Slaton Families Evacuated

At least 12 Slaton families were homeless Wednesday night, evacuated from flooded homes as the result of three days and two nights of continuous raining which totalled well over 10 inches in spots. Many more probably were homeless.

Latin-American families living near the lake in northwest Slaton, near the Lubbock Highway and Union Compress, were moving furniture and personal belongings by motor boat Wednesday afternoon out of their homes, which were at least waist deep in water. The water got up around workers' necks in places as they hauled television sets, beds, etc., from the inundated homes. Cars were flooded to their roofs in the area and, at press time, consideration was being given to moving still more families out from around the perimeter of the lake and two more, one in south Slaton and the other between town and the "flats" area.

CAR, HOME FLOODED

Ramon Dabila Slaton Latin-American is shown here on the roof of a car, parked by a home near the lake in northwest Slaton. Several families had been evacuated from the area when this picture was taken, late Wednesday afternoon, and several more were expected to have to be evacuated. Water was up to neck deep in the area and left an estimated 30 persons homeless with the prospect bright that many more would be looking for more shelter by midnight Wednesday as three lakes in the city continued to rise and threaten homes.

At least twenty-five to 30 people were evacuated by press time Wednesday and it was still raining lightly and water was still pouring into each of the three lakes.

Evacuated by press time from the lake in northwest Slaton, near Union Compress, were the families of Ben Diaz, Joe Diaz, Fred Maldonado, Pete Selas, E. L. Benivides, Jim Zavala, Marcelino Gonzales, Manuel Hernandez and at least two others whose identity Slatonite representatives couldn't learn late Wednesday.

Others who were expected to leave their homes if the lake kept rising included Bill Deaver, Victor Ybarra, Robert L. Kincheloe, M. L. Taylor, and others. These people were reported ready to make out if necessary their furniture and personal items stacked and waiting.

Odís O. Burleson, 74, resident of Slaton and vicinity 42 years, died early Thursday June 30 in Mercy Hospital.

Long time Resident Odís O. Burleson Dies in Hospital

Burleson was a retired farmer and livestock man.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p.m. Friday, July 1, in The First Baptist Church with the Rev. Ted Gaze officiating. Burial was in Englewood Cemetery, under the direction of Williams Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife; one son, Joe D. Burleson, Baton Rouge, La.; one daughter, Mrs. Noel Oates, Slaton; three sisters, Mrs. W. L. Housour, Slaton, Mrs. J. T. Simmonds, Lubbock and Mrs. H. G. Donaldson, Mineral Wells; 10 grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

Bobby Poynor, owner and manager of the White's store here, will be in Wichita Falls next Monday buying fall merchandise.

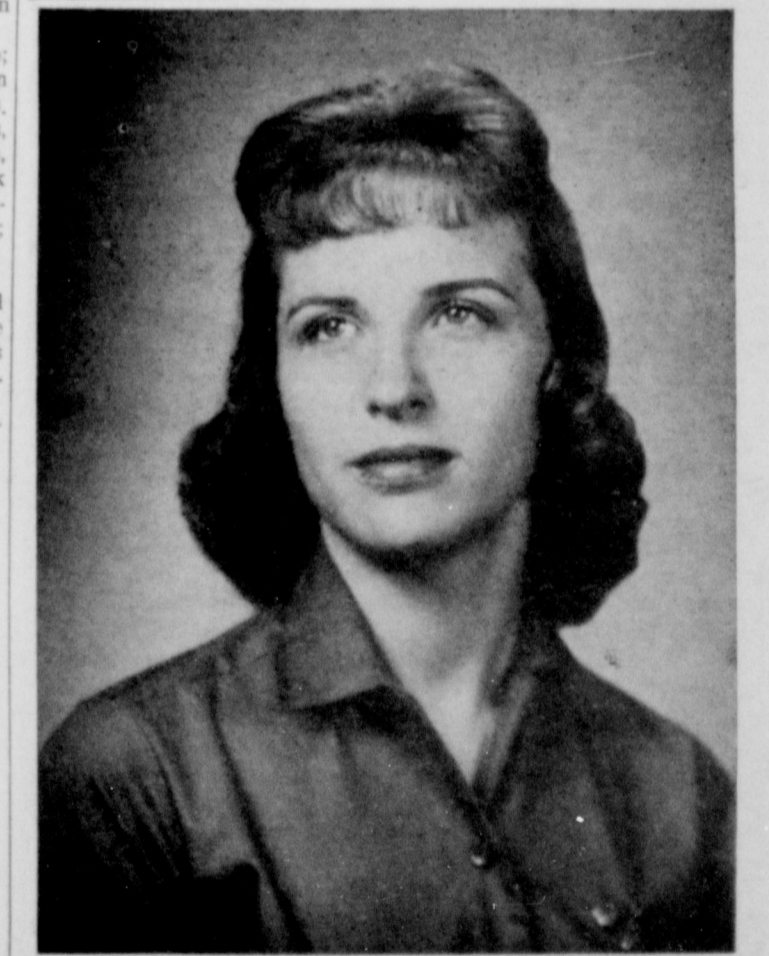

Emergency food & evacuation measures were being taken in Slaton as dusk settled on the community . . . and we wish we had more time to tell you about it and you can bet we will, next week.

Considerable damage to crops in the Slaton area has been reported as a result of water running out of some fields and flooding others. The Anton Ahrens farm, a mile northeast of Wilson, had approximately 65 acres under water . . . the first time they could remember such an instance. Slatonites had not seen such high water since 1941.

Spotted hail caused crop damage Monday night, ranging from light to fairly heavy in places near Wilson. However high, running water was the principal enemy.

Water was over roads and streets both out of and in Slaton with some too deep to traverse by automobile.

Slaton was "invaded" by the metropolitan press, radio and TV as news agencies sought information on conditions in this community. One radio station in Lubbock was heard making an appeal for boats to help in evacuation work in Slaton.

School Board Okays Purchase Of Equipment

The board of trustees of the Slaton School district decided to postpone construction of a proposed addition to Slaton High School at a meeting at the school Tuesday night.

The board postponed construction of the addition until such time as Congress adjourns. There is a bill before Congress now which could possibly help pay for the addition if it passes and the board felt that it should hold up construction until it learned of the fate of the bill and whether or not financial aid on the construction would be available.

The board also approved the purchase of equipment for the cafeteria at Junior High, including three cook tables, dish washing machine, vegetable peeler, vegetable sink stove, bake oven, bakers table, pot rack water cooler and mixer. The purchase of this equipment was okayed, subject to receiving bids.

Only other items handled were of a routine nature.

FUTURE PROBLEMS

Although many towns the size of Slaton, and smaller, are making efforts to attract manufacturing plants and to expand the business activities of area, many large cities are discouraging expansion because they are finding the congestion and added expense of public utilities has become so inconvenient and costly that the best citizens and those who control the wealth, are moving to the suburbs leaving the poorer people to pay the higher city taxes and to put up with the inconveniences of poor housing and difficult transportation.

Chance and deliberate effort to secure large manufacturing enterprises has caused this unhappy condition in many cities and any smaller town should hesitate before inviting such as those now being enjoyed in and near Lubbock.

Malodors such as those now being enjoyed in and near Lubbock are not only a part of the feeding lot business but come also with many other manufacturing plants. In many cases the spoiling of the water supply and the discarding of waste matter are unanswerable problems and the ultimate goal should be considered before Slaton goes too far into efforts of encouraging large manufacturing plants to come to this immediate area.

Slaton, at the present time, is an excellent market town for the farmers and with the proper attention can be developed into the best town on the South Plains for farm trade. Lubbock is fast becoming too large to give the farmers of this area the attention they need and deserve; Lubbock is set and probably destined to be a big city with high taxes, overcrowded conditions, rundown business areas and slum conditions as well as scattered luxurious shopping centers.

The recent expansion of Houston to cover the greatest land area of any city in the United States points the way other cities are going.

Is Slaton destined to be gobbled up by Lubbock and become a part of a high taxed, slum and shopping center town where crowded conditions make living one of the biggest problems of the day? Or will it fight to hold its identity and continue to be one of the best home towns in West Texas, not too big for folks to know each other nor so small we became too intimate. Slaton is now just right and don't let anyone tell you different.

TWO MEN were discussing events and personalities of recent history. One asked: "Who do you think was the vilest monster, Stalin or Hitler?" And the other replied: "That's like trying to choose between a pestilence and a famine."

Edmund Burke, great Englishman of another day, said that a think man's best motto for life is "Nitor in Adversum," meaning, to make one's way with effort. And this from a man of surpassing talent.

Most men like the man who knows, but despise the man who knows, and knows he knows.

• ABE BURROWS, the writer-director, was advised to save his money. "Do you realize," someone told him, "that if you saved fifty dollars a week for twenty years, you'd have $50,000? Just think! If a depression came along, you'd be sitting pretty with over $50,000."

"Yeah?" countered Burrows. "Suppose we don't have a depression in twenty years? Then I'd be stuck with all that money!"

The Sounding Board

(Editor's Note: Business men of Idalou are giving consideration at this time to forming a Chamber of Commerce for their community. At a recent meeting, they invited Earl Blankenship, manager of the Ralls Chamber of Commerce, to speak to them on the purposes of a chamber. Here are some of his remarks.)

After an hour and a half of discussion, voted to continue to investigate the possibility of forming a Chamber of Commerce and directed Bill Wilkerson editor of The Idalou Beacon, which sponsored the meeting, to contact the West Texas

Chamber of Commerce for assistance.

Blankenship explained that "non-political, non-partisan, non-profit organization composed of people who wish to develop their community by working for everyone in the community."

A Chamber of Commerce is a silent partner with every member of the community in business and agriculture," from which the community gets its livelihood and its reason for existing.

The Ralls manager explained that organization of a Chamber of Commerce requires a state charter as a non-profit organization for which a $50 filing fee is necessary; three men to assume responsibility for the actions of the group; an income (dues paid by the members are a Chamber's only means of revenue and are listed for income tax purposes as a legitimate business expense); a budget; a slate of officers and directors; and a work program outlining the group's plans for action.

"A Chamber of Commerce serving in an agricultural area, such as Idalou, that fails to work for the farmers and does not include farmers in its membership cannot be a success," Blankenship said.

After adopting a work program to committees, the Chamber of Commerce works through committee meetings and seldom has meetings of its membership in general, Blankenship explained.

The Ralls group has committees actively working on such projects as insect control, water conservation, the White River Dam, a new City Hall, better police protection, securing another doctor for the city, a 50th anniversary celebration, and development of trade in the area.

The Ralls Chamber of Commerce has a membership of about 75 with 35 of that number farmers, and has an annual budget of about $10,000.

Blankenship added that the Ralls group's work program was written by all the residents of the community, members and non-members.

THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

He (Jesus) poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded. (John 13:5.)

might have told a manservant or a maidservant to come in and do it. He might have simply omitted this much-needed service. But Jesus became the servant. He girded Himself with a towel and washed the disciples' feet.

A master cannot be served until he has demonstrated his own ability to serve. So Jesus humbles Himself to serve us. He who holds the universe in His hand kneels down before us and washes our tired, dusty feet.

So the Son of God took a towel, not simply to cleanse the feet of His friends, or only to set an example for them to follow. He did it to show unmistakably that he who is sent is not greater than he who sends. God is like that.

PRAYER: O Thou Creator, who dost astonish us continually by serving us, help us to see that only with the eyes of faith can we witness the glory of Thy service for us. Why dost Thou repeatedly sacrifice Thyself for us? We have the answer in great love. Help us to be grateful, even if we cannot be worthy. In Christ's name. Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Jesus humbled Himself to liberate us.

New Telephone Gets Slaton Introduction

A new telephone - small, light and oval-shaped-was introduced here July 1.

Called the Princess, this oval-shaped telephone is about one-third smaller and two pounds lighter than present desk model telephones, according to Manager J. C. Oakley, of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The manager said Bell Telephone Laboratory scientists worked five years developing the compact size and style of the Princess.

It is two inches lower and five inches smaller from front to back than current desk model phones.

"Because of its small base, Bell Laboratories engineers had to reduce the size of the complex dial and switch equipment and the wiring in the Princess," Oakley said.

"The Princess was tested with thousands of customers before it went into production," Oakley said. "Many of their suggestions were incorporated into its final design."

He said the new phone is made in five colors - white, pink, blue, beige and turquoise. The Princess also has an illuminated dial so calls can be made in the dark. This light can be switched on to glow softly as a night light when the phone is not in use.

Oakley said the new Princess phones will be displayed at the telephone business office here, beginning July 1.

THE KEY

OPEN DOOR

One of the disturbing discoveries of life is that the truth one man cherishes seems a mystery to another.

But is that surprising? We live in a world of doors and locks. To the man with the Key a door opens. To another it remains closed.

Among the keys to spiritual truth is one called HUMILITY. It accounts for many of the millions who worship God every Sunday in the churches of our land.

An American President once said, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the knowledge that my own strength, and that of all around me, was insufficient for that day."

He ruled a nation divided. But neither Blue nor Gray ever questioned the humility of the man who signed his name, "A. Lincoln."

Not only the portal, but the Truth of God's House, is every Sunday an Open Door to humble men!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

JUST TALK
BY A. M. J.

Folks who listen to Paul Harvey over the radio might have been surprised last week when they heard him quote a letter to Director of Internal Revenue written by Lon Porter of Slaton, Texas.

Here is the letter Mr. Harvey referred to in his radio program:

Director of Internal Revenue, Dallas, Texas.,
Dear Sir:

I am inclosing my check for payment of second quarter 1960 estimated income tax.

Will you please forward this as quickly as you can to Washington that they may, without delay give it to Fidel Castro.

Sincerely yours,
C. A. Porter
CC, Paul Harvey News, PS. I had to sell a piece of property in order to have the money to send. I also had to sell other property to pay final 1959 tax.

Mr. Porter is a mild-mannered man, is like most of us and has personal peevish that keep him at the boiling point most of the time. He goes a little further however, by letting folks know when his arm has been twisted.

Not long ago he bought some toilet soap that caused him to have a rash. Off went a letter to the nationally famed soap company. To-date it has been ignored but Lon is still scratching and boiling.

Phil Brewer is nursing a badly sprained wrist and still measuring and straining his chest muscles over the fact that he caught a 24-inch rainbow trout in New Mexico. He adds a little more to the tale everyday. The fact that he sprained his wrist landing the fish adds considerable to the excitement.

He caught the big fish within thirty minutes from the time he started fishing and it was about the only one he caught because the sprained wrist ended his fishing for the entire time he was on the trip but that one fish was worth the trip. It is likely we'll never hear the end of the tale.

And look what's happened to men's slacks, the same things that used to be pants but got their name changed when some designer gave them to us with loose seats that allowed sitting down without careful consideration.

Now they have gone back to the old stove pipe leg models where a man with a normal size foot will have to dance the sailors horn pipe in order to get a pair on or risk scraping off a few toes in the process.

No more pleats around the middle to allow for a hearty meal and the legs must be cut short enough to make a man's foot look like a large Irish potato with a tooth pick stuck in it.

Perhaps my time of life may have something to do with my somtme outlook on men's styles for I no longer stand on the corner to watch all the girls go by, sit on the curb and hold my In fact, I do well to get to the corner at all, and when I do, I head and wish that some one would come along in a car and take me home for —the girls do not seem at all interested in the kind of hat I am wearing and my feet hurt.

All I want is comfort. Down with cone shaped hats, skin tight pants, and the long, lean cross eyed wolf look. I want to go back to 1953.

the governor are due Oct. 10. Estimates of their future needs made by major state agencies for the Commission indicated a need for spending $29,000,000 more each year to meet growth needs.

Governor Daniel told the commission he hoped they could find ways to scale down the new money needs and find revenue sources that would grow as population and demands for services increase.

FINANCE STUDY GROUPS

Making up the Finance Commission sub-committees which will work through the summer to find answers to Texas' worrisome money problems are a group of citizens with more than average experience in public affairs and finances.

The panels and their chairmen, as named by Commission Chairman John Redditt are:

SOURCES OF ADDITIONAL REVENUE: Dr. George C. Hester of Georgetown.

FINANCING LAW ENFORCEMENT, WELFARE, HOSPITALS AND THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION: E. B. Germany of Dallas.

STATE'S FISCAL SYSTEM AND DEFICIT PROBLEMS: Ben H. Wooten of Dallas.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS: Thomas B. Ramey of Tyler.

HIGHER EDUCATION: Dr. Frank Connolly of Waco.

HIGHWAYS: Herbert C. Perry Jr. of Carrizo Springs.

STEEP GRADES AHEAD

Looking ahead 10 years as estimated costs of state government, the governor's State Finance Advisory Commission got a dizzying view of spiraling expenses.

Sub-committees of the commission will study the problem of future costs and how to meet them through the summer and make reports to the entire commission Sept. 10. Commission's report and recommendations to

MORE FROM FUNDS?

Facing amoney-short future, a State Senate Committee is studying the possibility of earning higher returns from the investment of state trust funds.

Sen. Herbert Hudson heads the panel which is studying administration and investment of four funds totaling $1,200,000,000. They are the University Permanent Fund, the Permanent School Fund, the Teachers Retirement System Fund and the State Employees Retirement Fund.

Mortgage bankers suggested to the panel that the funds could earn a higher return without sacrifice of safety by investing in government-insured home mortgages. Some panel members observed that the funds now invested in federal bonds were not earning as much as was being lost through inflation.

For the past three years some of the University's Permanent Fund has been invested in corporate securities which has increased its earnings over what it had been from government bonds.

Senators also discussed the possibility of saving through a unified organization for administration and counseling on the four funds.

GAS DECISION AWAITED

State of Texas and the natural gas pipeline companies are waiting for a decision in the first round of a long series of court fights on the validity of the natural gas severance beneficiary tax.

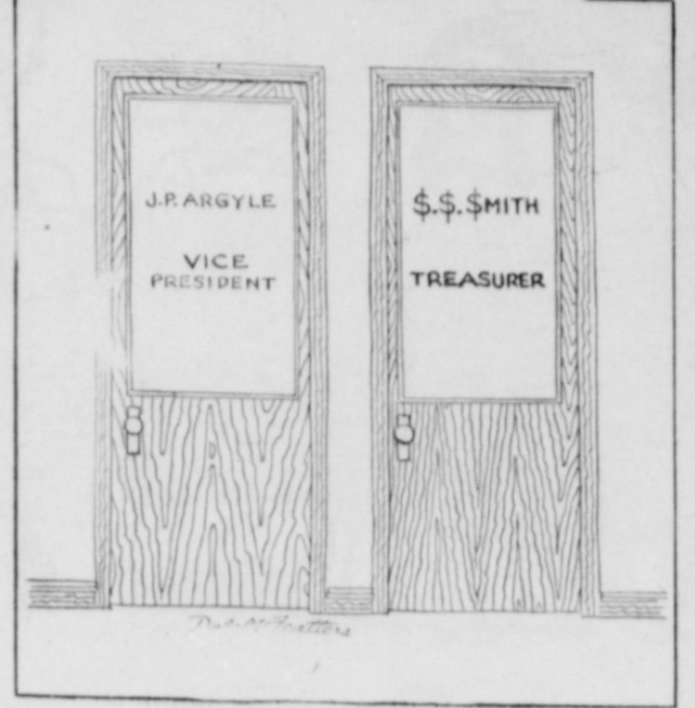

A total of 108 lawsuits have been filed against the tax by pipeline companies. Their attorneys argue that it, like the old natural gas gathering tax that was knocked down by the courts, is unconstitutional because it constitutes a burden on interstate commerce.

Companies have paid the $6-363,878 in severance taxes under protest. If the law is struck down in the courts, the money will be refunded to the companies.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, arguing for the state, declared the law is not unfair to interstate

Tax Deduction For Depletion Of Irrigation Water Being Sought

LUBBOCK—In 1954, the High Plains Water District filed with the U.S. Internal Revenue Service a request for a ruling that would establish ground water in the southern High Plains of Texas as a depletable natural resource and allow deduction on Federal income-tax returns for its depletion.

The request for such administrative ruling has been denied.

A lawsuit is now being planned to establish through litigation the District's contention that underground water in this area is a natural deposit and that it is being depleted; and that individuals and institutions using water to produce income should be allowed a federal income-tax deduction for the depletion of this resource. Such depletion shall be calculated under cost rather than percentage depletion methods.

The District is gathering information that will be used during the trial to establish facts pertaining to the underground water and to the reservoir. The facts will prove that the underground water in the Southern High Plains is gradually and surely being depleted and that the use of underground water in the production of crop income has definite economic value.

An individual irrigation farmer will be selected by the Water District and the Revenue Service for test case purposes.

The general understanding of the Water District and the Revenue Service is that the decision of the court will become the rule not only in this case, but that it will apply to all Southern High Plains' water users who have a like set of circumstances.

To prepare the case, the District has endeavored to obtain the best legal and engineering counsel available. The verdict of the court will be very important to taxpayers in the High Plains of Texas; consequently, no stone will be left unturned in preparing for the case. Individually, the income-tax deduction may not be sufficient to warrant each person filing such a lawsuit in his own behalf; however, as a collective effort through the Water District, a favorable decision by the court would amount to millions of dollars in tax savings for area landowners during the economic life of the underground water.

Furthermore, recognition of ground-water depletion by the United States Courts and then by the Internal Revenue Service should have an important bearing on future ground-water conservation practices. When each land owner and water re-creates the value of his water, when he computes the profit or loss from the use of his water, he is in the position of being able to use to greater advantage the water remaining in storage beneath his land.

The case will be filed in Federal Court by the Water District probably this fall and it is anticipated that it will be scheduled for trial in the Spring of 1961.

SAUNDERS CASE ARGUED—Court of Criminal Appeals is to rule next fall in a case hinging on whether a witness can be convicted of perjury in connection with testimony before a legislative committee.

Defendant in the case is J. Byron Saunders, former chairman of the State Board of Insurance, who was convicted and sentenced to two years imprisonment for lying to a legislative committee about funds received from ICT Insurance Co. while he was in office. Saunders' attorney contended that perjury is possible only before a judicial body, not before a legislative committee.

Thursday, June 23, the two couples left Slaton for Ruidoso, New Mexico where they spent a week together at Valley View Motel at Green Tree, New Mexico. The Lovesses then left for their home and the Porters returned to California to California.

Law Effects Livestock On Highways

The Texas Department of Public Safety reminded Texas cattle owners today that a new law went into effect July 1 aimed at controlling livestock on designated US and state highways.

The new law makes it illegal for a person knowingly to permit his domestic livestock to roam at large and unattended on state and federal highways. It applies regardless of whether or not the highway right-of-way is fenced. Maximum fine for such violations is $200, and each day the violation occurs may be considered a separate offense.

Farm to market roads are excepted from the law. The new law also gives law enforcement officers the authority to have such turn'd over to the sheriff or constable in the county.

The law does not prohibit the driving or herding of livestock across or along highways. It gives peace officers the authority to enforce provisions of the act without a warrant.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said state patrolmen will enforce the law in as many as 14,000 miles of designated US highways. The law was passed in Texas in 1956 and has since been amended 216 times and 4 persons were...

from every business enterprise in the community where you live

If some good neighbor with a popcorn stand was giving you part of his profits every day...

... you would probably give him ALL of your popcorn business ... you might even try to influence other neighbors to take up popcorn ... and to buy it at home.

Actually, you DO share in the profits of EVERY business in your home community, because a BIG PART of the gross margin on every local business transaction goes toward the support of things that benefit YOU and everyone else who lives here.

Such as schools, churches, roads and streets, fire and police protection, jobs for more people so that we can keep among us MORE good teachers and preachers and doctors and other skilled folks. And so we can have more stores that are better stocked for our convenience and for our EMERGENCY needs.

Because we don't get these benefits in cash, we sometimes forget that ALL home business is really OUR BUSINESS. And some of us even forget ... and trade somewhere else ... when OUR OWN PAYCHECK depends on keeping this community prosperous.

TRAINING AT FORT HOOD

Carl Magouirk of Slaton is among 9,000 Texans in training last week and this at Fort Hood with the 36th Division. Several Slaton National Guardsmen are at the fort completing this week their annual two-week stint of duty as citizens. Magouirk is in the radio section of an artillery battalion.

Slaton Guardsmen In 2 Week Training

North Fort Hood, Tex.—The 36th Infantry Division, bivouaced along the rugged perimeter of North Fort Hood, is going through the most rugged and at the same time the most critical field training of its postwar history.

The division—credited with training attendance of 9,251 is made up of units from nearly every part of Texas. Several Slaton Guardsmen are at the camp.

It is the first Fourth Guard division in the Fourth Army area to undertake a training mission for army reservists along with its own personal These obligors—450 men with 6 months of active duty who still have a military obligation to the country, are attending the summer camp with the 36th and receiving the same kind of training as the Guardsmen. They are placed in units and assignments appropriate to their military occupation specialty.

"We have purposely made this training in the field as realistic as possible," Maj. Gen Carl L. Phinney, Division Commander, told newsmen from cities throughout the state at a press conference at his field headquarters.

"For that reason we moved into North Fort Hood on Sunday and then moved to the field early Tuesday so as to take advantage of the fine training facilities afforded by the terrain at North Fort Hood."

There were several important aspects of training this year, General Phinney pointed out. For one thing, virtually all the Division moved to North Fort Hood from home stations in military convoys. For another, the Division this year is completing its advanced individual training and basic unit training made necessary by the Division's reorganization along pentomic lines last year.

In addition to the annual active duty for training at North Fort Hood—called ANACD-UTRA by the army—a record 1,173 T-Patchers went through the six months active duty program.

The Division's attendance at service schools increased by more than 49 per cent during the past year, when 259 officers and enlisted men attended 25 different schools, ranging from the two-week III corps NCO College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Twenty-Three candidates of the Division graduated from the Texas National Guard Academy's OCS Class No. 3.

The Division over the years has had an outstanding safety and health record, General Phinney noted. He pointed out that safety is being stressed in every phase of training this year.

General Phinney, commanding the 36th, has been called one of the most distinguished citizen soldiers ever produced in Texas. A former member of the vital Reserve Forces Policy Board, he is Vice-President of the National Guard Association of the Texas National Guard Armory Board and Chairman of the committee on legislation of the National Guard Association of the United States. He was appointed by the Secretary of the Army as Chairman of the training committee to advise on components for the recommendations. Many of his recommendations were implemented for the first time this year. Academy to the four-month associate advanced course of Command and General Staff. General Phinney has spent 33 years with the 36th Division, rising from Private to Commanding General, and in World War II won numerous decorations. He is a prominent Dallas attorney in civilian life.

Assistant Division Commander is Brig. Gen. E. S. Simpson, Amarillo, who also rose from Private to the general staff while a member of the 36th Division. Highly decorated in World War II, he served most capacities from Sergeant to Regimental Commander in the 142nd Infantry and later 1st Battle Grp 142nd Inf. He was armed Assistant Division Commander last February. Commanding the 36th Division Artillery is Brig. James E. Taylor of Kerens, Austin, whose entire military career—from Private to Adjutant General—has been in the 36th. Except for the period of 1948 to 1953, when he was Chief of Staff, he has served as an artilleryman. He named Division Artillery Commander in 1953.

What Changes Have Taken Place In South Plains Soil?

LUBBOCK—If South Plains farmers want to know more about the origin of soils in this region, it may be a Siamese agronomist who will give them the facts.

A smiling Texas Tech graduate student named Samarn Panichapong is currently conducting a study of fine clays from selected soils of the Southwest and how they develop under limited rainfall and weathering conditions in this region.

His research is aimed at learning why the soil behaves as it does, swelling when wet, crusts and cracking when dry—and what its chemical absorption characteristics are and its reaction to fertilizer materials is, said Dr. A. W. Young, Tech agronomy department head.

Attending Tech under a Thailand government scholarship, Samarn's research is part of his work toward a M.S. degree in agronomy.

He works in a small bottle-filled room in the Agriculture building, separating clays by solution and then concentrating them. Then, using X-ray diffraction equipment in the geology and physics departments, he traces the changes in the mineral found in the clays.

Samarn hopes to determine exactly what changes have taken place in the minerals and other properties as these clays developed.

While most of the soils in Thailand are heavy tropical types, there is land in the north-eastern part of the nation similar to the sandy loam of the South Plains region, says Samarn.

"Our problem there is preserving the moisture in the soil and improving its fertility," he said, adding that "migrant farmers in that region 'mine' the soil with corn crops, then move on." Elsewhere in Siam, the main crop is rice.

He expects to continue doing research on origins of soils when he completes his studies in the United States.

He said that cultivation of crops has been underway about 700 years in northeastern Thailand and about 300 and 400 years in the central part of the nation. The average farmer cultivates approximately 20 acres. While the government makes some equipment available to larger farmers on a rental basis, the small farmer continues to use water buffalo.

Samarn, who is 27, worked in the agricultural-chemistry division of Thailand's Agriculture Department before coming to the United States for graduate study. He attended the University of Illinois for several semesters before coming to Texas Tech.

He joined the Thailand agriculture dept, after earning a B. S. degree in agronomy at Kasetsart University in Bangkok. In comparing college life in the U. S. with that in Thailand, he noted that tuition and dormitory fees there amounted to about $30 a year for students while their food and other expenses amounted to approximately $15 a month. This is in a nation where the average income is $35 a month.
