

O'DANIEL ASKS SIMPLER FINANCING

France Yields To Franco's Terms On Recognition

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Foreign Minister Bonnet was reported today to have bowed to Insurgent Generalissimo Franco by dropping all the conditions on which France had sought to make formal recognition of the nationalist regime government.

France at first sought guarantees from Franco that foreign troops would quit Spain after the war and Spanish government leaders would not be subjected to reprisals, but Franco refused to outline his future policy.

Pushed by Great Britain and anxious to send an ambassador to Burgos to work against Italian and German influence, Bonnet was said by diplomats to have instructed his semi-official envoy, Senator Leon Bernard, to meet Franco's terms.

When Bernard returns to Burgos tomorrow from St. Jean-de-Luz, he is expected to tell the nationalist foreign minister, Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, that full diplomatic recognition would be forthcoming from France without further discussion.

With the British envoy, Sir Hodgson, he is expected to propose the names of French and British ambassadors for Franco's approval.

Hwy. Appointment Is Argued Anew

West Texas Defended By Abilene
Solon; Hearing Date Due To Be Set

AUSTIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—Conflict between Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and a senate faction over the state highway commission appointment echoed a second time today in the house of representatives.

Rep. Harvey Miller, 25-year-old law student from Fort Arthur, accused the governor of violating rules of fair play in denying East Texas the appointment. J. C. Hunter of Abilene was named to the position.

Rep. J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene deplored the cry of sectionalism which he said East Texans had raised and said the new commissioner would serve all Texas, not any particular section.

Meanwhile Sen. Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur, chairman, announced the senate committee on governor's nominations probably would meet later in the day to set a hearing date on confirmation of Hunter.

Rivers charged the governor's actions so far had "shown a reckless disregard of everything precedent, political and traditional and, with two or three exceptions, everything reasonable."

"The claim of East Texas to representation on the state highway commission," he continued, "is one which should be granted in the interest of fair play. No one is more desirous than I of harmony between the governor and the legislature. But the governor's actions thus far have not been conducive to harmony."

"If we're not careful, more crimes will be committed in the name of the common people this year than at any other time in recent years. Many of the people in my district already are saying 'we voted for Governor O'Daniel but we're not careful.'"

They were back in their cells and the killing of Connally came a few minutes after the sheriff, investigating the break, went to his cell.

Deputy Sheriffs Estes and Ledwell captured Terrell near Waxahachie creek.

Two unarmed youths caught the other negro near the railroad station. The prisoners, who were trustees, were charged with burglary of the Trumbull gin.

State Securities Reorganization Plan Opposed

DALLAS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Opinion was expressed in investment circles here today that proposed reorganization of the securities division of the secretary of state's office would nullify much of the work of the division against fraudulent practices.

The reorganization, announced yesterday by assistant Secretary of State Claude Williams, would abolish permanent personnel in district offices in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston, Big Spring and Tyler.

Fred R. Deaton, Texas sales manager of the Brown-Crummer Investment company, said securities brokers and dealers considered permanent personnel necessary for efficient enforcement of the securities law.

He said, since the law was preventative in nature, only by constant watchfulness could swindlers and their fraudulent securities be stopped before they could do any harm.

VOTE TO CONTINUE BANKING AGENCY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Over protest of republicans that the action might result in leading this nation into war, the house voted today to continue functions of the Export-Import bank to June 30, 1941.

It passed and sent to the senate a measure extending the bank, and the Commodity Credit Corporation, to that date. The bill also would raise from $500,000,000 to $900,000,000 the amount of securities the credit corporation could have outstanding at any one time.

Recommends Abolition Of Many Funds

Also Proposes Improvement Of Tax Collections

AUSTIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today recommended to the legislature abolition of at least 55 funds in which the state keeps its money and provision for a more centralized method of handling its finances.

The governor's message pointed out that funds of the state government now are deposited in 105 accounts.

"Some of these separate funds must, of course, be maintained," the message said. "It would seem these funds could be divided roughly into the following groups:

Those which the constitution of the state requires to be maintained; other funds which must be maintained because of the relationship between the state and federal government.

"There are also bond, endowment and investment funds as well as certain law enforcement funds. Based on the study which I have made, I believe at least 55 of these funds can be abolished."

The governor asserted belief a bill could be enacted to increase the efficiency of state tax collection. He said:

"It seems to me that a bill could be enacted which would increase the efficiency of our system of collecting state taxes, simplify the system of accounts now kept by the state treasurer, centralize the records of the fiscal affairs of the state in a single office (that of the comptroller) and at the same time give further protection against loss in collection of state revenues and establish more direct legislative control of public expenditures."

"Sound business policy makes necessary that in so far as possible all state revenue be deposited immediately in the state treasury and paid out only in response to direct legislative appropriation."

The governor urged early attention to the subject, which he submitted as emergency legislation.

In a separate memorandum attached to what he termed a "rough draft" of a bill to accomplish the purpose of the message, Governor O'Daniel said there might be other instances where funds could be abolished or some of those he suggested eliminating might have to be retained.

"I believe," he said, "there should be added to this bill at the proper place a section or sections directing that hereafter all revenue collected by the state government or any of its agencies must be deposited in the state treasury and paid out only on direct legislative appropriation."

"Of course, the constitution in some cases controls this matter, but in most instances it seems to me that the legislature should provide for every dollar of the state expended be included in the biennial budget."

SHERMAN, Feb. 21 (AP)—Estimated damage of $20,000 was done when flames destroyed the Sadler school near here late yesterday.

PLAN FOR STATE OFFICE BUILDING

Committee Seeks Way To Finance Skyscraper

AUSTIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—Erection of a towering state building to house various departments now paying some $200,000 in annual rentals got studied consideration from the house committee, that quizzed department heads until early today.

The committee on public buildings, looking everywhere for economy measures that could provide funds for the Austin skyscraper without direct taxation on the people, probed deep into departmental finances in a six-hour session.

Reliable sources said a skyscraper, costing in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 had been planned.

Chairman Robert Wood of the house committee on public buildings interrogated every ranking state official in search for funds and in an effort to pare the state's rental expenditures.

Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith estimated the commission could give an approximate $110,000 annually towards a new state building. He said economies effected in his department, and a potential 20 per cent. slash in expenses of the department is housed in one building, would make it possible.

LOCAL BAKERY AGAIN OWNED BY MEAD

Announcement was made Tuesday of the sale of Knott's Bakery to W. L. Mead, formerly of Abilene and former owner of the business. Mead sold the firm to W. H. Knott of McKinney in June of last year, and the re-sale was consummated Monday.

Knott has returned to McKinney, where he has other business interests.

Mead announced that J. V. Gant, who was associated with him in the deal of last year, would manage the business here again. Gant, well known locally, already has assumed management.

The bakery is located at 111-113 West Second street. Mead said special information would be revealed in advertising this week.

BOMBING OF HONGKONG BY JAPS BRINGS A VIGOROUS PROTEST FROM BRITISH GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Great Britain today sent a "vigorous protest" to Japan over bombing of Hongkong territory by Japanese planes. The foreign office radioed Sir Robert Leake Craigie, British ambassador to Tokyo, to protest immediately to the Japanese government in the strongest terms.

Dispatches from Hongkong said a railroad station inside the crown colony border was bombed by Japanese planes. Nine persons, including a British Indian soldier, were killed and about a dozen other persons injured.

Officials said Sir Robert also was directed to press for a reply to the British note of January 16 asking clarification of Japanese intentions toward maintenance of an open door to trade in China.

(The United States on December 31 and France on January 19 made similar representations to Japan.)

Britain long has disputed Japan's apparent intention to restrict foreign commerce in China and Manchukuo and form these two countries into a single, virtually closed economic bloc with Japan.

Japanese conquest of Canton October 21 brought to the fore the question of the future of Hongkong, which has been south China's major outlet to the sea.

The crown colony was ceded by China to Great Britain in January, 1841. A British naval and military station of first-class importance, Hongkong began as an island colony but was extended to the mainland south of Canton through cession of the Kowloon peninsula to Britain and leasing of a portion of Chinese territory. Its area is 356 square miles.)

The British government also was understood to have regretted Tokyo's delay in explaining fully Japanese intentions with regard to the island of Hainan, off the French Indo-China coast, where Japanese troops landed February 10.

School Districts Get $22,000 In Current Taxes

Common school districts of Howard county Tuesday had received the encouraging news that current tax collections had netted them more than $22,000.

County Supt. Anne Martin's office was in receipt of taxes totaling $23,524.61 from the tax collector. Of the amount, $22,555.97 was current and $968.79 delinquent.

It was divided as follows: Current local maintenance $20,881.28 and interest and sinking fund $1,974.69; and delinquent local maintenance $508.85 and interest and sinking fund $467.79.

QUAKERS REUNITE TO AID REFUGEES

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Feb. 21 (AP)—A common desire to aid German refugees has brought together two factions of West Branch Quakers split since 1880 and forecast new attention for the little Iowa community where former President Herbert Hoover was born.

Seventy-five Quakers, representing 10 Iowa settlements, and both the conservative and progressive wings of the faith here, have joined hands in a project to provide a refuge home and readjustment center for victims of Nazi Germany's economic and political alterations.

Transportation Issue Replaces That Of Pensions

AUSTIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—The governor's bruised transaction tax proposal designed to pay the old folks—top issue in the dizzy legislative whirl to date—staggered to the first house discussion of the truck load limit law.

Bitter fight over the present 7,000-pound limit law shifted to the house where a committee planned to hear testimony concerning the proposed plan to raise the limit to 20,000 pounds.

Grains, vegetables, alfalfa, vegetable, cattle, goat, sheep and other shipments by truck, contending the present law was discriminatory, unjust, harsh and slowing developments of whole sections of the state, prepared to ask for the increase.

Opponents, just as determined in their stand, contended in recent senate hearings that two bills now up for consideration would wreck the state's transportation industry, ruin the railroads, stifle business in small towns, trim revenues from railroad taxation and crowd the highways with trucks menacing lives.

A senate sub-group of the highways and motor traffic committee, headed by Sen. Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, author of the bills, may depart on bill from the two it is considering at the whole committee's meeting tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Gerald Mann prepared to disavow injunctions granted by District Judges Tryce Ferguson of Edinburg and H. F. Kirby of Groesbeck which halted enforcement of the load limit law.

C. Of C. Opposes Discontinuance Of T&P Trains

Will Protest Curtailment Of Day Service At Commission Hearing

Directors of the Big Spring chamber of commerce took action Monday night on two matters of rail transportation, voting to enter a protest against the T&P's application to discontinue service on Trains 3 and 4 between Big Spring and Sweetwater, and also voting affiliation with the Freight Rate Equality Federation, an organization devoted to removing of readjustment of the nation's freight rate zones.

Formal notice that the C. of C. would appear as a protestant against the T&P's plea for curtailing its day train service in and out of here went Tuesday to the Texas railroad commission, which has set a hearing on the application for February 28, in Big Spring.

Want Full Information

Directors made it clear they are protesting the application principally to bring about a full hearing of the case, so that information as to train operations, service factors, mail delivery, etc., will be established. President Cal Boykin was instructed to name a special committee to handle the chamber's part in the railroad commission hearing.

The railroad recently announced it would seek to discontinue Trains 3 and 4 between here and Sweetwater because of continued operating losses. The Rail Brotherhoods are fighting the application, and representatives of these groups were before the C. of C. directors Monday night to proffer aid in compiling data pertinent to the case.

The Colorado chamber of commerce has taken a similar stand. Other towns affected by the proposed discontinuance are Coahoma, Westbrook, Lorraine and Roscoe. The local organization lined up with others in West Texas in affiliating with the Freight Rate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A bill described by Sen. Connally as designed "to correct the inequalities and discriminations in freight rates in Texas and the southwest" was introduced by the Texas yesterday.

The senator said a concerted drive would be made for enactment of a measure "upon which all can unite" when the senate's interstate commerce committee begins hearings Feb. 27 on several similar bills.

A provision of the bill introduced by Connally was that the interstate commerce commission investigate and determine the inequalities in freight rates between different sections of the United States.

MOVE TO REDUCE TVA FUND LOSSES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The senate rejected today a proposal to cut an administration-sponsored TVA appropriation by $4,252,000.

The reduction was proposed by Senator Adams (D-Colo.) who contended it would represent a "start toward reducing the government's vast expenditures."

Adams sought to eliminate a $4,252,000 allocation for beginning construction of a new Tennessee Valley Authority dam at Watts Bar, 40 miles downstream from Knoxville on the Tennessee river.

VIOLENCE MARKS NAZIS' MEETING

FACES CHARGE IN STEALING GIRL OF 8

EL CENTRO, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—Manacled for a trip back to Pasadena to face a charge of child stealing, 40-year-old Townsend Davis, gardener and church organist, told a shocking story today, police said, of his attempted flight to Arizona with golden-haired Anne Louise Swelter, 8.

The man and his tiny companion were seized late yesterday as his old sedan approached the state border.

Faint from an attack of nausea, Anne Louise was not able to be questioned, but admissions by Davis, Policewoman Anita Teft said, probably will result in moral charges being filed against him.

As reported by police, Davis told of spending Sunday night with the girl in a single room at Indio, because he "didn't have money enough to rent two rooms." When he was arrested, he had $2.30 and a religious tract in his pockets.

"I guess I did something rash, but she wanted to leave home. I considered her some a bad environment for her," Davis was quoted as saying.

Fights Flare Up; Several Arrests Are Made

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—In a Nazi demonstration that filled vast Madison Square Garden, leaders of the German-American Bund stood last night under the sign of the swastika to denounce "international Jewry," some members of the Roosevelt cabinet, and any American alliance with European democracies.

While uniformed storm troopers marched intermittently inside the Garden—which at official estimate held 20,000—a moving throng of anti-Nazis, theatergoers and the merely curious, milled about in the streets outside.

About 1,500 police reserves stood guard over the area, while violence erupted inside the Garden and out.

As Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the bund, was concluding a peroration against Jews, Isadore Greenbaum, slight, 28-year-old hotel worker, leaped upon the great stage and ran toward the speaker.

Instantly, a dozen or more storm troopers set upon him, knocking him down and beating him as he held his head in his arms.

A squad of police, rushed the storm troopers aside, picked him up.

Navy Planes Wrecked In Dense Fog

Two Pilots Killed, Others Escape By 'Bailing Out'

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Trapped in a dense fog, eight navy planes were wrecked and two pilots killed on a routine training flight last night.

Rain washed away the fog at dawn today, disclosing the full toll to officers of the Pensacola naval air station.

Six student fliers escaped by bailing out in the darkness in their first parachute jumps. Four pilots landed safely in south Alabama.

Lieut. G. F. Presser, Sr., a Brazilian navy officer receiving regular training here, died when his plane crashed and burned at Corry Field, where land planes are quartered.

Lieut. N. M. Ostergren was found in his wrecked and burned plane near McDavid, Fla., about 20 miles north of Pensacola. The fog kept his fate a mystery until after dawn, when scouting planes took to the air for a search of the entire section.

Lieut. J. F. Monroe, aide to the commandant said there was nothing anxious ground crews could do except wait for the pilots to jump. The planes, standard naval single-seater Boeings, with high landing speed that makes it difficult for them to alight on soft ground, were not equipped with radio.

Four of the deserted ships fell on the government reservation. In addition to Lieut. Presser, another Brazilian officer, Lieut. A. C. F. Florio, was in the group. He leaped to safety.

The two Brazilian officers were in training under a long-standing naval policy of aiding South and Central American countries to prepare their fighting forces, said those close to the air station.

Those two were in their final test flight along with the other students.

BANKS, POSTOFFICE WILL BE CLOSED ON WEDNESDAY

Banks and the postoffice will observe a holiday Wednesday, the 20th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Business in other lines will go on about as usual, with only school groups paying special tribute to the Father of His Country.

Banks will suspend business for the entire day. At the postoffice, only the general delivery will be open—for an hour, from 11 a. m. to noon. There will be no city delivery.

Tomorrow is a special date for several religious beliefs, too. It is Ash Wednesday, marking the beginning of Lent.

HELD IN JAIL HERE

J. W. Kearby, Seagraves, was held in the Howard county jail Tuesday in lieu of fines and court costs amounting to $130. Kearby, who was returned here from Seagraves by Carl Mercer, constable, was fined $100 and costs by Justice of Peace J. H. Heffley on a bogus check charge.

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

Allen McCorvey, the Dallas lad who licked Big Spring's Ellis Read and in turn was shellacked by Morris Corona in the finals of the statewide Golden Gloves boxing tournament at Ft. Worth, last night told your observer before his fabled challenge that he was quite surprised when he found that he had earned the nod over Read. Of the Tiger he was respectful, said he took a terrific body and face attack. He added he believed the tide changed when he changed to body concentration, himself, after seeing that he could not hurt the Big Springer with head blows.

Ft. Worth in general was impressed with the improvement of Ellis over his form of a year ago. Ellis, they informed, looked to great advantage in disposing of Raymond Darnell, Houston, Saturday afternoon.

McCorvey took a hard shellacking in the finals. The taller Corona smartly played a long game, coming in close but occasionally and the determined Allen could never keep him still long enough to hit effectively.

Of all the champions crowned, Corona and Elby Pettaway, Houston middleweight, probably have the best chance to win in Chicago.

George Porter, Dallas' fifty-welter who was awarded a gold statuette for winning the 147-pound crown in the tournament, looks not unlike Johnny Owens, the Big Spring boy attending Texas A&M who also fought in the meeting.

Porter, incidentally, is a devout Catholic, prayed immediately before a fight and between each round. Whether divine guidance or pure ability shapes the outcome of his battles he swings a neat paw.

Like Porter, Hugh Pitts, Fort Worth lightweight, evidently is a faithful Christian. Hugh would not be caught without the family Bible in his corner. Usually a colored second grasps the book where Hugh can gaze at it.

Serving as one of the referees in the big finale was Milton Coffey, promising Texas Tech mid-dweight of several years back. Milton is a better "third man" than Billy Montgomery.

Trainer of the Pampa team at the meeting was none other than Cliff Chambers, the same old grise-ear who appeared here frequently with Herman Fuhrer's wrestling shows several years back. Cliff has been living in Pampa for the past three years.

Ray Bumpers, the 167 pounder who lost to T. B. Stanford, Fort Worth, in the finals of the featherweight division, entered as a guard on the Sam Houston State Teachers college football team.

A noticeable superstition was the one employed by Eddie Russey, Wichita Falls, the new feather champ. When Eddie dons his robe, he orders it thrown into a neutral corner.

Dallas baseball fans can't make up their minds as to what they want to call George Shepps' Texas league team this season. Thus far the following names have been suggested: Texans, Trojans, Gordians, Crusaders, Blues, Marketers, Ducks, Pioneers, Cliff Dwellers, Belters, Aces, Athletics, Rams, North Texans, Wholesalers, Confederates, Shepherds, Broncos, Dangers, Tigers, Bluebonnets, Navigators, City of Hour, Toppers, Metropolitans, Bowlers, Tylers, Virgins, Daisies, Doll, Jittersburgs and Foundations.

WOOD HANGS UP NEW RECORDS

BROWNVILLE, Feb. 21 (AP)—Two outdoor racing records fell here yesterday under the onslaught of Gar Wood, Jr.

Wood's Class A hydroplane made 47.58 miles per hour, bettering the 45.76 mark set by Clinton Ferguson in 1935. He also bettered the amateur Class C hydroplane record which he set yesterday at 58.15 miles per hour. Twice he negotiated the mile course, in 58.82 and 58.95.

Tony Sisti To Exhibit Paintings, But He Also Proves Himself To Be An Artist With The Gloves

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Tony Sisti, who lives in Buffalo and teaches painting in Buffalo and New York, will expose his work to the art critics Monday, when a one-man show of his oil paintings and sketches opens at a mid-town gallery. But the art critics will be a week late. They should have seen Tony last night.

Ten and fifteen years ago, Sisti, on his record, was a pretty fair club fighter. After winning the western New York amateur bantamweight title by beating five guys in one night, he turned pro and campaigned as a lightweight around Buffalo and Detroit and across the border in Canada.

Meanwhile he had been studying art. When he decided to extend his studies to Europe he took his boxing gloves with him, and had better than average success in France, Italy and Holland.

Then he hung up the mitts and concentrated on the paint brush and palette—until last night, when he came back to fight once more, to raise rent money for the gallery where his pictures are being hung. But it wasn't a bout for a boxing writer to judge. The boxing writer would have known Sisti was 35 years old and hadn't been in the ring in ten years. The boxing writer would have seen that Tony's rival, before going down for the second and last time in 1:18 of the first round, hadn't landed a blow.

The art critic, though, could have ignored all that. He could have concentrated on the fact that Sisti threw enough punches to do credit to Henry Armstrong.

The art critic could have admitted the technique, the master-touch put in by Freddy Salatti, Sisti's opponent. The art critic, in fact, could have agreed with the ringster who said:

"A work of art, that's what it was." Is there an art critic in the house?

HOPPER TAKES OVER SCORING LEAD IN M-C CAGE RACE AS COAHOMA CLINCHES CROWN

Big Dave Counts 35 Points In Planters Tilt

While Coahoma's Oilers were clinching first place in Major-City basketball league standings in final games at the high school gymnasium Monday evening, the amazing Dave Hopper, aided and abetted by team mates, was tallying 35 points in the Bankers' 64-35 triumph over Planter's Glinners to beat out the previous leader, Jake Morgan, for the loop's individual scoring lead.

Hopper's 17 field goals and a gratis loss gave him a total of 113 for the year, 13 more than Morgan who tallied 14 against Garner.

Garner pulled the prize upset when it triumphed over Vaughn's, 45-38. The victory elevated the Bankers to a tie for second place along with Vaughn's and the Bankers.

The Coahomans had an easy time with R-Bar, winning, 52-29. Hershel Wheeler dropped in 19 points for the victors, 17 of them coming in the opening period.

STARTERS IN THE SANTA ANITA DERBY TO BE NAMED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21 (AP)—Starting candidates for the Santa Anita derby were ready to be announced today, but the outcome of the fifth renewal of this $50,000 feature will remain a matter of varied speculation until the three-year-olds actually hit the finish wire late tomorrow afternoon at Santa Anita park.

Turf experts can usually reach some kind of agreement on a favorite in a race for age horses, but this derby—certainly more so than the 1938 edition—finds favoritism scattered over a number of velvety horses.

Anywhere from 15 to 20 colts and fillies were expected to be named today for the mile and one furlong special, and track officials predicted almost a score would go to the post for a whack at the handsome purse.

LOUIS TO TRAIN AT DUDE RANCH

VICTORVILLE, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—A negro dude ranch, which claims to be the only one of its kind in the world, was being prepared today as a training camp for Joe Louis in defense of his heavyweight boxing title against Jack Roper.

Louis' fight with the 36-year-old Roper is scheduled for Los Angeles in April.

Son Of Inco Is Favored In Florida

Technician Liked In Next Saturday's Flamingo Stakes

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—The great Inco, daddy of Lawrin, in dead of accumulated ills and old age up in Missouri, but has left another son down here named Technician that promises to carry on and add new lustre to the famous line.

At the moment Technician is co-favorite with Volitant in the $20,000 Flamingo stakes, mile and a furlong classic for three-year-olds to be run at Hialeah next Saturday. His trainer, Ben Jones, thinks he has an excellent chance of winning both that and the Kentucky Derby.

Jones pointed out that Technician's half-brother, Lawrin, won the Flamingo a year ago and went on to capture the Derby. He thinks Technician can do it, too, though he is the first to point out that there's many a slip between the post and the winning wire.

"No man living can tell about thoroughbred horses," he said. "We raised them like a family of children and devote twice as much time to them, but you can't tell how they're going to come out. I know in Technician looks just as good at this stage as Lawrin did a year ago."

The odds against winning the Kentucky Derby twice in succession are reflected in the fact that Colonel E. R. Bradley is the only owner to have done it so far. He captured two in a row with Broke's Tip and Burgoon King a few years back, but the feat still is in the same miraculous category with getting a good haircut in a strange shop.

115 ENTRIES IN THE DERBY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 21 (AP)—One hundred and fifteen entries, 12 more than were nominated last year, have been received for the 95th running of the $500,000 added Kentucky derby May 6.

Col. Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, said entries included William Ziegler's El Chico, credited by some persons as the likely choice for winter-book favorite; W. E. Boone's Porter's Mite, winner of the Belmont Futurity last fall; Joe W. Brown's T. M. Donnet; Belair stud's Johnston; Col. E. R. Bradley's Benefactor; A. G. Vanderbilt's In Newton; Mrs. Beattie Frausheimer's Zalapa Clown; Tom Taggart's Yale O' Mine; John March's Light Spur and H. W. Jackson's Ariel Toy.

is the latest prospective lure for fans of the indoor game.

Chicago promoters Harry Hannin and Harry Wilson said yesterday they were planning a tournament for Chicago, March 26-28, among the nation's 12 best pro teams.

A team from the South will be invited.

Elby Triumphs Over Eagleton By Decision

Dallasite Is Impressive In Victory Over Dude Massey

By HANK HART

FT. WORTH, Feb. 20.—Busy, ever busy Elby Pettaway, an overgrown welter who lost to classy Art Dorrell in the finals of the 147-pound class here last year, and Andy Eagleton, light middleweight from Azle, supplied a fitting climax to the statewide Golden Gloves boxing tournament at the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum Monday evening by waltzing through three heats of furious and fast mitt slinging.

The giant crowd obviously was with Eagleton, a slender killer who before he stepped into the ring for the bout that meant so much, has finished off every one of his previous tournament opponents in less than the required time, but, if so, it was to be disappointed. Pettaway finally got inside where he could swing his piston like gloves and swing them he did. He earned the unanimous decision of the judges, shining with a hit and run attack.

In the final analysis Amartillo could boast of two champions in Bob Owens, giant heavy, and Delmar Koch, lightweight. Other top fighters were from widely scattered sectors. George Porter, the welter king hails from Dallas, featherweight Eddie Russey from Wichita Falls, bantamweight T. B. Stanford from Fort Worth and Harold Lawler, flyweight, from Tyler.

The evening's initial offering saw Lawler, using a polished left duke pull an upset in defeating Ray Bumpers, the 1937 bantam king. Early in the mix Hal was connecting with a right but meeting a left tossed by Bumpers. He remedied that error, however, in the second heat and the mulling was even-Stephen. In the third he flicked his right hand in the right direction and the Houstonian hit the deck for a five count. That was the blow that was the best. They were slugging too to see with Bumpers getting the better of it at the bell.

Stanford pulled a decided upset in triumphing over Richard Menchaca, Fort Arthur, flyweight titlist of 1938. T. B. was carrying the fight from the start and was the aggressor all the way. The Fort Worth laddie was down for a no-count in the second stanza but showed little effects of the maestro's flurries when he came out for the third. Dick, always a threat from the left side, was scoring with his favorite weapon, a straight overhand hook in the third, but Stanford was giving and taking.

The evening's third bout saw Owens, who took up fighting around a steel mill, use his height and weight to advantage to dispose of Fort Worth's Pat Thornhill in round two.

Fat was beating the Amarillo loan to the punch early but Bob in finally found the range and whaled away. Thornhill was down twice in the first frame, the second occasion hitting the ropes and bouncing so far he knocked a broadcaster's microphone into saw dust but somehow he hung on until the

MUSTANGS TRIM AGGIES TO RETAIN BARE CHANCE AT SOUTHWEST LOOP FLAG

Wilkerson Is Top Scorer With 16

By the Associated Press

Tied for fourth place with the Baylor university Bears, the Southern Methodist university Mustangs today clung tenaciously to a bare chance for the Southwest conference cage title.

The Mustangs' 45-35 defeat of the Texas Aggies last night spelled the difference between a chance for the title and the termination of even a look-in.

The victory gave the Methodists six wins in ten starts. It was the seventh loss in nine games for the Aggies.

Last night's game was marked by roughness. Referee Jack Sisco punished Mustang Charlie Sprague for tripping Tom Tinker of the Aggies. Later, Jude Smith, another Aggie forward, took a hard spill under the Methodists' basket and had to leave the game.

The Mustangs were paced by Virgil Wilkerson, who was high-point man with 16.

The lowly T. C. U. Frogs are scheduled to tackle the conference-leading University of Texas Longhorns in Austin Thursday. The same night, the second-place Rice Owls will play Baylor in Waco. The third-place Arkansas Razorbacks are to entertain the Aggies at Fayetteville Friday night.

IN GRAVE CONDITION

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—Hope ebbed today for Capt. Paul Roark, British polo star, as he continued unconscious from a critical brain injury he suffered in an international match last Sunday.

second when Owens really did go to town. Referee Montgomery stepped in to stop the one-sided affair.

Came In Second

Koch also required but two rounds to work over Fort Worth's Hugh Pitts. Hugh was the aggressor early but deserted when Koch began to concentrate on a head attack. Delmar, a straight up fighter who can hit with both hands, had Pitts in a bad way early in the first inning but couldn't stow him away and had to wait until he could pump both hands into the Fort Worthian's face in the second.

In the feather mix Russey had to go the limit with R. H. Robertson, Pampa, but went out by taking the offensive. Robertson was back-pedaling most of the time but was hurting Russey at intervals. The Wichita Falls lad grew faster with the bout progressed and was hooking with plenty of gusto as the final bell gonged.

Second only to Pettaway's triumph was George Porter's welter victory over Dude Massey, Borger. Porter was pumping both hands constantly, operating expertly on Massey's mid section. Massey's best bet was an overhand right which scored but had little effect on the classy Dallas youngster.

In the third they were exchanging long rights when Porter came in close and clipped Massey nearly for a one way ride. Dude bounced but was never the same and the judges had but one decision.

The winners, awarded with gold trophies at the ringside, also earned a trip to Chicago and the national final. The losers were given silver statuettes.

Golfers Prep For Houston Tournament

Practice Rounds Preliminary To Invitation Meet

HOUSTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A flock of Houston amateurs today prepared to tee off in the practice rounds for the Houston invitation golf tournament in the hope some of them will find enough encouragement to come back tomorrow for the qualifying round.

Their scores today won't mean a thing. They will just be playing for the love of the game, but that's the way amateurs are anyway. They all love the game else they wouldn't spend their money and time in trying to beat amateurs like Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Neb.; John Barnum of Edinburg, surprise amateur of the Texas Open; Lieut. Ken Rogers of Atlanta, Ga.; Bobby Reigel of Houston, Texas amateur champion; Walter Emery of Houston, defending tourney champion; O'Hara Watts and Don Schumacher of Dallas, and Hank Bow Beer of Chicago, and a flock of others.

Goodman, national amateur champion in 1937, blew in from New Orleans yesterday for his third crack at the Houston amateur title. He shot a non-impressive 75 in a practice round.

Gus Novotny of Memphis, Tenn., breezed around in 66 strokes and was shooting from the back tees. Some of the gallery looked upon the Tennessee as a possible finalist after match play gets underway Thursday.

Freddie Haas, the New Orleans amateur, and Richard Arlen, motion picture player, both of whom had indicated they would play in the tourney, informed tournament officials yesterday they would be unable to compete.

READY FOR COTTON

EL PASO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Walter Hagen, on his way to the Houston invitation golf meet, said here yesterday he was "open" to accept a match with Henry Cotton, British star.

"I've got the old touch," Hagen confided.

President Again Reminds Backers They Must Take Stand

Committee workers and fans are urged to be in attendance at the baseball meeting which will be held in the district court room of the county court house this evening, 7:30 o'clock.

President R. L. Cook, who called the confab, said a checkup on the success of the campaigners in the drive for $7,000 would be made.

Cook said he was hopeful the professional baseball outlook would be more promising here after tonight. Last week Cook and the directors threatened to withdraw Big Spring from the WT-NM league if more cooperation from the fans was not shown.

Gabby Hartnett Heads A Group To Training Camp, Promises That There'll Be Some Real Work

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, 36-year-old manager-catcher of the Chicago Cubs knows wherever baseball is known for his joviality, has turned tough guy.

Gabby herded a group of pitchers and catchers on the train last night and headed for Catalina Island, spring training quarters for the Cubs. But before he left he gave the players some idea of what to expect when the drills begin Friday.

"I don't have any new radical ideas on the method of spring training," said Gabby, who became manager in mid-season last year and drove his charges to the pennant.

"We're going to follow the same routine as before. But it's going to be different in one respect."

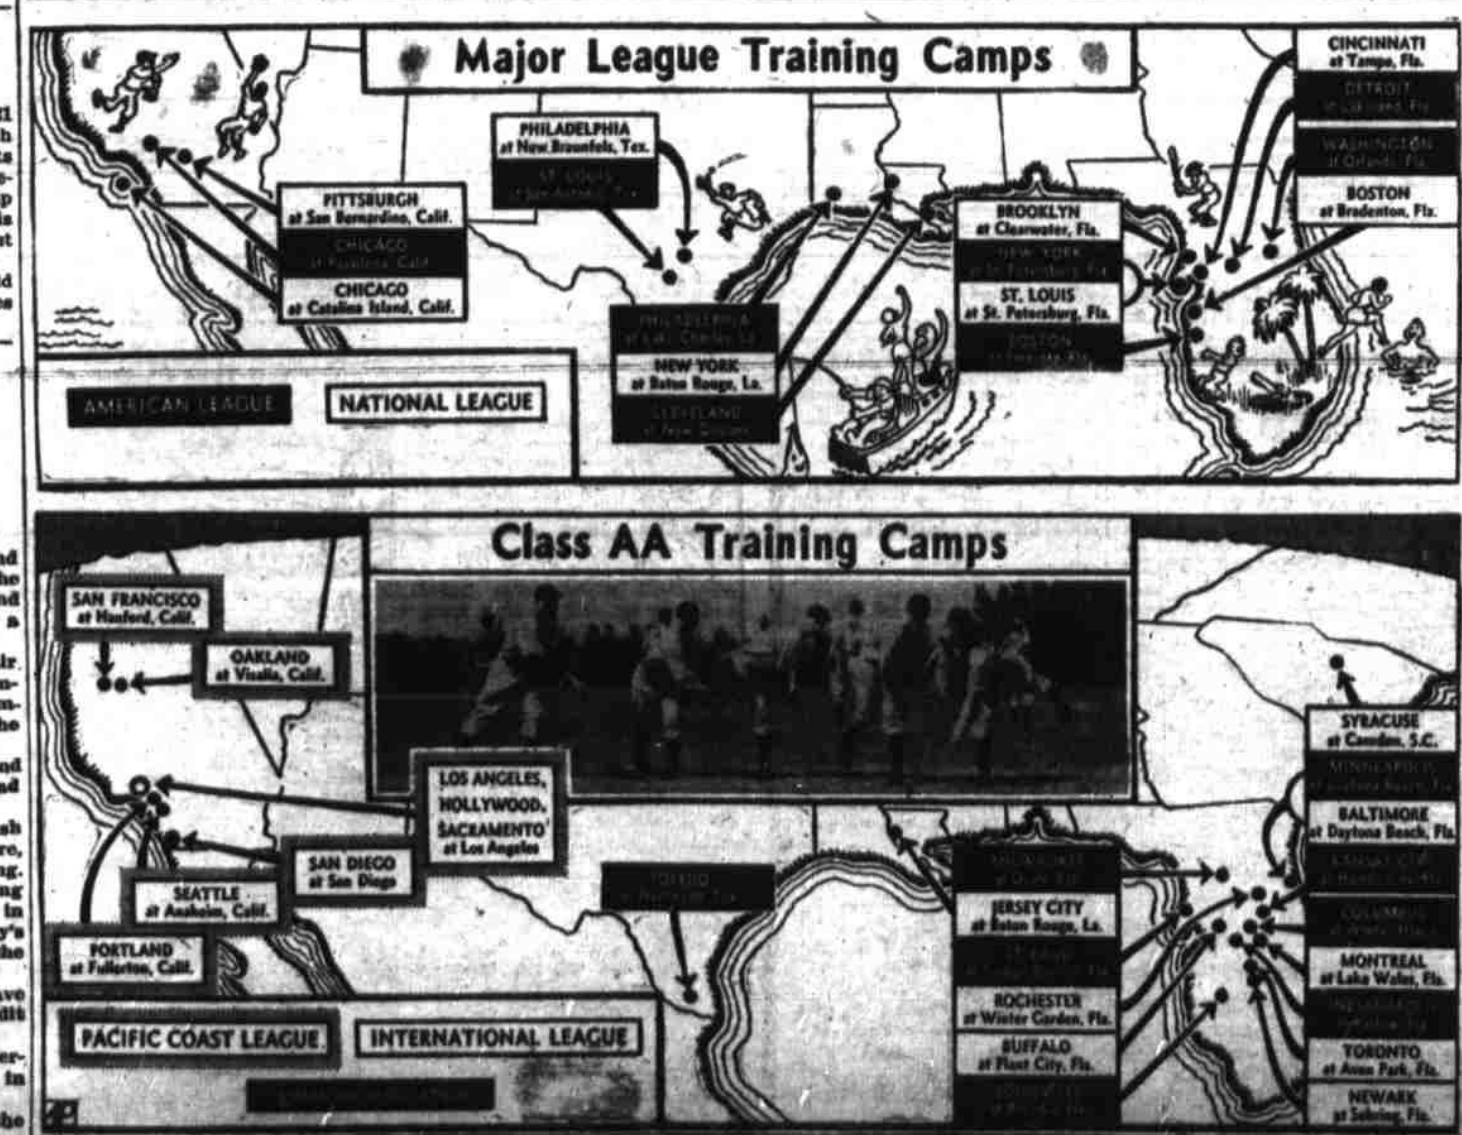

"For the last few years on the club it's just been an ache and pain and a bit after another. I'm sick of hearing about them. The fellows who usually are complaining—and I'm not including Dixie Dean, who really had a sore arm— invariably are the ones loafing around the spring camp."

"Well, that's out. The pitchers have 10 days to get into shape, before the second squad hits the island. And they're going to be ready to put some stuff on the ball."

"I want to get everybody straightened around this year so we can get off to a flying start. No more cry-baby stuff."

Of the battersmen Larry French and Gene Lillard are still unsigned, but are expected to come to terms before Thursday.

Among the infielders and outfielders, all of whom are due at Catalina March 4, four are distinguished by big contracts. They are Stanley Hack, third baseman; Stan Russell, first baseman; and Augie Galan and Hank Lauer, outfielders.

Large Group Hears Miss Wright
Give Oral Book Review Monday

The story of a courageous woman who fought for her right to love and happiness and who successfully defended her life in a murder trial in France was told Monday afternoon by Miss Pauline Wright at the Settles hotel in her review of "All This and Heaven, Too," by Rachel Field. More than 250 persons heard the review sponsored by the Senior Hyperion club. The story goes from England, to France, and then to America where the maligned governess finally finds happiness in the person of Henry Field. The author of the book is in reality telling the life story of her great aunt.

Tiny-statured Miss Wright, dressed in a navy blue suit and wearing a rose corsage, acted out each character in the book and made the story live and the figures grow real.

After many trials and tribulations and after finding love and being afraid to recognize it because of her past, the governess is told by Mother Field, Henry's mother, that the past doesn't matter. In gratitude Henrietta says, "Could there be all this and Heaven too?" Miss Wright, who is the great-niece of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. McNew, returned to Dallas Monday night where she is scheduled to make five more book reviews in and near there.

She was to have reviewed Cornelius Vanderbilt's book "Farewell to 5th Avenue" in Dallas Monday but Mr. Vanderbilt flew down there to hear the review last Saturday in order that Miss Wright would not have to postpone her review here.

Mrs. Eckhaus Leads

THE ROLE OF THE ASSASSIN

Benito Mussolini last week was rumored to have heard the report of a pistol, the bullet from which was intended for him, the first attempt at assassination he has experienced in years.

It is a peculiar historical fact that successful dictators are not often killed by an assassin's gun, some living to a bitter old age, unmolested by time.

Many persons unthinkingly have said that it would be a good thing if the dictators of the world were killed by assassination, freeing their peoples from despotism.

But nothing more terrible could happen, for instance, if some man's bullet were to find Hitler's brain. The horror of the Nazi persecutions would fade into a mild memory before the mass killings of innocent racial groups immediately after the man's death.

For his followers have made the gruesome and unbelievable pledge that twenty-four hours after Hitler's assassination there will not be a Jew alive in Germany.

The solution of the problems growing out of totalitarianism and dictator controlled nations does not lie in a bullet.

The matter is too far-reaching in its political and social implications to lend itself to such a simple remedy. The mass state of semi-hysteria existing today in Germany would flare into insanity at the violent death of their little idol.

It is probably true that no satisfactory solution will be found until both Hitler and Mussolini are dead, since these are types of minds not duplicated in one generation, but those deaths must not have even the appearance of foul play if innocent men and women are to be saved from the bloody consequences of mob-madness.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Mr. Lippmann's column is published as an informational and news feature. His views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald (Editor's Note).

AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY IN THE MAKING: INLAND AND SEABOARD OPINION

There have been moments when it looked as if the country might become sharply divided on national defense and foreign policy.

But there are, I believe, reasons for thinking that the critical period may now have been passed.

The material of a great controversy like that between Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson in 1917, like that between Wilson and the senate in 1919-20, does not really exist.

There is no responsible party which thinks the United States can afford to be weak in a world where all other nations are armed to the teeth; there is no party which proposes to entangle this country in the territorial conflicts of Europe, Asia and Africa; there is no party which proposes to surrender in either ocean the vital security of this hemisphere.

The growing conviction of the people on these essential matters has already, I believe, exercised its influence at both ends of the capital. There has been a sharp check upon the very human temptation to play politics with national defense. When congress assembled, the temptation was fairly strong.

There was undoubtedly a feeling in certain quarters of the New Deal that excitement about things abroad would blanket domestic issues and perhaps make the happy days here again. In congress there were some who exhibited every known symptom of the presidential itch and acted accordingly; there were others in the republican camp who were at set to manufacture a partisan quarrel.

But public sentiment has wanted none of these things, and my impression is that the patriotic common sense of the great mass of the people has already imposed a check upon the temptation to play politics with these questions of life and death. The action of the house in approving the army bill by an almost unanimous vote is a surer test of the underlying national opinion than the speeches and statements of individuals.

The significant differences that do exist in regard to American foreign policy are not partisan. They are not class differences. They are not ideological. They are not due to hypochondriacal allergies. Though there are traces of all these elements, the basic difference in American opinion is geographical. The United States is a continental nation, and at the beginning of any discussion about foreign relations there is a different approach by the people of the Atlantic seaboard, the Pacific seaboard, and the great inland territory of this Mississippi valley.

This is not a new thing in American life. It is an old thing, real-ized by every one when he stops to think of it, but often forgotten in the heat of debate. It should not be forgotten. For only by remembering the controlling influence of geography on American opinion can we really know ourselves and attain a national opinion.

There were 15 votes cast in the house against the army bill. All but two, those of Mr. Lewis K. Rockefeller, who represents a rural constituency in New York, and that of Mr. Rich, who represents northern Pennsylvania, were cast by congressmen from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, and North Dakota. There was not a single vote from a constituency on either seaboard, and none from the whole of the South.

Though there is no rule in politics that does not have an exception, there is obviously a rule at work here. Why is it that only in the central and northern parts of the United States does there exist in substantial strength a feeling among people, who are as patriotic as any other people in the land, that additional military defenses are not needed?

The reason is plain enough, it seems to me. If one were to search the wide-world-over-for-a-places that was safe from all danger of invasion, bombardment or foreign intimidation, that region would be the territory lying between the Rockies and the Alleghenies and north of the Mason and Dixon Line. No hostile army will get at the people of that region. No hostile navy can touch them. No hostile airplane can come near them. Their nearest neighbor is Canada, and, as Stephen Leacock remarked recently, that is a wonderful frontier because it is thousands of miles long and no one knows just where it is.

What is more, the Mississippi valley is a region which would be more prosperous if it could export more of its products. But, if it cannot export, it will never starve. It is one of the great food producing areas of the world. A people that can never be invaded and never be starved are not going to become unduly excited about foreign affairs.

Is it strange that the people of this inland region are less disposed to become excited about the rest of the world than are the people of the two coastal regions? Is not that the reason why Senator Clark, of Missouri; Senator Nye, of Nebraska; Senator Capper, of Kansas, and Senator Taft, of Ohio, think as they do think—that the way to make America secure is to sit still in the inviolate security of the American interior? And are they not right as long as they keep their eyes fixed on the regions from which they come—as long as they do not look beyond the mountains which enclose the valley?

But the peoples of the two seaboard, and that includes the whole cotton and tobacco producing South, are, like peoples everywhere in the world who live on the frontier, much more immediately sensitive to what happens abroad. Mr. Hiram Johnson, of California, is known as a great isolationist. But he is no isolationist like Senator Clark. Senator Johnson wants isolation from Europe. But he has never been much of a pacifist or very shrinking where Japan was concerned. For California faces the Pacific. And on the Atlantic seaboard, the emphasis is the other way. Public opinion is more aware of what went on in Czechoslovakia than of what is going on in Hainan and the mandated islands.

To recognize these differences is a good antidote to sectional pre-conceptions and a good way to prepare our minds for the formation of a true national policy. Such a policy must come from an understanding that though America lies between two oceans it must protect itself by one policy. Such a policy it can have only if the complacency of the inland is leavened by the awareness of the coastal regions, if the excitements of the seaboard are balanced by the sanity of the interior.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Good toughie part in "Each Dawn I Die," the James Cagney starrer, went to George Raft. . . . Which had Warner's own Humphrey Bogart, schooled in toughness and deserving the chance, talking about beating it for New York. . . .

They're going to put hair on baby-face Bobby Breen's chest in his next directed by Bernard Vorhaus. . . . By same script treatment accorded Rough-It-Up Bob Taylor. . . . Bobby will wrestle with a snake, have three flatfights, play hob with a cutthroat gang, be holed in a forest fire—and (I guess) find time to sing a dozen ditties. . . .

Binnie Barnes is first of the movie cuties to wear that ribboned collure (peruke) that's coming back to style. . . . In Jack Benny's "Man About Town." . . . Same picture has Edward Arnold; 22 pounds lighter and looking like a threat to juveniles. . . . Well, SOME juveniles. . . . Did it by skipping meat and liquor for four months. . . .

Universal still expects Danielle Darrieux for two pictures about March — if she can settle her French contract suit. . . . First may be "Almost an Angel." . . .

Smartest thing the Ritzes ever did was to back down on that silly squabble over "The Gorilla." Story might be a dud, but it's served better comics than they are—who didn't kick, either. . . .

The world premiere of "Honolulu" was in Honolulu, where Critic John B. Peck summed it up neatly: "The picture was 'Honolulu'—but it wasn't Honolulu." . . . Every body was grateful, though, for those frequent dialogue mentions of pineapples. . . .

Gene Krupa, the hot drummer in "Some Like It Hot," is Cary Grantish in looks—but not so tall. . . . Shirley Ross (in same) "gets" Bob Hope again—he being the only cinema romantic who can capture according to the script writers. . . .

Lynn Bari ("News Is Made at Night") looks more and more like Claudette Colbert. . . . Joseph Pasternak, the producer, has his own way—and successful—of getting scripts to fit his personalities. . . . His little Gloria Jean, 10-year-old singer from Scranton, Pa., is spending time as house guest of the Grover Joneses, during which scribbling Grover will observe and write her into I. A. R. Wyllie's yarn, "The Under-Pup." . . . Pasternak has Scribes Bruce Manning and Felix Jackson close to Deanna Durbin, too, to catch her typical expressions and mannerisms so that the screen Deanna can be an adaptation of the real Deanna. . . .

Metro, with more stars than it has pictures to put them in, is always fishing in the Hollywood sea—with actors like George Murphy for bait. . . . Murphy (in "Risky Business") hasn't made a Metro movie in 18 months, but has been loaned to 20th Century-Fox and Universal twice each. . . . If one of the loan-out pictures lures a box-office "bite," Metro will haul in its line, use Murphy as bait for one of its own productions. . . . Cashied in on Hedy Lamarr that way, but if they don't get out a picture soon they'll have to lend her out again. . . . Her "New York Cinderella" is shelved for all sorts of reasons they'll tell you. . . . But from this corner, with synopses of story at hand, the real reason looks like a case of small-failure. . . . They made the picture before they smelled it! . . .

Petronella saw Peter lying glowing at them. He looked very angry and red in the face. She smiled, in gratitude, upon his nurse. . . .

"Peter, I hear terrible accounts of your behavior!" He sat up. "There's nothing wrong with me. I've got to get out. Tell that woman—"

"Perhaps I'd better leave you for a few minutes," said the nurse, stiffly. Peter sank back, exhausted. "I can't get out of this. You've got to get me out of this. Incredulous. . . .

"But, Peter, you're ill!" "A mere bluff on the head. There's something I've got to do, that is really important." . . .

"Do you feel you could be sure of doing anything? Of course not. You'd pass out! Dear old boy, you must believe me." Peter's head rolled sideways. . . .

"The ghastly thing is, I believe you're right. I might fall." He looked miserable. "You must find someone else to get it for me," he insisted urgently. . . .

"Come closer. I can't shout it. Rene was carrying important information. He was just able to hide a dispatch case in the sand. Near a large boulder, close to the plane. That was all he could tell me. He was very weak, poor devil. Get Masters to go, instead of me. Impress upon him that it is secret. Tell him to take the case to Tony Lance, in room 317 of the Continental. He'll be waiting. They are the orders he has been expecting." . . .

"Tony!" Petrel cried, incredulously. She stared at Peter's flushed, excited face. Tony had handed him a job like that! "I see!" she said slowly. She sat stiffly upright. He gave a pull to her sleeve. . . .

"What are you thinking? Don't be angry with him. He couldn't help it. He is trailed everywhere. But there is no danger. No one here dreams Rene is anything so efficient as a spy. I should just have been a journalist going out to see the wreckage. So will Masters." Peter was proud of his commission. Was he right? Was that all there was to it? But instinct clamored in denial, and in rising indignation against Tony. Even if he believed it to be a simple job, what right had he to send Peter, with a broken right wrist, and a battered head? He must know that in situations like this, there was always a possibility of danger. There

"EVERYTHING IS CHANGED," Rene, dying!" exclaimed Petrel, "tell me quickly. What has happened?" . . .

"He has crashed in the desert; near the Fayum Road, in flames. They have taken him to hospital. I was going to try to see him, but I met Peter. He said he was going instead. That he would bring me news. I do not want to see poor Rene die. He was a hard young man, but he was very beautiful. What will become of Fleur von Crata now?" . . .

Since the root of her sorrow was mainly selfish, Petronella found it easy to comfort her. . . .

"If he dies, there will be some provision for you. Or perhaps a similar job, Fleur. You have been very discreet and very valuable. But he may not die. I'll go and see Rene. Peter has a broken wrist, and I believe he has concussion. If they have any sense they won't let him leave the hospital again tonight." . . .

Sure enough she was admitted when she had given her name. She would see Peter first, then poor Rene, if she was allowed to see him. . . .

"Your brother ought never to have come here alone," said the nurse reprovingly. "He was wandering, quite wandering. Sister found him in the private ward, with the young aviator, who was just waiting to be taken into the operating room. He is terribly injured, and should have seen no one. All I can think is that Mr. Malone did not know what he was doing. He collapsed the minute he got outside into the corridor, so it was too late to scold him then." . . .

"Is he conscious now?" The nurse smiled a prim, disapproving smile. . . .

"Yes. He keeps asking for you. Shouting for you is nearer the mark. I hope it will quiet him to see you for a few minutes." . . .

"I'm very sorry. I'll speak to him. I'm afraid he has been a difficult patient," she apologized. "I couldn't keep him horizontal for ten minutes, so you've worked miracles to have kept him for quarter of an hour. As they entered the room, the nurse smiled again. . . .

"It took three of us to get him back, four times in succession. Now we have taken his clothes and we lock the door. He seems to have a dislike for hospitals. His temperature is high. He must stay." . . .

Petronella saw Peter lying glowing at them. He looked very angry and red in the face. She smiled, in gratitude, upon his nurse. . . .

"Peter, I hear terrible accounts of your behavior!" He sat up. "There's nothing wrong with me. I've got to get out. Tell that woman—"

"What are you thinking? Don't be angry with him. He couldn't help it. He is trailed everywhere. But there is no danger. No one here dreams Rene is anything so efficient as a spy. I should just have been a journalist going out to see the wreckage. So will Masters." Peter was proud of his commission. Was he right? Was that all there was to it? But instinct clamored in denial, and in rising indignation against Tony. Even if he believed it to be a simple job, what right had he to send Peter, with a broken right wrist, and a battered head? He must know that in situations like this, there was always a possibility of danger. There was another thing. He knew how afraid, and unwilling she was that Peter should get mixed up in anything to do with the secret service. The idea was horrible. Peter was not the right type. He still acted first, and thought afterwards. Why, she would be safer than he would—Petronella's thoughts halted. She sat for a moment, considering the idea which had flashed into her mind. She accepted it. She would go herself. She would see what this job entailed, that Tony had given her brother. It was fair to Tony, fair to herself. For the last three days, she had lived in the fullest happiness she had ever known. If she had been in a fool's heaven, she wanted to know. Going through life, she had met many women who were fools. Wasn't it likely that she was a fool about Tony Lance?

As Callous As That Suppose the men who had followed them across the desert had discovered that it was carried papers. They might guess he would not risk dying with them in his possession, if he had strength to hide or destroy them. They would determine, somehow, to search the wrecked plane. In that case, when Peter arrived—well, he might have returned with worse than a broken wrist! He might not have returned at all! Had Tony willingly intended to let him run a risk like that? Her brother? Peter, who was half her life? If he had, he did not love her as she understood love. She would rather know, now, if he was as callous as that. Was it even possible that he had meant all along, to use Peter? Suppose Tony loved her as far as he was capable of loving anyone, but with his eyes open to her usefulness? Suppose he meant to leave her again, with a vague excuse, or without a word, as he had done twice before? She could not believe the evidence till she had proved it. But she was already terribly afraid. He had never admitted her to his confidence. His plans had been vague. Often, he still insisted she would be better off without him. Only this afternoon he had said that the happiness of individuals must not be allowed to matter much. If he had to be sacrificed to his purpose—well, they had! Suppose he was a fanatic about his job. She shivered. Was this what he had been forecasting, when he said that?

"Honestly, Petrel, there can't be any danger," whispered Peter. "No, dear, I don't suppose there is," she soothed him. . . .

As she left the hospital, she saw the car which had taken them to Fayum this afternoon, standing waiting. Waiting for Peter? Would he agree to take her, without question, if she told Hassan that she was going instead of Mr. Malone? It would be safer than hiring another taxi, whose driver she did not know, who would certainly have to be bribed, before he would consent to take an Englishwoman into the desert, at night. . . .

MAN ABOUT Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — It seems to me that one could wish for more desirable reading than is to be found in a thick, well-printed volume called "The Shipping World Year Book."

This is truly a journal of the sea, and it has anything you want to know about all the far flung ports of the world, about every sizeable ship afloat, about the character of the tides and the winds, about tariffs, tonnage rates, and about the men who follow the sea themselves.

On page 131, for instance, is a simple two-line paragraph, a casual statement of fact relating to a place in Cornwall. And yet in it are all the qualities of romance and poetry:

"LAND'S END, Cornwall, Lat. 50 degrees 4'N.; long 5 degrees 4'W. The most western point in England."

On page 214 you learn that there is a harbor in Carmarthenshire actually owned by one man, and that the King's ships are permitted to use it only by special leave. This is Pembrey, "a harbor of about 8 acres, with a quay about 250 feet long, leased by H. M. Government by the Earl of Ashburnham, who retains the right to use the east side of the harbor."

At Elmira, on the gold coast of West Africa, all ships anchor in 7 fms. (fathoms) of water, a mile off shore. J. J. Elmer, Denmark, where Hamlet lived, has a population of 14,000, and the imports are wine, spirits, coffee, sugar, salt, and tobacco. To pay for these the Danes export barley, oats, flour, meal, salt beef, pork, and rope.

Much European goods are imported for use of the natives at Grand Bassam, on the Ivory coast, Africa. And those same, barbed, low-lying freighters which take it there are loaded to the "gunnels" with palm oil, kernels, copra, mahogany, and cola nuts when they depart. Trading at such points is always hazardous. There are no docks or quays. But there is good anchorage, with a sandy bottom, and no rocks.

There is a fine port at Kherson, Russia, a great timber and wheat basin, but it is closed five months each year by ice. . . . The Kiel Canal, connecting the North sea with the Baltic, was named for Kaiser Wilhelm. . . . For bird-seed and anchovies you should go to Malaga, Spain, where there is also an abundance of wines, almonds, figs, and brandy. . . . Maldonado, Uruguay, is usually the scene of a great seal killing, held under government control.

It may also interest you to know that the approach to Okha, India, is "channel-buoyed" . . . that Port Royal, Jamaica, is famous for its pimento, sugar and rum. . . . Port Said, one of the most celebrated harbors in the world and frequently used as a backwater for fleet, is an "artificial harbor." . . . Vessels calling for supplies must pay a $25 displacement fee upon entering and departing from Pearl Harbor, Honolulu. . . . Most ships leaving the Malabar coast of India take with them cargoes of arrowroot, ginger, cardamoms, and sandalwood. But the weather is always uncertain there and shipping captains avoid it as much as possible.

So it goes, from Mandalay to Cathay, from Sabine, Texas, to the perfumed ports of the fabulous Orient, and back again. Maybe you don't like books like this. Me, I don't think there's anything much finer.

ALFALFA BILL HITS AT ROOSEVELT

HOUSTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—William Henry (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, former governor of Oklahoma, said here last night he had come to the conclusion the president's two objectives are "to impoverish the American republic, and to enrich the Roosevelt family."

Before a meeting sponsored by the Southern Coalition of Conservative Democrats and Republicans, Murray declared "In Russia, when the people fail to bow to the administrative will, they shoot 'em. In this country, they starve 'em to death."

FISHING BECOMES A REAL ART WITH UPHEAVAL IN PRICES ON THE NEW EQUIPMENT

By DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—If you think things haven't changed in the fishing and hunting business since the last time you took a bamboo pole and a bent pin and brought home a mess of our finny friends, you'd better take a look at the Sportmen's show.

The show is a paradise for the well trained—and well heeled—hunter or fisherman. In addition to the glittering exhibits there is enough local color to make the most city-broke New Yorker sing a torch song for the "wide open spaces" where etc.

There are enough Indians to stock a movie lot and a sizable and fragrant collection of animals. Just to show you how the cost of fishing has gone up we talked to one of the fellows shilling for a rod and reel outfit. He pointed to a chair that looked remarkably like the old hot spot up at Sing Sing and remarked you sat in it and took big game fish like blue marlin and tuna and that it cost a mere $335.

There was a rod and reel stuck in a socket in front of the chair—the reel would set you back $445 and the rod $150.

"The whole thing including a linen line will cost you about $1,000," said the salesman.

Upstairs near the retrieving otters—cunning little fellows who don't smell bad at all—one of the Indians was advertising a fishing camp up in Maine.

His name is Henry Red Eagle and he is an Algonquin. He mentioned he lived in New York for 30 years and that he has written and sold about 300 stories and articles in his time. His summer job of showing city sportsmen where the big ones are is just a time-filler.

"That James Fenimore Cooper started all this," he said sadly. "We're supposed to hop around and yell or we're not the real stuff. It makes me sick."

The chief said one young lady came into his booth the other night and talked for about half an hour. When she left she complimented him on his English. The chief complimented her on her English.

"Well," she said, "I'm an American. I was born in Boston."

"I was born in the Maine woods," said the chief, "what do you think that makes me?"

THINKS ALL YANK HOLDOUTS SOON WILL SIGN UP

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—President Ed Barrow of the New York Yankees figures his five unsigned players all will come to terms before the first contingent of ball players leaves Saturday for the St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp.

The five are Joe DiMaggio, Frank Crosetti, Bill Dickey, Red Rolfe and Joe Gordon.

"We are only a few points out of line with these players," said Barrow.

WEATHER DELAYS CLIPPER SHIP

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—Uncertain weather forced postponement today of the Boeing Clipper No. 17's overland flight to Gulf Ports.

The 42-ton flying boat, America's largest airliner, was to have taken off from San Diego harbor at 8:10 a. m. (CST) but departure was delayed at least until tomorrow.

It had flown here yesterday from San Francisco for inspection by navy officials and was en route to inaugurate transatlantic passenger and air mail service.

Ultimate destination is Baltimore, but Pan-American Airways made arrangements for the giant plane to break its 1,410 mile journey overland at either Gulfport or New Orleans. It is capable of landing on water only.

Crude Output For Week Increases

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 21 (AP)—An increase of 39,776 barrels daily, bringing the nation's production of crude oil to 8,320,961 barrels daily during the week ending February 18, was reported today by the Oil and Gas Journal.

An increase of 11,275 barrels daily was registered in Oklahoma, bringing that state's daily average to 444,475.

East Texas declined 353 barrels to 372,397 and the total state of Texas was up 3,184 barrels daily to 1,304,289.

Louisiana showed a decline of 600 to 264,630, California had an increase of 16,700 to 634,200, and Kansas showed a hike of 7,825 barrels daily for an average of 132,425.

Eastern states including Illinois and Michigan had a decline of 1,215 barrels daily to 298,582 and the Rocky Mountain section recorded a decline of 400 for an average of 64,860 barrels daily.

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee, opening hearings on proposed substitutes for the current farm program, expressed the opinion today no satisfactory alternative had been presented.

He said he referred to price fixing, cost-of-production and domestic allotment theories, as well as to demands for repeal of compulsory control features of the present law.

"But we are going to go into all of the plans and make haste slowly," Jones said. "Every other farm program we've passed has been under whip and spur. Every member of the committee is anxious to improve the program in every possible way."

Jones said it was generally agreed only minor changes would be made in this year's program.

The committee invited proponents of the cost-of-production plan to testify first. This program would authorize Secretary Wallace to guarantee a fixed price for that part of their crops consumed domestically. It would apply only to commodities whose value exceeded $10,000,000 annually and would license processors and other dealers in farm products.

Secretary Wallace vigorously opposed a similar bill in the senate, asserting the methods proposed to achieve it were "unworkable."

Proposes Some New Melodies For The Utility Firms

AUSTIN, Feb. 21 (AP)—It's high time for Texas public utilities companies to be forced to sing a new and sadder tune, in the opinion of Rep. J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene.

The long and glittering emergency declaration which Bradbury attached to his second bill to regulate utilities wound up with the following sparkle:

"Under the present system the gas companies who make their profits from the earth join in one chorus in singing 'Old Man River' and the electric and telephone companies, who make their profits through the air, join in the refrain in singing 'The Man On the Flying Trapeze' and 'There's a Gold Mine in the Sky.'"

"So it appears that we have a different choir, a different song and a different melody; one that all the people might sing, such as 'There's a Great Day Coming,' and when this day comes, after this bill is passed, the people will rejoice and the utilities companies will then sing 'There is Hell Among the Yearlings.'"

Despite the emergency clause, the bill may be going nowhere. Bradbury's first bill for state utilities regulation was killed in committee, 16 to 1.

from the floor of the platform and, holding him high above their heads, ran to an exit. Later, he was booked for disorderly conduct and held in $100 bail.
Outside the Garden, 13 persons altogether were arrested in a series of fights involving the police—who refused permission of anti-nazis to picket the Garden—and the followers and opponents of nazism.
The first disturbance at the meeting involved Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, who had shouted "nonsense" during a speech by G. M. Kunze, the band's national publicity director.
Amid shouts of "sit down" and "throw her out," a grey-shirted storm trooper and two policemen started to hustle her from the building. Heywood Brown, another columnist, ran to her rescue, telling the police her identity. She was allowed to remain upon her insistence that "American free speech" gave her the right to express disagreement with any speaker.

ber of commerce, which, in turn, is leading in a campaign for legislation to effect an adjustment of basic freight rates.
The WIOC has compiled a report which shows freight differentials discriminatory to the West Texas area.
The local chamber's resolution on this matter is as follows:
"Believing that the level of freight rates in the territory represented by this organization is discriminatory when compared with freight rates in other regions, and

"We, the Big Spring chamber of commerce, do hereby dedicate ourselves to the task of overcoming our freight rate differentials and affiliates ourselves with the Freight Rate Equality Federation in the understanding that this federation shall have as its program the abolition of the unequal freight rate zones of the United States, and on the understanding that on a committee of three from this organization shall represent this organization in all affairs of the Freight Rate Equality Federation."
"It is further understood that the West Texas chamber of commerce shall serve temporarily as sponsor of the Freight Rate Equality Federation and shall at an early date call a meeting of all delegates in order to perfect a permanent organization of the Freight Rate Equality Federation."

for the railroad commission to cooperate on the project.
Mrs. D. L. Neal and Mrs. P. A. Houston, members of the state board of cosmetology, estimated $100,000 could be taken from their surplus fund to be applied to the building.
Liquor Administrator Bert Ford testified his department of liquor control paid annual rentals of $19,960.
Director of Public Safety Homer P. Garrison, Jr., and Adjutant General Harry Knox said they favored economy and would be willing to cooperate in cutting down office space if it could be arranged.
Fred Rightor, secretary of the state board of professional engineers, estimated it would be possible for his body to contribute "about $50,000" to the building cause.
Labor Commissioner Joe Kunschik estimated some $5,000 could be taken from the boiler inspection fund surplus to be applied to the fund, while Attorney General Gerald Mann pledged cooperation in the movement.

we are sorry of it."
Bradbury, asserting he was speaking on personal privilege for the first time during his three terms in office, said he could not sit idly by when the "great domain of West Texas is brought into question."
"The governor could not have gone to a greater section," he said, "nor picked a better man."
"In the past West Texas has not received a fair deal. The last federal census showed West Texas as entitled to more representatives in both branches of the legislature but this additional representation has not been allowed. West Texas is not given its rightful share of employees in state departments."

tutional amendments were ready for another "open forum" session, at which time the laymen of the state will have another inquiring in their long say on the proposals to pay old age pensions.
Organized labor intervened in the hearing yesterday, through W. H. Gallagher of Denison, state-theorized spokesman for the state federation of labor. He told committee members that labor was opposed to any kind of sales or transactions tax.
A substitute plan offered by Gallagher to raise the needed pension fund was a tax on natural resources.

'BUT I WAS ONLY DOING...!' With the proper English accent that might be this motorist's story as a British highway patrolman—also called "mobile police"—halts her for a traffic violation. And to make matters worse, a television cameraman is letting English listeners in on the exchange of words. The television was intended to emphasize safe driving.

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Mild recoveries today dotted a slow-going stock market ticker tape, but many issues lacked even slight rising tendencies.
Although fractional gains predominated at the close, numerous stocks were unchanged to off a trifle.

Tension over foreign affairs appeared to have lessened somewhat, but speculative forces were disinclined to make any large wagers on potential overseas happenings.

SUSPENDERS WERE MISSED THE MOST

O. P. Griffin, county agent, was more inconvenienced than damaged when he awoke Sunday morning to find his trousers missing.
On the trousers were his trusted suspenders, and Griffin could not remember when he had been without his braces. When a hasty search around the house and neighborhood failed to disclose the prodigal pants, donned another pair. Then he borrowed a belt and felt uneasy all the time he was at church.
Later in the day his missing apparel was found in a trash can considerable distance from the Griffin home. Contents of his pockets were strewn around. Net loss, said Griffin, was 50 cents.

Midway School Has New Equipment For Visual Education

Based on the premises that a person learns more rapidly by seeing than by hearing or reading about something, the Midway school has provided equipment for visual aid instruction.
This makes possible the projection of pictures upon a large screen to stimulate interest in subject matter contained in a special volume which is a part of the visual aid system. The equipment consists of a projector, two cases of film and a screen.
Films illustrate a great variety of subject matter. Herschel Summerlin, superintendent of the school, explained. Some 100 films are covered by 1,397 films, 150 of them done in natural colors.
Grade range is from first to eighth and subject matter includes such items as social studies, special days, literature and language, nature, health, citizenship, music and art. Among the most popular are the sequences on views and wonderlands of the United States and pictures of ants and spiders.
According to Summerlin, one of the most popular periods of the day is the 35-minute interval for visual aid instruction and the subsequent class discussion.

HE WAS ON THE JOB

YORK, Pa., Feb. 21 (AP)—Police sped to an industrial section when a night watchman at a factory telephoned a man was prowling around an adjoining plant.
The officers spied the prowler, advanced cautiously, and nabbed him.
He was the plant's night watchman.
