Lord's Prayer has 56 words. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address has 266. The Ten Commandments have 297. The Declaration of Independence has 541. But a recent government order setting the price of eggs had 26,911 words.

There has been lots of free produce dropped off at The Slaton office this summer. The boys there report that Bert Kitten has given two watermelons, a big sack of corn, and some peas; Jess Blevins left two big sacks of watermelons; Elton Blevins brought two big watermelons; Elton Blevins place yielded gobs of watermelons, cantaloupe, cucumbers, cantaloupe, and free cantaloupes from the garden; tomatoes, peas, cantaloupe and green peppers came from Paul Boswell's collection; stings from a peach at Norbert's; 27 buckshot and an unidentified watermelon from east of town; and much more.

Professor Alexander Tyler, a political observer who lived two centuries ago.

democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the people discover they can vote themselves largest out of the treasury. From that moment on, the majority always for the candidate promises the most benefits from the treasury, with the result democracy always collapses over a loose fiscal policy, to be followed by dictatorship.

Have you heard about Dave's wife going to see a psychiatrist about her husband? Dave complained that her dog thought he was a dog, and she said, "Doctor," she said, "he's long."

How long has he thought he was a dog? the doctor asked. Ever since he was a puppy!

Black Lasater kept 'em in line at the Farmer-Merchant Dinner Tuesday night. He told you the story of the donkey and the watermelon.

Another top-flight joke maker rounds now is Bob Clodfelter's version of "Bill Dunbar." He'll be glad to tell you just as soon as he, Dr. Don Hatchett and Earl Ehlen return from a trip in Old Mexico.

Cravens delayed the game of himself, Luther Greg and Erwin Heinrich from an American Legion Convention in Col., to get a man. This man, a shrewd attorney, is a real iconoclast.

For now... and there are no reported findings.

Annual Farmer-Merchant Dinner Attracts 900

Cash Awards, Prizes Given In Tribute To Area Farmers

With an eye to clouds that threatened again to disrupt the outdoor affair, Slaton's massive Farmer-Merchant Dinner was carried out Tuesday night in the Little League Ball Park, with an estimated 900 persons attending. The occasion is sponsored by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

In honoring the farmers of Slaton's trade territory, the merchants of Slaton and surrounding communities distributed $300.00 in cash to the owners of the first three bales of cotton ginned, and passed out hundreds of dollars in door prizes.

Winner of the first prize for the first bale was C. V. Schneider of Union, who received $150.00. In second place was J. P. Angerer of Woodrow who received $100.00, and in third place was Jack Blevins of Willson, receiving $50.00.

Also honored was Anton Ahrens, a Wilson resident, who was the person having farmed the longest among those attending. Ahrens has farmed for 58 years.

Master of Ceremonies for the event was Hack Lasater, and Bob Clodfelter was Chairman of the Farmer-Merchant Dinner Committee.

Welcome address was given by Clark Self Jr., president of the CoC, and the Acceptance Address was given by Bobby Jones.

The Farmer-Merchant Dinner was the fourth to be held in Slaton, and is now an annual affair. It is unique in that it constitutes the only planned occasion of the year for the two groups to get together specifically for the purpose of meeting each other, and in paying tribute to the farmers of the trade territory.

Tigers Fall To Rotan; Will Meet Frenship Here Friday

The Tigers, going against Frenship and bruising their backs, will meet Rotan's Yellow Jackets Friday night in Tiger Stadium.

Coach M. W. Delaney put Coach M. W. Delaney's starters at 1-2 for the game, having faced three of the top-rated squads. It was a problem of execution and critical lack of defense for the Tigers. Rotan's complete crew of letterman returning from last year, and the going tough, and manage a safe margin in the third quarter of the game. The turning point came in the third period when the Rotan team fumbled on their 30 yard line. Rotan then scored and Frenship at 19-0. The Rotan recovered and the final minutes the Yellow Jackets added the other 16 points.

Two FFA Boys To Attend Nat'l Convention

The Slaton chapter of Future Farmers of America has elected John Mangum and Larry Delaney to attend the National convention in Kansas City, Missouri, October 10 through the 13. These two boys are officers in the chapter with John holding the office of president and Larry vice-president. The convention is generally extremely beneficial for chapter officers.

Slaton's offense showed bursts of power, but they couldn't manage the sustained drive. Backs Steve Ball and Webber Tefertiller furnished the bulk of the ground gaining, while guard John George, tackle Tommy Simmons, and end Greg Nowlin were standouts in the Slaton forward wall.

Still plagued by injuries, both Ronnie Jones and Paul Dubbs were unable to see action. Fullback Kelly Bownds is still recovering from a shoulder injury, although he has played all three games of the young season.

Rotan is this year capping a graduate class of experienced starters. They lost only two men last year, and are ranked a power within their district. They had previously defeated Ranger by 41-20.

The Tigers were returning from a bruising victory over

Kilgore, and face another tough squad this Friday night in the last of the present home series. Slaton will meet Frenship in Tiger field at 8 p.m.

Session Makes Amendments For Registration

The last regular session of the Texas Legislature amended the Texas Motor Vehicle Registration Law to allow farmers to register their farm trailers and farm semi-trailers for a $5.00 fee providing the gross weight is not less than 4,000 or more than 10,000 pounds. Farm trailers weighing less than 4,000 pounds, gross weight, are still exempt from registration by statute. Those exceeding 10,000 pounds, gross weight, must register as a regular commercial trailer.

Captain J. L. Miller, License and Weight Service of the Department of Public Safety, advised however that any vehicle bearing the $5.00 plate must not: (1) exceed 30 MPH, (2) be operated for hire, (3) have steel or metal wheels in contact with the pavement and it must be equipped with an adequate hitch to remain secured to the towing vehicle and be operated and equipped in conformity with all other provisions of the law. Violation of any of the above sections of the law nullifies the $5.00 registration fee and the trailer will be subject to the registration fees and penalties as prescribed by law.

This does not change the existing law which requires that all trailers or semi-trailers having a registered or gross weight in excess of 3,000 pounds be equipped with clearance lamps, side marker lamps, and reflectors as well as a tail light and stop light. If the stop light on the towing vehicle is obscured.

Captain Miller further stated that all machinery type vehicles, other than machinery used solely for the purpose of drilling water wells and road construction machinery, must now be registered with regular license plates and title applied for. This includes oil field drilling and servicing machinery, regardless of whether such machinery is a unit within itself or is mounted on a conventional vehicle or chassis.

Water well drilling units and road construction maintenance equipment are required to have either the $5.00 registration plate or a regular registration plate, depending upon how the equipment is used.

Captain Miller suggested that anyone needing further information should contact their county tax assessor and collector.

VIEWING:
Your City Government
 by J. J. Maxey, City Secretary

Some four weeks ago I discussed in detail the duties and some of the problems of our city health officer. Today I would like to discuss a project that is now under way that concerns our entire community from a health standpoint.

When the city of Slaton was laid out there possibly was no thought of settlement in the Southeastern section. In 1921 when the first sewer system was laid out and the outfall line was laid to the city property in the Canyon there still was no thought given to the possibility of having to serve this low section with the sanitary sewer. All of the collector lines and the original outfall line was laid on grades that would only serve the higher sections such as the original town, west park and south Slaton additions. As time went on the south and southeast sections began to build up but could not be served with the sanitary sewer without the addition of a lift station. There were also some sections in the northwest part of town that could not be served due to the same reason.

The city of Slaton has enjoyed a constant and steady growth throughout the last several years. This growth is welcome and desirable but it does create problems and responsibilities that we did not have before. Our city commission has always operated our city with a heavy minimum of cost and has felt that our citizens are due one hundred cents worth of value for every dollar that is spent from public funds. Early in 1959 a financial planning commission composed of ten citizens representing business, industry, professions and home owners was appointed by the City Commission. This group of men are called in from time to time to advise with the commission on major financial problems. After the appointment of the financial planning commission they were called in to consider the city's needs, both material and financial. The most pressing need was found to be the remodeling and extension of the city's sanitary sewer system. There were other needs such as the extension of water mains and some street work that was critical at that time. The commission had previously had an engineering survey made of the sewer system and it was found that it would take more than a hundred thousand dollars to get the system up in condition to serve our populace as it should be served. Considering this need and some small water and street work the commission and the financial planning commission decided to propose a bond issue of one hundred fifty thousand dollars. These bonds were voted as requested, and a contract was let for the needed sewer work for one hundred twelve thousand dollars. This work consisted of a new outfall line that parallels the original line, a lift station that makes it possible to serve all of the south and southeast portion of town, a new collector line all the way through the south portion of town, a lift station on North Seventh Street, a lift station on North Twentieth Street and collector lines through the extreme northwest portion of town. This work has all been completed and the system is in operation.

As has been pointed out the sanitary sewer was not available (Continued on page 8)

Farm Facts

American agriculture is an expanding industry in every important respect except one—the number of people required to run our farms—points out Dean Earl Butz of Purdue University's School of Agriculture.

"Our agricultural plant each year uses more capital, more science and technology, more managerial capacity, more purchased production inputs, more specialized marketing facilities, and more research than the year before.

"Although a smaller share of our total population is engaged directly in farming, the agricultural industry is big, broad and basic. Of 68 million persons employed in America in 1960, about 26 million worked somewhere in agriculture—8 million worked on farms, 7 million produced goods and services purchased by farmers, and 11 million processed and distributed farm products. Hence, almost two-fifths of all our employed people are engaged in work related to agriculture.

"Total United States agri-

cultural output increased by two-thirds in the past two decades, while the number of farm workers declined some 3 million.

IN THE HEART of every "man of God" is the spirit of readiness to be a friend to the people -- to share in joy or sorrow; to counsel, in strictest confidence, about life's problems; and, in every way possible, to serve God on your behalf.

WHETHER YOURS is the "bloom of youth" or the "fading flower" of the passing years; whether you live in a mansion or in a lowly hovel; whether you are learned or unlearned, known or unknown, respected or disrespected; the hearts of these men are enlarged with desire for your well-being--both temporal and eternal. . .

AND WELL MIGHT THEY BE, for they represent Him Who, as He looked upon the multitudes, was "moved with compassion for them, for they were distressed and scattered, as sheep not having a shepherd." Yes, each heartbeat of these "sons of God" and "brothers of men" says, "As much as in me is, I am ready--."

Tigers To Meet Frenship Here On Home Field Tomorrow Night

Slaton's Tigers go against another proven tough squad of the area Friday night as they entertain the Frenship in a game scheduled to get underway at 8 p. m. in Tiger Field.

Both teams will go into the game with a 1-2 record. In their first three outings, the Frenship gridgers have scored a total of 30 points against opponents while allowing 26. Slaton has scored 18 points, while allowing opposition 91.

By mutual comparison, the two teams should be about equal. Slaton doused Kialou by 12-6 in a hard-fought contest, and last Friday night Frenship fell to Kialou by the same score.

Offensively, halfback Jim Stapleton constitutes the chief threat for Frenship. He has scored all the touchdowns and received a pass for the only two extra points that the team has rostered.

Slaton's attack has been spearheaded on more even distribution. Halfbacks Steve Ball and Ronnie Edwards, fullback Kelly Bownds, and quarterback Webber Tefertiller have all accounted for sizeable yardage.

Prior to their Kialou defeat, Frenship had defeated Tahoka by 20-0 before falling to Petersburg by 14-6. Both scores indicate a tough squad defensively along with ability to score.

The Tigers dropped their opener by 50-6 to Canyon before coming back downing Kialou. Last Friday night they fell to Rotan by 35-0.

Of Coach M. W. Kerr's original starters, three have been sidelined with injuries and others are playing hampered by early season injuries.

Billy Williams is definitely out for the season, having been hurt prior to the opening game. Guard Paul Dubbs is out, and back Ronnie Jones will also be out.

Fullback Kelly Bownds, although starting all the Tiger games, has been hampered by an injured shoulder.

Probable starters for tomorrow night's game will be as follows:

to many of our citizens until the above mentioned work had been completed. Since its completion more than one hundred homes have been connected to the sanitary sewer but there are still one hundred thirty seven homes where the sewer lines are available to them that have not been connected.

On August 14th, Dr. M. Jay McSweeney, Jr., City Health Officer, and Mr. Heritage, representing the Lubbock City-County Health Unit, met with the commission and discussed the health problem involved by homes that are not connected to the sanitary sewer. A plan of procedure to correct this situation was made. On September 15th, letters went out to all home owners not connected advising them that they would have ninety days in which to comply with the requirements of the sanitary health clause in the city plumbing ordinance. This letter also stated that if the violation had not been corrected within the ninety day period legal proceedings would be instituted to force compliance. This letter bore the signature of the local city health officer, Dr. M. Jay McSweeney, Jr. Immediately after this letter is received a representative of the Lubbock City-County Health Unit will call on the property owners that are in violation and advise with them on this problem.

Those who are ready to connect to the sewer will contact Mr. George Willis, city water and sewer superintendent, and make arrangements for the city to make the connection. All other work such as running the yard lines, installation of fixtures, etc., must be done by the home owner himself or by a licensed plumber. All plumbing regulations and ordinances will have to be complied with in this operation. The charge for connecting to the sewer main is fifteen dollars ($15.00) and must be paid to the city.

The city commission realizes that this will possibly create a financial hardship on some but feel that it is a worthwhile project for health benefits to the individual families as well as the entire community. Every effort will be made to help the home owner to arrange proper financing. The usual splendid cooperation of all of our citizens will assure that this health problem will be taken care of in a minimum of time.

Farm Ponds Can Be Dangerous

Because summertime is swimming time for youngsters, particularly for rural children, it is impossible to overemphasize safety around the farm pond.

Texas A&M Agricultural Engineer Ulrich says most of the drownings that occur in farm ponds could be prevented if a few simple safety precautions are taken.

The first thing to remember, he says, is to never let anyone, adult or child, swim alone. Children should never be permitted to play alone anywhere near a pond.

It is also a good idea to keep life preservers handy, and to insist that non-swimmers wear them when playing in the pond. Ulrich warns that life preservers do not mean plastic bags.

A long lightweight pole is very good to keep handy for reaching swimmers in trouble. A lightweight float can also be attached to the end of the rope to help if you want to throw it to a person in distress.

Among those leaving for college for the fall semester from Southland are: Kelly Davies, Harvey Pennell, Robert Pritchard, J. W. Payton, all going to Texas Tech in Lubbock; Janice Ellis, West Texas State College in Canyon; Linda Roper, Lubbock Christian College.

Foundation Field Day Scheduled

Soil and water conservation will be the main theme of the Fifth Annual Field Day at the High Plains Research Foundation the afternoon of September 27. The A. S. C. Committee of the State of Texas, consisting of Ralph T. Price, Bryan; James E. Goad, Rosebud; Weber W. Pool, Sinton and John P. Gayle of West Columbia, will be the special guests of Foundation President, Frank Moore, also a member of the committee.

Scientists and farmers will explain the research in progress at various stops on the tour. Comparison of the various fertilizer applications on major crops will be shown. Varieties of crops to be seen will include fifty-six dryland and sixty-two irrigated grains-sorghums and thirty-two forage sorghums, thirty varieties of cotton, thirty of corn, eighteen of castor beans, nine-hundred and twelve of sesame and seven-hundred and ninety-four of soybeans. A new grass and legume nursery will also be exhibited.

The new soybean and sesame breeding program will attract the attention of many guests. Plants are being crossed to produce varieties better suited to the climate and growing season of the High Plains. Thirteen varieties of soybeans have been bombarded with three different strengths of Cobalt 60 to induce more plant variations. Eight varieties of sesame have had similar treatment with a total of twenty-four different plantings. This is a search for a mutation that might result in new high yielding and non-shattering varieties of each crop.

Flame cultivation results on all crops including sugar beets and vegetables will be reported. Included will be the recent results of field drying of grain sorghum using flame.

Guides for the tour will include county agents, soil conservation personnel, representatives of agricultural firms and members of the Young Farmers organization. Dr. T. C. Longnecker, Director, stated that he expected an even larger attendance than the record of nearly 3,000 in 1960.

Britain's Health Care

Congressman H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) of President Kennedy's proposal to provide health care for the aged under the Social Security system...

REP. GROSS

People usually go to a psychologist for one or more reasons: To receive flattery. To seek sympathy. To have sins forgiven.

Another short cut, the three most practical ways to "handle people": Attempt bribery first. Then try hypnotism.

A new phase of psychology is aptitude testing for vocations. Any of those long lists of questions could be boiled down to these three:

From the Marfa News, the column, "Marfa Omnibus:" Some people live happy, normal lives - but others take up psychology.

The State Health Department tells us that traffic in these items is "troublesome and dangerous."

right wing" military men should publicly oppose Kennedy's domestic program--the memorandum cites only one such instance of this ever happening

Since the Korean War, when American soldiers defected to the enemy and American officers signed petitions falsely accusing the United States of using germ warfare...

Neither does it seem possible that the President believes, with Fulbright, that these seminars produce a "virulent right-wing radicalism."

Senator Fulbright's privately-prepared memorandum, translated into Pentagon policy on July 10, strikes at the very heart of this program.

The memorandum attacks the use by the military of the film "Operation Abolition," which portrays the May, 1960, Communist led riots in San Francisco...

The memorandum strongly indicates that military seminars should be abolished, since these activities supposedly violate the concept of civilian control over the military.

rol over the military, Senator Strom Thurmond, who did yeoman work in bringing the memorandum to public light, charged from the Senate floor on August 11 that the Pentagon had prevented a two-week seminar in Panama for the purpose of alerting reserve officers to the dangers of communism in the South and Central American regions.

The sheer hypocrisy of the civilian control argument is further revealed when Fulbright intimates that such civilian organizations as the Foreign Policy Research Institute, which did a study for Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee in 1959, and the Institute of American Strategy, which President Kennedy has himself praised, should have nothing further to do with the military.

What, then, is the real reason the Administration has supported the memorandum? The liberals, it is believed, have convinced Kennedy that these seminars will result in dire consequences for the Democratic party, which is supported by the bedrock of liberalism.

Neither does it seem possible that the President believes, with Fulbright, that these seminars produce a "virulent right-wing radicalism."

The memorandum strongly indicates that military seminars should be abolished, since these activities supposedly violate the concept of civilian control over the military.

viously fear is that if the public, which has attended these seminars in droves, ever truly becomes alerted to the "menace of the cold war," it will rise up in wrath to sweep the liberals from entrenched positions of power.

The memo plainly stresses that the seminars have "great appeal to the public," as if this were a cardinal sin, and warns Kennedy that in the future they may have "much greater appeal."

Specifically, Fulbright lashes out against popular seminars held in his own home state of Arkansas and one in Pennsylvania, the home of liberal Senator Joseph Clark.

"Fundamentally, it is believed that the American people have little, if any, need to be alerted to the menace of the cold war." So panicked is the Senator by a possible rise in patriotism that he says we must "restrain the desire of the people to hit the Communists with everything we've got . . ."

The Senator has already taken great pains to close off the possibility that the people will continue to possess a feeling of "pride in victory."

His recommendations to end military seminars have been carried out. He also has recommended that civilian thought-control units now police the military. His memo requests, for example, that a civilian committee now "review all troop information and education activities of military personnel," and that a board of "civilian educators should begin the development of a program for exposure of promising military officers to broader educational opportunities."

Prices Improve Slaughter Cattle

Prices on slaughter cattle improved during the past month but cattle feeders are still confronted with the prospect of paying more for the cattle they put in the feedlot than they are getting for finished slaughter cattle.

In the monthly market summary for August, Lloyd Bergsma, director of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's Feeder Division, points out that feed costs will likely be above those of last year, and feeder cattle prices are also above those of a year ago.

"With the cost of the two major resources in cattle feeding above last year, and returns from the finished product below last year, the cattle feeder will be hard pressed to maintain a profit margin," Bergsma said.

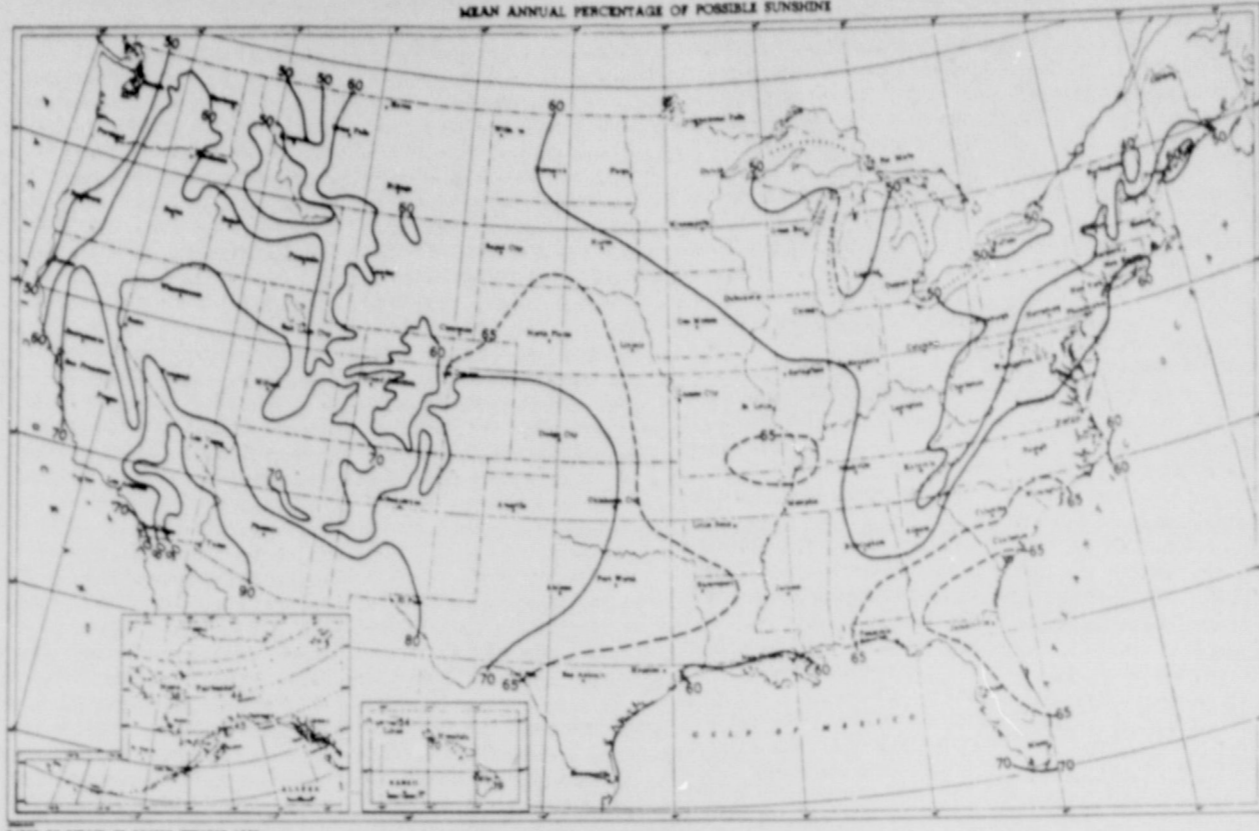

Prospects for a bumper grain sorghum crop in the Southwest may bring about cheaper feed, but at the same time the prospects for a good wheat pasture season will have a tendency to boost feeder cattle prices, according to the market summary.

Cattle buyers from areas of the Southwest which normally have a large volume of stocker and feeder cattle available report very few of these cattle still for sale, however some of these buyers have indicated that a good many of the contracted cattle are not in final hands.

In the slaughter cattle market better grades were from one to two dollars per hundred higher in August than they were in July. The lighter weight slaughter cattle grading standard and good have continued in strong demand but the price increase for this type cattle has been less than on the choice cattle weighing 900 pounds and up.

The absent-minded professor paused to chat a while with one of his students, then asked, "Which way was I going when I stopped to talk to you?" "That way," the student pointed.

"Good," murmured the professor, "then I've had my lunch."

Wheat Baking Quality Premiums Part Of 1962 Loan Program

There is a new feature in the 1962 wheat price support program that farmers and elevator operators will want to consider.

The government has just announced that premiums for gluten "strength" quality in hard red winter and hard spring wheats will be used for loans on 1962 wheat. This is to encourage farmers to raise more of the kind of wheat in demand by commercial bread bakers and to cut down on those varieties of "weak" baking quality which are usually in plentiful supply on the market.

Ben Spears, extension agronomist, says that although weather, soil and moisture factors affect the baking quality of wheat, the variety planted is most important.

For Texas, Spears suggested that local county agents be consulted about the best varieties to give the premium-earning quality. This addition to the price support schedule is announced now so that growers can decide on varieties before fall planting is completed.

A "bread-baking quality" test measures the combined quality and quantity of protein. It will replace the protein percentage tests now included in the price support schedule. The new sedimentation test is available now in some areas, and facilities will be expanded in the next few months to meet the needs of the 1962 price support program, Spears explains. With this new test, he adds, "I wish you would come and talk to my wife," the husband said to his minister. "I admit I was out late last night. The wife locked me out but when I rang the doorbell she opened the bedroom window and dropped a rose to me."

"Well, you see," the Parson gleamed, "that was her way of throwing you an olive branch."

"I'm not too sure. You see, the rose was potted."

both the farmer and the buyer will have a better measure of the value of the wheat.

The premium schedule for the 1962 wheat crop will be announced soon. Discounts for undesirable varieties will continue. Spears says local county agents can supply information on these undesirable varieties.

A Cuban defector, landing in Florida, is said to have demanded: "Take me to your barber."

What this world needs is a summit meeting on the level.

Doctor to patient: "Look at it this way. You're in excellent shape for a man of sixty-five. Forget the fact that you're only forty-three."

Then there was the Scotchman who only bought one sp... figuring if one side of the horse went, the other side was sure to follow.

Eggs Vary in Color

Shell color may vary from white to deep brown. Color is a breed characteristic. Shell color does not affect the flavor, the nutritive value or the cooking performance. Neither is it a guide to yolk color. There is no advantage to the consumer in paying more for brown or white eggs of the same quality and size.

The yolk color may vary from light to deep yellow. Yolk color is influenced by heredity and diet. It does not necessarily affect flavor or nutritive value.

PERFECT SOUNDNESS CAN BE YOURS

Perfect soundness is the desire and goal of every one of us. We want perfect soundness in soul, mind and body. And thanks to God, this perfect soundness is within the reach of all—if we will only use our faith and believe.

A miracle of healing—then as today—was something that was seen and felt. A modern-day healing from God opens a person's heart and shows him just how powerful faith can be.

Today, as in Bible times, some doubt the power of God to heal, especially when no external evidence is apparent. People want to see what faith can do.

Steve Ball, Slaton versatile halfback, was named player of the week after the game with Rotan, played on the home field Friday night.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ball, Steve was the Tigers top ground gainer, and was also a standout defensively.

In eight carries with the ball Friday night, Steve netted 51 yards, establishing a 6.4 per-carry average. He has consistently ranked as one of the most consistent, and capable running backs as well as a power on the Tiger defense.

Only a junior this year, Ball should make one of the outstanding high school backs of the South Plains area during the next two seasons.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

As a rule the hook should not be set immediately when a sailfish hits the trolled bait. The sailfish first "stuns" the bait, later picks it up.—Sports Afield.

The position of a whitetail's "flag" is not a reliable indication of whether or not he has been hit because wounded deer flee with tail either raised or lowered.—Sports Afield.

A fact that may surprise many conservationists is that ring-necked pheasants have been known to kill young rabbits.—Sports Afield.

In sporting dog terminology "blinker" is a disparaging term used to denote a dog that points game and leaves it before the flush; finds game and leaves it without pointing; or points game and leaves it upon the approach of his handler.—Sports Afield.

Black bass do not travel far. With rare exceptions, they spend their lives close to where they were hatched.—Sports Afield.

MOSQUITOES

University Park, N.M.-- Why do mosquitoes bother some people and leave others alone? There's no simple answer. Entomologists who study these pesky insects know many things affect the way mosquitoes are attracted to man and animals. Experiments by entomologists at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's insect laboratory in Orlando, Fla., show that mosquitoes have definite "tastes" for certain things, according to John J. Durkin, entomologist with the New Mexico State University Extension Service. The researchers dressed a man in a lightweight diving suit that kept water vapor, carbon dioxide, and other gases from escaping to the air around him.

He was placed in a small room with three man-size dummies and 300 mosquitoes. His breath was drawn outside the room through a hose. The mosquitoes seemed to notice no difference between the man and the dummies. But when the man seemed to breathe (carbon dioxide was released above his head at a rate about equal to normal breathing) they attracted more mosquitoes. The pests also were attracted when a cloth suit was put over the man's diving suit--regardless of whether or not he "breathed out" carbon dioxide. The researchers then uncovered the man's face--no difference. But when his hands were uncovered, the mosquitoes were attracted. These mosquitoes, Aedes aegypti (scientific name) prefer the body. Another group (Aedes taeniorhynchus) is lured more to the face than the hands. This shows that different types of mosquitoes aren't always drawn to man and animals for the same reasons. Other insects don't always respond alike, either. Horse flies prefer red cattle to white ones.

The Southland Eagles beat the Guthrie Jaguars last Friday night, 58-8. The Eagle team showed its speed and ability throughout the game by making one grand play after another. Travis Lancaster, speedy halfback for the Eagles, scored a touchdown in the first period, and ran 30 yards for another in the third period. Eagle halfback, Johnny Haire, carried the ball 25 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter. In the third quarter, Haire took the ball from a kickoff and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Sammy Ellis, quarterback and captain of the Eagle team, scored one touchdown in the first quarter and ran for another in the second quarter. Edwin Lewis, and Ed Haire, scored a touchdown each. Don Barker, a quarterback for Southland, caught a pass from Ellis, in the first quarter and scored a touchdown. He ran two extra points. Guthrie's only score came on a quarterback pass in the third quarter. Guerrilla Warfare Units Being Trained by Guard

Late in 1959, with very little fanfare, 81 "Special Forces Detachments" showed up in the Army National Guard's military structure. Most Guardsmen didn't even know just what a "Special Forces Detachment" was, so carefully had the Army shielded its existing detachments from the public view. Yet, in that little-publicized addition to its troop list, the Army Guard took on a large responsibility for one of the Army's most hazardous and difficult wartime roles -- that of waging guerrilla warfare in enemy-held territory.

The Special Forces Units, in brief, are small, elite groups of daring, highly-skilled specialists trained to operate right in the enemy's heartland, organizing sympathetic partisans into guerrilla units and training them to hit the enemy where he least expects it -- in the rear of his own lines! Never before has the Army trained its guerrilla warfare experts in peacetime. In doing so now, it has allocated a large share of these highly specialized units to the Army Guard. Five States have taken on the job of training the new detachments -- Alabama, Louisiana, North Carolina, Utah and West Virginia -- all of them States with plenty of wild, rugged country. Every Man a Paratrooper. The members of these outfits are getting some of the toughest training the Army gives. In the Active Army's 7th Special Forces Group, for example, they've learned to accept as a matter of course such feats as parachuting into a pine forest at night, leaping from a landing craft into a choppy Atlantic surf carrying a mule-sized load of gear, and sloshing through the snake-and-alligator-infested Florida swamps for days on end. Every man in one of these detachments must qualify as a paratrooper within one year of joining. Each man must be a jack of all trades -- and a real master of one! He must become a highly trained specialist in one field, but be cross-trained in all others -- such as demolition, communications, hand-to-hand combat, bayonet tactics and infiltration -- so that he can take over for a team-mate in any emergency. Members also are given instruction in languages of the regions for which their team is earmarked in case of war. Not every man must be a linguist -- only one or two members will be expected to speak a foreign tongue fluently -- but the rest must at least know the rudiments of the language. An unusual mission often calls for unusual tactics and equipment and these Special Forces Detachments are not hide-bound by tradition; anything goes if it is effective. Utah Special Forces units have even "discovered" what they consider to be the perfect silent weapon for behind-the-lines operations: the bow and arrow.

National Guard leaders, who are mightily proud of these new units, point out that whether or not they're ever used in actual war, the Special Forces Detachments probably will pay for themselves many times over in the service they can render their own States and communities.

Since Guardsmen are part-time soldiers, the training of these units is being conducted on weekends and during multiple drills in order to make the most effective use of the available hours. Some units, for instance, spend entire weekends out in the swamps and mountains, learning not only to walk but also to sleep, eat, swim and survive where even an angel would fear to tread!

'Davis Olds, Inc.' Sets Open House Friday

Slaton's newly-reorganized Oldsmobile agency will hold Grand Opening in connection with the showing of the 1962 Oldsmobile at their new location, 130 W. Lynn, Friday, September 22.

Slaton and area residents are invited to attend the showing all day Friday and see the new facilities offered by "Davis Olds, Inc."

Associated with the firm now are Milton Davis, who has been the Oldsmobile dealer here since January 8, 1948; Leon "Straw" Davis, who has been associated with another local automobile agency since 1946; and Harry Stokes, a local automobile dealer since 1921.

The firm has secured the services of Dewey Nelson as service department manager and feels that he is one of the best all-around mechanics in Slaton. He has been in the business since 1952 as a Ford mechanic and as manager of his own shop. Others are Bernard Steffens, who has been with the Oldsmobile agency for seven years; Bill Sledge, who has been in various auto agencies both in Slaton and elsewhere for 30 years; and Mrs. Earl Johnson, who has been associated with a local agency six years.

Both Milton and Leon Davis are the active managers of the agency. "Davis Olds, Inc." is equipped to service all makes of cars and carries a large stock of Oldsmobile parts. They buy and sell better used cars and "give the highest cash prices for good used cars."

The firm has an attractive show room, an awninged used car display area and 75 feet of property for showing and storage.

They also sell International pickups.

The change in ownership organization was effective August 7, 1961. The agency was formerly located at 300 S. 9th.

A beautiful buxom gal appeared at a party wearing a tiny gold airplane on a chain around her neck. It was a cute ornament, and she hoped to impress her date. She asked him proudly, "Do you like my little airplane?"

"Sure do," replied the young man, "but mainly I was admiring its landing field."

Two lifelong residents of a mental hospital were engaged in solemn conclave.

"I have decided to conquer England," declared one. "Historians will never be able to say the Julius Caesar rested on his laurels."

"England, hrm?" mused the other. "Well, Julius, if I were you--and incidentally, I am..."

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

An extremely important yet often forgotten step to take in preparing for a hunting trip is sighting your rifle, remarks Pete Brown, Arms Editor, Sports Afield Magazine. Failure to sight-in can turn a prospective adventuresome and pleasant hunting trip into an unhappy experience.

For the average hunter who may have difficulty getting to a range or a place where he can safely sight-in his rifle, there is an instrument which few hunters know about. With a Sweeney Site-A-Line the hunter can do a remarkably accurate job of sighting-in at the office or in his own living room without making a sound. He could even do it just as accurately within the confines of a normal clothes closet--if there is light. In fact, with a carbine he could crawl into a modern home refrigerator and reset your sights to zero at 300 yards or more.

Basically the device invented by John B. Sweeney, is a collimator with cross hairs installed.

Only parallel rays of light are transmitted and what is seen through the unit appears at infinity.

The collimator is held in a position parallel to the bore with a spud, which is a close-fitting insert in the muzzle of the gun. A spring clip takes up any small amount of play and holds the centerline of the spud with the center of bore.

Of course the light coming from the collimator is parallel to the spud; the light is then parallel with the bore.

Safety Belts Are Chief Factor In Less Injuries

In the early days of barnstorming flying circuses, the daredevil wingwalkers stunt flyers and especially those who specialized in crashing old airplanes into abandoned buildings appeared to be reckless, death-defying idiots to most on-lookers.

The fact of the matter is they took careful precautions to prevent accidents and made lengthy advance preparations for the more hazardous stunts.

The safeguard generally regarded as a must—and still universally maintained today—was seatbelts, fastened securely to the framework of the aircraft and buckled throughout the flight.

It is reasonable to assume that a pilot who survives an intentional crash into a building with the use of seatbelts would protect himself from the possible serious injuries or death from an accident involving an automobile.

To a large extent this is true. Automobile seatbelts first began appearing in large numbers of passenger vehicles several years ago as a direct result of pilots, race drivers and others acquainted with their value.

Today, it is a recognized fact, based on hundreds of accident reports, elaborate, controlled tests, and reports from various state highway departments across the country, that seatbelts are definite lifesavers in automobile accidents.

One comprehensive study which evaluated reports of parallel accidents of cars with and without seatbelts—indicated that the chances of escaping death in a traffic accident were improved 87 percent by the use of seat belts.

Studies show that the leading cause of serious injury and death results from being thrown out of the car. Most of the other serious injuries involve striking objects within the car.

Seatbelts substantially reduce both possibilities.

Drivers who have been using seatbelts regularly for any length of time report that the belts not only serve as safety devices, but actually are more restful on long drives, and cause a constant awareness of safety from their mere presence. (A weekly feature from Public Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)
