

Bone Fragments From A Prehistoric Monster's Remains Unearthed Here

Bone fragments from the remains of a pre-historic monster Thursday were removed from a peculiar sand hill formation in eastern Big Spring.

The bones, presumably that of an extinct type of elephant that roamed the southwest around 100,000 years ago, were unearthed at 5th and Young streets near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Laird.

After J. J. McClanahan and A. L. Williams, who were leveling the tightly packed white sand hill for a building lot, turned the bones when a plow snagged on a fragment of a tusk, word was sent to Dr. Julius Olsen, head of the Hardin-Simmons university geology department.

Wednesday he brought 15 members of his class here to dig for additional bones. They were accompanied by Dr. O. O. Watts, science teacher and secretary of the Texas Archeological and Paleontological society, and Otto Polk of the university faculty.

The tusk, piece of which is retained at the Laird home, would have been about seven and a half feet long if reconstructed, said Dr. Olsen. The blow from the plow shattered most of the tusk. However, the H-SU students retrieved two sizeable fragments by digging carefully and covering the fossil with plaster cast before attempting to remove it.

McClanahan and Williams were continuing their grading Thursday but the former said that he was proceeding carefully and that if he encountered any other remains that he would remove them carefully as did the geology students.

"My idea," he said, "is to give them to the local museum. I talked with Dr. F. W. Malone (museum head) and he was hopeful of getting through a WPA project for recovery of valuable fossil remains. We kept the big piece of tusk here because we felt it ought to stay at home and be placed in the local museum."

Included in the bones recovered was a large tooth, around eight inches in diameter and about a foot long. It was better preserved than the other bones.

Dr. Olsen said that the bones were fixed in the Pleistocene, most recent geological age. He estimated the age at 100,000 years, which made them "young" as far as geological computations are concerned.

Other similar fossil remains have been uncovered in this area. About 15 years ago, in the gravel pits south and east of where the present bones were found, workmen uncovered a huge tusk and bones. Seven years ago remains were discovered and excavated from a bank in Wild Horse creek, northeast of Big Spring, and five years ago the jaw bone of a prehistoric elephant, a fragment of the tusk and teeth perfectly preserved, were discovered just east of Coahoma in the excavation of a dead-man hole at an oil test.

Man Is Charged In Butcher Slaying

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP)—Aurolo Marco Tarquinio, 45, steelworker and former tavern keeper, was charged with East Baltimore's gruesome "torso" slaying today a few hours after the head of Evelyn Rice, 31, had been unearthed in his tulip-bordered backyard.

Police Commissioner Robert F. Stanton said the steelworker had confessed killing the Georgia girl who became barmaid and housekeeper for him and had recounted details of his butchery. The confession was not made public immediately.

Tarquinio was charged with "assaulting by cutting and stabbing one Evelyn Rice, 31, with a butcher knife and thereby causing her death."

Officers who had conducted a fearful search since parts of the young woman's body began to be picked up piecemeal from sewers last Friday, found the last remains at dawn after arresting Tarquinio last night and grilling him for six hours.

Mrs. Louise Bridges, a neighbor, said the girl was from Georgia. She lived at Tarquinio's home and had been missing since Thursday. Police found the head buried in quicklime under a layer of bricks in Tarquinio's backyard. As they lifted the head from the pit, Frank M. Peterson, a neighbor, leaned over his back fence, glanced at the long streaming hair and said "that's Evelyn."

WITNESSES COLLAPSE DURING TRIPLE EXECUTION IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 20 (AP)—In 28 minutes of swiftness and surprise, the state of Ohio last night executed a father, son and their gangster pal for the murder of two Springfield, Ohio, police officers.

A record crowd of about 150 men, packed in the little death chamber at Ohio penitentiary, witnessed the electrocutions.

In the order of their death, the killers were Harry Chapman, 75-year-old Chicagoan; Henry Dingleline, 39-year-old Springfield "bad boy"; and Henry's father Harry, a red-faced, white-haired man of 56.

They overmatched police machine guns with pistol fire when their robbery hideout at a lake resort was surrounded Sept. 3, 1937. Patrolman Martin Randolph and Deputy Sheriff Edward Furry were shot dead, as was one of the bandits, Robert Corneille. Chapman and young Dingleline were wounded.

At 8:03 p. m. Chapman stepped into the white-walled death cubicle. Peering through rimless, dark-lensed spectacles, he said "I am not a murderer. A robber—I admit that—but not a murderer."

Dr. George W. Kil pronounced Chapman dead at 8:15. Several witnesses had collapsed.

Shutdown Of Mines Looms Demos Guard Money Bill

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—A complete shutdown of the nation's soft coal mines may be unless a new contract is signed before that date, has been ordered by the United Mine Workers.

The order, climaxing a six-week deadlock in negotiations between the union and operators for the eight-state Appalachian area, threatened to pull 125,000 men from bituminous workings in 13 states. Approximately 350,000 have been idle in the Appalachian region and in Alabama since the old two-year contract died April 1.

CIO Chairman John L. Lewis, who heads the mine workers, also has said he would call out 100,000 anthracite miners, if necessary to force an agreement. This would leave 585,000 miners idle and increase the growing menace of a national coal shortage.

Lewis and other union leaders began conferring two days ago with hard coal operators for a new contract to replace the three-year anthracite industry agreement which expires April 30.

The contract for the Appalachian states, which for 70 per cent of the soft coal is mined, is basic for the industry.

The order affected miners in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wyoming, Montana, Washington, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and western Kentucky.

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Members of the democratic "whip" organization met today to keep party supporters on the floor to meet republican sniping at a bill to extend the administration's monetary powers.

The house leadership was not so much concerned about what might occur during debate on the legislation, which resumed immediately after the meeting of the whips, as with minority attempts to slash the bill to pieces when it reaches the amendment stage tomorrow.

Representative Martin (D-Colo.) scoffed at republican criticism of the so-called 50-cent dollar which resulted from a reduction in the dollar's gold content in 1934.

The dollar today, Martin contended, is worth $1.30 on the basis of the 1938 commodity price index.

The bill would continue until June 30, 1941, the president's authority to devalue the dollar by another nine per cent. It would extend also for two years the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and its authority to buy newly mined domestic silver above world prices.

Pan-American College Plan Is Favored

Senate Would Open Texas Schools To Foreign Students

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—After debate in which the policies of "dictator nations" across the waters were severely rapped, the house today passed to final reading a senate bill allowing a limited number of students from other American nations to attend Texas colleges free of charge.

Final Vote Delayed

A motion to suspend the rules and place the proposal on immediate final passage failed by a vote of 96 ayes and 34 noes. A four-fifths majority would have been required. The proposal probably will come up for final action next Wednesday.

The bill, which had been endorsed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, would permit five students from each of the other American nations to come to Texas institutions without paying tuition. The total number of students given this privilege could not exceed 100 a year.

Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso, house sponsor of the bill, said it would "help us when the fight comes, if it ever does, to protect the western hemisphere against aggression."

Rep. Joseph White, Jr., of New Boston added that with the "dictatorial governments spending millions" it certainly would be a good idea for Texas to spend a few thousand dollars to promote friendly relations with Central and South America.

Rep. E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston, chairman of the house appropriations committee, led the fight against the measure. He stated that Texas did not have sufficient money to educate its own youth, much less that of other countries.

Using the argument that "charity begins at home," Thornton sought to amend the bill to provide that the tuition charge would be waived only as to students from those countries which gave Texas students like privileges. His amendment was rejected, as was a motion by Rep. Preston Anderson of San Antonio to postpone the bill indefinitely.

Rep. J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene obtained adoption of an amendment requiring a student coming to Texas to have been a student of some American country five years. He said its purpose was to prevent the possibility of "Nazi or Fascist spies" reaching the United States via Central or South America.

The bill was authored by Sen. Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo.

Hospital Fund Provides For New Ward

(Herald Austin Bureau)

AUSTIN, April 20—Construction of a new $134,000 ward building at the Big Spring State Hospital for the insane during the fiscal year 1940 was approved by the house of representatives this week with final passage of the eleemosynary appropriation bill.

The first biennial budget for operation of the new institution, which was built at a cost of approximately $317,000, was set by the house at $720,656. The total included provision for the new ward building; $38,500 for an ice plant, refrigeration, creamery, and butcher shop building to be built in fiscal year 1941; $20,000 for a dining room-kitchen; several cottages; and other needed improvements.

Rep. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo prepared an amendment to provide for a second ward building at a cost of $134,000 for 1941, but he was prevented from offering it on the floor of the house by a motion ordering the previous question which cut off debate. An effort will be made by Sen. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock to tack the amendment on in the senate. Failing there, Nelson and Hardeman will try to persuade the free conference committee to include the item in the final draft.

As finally passed by the house, the eleemosynary appropriation bill allotted $415,943 to the Big Spring hospital for the first year of the biennium and $305,015 for a second year. The itemization of salaries indicated a total personnel of 116 will be engaged in operating the new institution, from the superintendent who will receive a salary of $3,250, to the hall boy who will receive $480 annually.

MRS. LINDBERGH AND SONS SAIL FOR U. S.

LE HAVRE, France, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh sailed today for New York with her two sons and a nurse aboard the French liner Champlain.

They will join Colonel Lindbergh in the United States.

Lindbergh sailed on the Aquitania April 8. He is now in Washington, where the war department has called him to active duty to train a survey of United States aviation facilities.

Mrs. Lindbergh declined to talk to reporters who approached her on the dock. Boarding the ship, she and her family remained in their cabins.

(This will be the first visit to the United States of Land, who was born May 12, 1937, in London.)

His brother, Jon, who will be seven years old next Aug. 16, has not been in the United States since he was taken to England in December, 1935, by his parents).

Hitler Parades Military Might On Birthday; Duce Says 'No' To FD

BIGAMIST?

Alberta Daggett (above), 26, was jailed in St. Louis on a bigamy warrant sworn out by two men who claim to be her husband. Raymond Daggett said he married her four years ago. Leonard Ferguson said she became Mrs. Ferguson early in April. In jail, she was surprised that the men were friendly toward each other.

This, a state department official said today, was in accord with the practice here of not sending birthday greetings to any but ruling monarchs.

Geographical 'Errors' Must Be Corrected

Until Then, No Guarantee Of Peace, Mussolini Asserts

ROME, April 20 (AP)—Premier Mussolini, answering President Roosevelt by radio today, declared ten-year peace guarantees were impossible without consideration of vast "errors of geography" of which he contended Europe was the victim.

No Conference
He inferentially rejected any "expansive" conference of nations.

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—A state department official said today that Premier Mussolini's rejection of President Roosevelt's peace proposals, while disappointing, might still leave some room for cooperative action.

Should the president wish to pursue his suggestions for a guaranteed peace and settlement of difficulties by the conference method, this official said, he might find a basis in the fact there were indications of the Italian premier's intentions in the Italian premier's response.

24 Indictments Are Returned By Jury

Jury Makes First Report; Other Complaints To Be Studied Later

Twenty-four bills of indictment were returned by the 70th district court grand jury in its initial report to the court late Wednesday evening.

Since warrants on the indictments were not issued until noon Thursday, no arrests had been reported.

Included in the total were four bills for driving while intoxicated, 11 for forgery, three for theft, three for burglary, and one each for murder, assault with intent to murder, and chicken theft.

District Attorney Martelle McDonald said that not all the complaints filed against the grand jury consideration had been closed. He estimated that 15 others would be taken up by the grand jury in its second session of the term on May 10. Together with an accumulation between now and that time, a record number of indictments may be returned before the jury adjourns for the term.

Uncontested civil litigation was cleared from the docket by District Judge Cecil Collins as the jury recessed from its deliberations. The case of J. N. Bruton versus Allied Underwriters Insurance Co., suit to set aside award, was settled out of court after a jury had been called Thursday morning.

Other cases before the court

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—Chairman Lon A. Smith of the Texas railroad commission testified here today a majority of the commission issued the April oil order on March 21 without special notice or public hearing on conditions of various fields.

Smith was the only witness during a morning session of deposition taking in a federal court case filed in Houston in which the Abercrombie Oil company and Harrison Oil company obtained a temporary injunction against the commission's appeal order signed by Commissioners Smith and Jerry Sadler.

Under questioning of Joe Moore, Houston attorney, Smith admitted the order promulgated March 1 and on April 7 had been issued without taking evidence from geologists on which to base the order.

The commissioner said he, as chairman, had invited Ernest O. Thompson, commission member who did not sign the order, to attend with him, Sadler and two engineers sessions at which the order was issued.

but declared nevertheless the Rome-Berlin axis stood for "peace and collaboration."

He termed "absurd" the proposal for "reciprocal guarantees for ten years which do not take into consideration the pyramidal errors of geography into which individuals have fallen who have only the most rudimentary knowledge of European affairs."

Alluding to the president's proposal for a conference on military and economic matters in which the United States would take part, Mussolini said, "as for the expansive conference which has been proposed and in which the United States effectively would limit itself to its customary role of distant spectator, experience teaches us bitter lessons on this score and they are that the larger the number of conferees, the more certain it is of failure."

Billiard Legalizing Measure Defeated

Word has been received here of the defeat on the house floor at Austin of a measure which would have legalized and licensed the operation of billiard or pocket billiard establishments in the state.

The measure, given a favorable report by the state affairs committee, went down under a heavy vote. It provided for the operation of the billiard tables at $50 each per annum.

SCHOOL TAX RATE MEASURE IS SENT BACK TO A COMMITTEE

GENERAL FUND'S DEFICIT SMALLER

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The deficit in the general revenue fund declined slightly in the last two weeks due to tax collections, a treasury report, also announcing a call of $1,420,135 in general revenue warrants, disclosed today.

The deficit as of today stood at $16,812,726, compared with $17,110,005 on April 5.

The call included all warrants issued up to and including September 30, 1938. The new call number was 18,475.

Museum Is Dedicated At San Jacinto

HOUSTON, April 20 (AP)—Big naval guns boomed and drums rolled on the prairie of San Jacinto battlefield today as Texans gathered beneath the towering San Jacinto monument to hear orators extol the deeds of their forefathers and dedicate a state museum of history housed in the base of the shaft.

They came from all sections of the state and stood with bared heads as the guns of the big naval cruiser Wichita, on her shakedown cruise, boomed a salute. The war vessel steamed up the ship channel past the field where Texas won her liberty from Mexico in 1836.

The historical museum dedication will be concluded late tomorrow after Governor O'Daniel and other speakers have been heard in addresses.

Dr. Eugene C. Barker, professor of American history at the University of Texas, one of the speakers, said he hoped the museum some day would contain besides the relics of more comfortable pioneer living, but there today, the homely artifacts of frontier life.

"I hope some day this museum will exhibit the hand forged knives and forks, the gourd cups and dipper, the bawn tables, stools and benches, the cross for riving boards, the candle molds and bullet molds, the wrought iron clevis and pin

Pope Calls For Peace Prayers

VATICAN CITY, April 20 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today asked for a "crusade of prayer" throughout the world during the month of May in behalf of "greatly longed-for Christian peace among all nations and people."

The pontiff made his appeal in a letter to his secretary of state, Luigi Cardinal Maglione.

He recalled that immediately after his election as pope and again in his Easter homily he had exhorted "all nations and their governments to sentiments of justice and charity in order to conciliate profoundly and permanently greatly longed-for Christian peace among all nations and people."

His holiness then expressed the wish that in all the dioceses and parishes public prayer in this cause should be made to the virgin during the coming month.

The pope said he was confident the prayers would be needed.

Proprietor R. B. Marshall, was waiting with a loaded shotgun. When the man drew a pistol and demanded the $8 from a clerk, Marshall let him have both barrels.

Tax Rate

The senate has sent to the house a bill authorizing the state board of education to set whatever apportionment it deemed necessary.

Referring to the tax bill, Webster charged it would be the "most costly" measure ever passed by the legislature.

He and Senator Clint Small of Amarillo asserted it would bring an increase in the tax rate to the constitutional maximum of 25 cents.

The current apportionment is $33 and Webster said the education board could boost it to $40, leaving the automatic tax based on choice but to set the rate at the 25-cent maximum.

Small questioned why the legislature should "pile into" the school fund more money than is required by the constitution when at the same time it is denying other departments funds they could use.

Oil Change

They were "worked out," but that Thompson did not appear.

"At those sessions," Moore said, "you just placed some figures with a red pencil next to the fields and then issued the order, didn't you?"

"No," Smith said. "Did you have any evidence of changed conditions in the fields?"

"No." "You just took the allowances from the South and Gulf coast areas and gave them to East Texas, didn't you?"

"No," Smith retorted, "all we did for East Texas was to lift the Saturday shutdowns."

"Why did you do that?" "We were trying to satisfy the market demand and straighten out inequities." "Smith denied he and Sedler were 'toying' with the order and asserted 'it's too big a proposition to play with.' He said he and Sedler were 'doing our level best to work out previous inequities in the allowable situation.'

Hitler

them approvingly, even when they had long passed the stand. Spectators wondered how much of the new equipment shown for the first time originated in Czechoslovakia, whose great armaments passed to German control with the dismemberment of the republic.

It was a triumphant day in the life of the World war corporal who became "augmentor of the reich." He was made an honorary citizen of Danzig Free City in a ceremony at the chancellery before the parade started.

So far as Danzig, part of Germany's war-lost territories, was concerned that appeared to be only development. There is a strong movement in the Nazi-dominated free city for return to the reich and there had been rumors Danzig might be a birthday present for the fuhrer.

Forty thousand soldiers started marching down the "Avenue of Splendor" about 11:25 a. m. while a mighty armada of 168 warplanes criss-crossed the sky above them.

The parade was five hours long. Before leaving the chancellery to take his place in the reviewing stand, Hitler spent busy hours receiving congratulations.

The most brilliant section of the parade grandstand was that for foreign military attaches and other guests from abroad. Their section was separated from the fuhrer's only by a space for active German generals and admirals.

After a regiment each from the army, navy and airforce had passed, a new formation hitherto not in evidence at parades passed the stand—a battalion of Italian S. S. in greenish suits. The German multitude cheered wildly at this unusual sight.

By the declaration of his No. 1 aid, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler was "the greatest German of all times" and in the words of his No. 2 aid, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, the fuhrer's name "wanders around the earth almost like a legend."

District Governor Speaker Before Business Club

To hear a talk by Dr. R. G. Obermiller of Ponca City, Okla., district governor of American Business clubs, members of the local organization met Thursday at the Settles hotel for a luncheon.

Dr. Obermiller discussed the objectives of the sixth district and plans for the year. He also told of the national convention to be held in Washington, D. C., in June and urged that the local club send delegates.

A committee to be in charge of the West Side park promotion was appointed and is composed of C. A. Amos, chairman, D. W. Carnett, Hugh Dupcan and Dr. Preston R. Sanders.

A committee to take charge of the clean-up campaign work was also appointed and consists of Fowler Faubion, chairman, Chester Cluck, Doyle Vaughn and George Summers.

Approximately 80 members were present.

HOTEL PICKETED FOR FIVE YEARS CHICAGO, April 20 (AP)—Five years ago today the march began. At that time the Chicago Waiters Alliance, local 25, called a strike at the Edgewater Beach hotel and started its pickets on a parade which still persists.

Union leaders call it the longest picketing campaign in American labor history.

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—A further slight easing of European war tension today helped boost the stock market another step or two on the recovery ladder.

Best gains of 1 to 3 points were posted in the forenoon, with leaders slipping well under their peaks in the final hour.

Although a little activity was in evidence at the start, dealings subsequently slowed to a crawl. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

The Mussolini speech at Rome was the principal market topic. Wall street derived a grain of comfort from the fact the Italian chief-investor cited his country's preparations for a world exposition in 1942 as a "promising indication that we do not intend to attack any one."

Improved sentiment abroad was reflected in rising quotations for securities at London, Paris and Amsterdam.

A few pleasing items came to hand on the home front. Among these was the official estimate last week's freight loadings were up more than seasonally despite a sharp tumble in coal shipments because of shut-downs due to the mining labor negotiations deadlock.

The coal situation was believed one of the important immediate industrial handicaps, although many a new settlement was looked for in some quarters.

Awards Go To 28 Boy Scouts

Twenty-eight Boy Scouts from Big Spring troops "pleaded guilty" before the Court of Honor at Kiwanis club Thursday noon to satisfying requirements for advancements and were presented certificates and badges emblematic of their achievements.

Climaxing the ceremonies, Charles Paxton, Sweetwater, president of the Buffalo Trail council, gave Wofford B. Hardy, Jr., his eagle badge, the highest rank to which a scout may attain. His mother and father were present to witness the impressive presentation.

Judge Cecil Collings presided over the honor court and named J. H. Greene foreman of the jury that heard W. C. Blankenship, court of honor chairman, plead the case for the boys and then arrived at a verdict of advancement.

Jack Penrose, field scout executive, said that another court would be held in about six weeks before another service club.

Receiving second class badges were Richard Cauble, Paul Corcoran, Wesley Deats, Gene Green, Billy Hancock, Henry Hernandez, Billy Kent, Bill Morris, Ralph Sheets, Barkley Wood and Clarence Yanez. First class award went to Claud Couch, Dean Miller, Noah Leyva, Commodore Ryan and Ismael Valdez.

Jesse Hernandez of troop No. 7 and his scoutmaster, John H. Hutto, were given their star scout badges. Hutto is keeping pace with his boys on advancement.

Already a record number of reservations are on hand for the dinner, which will be served in the Garner school auditorium by the women of the Knott community.

er Dingledine sauntered into the room. With a gesture of bravado, he flipped aside a cigarette, called goodbye, and shook hands with two clergymen.

In the chair, Henry commented: "I am sorry for the officers' wives and their loved ones. I hope they are nappy; I hope things will go all right with them. Goodbye, good luck, and God bless you."

Dr. Keil pronounced him dead at 8:29. Chewing a cigar stump, the portly, florid Harry Dingledine entered the chamber at 8:32—to be pronounced dead eight minutes later.

"Are there any of the boys around who want to shake hands with me?" he inquired. There was no reply.

With a gesture of disdain, Dingledine seated himself, then clasped the proffered hand of the Rev. Herbert Smith, who murmured, "God bless you, Harry."

"I hope there is a God in—ouch, you're pinching my arm," Dingledine cried.

As a guard readjusted the arm clamp, Dingledine resumed: "I hope there is a God in heaven who'll forgive me if I ever had a gun in my hand."

ICC HAS POWER TO PROTECT LABOR IN LEASE DEALS

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission ruled today it has authority to impose conditions for the protection of labor in authorizing railroad leases and consolidations.

By a 6 to 4 vote, the commission upheld a decision by its three-member division No. 4 last October in this regard.

The commission's ruling was in a decision authorizing the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway to lease the properties of the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf Railway. The Gulf railway operates only in Texas.

Trustees of the Rock Island estimated the leasing of the Gulf would result in an annual saving of $100,000. The plan involves the transfer of 20 employees from Fort Worth to the Rock Island accounting offices at Chicago, the dismissal of 49 other workers at Fort Worth, unless business increases sufficiently to warrant the retention of some of them.

Conditions imposed by the commission in approving the lease are designed to protect employees who would be required to accept reduced compensation, those who would be dismissed, and those who would be required to change their places of residence to other points on the Rock Island system.

In another decision upholding division No. 4, the commission authorized the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway to acquire control of the Louisiana, Arkansas & Texas Railway.

Appelman Preaches This Evening On 'The Lamb Of God'

In the 8 p. m. service tonight Hyman Appelman, the Jew evangelist, conducting the First Baptist revival, will preach on "The Lamb of God Which Taketh Away the Sin of the World."

Said the evangelist: "This is the very soul of the Bible, the very foundation of Christianity, either Christ died for the sins of a lost world or there is nothing at all to Christianity."

Fifteen more people responded to the gospel invitation in the service Wednesday night when Appelman preached on "There Is a Hell; Who Is Going There?"

The revival is rapidly drawing to a close. Sunday night Appelman leaves here to go to the Church of the Open Door, Los Angeles, Calif. for a revival. The services will continue here twice daily, at 10 a. m. and at 8 p. m. The evangelist has announced his subjects for the coming days. Friday night he will preach on "The Three Exceeding Things of the Bible." Saturday night, by special request, he will preach on the very timely, the vital subject, "The Second Coming of Christ, the Jews, the Gentiles."

Rebels Decision Tribe To Retain Texas Loop Lead

By The Associated Press
 Lou Scofield got his artillery sights adjusted at Houston last night and fired out four straight hits—the last shattering the other side of the left field fence—to help his Houston Buff make squelch the Shreveport Sports, 9 to 4. His aim was had on a fifth try.

In other Texas league baseball games the San Antonio Missions tagged the Beaumont Exporters 8 to 6 at Beaumont; the Tulsa Oilers in a home game broke two tie counts to edge out the Fort Worth Panthers, 7 to 6; and the Dallas Rebels staged a brief insurrection against the Oklahoma Indians to win their road game 5 to 1.

Postponements Means Twin Bills Later

Only Major Loop Tilt Wednesday Results In Bee Victory

By JUDSON BAILEY
 Associated Press Staff
 The silver lining slogan salesmen in all the major league cities might make a good thing of pointing out to furious fans today that every fracas postponed now means a doubleheader some summer afternoon.

Fourteen of the first nineteen games in baseball's centennial season were sabotaged by the weatherman and the fans really are the only persons concerned who won't suffer as a result.

It may be hard to convince the people of Chicago, for instance, this is true. They haven't seen even an exhibition game during this year of the abundant April showers. Yet they not only will get their bargain bills, but their Monty Stratton benefit exhibition, too.

On the other hand the clubs aren't likely to recover all the money this week's rain has cost them.

The ball players don't like double-headers—and even if they did, they are all itching to get started.

Only Game

While the Tuesday tussle in which Detroit nipped down its opener against the Chicago White Sox remains the only game yet played in the American League, the National has managed to squeeze in at least one game a day.

Yesterday the Bees and the Philadelphia Phillies managed to struggle through the first of a scheduled pair to the satisfaction of 1,952 spectators, smallest opening day crowd in Boston's history.

The game lasted 12 innings and favored the Bees, 7 to 6.

In the end it was one of the transplanted American Leaguers now flourishing in the National who broke up the game. Al Simmons, obtained during the winter from the Washington Senators, singled Debs Garms home.

There was some justification for hopes that the season would swing out today on a grand scale. Forecasts were generally fair.

The lineup is still the same as that which was left at the post yesterday. In the National League Cincinnati is at Chicago, New York at Brooklyn, St. Louis at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at Boston; in the American Cleveland at St. Louis, Chicago at Detroit, Washington at Philadelphia and Boston at New York.

By The Associated Press
 Bill Roberson struck out 13 batters last night as he led his Tyler Trojan mates to a 9-5 victory over Longview in an auspicious start in defense of their East Texas League baseball crown.

Pinch-hitter Rolio Watson doubled in the eighth, scoring Costello and Flood to enable the Palestine Pals to down Jacksonville 4-3, in another opening day game.

Lou Coletta clouted a homer in the sixth to break a two-all tie as the Henderson Oilers overpowered Kilgore 9 to 4.

Texas' Kansas Liners bunched three hits for three tallies in the second frame as a start toward their 9 to 3 conquest of Marshall.

REGOMEN BEATEN BY APACHES Gridders In Game Friday

ROOKIE STEPS IN AS LEFTY PARKS FAILS

ABILENE, April 20 — Throttled by Bill Reinold after threatening to ride Howard Parks out of the park here Wednesday, the Big Spring Barons were due to rebound with their star right hander, Johnny Soden, in an attempt to even the series with the Abilene Apaches this afternoon.

The Apaches won the first battle, 5-3, with Reinold, a first year man, pitching one-hit ball for the last five frames.

The Barons collected all their runs in the fourth frame when Billy Capps led off with a two-bagger, Gordon Wise singled, Richard Hobson singled, Al Berndt singled and Jack Boyd contributed a sacrifice fly. Red Webster came along with another one base blow but the side was retired when Hobby Decker and Marshall Von Biebetstein grounded out.

The Abileneans got to Frankie Jacot in the second round for three runs, then returned in the third to sew up the ball game by tallying twice.

Hobson collected a double and a single to pace the Big Spring ninth hit attack while Mike Gustevich had three singles in the Abilene parade.

Hobson retired in the fourth frame due to a score arm, Joe Saporito taking over the shortstop duties.

The game marked the debut of Charley Morgan, rookie Baron righthander, who, in working two frames, allowed but one hit in.

Galento Peeved Over Assertion Dempsey Made

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Tony the Terrible Galento is "boiled up"—all the way to his second chin, in fact—at his old pal Jack Dempsey.

So steamed is he over remarks Dempsey passed in Kansas City the other day concerning the Galento ring ability, that Two-Ton now has nominated the old Massasa Mauler as No. 1 on his list of "bums" he can "molder."

What's more, Tony whippers in a way you can hear from here to Keokuk, any time Jack finds himself in the neighborhood of Main and Dey streets, Orange, N. J., he'd better walk with his guard up.

It seems Dempsey was quoted as saying Tony, who tangles with Joe Louis in Yankee Stadium June 28, won't have as much chance as the aging Jack Roper had against Joe in California last Monday. "He's more than a thousand-to-one shot," Jack contended.

The lightning telegraph system in France preceded the electrical telegraph and speeded official messages by semaphore signals.

Glenn Out To Prove He Can Still Run

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 20 (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, grand-pappy of the modern mile craze, will scurry around the track four times here Saturday intent on proving to the Kansas relay crowd he is as good today—nearing the doddering age of 30—as he was in 1934 when he set the record of 4:12.7.

Not since 1936 has Cunningham, who only last year at Dartmouth ran the fastest mile ever accredited to man, won before the home folks.

Glenn blames the date for his defeats here.

"Usually my appearances at home are my first outdoor races of the year and I am not thoroughly acclimated."

DERBY ELIGIBLE HURT
 LEXINGTON, Ky., April 20 (AP)—Opelika, J. Cal Milam's Kentucky Derby and Preakness candidate, was declared out of both races today because of an injury suffered before a race at Keeneland Tuesday. The colt was said to have struck his knee against the starting gate.

Since 1923 the cash income of 1930, a total of 286-man-hours were required to produce 100 bushels of wheat but in 1930, because of mechanization, only 49 man-hours were needed.

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART
 Local school officials have wisely left the football bleachers and other equipment at the old field north of town while waiting for the WPA grant for the new plant to clear the final hurdle. There seems to be little doubt but what the local team will again play its 1939 home games in the local park, waiting until 1940 to open the new stadium.

The new site on Eleventh Place has been cleared and leveled and work can get underway immediately once the official o.k. is given but even then it will take nine months to complete the job according to a government estimate.

Coach Pat Murphy is hopeful that the practice field can be made available by the time fall rolls around, however.

TILT ALSO TO BE PLAYED APRIL 28

The first of two intra-squad football games of the Big Spring high school spring training season will be played at Steer stadium Friday, 4 p. m. between teams designated simply as the "A" and "B" squads.

The second will be played Friday, April 28.

Coach Pat Murphy's team has been plagued with an outbreak of injuries but most of those ailing will be ready to go Friday.

No captains have yet been selected for the initial fray but Owen Brummett and Bobby Savage will pilot the teams in the second fracas.

Vitt Worries Over Tribe, Club That Can Win Loop Flag Or Flop Completely

By GAYLE TALBOT
 NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—It's already evident as two black eyes that our old friend Oscar Vitt of the mercurial Cleveland Indians is the manager on the spot this year, the one most likely to end up on an aspirin diet in September.

The Tribe pilot, on the second lap of a two-year contract, finds himself totally surrounded by temperament, questionable pitching arms, lightweight infielders, and a front office that appears to cooperate with him heartily only on alternate Tuesdays.

What makes the situation at least double delicate for old "O" is the fact his team consistently is touted too high. Judgment of the Indians as a whole seems to be blinded at the sight of the several great stars in their lineup. The club's obvious deficiencies too often are minimized.

If Oscar gets all the breaks he deserves, he might by some miracle land the Indians in third place in the American League. But he has a team that might easily drop clear out of the first division. It is the "problem team" of baseball.

The Indians are starting off (if it ever stops raining) with only one of their "big three" ready for mound duty—downy-checked Bob Feller. Mel Harder is out temporarily, at least, with a sore spot in his upper arm, and Johnny Allen won't be ready before the first of May, if then. The remainder of Vitt's staff has looked decidedly second-string.

Only Hal Trosky at first and Ken Keltner at third remain of last year's infield.

Karl Averill, whom the Indians tried to trade for everything except a side of beef during the winter, is back in the outfield alongside volatile Ben Chapman from the Red Sox and Jeff Heath, last year's sensational young slugger. There's no doubt this trio can flatten the ball, but the handling of Averill and Chapman is not the happiest of Vitt's prospects.

Then, of course, there is the catching department comprising those two bedazzled young men, Rollicking Rolio Hemsley and Frankie Pytlak. Rolio continues to tumble from the wagon with a recurring thump ever so often, and Frankie was sore as a boll down south this spring because he couldn't catch all the exhibition games. That gives you an idea of the Vitt menagerie.

FSA Loans To Those Denied Other Credit

Farmers unable to participate in the 1939 AAA soil conservation program because of lack of funds for materials to carry out soil building practices are reminded that they may obtain Farm Security Administration loans for this purpose. This announcement was made by William H. Gore, FSA's rehabilitation supervisor in Howard county with offices in the stucco building on the square. "The entire amount of the loan must be used for practices to comply with approved soil building practices," Gore said. "Amounts up to 80 per cent of the approximate AAA payment to be earned by the farmer can be loaned. The loans will be secured by an assignment of the AAA benefit payment." Gore said that in order to be eligible for these loans an applicant must be unable to secure necessary credit elsewhere for this purpose. This policy is in line with the FSA's program of making loans only to farmers unable to secure financial aid from any other source. All applications must be made at the Howard County FSA offices in Big Spring. According to the eligibility requirements outlined by Gore, loans will cooperate in the AAA program will be made only to farmers who meet the following qualifications:

(1) Farmers who without such a loan would be unable to participate in the AAA program; (2) farmers whom the county committee recommended from the standpoint of character and integrity; (3) farmers who agree to use the full amount of the loan for the purchase of equipment and materials to be used in carrying out soil building practices; (4) farmers who have not executed and agree not to execute an assignment of their payment other than to the Farm Security Administration. Additional information may be obtained from the local FSA office. Texas farmers from cotton has dropped from $748,000,000 to $150,401,000, the latter including government payments.

SAN JACINTO AND TODAY'S CHALLENGE

One hundred and three years ago Friday, there occurred the climactic battle of a campaign which brought the citizens of Texas nearer to the realization of those ideals of personal liberty, freedom and the right of self-determination.

It was the battle of San Jacinto, in which the forces of Texas, who considered those ideals worth fighting for, were victorious.

The memory of these heroes is being honored in special programs at the San Jacinto battleground and the San Jacinto Museum of History, an institution designed to reactualize for present-day Texans the proud and thrilling history of their state.

Many prominent Texans will be there to participate in fitting ceremonies. The great majority of the "frank and free" of Texas citizens cannot be there in person, but they can be there in spirit, feeling a great spirit of pride in the achievements of those pioneers who gave so much in order that their state should eventually achieve the material and cultural progress they dreamed about.

For all Texans, we are happy to say, do feel proud of their state, and are warmly patriotic about Texas. That goes for all of them, from the highest and most cultured, to the humblest and the least educated. They are proud of Texas for different reasons, perhaps; but they are fiercely proud nevertheless.

As Booth Mooney, writing in the Texas Weekly, points out: "A talking patriotism is not enough, of course. The patriotism of Texans must be translated into action. The people of Texas are not being called upon today to resist with arms the forces of a tyrant. The fight that patriotic Texans must make in this second century of Texas independence is against a more subtle enemy, although the principles at stake are much like those upheld by the men who fought and won the battle of San Jacinto a hundred and three years ago.

The issue then was centralism versus federalism. Is it inconceivable that such an issue should rise again to plague us? Is it conceivable that the constitutional rights of the state of Texas should be threatened again, after more than a century?"

The writer makes no attempt to answer the questions. But, he says, they are questions that the people of Texas—the patriots of Texas—ought to be thinking about, and the anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto is a good time to start thinking about them.

Lillibet At 13 Reaches The Awkward Age, But Little Princess Is More Imperious Than Ever

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN AP Feature Service Writer

LONDON—Lillibet Windsor has reached the awkward age. Her thirteenth birthday on April 21 will find the blonde princess grown tall and gawky—but it will also find her acting with dignity becoming the probable future Queen of England.

Her behavior in public already smacks of the queenly manner. She is fast becoming adept at the peculiar backhand flip used by "mummy" and "grandmama queen" to acknowledge the plaudits of the crowd.

She is prim and correct: beyond her years (in vivid contrast to her eight-year-old sister, Margaret) and even more imperious, some say, than when she made her famous reply to the nurse who asked her to do something she did not want to do. "Royally speak," the princess snapped back.

Nearly As Tall As Queen In general, in consideration of the fact that she is rapidly growing up (she is only an inch or so shorter than her mother) she is beginning to enjoy some of the prerogatives reserved to adult royalty. But she is not old enough to accompany her parents on their foreign peregrinations. Hence she won't be able to go to America this summer—much to her disappointment.

Still another reminder of her juvenile status is the nickname "Lillibet" which she has not yet shaken off. She has been known as "Lillibet" ever since her baby tongue failed to manipulate "Elizabeth" properly.

In her education, for instance, she is now being introduced to such stiff subjects as constitutional history and administration. In geography, she is branching out into a study of the dominions, her earlier years having been devoted exclusively to perusing the British Isles.

She probably will continue to be instructed by various visiting teachers under the supervision of her Scottish governess, Marion Crawford, and her mother.

A six-year-plan for finishing her education has been drawn up and submitted to the cabinet for discussion and approval.

Not A Bookworm It is understood that while her intelligence is "very satisfactory" she is not a very bookish girl and prefers to learn by doing rather than by reading.

Her lessons begin at 9:30, include the three R's, scripture, French, Spanish and German. She's crazy about geography, hates arithmetic.

The physical side of her education is taken care of largely by the Girl Guides. She is an enthusiastic member, second in command of her patrol which meets every Monday afternoon at Buckingham palace. Her sister is a member of the Junior organization, the Brownies.

The fact that Elizabeth is only second in command is evidence, they say, of the hard and fast rule the organization follows—on royal order—against giving her preferential treatment simply because of her status.

Another example of the "seniorable way" her parents are attempting to bring her up is that she is allowed only a shilling a week pocket money.

Lillibet's principal playmate is her sister. They spend many hours playing house in a toy bungalow.

THE MILITARY POSITION OF THE UNITED STATES IN THE EVENT OF WAR

Before any one can hope to reach wise decisions about American policy in the event of war, he must be sure that he realizes the true situation which will exist if a great war breaks out. Thus, in most of the discussion in congress it is assumed, quite correctly, that if war comes, it will begin in Europe. But it is almost always forgotten that since Japan is a partner of the Rome-Berlin axis, and must be counted upon to move with it, the war which begins across the Atlantic will spread at once to the Pacific.

This neglected factor in the present situation will, I believe, prove to be the controlling consideration in determining American policy. For it rules out as entirely impracticable an intervention in Europe like that of President Wilson in 1917. Regardless of American popular sympathy in the European conflict, the sending of another American army to Europe is in the existing circumstances not to be contemplated. The military situation today is so fundamentally different from what it was in 1917 that even if the American people wished to repeat the intervention of 1917, they could not do it. For in 1917, Japan was an ally of the western powers; in this war, if it breaks out, Japan will be their enemy.

Once we appraise the consequences of Japan's change of sides in the alignment of the powers, it becomes clear why President Wilson could not engage the full force of the United States in Europe and why President Roosevelt could not do the same thing. In 1917, because Japan was an ally, the United States was able to leave the Pacific unguarded and to concentrate its whole military power in a war on the other side of the Atlantic. Today, because Japan is itself one of the principal aggressors, the first military move made by the United States has had to be the withdrawal of the fleet from the Atlantic ocean and its return to the Pacific ocean.

Once the fleet is back in the Pacific, it will have to stay there for the duration of any war that is now in prospect. But if the fleet is in the Pacific, then no American army can cross the Atlantic. For in order to get to Europe to be adequately supplied in Europe and, above all, to be sure of being able to return from Europe, an American expeditionary force would have to be sure of absolute control and undisputed control of the Atlantic ocean. But with the American fleet in the Pacific, an American army in Europe would be wholly independent on the British navy.

No American president and no American congress who were in their right minds could think of placing an American army in Europe, and then of relying upon any other nation to maintain it and to make certain that the army was able to come back home. No matter how much American statesmen trust the intentions of Great Britain, they could not dare to place the American army in a position where its very existence depended upon the capacity of Great Britain to remain the undisputed mistress of the sea. To do that would be to make the American army a hostage in a war in which it could not decide the result.

A cool appraisal of the American position in the event of war will show, it seems to me, that the position will be fully as difficult as it was in 1914-17 but that it will be fundamentally different. This time we cannot keep our fleet in the Atlantic. The fleet must stand on guard in the Pacific. We have no choice in the matter. We must take this course as a matter of elementary national defense.

For if we did not stand guard in the Pacific, the risks would be much too great. If we let the army and navy become thoroughly involved in Europe, then not only our American interests in the Pacific, but not only the American possessions in the Pacific, but the American defenses from Alaska to Hawaii to Panama and the Pacific coast of North and South America, would be open to attack. With Japan in Singapore, and in control of the rubber, tin, and oil of the southern Pacific islands, the striking power of Japan would be so great that nothing less than the full power of the United States would be sufficient to hold Japan within bounds.

Therefore, though American opinion is at present almost wholly concentrated on what Hitler and Mussolini may do in Europe, the moment war breaks out, the primary and immediate concern of the United States would necessarily be to watch its defenses in the Pacific. That does not mean that we should be at war with Japan. It does mean that we should have to concentrate in the Pacific the power of the United States, unencumbered by military commitments in Europe.

The question would then arise whether we could, as many in congress sincerely believe, be indifferent to the outcome of the war in Europe. The fact that it was necessary to keep the fleet in the Pacific, and, as a consequence of that decision, the fact that we could not fight a war in the Atlantic, will give us the real answer to the ques-

The Herald's Serial Story Old Home Week Murder

By Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Chapter 41 'STOP, LOOK, GRAB' Hamilton wandered around, peering at the old book case whose shelves were filled with preserves and fruit. He even removed the lid from the old stone crock, and after sniffing at its contents, hastily replaced it. The odor of sauerkraut filled the cellar.

"Let's get back upstairs," Lane said. "I don't see anything here that's doing us any good. If she was killed, she was killed, and we might as well get to the Warren girl and get it over with." "What?" Asay asked as they climbed back to the kitchen. "What's that?" "Jane Warren. She came in the house after Eloise did. I saw her. She was here a couple of minutes. I saw her come and I saw her go."

"You didn't tell us about that," Asay said. "I should say that, 'give me any chance to do. Don't you want to amend your ideas, and say she fell or tripped, instead of was pushed?" "Asay shook his head. "Nope. Do, how did Jane take it, when you told her Eloise was sick?" "She said Eloise had eaten any quantity of lobster salad and peach shortcake with whipped cream for lunch," Cummings replied, "and had been taking soda mints by the pound ever since. I should say that Jane was philosophical, and more or less unmoved about it all. Eloise's stomach and its eccentricities are hardly a closed book to anyone who ever slept under the same roof with her, you know."

"Didn't seem to see anything strange about your comin', or your wife's comin'?" "She said it was thoughtful, and that she couldn't possibly have managed the tourists alone." "Blessing it out," Lane said. "Remember what she threatened, Asay! One more word from Eloise about Mike Slade—" "You're so obvious, Lane," Cummings began to put things back into his bag. "I knew you'd say that. I've been waiting for you to say it. Tell me, what sort of things do you eat, usually?" "I eat what I can get," Lane was annoyed. "What do you think?" "Specially, what?" "Oh, meat and fish and vegetables—" "Obvious foods," Cummings said cheerfully. "See how it works out, Asay? Eloise eats fiddle things—you get the idea."

"You tell me," Asay said, "what the feller we want focus on, I'll pay your grocery bills for a year. Hamilton, bring Jane in, will you?" He lifted the curtain and peered outside. "The tourists seem to have let up." He led Jane into the dining room and motioned her to a set from which she could possibly see the blanket-covered figure on the living room couch.

"How's Eloise? Was it indigestion again? And Asay, wasn't she sporting about that sock? I've felt a beast. Sara laid me out in lavender, in a few well-chosen words. Oh, I'm so tired!" "Jane," Asay said, "what'd you got indoors for, just after Eloise?" "Cards. Shop cards, you know. Business cards. Those tourists were yelling for 'em, and the ones in the barn had all been taken off."

"Where were they?" "Appendicitis?" "The cards?" In the corner cupboard here. See, I spilled some on the floor. I was in such a rush. You know what Eloise said? She said I could sell that oak chest, I could have the money for myself, and I did! To a friend of General Philbrick's. Now I have a dowry, isn't that swell? Mike told you about the man who bought his pictures—" "Did you go into the kitchen when you came in?" "No, I just got the cards and went out. Asay—" she looked at him, "whatever's the matter now? Does Eloise think she has appendicitis again? Because she did have her appendix out, and Mary saying so. She had to get it, because Eloise has fits of thinking that they just opened her up and peered at her appendix, and left it there. Why, I can't imagine, I should think it would be one of those things you'd just naturally sense, whether you had an appendix or not, no matter how much you mistrusted doctors. Asay, we're going to be married next week, did Mike tell you?"

"Jane," Asay said, "Eloise has had an accident." "A—what? What happened?" "On the cellar stairs. She—" "Oh, I thought you meant she was killed, like Mary—you nearly took my breath away! Is she badly hurt? I hope not. You know, she's terrified of those stairs. The three of us always worry about them. We used to have a sign tacked up, saying 'Stop, Look, Grab.' Is she badly hurt?"

Involuntarily Asay looked toward the living room. Jane followed his gaze and saw the figure on the couch. "Oh," she said. "Oh!" She got up and went into the other room. In a moment she came back. "You did your best to tell me, didn't you?" she said in a flat voice. "Well, tell me. Everything, I suppose she just didn't fall." "No, Jane, did any of you—you, or Mary or Eloise, ever really fall down those stairs?" "Never. We were so afraid we took particular care, all of us." "What about that bruise on your shoulder?" Jane flushed. "Oh. Kay told you? You want to know the truth? Eloise struck me." Asay paused in the process of lighting his pipe. "That's the truth," Jane said.

"Monday, she was mad with me. She often was. She was jealous, because she thought Mary cared more for me than for her. Mary didn't, of course, but—well—can't you see how hard it would be to be affectionate about Eloise? She—she cluttered so. Everything she did or said was cluttery. Then she'd be perfectly swell, like she was about my socking her the other night. And just as you thought how swell she really was, she'd tip the ink bottle over your knees, or something, and be more cluttery than ever. And Mary wasn't cluttery, and it was hard for her—" "Tell me about those paths to the ice house," Asay said. "It Drove Me Crazy" "I don't know anything about them," Jane told him. "I was scared to death to set foot off the place here, if you want to know. I can't explain, but there always seemed to be something so evil about those swamps, and the mist, and everything. It's a queer place." "You got that gun license 'cause you was scared?" Jane nodded. "Mike said it was foolish and there was nothing to be afraid of, and then he realized how I felt, and he said he'd get me a gun, and it would make me feel better, even if I couldn't use it so well." She sighed. "After I learned more about shooting, he was going to get me a gun—" "Where'd you meet Mike, Jane, down by the ice house?" "Truly, Asay, I never went near the place but once. I'm scared around here. Like Kay, I'm a city person. The country quiet and noises simply terrify me. I usually met Mike at the beach. He couldn't come here because Eloise raised such a rumpus. It was all open enough." "Wonder," Asay said, "who did go down there by the pond from this house?" "I don't know, but it always seemed to me I heard doves of people around. Mary laughed at me and said it was my imagination, but she wouldn't stay here alone at night! There was a noise that drove me crazy—a sort of laugh. It was the most uncanny thing, but I found out what it was."

"You found out what?" "A whistle sort of arrangement, only it looks more like an ocarina than a whistle. I found it out by the barn, weeks ago. I decided what I'd been hearing was local boys and girls, parking around—those back roads are simply stopped up with cars, sometimes. I've heard the sound since, but it hasn't bothered me so much now that I know what it was. I thought at first it was an escaped lunatic. It sounded that way. Probably some kids, signaling—" "Haven't got the thing now?" Asay asked. "Or do you know where it is?" "I stuck it in the fire. I think it came from candy, or popcorn, or something like that. You know, one of those gadgets they put in packages—Asay, what'll we do about Eloise?" "We'll have to explain it as we did about Mary. Jane, did you kill Eloise?"

"She looked him squarely in the eyes. "No, on my word of honor, I didn't. I thought I could have the other night. Things were all mixed up. Once I'd really taken a stand about Mike, they all cleared up. I—I think you believe me, but what about Lane and the others?" "We've proved you couldn't have killed Mary," Asay said. "You was with Sara and Jeff 'n' the rest when Kay 'n' I had our meetin' with the feller. We can't prove a thing about Eloise today, but I believe you. You see to Lane." (Copyright, 1938)

Average Oil Well Must Produce 78 Days To Pay Taxes And Royalties

DALLAS, April 20—It takes 78 days of production to pay taxes and royalty interest, according to a report recently compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

The report shows that the average producing oil well in Texas pays $1,222 a year in taxes and royalty, before the oil producer begins to share in the proceeds of his production. At current market values, the daily average production per well is worth $15.55, so that it takes 78 days of marketed production to equal the annual tax bill and royalty owner's interest.

FAVOR SEPARATION OF OIL CONCERNS, PIPELINE FIRMS

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Representatives of independent oil producers and jobbers are plugging for a bill introduced by Senator Borah (D-Iowa) and Gillette (D-Ia) to divorce major oil companies from the operation or control of oil pipelines.

In a statement issued here, Paul E. Handlock, secretary and counsel for the National Oil Marketers association, an organization of independent oil jobbers, said:

"Divorcement of pipelines is long overdue; their joint operation with the other branches of the industry has been harmful to all independent...

"The oil jobbers will not be alone in this effort to secure remedial legislation. Independent retailers, refiners and producers are being contacted with a view to having them throw their support in favor of this bill."

GERMANY SHY ON RAIL EQUIPMENT

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The commerce department declared today Germany faces a railroad equipment crisis, which may prevent its fulfilling barter agreements with Argentina and other Latin American countries.

A report from the department's attaché in Berlin said a four-year program for re-equipping German railroads "finds the rolling stock industry unprepared."

The announcement came on the heels of a denunciation of German barter methods by Secretary Hull as harmful to the countries which utilize them. He said the system was "a highly disruptive influence in world commerce" and was leading "to a curtailment of total trade."

"There may be circumstances," Hull said, "under which special types of barter arrangements may be considered necessary to supplement other methods of trade promotion."

State department officials include in that exception a proposal to exchange surplus American cotton and wheat for war materials such as tin and rubber.

The most recent German barter deal was with Argentina, calling for the swap of 64 diesel switch engines, 900 steel freight cars and sleeping cars for 100,000 metric tons of wheat and 8,000 metric tons of wool.

Garza Enters WTCC Parade

ABILENE, April 20 — Garza is the first county to enter the "Conservation and Industrial Development Parade," which will be a highlight in the program of the 21st annual West Texas chamber of commerce convention in Abilene May 15-17.

The Garza entry was made by County Agent Homer E. Thompson, Post, who said the county will send three cars to take part in the parade.

All of the more than 100 West Texas counties participating in the annual WTCC Soil and Water Utilization contest have been asked to enter cars in the parade. The lead car for each county will carry a large placard setting forth principal conservation accomplishments of the past year.

County agents, vocational agriculture teachers, county soil and water utilization committeemen, WTCC directors and local chamber of commerce presidents and secretaries have been asked to cooperate in preparing entries for their respective counties.

WTCC officials said the parade, which will include several hundred decorated cars, will be the biggest parade held during the annual convention in several years. Bands entering the annual WTCC official band contest will march in the parade and will be judged at that time.

The county placards before and after the parade will be displayed in connection with a general conservation exhibit to be prepared by the Soil Conservation Service to summarize results in the WTCC soil and water contest.

U.S. READY TO MEET JAPAN TO IRON OUT DIFFICULTIES

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—A state department official said today the United States had long been ready to meet Japan and other powers in a conference aimed at settling current disputes in the Orient.

This was his reply to inquiries concerning a story in the Tokyo newspaper Asahi saying the paper had learned from American sources President Roosevelt intended to send a personal note to the Japanese government perhaps similar to the non-aggression appeal to Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini last Saturday.

This official called attention to this government's December 31 note to Tokyo in which the conference proposal was made. He said so far Japan had not seen fit to reply.

LOUISIANA-TEXAS BOUNDARY FIXED

NEW ORLEANS, April 20 (AP)—The first true boundary between Louisiana and Texas is being established by the Louisiana geodetic survey, a WPA unit, the Works Progress Administration of Louisiana announced today.

The WPA information service said the unit is re-establishing a survey run by a commission appointed in 1840 by the Republic of Texas and the state of Louisiana, but which neither of the legislative bodies of the two states officially ratified.

The WPA engineers have completed 58 miles of the 30-mile boundary line and expect to end the project late in the summer.

The Works Progress Administration said the attorneys general of Texas and Louisiana then will be asked to introduce legislation which will define the boundary by agreement.

A Year Ago He Was A Well-Traveled, Highly Publicized Frog; Today, 'Big Jim' Is Just A Dry Skin

Wednesday was the first anniversary of the departure of "Big Jim," West Texas horned toad, on an epochal 8,500-mile air journey around the country—but, unfortunately Big Jim wasn't on hand to enjoy the "birthday."

Big Jim succumbed to a very human ailment following his return from a nine-day aerial jaunt last year. The publicity and abundant food supply he received for his feat proved too much—he just sort of died.

Today Nat Shick, postmaster, has the well preserved skin of Big Jim, the cage in which he made the unique trip and the 15 airmail covers from points to which he was dispatched. Except for the color of the Flyin' Toad's hide, he still looks alive.

Anyhow, he died gloriously. A nameless horned toad, he ran across the path of Shick and gave the postmaster an idea to advertise national airmail week last April. Accordingly, Big Jim was christened, caged and sent by airmail to the four corners of the nation, touching at many points, among them Dallas, New Orleans, Memphis, Miami, New York, Washington, Detroit, St. Paul, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Phoenix and finally at Big Spring where Stewardess Pat Mulloy of the American Airlines handed him back to Shick.

Grateful for the frog's return, the postmaster rewarded Big Jim with a copious quantity of nice red ants. The toad ate white the publicity poured in. As the spotlight waned and the ant supply disappeared, Big Jim, his stomach full and his soul satisfied, serenely closed his eyes forever.
