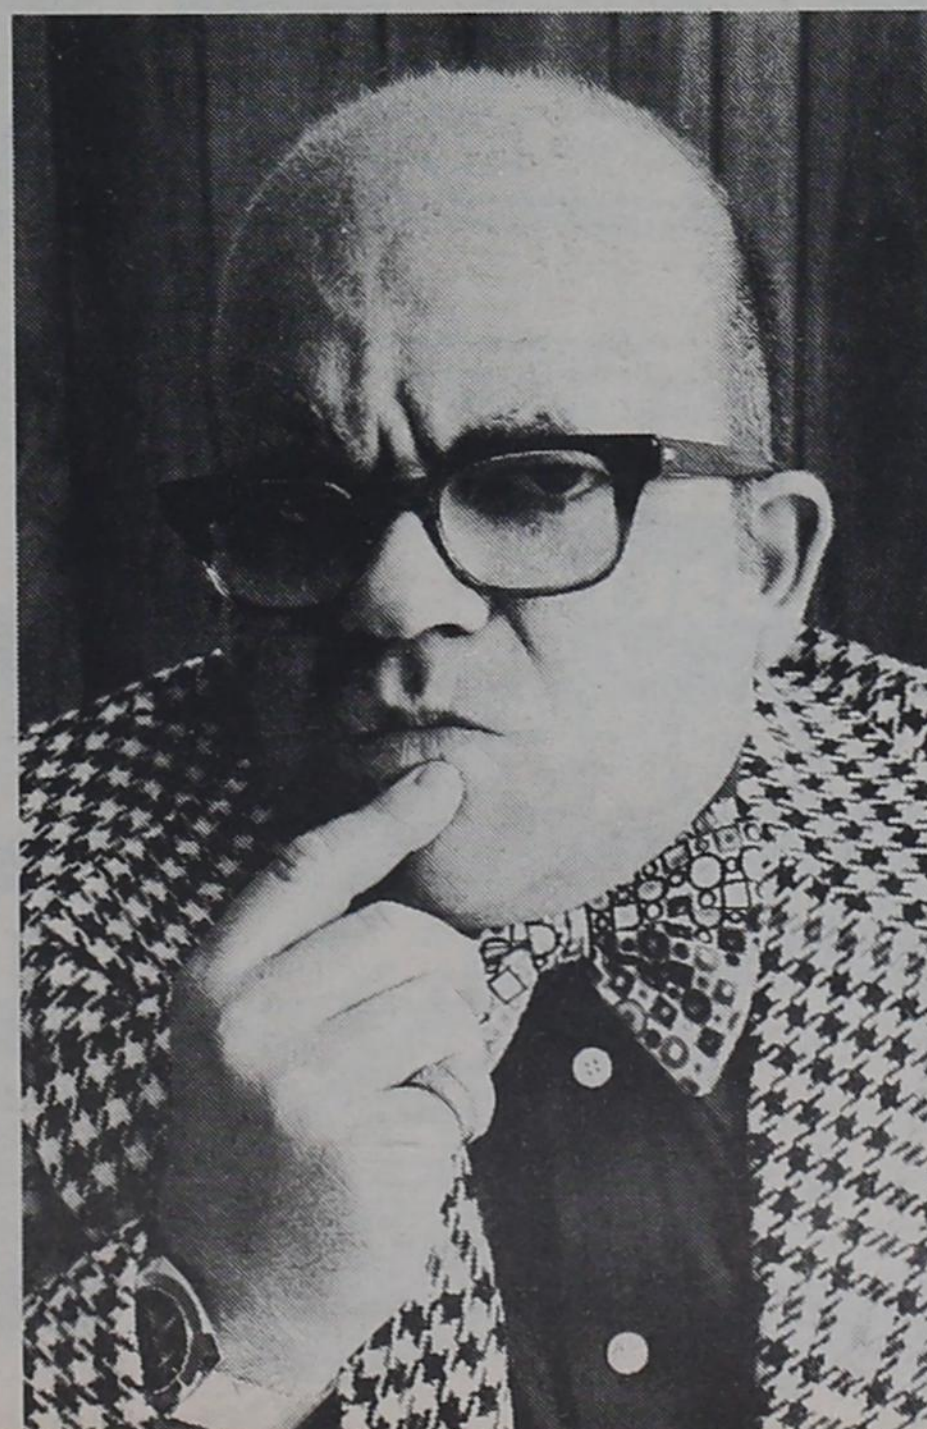

As a matter of fact, to really correct the false public impression it would be well if the earnings of a company were reported not only as a percentage of sales, but allied with this percentage of profit there would be shown the percentage of the sales that was taken by taxes. In many cases more of the consumer's dollar goes to pay the taxes on the product than goes for profit.

Of course, it is pretty certain some bureau would issue a regulation against revealing such information on the grounds of national security.

Assuming that corporate PR people don't dare release this type of information, perhaps business editor's should insist that all company profits be reported in terms of profit percentage on sales. This would accomplish two important objectives. One would be to instill in the public the truth about profits, and secondly, it would help dispell the common complaint that the news media has an anti-business bias. But such a tactic would cause free spending politicians to squirm.

If you're so rich, why aren't you smart?

So you're making a good salary. But you're not saving any of it. Instead, you want to go after the "big deal" that's going to make you a cool million. Maybe.

What happens if your big scheme goes sour? You've still got to get through the future. And, let's face it. Nobody can afford to take tomorrow for granted.

So maybe you'd better join the Payroll Savings Plan now. Just sign up at work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

That way, you can still afford to take a few financial risks, if that's your bag. But you'll always have a solid cash reserve to fall back on. And that's being smart.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Relative of Shallowater Resident is Member of World Art Show

Bill Farris, a former Oklahoman, and the cousin of Mrs. Clifford W. Conner, started a unique art in 1969 after a back injury.

While confined to a hospital bed flat on his back at the age of 40, he started messing around with horseshoe nails, bending and twisting them into figures. After making the figures, it took him about nine months to figure out how to put the shiny finish on them. After bending them, he spreads hot pewter on for the shiny finish.

His figures, represent 40 to 45 basic occupations, sports, hobbies, and birds.

He has a government approved patent on these figures so that he can go into franchising on a royalty basis.

Bill, now 45, makes his living by making and selling these figures and travels all over the country appearing in art shows.

Featured Homemaker of the Week

This week we feature Mrs. Johnny Williams (Jo Ellen). She is the former Jo Ellen Roe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Roe of Anton.

Jo Ellen and Johnny were both raised in Anton where they graduated from Anton High School. They have one child, Jill who is five months old. They now live a quarter of a mile north of Shallowater.

Johnny served in the Navy before coming to Shallowater, and was stationed in Virginia. After getting out of the service they moved here and decided to settle down. He now works at Reese Air Force Base.

Most of Jo Ellen's time is spent taking care of Jill, but she enjoys cooking very much. Here are two of her favorite recipes that she would like to share with you.

Bell Means End Of Summer

Monday morning when the bell rang at 8:20 a.m., everyone knew it wasn't a dream. Summer was really over. That bell meant a lot of things to different people.

For mother, it was peace once again; for teachers, more new heartaches; and for students it meant a new adventure and excitement to some, but boredom for others.

There are a lot of new faces. Not just students, but also quite a few in the administration.

But no matter how many new faces there are or what our individual feelings, it is here, so let's make the best of this school year.

Good luck old and new alike.

believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The Bible also speaks about the love of Jesus in John 15:9. "As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love."

Jesus Christ expressed that we are to daily continue in his kind of love. He went on to state in another verse, "This is my commandment that ye love one another."

I hear some people say that it is impossible for them to love certain people. This is so true for the person that relays on his own goodness and nature. The sinful nature just naturally loves to hate.

Jesus stated through John that "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him. (1 John 3:15)

Many Christians have hateful attitudes towards their family or friends that is just as murderous to the spirit of a person as that of a physical act.

1 John 2:5 states that God's kind of love can control and operate within our lives if we keep his word.

Romans 5:5 says that the love of God is fully flowing into our hearts by the Holy Spirit which he has given us.

Jesus taught that the basic requirement for discipleship is to lay aside your own feelings and minister to the needs of others. This is impossible to do without the love of Christ through the Spirit of Christ.

Shallowater Varsity Coach Optimistic About District Title Chances this Year

Coach Grimes states optimistically, "I feel like this is our year, but everyone on our schedule and everyone in the district is as tough as nails. Most years we'd be licking our chops, but in 5-A District anything can happen. It's a shame the boys who started in 1969 had to become seniors when everybody else is loaded."

The Mustangs, who were 3-7 a year ago and 2-3 in league play, have 14 lettermen back. Heading the list is quarterback Bobby Reeves and Don Grimes.

The Mustangs threw better than 50 per cent of the time overall last year and put the ball up 60 per cent of the time during league wars. Grimes pointed out, "We like to pass, but I hope it's a little more balanced this year." To help this, the coach moved Jon Gates to fullback.

Richard Krebbs and either Brantley Adams or Malcom Terry will be at the other halfback. Grimes and Harrison will be the split ends with Stanton and Vaughn at tackle.

The Mustangs have 48 out this year, four more than a year ago, but within the 44-48 range they've always had.

Record Enrollment Set at Frenship

Superintendent Bennett reported that the Frenship School enrollment will be in excess of 2,000.

The first registration showed about 1,950 enrolled. Exact figures will be released at a later date.

by Joe Kelly

Okay, call me crazy if you want to, but I swear, when I went out to work in the yard Saturday morning about 10 a.m., there was the smell of fall in the air.

I can't explain the particular aroma that made me feel that way. There was just something about the feel of it, a sense that, despite heat that will continue into October, the growing season was on the wane. The days are growing shorter and football is just around the corner.

The name on front of the store was "Maloney Pharmacy" and the card I carried said "Walter Maloney". That might not mean much to some, but I thought that it would be unusual to have two Walter Maloneys in the area.

Sure enough, once inside the pharmacy, there was a smiling figure that even age couldn't make you forget. It was the former Texas Tech halfback from Roscoe and very much alive.

Walter and I gradually warmed to talk of Dell Morgan, Raider football teams of the past and players who starred and then scattered. On the wall of his office was a picture taken about 1949. Players I hadn't thought of in ages beamed out.

There was Bud Conley, an outstanding fullback; Ike Stuver, the Ysleta flash; Zombie Johnson, a rambling end; Googie Jackson, a rugged fullback; Dan Pursel, a smashing guard; and more, many more.

That was the squad that carried Tech to the Sun and Raisin bowls. Tuffy Nabors, Bill Kelley, Cal Stevenson, Primo McCurry, J.W. Thompson, Don Williams, a host of players looking so young and so wholesome. They gained the Raiders a lot of fame and respect.

As we looked, Walt started to reminisce. There was John Andrews, a rugged tackle, who "kept a case of beer under his bed. He'd pop one first thing every morning," Walt laughed. "I didn't know how he could do it."

Walt recalled the time John had met some friends just before a game against Baylor in Waco. John got a little tight and the players tried to cover for him, but Dell came by, took one look and knew the score.

"Coach started him that day," Walt laughed. "I guess he was trying to make him suffer. But John played one of his greatest games. He was all over the field. He's married and has settled down, now. Lives in Brownfield and is doing well."

Then there was "Duck" Thompson. Duck loafed all week but on Saturday, when the whistle blew, there were few better fullbacks anywhere. "He stayed in the Air Force and is a general now," Walt said.

And "Ears" Earhart, a flashy halfback who had more moves than a snake. Ears never did quite go along with Dell and, more often than not, found himself on the bench. In one game he must have run 150 yards on one play to gain 10. He zigged back and forth, trying to find an opening. When he came out, Dell asked him where he thought he had been going. "Coach", Ears is alleged to have said, "there were 22 players on the field and not one of them knew where I was going!"

Walter remembered the Raisin Bowl game in Fresno, California. Tech was getting beaten by San Jose State when Stuver, on a fourth down punt, suddenly broke up the middle and raced to a touchdown.

Gene Gregston, then of the Star-Telegram, chortled with glee and said: "I knew that Dell would come up with a trick play some time during the game."

No so, said Walt. Instead of being tickled by the run, Dell asked Ike what he thought he was doing? "Well, I saw this big hole and just started running," Walt related Ike saying. "But that wasn't Dell's type of football. When he told you to do something, he expected you to do it."

"I remember one time when I was supposed to go over tackle. Here was this big guy right in the hole, so I went outside. Dell wanted to know why I hadn't run at him."

"Well, he weighs about 240 pounds and I weigh about 157," Walter replied. "There's no way I'm going to run over him."

Walter recalled that part of the Raisin Bowl bid was free tickets to the Rose Bowl game between Ohio State and California. The Raisin Bowl was played on Dec. 31, a Saturday, and the Rose Bowl was on Monday, Jan. 2.

"They were getting 30, 35 dollars for tickets in Fresno," Walt recalled. "We started to sell our tickets, and then we thought, well, we could get more in Los Angeles. Man, when we got to LA, everybody had tickets for sale, so we just decided to go to the game."

In recalling Dell Morgan, Walt remarked that everyone who knew Dell realized. "He was rough as a cob," Walt said. "We even used to talk on the sidelines about how we could kill him. He was a perfectionist and he drove you hard. But, you know, that roughness covered a soft heart. He could make life miserable for you, but let anyone else say anything about one of his players and you'd better be ready to fight. And I just don't think I'd have wanted any part of him."

Life has been good to Walter Maloney. He's been on the school board and served as president. He has a successful business. He's well known and respected in Sweetwater.

On his walls are loads of pictures showing him with boats, bass and buddies. He loves to fish and says that he spends too much time doing it. He's one of the many former Raiders who have done well and we were delighted to have had a chance to talk with him after all these years.

The Roundup—Dove season opens Sept. 1, so better get your guns cleaned and ready—and stop by the Parks and Wildlife office to pick up regulations. . . . A week ago Alan Carmichael and Steve Long teamed up to win the Sweetwater Partnership Tournament. They are Tech golfers and edged, by one stroke, another Tech duo, Tommie Wilson and John Conine. . . . Worried about Tommy Duniven, Tech's heir-apparent to Joe Barnes' quarterbacking job, don't be. A doctor told me recently that the knee is in great shape. . . . The moss, it's said, is bad at Oak Creek, but fishermen in doughnut floaters are getting big bass by dropping plastic worms into openings in the goo. . . . And Hubbard Creek is producing a lot of good catfish hauls.
