A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Kids Hit by Toddler in Runaway Car

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — A 2-year-old in a runaway car that he somehow shifted into gear slammed into a group of children awaiting rides to a summer day camp, seriously injuring four of them, authorities said on Thursday.

Sgt. Mike Logghe of the Ann Arbor Police said the "very bizarre" accident occurred on Wednesday morning on a street in this college town, outside Detroit.

The boy's mother had left him alone in the back seat of her 1977 Cadillac, its engine idling, while she dropped off another one of her children at a nearby school, Logghe said.

In a minute or so he said the toddler, now listed as "the driver" in an Ann Arbor police report, had climbed up front and slipped the bulky Cadillac into gear. It then rolled over a curb where the children waiting for school buses were gathered.

Four of the children, between 8 and 9 years old, were hit by the vehicle and at least one was pinned underneath it. None of their injuries, which included broken bones and burns, were life threatening, however, Logghe said.

"They sure were lucky," he said.

It was not immediately clear if charges would be filed in the case, but Logghe said it was illegal to leave a running vehicle unattended in Ann Arbor.

"It's an odd one, that's for sure," he said of the accident.

Channel 6 to air new neighborly program

"Meet Your Neighbor" recently approved to air on Channel 6 will show for the first time at 12:30 p.m. Monday, July 29.

The 15-minute program will be hosted by Kay Cole of Sudan.

According to Cole, the program will focus on diversity. "I'm looking for people both young and old of different professions, people of interest," says Cole. The program will reach people from Sudan, Amherst, Earth and Muleshoe. "I'm really interested in reaching those communities, as well as interviewing people from those communities. 'I'm looking for ideas from anyone,'" she adds.

The program's first guest to be aired will be Cecil Davis, a resident of Park View Nursing Home in Muleshoe.

Davis, now 92-years-old, will reminisce of life in the 20s and 30s as a "cowboy" in the Baileyboro community, going to school in Sudan during 1919, and of a cowboy named Norfleet's encounter with the famous "Billy the Kid."

Daniel travels to Nashville in search of stardom

Summer Raye Daniel, 17 year old daughter of Jim and Lynn Daniel of Muleshoe, made a trip to Nashville, Tennessee with her mom and Bernell "Mimi" Miller June 29 to make a video in Don Reed Production's "Teen Showcase."

Summer and 14 other future stars were invited by the production company to perform at the Hilton Garden Inn Hotel in Nashville as a means to help get their country music careers started.

She performed "Let 'er Rip," a Dixie Chick song, as several producers and other record people watched and listened. A video recorded during this showcase is being sent worldwide to important music industry people.

Summer got a five-star-plus rating on her video and is now raising money to get a CD professionally recorded to send to music moguls.

Summer also writes songs and is learning to play the guitar.

Don Reed Productions is having another "Teen Showcase" at Billy Bob's bar of Fort Worth in October. Summer and her brother, Chance, 15, are planning to perform one of Summer's songs while playing the guitar and fiddle.

Summer has always enjoyed singing country and gospel music. In fact, singing professionally is her "dream."

She is the granddaughter of Bob and Bernell Miller of Quanah, Texas, and Margie and the late R.J. Daniel of Comanche, Texas. She is the great granddaughter of Ollie Bufkin of Quanah, formerly of Breckenridge, Texas.

Lazbuddie receives medal in applied technology

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

The Lazbuddie Chapter of FCCLA (Family, Career, Community Leaders of America) competed in applied technology at the national competition in Minneapolis, Minnesota on July 7-12. The applied technology team consists of Jeffrey Phillips, son of Rose Davis; Andy Martin and Rob Martin, sons of Linda Martin; Jay Seaton, son of Rick and Mandy Seaton; and Brady Mimms, son of Clay and Rita Mimms.

Their advisor is Cheri Sain, the family and consumer science teacher at Lazbuddie High School

For their project, the team developed a set of blueprints for a greenhouse using various types of technologies. Then the team received a grant from Xcel Energy to develop an ecological center which included the proposed greenhouse.

The students built the greenhouse for the school to use for various science labs and other related classes. The students developed a 15-minute Power Point presentation for their competition. The team placed first at the state competition at Corpus Christi in April. They competed against all 1A through 5A schools across Texas. The team then competed in Minneapolis in July 8 and received the silver medal for their performance.

While at the national competition, the students attended several leadership workshops which included financial fitness, character education, peer pressure, STOP the Violence training, and community service projects.

In addition to working on their project, the students must earn all the funds to pay for the projects and trips. The students have planned a garage sale which will take place at Jarman Seed on July 27, a dinner before school begins, and a donation raffle for various prizes.

Chance for poisonings high in summer

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

With more and more people outdoors in the summer, the potential for poisonings increases. Chances to get stung by insects, bitten by snakes or spiders or poisoned by spoiled picnic food, pesticides, insecticides and even carbon monoxide from boats abound.

Deaths from carbon monoxide on boats are being investigated as a relatively new danger. Most poisonings on watercraft are caused by exhaust from gasoline-powered generators used to power appliances on moored houseboats.

"In the last few years, more and larger houseboats are jammed with electric appliances, including air conditioners, that require an auxiliary generator," said Judy Whitfield, coordinator for the Texas Poison Center Network and a staff member of the bureau of epidemiology at the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

These generators, she notes, also are becoming more common on cabin cruisers.

Some carbon monoxide poisonings also happen to people who are sitting in the rear of open boats moving slowly through the water or who are hanging onto or sitting on a rear swim platform near an engine's exhaust.

Nationally, about 300 deaths have been reported due to boat-related carbon monoxide poisonings. No deaths were recorded in Texas in 2000 (the most recent year statistics are available), from boat-related carbon monoxide poisonings.

"Usually no one is concerned about carbon monoxide being a danger in the open air," Whitfield said. "But we are advising boat users to be alert to any symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning including headaches, nausea and difficulty with balance."

Experts also recommend these precautions to boat users:

- Do not allow anyone to swim near the rear of a boat or occupy the rear swim platform if an engine is operating that area.

- Do not tie together two houseboats with side-exhausting generators. This creates a potentially deadly environment both indoors and outdoors.

- Never enter the airspace beneath the swim deck of any houseboat that has a rear exhausting generator if that engine is operating. Even after engines are shut down, high carbon monoxide concentrations remain in the confined airspace for a long time. If you own such a boat, get it retrofitted to reroute the exhaust safely.

In 2001, total poisonings reported to the Texas Poison Center Network increased in every age group during the warm months of April to September. Of the 156,723 confirmed poisonings last year, 82,026 poisonings occurred from April to September.

A new national hotline number, 1-800-222-1222, is available 24 hours a day. Caller are automatically connected to specially trained nurses, pharmacists and physicians at the closest local poison control center. Poison treatment and control experts respond to emergencies and answer poison-related ques-

Examining the mystery of aloe

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
COLLEGE STATION -

If grandma gets a bedsore, the best thing to put on it might be a plant that's been used for 5,000 years.

The mysterious Aloe vera has been a source for healing since Old Testament times, and a Texas A&M University researcher is trying to uncover just what the substances are in the plant that work wonders and how they do it so that more might be learned about treating wounds.

Dr. Ian Tizard, a professor of immunology in the College of Veterinary Medicine, is studying a special polysaccharide, the substance that forms along cell walls of the Aloe vera, to see how it performs its healing tricks.

The Aloe vera is native to North Africa but now can be found almost worldwide, Tizard says. A succulent, it thrives in warm and dry climates very much like cactus does.

But unlike its prickly cactus cousin, Aloe vera is in a class by itself when it comes to certain healing properties. There are more than 100 species of aloe, but Tizard says Aloe vera is the one that has drawn the most scientific interest.

"When Aloe vera is placed on many types of wounds, such as bedsores, it can often heal the wound quickly, and the likely reason why is the special polysaccharide in it," Tizard explains.

"Many plants contain this polysaccharide, but the kind found in Aloe vera works differently, we've learned. It seems to bind growth factors in wounds whereas normally they would be destroyed. Aloe vera polysaccharide seems to speed along the healing process much quicker.

Kaci Stephens, Brad Fisher marry in Lubbock

Kaci Stephens of Farwell and Brad Fisher of Eagle River, Alaska, were married July 6 in a candlelight ceremony at St. Paul of the Plains Historic Chapel in Lubbock.

Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Rick Sullivan of Artesia, N.M., a longtime family friend and former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Farwell.

The bride is the daughter of Darrell and Eva Dean Stephens of Farwell and the bridegroom is the son of David Fisher of Anchorage, Alaska, and Cathy Fisher of Seattle.

The ceremony took place before three arched windows, outlined with fresh garland of Sprengeri fern, gypsophila and Italian Ruscus. The windows were flanked by golden candelabra entwined with gypsophila and Sprengeri.

The unity candle sat in a tiny alcove. Windows on each side of the chapel were decorated in the same manner as those in front. Ledges held gold-beaded votives of fragrant fresh-cut tuberose candles.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a traditional sheath gown with detachable cathedral-length train, fashioned of ivory Italian satin.

The fitted bodice was encrusted with pearls and bridal lace and featured a sweetheart neckline with off-the-shoulder cap sleeves enhanced with satin bows. Medallions of bridal lace accentuated the bottom of the dress and train, which was double-edged in European lace. The shoulder-length veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of gold and pearls.

The bride's bouquet was a nosegay of champagne, ivory and Belle Pearl roses, stephanotis, white freesia, and seeded eucalyptus. It also held a hand-sewn antique Swiss batiste handkerchief edged in old French lace given the bride by a cousin, Michele Coker of Morgan City, La., who also attended the groom's table.

Following tradition, the bride wore the diamond wedding ring of a great-aunt for something old; her wedding ensemble for something new; pearl earrings belonging to her mother for something borrowed; and a blue topaz ring given to the bride by the groom to celebrate their first Christmas together.

The bride's wedding attire was completed with a hand-sewn blue garter given to her by an aunt, Karen Wright of Friona.

Kendra Head, sister of the bride from Lubbock, served as matron of honor. She wore an ivory crepe floor-length, two-piece gown featuring a portrait neckline and semi-fitted bodice that flared into a soft peplum.

Ringbearer was Chandler Head, niece of the bride from Lubbock, who carried the rings in an atreasure box covered with ivory lace.

The groom was attired in an Oscar de la Renta tailcoat with Oscar gold vest, matching four-in-hand tie and pocket square.

Serving his brother as best man was Kirk Fisher of Anchorage. He wore a black tuxedo with ivory vest and tie.

Megan Mauldin of Portales registered guests and attended the bride's table. Ushers were Chanse Stephens, brother of the bride from Vacaville, Calif., Jason Johnson of Farwell, friend of the bride, and Bart Sikorski, friend of the groom from Anchorage. They wore black tuxedos with ivory vest and ivory four-in-hand ties.

Mrs. Brad Fisher

The ushers seated the parents of the bride and groom as well as honored guests Gary and Johnnie Coker and Dale and Tonya Gober.

Harpist Whitney King of Lubbock provided traditional wedding music.

Wedding guests visited in the rose garden adjacent to the church before moving to the nearby Garden and Arts Center for the reception.

Rickie Warren and Co. of Muleshoe served guests a pork tenderloin dinner.

The bride's table featured a swagged ecru lace cloth, with the bride's bouquet as a centerpiece. The three-tiered wedding cake contained a raspberry filling and was decorated with fondant bows, rope and swirls.

The groom's cake was a two-layer chocolate cake with raspberry filling and basket-weave icing, surrounded by mounds of chocolate-dipped strawberries. The groom's table also was appointed with a gold coffee service and an antique wicker-fishing basket filled with greenery as well as an antique fly rod. The ivory cloth was topped with fabric that complemented Johnnie Coker, Jane Stephens and Karen Wright, aunts of the bride.

Also attending were Dianna Wright, Faith Her-ring, Kristi Borthwick, Michele Coker, Renee Burrows, Kate Bartley, Jeannie Bartley and Rhonda Pummill, all cousins of the bride, as well as Megan Mauldin and Katy Timmins, friends of the bride.

After a wedding trip in the western and northwestern U.S., the couple honeymooned at the Salish Lodge at Snoqualmie Falls, Wash.

The couple will live in Eagle River. She will teach in the Anchorage School District and he works at BP Amaco of Anchorage, in addition to owning Prime Time Entertainment.

You can't predict the future, but you can plan for it now.

313 Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the Book of Genesis intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times.

A-BRIDE-FOR-ISAAC
 AS ABRAHAM NEARS THE END OF A LONG, HAPPY, AND PROSPEROUS LIFE, IT IS EVIDENT THAT GOD HAS INDEED BEEN GOOD TO HIM...

...BUT IN THESE, HIS DECLINING YEARS, ONE THING STILL WORRIES THE OLD PATRIARCH, SO...

...NOW HE SENDS FOR HIS FAITHFUL STEWARD, ELIEZER, HIS MOST TRUSTED SERVANT...

MY FATHER ABRAHAM, WHAT DO YOU DESIRE OF YOUR SERVANT?

ENTER, AND WELL MUST YOU LISTEN TO ME, O ELIEZER!

BEHOLD MY BELOVED SON ISAAC—AND HE HAS NO WIFE!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Recently, I have had the opportunity to once again see our faithful little community come to the assistance of children in need.

The Muleshoe Rainbow Room board of directors was pleased when it was announced that the proceeds from the Mayor's Prayer Luncheon would be given to us to use in our work with abused and neglected children.

Over the years I have watched our community respond to the needs of children with zeal and enthusiasm . . . and this was just another opportunity to see love shared.

The Mayor's Prayer Luncheon presented a check for $433 to the Rainbow Room, thus enabling us to take another step in our work in the community. Is there ever any way of expressing gratitude other than saying thank you? We hope there is.

You see our work at the Rainbow Room is not just clothing and assisting children, but it is an opportunity for a better life for the children we serve.

Our local CPS office is working to help parents with the stress of parenting in difficult circumstances and providing good training in parenting resources.

The Rainbow Room's resources free the case worker to work at reunification of families in crisis.

I must commend the invitation extended to Randall Terry to speak at the Mayor's Prayer Luncheon.

For you see Mr. Terry stands for the very core principles that we of this community work for each day. We strive to assure our children are well loved and cared for in many different ways.

We have parents who are committed to better economic opportunities in our community. Others work to provide after school activities for our children while still others are involved in providing opportunities to play recreational sports.

Our PTA works through the school system to provide needed resources for our schools and several local boards work directly with children and youth.

We have booster organizations that promote our kids in several areas of interest. The list of those who care about our children is long, and the membership is strong. And all of this is fueled by one thing . . . what is best for our children . . . what will give them the best opportunity at successful, productive lives in this community.

Mr. Terry stands not only for the children that we see face-to-face, but those who are yet to be born. These are the children who will one day play baseball in the summer, and run through the playground of our local school, and march to the beat of a drum in precision formation during a football game halftime.

Yes, these are the kids that you and I work for their tomorrow's today. Preserving the right to life, and the joy of experiencing life to the fullest.

We who are on the front lines know that the battle never ends, it is daily attention to the details that continue to make our community one of loving response to the needs that arise.

Mr. Terry's speech at the luncheon only served to solidify the need we have in our community and that is to seek out what is best for our children, and to have strong leaders who will follow the basic law that Jesus Christ gave His followers . . . love thy neighbor . . . and the broader statement of faith . . . "If you have done it to one of the least of these, you have done it to me."

I would like to share a quote from someone I greatly admire, and I believe his thoughts are extremely appropriate in this situation.

"It is not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done better.

"The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by the dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the greatest enthusiasms, the great devotions and spends himself in a worthy course; who at the best, knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at worst if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly; so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory or defeat."

— Theodore Roosevelt
Paris, Sorbonne, 1910

I invite everyone to join in . . . support our community. If you'd like to serve in an area of need, there are many opportunities to do so.

It is very easy to sit and criticize . . . somehow I am much more impressed with those who put a bit of "sweat equity" into the changes they would like to see.

Come and be a part of the solution. We have to be the change that we would like to see in other people.

A Wonderful Note Points To a Wonderful Blessing

A few years ago, I formed a friendship with a really nice guy that I saw occasionally in the course of my work and his. Over several years, we may not have spent a total of more than an hour together, but we saw each other regularly and we visited briefly each time. He and his young family were living in Lubbock, and, I think he said, not attending church much, but he really liked the "feel" of smaller towns in general and this one in partic-

The baby is just fine, and we're all rejoicing. And now I want to share part of a heart-warming note this family sent to "their church family":

"As we've gone through our lives, our family has had its share of experiences. Some we have embraced, and some we have done our best to avoid, but this one just hit us head on.

"We count ourselves fortunate to have a wonderful team of doctors to administer to our little one's needs, but they pale in comparison to the love and support we have in the fantastic family and friends you are. After the doctors and nurses have done their jobs, we will come home to live our lives among the greatest people God has ever blessed.

"Your love has caught us by surprise, and God's love shining through your lives has filled us with a joy and peace we did not know was missing. . . . It is a priceless gift."

And that is a priceless note.

I share it not to toot the horn of our church. Well, okay, not just to toot the horn of our church. This note and this experience made me think yet again about what a priceless blessing a church family can be. It's been a joy to fall in love with the little family I've mentioned and to watch them fall in love with us, so that now their pain is our pain and their joy is our joy, and we are one in Christ. If you've denied yourself that experience, well, you may truly not know what you are missing. There are some other fine Christian families, churches, out there. I'm so thankful to be loved by this one. Choose a great one, and love them, and let them love you with Christ's love.

ular, and he hoped that one day he and his family might find a way to move to Muleshoe. I liked him, and I just remember saying, "Well, if you ever do, I hope you'll come visit our church. I think you'll really like it."

Well, as Providence would have it (I don't believe much in "luck," you see), he and his family did move to Muleshoe. They did visit with us at church. And they very quickly became a much-loved part of our little group.

Not very long ago, a beautiful little baby boy was born into their family, but they soon discovered a physical problem that would require surgery. They consulted doctors, and their family prayed, and our church family prayed, and we did our best to help them through a difficult time.

Now the surgery is over. The problem has been fixed.

HOROSCOPES

JULY 28-AUG. 3

For entertainment purposes only

LEO - July 23/August 23

You spend your days among those closest friends this week, Leo. There's no need to take a leadership role when you're seeing everyone as equals. Romance is possible on Wednesday.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

If others insist on annoying you, keep your distance. You shouldn't get caught up in their foul mood or let it bother you one bit. Delight in some quality "alone time."

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

If you act in a selfless manner this week, Libra, your actions will have a surprisingly large impact. You can make more of a difference than you know. Enjoy the moment.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Stop being so critical, Scorpio. It's high time you start judging people by their results rather than what they did to get there. A new way of thinking inspires you on Tuesday.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Dive headfirst into an adventure in excess, Sagittarius. You may want to rule your life by your emotions for a while, since you are feeling so positive. You can't seem to get enough, so feel free to ask for more.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

You have a hard time keeping secrets this week, Capricorn. Although you may not be more talkative than usual, others seem to be more perceptive. Confide only in those people you trust.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Favorable events unfold in record time this week, Aquarius. You are in search of quality things and have no patience for anything less. Scorpio shares your point of view.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Your instincts are sharper than usual, Pisces, so don't believe anything you know deep-down is not true. A friendship needs mending and you should take the first step.

ARIES - March 21/April 20

No one can resist your fiery charm this week, Aries. People flock to you instinctually. Make sure you cast an equal amount of affection in their directions also.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

You may need to understand another point of view later in the week, even if you're not up to adopting it. It's best to keep an open mind in all situations.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

You feel empowered to blow past all of the things which have been slowing you down. Take an interest in someone's affairs and lend a helping hand.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Don't feel pressure to rush through things this week, Cancer. Remember, the tortoise beat the hare in the end. Enjoy looking at those things along the journey — it's that much more fun.

Beef cattle short course planned

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL COLLEGE STATION- Top national speakers, including Texas Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs and Linda Logan, executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, headline this year's Beef Cattle Short Course August 5-7 at Texas A&M University.

"Speakers will discuss current technical trends, Texas beef making marketing programs, animal diseases and related issues," said Dr. Larry Boleman, coordinator of the event.

For $100 per participant, producers can receive the latest information, the proceedings, several meals including a prime rib dinner, and trade show and industry materials.

Logan will be on hand to advise beef producers on the current status of tuberculosis in Texas and its marketing implications. Additionally, other threatening diseases, like chronic wasting disease, as well as Texas emergency disease preparation and biosecurity issues will be discussed.

Other speakers at the 2002 Beef Cattle Short Course include Paul Hitch, Hitch Enterprises, Inc., Guymon Okla.; John Patterson, beef specialist, Montana State University; Dave Nichols, Nichols Farms, Bridgewater, Iowa, and David Coronna, National Cattlemen's Beef Association's marketing program.

"The Beef Cattle Short

Course is a leader in producer education and is designed to bring the latest information, issues and industry changes to producers so that they can evaluate and adapt to the latest issues for greater and quicker monetary returns to their operations," Boleman said.

Producers can personalize their own training by selecting from the concurrent training sessions in grazing management workshops, breeds and sire selections, and management concepts for increasing immunity in calves. In-depth, hands-on reproductive training with bulls and cows will also be offered, as well as sessions on record-keeping systems and financial management, cattle working demonstrations with health emphasis and a basic ranch management session for beginning or novice ranch owners.

Boleman also encourages participants to attend the Cattleman's College at the Texas A&M Campus on Aug. 5.

The early registration deadline has passed, but late registration and on-site registration is available for $120 per person. For further information or a registration form, please visit the Beef Cattle Short Course website at <http://animalscience.extension.tamu.edu/beef/shortcourse.html> or contact Amy, Allyson or Jenna at (979) 845-9579 or (979) 845-6931.
