No Decision Reached On Airport Deal

Bond Election Or Warrant Issue Seen As Alternate Proposals

No decision was reached as to the procedure to be followed in acting on a petition signed by more than 1,000 voters...

Two avenues appeared open for action. One is the voting of bonds to cover the purchase price of approximately $36,000...

During Wednesday morning a group of citizens conferred with Manager E. V. Spence and City Attorney Thomas J. Coffee.

One suggestion was that the city call for a bond election in the amount sufficient for purchase and improvements.

Wednesday there was no indication as to when an election on the matter would be held.

URGES STATE WELLS ON PRISON LANDS

AUSTIN, April 22 (AP)—State Land Commissioner J. H. Walker today urged state drilling for oil on its vast prison properties.

Walker pointed out no law prohibits such a procedure, and that the only question could be the state's entry into competition with private industry.

Test North Of Here Spudded

Drilling Started On Reed No. 1 Pike, 2 Miles From City

A new oil exploration test in the area immediately north of Big Spring was under way Wednesday, after the D. C. Reed at No. 1 Pike, about two miles from the city, was spudded in by the B. A. Duffy Drilling company, contractor on the test.

The location is in an area that has been more or less circled by earlier tests, none of which encountered commercial production.

Tax Bill Ready For Debate In House

U.S. Foreign Trade Best In Five Years

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—The heaviest volume of foreign trade in five years was recorded for the first quarter of the year today by the commerce department.

While America bought slightly more abroad in that period than it sold to other nations, the totals of both imports and exports reached their highest points since 1930 and 1931 respectively.

At the same time, the department reported that, despite Mussolini's need for war supplies in his East Africa campaign, Italian purchases in America were trending downward.

In the general figures, officials pointed to two circumstances which they thought especially significant.

One showed continued gains in exports of automobiles, despite the fact that the production season was advanced by several months this year.

The other, they thought, indicated a tendency toward increased exports and decreased imports of agricultural commodities.

The quarter showed what once was termed almost universally an unfavorable balance of trade to total $5,287,000.

For the three-month period, exports were valued at $1,200,000,000 and imports at $1,205,287,000.

Cool Weather In Wake Of State Rains

Temperatures Goes Low As 24 Degrees In The Panhandle

(By the Associated Press) Chill winds from the north swept Texas overnight in the wake of life-giving rains, reducing temperatures in some sections to eight degrees below freezing.

Violent thunderstorms accompanied winds in many portions of the state. At Lockhart, lightning struck a home, knocking four persons unconscious.

The cool weather followed a day of rain that was general for a large part of the state, although the Big Spring sector received only sprinkles.

Haviest fall was at Alice, where 1.86 inches was recorded. The cattle country north of Uvalde was soaked and rivers and creeks were rising.

In the Palestine area of East Texas, where fears had been felt for the tomato crop, truck farmers reported the first general rain in two months would greatly improve the outlook.

Other places reporting good precipitation were: Vernon 1.75 inches; Merkel, 1.50; Stamford, 1.21; Falfurrias, 1.02 and Memphis, 70. Abilene had one-half inch, San Angelo 20; San Antonio 31; Corpus Christi 32; and Lubbock 26.

Colder weather was forecast for East Texas, with possible frost in the north portion.

Employment Gain Shown

Industrial Payrolls Also Above Figures Of Last Year

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—A 25.5% gain in employment in manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries during March was reported today by Secretary Perkins.

She said that in one branch of the steel industry production was above the 1929 level.

Weekly payrolls in industries surveyed by the bureau of labor statistics, she said, were $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 more than a year ago.

At the same time, she said that four and a half million young people had entered the labor market since 1929, and that employment would have to be 124 per cent of the "normal" level to absorb the extra potential workers.

75-YEAR-OLD RIFLE IS EXHIBITED HERE

Kin Barnett Wednesday exhibited a buffalo rifle more than 75 years old.

Made in 1865, it was the first repeating rifle placed on the market. It was manufactured by the Spencer Firearms company and patented five years previously.

It is a short barreled gun, shooting lead nose bullets larger than .45 caliber, and is loaded by a magazine plunger from the butt of the gun.

Barnett obtained the gun from an old German at Fredericksburg, Texas.

Crown Prince Assumes Rule Of Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, April 22 (AP)—Crown Prince Afa Woson took control of the Ethiopian government today on direct orders from his father, Emperor Haile Selassie.

The prince returned to the capital amid reports that the reorganized Ethiopian army, making a last stand against the Italians, mutinied as the emperor personally directed the defense.

The Italians advancing from Desaye were reliably reported to be within 70 miles of the capital, although Ethiopians claimed the defenders were successfully blocking the invaders.

Road Still Clear Confirmed reports disclosed that the primitive and precipitous highway from Desaye, a town now in the hands of Italians, is still practically clear of the European invaders.

(The Addis Ababa correspondent of the British Exchange Telegraph Agency reported to London that an Ethiopian infantry column had reached an airfield northwest of Desaye and burned 19 Italian airplanes and the entire gasoline supply.)

There were indications that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander, might attempt to cross up Ethiopia's defense plans by a surprise advance on Addis Ababa from the east or southeast.

Government officials expressed belief Marshal Badoglio would mark time now that the league of nations has failed to adopt stronger sanctions, but the Desaye road still appears to be the logical route for an attempted advance on the capital.

For this reason Ethiopian armies are being rapidly reinforced south of Desaye.

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—A love seat as Mrs. Titterton had directed. It was when he returned with his employer to deliver the couch that the body was found.

In a joint statement announcing that Florence had admitted the crime, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine and District Attorney William C. Dodge said the piece of string—the only tangible clue left by an otherwise methodical killer—solved the case.

They said it was part of the piece of twine he used to bind Mrs. Titterton's hands before he attacked her.

Commissioner Valentine said Florence disclosed he had tried to drown his victim in the bathtub after assaulting her. There was no stopper in the tub, however.

An autopsy showed that Mrs. Titterton, 34-year-old wife of a broadcasting company executive had inhaled some water but had died of strangulation. A garrot fashioned from her pajamas was knotted about her neck when the body was found.

Two Call For Hypodermic To Ease Pain

Difficult Task Of Bringing Pair To Surface Not Yet Accomplished

AUSTIN, April 22 (AP)—Gov. James V. Alfred said today that approval of the Texas old age assistance law by the federal government meant that pensions payments will be started as originally planned, not later than July 1.

In Washington yesterday the social security board announced approval of the Texas pension system.

No Allocation The board said no allocation of funds would be made, however, until the state old age pension commission, headed by Orville S. Carpenter, submitted definite estimates of the number of needy aged in the state.

State officials estimate that 60,000 needy aged persons will be eligible for assistance under the plan and that the monthly cost will be about $1,500,000 on the basis of an average monthly grant of $20 per person, the board said.

The program will be administered by a single state agency, the Texas Old Age Assistance commission, through its 20 district offices.

Dollar For Dollar Officials said the Texas program would become effective June 1, when the federal government will match dollar for dollar, up to $15 any money Texas contributes to the payments.

Carpenter, who came here to ask approval of the program, said the state already had about $1,500,000 pledged for this purpose from liquor revenues and estimated that between $5,000,000 and $5,000,000 would be available by the time the plan became effective.

TO GO TO SNYDER ON EXHIBIT PLANS

W. T. Strange, Jr., chamber of commerce manager, will go with S. A. Dehman, Midland county agent, Friday in a trip to Snyder where they are to confer with Harry Winston, head of the Texas Hereford Breeders association, relative to this district's exhibit in the frontier centennial exposition at Fort Worth today.

Type of exhibit, which must deal with the history, development and growth of the cattle industry, and means of financing it will be discussed with Winston.

Strange and Dehman, both members of the district No. 6 committee, conferred on the matter here Tuesday afternoon.

RIOTING CONTINUES, EIGHT ARABS SLAIN

JERUSALEM, April 22 (AP)—Police allegedly killed eight Arabs and wounded 88 in repulsing armed attacks on Jewish settlements in various parts of the country as racial rioting stormed into its third week today.

According to reports, troops aided police in one settlement, surrounding the Arabs and routing them with gunfire.

UTAH SLAYER MUST FACE FIRING SQUAD

SALT LAKE CITY, April 22 (AP)—Delbert Green's last hope of escaping death before a firing squad at State's Prison vanished when the state board of pardons terminated a reprieve and refused to commute his death sentence to life imprisonment.

The decision closed six years of litigation. Defense attorneys said they would take no further action.

The action returned the case to the second district court where Green will be taken before Judge Eugene E. Pratt for resentencing.

Piece Of String Provides Solution To Slaying Of N. Y. Woman Author

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—A piece of string, such as upholsterer use, today had provided police with a fiction-like solution of the death of Mrs. Nancy Titterton in the Beekman Place murder mystery.

After 12 days of tracing the twine found beneath the body of the young writer, who was assaulted and strangled to death on Good Friday, authorities suddenly announced:

"We have broken the Titterton case, and now have in custody the perpetrator, who has confessed."

"He is John C. Florence, 34, an upholsterer of Brooklyn."

Florence, an ex-convict, was booked on a homicide charge. Florence was one of the four men present when the titian-haired author's virtually nude body was found in the bathtub of her Beekman Place apartment. He was the one who called the police, on her telephone.

Between the time of the killing and the time the body was found, authorities said, Florence repaired a love seat as Mrs. Titterton had directed. It was when he returned with his employer to deliver the couch that the body was found.

In a joint statement announcing that Florence had admitted the crime, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine and District Attorney William C. Dodge said the piece of string—the only tangible clue left by an otherwise methodical killer—solved the case.

whom were in agony from the privations of their long underground imprisonment.

Call For Hypodermic Three veteran miners were the first to reach the noted Toronto surgeon and his friend. Their pain was so nearly unbearable that Robertson, shortly before the miners reached them, asked that a hypodermic needs be ready when the men were taken out.

Hundreds of persons waited at the surface of the mine to assist in the rescue. Stretches were taken down the shaft and ambulances were standing by.

Fears were felt that the walls might cave in on the rescuers. Dr. F. R. Davis, minister of health, went down the shaft to administer first aid and to give the hypodermic.

Through Narrow Tunnel It was known on the surface how long it would take to get the living men and the body of their dead companion to the surface. The dead man was Herman Magill, Toronto lawyer and interested with Dr. Robertson in the mine, who succumbed Monday after having been in the mine six days.

The rescuers' final course lay through a long, twisting, narrow tunnel, difficult to carry anything through.

Wives of the two living and Mrs. Herman Magill, widow of the other, waited in the mine offices near the shaft for the rescue to be effected.

Authorities ordered an inquest into Magill's death as soon as the body reaches the surface.

At 1:40 p. m. (CST) there was still no word of the men having been brought from the mine.

Rescuers had worked feverishly for days to reach the men entombed when a section of the mine caved in.

The collapse of rotten cribwork as the crews labored yesterday caused moments of despair, but carpenters immediately were sent below to replace the supports with new timbers.

Trapped Easter Sunday The men had been held in a dark and damp chamber on the 141-foot level, where they were trapped while on an inspection trip Easter Sunday night. Robertson and Magill were co-owners of the mine, while Scadding is a trustee.

Skilled miners bored with a diamond drill through rock directly to the shaft where the men were imprisoned. Behind them were stores of volunteer workers removing debris.

Many of the workers were so exhausted that they operated in 15-minute shifts but some had not been to the surface for 30 hours, determined to be the first to break through the underground prison.

TWO KILLED WHEN PLANE LOOPS AND BURSTS INTO FIRE

ALAMEDA, Calif., April 22—Two aviators were killed when their plane groundlooped and burst into flames at the San Francisco Bay Airfield yesterday.

The victims were "Buz" Morrison, prominent Reno, Nev., flier, and J. F. Long, head of an aircraft service.

Morrison had brought his plane here from Reno for repairs and the men were starting a test flight when the accident occurred.

Wives Of Physicians Organize

West Texas Towns Send Representatives To Meeting

Wives of physicians residing in this section of West Texas were invited to meet together at the Settles hotel Tuesday for a luncheon to form a medical auxiliary. Invitations were sent to women in Midland, Odessa, Stanton and Wink. The Big Spring women were hostesses.

The organization was formed at the luncheon, with the assistance of three Abilene medical auxiliary workers. They were Mrs. J. Frank Clark, Mrs. Joseph Daly and Mrs. E. R. Snow. All three made talks and explained the advantages and the purpose of such an organization.

Dr. F. W. Malone was present as a representative of the physicians to welcome the new auxiliary.

Mrs. J. C. Chapple of Midland was elected president and Mrs. W. J. Whitehouse of Midland, corresponding and recording secretary.

Other officers chosen were: Mrs. C. K. Bivings, first vice-president; Mrs. M. H. Bennett, second vice-president; Mrs. E. V. Hedley, Odessa, third vice-president; Mrs. Verd Van Gieson, fourth vice-president; Mrs. P. W. Malone, treasurer; Mrs. T. E. Hoover, parliamentarian; Mrs. G. H. Wood, publicity; Mrs. W. E. Ryan, Midland, historian.

The auxiliary will meet monthly, the meetings to be held on the second Thursdays. Next month Midland will be the hostess.

REVUE POSTPONED

The Hollywood Revue, that the members of the colored church planned to give Thursday evening at the colored school house, has been postponed, announced the play director Evelyn Mitchell. The revue will be given later, the date to be announced when the director decides upon it.

Cardui

Helped Three Times

At three different times, Cardui has helped Mrs. Ike Wright, of Bealy, Texas. "I used Cardui, when a girl, for cramps, and it helped then," she reports. Next, after marriage, she reports having taken Cardui when she felt weak, nervous and restless before her children were born.

And during middle life, it helped her again. "I was miserable," she explains. "I did not have an appetite. I was very blue and upset. I remembered Cardui had helped me, so I took it again and soon began to pick up. I ate and had more strength. I kept up the Cardui and did not have any more trouble. Is it any wonder that I recommend Cardui to all my friends?"

"Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—adv.

Four Aces Group Meets For Shower

Surprises Member At A Tacky Party Given By Miss Avriett

Members of the Four Aces Bridge club, meeting with Miss Enid Avriett as hostess at the home of Mrs. Pete Sellers, surprised one of their number with a kitchen shower Tuesday evening. The honoree was Mrs. Charles A. Frost, the former Miss Marie Johnson.

The party was announced as a tacky party and the guests asked to dress appropriately; this they did to the satisfaction of the hostess. Tallies carried out the same motif by being mated; the scorepads were of brown paper, and paper cups and plates were used. A color scheme of green and white was used in the table covers. Red lemonade, doughnuts, apples were the refreshments. During the bridge games, all-day suckers and blow gum were passed.

Miss Coulter received as a prize, a pair of gloves, for being judged the tackiest members present. Miss Haley made the "tackiest" bridge score and was given note paper.

When the refreshments were over most of the guests left in a body pretending to be gone for the evening. Before Mrs. Frost departed Miss Nell Davis returned to ask why a tow sack of tin cans had been placed in her car. The sack was brought into the house and opened. It contained gifts for the kitchen for the honoree of the evening, who until that time had no idea the party was for her.

Miss Blouise Easley and Mrs. Walter Broughton were the only non-members present. Members attending were: Mmes. Frost, Loy Acuff, who will entertain next, Waldo Green, Pete Sellers; Misses Agnes Currie, Mary Fawn Coulter, Nell Davis, Clara Secrest, and Gene Dubberly.

Mrs. Wayne Mathews Is Good Times Hostess

Mrs. Wayne Mathews was hostess to the members of the Good Times club Tuesday afternoon for an afternoon devoted to sewing and talk.

Club visitors were: Mmes. A. E. Underwood, Chester Cluck and Milton Everetts.

Members attending were: Mmes. J. B. Harrison, Larson Lloyd, J. A. Coffey, Horace Reagan, E. T. Smith.

Mrs. Coffey will be the next hostess.

Dr. and Mrs. Amos R. Wood returned Wednesday morning from a three-day trip to Waco where they attended the Texas Optometrists association.

Big Spring Celebrates San Jacinto Day With Operetta Telling History Of Famous Texas Mission Window

The San Jacinto day Centennial operetta played to a crowded house at the City auditorium Tuesday evening. The cast of characters acquitted themselves with distinction and the many musical numbers were received with heavy applause.

In commemoration of the day, seven Boy Scouts marched in with a Texas flag and a United States flag and gave the presentation of colors ceremony while the high school band played "Star Spangled Banner."

Several song and dance numbers in costumes of the Spain of that period provided the proper atmosphere. Little Miss Mary Ann Dudley and Dean Miller rendered a clever duet. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riegel danced, also in costumes of the eighteenth century.

The string ensemble taught by Miss Evelyn Jackson was heartily applauded. The girls of the high school chorus, all of them garbed as señoritas thronging the streets of old Spain, gave the play a colorful start. The duet by Camille Koberg and Bill Lewis that told of the young sculptor's love followed the singing of the chorus.

The acting of the characters was admirable. Miss Edith Gay faithfully represented the timid Indian girl in love with the handsome young sculptor. J. C. Milburn was a striking young Spaniard wearing grey tights and a coat of mail. Miss Virginia Lois Ogden did an excellent bit of acting. W. J. McNallen was a dignified priest, and J. W. Maddrey played the role of the father well. Camille Koberg was beautiful as the young Rosita and Lewis measured up to the requirements of a handsome young sculptor.

The background containing the rose window was painted by Mr. and Mrs. James Schmidt and represented that section of the San Jose mission as it appeared when the building was new. One of the loveliest scenes of the play was the effect of the window with the light from the chapel inside giving it a rose glow. Members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority met the operetta guests at the door. A group of girls in Spanish costumes acted as junior hostesses and distributed programs.

Members of the sorority are: Mrs. Ruth Alhart, Mrs. C. A. Bickley, Mrs. Thos. J. Coffey, Mrs. Ira Driver, Mrs. W. J. McAdams, Mrs. W. J. Maddrey, Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, Mrs. Fox Stripling, Miss Mary Burns, Miss Edith Gay, Miss Roberta Gay, Miss Edith Hatchett, Miss Mayme Lou Parr, Miss Lelene Rogers.

The junior hostesses were: Mary Elizabeth Dodge, Addie Lee Cotton, Margaret Parker, Eloise Kuykendall.

Members of the high school band appeared in several numbers. The band was composed of the following:

Cornet—Robert Jackson Cook, Chas. Ewell McQuain, Bill Edwards, Wayne Burch, Wendell Parks, Eddie Savage, Edward Johnson, Louis Compton.

Clarinet—Lorin Warren, Homer Adams, E. C. Bell, John Stiff, Doris Ann Hayward, Mayme Wilson, Mary Nell Edwards, Francis Jones, Gene Flewellen, Leon Pearce, Edie Counts.

Drums—Hoyle Nix, Joe Myers

Austin Burch. Baritone—Bobby McNew, Wesley C. (Torchy) Bright (drum major), Frank Wentz.

Basses—Aaron McGee, Harold Neel. Trombone—Louis Coffey, Addison Cotton, Corinne Mittle, Claudis Piper.

Saxophone—Sidney Mellinger, Jackie Bishop, Geo. Miller. Drum Majors—Wesley C. (Torchy) Bright, Chas. Ray Sikes.

Alto—Wayne Nance, Dick Ray, R. H. Miller, Harold Scarborough, C. A. Murdock.

In the Boy Scout troop directed by Jack Hodges were: John and Harry Bloushield, J. L. Wood, Jr., Warren Woodward, Arvie Walker, Billie Shaw, Jack Cook, bugler.

The high school chorus was composed of: Judith Pickle, Dorothy Campbell, Merle Nealy, Harriet Hall, Lottie Lee Williams, Beniah Coleman, Mary Freeman, Clarinda Mary Sanders, Emily Stalcup, Lillie Mae Little, Mary Louise Inkman, Claudis Merle Piper, Lois Whitehead, Nancy Phillips, Francis Todd, Don Hutto, Loveta Ludlan, Kathryn Barrett, Mamie Lee Piper, Jane Lee, Hannah, Maxine Howard, Clara Lou Nummy, Wanda McQuain, Willis Nell Rogers, Leola Mac Hall, Elizabeth Ann Burrell, Addie Lee Cotton, Betty Cravens, Mary Ruth Diltz, Jenn Etta Dodge.

Frances Paylor, Ina Ann Raliff, Joyce Croft, Robbie Elder, Mary Elizabeth Dodge, Frances Cooper, Kathleen Williams, Frances Hurley, Mrs. Bruce Frazier were the director.

String ensemble, conducted by Miss Evelyn Jackson, was composed of Bobby Jean Cook, Lovella Bell, Ray Wilson, Berlie Fallon, Nellie B. Burns, Dorothy Fain, Maurine Rowe, Perry Thomas, Ruth Thomas, Lillian Hurt.

M. L. Blackwelder directed the Forsan chorus. Mrs. William Conner, Jr., was the pianist. The girls were:

'Major Bowes Day' Proclaimed By Mayor Honoring Amateur Unit To Appear At Ritz Theatre On Friday

In recognition of the popularity Major Edward Bowes and his radio amateur hour, Mayor C. E. Talbot has issued a proclamation declaring Friday "Major Bowes Day" in Big Spring. On that day one of the Bowes' amateur units—designed especially for the Texas Centennial—will appear on the stage at the Ritz theatre.

Performers who won honors on the Major's radio hour will present songs, dances and novelties in four shows during the day. This will be in addition to the regular screen program.

Mayor Talbot's proclamation follows:

"Whereas, Major Edward Bowes and his justly famous National Amateur Radio Hour has attained universal renown as the first ranking radio program; and

"Whereas, Major Bowes, because of his kindly consideration and intelligent guidance is assisting and making it possible for worthy amateur talent to get its hearing before the American public; and

"Whereas, Major Bowes has delighted radio audiences throughout the country and given employment to numbers of amateur performers and through them spread happiness and good cheer to thousands of theater-goers; and

"Whereas, Major Bowes' Centennial Amateur Unit Number Fourteen, consisting of a group of nationally acclaimed performers is to appear in person at the Ritz Theatre Friday, April 24, I, C. E. Talbot, Mayor of Big Spring, do hereby declare that day Major Bowes Day in this city and environs, and urge the people of this community to lend their support toward a material welcome to these young people.

"Given under my hand and seal, C. E. TALBOT, Mayor.

Romance in the tropics, and stark drama on uncharted coral islands—these are among the contrasting elements in the South Sea, where "Last of the Pagans," M-G-M picture of Polynesian life was filmed. The picture is at the Queen Wednesday and Thursday.

Director Richard Thorpe took a production unit to the last of the "unspoiled" islands of the group and was five months in the making of the new picture, with Mala, hero of "Eskimo" and Lotus Lunge as the only Hollywood players.

The entire population of the coral island of the Pacific was impressed to act. A few white men, sailors and overseers were enlisted for other roles. In this island paradise the romance of the native warrior and the woman he loves was unfolded before the camera. Native dances and customs were filmed. Thrills of swordfish and shark Mala's battle to the death with a wild boar and the great typhoon that swept the island were filmed for tense episodes.

Jacob Coxey, Now 81, Still Seeks Office

The "General" Presidential Candidate For Farmer-Labor Party

COLUMBUS, O., April 22 (AP)—High-collared, gray-haired "General" Jacob S. Coxey, still marches to the political wars.

This time he is the presidential candidate of the farmer-labor party, and although he decided against entering Ohio's primary May 12, he has obtained information relative to making the race in November.

"General" Coxey, who attracted attention 42 years ago by leading an "army" of unemployed on Washington, declined to participate in Ohio's primary on the ground it was a "farce." He was named a presidential nominee at a farmer-labor convention in Omaha last July.

Cited History The veteran campaigner for "money-at-cost" said the Ohio primary decision was prompted by the fact that although he polled the highest preferential vote—75,644—in the primary four years ago, republican convention leaders refused to recognize him.

Ohio's preferential balloting provides only a popularity test as the result is not binding on convention delegates.

Coxey, former mayor of Massillon, O., and now a resident of Jackson, Mich., has actively supported the Townsend plan of $200 a month pensions for all over 60 years old.

Holds Unorthodox Views "General" Coxey—he got the title on the historic march to the capital—has long advocated unorthodox economic views.

Beginning life as a mill worker and engineer, the wrinkled 81-year-old perennial candidate for public office went into the scrap iron business and later purchased a silica sand quarry which made him prosperous.

Among Coxey's financial schemes was one to provide legal tender money without interest.

Barkeep Mixes Drinks 45 Years Won't Taste 'Em

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 22 (AP) For 29 years Vic Laska has been mixing drinks all the way from Sloppy Joe's in Havana to South Bend, but he has yet to taste one of his own concoctions.

If it wasn't for a glass of beer every two or three years, Vic says he would qualify as a total abstemious. It has been two years since his last glass, but he figures he may quaff another if the coming summer gets too warm.

Vic was born in Vienna about 60 years ago. He speaks English, German, Bohemian, Hungarian and Polish and says he can swear in Spanish. He picked up the latter at Sloppy Joe's in Havana, where, he says, it was hot enough "to make anyone do a little cursin", even if he had to learn the language of the country.

Nowadays Laska is head bartender in a South Bend hotel. From his point of vantage, he says people on both sides of the bar are going to have to learn how to use liquor or prohibition will come back.

Vic learned his trade in Chicago while waiting for a job as court interpreter. Later he owned a liquor establishment in LaPorte, Ind., converting it into a restaurant when prohibition went into effect. He went to Havana in 1925 and returned to this country with royal

Indiana Man Introduces New Party Designed To Staff The Government With A 'Pluperfect' Brain Trust

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 22 (UP)—The Scientific Government Party, which would staff the federal government with "genuine brain trusters," has entered the nation's political scene under the guidance of its inventor and most ardent booster, John J. Engeldrum.

For sheer novelty the S.G.P. rivals the most fantastic schemes devised by inventive students of civics, and Engeldrum hopes it will appeal to students "in and out of schools, colleges and universities."

Chief plank of its highly technical platform is that "science and experience are necessary for good government."

The inventor explains the S.G.P.'s principles in a brochure entitled "The Proclamation and Platform of the Scientific Government Party."

Theory Based on Science Engeldrum's theory, summarized, is that the natural sciences are fundamental to efficient human activity. Therefore, if government is to be successful it must be conceived in the scientific spirit.

To that end the new party would stipulate the following rigid requirements for candidates:

"To be eligible to the United States Senate or to the lower house, each candidate must hold a degree in the sciences of eugenics, biology, political economy and constitutional law."

"No person shall be eligible to the office of president or vice president who does not hold a degree in the sciences of eugenics, psychology, political economy and constitutional law."

Cabinet Qualifications High Only graduate students with a special background need apply for cabinet jobs under Engeldrum's party organization. The secretary of labor, for instance, must have been "employed at least five years as a mechanic in an important industry and hold a degree in eugenics, biology and political economy."

Engeldrum declares that "the postmaster general must have had at least seven years experience as an employe in one or more departments of the United States mail service and hold a degree in physiology, hygiene and psychology."

The S.G.P. would create at least two new cabinet posts, a secretary of health and a secretary of education.

Both officers would be amply fortified with a background of college training.

Wants Permanent Juries Engeldrum urges that a criminal jury be composed of seven educated men, holding various degrees, and it be kept on the job permanently or until found guilty of incompetence or moral turpitude.

Regarding economic and social problems, Engeldrum would establish a tariff based on "live and let live" principles, insure social justice by guaranteeing a living wage and avoid depression by increasing production and expanding purchasing power. Details of this vast program would be worked out by the university-trained politicians of the future.

Engeldrum emphasized the necessity of adhering closely to the constitution.

GRAIN RATES FROM ST. LOUIS TO TEXAS SET FLAT 41 CENTS

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—To clarify provisions of the western grain freight rate decision last year, the Interstate Commerce Commission issued today a supplemental ruling making revisions in numerous rates.

Commission officials said the changes would not have any effect on railroad revenue and were designed to make technical corrections in the complex rate structure.

A flat rate of 41 cents from St. Louis to points from Sweetwater to El Paso, Texas, was prescribed.

Treasury To Cut Red Tape To Pay Bonus

Every Effort Will Be Made To Simplify Procedure Of Disbursement

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—The federal government in making cash payment of the bonus this summer, intends to proceed on the theory that all war veterans are honest men.

Those in charge of the machinery now being set up in the postoffice department virtually have decided to omit final formalities such as taking veterans' fingerprints.

As explained by one high government official, every effort will be made to simplify the procedure. When it is considered that treasury officials estimate if the bonus bonds to be issued were laid end to end they would reach from New York to London then still go on almost to Moscow, the tremendous amount of routine involved in their handling is easily understood.

Want Vets To Keep Bonds There's an element of psychology in the decision to issue bonds to remove as much red tape as possible in the issuance of bonus bonds which may be traded for cash.

Everything possible is being done to persuade the veterans to retain their bonds as long as possible. If treasury officials could figure out even approximately what would be done with this bonus money a lot of their troubles would be removed.

Fiscal experts, however, are up against something entirely new in trying to make such estimates. Relief needs, consumer demand and a host of other influences enter into the question.

It's a vastly different proposition from that presented in government offerings to banks and business men. A fraction of an advance in the interest rate on government securities will cause almost a stampede among those with money to lend. March offerings, for example, were greatly oversubscribed although the interest yield is less than two and one-half per cent.

The bonus bonds always will be worth their face value, and if held, will be worth more after the first year because they bear interest at the rate of three per cent annually until June 15, 1945.

Bonus Affects Borrowings The treasury is concerned over the amount of bonus money to be spent immediately after payment because plans must be made in the next few months for further financing.

In addition to providing funds for paying the bonus, demands for continuance of work relief shortly will begin to drain the treasury. Some bond men estimate the government must borrow $500,000,000 in the next few months, although others are of the opinion that because many of the veterans, in the words of Secretary Morgenthau, will tuck their bonds in the strong-box for the "sake of their wives and children," such heavy borrowing will not be necessary.

SETTLER TEAM TAKES LEAD IN SOFTBALL LEAGUE FOX HITTING THE BALL WITH HIS OLD TIME ZEST

LEE'S CLUB DEFEATED, 17 TO 14

(By HANK HART) Rallying with wild scoring surges in the stretch innings and fighting off a desperate Pirate rally in the seventh frame, Howard Thomas Settles Coffee Shop team jumped away into the leadership of the American Munny softball league.

The Buccs went out in front during the first two innings when they got to Ray McMahon for six runs, but a wobbly defense that had failed to support McMahon in those stanzas tightened for the rest of the game and some heavy hitting on the part of the Hotelmen in the second and sixth stanzas put them out in front.

The Pirates scored three in the first when Lloyd, McLaren and Asbury went across on a deluge of Settles' miscues, and the Pirate added another trio in the second when the same three pounded across again.

Redding's run gave the Settler boys their first and only counter in the initial frame, but Abbie Burrus proved an easy mark in the second when the Thomasmen took the lead with a seven-run spurge.

Hart tripled the first three runs across when he came up with the bases loaded; Pickle accounted for the next two when he clouted out a mighty home run with McMahon aboard, and Jimmy Ford went over after he had doubled Morgan across for the sixth run.

The Lee's aggregation fought back on even terms, but a big sixth frame gave Settles a good advantage. Seven runs, beginning with Redding's single and ending with Ford's one-base blow, were recorded in that outburst.

The Pirates rallied desperately with five successive hits in their part of the seventh, but their chance for victory was lost when White and Covington grounded out.

Pickle, with a home run and two singles, and Hart, with a triple and two doubles, led the Settles' assault while Asbury was the Lee's leader with two doubles.

Lifting Or Scooping Ball Is A Common Fault Of Most Golfers

HIGH SCORE OF 25-HANDICAP GOLFER ACCOUNTED FOR IN FAIRWAY AND 'GREEN' PLAY

(By LAWSON LITTLE) AUGUSTA, Ga., April 22.—After a rather extensive survey that I conducted at the recent master's tournament at Augusta, Ga., I found that, in the opinion of the majority of recognized instructors, lifting or scooping the ball was probably the most common fault found in the average over-40 shooter.

All of the professionals questioned agreed that the high score of the 25-handicap golfer could be accounted for in his play through the fairway and on the greens. This, of course, only excludes driving, but driving is the department of the game that is practiced most by all players, whether they are good or bad.

This lifting or scooping the ball comes from a quick flick of the wrists at the bottom of the swing as the club head nears the ball. This error is more noticeable in the short approach shots with the pitching clubs. The player feels that he must get the ball up, so he tries to help it by lifting.

If the shot is successful it will be what is called a floater shot—that is, the ball will sail through the air with no noticeable amount of spin. Spin of the ball is essential for a well-controlled shot, whether it is an overpin or a backspin.

Some of the bad results from hitting a shot in this manner are: First, it is very easy to hit behind the ball, thus killing all the power of the shot; second, it is likely that the player will catch the ball on the upstroke with the sharp blade of the club and the ball will go bounding far beyond the intended mark. And almost as important, a quick-stop shot is practically impossible.

Give Clubhead Chance to Lift Ball The reason for this fault being so common is that few players realize that the club will get the ball up in the air if it is given a chance. Take, for example, the approach club, say the No. 7, No. 8 or the No. 9. These clubs are constructed with enough loft to knock the ball high in the air without any lifting attempts by the player.

(AMARILLO, April 22.—Of the eight or more special trains to bring delegations to the West Texas chamber of commerce convention here, May 11-13, arrangements already have been completed for three.

Definite assurance of large and representative delegations coming by special train already has been received from Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls. Jed Rix, convention manager, said today each of the three cities would bring bands and other entertainment aboard the specials.

With the Wichita Falls delegation will be a 25-piece band, a quartet, a "home town" speaker and talent for the convention pageant, "West Texas Cavalcade."

Although Fort Worth sent a special train to the recent cattlemen's convention that city will send another special for the West Texas convention, according to Charles G. Cotten, manager of trade extension for the Fort Worth chamber of commerce.

J. Ben Critz of Dallas already has made arrangements for the special train from his city.

Breslin Is Up In Amateur Boxing Ranks

Son Of Former Welter Weight Champ Has Been Sensation

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—Jack Britton, the former world welter-weight champion now in charge of the Catholic boys' boxing activities in New York, is mighty proud of the progress his son, Bob Breslin, is making in the amateur boxing ranks.

Bob attends the University of Florida at Gainesville, and as a member of the boxing team stands an excellent chance of winning a berth on the American Olympic team.

The youngster boasts an impressive record of 31 victories with only two decisions of the hairline variety to mar his slate. He shows the fine hand of his father's tutoring in his boxing. A fast, clever boxer, he packs a snappy punch in both hands. There is no fiddling around once he goes into action. He moves with the deftness of a finished professional boxer.

Career Mapped Out Bob has aspirations to become a champion in the pro ranks but is saving them until he has completed his college work. Then, if he fails to show definite promise of being of championship caliber, he will switch without delay to some other business, possibly that of writing about sports.

There have been a number of cases of late where sons of ring warriors of another generation have taken up the game that brought a measure of fame to their fathers. Billy Papke's son, Billy, Jr., had a fling at boxing under the guidance of old Billy. Mike Gibbons' son, Billy, is making a place for himself as one of the leading middleweights in the present crop.

He showed much of his father's cleverness in piling up a string of more than 50 victories. Old Mike is handling his son's ring fortunes and doing a neat job of picking spots for the youth.

The younger Gibbons took to the game without the urging of his father, but once the boy showed interest Mike was quick to take him in hand. The old "Phantom" is proud of his boy's progress but insists that the lad will continue to

Illini Windy But They Can Play Football

Veteran Zuppke Neither Over-Enthusiastic Nor Down-Hearted

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 22. (AP)—The "windiest" bunch of football prospects in 13 years is Bob Zuppke's estimate of his yearlings at spring practice.

The veteran University of Illinois coach is neither over-enthusiastic nor downhearted over prospects for next fall.

"The freshmen are about 10 pounds heavier per man than our last two teams," he says. "But their tackling is not so good. I will say this for them: they're the windiest bunch we've had since Doug Morrison and his crew came up in '23."

Zuppke was an interested spectator while one picked team of freshmen defeated another 7-0 in semi-weekly scrimmages. Afterward he asked the players where they learned to tackle.

"Why they spread their arms and wait for the runner, just like a basketball player guarding a dribbler," he said.

But he had a word of praise for several players, particularly Jack Broady, 187-pound husky from Grand Junction, Colo. "Zup" said Broady is both big and fast, a combination few Illini backs have had in recent years. He also commended the work of Red King, Moline, Ill., sophomore.

Zuppke is looking to "Tiny" Carmer to supply needed weight in the line—and brains, too.

"These linemen have to learn to be quick thinkers," he said. "This 'Tiny' Carmer looks like a comer. Six feet three, weighs 211, never played football before he came here. Didn't even win a freshman numeral. But he's willing and he keeps pounding 'em hard."

HAD SPENT 11 YEARS WITH MACK

BOSTON, April 22. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx is once again hitting the ball with his old time zest. The former star slugger of Connie Mack's Athletics was delighted at the shift that sent him to the Boston Red Sox, and predicted not only a comeback but threatened to surpass the best season of his brilliant career.

The change came at just about the right time in his career. He is still plenty young enough to climb to greater heights—he's only 28 despite the fact that he is working on his 12th season in the American league. But he needed a change of scenery—needed it very badly.

He had spent 11 seasons with Connie Mack in Philadelphia—the first six in climbing to the peak with the Athletics and the latter five carrying on while the team was bled white by the sale of stars who made the winning of pennants possible. Last season when the Athletics dropped into the cellar, Foxx felt the depression in spite of his brave effort to keep blazing at top speed.

The game was getting to be old stuff to him, especially in the old surroundings. He was a kid of 17 when he came up as a catcher and won a place with the Athletics on the strength of his powerful hitting. Now he is a veteran—one who needed new pastures to graze in.

And the change to the Red Sox uniform should prove just the right sort of tonic to pep him up.

This change of scenery, and especially the change from a team destined for last place to one of the leading pennant contenders, should add years to his active playing life.

Connie Mack has little cause for complaint as far as Jimmy Foxx is concerned. Jimmy served the veteran manager well for 11 years. At various times he played third, caught, and covered first. That he was ever ready to do anything Connie Mack asked of him was best indicated by his willingness to don the catcher's mask and pads after a long layoff last spring.

Mack collected something like $200,000 from Tom Yawkey when he passed his big batter over to the Red Sox. And that $200,000 represented clear profit, for Foxx

'BAGGY PANTS' AND JIM FOXX SPRUCING UP

Al Draws Marberry's Old Suit; Foxx's Outfit Is Airy.

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP)—Fans who used to spot Al Simmons by his baggy pants and Jimmy Foxx by his blacksmith's arm bulging from a shortened shirt sleeve can't recognize these American league stars so readily this season.

When Simmons reported to the Detroit camp he was given one of Firpo Marberry's old suits. The knives curled up instead of drooping below the knees as Simmons' old uniforms always did, and Al liked the hand-me-down livery as well he's going to keep on wearing it—or one tailored on its pattern.

Boston Red Sox officials frowned on Foxx's practice of mousing up uniforms and removing the sleeves. And so they designed a special sleeve to give their new split-edged slugger plenty of arm room for his bulging biceps.

Golf Analyzed

When Bobby Jones set a course record of 64 on the Augusta national golf course, just prior to the annual open held there, he showed that he has not aged in the least golfically speaking. If he were playing regularly he would be as big a threat as ever.

What would you say was the most important thing ever done by Bobby in developing his game? Was it not his adoption of a narrow stance?

Bobby's narrow stance tended toward relaxation, made the shifting of his weight easy and automatic and gave that facility to his body turn on his hips which produced his perfect timing.

★ Man About Manhattan ★. By George Tucker.

NEW YORK — Suzanne Silvercruys, who writes books and is a famous sculptress and lecturer, is vastly concerned over the turmoil in Europe at the moment.

Even the Riviera is changed and unreal, as she notes in this letter from Villa Sirius, St.-Jean-Cap-Ferrat: "I have come down here with my father; our house is overlooking the Bay of Ville Franche."

"The Riviera is really a place which somehow seems unreal in all things—the scenery is just like a stage setting, so extraordinary colorful and picturesque."

"Monte Carlo has still some life but it is that life which to me (except for one day) is worse than death—a succession of gala dinners, dances, and mostly gambling."

"When I went to see several of the Nice 'Carnival' parades I felt that those people tried so hard to find something which wasn't there at all—they worked themselves into a frenzy hoping that this in some way would mean happiness—even the flower carnivals didn't ring true in spite of the flowers."

"I have completed a head of Maurice Maeterlinck—but to tell you about him and his lovely wife would be too long. They live in a place built like a Roman palace, or rather I should say a contemporary interpretation of a Roman palace."

"I have also done a small group in sculpture (for white marble) which was inspired by a lovely young girl violinist who played for me here, and I have called it 'Soul of the Violin.'"

"I have met so many interesting people here—Richard Le Gallienne (father of Eva) is one I can never forget, for each time I see him I think of his 'Golden Girl,' which I so loved."

Chapter 18
GAY PARADISE

Iris never had seen a platinum blonde before, except in a movie. Sigrid's naturally yellow hair had been made almost silver; her brows and lashes had been done with the conventional mascara. Aunt Ella would have called her "actress," except for her quick forthrightness of gesture and manner.

Phina introduced them formally. "Where is Mrs. Russell?" Iris asked to break the moment's tension.

"Oh, she isn't staying," Phina said.

"I do not think she will ever be worth the trouble Miss Phina put upon her," Sigrid said.

She had no foreign accent, but a slight inaccuracy about the proper valuation of words and the right intonations were a little flat and vaguely wrong, also—but it was so intangible that Iris could only feel that it was a pity one flaw marred the girl's perfection. She was so beautiful, and so obviously intelligent and charming. She looked no more than sixteen.

"I suppose it is a part of the work, but when fat women cry on me I want to give them a kick in the pants."

Her doll-like childish beauty and high cool childish voice made her rough words irresistibly funny. Owen laughed out with a look of proprietorship and pride.

"Mrs. Russell is my very good friend," Phina said, at which Sigrid lifted a black line of eyebrow mockingly. Fortunately dinner was announced.

To plainly reared Iris it looked like a party. The four tall candlesticks, with yellow candles matching yellow roses in a low translucent bowl, the lace runners, the low glass nut dishes matching the bowl for the roses. But it was, she knew, Phina's normal state. What might seem casual charm was careful correctness. Iris loved beauty and order, and it soothed and delighted her.

The little dining room had deep silver-cloth draperies, hiding the windows and making all one wall. It had odd geometric silver lights, triangular silver chairs. You fell as if you were living in a pattern, not a real, tossed-about place. You wanted to step and speak like a girl in a pageant.

The courses followed ceremoniously: clear tomato soup, a moussé of fish, peas and broccoli passed in a silver dish with two compartments. Then, an entrée with something curly which proved to be chicory and a tingling Roquefort dressing.

Finally for dessert a dish of fruit Iris had thought was, it was so beautiful, which had been standing on the old-planned side-table; and a choice of cheese and biscuits, passed on a silver dish of a sort Iris recalled put away at home, and a mystery till now. Coffee in small golden cups.

"Tired, Iris?" Phina asked when dinner was two-thirds over. "Or do you want to go to a show?"

Theater, as casually as that?

"I'd love it!"

"Get the paper, Honora—" and Phina read down the list, discarding this one and that. She settled on a revue, finally, that Iris "must see." Honora telephoned an agency; it was all arranged in five minutes.

"Iris will have to use my black velvet cape and the bag with it. I haven't her evening wraps yet," Phina said, with more seriousness than she had used on all the rest together. Her voice implied the deep importance of evening wraps and the bags which matched them. Sigrid, too, looked serious. Iris thought it was because of their business, but she discovered later that most women felt that way.

Honora came with Phina's gold and fur coat and bag and long gloves. She herself gave the black velvet cape, a short thing with long ties. Sigrid slipped into something that had been lying across a chair; Owen was given his overcoat, folding silk hat, gloves and cane.

They entered the mysterious door to the elevator, and were off. It was all pure enchantment to Iris, her first New York theater. When she told Phina, her aunt was shocked.

"Owen, you must see to that. Make out a list of revivals she must see, and buy her seats to plays she should know about."

"All right." They were settling themselves in the taxi, by a known routine: the girls on each side of Phina, Owen on the folding seat in front.

"I can't get over the casual way you use taxis," Iris couldn't help saying.

"The limousine's so good for the theater district," said Owen, above

Large Crowd At Service

The largest week night crowd of the revival campaign at the First Methodist church heard Evangelist R. L. Flowers Tuesday night. A big crowd also heard Mrs. Flowers in her sermon to the women.

Rev. Flowers said during his sermon: "When people become on too friendly terms with sin it proves to be a sedative. People will become paralyzed and then sin gets in its deadly work. Sin would destroy every home in Big Spring before midnight. Sin would wreck every fine life in this town and send him out to be a hijacker. Sin would burn down your churches and destroy your schools. Why people will trifle with sin is hard for me to understand."

Rev. Flowers will speak tonight on "The Sacred Splendor of Youth." "Broken Homes" was the sermon topic of Mrs. Flowers. In her talk she said: "One of the outstanding reasons for so many broken homes today is the intimate friend. When two people marry they insist on having an intimate friend, man or woman, and there is usually trouble awaiting such procedure. One of the most dangerous practices that is prevalent today is married folk dating other folk. What right has any married woman to be having dates with a man not her husband? That is one of the surest roads to the divorce court. There is not one word of defense for that sort of practice."

Mrs. Flowers listed as the rules for happy marriage: Learn to keep love, use common sense, maintain a mutual reserve, have common sense about sex, express your affections, do not express disapproval, avoid the intimate friend, manage to play together, live by yourselves, have an understanding about money matters, establish a church home, and have a religious family life.

Film Version Of Peter Kyne Story Offered At Lyric

"The Three Godfathers," based on Peter B. Kyne's widely-read novel, will be the feature attraction at the Lyric theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture tells the story of three bad men of the American desert who descend upon the town of New Jerusalem to rob the bank a few days before Christmas. In their escape across the desert the three men find a dying mother, an infant clutched in her arms. The untold sacrifices they make to save the baby's life and get it back safely to civilization provides the theme of the human story.

In the principal roles are Chester Morris, Lewis Stone and Walter Brennan. Others in the cast are Irene Harvey, Sidney Toler, Dorothy Tree, Roger Imhof, Willard Robertson and Robert Livingston.

Also the cast includes the unusual combination of four seven-month-old babies—two pairs of twins—who alternate in the one baby role. They are little Jean and Judith Kierchen, and Jeanne and Joanne Kelly.

NOLAND WILLIAMS IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

DALLAS, April 23—District Judge Noland G. Williams of Dallas, has announced that he was "definitely in the race" for the democratic governorship nomination.

"I will make a formal announcement in about ten days," he said, "and it will be the first of some political bombshells I intend to explode."

The jurist, who has been a storm center of local politics for several years, returned from a visit to Houston, San Antonio, Galveston and Austin, where he said he conferred with political, business and civic leaders.

"Strict law enforcement will be one of the main issues in my platform, and proper handling of old age pensions another," Judge Williams promised. "It's just a question of whether the people want my kind of government or another kind. I am convinced that the public wants assurance of honesty and integrity in the high offices of the state."

Government Police School Progressing

Trained Grads Becoming Valuable In Fighting Crime

WASHINGTON, April 22. (UP)—J. Edgar Hoover, who directs the government army of G-men in pushing back the frontiers of gangland, reported today that America's first scientific police school is progressing successfully.

"I think the federal bureau of investigation training school for police is going to go a long way toward stamping out crime in the United States," Hoover declared. "Already we see the results of the training in the rapidly with which pupils have been advanced in their home states and cities after attending the school here."

It was several years ago that Hoover first thought of training municipal police in a federal school, he said. Before long, the idea was being transformed into a reality and now the school is an institution.

"You know, we started them last summer, and the first class graduated in October," he remarked.

First Class Had 23. There were 23 men in the class. We've kept in touch with them. We know what's happened to them, since they left here. And, in many cases, it's really an interesting story.

"Some of them came in as privates of their local police force. Some were lieutenants—sergeants, too. But what has interested me in the way they've gone up in the ranks since they left.

"A few, of course, have stayed in the same positions. But others—well, here's one man who came in as a private, and now he's chief of a police department. Only about six months, too, mind you.

"This particular man is E. W. Savory, who was a patrolman on the Petersburg, Va., police force when he came to the training school. Now, he's chief of the Henrico County, Va., police department. And don't forget Henrico County includes Richmond.

"I've a list of all the men in the school, and what they're doing today.

"The first couple are doing about the same thing as they were when they came in. But Charles R. Blake, who came to the school as a sergeant of the Rhode Island State police, now is in charge of an identification bureau and bureau of criminology for state police that was organized after he got back to his home.

Lieutenant Becomes Captain. Then there's James C. Downer, who came here as a lieutenant of the Baltimore police. He's a captain now, in charge of the Baltimore police training school.

"Larry Goodrich, listed as an 'investigator'—meaning plainclothesman—for the State of Florida when he entered the school, now is in charge of the Florida state-wide police school," Hoover revealed. "And Earl Henry," he continued. "He came here as a lieutenant of the Pennsylvania highway patrol. Now he's acting superintendent of the state police training school."

Leo Mulcahy entered the school as a patrolman on the Connecticut police force, now he is an instructor in the state police training school. Morgan Naught, a patrolman in Elizabeth, N. J., followed in Mulcahy's footsteps. Now he is an instructor in the state-wide police training school.

Norman Purcell, a lieutenant in the Delaware state police force, became an instructor in the state training school after finishing the school.

C. W. Ray, a sergeant in the West Virginia state police force, advanced to a lieutenant as a result of his training. He is in charge of the identification bureau now. "Clarence Smith," Hoover said, "was one of our prize pupils. He came in as a patrolman in the police department of Stamford,

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Cabool—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just dumps in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks grim.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harsh, laxative, yet soothing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. No.

State League Contests Set May 1 And 2

Contestants From All Sections To Vie For School Honors

AUSTIN, April 22.—Ranking contestants from all sections of Texas will gather here May 1 and 2 to vie with each other for state honors in the 26th annual state meet of the University of Texas inter-scholastic league.

The final contestants in the league, an organization sponsored in one of the bureaus of the university extension service, are being brought rapidly to a conclusion, according to T. H. Shelby, dean of the extension division.

Nearly six thousand schools joined the league this year, and county meets were held in 236 counties of the state; Dean Shelby said. These initial meets were concluded during the month of March and the first week in April. Last Saturday concluded all of the 32 district meets, which admitted only those contestants who had qualified in one or another of the county meets. The coming week-end will see the district winners from the 32 district meets gather together for competitions in eight regional centers in various sections of the state. It is in these meets that high school and rural school pupils will qualify for the state meet which is held in Austin May 1-2.

The following contests are held in all of these meets, and state championships will be decided in the final state meet: Debate; declamation; extemporaneous speech; ready writing; reading; writing; arithmetic (called 3-R contest); one-act play; art in three divisions; color, charcoal, and modeling; journal—five different contests; tennis, track and field.

"There will be hardly a county in the state not represented in this great final meet, and about two thousand contestants and delegates will be assembled for two days of strenuous competition," Dean Shelby said.

TOWNSEND CALLED AS WITNESS MAY 5

WASHINGTON, April 22. (UP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend has been subpoenaed to appear on May 5th before the house committee investigating the old age pension plan.

Townsend's personal counsel said Townsend "insisted he be allowed to testify as soon as the opportunity presented itself."

Why pay more? 186 Square Inches of braking surface... more per pound of car weight than any car under $3195.

Why pay more? The Centerpoint Ride costs you $1275 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? 34-Floating Rear Axle costs you $1275 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? Dual Down-draft Carburetion... costs you $765 except in the Ford V-8.

Why pay more? A Torque-tube Drive costs you $765 except in the Ford V-8.

FORD

YOU simply can't judge the Ford V-8 by its low price. In many vital respects it is built differently from any other car on the market. This difference results in values which compare with those you find only in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

These features are basic advantages—not superficial "talking points" of questionable value or importance. Many of these extra values can be measured, in dollars and cents. All of them are vitally important to you, because they give you performance, riding comfort, ease of handling, safety and operating economy far beyond the price you pay.

You can't judge this Ford V-8 from a distance, either. Only by driving it can you know, first hand, what these extra values mean in all around satisfaction to you. Why not do this today? Just phone your Ford dealer.

PERFORMANCE WITH ECONOMY

Terms as low as $82 a month, after down-payment, under new UCC 1/2 per cent a month plan. Prices $310 and up, FOB Detroit, including Safety Glass throughout in every body type. Standard accessory group extra.
