Home Town Talk by Betty... Those who fear this country no longer is the one place where every man has a voice in his government...

A railroad conductor on the Northwestern line was elected lieutenant-governor of the state.

A street sweeper, who was a lamed good street sweeper, according to press reports, was elected to the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature.

In these instances we find something to be optimistic over. Not so much that these men happened to be a railroad conductor and a street sweeper.

This is the sort of thing that America needs more of. When the people stop allowing themselves to be what Barnum said were so numerous, stop bowing down in hero worship before tinhorn leeches upon the body politic and really use some intelligent thought and selection of their public officials...

Prospects now are very good that the highway commission will be able to let contracts next month for paving Highway 5 from Big Spring southward to connect with the Sterling county paving.

The paving of this strip will complete a good all-weather route between the Bankhead (No. 3), most important east-west traffic artery, and South Texas, via San Antonio, Fredericksburg, to San Antonio, Austin, Corpus Christi, the Rio Grande, and other southeastern Texas points.

Hog-Killing Time

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS writer in Mississippi furnishes the wires with a news item that must have touched a tender spot in many of our southern hearts and revived memories of rural childhood's happy hours.

Dated at Agricola, a word early encountered in Latin—you remember, "Marcus est agricola," or something like that—the Mississippi story told of the return of hog-killing time in Dixie. It pictured the gathering of neighbors, the slaughter of the swine, the dressing out of the meat, and the dance in the "mansion" or one of the plantation barns. It told of the written law under which chattering and crackling go to the colored folks, as of divine right; it told of lasses from over the Tennessee border, of two-story pies and six-story cakes, of hoe-cakes and fresh crackling-cornbread. That the fellow he left nothing unmentioned!

Still, one of the pleasantest customs of hog killing time was overlooked, at that. No mention was made of the keen rivalry among the young boys for the privilege of "skinning the pig's tail." You remember, of course—after the hog was dipped in scalding water, it was one of the delights of boyhood to see the pig's tail and with one deft movement denude it of hair.

No writer, however, proficient in the art of description, could picture hog-killing time in all its glory. The best he could hope to do would be to mention a few of the more obvious features—enough, however, to bring up many memories of earlier and happier times.

Mrs. Roy Carter and Mrs. Lindley gave a dinner at the home of Mrs. Omar Pittman, who was hostess for the evening.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. D. R. Lindley, president; Mrs. H. L. Bohannon, vice-president; Mrs. James Wilcox, secretary; Mrs. Elmo Wasson, treasurer; Mrs. Joe Ernest, reporter; Mrs. J. R. Creagh, missionary mother.

Mrs. Lindley had charge of the evening's program which was on the subject, "Gratitude of the Son of God." Mrs. L. M. Brooks gave the devotion.

As a part of "Echoes from Everywhere" Mrs. D. C. Hamilton gave "Darkness of Superstition" and Mrs. H. E. Clay "Who Was to Blame?"

Mrs. Max Wiesen left Tuesday to spend Thanksgiving with her daughter, Mrs. A. Gackle and family. The day will be the occasion of a family reunion. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Campbell and family of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wiesen and family of Ranger, will be present at the Fort Worth reunion.

Busy Bee Class Has Mother-Daughter Meet

The Busy Bee Class of the First Methodist church held its annual mother-daughter banquet at the church Monday evening.

This class made up of 40 girls of ages 15, 16, 17, instituted the custom of several years ago of holding a banquet during Thanksgiving week for which the mothers, or friends substituting for mothers, were the honor guests.

After sampling at the table each girl introduced her mother or friend to the group. Mrs. C. E. Thomas offered thanks, after which a lively plate meal was served by the girls.

Following the meal a short program given. Juanita Slusser was the toast mistress.

Ola Mae Hartman welcomed the mothers and Mrs. Tracy Lusk gave the response. Clyde Thomas made a short talk on "Mother Love," John Anna and Le Velle Barbee, Marcella and Pauline King sang a song.

Doris Smith gave a reading by Edgar A. Cest. "What Makes a Home." Mrs. V. H. Flewelling sang "Wonderful Mother O'Mine."

At the conclusion of the program, Johnnie Chaney, in the name of the class, presented Mrs. Thomas, the teacher, with a lovely tea set—a token of love and appreciation for her work with them for the past year.

The girls and their mothers present were: Dorothy Belle Riggs, Mrs. W. J. Riggs; Mary Settles, Mrs. R. H. Settles; Catherine and Anna B. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Ward; Edythe Dow Cordill, Mrs. J. M. Manuel; Arlyene and Johnnie Chaney, Mrs. John R. Chaney, John Anna and Le Velle Barbee, Mrs. S. M. Barbee.

Mrs. Koberg's Mother Dies At Home In Ark.

Friends have received word here of the passing of Mrs. Koberg's mother, Mrs. Alice Johnson, at her home in Little Rock, Ark. Her death occurred Sunday.

Mrs. Koberg left Nov. 14 for Little Rock, making the second trip this winter to her mother's bedside because of her illness and was with her when she died. Mr. Koberg and Camille left last Friday.

Mrs. Johnson has visited in Big Spring and has many friends here. The funeral services were held Monday.

MICKEY MOUSE NOTES

With their usual enthusiasm the mice contributed well to the Thanksgiving fruit basket for the less fortunate children in the city. There were over six dozen apples and oranges donated, in addition to nuts, candy and chewing gum.

Uncle Churchmouse is in a much better humor. He takes his Saturday morning nap in peace since the larger mice have been made sergeant at arms and everybody sits down front.

Eloise Kuykendr is back at her post as cheer leader Saturday.

The following mice expect to be out of town during Thanksgiving holiday: Bill Inkman, Mary Nell and Anna Bell Edwards and Margaret Mauson.

Auxiliary Has All Day Session On "The Indian"

The Presbyterian Auxiliary met in all day session at the church Monday, studying Home Missions with "Red Man's Trail" as the special study book.

Mrs. W. C. Barnett gave the devotional, Psalms 109-115.

Mrs. C. W. Cunningham read a most interesting paper reviewing the history of the Indian. Mrs. J. B. Chapman gave "The Original Trail," Mrs. Tracy Smith, "Early Mission Trail," Rev. John C.

Could Your Car Pass a "Cold Test" like this?

Through deep snow drifts that blanketed Wolf Creek Pass, 10,800 feet above sea level in Colorado's Rockies, a great V-type snow plow doggedly pushed its way. A whirling rotary plow spouted clouds of snow, clearing the roadway. And soon, despite temperatures daily below zero, workers of Liberty Truck & Parts Co., of Denver, had opened the 15-mile road.

"We used Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and Conoco Gasoline exclusively in our Cletrac Tractors with wonderful results," wrote a Liberty official. "We had no difficulty starting our motors in the mornings."

There's a "cold test" to guide you in buying motor oil!

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is thoroughly dewaxed and circulates freely below zero. It makes Winter starting easier. More important still, it saves your motor from terrific punishment during the starting period, when half of all motor wear occurs! Other oils drain away overnight. A "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor and lubricates before your motor starts.

Only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can offer you this vital protection, for it is the only oil that penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. Let it protect your motor this Winter. . . 30c a quart.

Chesterfields are Milder
Chesterfields Taste Better

As smokers become more experienced, they demand milder cigarettes. Chesterfields are milder. Their mildness is just as much a feature as the beauty of their package.

The tobaccos are mild to begin with. Patient ageing and curing make them milder still. And Chesterfields contain just the right amount of Turkish—not too much—carefully blended and cross-blended with ripe, sweet Domestic tobaccos.

Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. That's why "They Satisfy."

Gems of Peril

by HAZEL ROSS HAILEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY. Old Mrs. Jupiter, wife of the millionaire automobile manufacturer, gives an engagement dinner and dance for her secretary MARY HARRNESS, who is to marry DIRK RUTHER, blue-blooded young lawyer.

Mary receives a telephone call from her newspaper brother, EDDIE, saying he is in trouble and must see her. The house is strictly guarded against "gate-crashers" because Mrs. Jupiter is wearing the famous Jupiter rubies.

Mary arranges for Eddie to be admitted secretly. When she goes upstairs to meet him she finds Mrs. Jupiter robbed and murdered in her room. Seeking Dirk, she finds him with CORNELIA TABOR, his childhood sweetheart. Dirk advises her to keep silent about Eddie until he can locate the boy. BOWEN, reporter for the Star, shows unusual interest in the case. Mary catches BESSIE, a maid, trying to tell Bowen of Eddie's supposed visit. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII

There was time for a quick trip and a hasty before she must be ready to meet Dirk. He had not said a word but Mary felt that she must go.

When she reached the door she found it locked. She tried to force it but she was restless but weary. She put her hand to her forehead and tried to get her mind clear. She had time for a quick look at her clothes before Dirk was due to arrive. She put the little black silk dress on again. It was almost black that was suitable. She brightened it with a beige fur jacket and toque, and pinned on her shoulder a few of the freshest buds from last night's corsage of tea-roses, now blooming in water on her dressing-table.

Dirk had had tears enough from her and Cornelia both, the night before. Mrs. Jupiter, if she knew, would not mind her brightening up a bit for his sake. To make up for what weeping and worry had done to her eyes she made her mouth vivid with lipstick. She had just parted and pulled into place on each cheek shining loops of dark mahogany-brown hair, and was looking for fresh gloves when the parlor-maid, Bessie, appeared at the door.

"Gentleman to see you, Miss Harrness."

Mary looked around, surprised at the crispness and formality of the girl's tone. Bessie's mouth was fairly malicious, her nose was lifted superciliously. With all her effort at nonchalance, though, she looked exactly like the cat that had lapped up the cream.

"You haven't been talking to that reporter any more, have you, Bessie?"

"They're not going to blame ME for that, Miss Mary!"

"They won't blame you, gilly! It will all be explained very shortly. But you mustn't talk about it to anyone just yet. I would have spoken to you about it last night, but I only trusted to your good judgment to keep still."

The truth of this plea was apparent to her even as she made it. Her eyes shifted away.

"I don't want the police coming after me," she repeated.

Mary forced a laugh.

"They won't. Of course it was very wrong to leave the door open as you did. Anyone might have come in and I'm terribly afraid—someone did. Oh, I'm not blaming you," she said, with her hand clapping as Bessie's eyes flashed resentfully. "I'm blaming myself for not having attended to it. I'd go business leaving it to you."

"My place was in the dining-room, you know that, Miss Mary!" the girl said, indignantly. "It was Bessie's place to watch the door."

"I know that," Mary agreed. "But she must not give way to her tears before the girl, she remembered, and drew herself up with a reasoning smile.

"Well, it's possible we've neither of us been here since the night we KNOW that anyone came in then. Not even Mr. Eddie. In fact, I don't believe he came at all."

The maid's lack of interest surprised her.

"Oh! How's Mr. Eddie, you were expecting?"

"Why, yes," said Mary, wondering. "Why?—It was a mistake, but the name had slipped out before she thought. She couldn't remember whether she had mentioned Eddie at the time she spoke to the maid last night, or not; if she had, the girl had probably forgotten, and now she had reminded her again. But why did the maid care?"

"Nothing. Only—"

The maid lowered her voice fearfully. "Does Mr. Jupiter know?"

Mary flushed. "Why shouldn't he?" she equivocated.

"I don't think he'd like it if he knew."

"Eddie! But surely—he's always come to see me whenever he liked! As for it being so late—or rather, so early—he knew there was a party and he wasn't disturbing anyone!"

Immediately she regretted having attempted to justify her actions to the servant. She turned away to bring the subject to an end.

But Bessie lingered, unconvinced. Firm conviction that Mary was about to be ejected from the house.

The Boy Who Made Good

THAT WAS A SWELL PARTY AT TH' CASPER'S. I HAD A WHOLE OF A TIME!

I WALKED OUT ON IT RIGHT AFTER DINNER, IT LOOKED POISONOUS TO ME!

I THOUGHT THE DANCE AT THE COUNTRY CLUB WAS A BIG SUCCESS, DIDN'T YOU?

I'VE SO IF YOU LIKE THAT SORT OF THING, I STOOD IT TILL NINE O'CLOCK AND THEN WALKED OUT ON IT!

HOW'D YOU LIKE THAT LECTURE WE HEARD AT TH' CLUB LAST WEEK? I THOUGHT IT—

I HEARD FIFTEEN MINUTES OFF IT AND WALKED OUT!

I SAW YOU AT TH' NEW REVUE, TH' BANALITIES, I'LL BET YOU LIKED THAT SHOW!

I WALKED OUT AFTER THE FIRST ACT; IT WAS TOO SLOW FOR ME!

I WAS CRAZY ABOUT TH' MERRY MORNINGS SOME COMEDY!

YOU LIKED IT?!

I WALKED OUT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE FIRST ACT!

UH—YOU SEE, I DON'T GO TO MANY THINGS AND I UN-NAATURALLY DON'T SEE TH' DEFECTS THAT ARE APPARENT!

YEAH, AFTER YOU'VE BEEN AROUND AWHILE YOU GET SO YOU WALK OUT WHEN THINGS LOOK SLOW.

WASHINGTON BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATED IN OHIO

Episodes of George Washington's surveying trip down the Ohio river in 1770 were portrayed in a ten day Washington bicentennial celebration in Ohio and West Virginia. L. R. Webb of Steubenville, O., taking the role of Washington, is shown as he was greeted by C. B. Galbreath of Columbus as the celebrator.

Gems of Peril HAZEL ROSS HALEY

what he did. "Told him? Mr. Jupiter? When was this?"

"Last week when your brother came. You was out, and Mr. Jupiter came down to see him in the library. And Mr. Jupiter told him he was a young smart aleck that needed a lesson and he wouldn't give a penny to pay a gambler's debts."

Mary leaned weakly against the dressing-table.

"Eddie was here, and I didn't know it? What else—did they say?" "I think he wanted to borrow a lot of money. Oh, a lot of money. But Mr. Jupiter told him he was a klutz to his sister, and to go out and earn it like a man. And he told him he was headed for a gambler's grave if he went on as he was doing, and not to show his face here again. Your brother was just going, and he called him back and said, 'For your sister's sake, I'll give you a job.'"

Bessie warmed to her subject, inspired by the impression she was creating on the girl she disliked. "Perhaps I shouldn't ought to tell you—"

Mary faltered. "What did Eddie say?"

"Oh, he didn't say much—he just looked at him. And he said, 'No, thank you, I might have known you wouldn't understand. I felt sorry for the kid, honest! He looked—starch, and he stood so stiff and straight. I let him out—it was Spence's day off and he was at the pictures. He stood outside the door a minute—honest, I thought he was gonna cry. And then he went away.'"

She waited, but there was no appreciative response from her audience. Mary was staring past her dazedly into the face of a deeper humiliation than she had ever known.

"So you see," the maid finished, "he didn't ought to have come back like that. I wouldn't ever have said a word, if I'd known."

"You've told Mr. Jupiter, then?"

"Not him. The reporter. Well, he asked me," she bridled virtuously, "and what could I say?"

"You might have said nothing. Mary thought but she was too occupied with this new phase of things to reproach the girl. After all, one had only to glimpse that pretty, shallow face to know that loyalty was not in her. And technically she was perfectly in the right."

"I wasn't going to have them blaming ME!" Bessie repeated by way of excuse.

Mary waved her away, and with a defiant swish of trim gray skirts she left the room.

Mr. Jupiter was having his post-lunch nap and there was no time to see him anyway. It was nearly three by her wrist-watch and Dirk was waiting. She hurried down the stairs.

But the man who rose from a half-sitting, half-reclining position in the big armchair by the library fire was not Dirk. It was the Star reporter, Bowen.

"Mary turned to go, but he halted her with a word.

"Please, Miss Harkness—don't go. I must see you for a minutes!" Mary looked about uncertainly for Dirk. He must be here somewhere—or was this the "gentleman to see you," whom Bessie had announced?

"I'm sorry, I can't talk to you. I'm going out. And besides," she bit her lips to still their tell-tale trembling, "her voice broke, 'I'm too upset.'"

Bowen had reached her side with agility remarkable in a man of his generally round appearance. So far as tact would permit, he had placed himself between her and the door, and cut off her retreat.

It was presumption but this was a big story and he couldn't afford to fail. "I know I must seem a cautious brute," he said, "asking you questions just at this time. But in the very nature of things, you know, news can't wait. And there's something that you and no one else, can tell me—"

Mary said resignedly, "I suppose you mean about my brother." And could not resist adding, "I should have thought your interviews with the servants would have given you all the material you need."

"Let's get down to business, Miss Harkness. Why didn't you tell Inspector Kane that your brother was here last night?"

"Because," Mary retorted, "I don't know that he was. And neither does anyone else."

"You expected him, though?"

"Yes. He telephoned me about half after 12 that he was in trouble, and must see me at once. The maid should have let him in. You understand that was necessary, because no one was being admitted except invited guests. But she was busy, and she carelessly left the door unlocked. No one came, or went, that we know of. I locked the door again myself, after I came down from—up there."

"But someone might have come and gone, you admit that. And it might have been your brother. And during that time—how long was it?—about 20 minutes altogether—Mrs. Jupiter was robbed and killed."

"Yes. But Eddie had nothing to do with it. I'm sure of that as I am of God." Their eyes met and held. "You believe me, don't you?"

"Before the sincerity in the girl's gray eyes, Bowen found himself saying "Yes," and meaning it.

Bowen hesitated, but only for a minute. "I have to, Miss Harkness. There was real regret in his voice."

"You couldn't wait just until I see my brother and find out what he knows?"

"Perhaps I could do that. When are you seeing him?"

"This afternoon. Now. As soon as Mr. Wyther comes." She looked at her wrist watch. Dirk had not come, and it was long past the hour! He was not in the house, evidently; worriedly, she took up the telephone, and called his home.

The newspaperman's zeal for a beat began to gleam in Bowen's eyes. The spell that beauty in dismay had cast over him for the moment abated before the thrilling realization that the biggest story in years was in reach of his hand. Lovely this girl might be, and ever so innocent, but her brother was a red-handed murderer, if ever there was one, according to his way of thinking.

"May I go with you?" he asked eagerly. "Whatever your brother's story is, it must be told some time, and if I could get to him first—"

But Mary was not listening, she was waiting tensely while a maid went to call Dirk to the telephone. Presently a woman's voice came

"SO HAPPY THAT I TRIED ALL-BRAN" Delicious Cereal Brought Relief From Constipation.

If you have headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read Mrs. Schneider's letter:

"Since I have been eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I don't have to take anything else for constipation. How good it is, and how much better it is for constipation than pills or any other medicine."

"I would never go back to what I used to take, because Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is wholesome and healthful." —Mrs. John Schneider, 950 Tenth Street, Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Santa Claus Invited To Big Spring's Second Annual Christmas Opening, Window Unveiling Soon To Be Staged

At a meeting of merchants Monday in the chamber of commerce offices it was decided to hold the second annual Christmas Opening and Window Unveiling here soon. Details and date are now being worked out by various committees and will be announced through The Herald as soon as a date is decided upon and other plans made.

However, it was fully decided to invite Santa Claus to attend the Christmas opening and that is one of the reasons why a definite date was not decided upon.

C. T. Watson was directed to forward the following radiogram immediately to Santa in an effort to get him to attend: SANTA CLAUS North Pole

GOING TO BE PULLED OFF BETWEEN Jim and Ral Ely, the highway commission chairman. Jim knows he must get Ely off the commission if the highway department is operated (rather, operated only) as he sees fit. Ely is just the type of fellow who's a lot rather be beat to death in an open fight than to quit by resigning. "I will, we predict, have a fight to the finish. Jim will use every possible means to get hold of the commission. The method which now appears the most likely for Jim will be to try to get a bill passed making the commission elective instead of appointive, and calling for a special election to name commissioners. Such a bill likely will get through the house, but in the senate, thank heaven, it will be quite another matter."

WOMEN GOLFERS TO MEET There will be a meeting of the sports committee and officials of the Women's Golf association Wednesday 2 p. m. in the chamber of commerce offices.

Mrs. H. A. Axtell is president and Mrs. E. V. Spence secretary. Sports committee members are Mrs. Ralph Ris, Mrs. E. O. Ellington, Mrs. Noel Lawson, Mrs. A. C. Chester, and Mrs. Theron Hicks.

HOME TOWN (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) Ferguson will, of course, name one of her handmaids to the place. Then, there'll be a 2-to1 majority of members not named by the Fergusons.

When the legislature convenes the first move in the Ferguson plot to give Jim full personal control of the state will be toward the highway commission. Why? Principally because that department handles more money than all the rest and second because the present commission handles that money in a manner that makes it possible for it to show the people at any time just where all the money goes. And, of course, Jim's doesn't control the commission.

Nagging Pains are Warning Signals

TEMPORARY pain relief remedies may save you much suffering at the moment, but putting a mask over a warning signal does not clear up the condition it was telling you to avoid.

When periodic pains, due to a weak, run-down condition, distress you, treatment for the cause of the trouble should be started without delay. Take Cardui to build up against the nagging symptoms of ordinary womanly ailments. So many women praise CARDUI, it must be food to have the widespread use that it has today. Sold at drug stores. NEW YORK
By James McMullin

The Cord-Chase group through the newspapers for a bill of Aviation Corporation was called off abruptly after a midnight conference between the principals. Cord himself was not present but his chief assistant Manning—who had been in New York for several days "incognito"—was on deck. Several important members of the banking group were also there.

Each side knew too much about the other to go on washing dirty linen in public. If the battle of full page ads had continued both sides would have been sunk. The attitude of Stock Exchange authorities also had a bearing on the calling off of hostilities. Several member houses were active in involved on both sides and million dollar libel suits are not helpful publicity when the Exchange is trying to keep in the public's good graces.

Ammunition which the Cord forces had in reserve included the record of stock transactions of the Aviation Corporation management. These operations were legal enough but strikingly unsuccessful financially. The use of this weapon would have provoked retaliation in kind. The battle for proxies has been abandoned and there will probably be no stockholders meeting in December. Future shipping activities will be confined to the family circle. There is still a chance for the North American Aviation deal to go through, at least in modified form. Cord agrees with the present management that Eastern Air Transport would round out American Airways neatly but he values it at a much lower figure than the management deal calls for.

Cord
Insiders say that Cord has by no means given up his intention of gaining control. He is a tenacious and hard-boiled Scotchman and does not yield his objectives lightly. Future maneuvers will be no less vigorous for being under cover.

Libel
The very fancy libel suit against E. F. Hutton and company was based on a technicality. A booklet prepared by Hutton's listed comparative balance sheets for three years for properties controlled by their man Cord and by Aviation Corporation interests. Under the latter they printed the name of LaMotte Cohn as president. The libel was the implication that Cohn had been president for three years covered by the figures, which he had not. The suit has now been called off. If it had been pressed five counter-suits were ready to shoot. Just so many lawyers out of luck!

SPORTS ON

By CURTIS BISHOP

The San Angelo Bobcats played very much under wraps last Saturday in defeating the Colorado Wolves 39 to 6. The information comes from Sweetwater, and from such citizens as Charlie Green, Ed Hennig, Bolton Head, and Rich Lovvorn in particular, who were of course very much on hand for the contest.

Hennig, it will be remembered, scouted the Big Spring-Stanton contest the week before the Thundering Herd met the Ponies in their first conference game of the year. To Hennig's surprise and discomfort the Bovines employed a series of plays that afternoon that might have been the Sweetwater Mustangs as far as formations, interference plans, and line assignments were concerned.

Blondy Cross and Charlie Green, respectable sports writers, after spending a full nine-tenths of the season boosting their home club to the skies, have suddenly become pessimistic. Blondy spends his entire time writing about that wonderful Sweetwater team, and asking how in the world anybody can expect a nice bunch of boys, but boy's nevertheless, like the San Angelo Bobcats to stop them Turkey Day. Charlie, on the other hand, elaborates at length and in no uncertain fashion as to the power and versatility of the San Angelo backfield, and contends that the Mustangs are very much the underdog.

Our prediction that the Romping Remuda would take the district title for the second consecutive year met with the ridicule of both parties, but we stand pat. San Angelo will score, but not enough.

Fullbacks dominate the District 3 scoring parade this season. Delker, Angelo's line smasher extraordinary, is at the top with 84 Richbourg, Big Spring's fleet fullback, is second, Bud Hall, Colorado's fullback is third, and Sprague Woods, Sweetwater, is well up in the list.

Picking the four leading individual scorers on an all-district club would give one a backfield composed of Delker, Richbourg, Hall, and Sheridan. It can, however, be improved upon. It probably will.

All-Star Nominees
The San Angelo-Sweetwater clash will go a long way towards settling some of the arguments about all-star berths. Halbert, Mustang guard, and Blackie Galloway, the stocky Bobcat lineman, are both outstanding candidates for a guard post. Leroy Grimsley, Pony captain, has a tackle berth practically clinched unless big Ed McLendon should display startling improvement. It was against the Hennigmen that Walter Schuchard made all-district last season. He hasn't displayed all-star ability against anyone else this autumn. The Big Spring nominees are confined to a quartet of players, three of them linemen. Clifton Smith and Fred Martin are Obe Bristow's choices to make up the center and the all-star line along with Elmer Dyer, and both should pull a great number of votes over the district. Richbourg, one of the best running backs in the district, and probably the best if statistics are to be brought into

Trade Balance Is Favorable

Sum Is Largest Of Any Month This Year,
Says Government

WASHINGTON—The largest favorable trade balance for any month of the present year was announced by the commerce department, which said exports in October amounted to $153,000,000 while imports were $106,000,000.

The balance of $47,000,000 was larger by $11,000,000 than October of last year. The department's tabulation showed that the foreign trade reached the low ebb for the year in July with $106,830,000 of exports and $79,421,000 of imports. In August the exports went up to $109,135,000 and the imports of $91,102,000 while in September the exports were $132,025,000 and imports $98,412,000.

For the ten months of the fiscal year there has been favorable trade balance of $220,215,000, exports having totaled $1,341,915,000 and imports $1,121,700,000. The balance was $39,000,000 less than for the same period of last year when imports totaled $2,046,680,000 and exports $1,787,382,000.

Cotton Boasts Increase
While the report was based on preliminary figures it was said at the department that a general picking up in all lines of business was indicated as cotton shipments provided only $7,000,000 of the increase.

In September cotton exports totaled $2,000,000 while in October they amounted to $30,000,000. The report showed that the United States gained $20,000,000 of gold in the month having exported only $74,000 and having imported only $54,000.

The argument is the long Bevine back to receive any support for the mythical eleven. The Steer captain has borne the brunt of the locals' offensive throughout the season, has carried the ball on the average of three out of every four downs, has backed up the line in admirable fashion, and has yet not met the team that could beat him under in spite of his 145 pounds.

Complete list of candidates: Ends: Stagner (Colorado), Dodson and Pomby (Sweetwater), Schuchard (San Angelo), and Vines (Big Spring).

Tackles: Homer Barnett and L. Barnett (McCamy), Grimsley (Sweetwater), McLendon (San Angelo), Armstrong (Big Spring), Church (Colorado).

Guards: Martin and Smith (Big Spring), Halbert (Sweetwater), Galloway (San Angelo) and Collins (Midland).

Centers: Dyer (Big Spring), Caruthers (San Angelo), Wiggly (Colorado), Word (McCamy), and Jones (Sweetwater).

Backs: Reid, Delker, and Hayes (San Angelo), Richbourg (Big Spring), Jones, Raugh, and Sheridan (Sweetwater), Smalley (McCamy), Hall and Burris (Colorado).

The Herald all-district lineup, not a compiled eleven, as of last season but a team selected by this writer with the advice of a half dozen coaches, fans, and other sports writers in mind, will be announced in Sunday's issue.

Austin High (El Paso), will meet El Paso Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the game that will decide the championship of District 3. Pat Murphy and Co. are favored to take the contest without more than casual difficulty, and to furnish the opposition the for the winner of the Sweetwater-San Angelo melee.

Should Austin win it will mean three different championships for the Murphys, the city, district, and Southwestern league titles.

Noted Texas Columnist To Serialize Novel In Popular News Magazine

Billie Mayfield the widely known Texas newspaper man has written a novel, which will appear in serial form beginning in January 1933. Colonel "Billie" is well known in Texas and the southwest. His column "The Chronicle of Billie" in the Houston Chronicle, grew to be almost a national institution after leaving the Chronicle just after the world war he published Colonel Billie's weekly, which reached a circulation of more than 150,000. His unique style and forceful rhetoric rendered his writings widely popular. A book by him should be of orth reading.

His novel, 1930, or The Tale of the Great Panic, deal with a depression greater than this in 1930 in which the multi-billionaire who brings on the panic strives to make use of it in conquering the United States with money. He is thwarted by a return to the principles of the Declaration and the Constitution.

The magazine's duty will serialize the Mayfield novel.
