PEANUTS BY THE SACKFUL—East and Central Texas peanut growers recently participated in a Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) disease and insect survey, one of several TDA services to peanut growers. The department's laboratory in De Leon runs nematode samples on peanuts, recommends treatments for diseased plants, advises farmers on the proper use of chemicals and runs irrigation checks to make sure the water's mineral content is suitable for peanuts. Alvin Ashorn, left, assistant director of TDA's Agricultural and Environmental Services Division, checks sacked peanuts before they go to the shellers.

Trading Stamp Limit?—The State Finance Commission may ban use of trading stamps and other inducements by savings and loan associations to help attract deposits.

The panel's savings and loan section is scheduled to rule on the long-standing issue June 22.

Opponents argue the regulation would curtail advertising by savings and loan associations, would not benefit consumers and would be meaningless to referally chartered institutions.

An earlier version of the proposed regulation included an exemption for associations competing with other financial institutions which offer stamps and other premiums.

Savings and loan associations are divided on the issue. Several consumer groups have indicated they will offer testimony in opposition to the proposal.

Waste Hearings Set—Texas Water Quality Board has scheduled 12 public hearings over the state to explore problems concerning disposal of industrial solid wastes, a controversial issue.

The first hearing will be held July 11 in Fort Worth with the final one in Austin October 24.

Other hearings are slated for Dallas July 12, Port Arthur July 25, Beaumont July 26, Houston August 6-7, Corpus Christi August 22-23, Brownsville August 30, El Paso September 20, Midland September 26, Amarillo September 27 and Longview October 2.

Legislative committee probes of TWQB, with special attention to its procedures in processing applications for waste disposal sites are scheduled to begin after the Constitutional Convention adjourns.

Courts Speak—A man who entered a Fort Worth hospital with a cut thumb, fainted, fell off the operating table and suffered a brain concussion and loss of two teeth is entitled to $7,211 damages, the State Supreme Court ruled.

Travel West Texas This Summer

Texas history from a century ago and scenery shaped through the ages dominate the vacation opportunities of Far West Texas, that region rolling west of the Hill Country to El Paso.

And today's 55 mph speed limit stretches the fuel far enough to see it all: the Sonora Caverns, Big Bend, restored Fort Davis, Langtry, and the Guadalupe National Park and El Capitan.

These and more than five dozen travel stops are mentioned in the new "Wonderful West Texas Fun and Adventure Map," says J. Fike Godfrey, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Sonora Caverns, best-known of the Edwards Plateau caves, was discovered only in 1961.

Langtry is the home of Judge Roy Bean's frontier court and an attractive Texas Highway Department tourist information center. It shares the Rio Grande region with Amistad (Friendship) Reservoir and the Texas-Mexico towns of Del Rio and Ciudad Acuna.

Up river is Big Bend, one of Texas' two national parks, a blend of desert and mountains, horseback trails and house trailers, and the canyon waters of Santa Elena, Mariscal and Boquillas.

Plenteous air currents make Marfa the site in early summer of the national sail plane meet. Twenty-one miles north, 19th Century Fort Davis isn't far from the 20th Century's McDonald Observatory, both open to the public.

The Texas Highway Department also recommends a scenic 74-mile drive, looping through the Davis Mountains.

More mountains lie across Interstate 10 between Van Horn and Ysleta, location of the Tigua Indian Reservation, the only one in West Texas.

Just beyond there's populous El Paso and Juarez. A tank of gasoline goes a long way there, with the handy concentration of border shopping, bullfights, dog and horse racing and the Mt. Franklin scenic tramway.

Between El Paso and Carlsbad Caverns rise El Capitan and Guadalupe Peak, both above 8,000 feet, and Guadalupe Mountains National Park.

To the east, the wind has sculptured 4,000 acres at Monahans Sandhills State Park. Oiltown Odessa has America's second largest meteor crater and Globe of the Southwest, an authentic replica of the original Shakespeare Globe Theatre, with professional talent.

And there's Balmorhea State Park with one of the world's largest swimming pools, Rantasyland in Iraan with Alley Oop and dinosaur tracks beside U.S. 67 between McCamey and Fort Stockton.

Details are available in a library of 200 brochures available from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Box 1561, Abilene, Texas 79604.

All farmers on the High Plains, including cotton farmers, have a sizable stake in finding a remedy or a solution to the plight of cattle feeders, according to Don Marble of South Plains, President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

"If the recent year's disastrous cost-price relationship forces cattle feeders out of business and feedlots go empty, a surplus of feed grains and cottonseed products could easily develop," he says.

Accordingly, PCG has joined forces with the cattle industry, the Grain Sorghum Producers Association of Lubbock and others in pushing for federal legislation to provide emergency government guaranteed loans to feeders unable to get financing through normal channels.

Bills have been introduced and hearings scheduled in both the House and Senate, and considerable bipartisan support is in evidence. The bill considered most likely to move in the Senate, on which hearings are set for June 17, is S-3579, co-sponsored by such notables as Democratic Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, Chairman of the Senate Sub-Committee on Agriculture, John Tower (R-Tex), Carl Curtis (R-Neb), James Eastland (D-Miss) and Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), and others.

Republican Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has introduced H.R. 15079 in the House and hearings are to be held June 25 and 26.

In telegrams to McGovern and to Texas Congressmen and Senators, Marble said "Legislation is desperately needed authorizing emergency loans to cattle feeders to prevent empty feedlots, beef shortages and depressed markets for feed grains and cottonseed."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's most recent estimate of U.S. cotton acreage and production, printed in the May issue of "Cotton Situation" obviously will need revision in view of recent developments on the Texas High Plains and elsewhere, according to officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. of Lubbock.

USDA projected the U.S. upland cotton crop for 1974 at 14 million bales, to be harvested from 14.7 million planted acres, and PCG says it is reasonable to assume that some 2.5 million bales were expected to come from about 3 million acres in the 25 counties represented by PCG in the Lubbock area.

But since the USDA compiled those figures, it is pointed out, hail, high winds and continued dry weather in sections of the Plains have reduced the area's potential to around 2 million acres and perhaps 1.5 million bales. Excess rain has brought flooding of cotton fields in the heavy producing areas of Northeast Arkansas, Western Tennessee and parts of Mississippi and Louisiana. Some observers indicate this situation without quick relief could reduce acreage and production potential in those areas by as much as 10 percent.

Also there are reports that some of the acreage intended for cotton in the Southern half of Texas may have gone to grain sorghum instead.

The joint PCG-Lubbock Cotton Exchange Estimates Committee will meet in early July to compile standing acreage figures for PCG's 25 counties. USDA will release another national acreage estimate on July 11, but it will be an estimate of planted acreage as opposed to "standing" acreage.

So truly meaningful national cotton acreage figures will not be available until the following month, and at that time they are almost certain to be down from the May estimate.

Home Gardeners can Stretch Moisture

Hot, dry summer weather is here and that means following certain practices to "stretch" the moisture available for your lawn and garden.

"Wise use of available moisture helps keep your lawn and garden plants growing and healthy while at the same time reducing the amount of irrigation water required," points out Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To start with, Janne suggests a good mulch at least two inches deep around flowers, shrubs and other plants. This reduces evaporation loss from the soil surface, lowers the soil temperature, reduces weed growth and cuts down on soil cultivation. Shredded pine bark, pine straw, wood chips, chopped wheat or oat straw or other organic matter is good for mulching.

When watering, the horticulturist recommends soaking the soil to a depth of 6 to 10 inches. Of course, where the soil surface is sloping, watering should be reduced to avoid excessive runoff.

"Deep watering encourages deep root penetration and provides a greater reservoir of moisture for plants. This enables plants to withstand dry weather better than when waterings are light and frequent. After a thorough soaking of the soil, watering can be delayed until plants begin to wilt."

Janne advised applying fertilizer, insecticides or fungicides to plants only when there is moisture in the soil. Severe foliage burn can occur if these materials are applied when plants are under water stress conditions. Fertilize lawns when needed since a well-fertilized lawn will use water more efficiently and will require less water to keep it alive.

Raising the cutting height of your lawnmower one-fourth to one-half inch will also reduce the water needs of your lawn.

"Do your yard work early in the morning or late in the afternoon," suggest Janne. "You will enjoy it more and your plants will also benefit."

Recycling Clothes Is Now 'In'

Recycling old clothes for new life, fit and fashion is as "in" today as recycling paper, glass and metal.

Concern over fabric shortages and energy conservation, as well as clothing costs, can take credit for this trend. Whether it's simply a button change, shorter hem, new applique or complete garment renovation, recycling offers consumers a rewarding, creative experience.

Most families have closets full of clothes they no longer wear regularly. This stems from rapidly changing fashions, larger, more varied wardrobes and strong synthetic fibers and blends, which means clothes don't wear out as quickly.

With a little time and imagination, these items turn into wearable fashions.

Before recycling a garment, consider the following.

—Is the fabric worth using? Is it stained or worn out? Can an adequate portion be used? Will the fabric successfully combine with others?

—Do you possess necessary sewing skills to make the garment wearable again without it looking "homemade" or like changes were tacked on?

—Are compatible trim and notions available?

After asking these questions it may be wiser to either purchase or sew a completely new item.

Even though recycling clothing isn't new, mending, altering, repairing and renovating existing garments has taken on new fashion excitement.

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton

Proverbs 3:5-6 "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths."

Christians since the beginning of discipleship have learned the secret and joy of trusting the Lord.

There is a tremendous surge of joy that continually fills a Christian who knows how to trust the Lord.

Our Father, God, has so created us in his image, that we will never be at peace until we give in to the life and purposes of God.

We have all been called to a life of preparation. This involves having our spirits reborn unto the likeness of God, through Jesus Christ and learning how to live in fellowship with God.

True rewarding companionship with God is impossible without intrusting our lives into his hands. This involves giving our will, our understanding, and all our ways. The writer of Proverbs declared that when we can do this, then we will have divine guidance and direction for our lives and surroundings.

4-H'ers to Study Ecology

Texas 4-H boys and girls are becoming more ecology conscious through learning opportunities provided by various programs and workshops.

One such program will be conducted June 18-21 at the Texas Tech Center at Junction. It's the eighth annual Texas 4-H Ecology Conference.

Attending will be 78 teenage 4-H'ers along with 13 4-H adult leaders from throughout the state. "The conference provides for in-depth studying of the many ecological implications between man and the natural resources," points out Tom Davison, 4-H youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Participants will take a close look at such major resource areas as wildlife, forestry, soil, water, grassland, outdoor recreation and environmental quality."

Instructors will be Extension Service specialists whose subject matter fields are directly related to the natural resource areas to be studied.

The four day event provides an excellent learning experience for the 4-H'ers and helps them to interpret information and develop their own personal opinions about the management and utilization of our natural resources.

In addition to the work sessions, there will also be time for fun and recreation. A special recreation program will be led by a 4-H recreation team from Matagorda County.

Sponsors of the annual conference are the Federal Cartridge Corporation and the Texas Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It's almost kickoff time for the All America game and, for me and thousands of football fans, it can't be too soon. The game this year appears to have everything that makes an all star game great—passing, running, speed, hard hitting, defense.

Both squads are loaded with talent and it would be hard to pick a favorite, and since I won't have had a chance to see the teams work out, I'll go on blind faith in the West squad.

Naturally, folks in this area will have special attention on Joe Barnes and Kenneth Wallace, hoping that they both have outstanding games. Both are capable of it.

While Joe's chief rival, Jesse Freitas led the nation in passing, usually a key weapon in an all star game, Joe might have a little edge because he's a dangerous runner. Both men are capable of breaking the game wide open.

Then there are a number of other Southwest Conference stars on hand, with Dickey Morton of Arkansas having the potential to be a real star in the contest.

Billy Wyman of Texas was everybody's All-America and he'll be joined by such greats as Charlie Davis, a giant on defense for TCU; Berl Simmons, fine field goal and extra point man; and Steve George, recognized as a great defensive tackle for Houston.

This has been called the finest squad ever assembled for this, the 14th annual, All America game. Not only are there All Americans, but the highest number ever chosen in the pro draft's early rounds. This alone tells you their ability.

The pros seldom miss. Some of their choices will be cut, of course, but the fact that players have been chosen high in the draft speaks for what the pros think of their potential.

Advance ticket sales seem to be running ahead of other years and, with good weather Saturday, a lot of last minute sales are assured. And a lot of folks will come in from outlying areas at the last minute, as they always do.

Certainly the game deserves support for many reasons, not the least of which that a percentage of the gate goes to support charitable causes. But first and foremost, fans will see two teams composed of great players, and probably, a great game.

I guarantee you, I want to see such players as Randy Gradishar, Lynn Swann and Willie Burden in action. Also, Wilbur Jackson, John Holland and Bill Sandifer.

But then, you can go right down the list and name all the players. They didn't get here because of press clippings; they're here because they are tops. It's a glittering field and the average fan will have trouble concentrating on one player.

The other four games here have produced their share of excitement, with such undersung stars as Joe Orduna and Billy Taylor walking off with MVP awards. Last year? It was underhanded Terry Metcalf.

And so it goes. The players toiling in blissful unpublicized quietness explode to take honors from amongst the list of greats. Many times it goes right on to the pro ranks, too.

Earlier, I mentioned what this game did for charity, and it's true. There's really no way to measure the good that this game has done to help people in dire need.

At the same time, I wonder if people here ever stopped to think of the dividends for Lubbock. The game is telecast by ABC-TV nationwide. Have you checked recently to see what a minute's ad on national television cost? Forget it. Even the Chamber of Commerce and BCD couldn't afford it.

But ABC promotes the telecast and Lubbock is mentioned in those promos. Then comes the game and the exposure that Lubbock, and Texas Tech, gets couldn't be purchased.

It's favorable publicity from the start. And ABC remembers that the city, reeling from a vicious tornado, still pulled itself up by its bootstraps and said "The Game Will Go On." It did, too, with a record crowd—and it's been going upward ever since.

Then there's another facet fans don't really know and that is the fact that more and more sports writers are coming here for the game. That's nationwide publicity, too.

The writers came from the start, but in small numbers. Lubbock? Where's that? What would someone do in Lubbock? But they came, they saw and the city conquered. They've been coming in larger numbers ever since.

In fact, there's a serious move underway to move the annual COSIDA meeting from Chicago to Lubbock. COSIDA is the association of university and college sports information directors.

For years that group has held its annual meeting in conjunction with the College All Stars-pro champions game. That contest has lost its glamour and COSIDA is on the verge of moving to Lubbock because of the treatment received here, among other things.

So, for heaven's sake, if you haven't bought a ticket yet, hie yourself up to a Lion, or to the Tech ticket office, and buy one. This is one industry that doesn't demand much, but is with us every year. It deserves the support of each and everyone of us.

Just a quick word about the Old Timers game that the former WT-NM League players staged in Amarillo last Sunday. It was a great reunion again and the Amarillo Giants were great hosts.

Not as many of the Old Timers showed up as was hoped for, but conditions were perfect. They were hosts of the club at the Saturday night game, were treated to a buffet supper later and then played a three inning exhibition game Sunday.

Several of the players went to the links on both Saturday and Sunday for golf, and I was fortunate enough to play with Ted Clawitter, former Gold Sox catcher and manager.

Ted has fun, whether on the golf course or the baseball diamond, so there wasn't dull moment. Then I saw Gordon Nell, Nim Free, Deck Woltdt and others for the first time in years. They all looked well, healthy and active. It was a fun weekend and the fans were generous in their welcome to the old players.

Interpersonal Communication

Seldom are people completely open and honest with each other, though they communicate in many ways every day.

We tend to hide our true feelings and emotions when they occur. But hiding them only causes trouble in the long run because these repressed emotions will be reflected in later behavior, usually unpleasantly.

A person must understand himself before he can establish open and honest relationships with others. This simply involves recognizing the feelings that exist, it is not important to evaluate them as good or bad feelings.

A person must also learn not to blame others for his own feelings. He alone is responsible for them.

There are several ways to create opportunities for open conversation with others.

—Plan a time for relaxed discussion in privacy without interruptions.

—Establish and follow basic ground rules to say what you mean without attacking or blaming others.

—Listen carefully to what others say.

—If you don't understand what someone means, ask rather than making assumptions.

—Look for body motions and facial expressions, because people communicate physically just as much as verbally.

—Consider your own nonverbal methods of communication, how and why you do them.

Before You Pass Judgment

When the other fellow acts that way, he's ugly.

When you do it, it's nerves.

When he's set in his ways, he's obstinate.

When you are, it's just firmness.

When he doesn't like your friends, he's prejudiced.

When you don't like his, you are simply showing good judgment of human nature.

When he tries to be accommodating, he's polishing the apple.

When you do it, you're using tact.

When he takes time to do things, he's dead slow.

When you take ages, you are deliberate.

When he picks flaws, he's cranky.

When you do it, you're discriminating.

Tomato, Pepper Problems In Home Gardens

Many home vegetable gardeners are experiencing "physiological" problems with tomato and pepper plants, points out Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Blossom-end rot, which is identified by water-soaked areas near the base of the fruit which rapidly turns dark and eventually rots, is causing losses this year in home gardens in all areas of the state.

"Although the exact cause is unknown, blossom-end rot is thought to be caused by plant roots being unable to take up water as fast as it is being lost by the leaves," explains Cotner. "Consequently, water is removed from the developing fruit, causing breakdown of the cells at the base of the fruit. Oftentimes, secondary diseases occur, resulting in further decay."

Conditions causing this disorder may have occurred two to three weeks before the symptoms appeared. Soils which are too wet or too dry inhibit uptake of water by plant roots and this results in the rot.

To help prevent the occurrence of blossom-end rot, mulch around the plants and follow good watering practices. If the problem

DATE CARROT CAKE

- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 28 RITZ Crackers, finely rolled (about 1 cup crumbs)
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 1/2 cups coarsely grated carrots
- 3/4 cup DROMEDARY Pitted Dates, snipped or DROMEDARY Chopped Dates
- 1/4 cup milk
- Confectioners' sugar

Sift together first five ingredients; stir in RITZ Cracker crumbs. In large bowl of electric mixer beat butter or margarine and sugar until creamy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, and beat until fluffy. Stir in next three ingredients; then flour mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Pour into well greased 9-cup Bundt pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) 55 to 60 minutes, or until done. Cool in pan 30 minutes; then turn out on rack and cool completely. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 12 (about 2-inch) wedges.

is already occurring a foliage spray consisting of one level tablespoon of calcium chloride per gallon of water will reduce losses. Repeat the treatment every five to seven days if conditions favorable for blossom-end rot continue, such as hot, dry winds in combination with overly wet or dry soils.

Fortunately, blossom-end rot is usually only a temporary problem, and fruit which develop and ripen during good weather conditions should be of high quality.

Outsmart The Computer

Get results from computer calculated bills.

"If you receive an incorrect bill, shred it," Lillian Cochran, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, advised.

"Place the shredded bill—along with a note of explanation—in an envelope, and mail it to the company. This requires personal attention—whereas just a hand written note might be ignored."

"The main point is to mutilate the bill in such a way that the computer is forced to take action," she said.
