Officers are: President, Elna Cannon, 1st vice president, Martha Bolash, 2nd vice president, Inez Gipson, recording secretary, Lolia Bidwell, corresponding secretary, Mary Raff, treasurer, Bess Lindley, historian, Rosa Lee Yarbrow and Paula White of Lovington, N.M., parliamentarian, Johan Ripley of Levelland.

Mrs. N.C. Newsom of Roswell demonstrated "painting on glass" and Pointillism (designs appearing like lace).

Friday and Saturday, Sept. 24 and 25, the club will hold a handpainted China sale at the South Plains Mall. Come and buy your Christmas gifts.

Mary Casey and June Stokes of Shallowater are members of this club.

The Frenship Fightin' Tigers remained undefeated (3-0) on the year as they whipped the Ralls Jack Rabbits last Friday night 33-0. The Tigers had previously downed Hale Center 7-0 and Lorenzo 19-14.

The Tigers take this Friday night off but resume play Friday October 1 with a 7:30 p.m. district contest at Roosevelt.

Tiger tailback Weldon Brooks started the scoring in the first period as he circled left end for a 52-yard touchdown run. Danny Jewell kicked the extra point and the Tigers took a 7-0 lead over Ralls.

The score stood at 7-0 at halftime as several scoring threats by Frenship were thwarted due to penalties.

However, the Tigers poured it on the Rabbits in the third quarter as junior fullback Lloyd Strong rammed over the end zone from four yards out for the TD. The extra point failed but the Tigers went ahead 13-0.

Tailback Weldon Brooks got into the scoring act once again as he raced 59 yards for his second of three TD's on the night. Jewell tacked on the extra point and the Tigers surged ahead 20-0.

Brooks scored his third TD of the night for the Tigers as he carried the pigskin across the goal line from 23 yards out. Jewell again booted the extra point through the uprights and the Tigers took a 27-0 lead going into the final period.

The Tigers final TD of the game came on junior wingback Roy Cruz's 23-yard scamper. The PAT failed and the Tigers won the contest 33-0.

Senior tailback Weldon Brooks was the leading ball carrier for the Tigers as he toted the ball 18 times for 229 yards and scored three touchdowns. Wingback Roy Cruz had 92 yards on five carries and also scored one TD.

Questions Raised on Water Kitty Issue

The Citizens Against Water Taxes issued a statement this week in Austin contending that the approval of Amendment No. 1 for $400 million in Water Development Board bonds would add to a revolving fund with a potential total in excess of one billion dollars.

"The taxpayers of Texas are not being told the details of how the water development fund operates," said Wes Masters of Austin, speaking for the Citizens Against Water Taxes. "If the fund runs up a deficit for any fiscal year, the state treasury is required to pick up the tab. If the fund generates additional money above the amount required for that year's debt service, the difference reverts permanently to the development fund and not to the state treasury."

The Ropes High School Band will compete for a 1st thru 4th place trophy and money at the Panhandle South Plains Fair Parade Sept. 27th at 1:00 p.m. Hope to see a lot of RHS support.

When the Lubbock County Hospital District board proposed turning over management of the local teaching hospital to Texas Tech Medical School earlier this year, they were not the first group to make such a recommendation.

A little known and mostly forgotten paper—nicknamed the "Blasingame Report"—made a similar recommendation in April, 1970. That was six years before the LCHD board astounded local news media representatives and citizens with its own proposal.

So what happened to the report during the past six years? Not many people seem to know—it may have been stuck away in a drawer and all but forgotten.

"I've heard of it," commented Tech executive vice president Dr. Glenn Barnett.

"Several people have asked me about it," Barnett said, "but I can't find a copy and am not familiar with it."

Former med school dean Dr. John Buesseler also said he was familiar with the report—"but it's been some time ago."

The West Texas Times finally received a copy of the "Blasingame Report" from Dr. Richard A. Lockwood, vice president of the Health Sciences Centers.

"I'd never heard of this report until a couple of weeks ago," Lockwood said. He received his own copy of the report earlier this week.

Prepared by Blasingame Associates, a consulting firm based in Chicago, the report appears to be addressed to the Tech Board of Regents, Lockwood said.

Apparently the report came out before the decision was made to locate most of the hospital's ancillary services in the medical school, he said. The consulting firm seems to recommend that type of shared services set-up.

The final page of the report carries conclusions and recommendations made by the consulting firm. The following is an excerpt from the report:

"When an adequate hospital is ready for use, the medical school should seek to operate the hospital on a lease arrangement with the hospital district in accordance with authority granted the board of managers in House Bill 878, Sect. 11b."

According to the report, a much less satisfactory arrangement would be for the medical school to negotiate an agreement similar to those between the other hospital districts and medical schools in Texas.

"But," the report continued, "if this course is followed, a dichotomy will develop and persist to some degree. The medical school will be assuming greater risk, and more administrative differences will likely occur."

The report concludes, "It would, in short, be far better for the medical school to lease and operate the teaching hospital."

LCHD board chairman Marshall Pennington agrees with the conclusions reached in the report. "The more I've looked at the problem, the more convinced I've become that operation by the medical school is the solution to a number of problems," he said. "I'm convinced it's the only solution that will last."

According to Pennington, "The medical school controls the program—and that's essential. The hospital has to be under faculty control. Medical school takeover would automatically solve a number of problems. People at the medical school have the expertise to operate the hospital."

But Lockwood doesn't believe the report's conclusions are entirely feasible. Having the medical school take over management of the hospital would not be a solution to the long-range problems of the hospital's finances, he said.

"It will work both ways," observed W.B. "Dub" Harris, executive assistant to the medical dean.

"It's not unusual to have the hospital run by somebody else," Harris explained. "It's the rule—not the exception."

For example, Harris added, the teaching hospitals in San Antonio and Dallas are not operated by the universities they serve. But Duke University and Colorado university do operate their own hospitals.

Two major problems must be solved before a takeover of the hospital by the med school could be accomplished. Some officials said it will require enabling state legislation to allow Tech to operate the hospital.

Long ago, the state decided it didn't want to finance any more teaching hospitals based on experiences with John Sealey Hospital in Galveston. John Sealey was given to Texas as a gift—an expensive gift, as it's turned out.

The second problem lies with the hospital district assuming the capital debts on the hospital after the medical school takes over management. There's strong feeling among some officials that the revenue bonds used to build the hospital can be retired only by hospital revenue—not with tax money.

"Extension Update" Ropes Eagle Band Sponsors Spaghetti Supper Friday

From Georgia Doherty
Lubbock County Extension Agent
Green Potatoes Aren't For Eating
Steer away from green potatoes—they may taste bitter and even be poisonous to some people. This information was recently received in our office from State Food and Nutrition specialists.

Solanin, an alkaloid found in the green portions, is responsible for this. Greening of potatoes is caused by exposure to natural or artificial light. Sometimes only the skin is affected, but greening may penetrate the flesh, so beware!

Home gardeners should discard green potatoes harvested from their gardens. Healthy home-grown and commercially grown potatoes should be stored in a dark place away from sunlight or artificial light to prevent greening.

Proper storage can prevent greening and keep baking potatoes edible for several months, and new potatoes for several weeks. Don't wash potatoes before storing. The dampness increases the likelihood of decay. Use any cracked or bruised potatoes first.

Store potatoes in a cool (45 to 50 degrees F., if possible), dark place with good ventilation. Potatoes stored at 70 to 80 degrees F. should be used within a week or two because this higher temperature often causes sprouting and shriveling.

Also, avoid purchasing badly sprouted or shriveled potatoes or potatoes with irregular or knob-shaped growths because they are likely to cause a good bit of waste.

Consumer Update

For fall, try textured, tailored hose with pinstripes or diamonds in fashionable brown, mushroom, taupe, wine, rust, gray and black tints.

In 1975 the Ropes Eagle Band won sweepstakes for the first time in ten years, thanks to the hardworking director, Mr. Norris. That same year they took a band trip to a contest in Amarillo. In 1976 they won sweepstakes for the second time and with proceeds from their spaghetti supper toured schools in Colorado. This year they plan to make sweepstakes again and have another spaghetti supper!

At the Ropes cafeteria Friday, September 24, from 5:00 to 7:30 p.m. served will be spaghetti (all you can eat), french bread, salad, pie, coffee and tea. Adults $2.25, children under twelve $1.25.

Proceeds benefit Ropes band in activities and purchase of needed equipment. Contact band members for tickets.

Ropesville Junior Varsity and Junior High Teams Lose to New Home

A video tape of the game will be shown at booster club on Sept. 21.

Ropes Junior High (7th and 8th grades) lost to New Home Junior High 30 to 16 Thursday, Sept. 16. Ropes scores were on runs on Gene Valentine. This was the first game for Ropes Junior High Team. A video tape of the game will be shown at the booster club meeting on Sept. 21.

Bacon And Eggs— Now A New Salad

That traditional duo, bacon and eggs, becomes a trio when combined with western iceberg lettuce in "Bacon And Egg Salad," a refreshing salad that's hearty enough for a satisfying weekend supper. Crisp bite-size chunks of western iceberg lettuce are layered in a chilled salad bowl with crisp bacon pieces and hard-cooked egg slices and tossed at the last moment with a piquant dressing of sour cream, salad dressing, chopped egg and green onion.

Bacon And Egg Salad

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--|
| 1 head western iceberg lettuce | ¼ cup dairy sour cream |
| 6 strips bacon | 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion |
| 4 hard-cooked eggs | 1 teaspoon prepared mustard |
| 1 cup salad dressing | |

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce; refrigerate in disposable plastic bag or lettuce crisper. Cook bacon crisp; break into medium-large pieces. Slice 2 eggs. Coarsely chop remaining eggs and combine with salad dressing, sour cream, onion and mustard. When ready to serve, cut lettuce into bite-size chunks. Layer in chilled salad bowl with crisp bacon and sliced eggs. Toss with dressing and serve at once.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: If thinner dressing is desired, add a tablespoon of milk.

Coronation Held at Shallowater First Baptist Church

Sunday evening, Oct. 4, Coronation Services were held honoring girls at First Baptist Church in Shallowater who have been participating in Girl's Action and Acteens.

The theme for the service was "Treasures for Christ." The program was written and directed by Mrs. Sandra Conner. Preceding the processional, a testimony was given by Billy Glenn and a prayer by David Monteith.

First to be recognized by Mrs. Sue Jo Young, director of G.A.'s were new members. Linda Shropshire, Dana Blackburn, Anna Masten and Tonya Armes.

Four girls—Sheila Young, Dawn DuLaney, Mendi Pair, Renea Applegate—were awarded badges for having completed the work of Adventure I.

White collars with badges were given to each girl. The girls shared memory verses and other works which they had learned.

Cheryl Patter and Tonya Applegate received a second badge for having completed a second year of work. Mrs. Dora Greenway assisted in the presentation of awards.

In the Acteen organization six girls were crowned Queen. They had each participated in many activities, memorized scripture verses, read books and done several projects.

Lisa Bartlett was the first to receive her crown. Carol Masten was her crown bearer. Amy Armes carried the crown for Lela

Brock. Next came Seena Conner with Joel Hahenberger. Then Scott Gilmore carrying the crown for his sister, Dianne Dupler. Wayne Barnes was crown bearer for Sonja Gilmore and finally Vicki Pettiet with Mandy Carr. Two girls, who received their crown last year, completed work on the next step. Celeste Potter, with bearer Johna Pointer and Lori Semsack with Dona Kay Davidson were awarded sceptors. They each said Bible passages which they had learned.

Mrs. Bill Johnson, director of the Coronation, challenged each girl with the verse, "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father, which is in Heaven."

As the girls held candles, representing the light, Mrs. Theronne Baker sang "The Light of the World is Jesus."

Following the service, there was a reception honoring the girls.

Food - Fiber Institute Dedication Held

A new "command post in the battle against starvation" was dedicated here Sept. 14.

Lauding the concept of calling attention to agricultural accomplishments of the past as a foundation for meeting the challenges of the future, state and federal officials helped dedicate the Food and Fiber National Institute of Achievement.

The unique new institute, conceived by Lubbockites as a Bicentennial contribution, will attempt to show the vital role of food and fiber production play in the American way of life.

Cotton gin inventor Eli Whitney and pioneer cattle disease fighter Dr. Mark Francis were named as the first food and fiber trailblazers to be recognized in the institute's hall of honor.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White elicited strong applause when he told about 200 persons who gathered for afternoon dedication ceremonies at the Museum of Texas Tech University that "any person with any Christian instinct recognizes that we can't sit safe high on a mountain of food and not be concerned about the rest of the world."

It was a theme that would be echoed later in the day by Asst. U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Long, who used an evening banquet as the occasion to announce a major new Ford Administration push to increase funding levels for agricultural research.

Both White and Texas Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who also addressed the afternoon dedication, reeled off figures to amply demonstrate what the institute hopes to show the public—how important food and fiber production is, and how every American is affected by it.

Calling "food power" the nation's number one resource, White noted that the U.S. and Canada now produce 80 per cent of the world's exportable food and he predicted that in a very short time the U.S. will be producing very nearly 100 per cent of it.

Hobby noted that agriculture is a $20 billion-plus-per-year industry in Texas alone and pointed out that farmers who irrigate 8.5 million acres annually could be forced out of business if long-range water problems and short-range energy cost problems are not solved.

Following the dedication, the crowd of about 200 persons toured the new permanent institute exhibit in the Tech museum and the traveling exhibit "Cotton Comes Home," here for the opening.

"Cotton Comes Home" was produced by the Mississippi Craftsman's Guild to show how cotton can be used in crafts.

The institute exhibit details the development of the cotton (fiber) and beef cattle (food) industries through various audio-visual devices, including unique farmer and rancher mannequins which "talk" to visitors by means of a film cast on their faces. The exhibit also features a multi-screen, multi-media theatre where institute productions can be shown to visiting groups.

Many of the displays feature Black Americans, noted institute official John Arns. "Blacks were intimately involved in the production of cotton," he said.

The institute will produce slide-cassette programs, monographs and videotapes designed to carry its message where its traveling display, already in operation, cannot go. The traveling exhibit will be part of the State Fair of Texas in Dallas in October.

Individuals who have made significant contributions will be added to the hall of honor each year from new fields of food and fiber production. Cotton and beef cattle were chosen for the first year because of their importance to the West Texas area.

The institute, which backers hope will eventually be supported financially by individuals, businesses and organizations interested in agriculture, is now funded by the Texas Legislature, the City and County of Lubbock, the Lubbock Board of City Development, and the state and national Bicentennial commissions.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

You really didn't learn too much about the real strength or weaknesses of SWC teams last weekend insofar as the league race is concerned; there were no conference games.

But you did learn a little more about the caliber of the teams. For instance, Texas was hard pressed to beat North Texas State; A&M showed its usual defensive strength; Houston, TCU and SMU were humiliated; Arkansas snapped a jinx and Rice showed more firepower than anticipated.

The conference lost three of four games to Southeast Conference foes—Alabama, Florida and Tennessee, while beating Auburn—and won both games against Big 8 foes. They also won a WAC game and defeated an independent.

That gave the conference a 5-3 record in the second week to go with a 3-1 first round mark—and 8 of 12 isn't bad. That's .667 for two weeks and is definitely a winning edge.

Even with Earl Campbell back, Texas had its problems with North Texas. Admittedly, the Eagles had everything to win and nothing to lose, while the Longhorns could hardly have been high for the game. Still, the Horns had to struggle.

And Arkansas, with a walk on quarterback doing most of the work, beat an Oklahoma State team that had embarrassed the Razorbacks three years in succession.

Baylor rebounded with a victory over an Auburn team that doesn't appear to be particularly strong, having been beaten soundly by an Arizona team that was wiped out by UCLA.

And the Owls accomplished little against a Utah team that was horrible last year, probably not much improved in 1976. As for Houston and SMU, their wipeouts were most unexpected. The Cougars were said to have a good solid team after beating Baylor.

As for new SMU Coach Ron Meyer, he must not have taken his entire squad. It must be presumed that he left regulars at home because they were filled with enough doubt that they didn't board the plane.

It was, overall, a good weekend for the conference, but there were no really impressive interconference victories. Indeed, the scheduling helped SEC teams fatten their record.

The Raiders had the weekend off and it should be helpful. Bruises ought to have healed and injured players had a chance to get healthy again.

Meanwhile, Tech had a chance to drill for both New Mexico and A&M, in all probability. Really, the primary concern probably were the Lobos, who usually play Tech tough. For the New Mexicans, it's the equivalent of a bowl game to play the Raiders.

Two years ago Tech visited Albuquerque and did an excellent job of being less than impressive. They blew a lead and let the Lobos tie them a week after an impressive win over Iowa State.

The week's rest, of course, should have given the Raiders time to get over their defeat of Colorado. They should have thoughts this week of nothing except playing their best against New Mexico. If they do that, they should win handsomely.

I was talking with J.T. King the other day and asked why teams like Oklahoma and Alabama were so intent on winning that they took any action against them to the courts.

Jake agreed that he hated to see strictly collegiate matters go to the courts. He thought that these problems should be solved through the NCAA. And he was quick to point out that the decision in favor of Oklahoma on coaching staff size was strictly an Oklahoma court ruling and affected only OU.

"Personally, I feel like eight assistant coaches is enough," Jake declared. "But when Steve (Sloan) came here, we honored his request for coaches. And we felt that we were obligated to keep those assistants under the terms of the contract he received."

"I thought the NCAA acted too hastily," Jake said. "I would have liked to see natural attrition serve as the way to reduce assistants. It was shocking to have it come immediately."

Before players exult too much over the defeat of the NFL player draft, it might be wise to look at the chaos that well might take place. Without a systematic way of securing college players, the whole picture could be a nightmare.

The players' main concern, of course, is salary, and there's not too much bargaining under the draft. But, what if a player refused to sign under unrestricted bidding because he didn't think he was getting enough—and then no one wanted him?

One of the major troubles today in almost every sport is that players have agents and/or advisors. Sometimes the agent does a good job, sometimes he hurts his client.

Duane Thomas probably could have stayed with Dallas and gone down as an all time great halfback. We'll never know, because we've been told he was the victim of bad advice. All in all, the owners generally are fairminded in their dealings.
