Ground Breaking Ceremonies Thursday for Levelland Plant

Tickets for the western-style barbecue scheduled in conjunction with ground breaking ceremonies for Daiwabo America Corp.'s $15 million spinning mill are now on sale at the Levelland Chamber of Commerce, 1101 Ave. H.

The barbecue is one of several activities planned for April 25. The festivities begin that morning with the arrival of more than a dozen Japanese officials of the Daiwabo plant. They are scheduled to fly into Lubbock at 9:10 a.m. aboard Branif International's Flight 272. Levelland officials are expected to be on hand to give them an official red carpet welcome.

At 3 p.m. that afternoon Daiwabo officials will host a reception for 50 to 75 invited guests. The guest list includes several banking and cotton officials selected by the Japanese and other prominent South Plains and Levelland citizens.

The ground breaking will be at 6 p.m. at the site of the new spinning mill just east of Levelland. The banquet is to begin at 7:30 p.m. on the campus of South Plains College. The ground breaking ceremonies are open to the public without charge. Tickets to the barbecue, which is also open to the public are priced at $2 each.

The deadline for buying tickets to the banquet is Saturday, April 20. No tickets will be sold after that date. By setting a cutoff date, Levelland and SPC officials will be able to determine in advance the number of persons planning to attend the barbecue.

While the ground breaking marks the formal beginning of the new open-end spinning mill, actual construction is not expected to start until September. And with construction figured to take a year, official opening of the plant is projected for October or November of 1975.

More than 5,000 members and advisors representing over 68,000 members in 1,800 chapters of Future Homemakers of America throughout the state are expected to attend the state meeting in Dallas April 25-26.

Representatives of the Ropes FHA chapter will be Theresa Fry and Sue Tonn.

Dallas Cowboy quarterback, Roger Staubach, will be keynote speaker. There will be business meetings, a talent show, installation of state officers, and achievement awards given during this meeting.

The Future Homemakers of America organization is sponsored by Homemaking Education, Texas Education Agency with Mrs. Elizabeth F. Smith as director and Mrs. Betty Romans serving as State Advisor.

Fertilizer Substitutes Are Poor Choice

Although fertilizer supplies are short, be cautious in considering the use of substitute materials, advises Alan J. Fires, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Substitute fertilizer products are often called "conditioners", "additives", and "amendments" and most do not have an analysis tag to show their nutrient content, the agent warns.

Most fertilizer substitutes contain only small amounts of plant food and the materials are often in forms not readily available for plant use.

Furthermore, the per unit cost of any major plant nutrient from these products makes them

1. As a rule of thumb, an average carcass or side of beef will yield about 25 percent steaks, 25 percent roasts and pot roasts, 25 percent ground or stewing beef, and 25 percent waste.
2. Grimy, dull reflector pans make a range unattractive. To improve a range's looks and efficiency, wash reflector pans frequently in hot, sudsy water. For burned on particles, use a plastic or nylon scrubber or soak in a solution of one-half cup ammonia to one quart warm water.
3. Calf liver can be identified by a light, tan-pink appearance which indicates a younger animal. Delicate in flavor and quite popular, calf liver is in limited supply and commands a premium price.
4. The off-the-shoulder look is one of spring's big messages in ready-to-wear fashions.
5. Each year, health quackery "takes" the gullible public for at least $2 billion according to American Medical Association estimates. Medical-legal authorities estimate health quackery claims more lives each year than all crimes of violence.

6. In a room well illuminated by natural daylight, a lighter carpet shade will show less soiling than a darker shade.

On the other hand, in a room using artificial illumination, which is generally dimmer, a darker carpet shade shows less soiling than a light one.

If you can't get PIONEER Brand 8311

here are some excellent alternative hybrids for High Plains farmers.

Pioneer Brand 8311, the "Golden Bronze Yield Leader," has been our most popular hybrid this year — so popular, in fact, that it may be in short supply in some areas. One reason is that the demand has been so great downstate where 8311's disease tolerance is so important. Fortunately, there are several other Pioneer Brand hybrids that are proven top performers on the High Plains. If you can't get 8311, ask your dealer about these.

PIONEER Brand 8417

This versatile yellow endosperm sorghum is a champion yielder in the medium-late maturity class, for irrigated or non-irrigated land. It has large open heads, uniform head height, strong stalks for easy threshing, good tolerance to smut and anthracnose.

PIONEER Brand 820

This top-notch full-season hybrid, is a consistently high yielder. Excellent drought resistance and standability plus good roots and stalks make it a good choice for irrigated or non-irrigated farming on the plains.

PIONEER Brand 828

One of the highest yielding sorghums you can plant, this full-season hybrid responds well to good management on good land with plenty of water. Plains growers like it because it holds its quality and threshes well even after an early freeze. It produces sturdy stalks with semi-compact heads of dark red grain.

PIONEER Brand 846

Famous for its versatility and adaptability, this medium maturity hybrid yields along with the full-season varieties. Resistant to smut, rust and MDM, its outstanding hybrid vigor and excellent drought resistance help it turn in consistently high yields even under stress.

YELL LOUD AND CARRY A TWIG

Each year the voters go to the polls to elect their favorite candidate into public office. These men represent, we the people, so the constitution once read. With the Watergate scandal and the past actions of Mrs. Madalyn Murray O'Hair, I'm beginning to have my doubts about politics.

Before Mrs. O'Hair won a Supreme Court decision with her son, William Murray III, against classroom religious exercises, the Supreme Court knew a little bit about justice and how to make law enforcement rules and regulations. Law enforcement officers have a hard time getting the courts to back them up since Mrs. O'Hair came on the scene.

Our nation used to be run on the majority rule system, but it's doubtful after following the Watergate affair and the antics of Mrs. O'Hair.

Teddy Roosevelt once said, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." After Mrs. O'Hair messed up the Supreme Court, all the enforcers can do is "yell loud and carry a twig." It seems that the majority of the people go along with whatever is handed down. Now the minority that's a different breed of cats. They do a pretty good job of getting their way.

Mrs. O'Hair has carried a big stick and yelled loud, yet she had a couple of setbacks. In 1970 her son went AWOL and headed for Canada and the astronauts paid no attention to her, that year.

I don't feel sorry for you Mrs. O'Hair, since you made our children desert God in our schools. It's strange how you ever got the Supreme Court to swing your way, when the constitution states Freedom of Religion. It doesn't say anything about "no religion." Our national government was founded on the law of God.

I guess those little fellows who fought so hard to win liberty in 1776, just didn't know what it was to do without God. They came and fought so they could have the freedom of worship. It's about time we old Christian fuddy-duddies come out from behind our short haircuts and shaven faces and start cutting down your big stick. It's too bad we didn't do it when you tried to ride the afterburner of the rocket and tell the astronauts that they couldn't wear religious symbols or offer a prayer of thanks.

What was it then, Mrs. O'Hair, were you afraid they may reach heaven and prove that you're wrong?

The politicians are out again trying to get our votes, so let's take a lesson from the mistakes we made in the past decade. It was ten years ago that the Supreme Court voted prayer out of schools and the effects of Watergate is still around. Let's set the record straight, get out and vote this year. Learn all about your candidates and vote sensibly.

city. The trees will not be placed on privately owned property. Shrubs or other type plants may be used in addition to trees at the option of the Lions Club. Beside each tree will be a plaque bearing the name of the person being honored and the month and year it was planted. It is not necessary to make a contribution in order to nominate someone, but contributions are encouraged in order to fund the program. When contributions are made, checks should be made payable to the Shallowater Lions Club-Outstanding Citizen Fund. The Lions Club will determine the kind of tree to be planted, but requests for specific trees or plants will be honored whenever possible. Contributions will also be accepted as specific gifts honoring deceased citizens and this type gift is encouraged.

In addition to adding to the beauty of the community, The Lions Club, businesses and interested citizens believe this campaign is a way the citizens who have done so much for the social, economic and spiritual growth of Shallowater will receive recognition that is tangible and the trees will be around as a memorial for years to come.

Candyce Grawunder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Grawunder of Shallowater, will present a graduating piano recital Thursday, April 25. Miss Grawunder is a senior Applied Music major at Texas Lutheran College in Seguin. Her recital, given as a partial requirement for her degree, will be held at 8 p.m. in Wupperman Little Theatre on the TLC campus. The program includes: French Suite No. 1 in D minor by Bach, Phantasy Opus 77 by Beethoven, Consolation No. 3 by Liszt, and Prelude Opus 38 No. 13 by Kabalevsky.

Shallowater Young Homemakers Meet

The Shallowater Chapter of Young Homemakers of America held their meeting on Monday, April 15 at 7 p.m. in the Home Economics Cottage.

A representative of Fabulous Fabrics presented the program on sewing knits.

Mrs. Kathi Miles served refreshments. A babysitter was provided at the meeting.

A TLC Scholar, member of Alpha Chi honor society, former Intersorority Council president and Delta Alpha Delta officer, Miss Grawunder is presently studying piano with Miss Anita Windecker. She has participated in the Beethoven Bicentennial Celebration at TLC, and in the workshop and master class given by Adele Marcus of the Julliard School of Music in New York.

The public is cordially invited to attend the recital and reception following in the Gold Room of the Student Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Brown and family of New Braunfels are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Grawunder and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Rhodes and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Rhodes and boys spent the Easter holiday in Leesville, La. with Mr. and Mrs. Billy Sandlin.

Shallowater Outstanding Citizens Program in Need of Participation

In an attempt to recognize the many contributions made by citizens in the Shallowater area, the trees which will be planted along the streets of Shallowater and in other public places in the Shallowater Lions Club will begin honoring an outstanding citizen or citizens each month. The Shallowater Lions Club is asking your assistance in nominating worthwhile individuals to receive this honor.

The Lions Club realizes that most people worthy of receiving this honor will be too modest to give this information about themselves, so we are asking friends and families to make the nominations and complete the information on nomination forms provided and distributed in various businesses throughout the city.

In an attempt to make this a memorable occasion for those honored, an open house and other appropriate ceremonies will be held each month honoring the outstanding citizen for that month. Contributions will be accepted by the Lions Club and the contributions will be used to purchase trees, plant and maintain

Little League Baseball Signup Underway

Little League Baseball sign-up and tryouts are being held this week at the Shallowater Little League Baseball Park on April 16, 18, 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. each day. Boys who have not previously signed up for this year's program must sign up in this period to be drafted. (Parent's signatures required). All boys drafted must have attended at least two of the above listed tryout periods. All families who have boys in this year's program are asked to contribute at least $7.50 per family to support cost of insurance, fees, etc.

Boys who will be 8 before Aug. 1, 1974 or no older than 12 before Aug. 1, 1974 are eligible.

Player selections will be made Saturday and practices will be held for the next two weeks. The season's opening games will be on the night of May 7 beginning at 6 p.m.

Attending Fire Fighting School in Lubbock this Week

Fireman and instructors from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas are attending a four day firefighting school in Lubbock this week.

Attending from the Wolforth Volunteer Fire Department are Jim Phillips, Junior Gattin, Gene Gibson, Norma Henry, Kenneth Clark, Joe Rosales and Johnny Joe Rosales.

Classes are on protective clothing, use of air tanks, rescue procedure in car wrecks, power tools, and all types of fires.

One interesting and informative bit of information concerns the fact that of all fires, plastics and synthetics are the most dangerous because of the lethal gas they give off which can cause lung disability and acts like heart failure and causes death.

In a survey done by Notre Dame

University, it was found that deaths of 39 firemen from one city were caused by gas from such fires.

Babe Ruth Baseball League Registration And Tryouts 27th

Tryouts and final registration for the Babe Ruth Baseball League will be Saturday, April 27 from 1 to 5 p.m. at 28th Street and Quaker Avenue in Lubbock.

The tryouts are not to determine who will play, but are conducted to balance the teams. All boys will be placed on a team. If you were not on a Babe Ruth team last year, you must tryout.

The Babe Ruth League is for boys 13-15 years of age. Saturday, April 27th will be the last day for registration. The program is organized around boys who are registered. If you are interested in playing in this league, be sure to attend this meeting.

Frenship Young Homemakers Meet

The Frenship Young Homemakers were entertained Monday night by Mrs. Robert Rhea of Lubbock, who was one of 100 finalists in the Pillsbury Bakeoff Contest, held in Phoenix, Arizona this year.

Several million recipes are submitted each year and 100 are picked as finalists. Mrs. Rhea made her recipe for jam and crescent sweet rolls for the Young Homemakers. She also told them of her trip to Phoenix.

Animal Health Confab Set

Livestock producers will be treated to discussions on specific disease problems of beef and dairy cattle, swine and horses at the Sixth Annual Southwestern Animal Health Conference at the Green Oaks Motor Inn in Fort Worth April 27-28.

The conference will feature authorities on animal health and nutrition who will discuss topics of both general and special interest to producers, points out Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Special sessions on cow-calf, dairy, equine (horse), feedlot and swine will be featured Saturday morning, April 27, and will be conducted all day on Sunday. A general session will be held Saturday afternoon.

The annual conference is being sponsored by the Texas Veterinary Medical Association and Texas A&M University.

Never become completely dependent on any one person, if possible.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

The tumult and the shouting have died down and Henry Aaron has been installed as the premier home run hitter of all time. His chase of Babe Ruth's seemingly impossible total of 714 home runs was reached, passed and passed again.

Only a few "Archie Bunkers" will protest Aaron's role as the Sultan of Swat. The Atlanta player generally is thought to be highly deserving of his title. He earned it with a career that has been little short of sensational.

Into every life a little rain must all and, even on the arid South Plains, Texas A&M will agree. Texas Tech took two out of three baseball games that the Aggies needed to supplant Texas as the Southwest Conference champions.

Turn about is fair play. It was the Aggie basketball team that ruined Tech's bid for a second consecutive title. Kal Segrist and Company have repaid that debt.

Indeed, when you get right down to it, Tech and A&M have one of the more spirited rivalries going—in almost all sports. The favorite often doesn't win and upset are the rule.

The rivalry is healthy, good for both schools. It's the type of rivalry that brings out the best in both schools' teams and whets the appetite of fans. And, from a gate standpoint, the two schools must be thrilled, because intense rivalry sells tickets.

The other night on a local TV station, one of the broadcasters asked where the World Football League was getting all of the money it was throwing around in profusion.

It was a good question and Eddie Clinton had no answer. The safest guess is that there is a tribe of pygmies hidden in a remote jungle of New Guinea that is staying awake nights turning out half million dollar bills.

Certainly the money that is being announced is staggering. Player after player is being announced, generally in terms of a half million dollar contract. Even those as poor at math as I am don't need calculators to total up millions of dollars.

Is there really that kind of money available? Can the owners of the new franchises really pay the huge salaries that they are claiming? Will those salaries build football teams, or will they build internal stress and strain with lower paid players?

There's no question but that it takes a lot of money to field pro football teams. It took a lot to get the American Football League operating, although it didn't pay the established NFL players what the new WFL is promising.

If the money really is available, the new league will see the light of day. If there isn't, the lawsuits are going to pile up as tall as the Empire State Building.

My personal guess is that the owners have that kind of money available. They couldn't afford to announce such salaries if they didn't. But what of the operation?

The league will have a smattering of established NFL stars. It will have a fair share of outstanding college players. It will pick up some NFL and Canadian castoffs. In its first two or three years, it will be better than college football, but not up to the standard of the NFL.

The league already has a TV contract, which will help. It will have to build fans, which will be difficult. It will have to fight the NFL, far from easy. Cities with current NFL teams probably won't flock to the stadia to see the WFL teams.

Again, my guess is that the league will open if only because it has so much money at stake. Whether it can exist in the pro football jungle is anybody's guess.

One personal reason why I hate to see the new league is the saturation of football, which is in danger of going the same route that baseball took.

We have CFL games in the summer now and the WFL will be added. We have two to four pro games on Sunday, plus Monday night, and soon the WFL will be aired on another night. The college game is booming, as is the high school brand.

In short, there is almost too much football now and complete saturation will kill football, as it did baseball.

There's an old saying, used by many people to express disbelief, that "that's a crock...."

It's appropriate in the case of the San Diego Padres' owner, whose name happens to be Kroc—and pronounced the same way.

The eloquent Mr. Kroc grabbed the PA mike in the Padres' home opener to say that he had never seen such stupid baseball. Since the Padres were losing, it is assumed he meant his club. Owners may think this, may tell their managers so, but they don't generally tell the world.

Coaches use many stratagems to get their players in a mood to play, like the late Knute Rockne, whose Notre Dame team was being beaten at the half.

Rockne never said a word during the halftime, but when it was time to take the field, he stood by the door and called out, sarcastically: "Let's go, girls."

Anyway, it's regrettable that the Padres owner has the name he has, because you won't hear anyone saying "That's a Kroc!" if someone makes a mistake on the field. The name already has other connotations. On second thought, maybe it is an apt double twist!

Tech is almost halfway home on spring football training and the Raiders are going the way of Texas. The Longhorns had an injury-plagued spring that all but closed down workouts.

Loss of Tommy Duniven is serious, but not as bad as losing Roosevelt Leaks, because Duniven will be back in the fall. Still, when you have four quarterbacks with no game experience, the loss of spring training is a severe blow.

The Roundup—Jack Kirkpatrick, former Tech football star from Post, has an eldest son who is outstanding in basketball, with another son, a 7th grader, outstanding in football. . . . If you operate a canoe at night remember this, it must have the same lights as a Class A boat. . . . Parks and Wildlife biologists recently checked walleye fingerlings stocked in Canyon Lake in April, 1973. They netted walleyes that had grown from two inches to 16 inches. They also netted some striped bass.
