

Impasse On Roadblock

Henry W. McIver held off Houston city workmen, lower right, sent to remove a dirt barricade closing what McIver says is his private road. Later, workmen removed the barricade. McIver promptly replaced it with concrete. City Attorney Will Spears claims the city owns the road, and will seek a court order to open it.

Army Worries Over Lack Of Aerial Mobility

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Some high Army officials are worried because they feel the Air Force is not paying enough attention to the Army's critical need for greater aerial mobility. Discussing the situation today, one official said that this is not a new interservice rivalry in the making nor does the Army have any "intention of trying to create another Army Air Corps." But, he added, "we do want to give troops greater mobility." Army worry began when the Air Force, with approval from the Defense Department, decided to reduce the planned number of wings of troop carrying aircraft. Under the original, 143-wing Air Force program there would have been 17 wings of troop carriers. But when, on Defense and Budget Bureau insistence, that program was reduced to a goal of 137 wings by mid-1957, the number of troop carrier units was cut to 11. Present strength is 13. (A heavy troop carrier wing, using big C-124 planes, is composed of 36 aircraft; a medium wing, using C-119s, is made up of 48 planes.) Changes in original plans for units of planes to fly troops long distances or drop them, as paratroopers into battle is only one cause of the worry expressed in Army circles. There is concern also over what the Army believes is the Air Force's preoccupation with planes for pure atomic and jet war. With far less attention to the kind of transportation the Army needs. Speaking of aircraft design trends, one Army official says: "The Air Force wants them higher and faster; we want them slower and lower."

Farm Bureau Fights Cotton Acreage Cut

Howard County's Farm Bureau has sounded a call to arms in the battle against a state ASC proposal to slice 200,000 acres from the 1956 West Texas cotton allotment. Ralph White, president, said Saturday that the bureau was doing everything it could to block the shifting of allotment from West and South Texas to East and Central Texas. Formal letters of protest have gone out to the members of the state committee and many individuals have written to the chairman of the state committee, White said that the local chapter had communicated also with officials in the department of agriculture in Washington, D. C. He has been in touch with Rep. George Mahon, now in Lubbock, who is among the leaders to prevent the drastic cut in the area's allotment. The state ASC committee has proposed a formula for new allotments, contemplating a 200,000 acre cut for the entire state. This would involve 200,000 acres off of West Texas and South Texas allotments, and a 110,000-acre increase for East and Central Texas. The Old Cotton Growers Association, of small farms in East and Central Texas, have exerted great pressure to get higher allotments, contending that the trend pattern employed in distributing the adjustments acreage last year had treated their sections unfairly. West Texans, through their farm Bureau and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, have contended that the proposals would give to East and Central Texas more acres of cotton than they actually planted in the last uncontrolled year. White said that the bureau would be represented Monday evening at a meeting in Colorado City, ostensibly for the purpose of resuming action started last spring to obtain extra acreage allotments to compensate for severe emergency or drought conditions. White predicted that the meeting was bound to deal with the present problem, however. Another meeting, a district Farm Bureau session in Lamesa Monday evening, is billed as a regular Bureau session with routine matters on the calendar. However, in view of the ASC committee proposal, it is improbable that this session also will result in more plans for action from this area. Lamesa and Dawson County have been going all out during the past week to try to avert the severe slice in the region's cotton allotment. The Chamber of Commerce has joined with the Farm Bureau there. The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce also has gone into action to try to block the proposal.

Storm Departs East Coast, Leaves 18 Dead

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—The East Coast's near-hurricane moved off into Canada today, its legacy was 18 dead, wide flood and wind damage and nervous fear of renewed havoc in devastated Connecticut. The storm's influence east a gray pall over the entire northeast. High winds and rain swept parts of New England through the morning. The rain again sent rivers toward overflowing. In town after town of Connecticut, so terribly mauled by Hurricane Diane's flood waters less than two months ago, anxious residents watched and waited. Winsted, one of the worst hit last Aug. 19, declared a state of emergency today as the Mad River again put some parts of town under water. The Naugatuck River threatened towns all along its course. Torrington, at the head of the Naugatuck Valley, reported 5.33 inches of rain up to 8 a. m. It had 14.25 inches during the August floods. At Waterbury the river wiped out two bridges, one opened only three days ago and threatened a third. Far to the north, waters of Lake St. Lawrence rose to within a foot of the top of a dike and inhabitants of tiny Whitingham, Vt., prepared for an emergency. The Nashua River spilled over at Fitchburg, Mass., at a point where a million dollars worth of frozen food is stored in a warehouse. From all over New England there were reports of flooded roads, ruined bridges, washouts and disrupted railroad operations. Said a New Haven railroad official: "Well, we're in trouble again." The storm took lives from New Jersey into Canada, mostly in highway accidents. Electrocutions from falling wires and drownings accounted for the others. The death list was: New York, 7; Pennsylvania, 4; Connecticut, 2; New Jersey, 1; Maine, 1; Massachusetts, 1; and Canada, 2. The storm, which contained wind gusts of 70 miles an hour at its peak, blew in from the ocean yesterday off Cape Hatteras, N. C., and swept up the hurricane trail. It hit on the eve of the anniversary of last year's devastating Hurricane Hazel.

Cabinet Faces Ouster As French Cling To N. Africa

PARIS, Oct. 15 (AP)—While more than 300,000 troops battled to keep control of North Africa, the French National Assembly threatened this coming week to throw out the Cabinet in another fit of uncertainty over North African policy. News from across the Mediterranean today indicated raiding parties based in Spanish Morocco, which fits like a cap across northern French Morocco, were operating at night to stir up rebellion in a tribe which the French so far have been able to keep quiet. This tribe is the Beni Snassen, occupying that part of French Morocco which lies along the Mediterranean between Spanish Morocco and Algeria. Farther to the west, nearly a division of French and Moroccan troops are fighting a painful battle with guerrillas along the Spanish Moroccan Riff frontier in the vicinity of Aknoul. In Algeria the raids of terrorists extended from east to west of this richest of France's North African possessions. Their aim is to frighten into submission the many Algerians who long have lived in peace with the French. France's newest political crisis developed early Friday morning as Premier Edgar Faure sought what seemed to be a losing battle to get Assembly approval of a new reform program in Algeria. In the preceding week Faure gained a smashing 477-140 endorsement of his home rule program for Morocco. But his proposal for a policy of integrating Algeria more closely with France, while popular with most Frenchmen, apparently cost him the support of a lot of leftist elements in the Assembly, plus some rightists.

ARGENTINA

Peron Due Military Trial 'In Absentia'

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 15 (AP)—A military court of honor was appointed today to try Juan D. Peron in absentia. The court will review his conduct as a three-star general during his dictatorial regime as Argentina's president. The new government's investigators already have uncovered evidence of luxurious living, great accumulated wealth and romances with young girls. The court may hear some of this evidence and charges of corruption in the armed forces in passing judgment on Peron's conduct. Army Minister Gen. Leon Bengoa, one of the heroes of the revolt which toppled the strongman and sent him into exile in Paraguay, announced that the five-man court will judge Peron only on grounds of military honor, "without prejudice to another tribunal judging him for civil offenses or crimes." Under the terms of the asylum granted the ex-president as a political refugee, it appeared unlikely any effort would be made to return him here for trial on criminal charges. But any evidence developed at the military court proceedings could be used as a club to keep him out of Argentina for a long time to come. Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi's press secretariat said today investigators have unearthed evidence of barbarous police torture of men and women, priests, students, workers and members of the armed forces during Peron's regime. Victims who survived told investigators one of the most widely used torture instruments was an electric needle pressed to the skin. Another method was beatings with a rubber hose. The press statement said in many cases the tortures caused death. Those tortured, the statement said, included "persons belonging to all social sectors and different nuclei of opinion against the dictatorial regime." Peron was an army career officer and rose to power through the military. He was a colonel when he reached the presidency 10 years ago and a three-star lieutenant general, the highest rank in the Argentine army, when rebel forces ousted him last month. This week the army ministry retired him and 43 other generals. These included the top generals who backed Peron in the June and September revolutions. General Confederation of Labor leaders have called on the organization's six million members to avoid work stoppages and trouble on Monday. They're hopeful of curing Mrs. Millie Calvert and the 5-month-old baby, Willie, too.

Andrews To Leave Post

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 15 (AP)—T. Coleman Andrews, the Virginia Democrat who took over as Commissioner of Internal Revenue in 1953, said today he is leaving the Eisenhower administration at the end of the month. The 56-year-old Richmonder confirmed the widespread rumors that his resignation was in the works even as Treasury Secretary Humphrey was flying to Denver to confer with President Eisenhower—presumably about Andrews' resignation, among other things. Andrews went to Washington when the Internal Revenue Service was under charges of favoritism and laxness. In announcing his retirement from government service he said he had accomplished what he set out to do—restore the prestige of the Internal Revenue Service. He disclosed he will return to private business as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of American Fidelity and Casualty Co., the nation's largest insurer of trucks and buses with a home office in Richmond. "I would have preferred to wait for the President's announcement," said Andrews, "but the report has become so widespread that I am harassed and embarrassed at every turn. I have been pulled off planes, my phone keeps ringing—and with some reluctance I must confirm the reports."

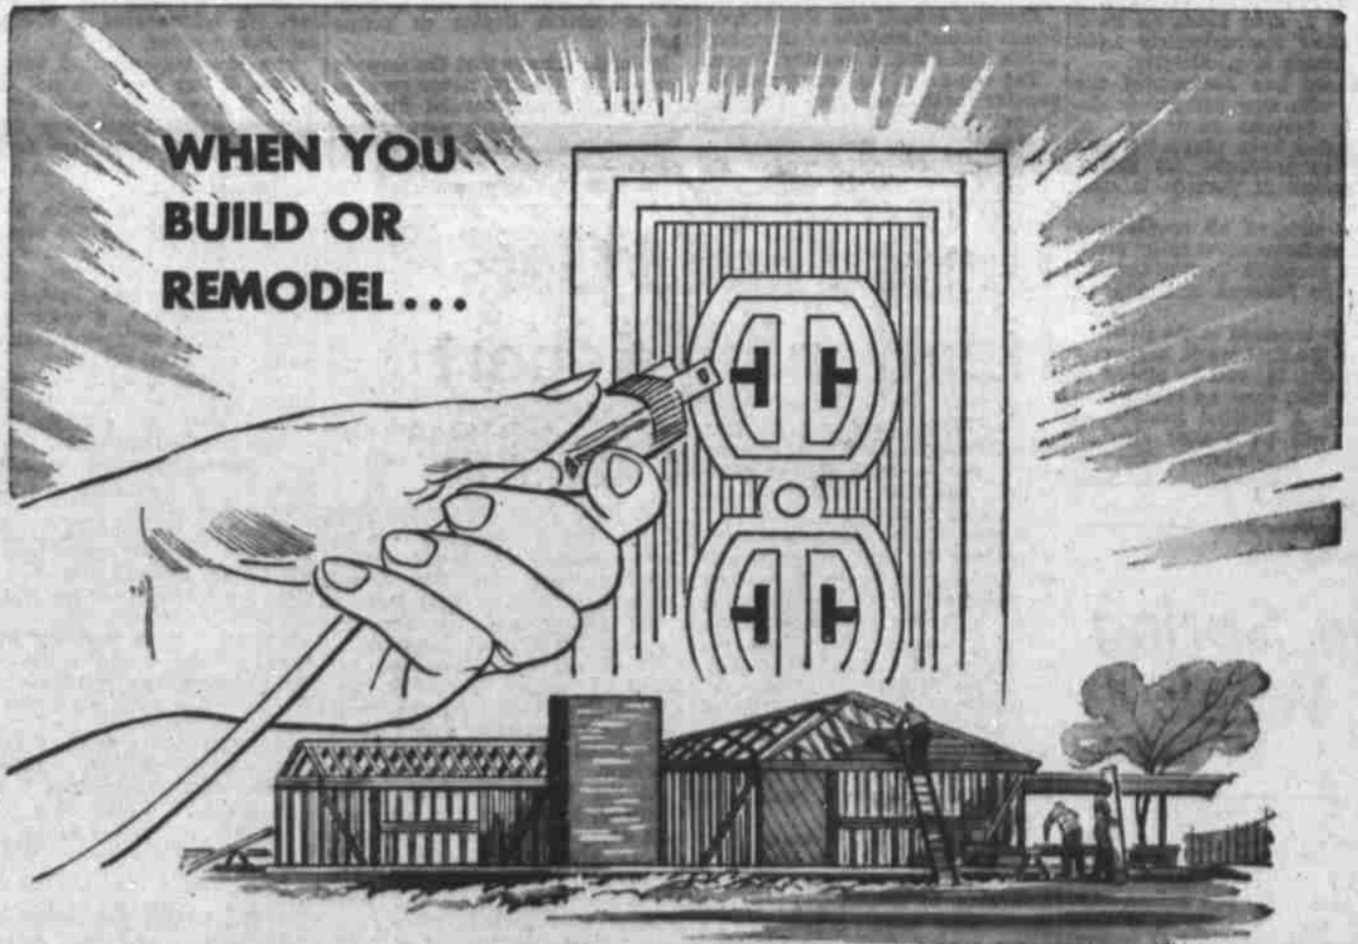

CAR HITS TRUCK

Levelland Fan Killed On Way To Big Spring Game

LEVELLAND (SC) — Making a late-afternoon start to Big Spring Friday for the Levelland-Big Spring football game, Sammie Wayne Long was killed almost instantly when his car knifed under a huge truck trailer. Long, 21, and two other Levelland youths, were only a mile out of Levelland on the Brownfield Highway when the fatal crash occurred. Billy Mack Tilghman, 19, and William E. Weaver, 25, passengers in Long's car, were seriously injured. Officers said the 1955 automobile, traveling at a high rate of speed, overtook another car as the latter was meeting the truck. Long passed the other car on the right side and apparently lost control of his own machine as he cut back onto the pavement. The car swerved into the side of the truck trailer near the front, slid from beneath the rear of the trailer and skidded another 210 feet. The truck driver, Portifirio Chapa Cruz, San Antonio, was not hurt. Long remained in the driver's seat of the car. Tilghman and Weaver were thrown clear. Parts of the automobile were scattered along both sides of the highway, with the engine on one shoulder and the gasoline tank on the other. Weaver received severe lacerations, concussion and a skull fracture. He was brought to the Phillips-Dupre Hospital here. Tilghman suffered a badly fractured pelvis and possible internal injuries. He was taken to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock after emergency treatment here.

CRITIQUE

By Glenn Coates

In one night, aboard an "unsinkable ship" on its maiden voyage, 1,502 lives were snuffed out. The vessel carried 2,307 passengers.

This was the tragedy of the "Titanic" which struck an iceberg in the north Atlantic. A complete story of that fateful night, with personal glimpses of the persons involved, is told in "A Night To Remember," by Walter Lord.

The book will be published in November by the Henry Holt Company for $3.50. Lord is the author of "The Fremontle Diary" which was published in 1954.

BIG WOODS
by William Faulkner

William Faulkner's newest book, "Big Woods," is a collection of four hunting stories written in the last 25 years. Faulkner's last book was "A Fable," and earned him a Nobel prize, a Pulitzer prize, and a National Book Award. Faulkner is 58 years old and this is his 22nd book.

I have never been a fan of Faulkner's and personally do not think that he is a major figure of American letters. His books have always seemed to beg the point and being "much ado about nothing." This book illustrates my point fairly well.

W. G. Rogers, writing for the Associated Press, said this about the book:

"Now with the hunting season once more clasp upon us, it is celebrated by this collection of four hunting stories, 'The Bear,' 'The Old People,' 'A Bear Hunt' and 'Race at Morning,' which is like the others in having originally appeared in a magazine yet like them

besides in being another story about the same southern characters, the same hunting stands where a wide-eyed youth or equally a seasoned Nimrod takes his early post while mist still floats about him, or them, and by and large the same quarry, bear and deer; and still again like the others, in being confined to the two grand weeks in the year for which these men and boys and baying hounds live, the weeks in November with Major de Spain and Sam Fathers—the same Sam who, born of a Chickasaw and a Negro, gave the young boy the blood initiation—and Uncle Ike who made corn and Roth Edmonds who had the whiskey, and of course Will Legate and Walter Ewell and Ash the cook, and not forgetting Boon Hogzback who, for not being able with his shotgun to hit the side of a barn, which was no larger than that warp-footed bear they were on the trail of, closed on the giant with his knife though he never managed to save the dog, though who's, now that trains and autos have come, and the white cotton as tall as man on muleback overrunning the lands where the animals once roamed and a 12-point buck could be proud of being shot by a boy taught how to shoot properly and not to shoot at all, who's, I say, to care what's happening, except perhaps the very remembering hunters themselves, like this prize-winning author, whose quartet we're introduced to with an invocation to Mississippi!

An invocation covering five pages, and all in one sentence, and about four times as long as this article runs to."

Do you know anyone that is interested in Polish poetry? Preferably, someone who can speak the language, but it is not absolutely necessary.

The Mickiewicz Centenary Committee of the Polish People's Republic has opened a competition for all residents of the United States. Prizes total $1,500 and will be awarded to the persons making the best translation into English of Adam Mickiewicz's poem, "Pan Tadeusz" (Master Thaddeus).

I have further information on the competition if you are interested.

Talking with a friend the other day, we were discussing the state of the Hollywood products. As he had some interesting opinions on the field, I asked him to write them down, which he did, under the stipulation that I did not use his name. What do you think about it?

"Some of the best movies, paradoxically, are the least publicized and least suspected. Since I often go to a movie, even a 'B-grader,' when I have nothing else to do, I have had the opportunity of seeing a number of these rare events. One of the latest of these little gems was at a drive-in. I missed the first few minutes of the movie, as I was more interested in getting something at the snack bar, but the story was simple enough that I was able to pick it up without any trouble. But that first absence prevented my noting the names of

6 Passengers Die As Bus Smashes Truck

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—A big, two-deck Chicago-to-New York Greyhound bus, hugging the side of a four-lane highway, ripped into a stalled semi-trailer truck in the dark early today, killing six persons and injuring 21.

The truck, owned by the Gateway Transportation Co. of Chicago and driven by Harry Williams, 43, of Oak Lawn, Ill., had been pulled over partly onto the shoulder of U. S. Route 20 about five miles east of Michigan City when Williams felt the air pressure ebb from his brake tubes.

Slightly injured in the ensuing crash, he related that he had set out four bomb-type kerosene flare signals, repaired the brake line leak, and was picking up the last flare when he saw the bus approaching. He told Indiana state trooper Charley Miller he waved the flare in his hand, and jumped aside just before the tearing impact.

All survivors of the 26 persons aboard the bus, including the driver, Thomas R. Locke, 40, of Effingham, were injured.

One of the dead remained unidentified.

The others dead were Sylvia Money, 36, York, Pa.; Sol Sender, 44, Chicago; Mrs. Charles G. Roth, 50, Lafayette Hill, Pa.; Mrs. Frieda Groenhoff, 53, Los Altos, Calif.; and Anthony William Bruno, 38, of Wilmington, Calif.

Woman Dies In Flaming Auto

DALLAS, Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Zola Rawdon, 29, of nearby Dun-cannville died today in the flaming wreckage of her car, apparently after getting her four small children out of the vehicle.

Officers said she evidently returned to the car for some belongings and was trapped inside when the gasoline tank exploded.

D. D. Davidson of Dallas said he stopped at the site when he saw four children, all crying hysterically, climbing up an embankment. He then saw the wrecked and burning car at the bottom of the 100-foot embankment and called authorities.

The children, aged 4 to 10, were taken to a grandmother.

Mrs. Rawdon apparently lost control of the car on Dallas' western outskirts.

Standing in Tall Cotton

The Braden brothers examine cotton that will average around two bales per acre near St. Lawrence. Elmer Braden, left, is owner of the crop. His brothers are Clifton and Melvin Braden of San Angelo.

BY IRRIGATING

St. Lawrence Farmers May Stop Dry Weather Worrying

ST. LAWRENCE — The cotton crop of Elmer Braden's is proof that a little water goes a long way if it is applied right. Braden had two small irrigation wells on his farm south of St. Lawrence, Texas last season and the total output was only 340 gallons per minute. With this little stream of water he irrigated 90 acres of cotton, besides watering a 12-acre patch of...

hegari one time. Some of the cotton didn't get as much water as needed, but the crop is much better than average. On one field, which was new ground, the plants are six feet high in places and will make two bales to the acre. An adjoining strip of Western Storm-proof will yield about the same. Some of the cotton is not this good, but he is hoping for more than 100 bales from the 90 acres. The field of hegar was soaked down early in the year and then got only an occasional shower. It is cutting around 1,500 pounds to the acre.

His was one of the earlier ones, though, and he did make part of a crop during the most critical time. During the last two years Braden has seen the yields go upward. Last year he picked 72 bales of cotton off 50 acres, which had been his best year since 1948. This year crops are considerably better. He contributed part of this to the fact that people are learning more about irrigation. His theory is to soak the ground each irrigation, even though he doesn't water the crop quite so often.

Cap Rock Power Output Declines

Cap Rock Electric topped the 5,000,000 KWH mark in power sold during September, but the amount was about 17 per cent under August when irrigators had their last wave of flooding before the harvest. For the first nine months of the year Cap Rock has sold 22,562,978 KWH of power to its members. The September total was 3,380,936, against a total of 4,085,190 purchased. Deliveries in August had been 4,056,694.

Another thing he practices is planting two rows in and one out. He says he makes more than by planting the land solidly and it is easier worked and irrigated. On the new field he put on 50 pounds of anhydrous ammonia, and plans to fertilize all his fields next year. Braden says everyone in that area is turning to fertilizer now. Since the cotton allotment seems to get smaller every year, the St. Lawrence farmers are trying to raise the per-acre yield. This means more fertilizer, better use of the water, and stricter insect control. Braden had his own cotton poisoned four times this year and had practically no insect damage.

While his story is not much more unusual than several others in that community, it does illustrate the part that hard work and management play in farming. He has to stay on the job almost 24 hours a day. This last season he took care of all the crop with the help of a part-time laborer and was out very little except for fuel and other operating expenses. Braden has four children but they are still too small to help much in the fields. Yet the family helps to hold down the overhead. With a good garden, and milk cows grazing on an irrigated sod patch, the grocery bill doesn't run very high. So when he harvests 100 bales or more of cotton, it is a safe bet that the income is going to be a lot higher than the expenses.

Baptist Workers Meet Monday In Big Spring Church

Regular monthly workers conference of the Big Spring Baptist Association will be held Monday at the East Fourth Baptist Church in Big Spring. Featured speaker at the concluding worship service will be the Rev. I. M. Woodward, Negro pastor at Midland, who is to report on the work among his people and to deliver a sermon, "God's Message for This Hour."

Ackerly Youths To Exhibit Livestock

ACKERLY—Ackerly 4-H Club members will participate in the junior division of the State Fair Livestock Show. Jerry Batson, Royal and Sandra Adams are to arrive in Dallas Monday. Accompanying the participants will be Byron Pierce, Lamesa, assistant county agent and mentor of the Ackerly club, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Adams. Bryan Adams will also make the trip. Jerry who will be exhibiting at the State Fair for the fourth year will show a Southdown and a Southdown cross lamb. Royal is taking a medium weight Hereford calf, and Sandra a lightweight Angus.

If farmers can raise this much cotton on each allotted acre, they won't worry too much about dry weather. They haven't made a dryland crop in about five years, so they are not counting much on the weatherman's help. The main thing they are depending on is the little irrigation wells which have shown no sign of weakening.

Short discussions will follow by the Rev. E. D. Welsh, Phillips Memorial Baptist pastor, on salvation by grace; Dr. F. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church on baptism by immersion; the Rev. H. W. Bartlett, Baptist College Chapel pastor, on saved to serve. Special music will be by the host church.

The group will remain at the Fair for the entire week of the Junior Livestock Show.

Orme Honorary Chairman For Rayburn Dinner

FORT WORTH — Douglas L. Orme of Big Spring, vice president of the Eastern Petroleum Corp., has been named as an honorary chairman for the statewide testimonial dinner to honor Sam Rayburn in Fort Worth Oct. 27. Orme said Saturday his role will be to encourage attendance from the Big Spring area and to assist in arranging for tickets for any persons desiring to attend the dinner. In addition to honoring Rayburn, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, the $5-a-plate dinner will serve as a fund-raising project for Texas Democrats.

Rayburn has said his speech here will be the only major statement he is to make in Texas before returning to Congress in January. Others to serve as honorary chairmen for the dinner include C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder, French Robertson of Abilene, Judge James Sewell of Corsicana, and Byron Shelton of Temple. Among the Texas representatives who will be in Fort Worth to pay tribute to the speaker are Frank Icard of Wichita Falls, Homer Thornberry of Austin, Joe Kilgore of McAllen, John Bell of Cuero, Omar Burleson of Anson, Clark Thompson of Galveston, Olin E. Teague of College Station, John Dowdy of Athens and Jim Wright of Weatherford.

A Sam Rayburn Library Committee has been organized and is co-ordinating its program with the testimonial being prepared for the dinner. Contributions will be accepted for the library which Rayburn is building in Bonham to house the papers and mementoes of his 42 years in the House of Representatives. He has been Speaker for 12 of these years — longer than any man in history.

DETROIT — Edgar A. Guest, nationally-known poet of the Detroit Free Press, was reported improved today after suffering a slight heart attack Thursday night.

LETTER TO EDITOR Reader Raps Case Results

Dear Editor: I see that the Texas Supreme Court has given the green on the desegregation go. Now I sincerely hope that the Court will never accuse the socialists of advocating Negro equality and free love as both the Democratic and Republican parties have done in the past. I regret very much that the Herald has also taken that stand. And why do I say this? Well, it's because the Herald does not give very much publicity to those who are vigorously opposed to racial equality. I thank you, William N. Blansitt 105 10th Street

Market Bobbles And Eases Off

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 — The stock market had a taste of everything this week—violent falls, vigorous recoveries, dull days—and in the end it was lower for the third week since the President's heart attack. Investor confidence was severely shaken three weeks ago, and brokers still are searching for signs that a base for a sustained rally is being formed. Three weeks ago today the market stood at a record high level. That represented an estimated gain of $29,905,000,000 in the value of securities on the New York Stock Exchange since Jan. 1, in three weeks an estimated $17,965,000,000 has been subtracted from that total. Monday's stock market was hit with some of the widest price declines in 25 years. That fall continued Tuesday. The market shot ahead Wednesday in one of the better advances of the year, regaining half the Monday loss. Thereafter it backed and filled in its tracks and backed and filled in low volume the last two days of the week. The Associated Press average lost $3.20 on the week and closed at $108.70.

Potential Discovery May Be Tested Soon

Phillips No. 1 Satterwhite, a potential discovery in the Fusselman eight miles northeast of Big Spring, may test this week.

Saturday the deep wildcat ran into a fishing job around 9,904 feet after drilling plug. Unless there is undue difficulty, prospects are that the explorer will test the Ellenburger, and if that section is barren, the Fusselman section will be tested through perforations. On a drillstem test, this zone yielded a strong flow of oil and no water. Location is 660 from the north and 1,980 from the east lines of section 12-32-1n, T&P, and its showing has touched off a brisk lease play in the general vicinity.

A completion in the Moore pool and a new location in the Howard-Glasscock field headed up the re-

Five Westbrook Wells Completed

Five Westbrook field completions were reported in Mitchell County Saturday and a Fusselman location was preparing to test, probably today.

Albaugh, Cosden, and Duncan No. 2 Whitlington is the Fusselman site and the operator has set the 5 1/2-inch casing at 8,535 feet. Preparations to drill plugs and test were being made Saturday.

This site is a west offset to the field discovery well and is 390 from east and 1,650 from north lines, 11-17-SPR survey.

Bales and Grimes Production Company No. 1 Anna D. Roe completed in the Westbrook for a pumping potential of 66.37 barrels of 27 degree oil per day. The flow has 41 per cent water and the gas oil ratio is nil.

The total depth is 3,958 feet, the 5 1/2-inch casing goes to 2,990 feet, and the top of the pay zone is pegged at 2,920 feet. Drillrate is 330 from north and east lines, 25-1-H&C survey.

Bales and Grimes No. 3 Anna D. Roe, another Westbrook completion has a daily potential of 64.9 barrels of oil. The flow has 34 per cent water and the gravity is 27 degrees. The gas-oil ratio is nil.

The total depth is 3,961 feet, the 5 1/2-inch casing goes to 2,988 feet, and the top of the pay zone is 2,995 feet. Drillrate is 330 from south and east lines, 25-1-H&C survey.

Blue Danube No. 3-B Bird completed in the Westbrook for a daily potential of 39.96 barrels of oil. The flow had 11 per cent water and ports throughout Howard County Saturday.

The Moore pool completion is Ilex No. 5 Velma, about 10 miles southwest of Big Spring. The project pumped 119 barrels of 31 degree oil in 24 hours to complete. Operator acidized with 6,000 gallons. The flow had no water. The total depth is 3,116 feet, the 4 1/2-inch casing goes to 3,060 feet, and the top of the pay zone is 3,075 feet. The elevation is 2,537 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 275-1. Drillrate is 987.5 from north and 1,633 from west lines, 21-33-1n, T&P survey.

Tide Water Associated Oil Company No. 1 L. W. Longshore is the Howard-Glasscock venture. It is 12 miles southeast of Big Spring and drilling will go to 2,250 feet. It is 1,639 from north and west lines, 15-33-T&P survey on a 10-acre lease.

Other projects in the area were reported drilling ahead. Humble Oil and Refining Co. 1 Anderson is 7,262 feet in shale. This wildcat is 600 from north and 780 from east lines, 15-31-2n, T&P survey and is three miles east and a mile north of Luther.

Cosden No. 1 Clay is preparing to plug back for a test at the 1,700-1,800 foot interval. This project is four miles east of Forsan and is 2,510 from north and 1,659 from east lines, 126-29-W&N survey.

C. W. Guthrie No. 1 Shafer is drilling below 2,400 feet. This wildcat is three miles northwest of Vincent and about a mile and a half northwest of Vincent (Lower Canyon) field. Drillrate is 330 from north and 2,310 from west lines, 29-25-H&C survey.

Blue Danube No. 3-A O'Daniel is spudding Saturday. C. D. Turner Drilling Company has the contract for the venture. It is nine miles southeast of Coahoma and is 930 from north and west lines, northeast quarter, 29-30-1s, T&P survey.

Jo Mill Gains Two Locations

Two Jo Mill locations in Borden County were reported as completed Saturday.

Blanco No. 3 Miller has a flowing potential of 296 barrels of oil per day. Gravity of the oil is 38.4 degrees and the gas-oil ratio was 841-1. The flow is through a 16-64th inch choke and there was no water. The tubing pressure was 420 pounds and the casing pressure was zero.

The total depth is 8,315 feet, the 5 1/2-inch casing goes to 7,859 feet, and the top of the pay zone is pegged at 7,298 feet. Perforations are in the casing between 7,298-7,328 feet. Drillrate is 550 from west and south lines, 14-33-4n, T&P survey.

Texas Company No. 3-A Miller flowed 613 barrels of oil to complete in the Jo Mill (Spraberry) field. Operator acidized with 500 gallons. Perforations in the casing are between 7,165-7,270 feet, through a 24-64th inch choke.

Gravity of the oil is 39.2 degrees and the gas-oil ratio is 464-1. The tubing pressure is 375 pounds. The top of the pay zone is 7,130 feet and the 5 1/2-inch casing goes to 7,400 feet. Drillrate is 1,956 from north and 1,981 from west lines, 13-33-4n, T&P survey.

PAN-AMERICAN STAKES NEW TEST IN NORTHERN MARTIN

Pan American Production Company has spotted its No. 1 J. R. Stagleton in the Pleasant Valley field of Northwest Martin County. The new project is one location northeast of Pan American's No. 1 H. L. Shook, discovery well with a flowing potential of 1,781 barrels of 41.5 degree oil per day.

The new project is 15 miles southeast of Lemasa and will go to 12,200 feet with rotary tools. The drillsite is 690.4 from west and 749.3 from south, labor 11, league 236, Borden County School Land Survey.

The Shook well topped the Devonian at 12,088 feet and production is from between 12,081-12,112 feet. The project also had strong flows while drilling through the Pennsylvanian.

Texas Towns Pay Respects To Oil

By MAC ROY RASOR
AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (AP)—Many a Texas town owes its growth to oil. And a large part of the oil industry's growth has been centered in Texas.

The industry and the oil towns—often it's difficult to tell them apart—took full advantage of national Oil Progress Week this week to reflect, celebrate, and generally shout their accomplishments.

Special editions rolled from press.

"West Texas Empire of Oil Unequaled for Production" said a Midland Reporter-Telegram headline. The story cited 360 million barrels produced in 1954, more than in any other region in the nation, more than in any other state except Texas.

New pay formations and new fields in the region promise to maintain the region's reserve at almost 20 per cent of that of the entire U.S., the paper said. Total oil reserves in Texas are estimated to be half those of the U.S.

Miss Oil Progress was crowned at Midland's "Fashions in Oil" style show.

The Big Spring Herald had a special edition and pointed to record completions. Service station operators were honored at a dinner, an essay contest was held and oil dealers gave a free trip away.

Borger, which rose from the West Texas prairies in a 1926 boom, put on a "Magie Plains Oil Exposition," complete with everything from a horseshoe pitching tournament to fireworks.

"Boom towns come and go, but Borger has defied its critics who once said it would go with the wind after the excitement of its oil riches had died down," said the Borger News-Herald.

There was an exposition, too, in San Angelo, where the Standard Times' special oil edition editor Grady Hill estimated one in every three people in non-farm work in 35 nearby West Texas counties is directly working in oil and gas production.

Tyler took Oil Progress Week in stride. A special edition of the Tyler Courier-Times-Telegraph reminisced over the discovery of the world's biggest oil field.

In the fiscal year just ended, production tax on crude oil and on natural and casinghead gas amounted to $168,427,000, an all-time high and about 20 per cent of the year's receipts from all sources. Motor fuel taxes brought in another $121,000,000 net.

Cosden Finals Foster Well

Cosden No. 10-23 R. W. Foster is a Parochial Bade (Clear Fork) completion with a 57-barrel per day potential. It is 12 miles west of Sterling City and is 330 from south and 2,420 from west lines, 25-22-H&C survey.

Perforations in the casing are between 2,234-38 feet and 2,296-13 feet. The top of the pay zone is 2,296 feet, the 5 1/2-inch casing goes to 2,338 feet, and the total depth is 2,338 feet.

The gravity of the oil is 30.4 degrees and the gas-oil ratio was too small to measure. There was no water and the operator fractured with 2,500 gallons.

Cosden No. 12-23 Foster is drilling at 1,892 feet. It is 12 miles west of Sterling City and is 330 from north and 990 from west lines, south half, 23-22-H&C survey.

Completions Slack Off During Week

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (AP)—Oil well completions slackened this week in Texas. The Railroad Commission reported 234 new oil producing wells, compared with 307 the week before.

For the year, oil completions total 11,864, compared with 9,469. The number of dry holes rose from 116 the previous week to 149. Gas well completions totaled 23. The year's total of 891 compares with 954. Wildcaters drilled five new oil wells and 87 of the dry holes.

Federal Government Studies Next Move In Tides Suit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Government sources said today the Justice Department has three possible avenues as a result of the Supreme Court's refusal to fix Louisiana's seaward boundary.

At stake may be untold millions of dollars worth of oil reserves lying in offshore submerged lands.

The court rejected 6-0 Monday a government request that Louisiana's seaward boundary be set at three geographical miles from shore. Louisiana contends its boundary extends about 10 1/2 miles into the Gulf.

Government sources said the Justice Department can either: Let things stand as they are, with Louisiana collecting royalties on underwater petroleum production out to three-miles and the federal government taking royalties from all drilling beyond that point.

Ask Congress to enact legislation defining Louisiana's boundary as extending three geographical miles out into the Gulf from the low-water mark — and no further.

Or institute new boundary-fixing litigation.

Drilling Activity Shows Sharp Gain Throughout Permian Basin

Rotary rig activity in the Permian Basin areas of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico continued at a fast pace during the past two weeks, ended October 10, according to a semi-monthly survey conducted by Reed Roller Big Company.

Reed reported 525 units in operation on October 10, as compared to 532 September 25, and 441 one year ago.

Andrews and Lea counties continued to pace the region, with Andrews in first place by virtue of its 81 rotary rigs, two more than were counted in Lea County.

Grabbing much of the attention when the survey was made, was Ector County, an area which saw an increase of from 30 to 41 rigs, good enough for a strong third place spot.

September 25 third place county was Crane with 31. The latest tally showed an increase in that area to 34.

Other Basin areas with 20 or more rigs include Midland 23, Nolan 21, and Upton 20.

Totals for the counties covered by the Reed survey, with the previous totals in parentheses, are: Andrews 81, (83); Borden 10, (12); Brewster 2, (2); Cochran 3, (2); Coke 6, (7); Chavez 5, (10); Concho 1, (0); Crane 34, (21); Crockett 11, (8); Dawson 8, (7); Dickens 1, (2); Ector 41, (30); Eddy 3, (3); Gaines, 17, (30); Garza, 3, (6); Glasscock 2, (2); Hale 2, (1); Hockley 3, (3).

Howard 17, (13); Irion 1, (2); Kent 4, (5); Lamb 2, (1); Lea 79, (79); Loving 3, (2); Lubbock 1, (0); Midland, 23, (21); Mitchell 12, (14); Nolan 21, (20); Pecos 6, (9); Reeves 6, (8); Reagan 9, (15); Roosevelt 3, (3); Hummel, 3, (0); Scurry 4, (11); Schleicher 3, (11); Sterling 6, (5); Tom Green 10, (11); Terry 9, (10); Upton 20, (18); Val Verde 2, (2); Ward 17, (17); Winkler 13, (12); Yoakum 11, (10); Spraberry 15, (13); Permian Basin 525, (532).

Area Ventures Make Progress

Several area projects were reported drilling ahead.

Texas No. 1 Adams, Dawson County wildcat, is coring in sand and shale at 8,359 feet. A test of the Dean sand at the 8,215-327 foot interval had the tool open two hours and had strong air blows.

Recovery was 46 feet of slightly gas-cut mud and 90 feet of heavily gas-cut mud.

The flowing pressure was 100-160 pounds and the 30-minute shut-in pressure was 860 pounds. This project is two miles northeast of Ackerly and is 660 from south and 1,980 from east lines, 1-34-4n, T&P survey.

Texas No. 1 Hillger has bit turning in lime and shale at 5,671 feet. This wildcat is 8 1/2 miles northwest of Garden City and is 660 from north and east lines, 13-35-3s, T&P survey.

Cosden No. 1 Simpson, edge to the Modesta field, is drilling in lime and shale at 5,225 feet. A. K. Turner No. 1-A O'Daniel, Snyder pool site, has set the seven-inch string at 2,530 feet.

Duncan Drilling No. 1 Johnson has drilled to 1,343 feet and is preparing to set pipe and test three sections of pay above. The project is in the Clark (San Andres) field near Water Valley.

BRIDGE LIKE THIS? Players' Oil Pot Brings Huge Returns And Suit

DALLAS (AP)—The $50 each that three women anted up during a bridge game turned into a $137,738.38 pot today. But the money goes to their 11 heirs and a pioneer woman oil well driller who dug a hole for them.

The story of the fabulous bridge game began in 1930. Mrs. J. M. Slinnette, Mrs. Virginia Sanders and Mrs. George E. Light, now all dead, were playing. The name of the fourth player has been lost.

Mrs. Sanders, a Sherman, Tex., resident, said she knew of a good oil land lease that could be bought cheap. The other two players, both of Dallas, agreed to put in $50 each.

Mrs. Buda Mauldin of Dallas and her husband, H. C. Mauldin, agreed to drill for the women. The well came in as a gigantic producer and three other wells were drilled on the 15 acres of land. Since then, it has produced about $600,000 in oil.

The inexperienced women had no hard and fast agreement on how the oil would be shared. As expected, the case got in court.

A compromise court settlement was entered formally yesterday in Dist. Judge Dallas A. Blankenship's court. A. C. Scurlock, attorney for Mrs. Mauldin, gave a sigh of relief.

For the past 17 years, he has devoted about 60 per cent of his working time to the litigation and associated matters. At one time it was estimated there were about 25 lawyers representing about as many clients in various complex phases of the litigation.

In all, there have been five suits and about 75 hearings since 1931 when the first case was filed.

In addition to the principals, some of the money will go to others who acquired interests in the property, including the heirs of Fied A. Perrenot. He was associated in drilling the first well, on the Doby tract of the Castleberry survey in Gregg County.

Cosden Officials Go To Board Meet

R. L. Tollett, president, was to leave this afternoon for New York and a special meeting of the board of directors for Cosden Petroleum Corporation on Tuesday.

He is due to return here late Friday.

Marvin Miller, vice president, and A. V. Karcher, secretary-treasurer, also members of the board, were leaving today for the meeting.

COLUMBUS IN REVERSE

J.S. Oilmen Are Rediscovering Europe With Plants, Markets

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—American oilmen are rediscovering the Europe from which Columbus sailed to discover America.

While atomic and solar energy are being harnessed economically, oilmen say, Europe is going to need more oil as a quick source of the energy it demands.

American oil companies, in addition to shipping oil to Europe, have invested 750 million dollars in plants there since the war, multiplying its oil refining capacity eight times. Jersey Standard Oil's house organ, The Lamp, says this year will see 26 catalytic cracking and reforming spread up output. It predicts that within the next 20 years oil consumption there will double.

Economists of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, say consumption of energy from coal, oil and water power is equivalent to 18,000 pounds of coal a year for each person in Europe per capita energy consumption is equivalent to 5,600 pounds a year. But it is rising fast in Europe because of the striking increase of late in the standard of living there.

Europe has higher real wages now. Autos and motor scooters multiply on its roads. With this new prosperity has come a desire to substitute machinery for manual labor — a yen which used to be considered chiefly American.

European farmers now look more favorably on mechanization.

Factory owners have put in power equipment, thereby raising productivity, and thus hiking their profits and the pay of their employees.

Europe still gets 68 per cent of its energy from coal and 10 per cent from hydroelectric plants. Oil provides 20 per cent, with natural gas making up most of the rest.

Atomic energy is likely to be developed commercially in Europe before it is here because the costs of older forms of energy are higher there. But in the next 10 years, Jersey Standard believes, the atom will satisfy only one-fourth of Europe's increased demand for electricity. Three-fourths must come from increased consumption of the conventional energy sources.

American oilmen busily observing Oil Progress Week right now may be comforted to hear that the New York bankers think that in the next 50 years the fossil fuels will still be the world's dominant source of energy.

Sandstone Oil Field Spotted

DENVER (AP)—A new oil field with at least 20 million barrels already indicated by core drilling has been discovered just below the surface west of here, President Elmer Schmidt of Overland Oil said yesterday.

Schmidt, of Dallas, told Overland stockholders the exploratory program, carried on quietly since June, is being conducted by Great Basins Petroleum Co. under a farm-out agreement with Overland on land leased by Overland.

The oil is in the Dakota Sandstone east of the Hogback Formation south of Morrison, Colo.

Schmidt said Great Basins informed him that tests have blocked out 10 million tons of Dakota Sandstone highly saturated with a heavy grade of oil. He said drilling is continuing and each hole is plugged after tests are made.

"Tests show an average of two barrels of oil per ton, or reserves indicated to date of 20 million barrels of oil," Schmidt said. "The drilling program has covered only a small part of the seven-mile strip of land involved in the agreement."

Winfield Morton of Dallas was re-elected chairman of Overland.

ARNOLD MARSHALL

MEET THE 'seniors'
OF THE COSDEN FAMILY...

This is the 15th in a new series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

About the "singing-est" fellow around the Cosden organization is Arnold Marshall, another of the group of 15-year veterans. Marshall is probably best known around these parts for his splendid bass voice, because he always has been gracious enough to lend his vocal talent to almost any occasion to which he is asked. There are few Big Springers who have not enjoyed his fine singing.

Marshall has been associated with Cosden since October 26, 1940, coming to the organization soon after it moved general offices to Big Spring. He had worked prior to that, for a time as a gin bookkeeper at Loraine and with the O. B. Bryan Grocery at Stanton.

He started as a tank farm gauger at the refinery (with Cosden's pipeline division) and he has remained in the pipeline and production department ever since, working his way up through several assignments. He now is administrative assistant to Pipeline Vice President R. W. Thompson.

Marshall was born Nov. 11, 1916 at Loraine and attended public schools there. He then attended Hardin-Simmons University, where he was a vocal entertainer with the famous Cowboy band, making many tours with that organization.

His vocal activities and a strong interest in various civic affairs occupy most of Marshall's leisure time, although he likes to fish when he can. He has been an active YMCA leader for years, is a past president and now heads the Y's area committee for World Service. He also is a past president of the American Business Club, has been a worker in Chamber of Commerce and United Fund activities. He is active in Methodist Church work, is a member of the local board of stewards.

Marshall was on military leave of absence in 1944-45, when he served in the Army Air Corps.

He was married July 29, 1939 to Miss Rachel Ford, at Windom, Tex., and they have a 11-year-year daughter, Nancy Jo. They own their home at 1303 Pennsylvania.

Butter Support Payments Hit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A House committee said today the government has paid out $279,949 to butter dealers in price support transactions on butter which never left dealer warehouses.

Rep. Fountain (D-N.C.), chairman of a Government Operations subcommittee, likened the butter "purchases-resale" deals to cheese transactions which cost the government $2,087,494 and were ruled "unauthorized and improper" by the comptroller general.

Fountain wrote Secretary of Agriculture Benson that the committee came across the butter transactions in its investigation of cheese payments.

He told Benson that the comptroller general's finding in the case of cheese did not specifically mention butter, but that he regarded it as covering all similar payments.

Possibilities Are 'Unlimited' For Navy Jet

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas sees "unlimited" possibilities for the Navy's big new jet powered seaplane, he said tonight.

He predicted the next improvement will be atomic power.

In an address prepared for delivery on the 15th anniversary of the Naval Air Station here, Thomas discussed the new Martin "Seamaster," the jet seaplane bomber produced for the Navy which has aroused considerable interest in the Air Force.

"The application of jet power to seaplanes and eventually nuclear power opens an entire new realm for naval aviation," Thomas said.

In another field of naval progress, Thomas said that "nuclear powered carriers are not far off."

The Navy now has under study seven different types of atomic reactors, some of them designed for large ship propulsion plants. There has been speculation that one of the later models of the new Forrestal class carriers might be fitted with nuclear power.

Noting that the guided missile cruiser USS Bostwick is scheduled for commissioning Nov. 1, followed by commissioning early next year of the cruiser Canberra, the Navy secretary said:

"Other ships which will follow will also carry surface-to-surface missiles. The day of the rifled gun is coming to an end and the era of the missile for all naval purposes is rapidly advancing."

"Missiles soon will be the major weapon for our surface, sub-surface and naval air forces."

The Navy now has two atomic powered submarines launched, with construction of six others authorized, and Thomas said the performance of the first, the Nautilus, "has been little short of amazing."

"The nuclear submarine has a most promising future and it can do many jobs," Thomas added. "It can, of course, destroy enemy shipping which once was its only mission. In addition, it can now give early warning to our homeland or to our naval task forces of the approach of enemy aircraft. It can transport troops or supplies. It can transport our new seaplanes. It can lay mines. It can hunt and kill enemy submarines."

"But its most promising role is as a missile carrier. Imagine the problems confronting an enemy which a fast, silent, submerged submarine carrying medium range missiles, capable of surfacing anywhere on his coastline, would pose for him."

Forsan Baptists Commence Revival

The Forsan Baptist Church today begins a series of revival services which will continue through next Sunday.

The Rev. R. O. Sullivan, pastor of the church, said that the evangelist would be the Rev. Ike Johnson, who is minister of the Bethel Baptist Church in Tyler. The Rev. Johnson, who was an oilfield worker at the time of his conversion and call to the ministry, has experienced an outstanding growth in his work since graduation from East Texas Baptist College at Marshall. He is relatively young and eloquent, said the Rev. Sullivan.

Song services will be directed by the pastor during the meeting, and there will be services at 7 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. daily through Oct. 23.

Uncle Ray: Box Turtles Become Snug Inside Shells

By RAMON COFFMAN
A letter about a box turtle, and how it might be kept as a pet, has come to me from Mrs. Martha Kriska. She writes:

"My child has found a box turtle and wants to keep it. How shall we take care of it? What should it be fed? It drinks water and eats tomatoes, as well as ground meat. Is it right to keep it in a box? Where do box turtles go in winter?"

Box turtles often make excellent pets. When full-grown, they are rarely more than from five to eight inches long.

Thanks to their hinged shells, box turtles can "box themselves up." They draw in their heads, tails and legs, and become snug inside the shells. Several kinds of turtles (but not every kind) can draw inside their shells, but box turtles seem to be the most clever at doing this.

Ground meat and tomatoes are good food for pet turtles. Some box turtles also eat lettuce, bread, mushrooms and bananas. In a state of nature, and sometimes in captivity, they consume snails, caterpillars, earthworms, leaves and berries.

It is well to have a box for this kind of turtle, but it should have opportunity to walk around the room at times or to go outdoors while under care of its owner. Even if it "escapes," it probably would stay within a few hundred feet of the house.

If a pet turtle, or lizard, stops eating for a long time, there may be nothing wrong. It is an old custom of these animals to hibernate when they live in a cold climate. While hibernating, they live under the ground in a hole, or in some other snug place, to keep from being hurt by freezing weather. Inside your home a pet turtle may remember the old custom, and follow it, even though the temperature is warm enough. The temperature should be well above the freezing point.

Your UNITED FUND

This is the big week of the United Fund for Big Spring and Howard County. Solicitation is being made on all fronts, with prospects good for an early windup of the one-time campaign that provides financing for another year for 11 welfare and youth guidance agencies.

It is through the United Fund contributions that needy families are given sustenance; a boy in uniform away from home is helped with a Red Cross loan or given a bit of welcome at the Service Center; Big Spring's young people are directed into wholesome channels through the Scouts, the YMCA, the Recreation Center, the summer program; people buffeted by hard tides of fortune are given a lift through the Salvation Army; and support is given those great medical research programs which might solve the mysteries of cancer and heart disease. These are among the agencies and the programs that your United Fund supports.

The demands are greater than ever—more givers than ever are called.

THE LADY IN GRAY—Mrs. Shine Philips offers a pack of cigarettes to Harold B. Archer who is a patient in the Veterans Administration Hospital. About 25 Gray Ladies, an organization of the Red Cross, donate over 30 hours a week of their time to assist in the hospital. The Red Cross is one of those agencies whose manifold activities is financed through the United Fund distribution.

FREE MILK—Mrs. Luella Gipson, a widow who lives at 705 Cherry, and her six children, receive cartons of milk from Jewel Barton, County Health Nurse, right, and firemen, Chief H. W. Crocker, left, and O. L. Stewart, right. Miss Barton checks the families that benefit from the Milk and Ice Fund at intervals to make sure that there is a need.

SPIRITUAL AND PHYSICAL FOOD—Capt. Dexter Breazeale gives counsel and a supply of groceries to one of the families assisted by the Salvation Army. This United Fund agency expends its money to assist the "down and outers," families in distress, and to provide supervision for many children's recreation.

FUTURE LEADERS OF AMERICA—Engaged in some research in the Law Library of the Howard County Court House are delegates to the pre-legislative conference in Lubbock Oct. 29. These members of "Y" organizations in photo at right are Nita Beth Farquhar, Kelsey Meek, Bennie Compton, and Tommie Jo Williamson. The group, sponsored by Bobo Hardy, will prepare bills on any subject they choose and then present them at the conference. If the bills pass through H. Y., they will go to the state legislature for consideration.

Local P-TA Groups Supplement Facilities

By LUCILLE PICKLE

For an organization whose prime objectives lies in other directions, Parent-Teacher Association units have done a remarkable job of supplementing school funds in Big Spring.

Every year several thousand dollars in reference books, playground equipment, teacher lounge furniture, piano, etc. come to the local schools through beneficence of the P-TAs.

Those who have lived in the Big Spring Independent School district for any length of time know that this district is not as blessed financially as many of its rich neighbors. Where the school system has not been able to provide what the school needed, the units have stepped in to fill the demand, though strictly speaking, they are not a fund-raising association.

Not only do these parents and teachers enter into the work of sponsoring suppers, selling magazine subscriptions and arranging carnivals, but also they aid in such movements as helping at the VA Hospital, at the Red Cross Bloodmobile, assisted in giving the Salk vaccine, with the TB chest x-ray and the Mother's March on Polio, to name but a few.

The oldest association in the system is the one at the South Ward Elementary School. It was organized in the fall of 1927 and the first president was Mrs. L. S. Patterson. Their first project was to plant trees and install an irrigation system. They set aside $50 for this and the irrigation system didn't work. Some of the outstanding items donated by this group to their school have been a piano, visual aid machine, radios and shrubbery for the grounds.

This year the group plans to spend $332.12 for playground equipment. This sum has been augmented by the teachers fund and the school system.

The Airport P-TA was organized in 1948 and they have averaged spending $288.26 per year. They have supplied their school with a piano, a 16 millimeter projector, record player and musical instruments, library books, film strips and a tape recorder. In addition to these, they have bought football uniforms for their team and have furnished a kitchen with cabinets, a stove and dishes. The playground equipment also came from the association funds. This year they are making plans to buy black-out drapes for the school.

Approximately $1,043 has been spent during the past four years by the Central Ward Association averaging around $260 per school year. They have bought visual education equipment, reference books, furnished a teachers' lounge and redecorated and refurnished the principal's office. They also placed small organs in each room with the aid of the school board, and a piano. The school board matched their purchase of two dozen folding chairs. Playground equipment has been secured by this group and athletic letters are provided for the letterman in athletics each year.

The association at College Heights has been organized for 17 years and has spent $9,646.50 on

Study Club Of Lamesa Starts Fund

LAMESA — The Women's Junior Study Club is starting its fund campaign to raise funds for a $20,000 club building.

Letters are in the mail to potential donors urging their support and explaining the uses of the club building. On Oct. 24 actual solicitation is due to start, and by Oct. 29 club members hope that the campaign can be culminated.

Climaxing event will be a big bazaar on Oct. 29 at the old First National Bank Building, starting at 8:30 a. m. This activity will feature a food booth, a grab box, a white elephant division, booths for handicraft and others. There will be prizes. On hand during the day will be an interpreter to assist Latin-Americans, particularly the Mexican nationals, in taking part in the bazaar.

Mrs. W. K. Craley, Mrs. V. Z. Rogers and Mrs. C. A. Baldwin comprise the preparations and equipment committee. Mrs. J. D. Jenkins heads the donations division; Mrs. O. H. Sires is in charge of decorations; Mrs. R. R. Townsend, of the white elephant division; Mrs. Elmer Cope of food; Mrs. Leo Johnson, tagging and wrapping; Mrs. T. L. Higginbotham, handicraft; Mrs. Ross Gibson, grab box; Mrs. J. B. Leavelle, cashier; Mrs. Earnest Moody, music; Mrs. Buster Reed and Mrs. Hugh Gaines, publicity.

the school for an average of $365 per year.

During this period the teachers' lounge has been furnished. They have also purchased a cook stove, hot water heater, coffee maker, silverware, hectograph machine, playground equipment, two pianos, 10 record players with records, two organs, an electric ice box, five sets of reference books, library books, two film strip machines with film strips, movie projector, delinoscope, football jerseys and letters and folding chairs.

This year they are helping the teachers refurnish the lounge.

One of the newest and largest of the elementary schools is the Washington Place Elementary. The P-TA was organized there in February of 1952. For the three years this unit has been organized it has averaged spending approximately $683 each year. All of this money has not been spent as a direct benefit to the children, but the organization has bought a piano, furnished the lounge, bought shrubbery, at least seven sets of reference books, five of which were matched by the school board. They have given record players, flags, health supplies, linens, and have paid for repairs to machines and other equipment.

From 1950 to 1955 records at the East Ward school show that $1,573.95 has been spent by the Parent-Teacher Association on the school. They have bought a movie projector, a slide projector, library books, hot water heater, refrigerator, folding chairs, and a slide for the playground. Sometimes in years past the association purchased a cook stove.

An organization that has had its ups and downs has been the one at the Kate Morrison School, but even with troubled days this organization has paid $1,000 on the fence that surrounds the school and has purchased a 16 millimeter movie projector with sound, and a piano for the new building. They have planted $164 worth of trees and shrubbery on the grounds and are aiding in furnishing the teachers' lounge.

Another association that has been in operation for three years is the one at the Park Hill School. While an accurate report could not be obtained, last year the organization spent $450 for the school. Items purchased include a tape recorder, movie projector, piano, refrigerator, and adding machine, $300 for film for the film library, equipment for the first aid room, a record player, typewriter, reference books and playground equipment.

The North Ward Association sets aside $10 each year per teacher to

While the Junior High P-TA has been organized only four years, much has been done for the band, in addition to providing two movie projectors, library books, a slide projector, furniture and a refrigerator for the teachers' lounge. No figure was available for the amount spent on the band uniforms but more than $2,000 has been donated to provide the other items.

DON'T BE FOOLED

WHICH FUEL IS FASTER?

Nothing cooks as fast as flame. Artificial heats, from whatever fuel, can only be effective when they are high enough to do the cooking job required. Gas reaches these heats faster, because flame is, itself, instantly hot. Gas does not require a time lapse for resistance to accumulate, and creates heat.

WHICH FUEL IS MORE AUTOMATIC?

Modern gas ranges offer every automatic feature found on any range, of any type. Today's gas ranges feature automatic clock controls, giving complete timing on oven and top-burner uses. They also offer mechanical roasting cooking (for greater cooling and smokeless cooking), top-burner vented cooking (for greater cooling and smokeless cooking), top-burner electronic watchers that automatically control the heat, foldaway shelves, giant ovens, deep fat fryers, swing-out broilers, and any other automatic features found on any range.

FLAME IS THE NATURAL METHOD OF COOKING, AND PERFECTLY CONTROLLED FLAME IS SUPERIOR FOR MODERN COOKING . . . ABSOLUTELY UNMATCHED BY ANY ARTIFICIAL COOKING METHOD.

Broil Bacon, Add With Orange Rice

To broil bacon, place slices of bacon on cold broiler rack. Broil about 3 inches from heating unit. Cook only 2 to 2½ minutes to a side, turning slices once.

GALA GRILL WITH ORANGE RICE

1-3 cups packaged pre-cooked rice
1 cup water
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon salt
12 canned pineapple chunks, drained
8 cooked prunes, pitted and drained

8 slices Canadian style bacon
2 teaspoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Combine rice, water, orange juice, and salt in saucepan. Mix just until all rice is moistened. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat, uncovered, fluffing rice gently once or twice with a fork. (Do not stir.) Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes.

Meanwhile place fruit alternately on 4 skewers. Brush with melted butter. Broil fruit kabobs and bacon (have bacon 2 to 3 inches from heat) 5 to 6 minutes on each side, turning when bacon is slightly browned. Add grated orange rind, sugar, and the 2 tablespoons butter to rice. Mix lightly with a fork. Arrange rice, bacon, and fruit kabobs on serving plate. Makes 4 servings.

Hoe Cake Is Hot Water Cornbread

Cornbread can be prepared in a number of different ways such as baked, boiled and fried. One of the simplest kinds of cornbread is hoe cake which country people used to bake on their hoes when working in the fields. Merv refined cooks often call it hot water cornbread.

HOE CAKE

1 cup white corn meal
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk or water
Salt pork drippings
Butter

Mix corn meal, salt and enough boiling milk or water to make a batter which will not spread when dropped on a griddle. Grease griddle with salt pork drippings and drop the batter on the hot griddle. Each cake should be about ¼ inch thick. Cook slowly and when browned, place ¼ teaspoon butter on top of each cake, turn and brown other side. Sometimes the batter is placed on griddle in 1 large cake and as soon as it is browned on 1 side is turned onto a freshly greased griddle to brown other side. The thin crust is peeled off with a knife, placed on a hot plate and spread with butter. When another brown crust has formed, the cake is turned again, the crust continued until the cake is all browned. These crisp buttered crusts are served piled together and cut in sections. Serves 4.

Miss Weekes-Mr. Beck Repeat Vows In Lamesa

LAMESA — The First Christian Church in Lamesa was the scene Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock of the marriage of Lois Jean Weekes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Guy Weekes, to Stuart Roe Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Beck of Roswell, N. M., and Michigan City, Ind.

The double ring service was read by the Rev. Walter G. Horn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Baskets of giant white chrysanthemums combined with greenery and candles in branched candelabra formed the background setting and white cathedral tapers tied with white satin bows marked the center aisle.

Mrs. A. G. Barnard, organist, accompanied Mrs. Carl Houtree, soloist, as she sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." Traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Barnard and as a prelude "Traumerel," "Melody of Love," "At Dawning" and "I Love Thee." As the wedding vows were pledged she played "Clair de Lune."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory pink satin designed with a high round neckline and long sleeves that came to points over the hands. The long fitted bodice was joined to a voluminous skirt that was accented at the hipline with a peplum of hand-fashioned satin ruffles that swept into a cathedral train. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was designed in tiers that joined a bandeau of seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white rosebuds and stephanotis. She wore a gold bracelet that was worn by her mother in her wedding for something old.

Mrs. J. B. Foshee of Abilene, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Don Pierce of Wichita Falls served as bridal attendant. The six ballerina-length dresses of identical design were fashioned of iridescent blue taffeta. They wore matching satin bandeaus outlined with seed pearls and tiny nose veils of shirred illusion. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Robert H. Beck of Roswell, N.M., attended his brother as best man. Dan Waters of Dallas served as groomsmen to his brother-in-law. Ushers were John Bishop of Kilgore and Robert Balch of Odessa.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Lamesa Country Club. Parents of the couple and wedding attendants assisted the bride and bridegroom in the receiving line.

Mrs. Charles Snure of Odessa and Sarah McDonald of Midland registered the guests. The bride's table was laid with a white organdy cloth over white satin centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums. Silver appointments completed the setting.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Jack Yonge of Abilene, Marjorie Buck of Chicago, Mrs. Robert Beck, Roswell, N. M., Mrs. Dan Waters, Dallas; Betty Jane Kins, Odessa; Jamie Trainer, Houston; Mary King and Toni Edwards of Graham; Mrs. Joe Albright of Andrews, Mrs. Q. B. McMahon of Odessa, Lorraine Ashton, Mrs. Dick Collins, Mrs. Hap Bratcher, and Mrs. G. K. McDonald, all of Lamesa.

For a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, Mrs. Beck chose a white knit suit worn with reptile accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds. She wore a powder blue top coat.

The bride attended Lamesa schools before graduating from Morton High School. She received her journalism degree at Texas Technological College and has been society editor of the Amarillo Times, San Angelo Standard Times and San Antonio Express and has been staff writer with the Abilene

MRS. STUART ROE BECK

Reporter-News and is now on the staff of the Odessa American. Her husband graduated from New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, N. M., and attended Southern Methodist University before serving four years in the United States Air Force where he also was based in Greenville, a half at Chanute Field, Ill. He was also based in Greenville, S. C., where he flew out-of-state missions. He is now a staff writer on the Odessa American in Odessa where the couple will make their home.

Berta Beckett Class Has Monthly Lunch

Theme of the program was "Mothers of Israel" when the Berta Beckett Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met Thursday at the church for a luncheon and business meeting.

A prayer of thanks was offered by Mrs. W. F. Taylor.

The luncheon table was laid with a white linen cloth. Runners of green leaves and red berries extended the length of the table, centered with an arrangement of the same plant. Mrs. W. R. Douglass was in charge of decorations.

Following the meal, Mrs. L. S. Patterson gave Solomon's writing of the ideal housewife and mother from Proverbs. The members answered the roll call with "Women of the Old Testament."

Mrs. Taylor sang a solo, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Mrs. Della Kay Angell led in prayer.

"Lesson from the Life of Ruth" was presented by Mrs. Theo Andrews. Closing prayer was by Mrs. Andrews.

Eighteen members and three guests, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. A. L. Wasson, and Mrs. Hudson Judson Shepherd, attended.

FOR DAY OR NIGHT

Designer Combines Simple Lines With Decorations

When Mollie Parris designs a dress, she allows herself only those flights of fancy which have to do with decoration for she firmly believes that the first and prime purpose of a dress is to flatter the wearer. Evidence of this particular philosophy is in today's late-day-night ensemble.

In faultless taste with its abbreviated, draw-string jacket for day-light hours, it has a provocative décolletage for evening. Utterly simple so far as body lines are concerned, the "flight of fancy" detail — ribbon run through braid — is an important bit of fashion business. The elongated bodice is darted in front for special emphasis of that sleek area; the skirt is gored and then gathered onto the swagged hipline treatment.

For a stunning effect, make it in taffeta, peau de soie, faille, shantung or even novelty cotton. Match the braid and ribbon for urban appearance, use a little imagination if you make it for resort wear. This pattern is cut to DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, not Standard

Pattern Measurements.
Size 10 Bust 34, waist 24, hips 35 inches; size 12 bust 35, waist 25, hips 36 inches; size 14 bust 36½, waist 26½, hips 37½ inches; size 16 bust 38, waist 28, hips 39 inches; size 18 bust 40, waist 30, hips 41 inches.

Size 12 requires 6½ yards of 36-inch material for dress and ¼ yard of 35-inch material for interfacing. To order Pattern No. 1236, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, G. P. O., Dept. B-5, New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1.00. Airmail handling 25 cents extra.

Bailey-Blackwell Vows Said In Wesley Chapel

The Wesley Methodist chapel was the setting of the wedding Saturday at 7 p.m. of Mona Bailey and Wayne Blackwell.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Nile L. Bailey, 204 NE 12th, and Mrs. Thelma J. Blackwell, 305 Lorilla.

Before an altar decorated with a centerpiece arrangement of pink carnations flanked by two seven-branched candelabra, the Rev. C. W. Parmenter, pastor of the Wesley Memorial Church, read the informal double ring vows.

Music for the occasion was by Don Lovelace singing "I Love You Truly" and "Oh! Promise Me." He was accompanied at the piano by Betty Earley.

A princess style ballerina-length emerald pink gown of bridal satin was chosen by the bride. The dress was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves forming a point just below the wrist. Her headpiece was of matching satin attached to a pale pink tulle shoulder-length veil. Her shoes were of matching satin.

The bride carried a white Bible borrowed from her niece, Nancy Bailey, topped with white carnations and pink sweetheart roses and showered with white satin ribbon. Her dress was new; she carried an old handkerchief and wore a blue garter, and a penny in her shoe.

Maid of honor, Denise Honey, was attired in a pale blue street-length dress of acetate rayon featuring a scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Best man was Donald Ringener. At the reception held in the church parlor, the refreshment table was laid with a white crocheted cloth. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white carnations. The two-tiered wedding cake and lime sherbert punch was served by Mrs. Autov Shanks, sister of the bride.

Mrs. Donald Ringener registered the guests.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. Shanks of Odessa and children; and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bailey and children of Plainview.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School where she was a member of the Future Homemakers of America and the Majors Club.

A graduate of Smithville High School in Oklahoma, the bridegroom, was a member of the 4-H Club and played basketball four years. He is now employed as a lineman for Lacy's Electric Company.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Smithville, Okla., the bride was wearing a light tan velvet sheath dress with a box jacket. Her accessories were black. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The Blackwells will make their home in Odessa.

Terry Patterson Exhibits Painting At Dallas Fair

This year at the State Fair in Dallas, Mrs. Richard (Terry) Patterson, has on exhibit a painting of a little dog "Honey" in pastels.

The art piece placed third in the senior division. The subject of the painting is the dog of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Marshall, 1303 Pennsylvania.

This is the second consecutive year that Mrs. Patterson has displayed her work at the State Fair.

A native of Big Spring, Mrs. Patterson "took up painting" when her doctor advised her to do so as a therapy when she was suffering from a long illness. As a child, she had been interested in painting, but now the interest "hatched."

She has studied art at Howard County Junior College, from several artists in New Mexico and Dallas, and plans to finish a correspondence art school very soon. She wants to do further study and work in portrait painting.

"Animals are my best subject," the artist stated.

Her first large painting was of the Fort Worth Grand Champion Hereford steer in 1953. Since that time she has won many ribbons, having placed first at the state fair with a steer head in pastels.

Recent achievements include placing in four divisions at the Dawson County fair this month.

Now Mrs. Patterson has four canvases that she is working on. "When I get an inspiration, I have to follow it up. I paint purely for self satisfaction and pleasure I receive from doing so," Terry said.

The local artist designed and painted the birds and ivy that are on the 36 glass panels at the new Cosden Club.

As you walk into the Patterson home at 407 Edwards, you face a huge easel with a painting half finished. Mrs. Patterson keeps her hobby handy, so when she has some time off, she can grab a brush and make a few strokes.

She is the mother of two children, Jimmy, 12 and Joanna, 9.

Julia Lynn Ashbury and Lynn Gray won costume prizes.

Mrs. Bill Conger assisted Mrs. Elrod in serving the nine guests who were given Brownie folding drinking cups as party favors.

Raymond and Ann Hughes of the Pegasus Field are here for a visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Wilson.

Mrs. C. C. Bell led the opening prayer and Mrs. J. J. Overton presided for the short business meeting.

The program was concluded with sentence prayers by the seven members and a visitor, Mrs. R. E. Overton.

The meeting on Oct. 18 will be a quilting party in the home of Mrs. Era Belcher.

MRS. WALTER DAKIN WILLIAMS (Photo by Bradshaw)

Joyce Croft Becomes Bride Of Capt. Walter Dakin Williams

Before an altar decorated with large white mums and jade fern trees, Joyce Croft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewin W. Croft, became the bride of Captain Walter Dakin Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelious C. Williams of St. Louis, Mo., in a ceremony at 10:30 Saturday morning at the Webb Base Chapel.

Chaplain William J. Ludlum of Webb read the double ring wedding service. Tall silver candelabra held white tapers that lighted the altar, the approach to which was marked with white markers tied in satin ribbon. Pew markers of tall white candelabra tied with mums and satin ribbon formed the bridal aisle.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Harold G. Talbot sang "Pans Angelicus" by Frank and "Ave Maria" by Schubert and "Thanks Be To God." She was accompanied on the organ by Lt. Carl O. Bonelli who also played the wedding marches.

Entering on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of camellia white satin fashioned with a wide, scoop neckline. A delicate band of alencon lace, enhanced by a flower and petal motif, accented the decollete neckline and extended to the back of the dress. The long tight sleeves came to petal points on the back of her hands and buttoned with tiny satin covered buttons. The tightly molded princess bodice was fastened down the back with self-covered buttons. The waist-length flared skirt was accented by soft unpressed pleats. Her shoulder length veil was of imported French silk illusion and attached to a pillbox type hat.

The bride carried a nosegay of stephanotis and gardenias backed with tulle and lace leaves and showered with ribbons of white satin. Something old was an heirloom brooch of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Boyd, something borrowed was a handkerchief of Fern Wells; something new was her wedding dress and for luck she had a six-pence in her shoe.

Attendants of the bride were her cousin, Roseanne Croft, of Stephenville who was maid of honor, Champe Phillips of El Paso and Dell Steele of Midland, bride's maids. They were identically attired in dresses of turquoise taffeta fashioned with a V-shaped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The flared skirts were waist-length. They wore pleated turquoise half hats with nose veils and their slippers were of matching color. Their ensemble was completed by the short white kid gloves. Their nosegays were of white French mums combined with tulle and satin streamers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Croft chose a dress of midnight blue satin with mauve and rhinestone trim and a matching velvet headed hat. An orchid corsage was attached to her bag. Mrs. Williams wore a rose colored suit with harmonizing accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Lt. Wilfred F. Rice Jr. served Captain Williams as best man. Groomsmen were Brigadier General Fred M. Deane, vice commander, Flying Training Air Force, Waco, and Col. Charles M. Young, Commander of Webb Air Force Base. William W. Inkman Jr. of Dallas and Lt. Robert R. Grew of Webb seated the guests.

A graduate of Tarleton College, Stephenville, the bride was a member of the Texas Sorority and has served as secretary for the commanders of Webb Air Force Base since its reactivation in 1951.

Captain Williams attended Washington University School of Law, St. Louis, Colorado University, and Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and holds AB and LLB degrees. He has been a professor of law at St. Louis University School of Law, and an attorney at law associated with Martin and Peper, and Martin in St. Louis. During World War II he was in the CBI Theatre in India and Burma. Before being transferred to Webb as Staff Judge Advocate, he held the same position at Mather Air Force Base, Calif. He is a member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, the American Bar Association, and St. Louis Bar Association.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, 1819 Douglas, where the guests were received by Mrs. Croft, Capt. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. C. C. Williams, Roseanne Croft, Champe Phillips and Dell Steele. Mrs. Champ Rainwater played organ music during the receiving hours.

Mrs. Wesley Adams of Sulphur Springs, cousin of the bride, and an aunt, Mrs. Elmore Hallmark, of Dublin served refreshments. The table was laid with a floor length white organdy and lace cloth and was centered with an arrangement of white Fuji mums and silver eucalyptus. The table was edged with tiny mums and satin streamers. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with bridal roses and set in a tulle ruffie.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Lina Flewellen, Mrs. Toots Mansfield, Mrs. Bill Neal Jr., Mrs. Julia Wells, Fern Wells, Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards, Mrs. Shine Phillips, Mrs. Earl Ezzell of San Angelo, Mrs. Fred Stephens, Mrs. R. Richardson, Mary Hamilton, Frances Sisk of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Logan Baker and Mrs. Don Burk. Their corsages were of white French mums.

When the couple left for their wedding trip the bride wore a suit of black satin broadcloth with white mink collar. Her blouse was white and her accessories were black. A white gardenia corsage from her bouquet was attached to her bag.

The Williamses will honeymoon in Las Vegas, Nev., and in Hollywood, San Francisco and Carmel, Calif.

Capt. Williams will leave from San Francisco for an assignment in Japan. Mrs. Williams will return here for the six months period before joining her husband at his new station.

An Oriental theme was used in the table appointments Friday evening when members of the Williams-Croft wedding party were feted with a rehearsal dinner at the Wagon Wheel. Hosts for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Shine Phillips, Champe Phillips, Fern Wells, and Mrs. Earl Ezzell of San Angelo.

The floral arrangements used to decorate the table were fashioned with Bird of Paradise and yellow spider mums. The one on the center table was based with a manzanita branch completed with figurines and flowers while those on the side tables were of the flowers that were flanked with aqua colored candles.

Plate favors were miniature Japanese umbrellas and rice bags. Miss Croft presented her attendants with short white kid gloves.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Lewin W. Croft, Joyce Croft, Captain Walter Dakin Williams, Brigadier General Fred M. Deane, Frances Sisk, Col. and Mrs. Charles M. Young, Mrs. C. C. Williams, Lt. William J. Ludlum, Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Bonelli, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Talbot, Dell Steele, Roseanne Croft, Doris Dell Turner, Tom Benton, Wilfred Rice.

Poland Offers No Bargains In Trade Pact

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—A trade agreement with the United States, heartily desired by the Poles, is just about impossible. At its rates for exchange of money, Poland is unable to offer any bargains.

The Soviets forced Communist Poland to the stoly at 4 to 1 four years ago—the same four to a dollar at which the Soviets peg the ruble. It is a completely artificial course and compels Polish trade to go east.

Official quarters here concede reform is needed if trade is to be established with the West. But one pointed out:

"We could do it only in a general reform that would include the ruble and the Czech crown."

This would have to be ordained by Moscow, and no one here expects that soon.

Any ordinary transaction reveals the stoly's true value. A cup of good coffee is 8 zlotys. At the official rate that would be $2. Anyone coming here with hard currency would find the simplest form of life prohibitive at such rates.

The government acknowledges this. Foreign delegations get special rates, up to 15 stoly for $1. Poles who travel abroad say a 20-1 rate would be proper for most transactions.

The state of the currency does not seem to affect the man on the street. A good coal miner earns about 3,000 zlotys a month.

TOY DISPLAYS IN STORES

Santa's Sack Already Has Spilled Into Local Stores

Santa Claus doesn't come to Big Spring for another two and a half months, but indications of his arrival are already beginning to show up around the city.

The old gent's sack has spilled over into most of the local stores and the array is as varied and eye-opening to youngsters as ever. Most local stores report that they have this year's toys on display already. One said that a complete selection would be displayed in the immediate future.

At any rate, youngsters can start previewing this year's offerings in Santa's bag. Most merchants said that dolls are the biggest Christmas sellers. Others said "wheel goods" were the best. Tricycles, wagons, and buggies make up a large percentage of Christmas sales in just about all local stores.

The average Christmas toy purchase is somewhere between $15-$35. The average family in the nation spends about $23 per year, according to the Toy Manufacturer's of America. One merchant said his customers purchase toys amounting to about $25 per child. Another said his average sale was about $15. All agreed that last minute purchases for forgotten items probably boosts the average purchase much higher than the original purchase.

Also, one merchant said, most people buy their toys at more than one place. They might buy $15 worth at one store and that much again at another store.

Children usually have the final say-so in most purchases. A merchant said that parents usually bring the children in to look around and then watch what the youngster takes the most interest in. Then the parent will come back later to make the purchase.

However, some parents do buy the toys while junior is still in tow and save the trip back.

Almost all merchants stated that they would like for parents to make their choices early. The stores provide a place to hold the toys until they are wanted and early buying enables the store to have plenty of toys on hand as Christmas draws near.

Parents are assured of getting just the toys they would like to have, if they shop early, a merchant said. Also, the merchandise is more likely to be in better shape before it has been handled very much.

Emergency Policy Applied To Small Business Loans

DENVER (AP)—The White House today approved an emergency policy designed to assure the Small Business Administration adequate funds to meet government loan needs in hurricane disaster areas.

The need for such a policy resulted from the drain on the agency's resources after the August hurricane-spawned floods which ravaged the northeastern section of the country.

At that time the SBA had a legal ceiling of 25 million dollars on disaster loans, and about 7 1/2 million dollars had been granted previously.

Since the August disaster the SBA has received applications for more than 32 million dollars in loans and it expects the total may reach 40 million. Disaster loans are granted at three per cent interest.

Pilot Dies In Crash Of Jet Fighter Plane

VICTORIA (AP)—A jet plane pilot was killed Friday in the crash of a F100C fighter eight miles east of the Foster Air Force Base.

The victim was Lt. Robert Henninger of Minneapolis. The crash at 6:48 a.m. near a highway knocked out a number of long distance telephone lines.

Ramseys Leaving Soon For Military Service In India

Within the next few days, Col. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Ramsey and four-year-old daughter, Patricia, leave Big Spring on an 11,000-mile air trip to New Delhi, India, where the United States Air Force officer begins a two-year tour of duty as air attache to India.

Col. Ramsey has been visiting his brother, W. E. Ramsey, and other relatives in this area. Mrs. Ramsey is the former Natalie Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Parker, a Glasscock County ranching couple.

A one-time Chilleothe, Texas, and Texas Tech football player, Woodrow joined the Flying Cadets shortly after leaving college in 1941 and his service has been continuous since that time.

Until recently, he has served as Director of Air Intelligence in the Pentagon, Washington, D. C. Prior to that, he was Director of Operations of the 9th Air Force, which has its headquarters in South Carolina.

Woodrow has been a full colonel since 1952, having received his latest promotion while in Korea.

The 37-year-old AF officer has logged better than 3,600 flying time, most of it in propeller and jet-driven fighter craft. He flew 44 missions, 22 in Europe during World War II and the other 22 in Korea.

He has two "kills" to his credit, having shot down two German Folke-Wolf fighter planes over Munich, Germany, during World War II.

Though he was in Europe at the conclusion of World War II, he was sent to Japan to serve with Occupation forces there.

Traveling will not be new to Natalie, who joined him in Japan at the time he was serving there. None of the Ramseys has ever been in India, however, although the colonel has been in the area several times.

Upon arriving in India, and the Ramseys expect to complete the trip in three days, Patricia will be placed in an English school.

As air attache to India, Ramsey will succeed Col. Chandler Estes to the position. Estes is returning to the states after completing two years of duty there.

Cardinal Bans Traditional Wedding Music In Diocese

CHICAGO (AP)—Starting Nov. 27 certain musical selections, including the traditional Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches, will be banned from churches of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

Also forbidden by the edict against secular music at religious ceremonies are eight versions of "Ave Maria," among them the popular Gounod and Schubert compositions.

Three English songs—"I Love You Truly," "Oh Promise Me," and "Because"—also are on the proscribed list.

Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, issued his ruling yesterday to all pastors. He stated "no deviation can or will be permitted."

The cardinal said he acted upon advice of a commission on sacred music he established a year ago to survey compositions performed in churches. It recommended that certain music be banned as "unsuitable" for failing to meet the primary requisite of "sanctity."

The Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding melodies, the commission said, were written expressly for performance in the theater and thereby fell short of the "sanctity" requisite. The "Ave Maria" also were composed for playing outside church ceremonies, the report said. Besides the Gounod and Schubert versions, the ban covers those by Verdi, Mascagni, Rosewig, Kahn, Millard and Luzzi.

The commission suggested selections from the field of religious music as substitutes for the compositions banned. It noted that the late Pope Pius X had stated "sacred music should possess in the highest degree the qualities proper to the liturgy, and, in particular, sanctity and goodness of form."

Is There a Cure for Diabetes?

There is no cure for diabetes. Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is insulin. Your physician is thoroughly familiar with this product and how it is employed to control diabetes. If he finds insulin necessary in your case, we can supply it in exactly the right strength.

U.S. To Install High Speed Electric Brain

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is going to install a high speed electronic brain—replacing 450 employees—to keep track of the 350 million checks the government issues annually.

A joint announcement by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Comptroller General Joseph Campbell said today the move will save 2 1/2 million dollars a year. They said the change from human to electronic check handling would take a year and that they hoped most of the workers whose jobs will be abolished "will be taken care of by transfers in filling vacancies which occur in the normal turnover of government agencies."

The changeover is expected to make a direct saving to the Treasury of 1 1/2 million dollars, and to save a half million dollars additional in operating costs of the Federal Reserve System. The "brain" will not write checks, but will take over the complex disbursing and auditing accounting, which go before and after the issuance of a check by the government.

Premium Grade Uranium Ore Is Discovered Near Lake Buchanan

AUSTIN (AP)—Premium grade uranium of the richest type has been discovered at Burnet, 80 miles northwest of here, the Austin Statesman said it learned today.

The Lone Star Uranium Co. of Temple was reported to have the first load of commercial grade uranium on its way to market. The uranium find was accepted by tests which showed it to be pitchblende, the newspaper said. Pitchblende is one of the richest types of uranium ore and is believed to be mined now in only two other places in the United States.

The mine is on the James Johnson Ranch less than a quarter of a mile from the old copper mines on the road from Burnet to Buchanan Lake.

decorative item alone it rates an important place in any room. The warmth of natural wood is an excellent accent note.

But the bench is also useful. More than three feet long and more than a foot wide, its size makes it ideal as either extra seating space or table space. It makes a fine lounging spot and also an excellent table. A foot and a half tall, it is the right height for informal dining, too.

Actually, the fireside bench doesn't have to be confined to the fireside. It will be useful and decorative in any and every room in your home.

In your bedroom it can hold magazines or art objects. Or you can use it as a chair. In your hall it can break an uninteresting wall, and it can also be handy for use when you want to reach a high shelf in your closet.

Perhaps you'll want to build several for yard. Here you might choose to make them of redwood. They make ideal seats. And the bench can also be used as a garden coffee table.

Remember, the fireside bench is easy to build. And it's useful and beautiful, too.

Here's a new twist for hunters who are always looking for a new way to surprise their friends: A farmer took eight homing pigeons along on a four-day hunt in the Elk Mountains near Caldwell, Idaho. The birds were dispatched home at intervals to let the family know the six-man party was safe and well, but had encountered no elk.

New head of the state Game and Fish Commission is Howard Carney of Atlanta. He succeeds Walter Lechner of Dallas, and his appointment will extend to Sept. 1, 1961. Carney is a former state senator who also served a stint as secretary of state. At the same time Carney was appointed, Gov. Shivers reappointed Commission members Herman Heep of Buda and Hal Peterson of Kerrville.

North America's rare flock of whooping cranes are believed to have started south to their wintering grounds in Texas — complete with new little whoopers.

W. A. Fuller, wildlife expert in the Northwest Territories, wired from Fort Smith, Canada, that he had seen six adult cranes and two juveniles.

"Strongly suspect the remainder have already left," he said.

When the birds left their Texas wintering grounds earlier this year, there were 21 adults. A count on the nesting grounds at remote Wood Buffalo Park indicated six juvenile birds had been raised.

"This gives reason to suppose the other four young ones have taken off," a game spokesman said. Whoopers are four to five feet high and have a wingspread of six to seven feet. They are white with black wing tips.

Provincial game officials warned that juvenile birds are rusty brown and could be very easily mistaken for sandhill cranes, which frequent the same areas.

The whooping cranes are strictly protected by law, and a game official said hunters should remember that if they shoot one they would be shooting one twenty-seventh of the world's whooping crane population.

Held Over

Clark Gable, Jane Russell, Robert Ryan, and Cameron Mitchell star in the Ritz offering today through Tuesday at the Ritz. 'The Tall Men' is in color and CinemaScope and is an adventure story of the early west.

HELD OVER

Clark Gable Stars In 'The Tall Men'

'The Tall Men' will be held over at the Ritz this week until Tuesday. The western film stars Clark Gable, Jane Russell, Cameron Mitchell, and Robert Ryan. It is filmed in CinemaScope and color. Mitchell and Gable play brothers on the run, looking for an easy way to make a lot of money. They run into Robert Ryan in Wyoming and kidnap him for ransom money. Ryan, however, fast-talks them into a deal to run a herd of cattle from San Antonio to Wyoming so all of them could make money. They agree and set out on the trail to Texas. Along the way, they meet Jane Russell who falls in love with Gable. He has a short affair with her and then turns her over to Ryan. She stays with the group the rest of the trip. However, Mitchell takes a liking to her and he and Ryan almost have a showdown. But Gable stops the fight before it starts. Driving the cattle back to Wyoming proves to be a difficult job. Indians and outlaws try to stop the movement but Gable is able to thwart them. Mitchell is killed by the Indians, however. Back in Wyoming, the cattle are sold and a large amount of money is divided up. Then Ryan tries to turn Gable over to the sheriff on the kidnaping charge. But Gable has his Texas cowboys with him who prove more than a match for the men in Wyoming. Gable then leaves the town and is sad because of his loss of Jane Russell. As he nears his camp he hears her voice singing in his tent and knows that all is well. The exciting film is advertised as being as good as Gable's performance in 'Gone with the Wind.'

Charles Boyer and Gloria Grahame

'The Cobweb' stars Richard Widmark, Lillian Gish, Lauren Bacall, Charles Boyer, and Gloria Grahame at the Ritz this week. The film is in color and CinemaScope.

'The Cobweb' Stars Widmark, Boyer

A psychiatric clinic is the place where patients hope to become rehabilitated. But in 'The Cobweb,' the persons who run the hospital appear to be in more need of help than the patients. Taken from the best-selling novel, 'The Cobweb' will be screened here Friday and Saturday at the Ritz. It is in color. The film stars Richard Widmark in the leading role of Dr. Stewart McIver. Lauren Bacall plays the feminine lead as the hospital activities director, Meg Rinehart. Charles Boyer is cast as the hospital director, Gloria Grahame is Widmark's wife and Lillian Gish is the business manager. The action concerns the purchase of a new set of drapes for the hospital. The lives of all the workers in the hospital are thrown into turmoil and strife because of a misunderstanding about the purchase. Gloria Grahame planned to buy the drapes to show her husband that she has an interest in his work. Lillian Gish decides to purchase the drapes because she doesn't want others meddling in the affairs of the hospital. Lauren Bacall wants to make the new drapes a project for the patients, letting them work on the problem. The entire activity of the hospital is jeopardized because of the drapes situation. The moviegoer may find it difficult to distinguish between the patients and sane people. The picture is filmed in CinemaScope and should be of interest to the same persons who liked 'Not As A Stranger.' Other actors in the picture are Oscar Levant, John Kerr, and Susan Strasberg. Kerr and Miss Strasberg are patients in the hospital that fall in love. Kerr is a frustrated artist who plans to design the drapes.

Martin Estranged From Second Wife

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Dean Martins have announced that they are separated. Mrs. Martin, the former Jeanne Bieglers of Miami, Fla., and one-time Orange Bowl queen, has taken their children, Dino, 4, and Ricci, 2, to Palm Springs. She is the second wife of the 38-year-old crooner, comedy partner of Jerry Lewis. Martin said he and his wife plan a legal separation but do not contemplate divorce. 'It is our hope that we eventually will find the answer because of the children,' Mrs. Martin said. She added that 'there is no other man or woman involved. Dean and I simply appear to be incompatible.' The Martins were married Sept. 1, 1949.

Test Dope Raid Nets 43 Suspects

HOUSTON (AP) — A county-wide roundup of known or suspected drug addicts, planned as a mass test of a new state narcotics law, had netted 43 persons today with 23 warrants still out. Officers said 47 others, against whom warrants were issued, had apparently left town. Federal Judge Alton Hannay passed out sentences totaling 25 1/2 years in prison sentences today against five dope peddlers. The raids started two days ahead of a Senate narcotics hearing. 'The Girl Rush' Is Color Musical On Ritz Screen

'The Girl Rush' stars Rosalind Russell, Fernando Lamas, Eddie Albert, Gloria De Haven, and James Gleason at the Ritz this week. Filmed in VistaVision and Technicolor, the film is a musical. Rosalind Russell is living a dull life in Rhode Island, when she gets a call from a partner of her deceased father. He tells her that a fabulous hotel in Las Vegas belongs to them and that she must come out to claim her share. She goes to Nevada to find that the partner, James Gleason, has gambled away a large interest in the hotel which is a 'rattletap' to begin with. Gleason owes the money to Fernando Lamas, a wealthy gambler. She then meets Albert and he attempts to help her solve her problems, love problems, too. But Lamas also falls in love with her and the group has a merry time working out all the tangles about the hotel and the love problems. New songs in the picture are 'If You'll Only Take a Chance,' 'An Occasional Man,' 'At Last We're Alone,' 'Champagne,' 'Birmingham,' 'Out of Doors,' 'Homestead Humiliy,' and 'The Girl Rush.'

'The Girl Rush'

Rosalind Russell stars with Eddie Albert, Fernando Lamas, and Gloria De Haven at the Ritz in the color musical 'The Girl Rush.' The film introduces eight new songs and features Miss Russell as a dancer and singer for the first time on film.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Glenn Coates

Hollywood is quite adept at producing science-fiction films. I suppose that there is a certain audience that wants to see this type of film regardless of any quality or lack of it. In spite of the wealth of science fiction that is written and read every year, Hollywood seems to always pick a story where they can build some strange looking beast. These appear to be a certain rule in this regard: All science-fiction pictures must have a monster. The more dreadful, the better. Chunk logic out the window and have an impossible looking beastie. When the movie-makers come upon a good story without a beast, you would think they would be dismayed. But no, they put one in anyway. In so doing, they inevitably destroy the idea of the picture and once again, relegate the science-fiction film to the world of the child. A good example of this is 'The Thing.'

The title of the story was 'Who Goes There?' and the best part about it was the fact that the monster could not be seen and the men had to devise some way to locate it and find out its intentions. It was a plausible story and is considered a classic in the science-fiction field. But what did Hollywood do? They made a good life-sized vegetable monster who, for some reason unknown to science, could make a Geiger counter react. Then, the scientists were portrayed as men unable to shave themselves and stupid to boot, while a few stalwarts in the military, who didn't know an isotope from a coon dog, saved the day and the world. Science-fiction films are only one small example of the work that is done on good stories in Hollywood. It rarely fails that a film that follows the book closely is usually considered good. One that deviates is often referred to as 'not as good as the book.'

Science Fiction Film Is Set For State Screening

'This Island Earth' begins today at the State and will play through Tuesday. The science-fiction film is in color. Faith Domergue, Jeff Morrow, and Rex Reason are the stars.

Gun Battle Leaves Man Dead, Cop Hurt

HOUSTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — A gun battle early today left one man dead and a policeman seriously wounded. Reuben Taylor, 38, was killed. Frank Kellogg, 36, was wounded. The shooting grew out of a routine disturbance call. Police said Taylor took Kellogg's gun and shot the officer. Patrolman Jimmy Vogler, Kellogg's partner, then emptied his weapon at Taylor, killing him. Kellogg may lose the use of his right arm. A bullet severed a nerve and an artery.

Storm Blows Self Out

NEW YORK (AP) — A violent fall storm, killing 11 persons as it whiplashed much of the Northeast, blew itself out today and a second tempest feared in the making failed to materialize. A huge section of the Eastern Seaboard was buffeted last night by winds of near hurricane force at times, plus home-flooding downpours and thundering tides. The storm deaths occurred in automobile accidents resulting from hazardous driving conditions, electrocutions from falling wires and the capsizing of boats. New York State listed 7 deaths, Connecticut 2, New Jersey 1 and Maine 1.

New Stations Opened In City By Groehl Firm

Recently added to the Big Spring business scene are two new Shell service stations, opened on the new 4th Street Highway route by the Groehl Oil Company.

They are at 4th and Benton streets, where R. L. Collins is the dealer; and at 4th and Douglas, operated by G. B. McKee.

These stations embody the last word in modern station construction, a result of many years of planning such units. Safety, convenience and attractiveness are combined in the unit constructed of steel, glass and concrete blocks, with wide areas paved with concrete and asphalt.

Emphasis was placed on modern restrooms. These are done in tile and have decorative wallpaper to enhance the design.

The Shell stations' sales rooms and rest rooms are air conditioned for summer comfort, and have built-in heaters for the winter months.

Ted Groehl's connection with oil-gasoline dealership goes back to 1927, at Rankin, when he converted the old "filling" station to a real service station. In a day when the cleaning of the windshield was an unusual service. While such items as this are routine now, the Shell stations add such features as offering complete lubrication checks and safety inspections.

Texas Can't Brag About These Items

By The Associated Press
Your know about the "Texas brags."

Texas is the biggest state, with the most oil, the most cattle, the most cotton, the prettiest women, etc.

But do you know about the "Texas sorrows"?

Our "Texas brags" are mostly the work of God. Our sorrows are strictly man-made, made in Texas by Texans. They have to do with rape and violence, reading and the lack of it, how we care for the unfortunate, how we teach our children. In short, how we treat each other.

Our catalogue of sorrows includes:

Murder: Texas homicides in 1954 were at the rate of 14.3 per 100,000 people. The national average is less than 5 per 100,000 — 4.8 in cities, 4.9 in farm areas.

We also kill more people with cars. The 2,431 traffic fatalities in 1954 amounted to 6.6 per 100 million vehicle-miles. The national rate was 6.5.

Rape: In Texas in 1954 there were 15.3 rapes per 100,000 people. The national average is less than 13—12.2 in cities, 12.5 in rural areas. Selective Service figures from the beginning of the Korean War show that 37.7 per cent of Texans called are "physically unacceptable." The national average: 33.5.

These figures on violence are from the Department of Public Safety. They probably do not surprise you. On page one of your newspaper you see evidence of it daily. Some other sorrows are less evident.

Education: Texas ranks 30th nationally in how much it spends on its schools. The figure, from the U.S. Office of Education and based on such things as money spent per pupil, is from 1951. The Gilmer-Alkin Law no doubt has improved Texas' position.

Giving: The average gift to the Red Cross in the 1955 campaign in Texas was 42.41 cents. The Red Cross does not have a national figure but reported that the per-capita average in the 16-state region of which Texas is a part was 49.25 cents.

The man who reads is usually a kinder, more understanding man than the one who does not. He is less inclined to violence.

In 1951—The last year for which figures are available—there were only 228 public libraries in Texas' 717 cities and towns. Some 82 of the 254 counties had no libraries.

The American Library Assn. says a per capita expenditure of $1.50 is necessary for minimum library service, $2.25 for good service, $3 for superior service.

Texas' per capita expenditure in 1950 was 45 cents.

Rooming House Fire Claims One Life

HOUSTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Vernell Price, 20, was burned to death early today when fire swept through the Harlem Hotel. Some 22 other roomers escaped the two-story building.

Arson investigators said they believed the fire was deliberately set.

Mac's Stepping Stone Due For Discussions By United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The General Assembly will debate soon the future of a land used by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as a stepping stone in World War II. Indonesia gained her independence from the Netherlands in 1949, but West New Guinea's future was left for future negotiations. These have not achieved any settlement and the Netherlands remains in control. Now the question is before the U.N. on a colonialism issue.

The territory embraces about 103,000 square miles—the size of Colorado. The Dutch give the population as around 700,000. The figure is approximate because the Dutch have been able to count only about 265,000. The remainder is the estimate for unexplored areas of mountains and swamps. The Indonesians say there are around a million natives.

The population includes about 15,000 Asians and 13,000 Europeans. New Guinea, with a total area of 311,000 square miles, is the second largest island in the world (after Greenland). Australia, only a few miles to the south across Torres Strait, administers the eastern areas outside Dutch control. The island's strategic importance was highlighted in World War II when the Japanese occupied both north and west New Guinea. Hollandia, on the north coast, was the first town to fall in 1944 to Allied troops in Gen. MacArthur's stepping-stone campaign to drive the Japanese from the Philippines. MacArthur established headquarters in Hollandia, new West New Guinea's capital. GIs on New Guinea told the home folks about savage tribesmen who brought in heads of Japanese who tried to escape into the wild interior. Head hunting is still an occasional indulgence. West New Guinea presently has little economic importance. The Dutch put total exports for 1953, mostly copra and crude oil, at 3 1/2 million dollars against 20 millions in imports. There has been some exploration for deposits of metals. In many of the interior areas metal tools are unknown. Missionaries have penetrated into some remote areas. The Dutch estimate there were 170,000 Christians in 1953.

AS YOU WERE SAYING...

What America Means to Me

I stood beside the railing of New York City's Rockefeller Plaza. A huge crowd was gathered, yet I felt alone.

Just below me preparations were being made for a telecast of a band performance. The bright splash of the colorful uniforms against the gold statue in the background was inspiringly beautiful.

Suddenly the signal was given, and they were on the air.

My heart swelled with pride and patriotism as the music of "America the Beautiful" filled the canyon of steel and concrete and went out over all the land.

At the conclusion the crowd burst out with a wild ovation, and the yelling and hand-clapping fairly split the air.

I felt no such urge for outward demonstration, but wanted simply to fall humbly to my knees and thank God that I am an American. Perhaps I heard the whispers of those who sleep in Flanders Field and in far-off Korea, telling me of their dreams never to be fulfilled because they had given up their lives that we might be free.

What does it mean to you to be an American?—Hilda M. Sortman, Lima, O.

The Way to World Peace

There is so much unrest in the world today that I am frequently reminded of this Chinese proverb:

"If there is righteousness in the heart, there will be beauty in the character. If there is beauty in the character, there will be harmony in the home. If there is harmony in the home, there will be order in the nation. When there is order in the nation, there will be peace in the world."—J. S., Midland, Tex.

The Club of Mutual Helpfulness

In a Houston, Texas, suburb, the families in the 10600 block on Fairfax call themselves the "10600 Club."

Its purpose is not only sociability, but mutual helpfulness. If the Whites go on vacation, Mr. Black, who lives next door, trims their lawn. If the Joneses are away overnight, their neighbor sees that the garbage can is set out next morning.

Every resident has a house key of at least two neighbors and is responsible for feeding pets, watering flowers, and helping in case of illness or emergency.

In both a material and spiritual sense, the "10600 Club" is a success. Why not more such "clubs" in America?—Mrs. Daisy J. Clay, Racine, Wis.

A Wayward High-Schooler Finds Inspiration

Last year I began losing interest in my high-school studies. I quit going to church and was beginning to spend my time hanging around street corners. I knew Mother and Dad were worried about me, but somehow I didn't care.

Then a young man moved into our neighborhood who was terribly handicapped. He was only a couple of years older than I was, but his eyesight was very poor, he walked with a limp, and one arm was almost useless. After a while, we became acquainted, and one Sunday morning when I was headed for the drugstore, I passed by our church and saw him on the steps.

"I didn't know you went to church here," I said, kind of guilty.

"Yes," he said with a friendly smile, "it helps me keep going." And he turned and went on into church.

My feet dragged as I went on my way. This fellow was doing better with his problems than I was with mine, and it got me to thinking. Since then, I've brought up my studies and started going back to some of the church activities. I'm not perfect, but I owe a lot to the good influence this one person had on me.—L. B., Clawson, Mich.

I was just thinking...

... GERTIE and Florence (Ederle and Chadwick, that is) have nothing on me.

I've fought my way through many a channel in my time. Nobody ever took my picture, though, and I never got greased.

Just browned off.

Maybe that's because of the channels I've encountered. Not English. Not Hellespont.

Red tape.

For example, I make a telephone call. I state my business. The voice says: "Just a moment. I'll refer you to Mr. Bricabrac, vice-president in charge."

Pause. I eat my lunch, repair my nails, pin up my pony tail.

"Mr. Bricabrac's office," says Voice Two.

I state my business.

"Mr. Bricabrac is engaged," says Voice Two.

"Will you wait?"

I wait. The world moves. A worm is born, spins a chrysalis, emerges a moth.

"Bricabrac speaking," says Voice Three.

I state my business.

"That information is currently unavailable," says Bricabrac. "I'll call you back."

Flushed with triumph, I swoon.

Time passes. I fall in love a couple of times. I wear out a couple of pairs of shoes. A war is fought somewhere.

The telephone rings.

"Mr. Bricabrac's office calling," says a voice. "One moment, please."

A new highway is built past my office. A building is constructed. A tiny spider latches himself to the wrist holding the telephone and builds his dream house.

"Bricabrac speaking," a voice says. The tears of happiness roll down my cheeks.

"The information you wanted," he says.

"Yes," I gasp. "Oh, yes."

"Sorry," he says. "I should have let you know. It's too late now. May I buy you a cup of coffee instead?"

I don't know. The coffee might help. But my hand trembles these days.

I couldn't hold the cup.

Dinner-Table

When she fed Russia's delegation to the U. S., an Iowa farm wife did her bit to improve international relations.

MRS. MARIE HORA of Washington, Iowa—a farm wife—did her bit for international good will when she fed the 12-man Russian farm delegation which toured the United States last Summer. When they left her table, Aleksandr Talupnikov, adviser to the Russian Ministry of Agriculture, said: "We showed with deeds, not words, how much we liked Mrs. Hora's cooking!"

A total of 36 men, including interpreters and other tour officials, were Mrs. Hora's dinner guests, reminding her of childhood days when her mother fed threshing crews. "The most I've ever fed before," she said, "was 20 relatives at Christmas."

The menu that pleased the Russians included: fried chicken, sweet corn, new potatoes, fresh rolls, potato salad, lemon and banana salad, three kinds of pie, cake, ice cream, iced tea, milk, lemonade, and kolachkys (pastries with a jelly, cheese, or poppy-seed filling). Mrs. Hora, who is Bohemian, made the kolachkys because "I wanted them to have something special."

The Iowa farm wife, who got up at 4:30 a.m. to start the meal, had five helpers, including Grandmother Hora.

After the widely publicized meal, Mrs. Hora received many letters. "But the nicest letter of all," she said, "was one I got from a California man. He wrote: 'You're the best diplomat we have!'"

by Judge Jacob M. Braude

A native of Chicago, Judge Jacob M. Braude (pictured at right) was graduated cum laude from the University of Michigan and received his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from the University of Chicago Law School. He has been a judge since 1934 and for seven years presided over the Chicago Boys' Court. His inspired work with juveniles there has attracted nation-wide attention. Judge Braude also has lectured extensively, is the author of the current best-selling book, "Speaker's Encyclopedia," and is a director of numerous social agencies, both local and national.

Let's Quit

A distinguished judge who has heard more than 25,000 cases involving teen-agers

MAKING Bad Boys!

Four boys who turned in false alarms receive a mild but effective punishment: scrubbing floors in the local firehouse.

A boy goes to jail who might have been spared if his folks had used firm but honest discipline when he was younger.

A BOY IN HIS late teens—we'll call him Tommy—was making a good thing out of hiding in a branch public library until everyone had gone home at night, then rifling the petty cash and leaving by a window. He did it once too often and was caught and brought before me in Chicago's Boys' Court. Although it was his first appearance in court, he was obviously guilty of larceny and subject to a rather severe penalty under Illinois law.

Surprisingly, the librarian whom he had robbed appeared to testify on his behalf.

"Judge," she said, "this boy's trouble is that he reads the wrong kind of books. I've watched him, and the only books he ever looks at are stories of violence."

Tommy was on the borderline of going bad. Had I "gotten tough" with him and sent him to jail, I'm sure society would have been troubled with him for a good long time. So I gave him a choice: jail or probation under certain conditions I would set. He chose probation.

For the next six months, this boy read one book a week, of the friendly librarian's choosing, and wrote a 300-word report on it for me. The librarian made an excellent selection, and the boy's reports indicated he was getting something out of the books. He indulged himself in a little gesture of defiance by making all his reports exactly 300 words—never a single word more—but he fulfilled the terms of the probation. To my knowledge, he has never been in trouble with the law since.

Where crime prevention starts

As a judge, I am bound by statute to certain punishments for certain crimes. I can fine or jail a convicted culprit up to so many dollars or so many days. I have neither the right nor the license to step outside these statutes in affixing a penalty. BUT, I have a limitless range of possibilities in setting conditions of probation—and here is where not only our courts and our law-enforcement agencies, but parents especially—can do much to get young people back on the right track and keep them there. Crime prevention should begin in the high chair, not in the electric chair.

A colossal example of parental and law-enforcement shortsightedness came to my attention when a young man from a wealthy family turned up in Boys' Court to face a larceny charge. He was intelligent and personable, and lived in a pleasant small town near Chicago.

When I dug into the background of the case, I found that parents in this youngster's town had an agreement offenders blasts the "get tough" policy as one that makes criminals.

with law-enforcement officials and a candy-and-coke joint where most of the adolescent kids hung out. It was considered good sport among the teens to steal from this store, and all the adult parties involved agreed that when a youngster stole something, the proprietor would simply make a note of it and bill his parents.

This sort of stupidity led to the inevitable result: a boy before me on a much more serious charge.

Today, our homes, communities, courts, penal institutions, and law-enforcement agencies are manufacturing juvenile delinquents just as hard and as fast as they can crank them out. Not intentionally, of course, but quite effectively nonetheless.

When a 17-year-old boy once appeared before me looking wan and haggard, I asked, "Son, where have you been?" He answered, "I just got out of the House of Corruption."

Although he meant the House of Correction, his answer was painfully close to the truth. When we take young boys who are in trouble for the first time and lock them up—even for a short time—with others who are in more serious trouble, they frequently come out worse than when they went in. Any judge can send a boy to jail and save society from a thief temporarily. But that doesn't save the thief. And I feel that I should save the thief if I am ultimately to save society.

Boys' Court a model for the U.S.

The Chicago Boys' Court has done much in this direction since it was organized in 1914 to help boys between 17 and 21, boys who were too old for Juvenile Court but too young to stand trial in the same court with hardened professional criminals.

Boys' Court has been referred to as "The Court of One More Chance," and that's a name I like. Of the boys to whom we gave a second chance, 72 percent never came back—at least, not while they were of Boys' Court age. Of the other 28 percent, most of them returned on charges so trivial as to be meaningless.

Yet, a few weeks ago, a high-school senior from a prosperous Chicago suburb told the local Elks Club that "leniency on the part of the courts and the authorities is probably more responsible for the so-called youth problem than any other factor."

This is the current, popular line of thought. Get tough with the kids when they finally get in trouble with the law. Throw the book at them.

I don't doubt the motives of the people who advocate this line of action, but I certainly doubt its efficacy. On the contrary, I would say that the get-tough policy on the part of courts and authorities is responsible for much of the so-called youth problem. What is sorely needed is an understanding of the causes of this problem and a concerted effort to remove them.

Use probation as a tool

The courts have a tool at hand which can be equally effective among all groups that deal with children. This tool is probation. I like to think of probation as allowing a convicted defendant to serve his term outside prison bars and thereby prove he has learned his lesson. This is not soft-hearted leniency; it's just good common sense.

Our biggest responsibility is to keep youngsters from getting into trouble in the first place. To do that, we must know why they're going wrong and take steps to correct the causes.

This is probation in its highest sense; we need more of it today, more understanding of the juvenile and his problems at all levels.

For example, take the case of Frankie, a teen-age burglar, and a clever one. Frankie's father had killed his mother, and was himself killed by the police when he tried to escape. Frankie was brought up by an aunt who paid no attention to where he was or what he was doing. Frankie found a "soft touch" in the coin boxes on apartment-house washing machines. He tapped them regularly, showing a remarkable mechanical ingenuity.

Let's Quit Making Bad Boys! (Continued)

Teen-age gangs cannot be dissolved by force, but civic groups which provide wholesome recreation programs can replace them.

Eventually, he was caught and brought before me in Boys' Court. He was guilty of a serious offense, but what possible good—to him or to society—could be served by "getting tough" with him? Anyone exposed to Frankie's environment would probably have wound up the same way.

I acquainted myself with Frankie's past. Then I said to him: "Frankie, you've got to pay back the money you stole. How can you earn it?"

"Well, Judge," said the boy, "I can show the people who make those coin boxes how to make them burglarproof."

Frankie spent 30 days in the county jail working on sketches for the coin boxes. At the end of that time, he had two workable ideas. When we found a job for Frankie and enlisted the cooperation of the dean of one of our technical high schools to help develop his mechanical ability, the boy was released on probation. He's never been in trouble with the law since. Had I sent Frankie to jail for the one-year-to-life prescribed for his offense, he probably would have come out a hardened, embittered, clever criminal.

Nine causes of trouble

On the basis of my observation and experience, the following nine things most frequently get boys into trouble:

1. Influence from early childhood of destructive toys and games.
2. Influence of improper literature, not just indecent or pornographic but the wrong kind of adventure story as well. Many of the boys appearing before me had in their possession comic books or stories of violence.
3. Influence of drugs and narcotics.
4. Influence of alcoholic beverages. Well over one-third of all cases that came before me in Boys' Court had alcohol somewhere in the picture—either the boys were drunk, had committed a felony to get money for liquor, or had parents who were alcoholics.

5. The automobile. I honestly believe that with very few exceptions (e.g., where it is necessary in his work), a boy under 21 has no business owning a car. I don't say driving, I say owning. Most young people simply do not have the sense of moral and social responsibility that should go with ownership of a car.
6. Influence of passion, lust, and violence found in too many movies, and on too many radio and television programs.
7. Influence of unsupervised gangs of one kind or another. Gangs cannot be broken up by force. They can be dissolved only by replacing the need for them with such organizations as the Boy Scouts, YMCA, and church groups for the youngsters.
8. Influence of idleness and unemployment.
9. Influence of home life.

This last is the most important of all. Delinquency flourishes in one soil—inadequate homes. Most of our boys in trouble come from physically broken homes. But there are other broken homes where there is no divorce—broken from within because there is no love showered on the child or shared by husband and wife. The most mistaken parents of all are those who live one kind of a life and expect their growing children to adopt an altogether different set of standards. Young people learn by example, not by the things we tell them.

I've had more than 25,000 boys in difficulty pass before me, and it would be easier for me than for anyone I know to condemn this younger generation. Yet it is my greatest conviction that we don't talk nearly enough about the 99 out of every 100 youngsters who make good.

A so-called bad boy is only a boy whose positive or potential qualities are unrealized. It's not the boy who is wrong; it's the thing he is doing. There is good in all boys, and it's our job to find that good and direct and guide it, not forsake and abandon it.

Put in a large bowl

2 tablespoons sugar

1 tablespoon shortening

2 teaspoons salt

Immediately pour the scalded milk over ingredients in bowl and stir until shortening is melted. When the milk mixture is lukewarm, blend in, beating until smooth

1 cup sifted flour

Stir softened yeast and add to mixture, mixing well.

Measure

4 to 5 cups sifted flour

Add about one half of the flour to yeast mixture and beat until very smooth. Add and mix in the cheese and enough of remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface. Let stand 5 to 10 min.

Knead dough by folding opposite side over toward you. Using heels of hands, gently push dough away. Give it a quarter turn. Repeat process rhythmically until the dough is smooth and elastic (5 to 8 min.), using as little additional flour as possible. Always turn the dough in the same direction. Form dough into a ball and put it in a deep, greased bowl. Turn dough to bring greased surface to top. Cover with waxed paper, then a clean towel, and let stand in warm place (about 80°F) until dough is doubled.

Grease bottoms only of the baking pans.

Punch down dough and turn it onto a lightly floured surface. Divide dough into two equal portions. Cover and allow to rest 5 to 10 min. Shape each portion into a loaf and put into greased pan. Brush tops of loaves with

Melted butter or margarine

Cover loaves with waxed paper, and a clean towel; let rise again until doubled.

Bake at 375°F about 50 min.

Two 2x5-in. loaves

Note: For a delicious accompaniment for salads, cut Cheese-Bread slices into finger-shaped pieces and toast until lightly browned.

Lamorous Triple-Becker Sandwiches

Set out a large, heavy skillet.

Set aside in refrigerator until ready to assemble sandwiches

- 4 slices Swiss cheese
- 4 slices "balled" ham, cut thin
- 4 slices cooked chicken, cut thin
- 4 slices ripe tomato

Blend together and set aside

- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 2 tablespoons cold water

To Prepare French Toast—Set out 12 slices white bread, cut about 1/4 in. thick

Put into a shallow bowl and beat slightly
3 eggs
Blend in

- 1 cup milk or cream
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Heat in the skillet

- 2 to 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Dip the bread slices, one at a time, into the egg mixture, turning to coat each side well. Put into hot skillet at once. Lightly brown on one side; turn with spatula to brown other side. Repeat procedure for remaining bread slices. If necessary, add more fat to keep slices from sticking. The coated bread slices may also be placed on a well-greased baking sheet and browned in a 450°F oven 8 to 10 min.

To Assemble Sandwiches—Put 4 Frenchtoast slices on a flat working surface. Place on each a slice of ham and brush generously with the diluted mustard. Place chicken slice on top of each ham slice and brush with the mustard. Top each with another slice of French toast, add a slice of Swiss cheese, and top with the remaining French-toast slices. Place a tomato slice on each sandwich.

Garnish with

- Ripe olive slices
- Finely chopped parsley

Serve immediately while warm.

4 servings

Note: Bacon curls are an especially attractive and appetizing garnish.

Set out a 9-in. spring-form pan.

For Crust—Sift onto a pastry board

- 1 cup sifted flour
- Make a well in center. Add to well and work to a creamy mixture
- 1/4 cup softened butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg

Quickly and thoroughly mix with the flour. Shape dough into a ball and wrap in waxed paper. Set in refrigerator to chill about 2 hrs.

Put on a lightly floured surface and flatten. Roll from center to edge into a round about 1/4 in. thick. With a knife or spatula, loosen pastry from surface wherever sticking occurs; lift pastry slightly and sprinkle flour underneath. Loosen one half from board with spatula and fold over other half. Loosen remaining part and fold in quarters. Gently lay in pan and unfold pastry, fitting it to bottom of pan so that it is not stretched.

Bake at 450°F 10 min.

Set aside on cooling rack to cool.

For Filling—Using a rotary-type grater having a hand-operating crank, grate and set aside

- 3 1/2 cups (about 12 oz.) blanched almonds (about 5 1/2 cups, grated)

Set aside to drain thoroughly, contents of 1 No. 2 can pitted, red sour cherries (about 2 cups, drained)

Force through a sieve or food mill into a bowl and set aside

- 1 lb. (2 cups) dry cottage cheese

Cream together until butter is softened

- 1 cup butter
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel (grated through colored part only; white is bitter)

Add gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition

- 1 cup sugar

Beat until thick and lemon colored

- 7 egg yolks

Add the beaten egg yolks in thirds to the creamed mixture. Beat in the cheese and the grated almonds.

Beat until frothy

- 7 egg whites

Add gradually, beating well after each addition

- 1/4 cup sugar

Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed. Gently fold into cheese mixture.

Lightly butter sides of spring-form pan.

Arrange the well-drained cherries in an even layer over the cooled crust. Turn cheese mixture into pan; spread evenly.

Bake at 300°F about 1 hr. and 30 min.

Let stand in oven 1 hr. longer. Remove to cooling rack to cool completely (about 4 hrs.). Set in refrigerator to chill.

Carefully run a spatula around inside of pan, from top to bottom, to loosen cake. Remove sides of pan. Sprinkle edges of cheesecake with

- Sifted confectioners' sugar

Lettuce

Curly endive

Romaine

Water cress

Tear greens into bite-size pieces (enough to yield about 2 qts. greens). Put into a plastic bag and put in refrigerator to chill.

When ready to serve, rub a salad bowl with cut surface of

1 clove garlic, cut in halves

Cut the frozen cheese mixture into small cubes.

Put the chilled greens into the salad bowl and toss lightly with your favorite French dressing.

Heat to boiling in a large saucepan

2½ qts. water

1 tablespoon salt

Add gradually so boiling will not stop

2 cups (about 6 oz.) noodles

Boil rapidly, uncovered, 6 to 10 min., or until tender. Test tenderness by pressing a piece against side of pan with fork or spoon. Drain noodles by turning them into a colander or large sieve; rinse with hot water to remove loose starch.

Return the drained noodles to saucepan.

Using fork, blend in

3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Set aside in a warm place.

Set out

½ cup finely chopped onion

Mix thoroughly

1 cup (8 oz.) large-curd cream-style cottage cheese

6 oz. cream cheese

½ cup thick sour cream

½ teaspoon salt

½ teaspoon Accent

Blend in ½ cup of the onion and

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.

1 tablespoon chopped pimiento, drained

1 tablespoon chopped olives

Set aside.

Wipe with a clean, damp cloth, cut off tips of stems, and coarsely chop

½ lb. mushrooms

Heat in a heavy skillet

2 to 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Add chopped mushrooms. Cook slowly, occasionally moving and turning with a spoon, until mushrooms are tender. Remove skillet from heat and, with a slotted spoon, remove mushrooms to a small bowl. Set aside.

Add to fat in skillet and heat

1 to 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Add the remaining ½ cup onion and cook slowly, stirring frequently, until onion is transparent.

Add, and cook over medium heat until lightly browned, breaking into small pieces with a fork

¼ lb. ground beef

Remove from heat and drain off fat.

Stir in

2 cups (two 8-oz. cans) tomato sauce

½ teaspoon salt

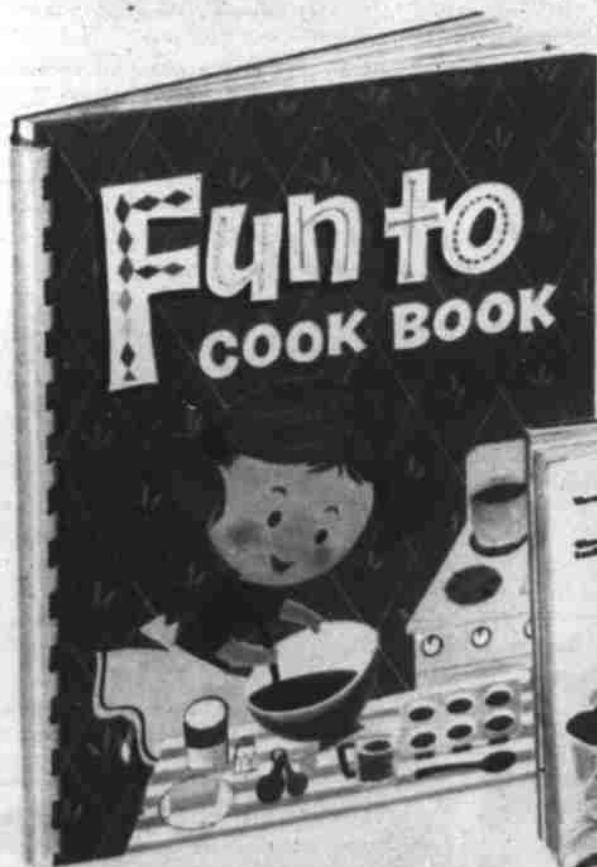

½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

3 drops tabasco sauce

Blend the mushrooms into meat mixture. Spoon a small amount of meat sauce into bottom of casserole. Top with one half of the noodles, arranging carefully in an even layer. Cover with the cheese mixture and arrange the remaining noodles in a layer over the cheese mixture. Spoon remainder of meat sauce over the top.

AUTUMN LEAVES by Denise Giraud

What better time than Autumn to make a leaf book with a blue and white patterned cover? Get a blueprint frame and blueprint paper cut to notebook size from a photographic supply shop.

Place the leaves in any arrangement you want on the blueprint paper and place it in the sun. When the color of the paper around the leaves changes—maybe in five minutes—take the leaves away and see the pattern. Now dip the print in clear water and the paper will turn blue, leaving the pattern of leaves in white relief.

Mount these designs on two pieces of cardboard to make the front and back cover of your book.

Press the leaves you collect between newspaper, changing the paper every day until the leaves are dry. Mount the leaves on plain notebook paper with little pieces of tape, and tie the cover and pages together with a shoelace or string. You can add to your collection when you find new leaves by adding more pages. Find out what trees the leaves are from and write the name under each leaf. It will be fun to see the different kinds of leaves you will find.

Dear Miss Barrows:

African violets are my hobby. We all started growing them when my aunt brought a little green plant from Florida. African violets are hard to raise because they need delicate care. After a few days my violet plant looked a little sick. That afternoon my mother went to a garden club meeting and a lady there told her to give it castor oil. So I got some castor oil (ugh!) and gave it to the poor little plant. Next day it looked as though it was going to make a one-way trip to the city dump.

However, time wore on and the castor oil wore off. It survived as a beautiful plant.

Sincerely,

Paulette Harper,

Dear Miss Barrows:

My hobby is stamp collecting. I like my hobby very much. It keeps me busy when I haven't anything to do. I send for many stamp approvals. Right now I am waiting for some stamp approvals from a Canada stamp company. I have a few other hobbies, like collecting different kinds of flowers and photography, but I like stamp collecting best. It's an easy hobby that is never boring. If you have some old letters in your attic, you might find some valuable stamps.

It is very easy to start a stamp club. Most people like stamp collecting as a hobby. Some very famous people such as Herbert Clark Hoover, Lily Pons, Ezio Pinza, and many others, love stamp collecting. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a great stamp collector, once said, "I owe my life to my hobbies, especially stamp collecting." So you see, Miss Barrows, stamp collecting is a wonderful hobby.

Yours sincerely,

Josephine Anne Ruggiero

Dear Miss Barrows:

I don't collect birds, yet I do study them.

The other day I was watching a pair of mocking birds building a nest. A few days later I discovered that there was one brown-and-blue egg in the nest. Still later I had to get some fruit off the same tree. I climbed the ladder to find three baby birds in it. I carefully moved a twig away so I could see the baby birds better, and when I did they started making the loudest noise I ever heard, opening their mouths as wide as they could. Their mouths were yellow inside. Meanwhile the father and mother birds were fussing at me.

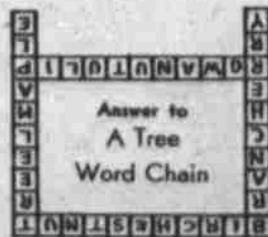

The parent birds tried to scare my cat away from their nest by swooping down on her and pecking her. My cat never bothers birds for she cannot hear and can't catch them. Birds certainly are a lot of fun to watch.

Sincerely,

Sandra Parnell

What convenience—cook at the table! You can put the G-E Skillet right on the tablecloth.

SAVES CONSTANT WATCHING!

1. Now you can set the correct temperature when you fry and cook, just as you do when you bake! Like a modern oven, the new G-E Automatic Skillet has a built-in thermostat. You dial the heat, put the food in when the light signals, and after that the temperature never varies.

2. Stove burners are different—heat builds up and up, unless you keep adjusting. The skillet gives better results without constant watching. Food tastes better, too. For now we know that—like cakes and roasts—every food has a “just-right” temperature, listed on the skillet handle.

DIGESTIBLE FRIED FOODS!

NO SMOKING—NO BURNING!

3. And everything you fry at recommended temperatures will be digestible! It is only when fat gets too hot—begins to smoke—that it becomes indigestible. The G-E Skillet works at temperatures well below this point . . . yet food fries light and crisp—no sogginess.

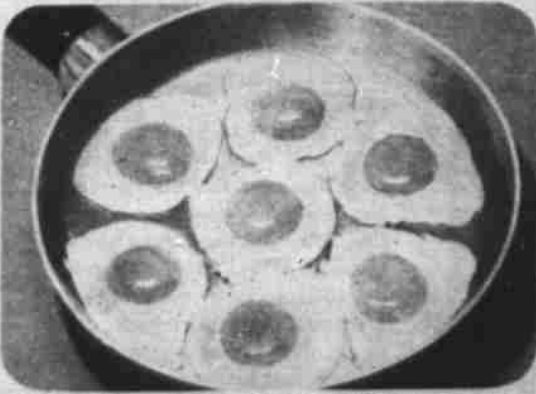

BAKES

STEWs

4. You'll use it too for delicious stews, pot roasts, upside-down cakes, casseroles. Just use a standard 12" cover, or get ours—only $3.00* extra. This skillet is handy also for keeping food warm between servings. Take it right to the table—it's lightweight, has a comfortable handle.

5. Extra-large capacity! The G-E Skillet provides 82 square inches of cooking area. It easily holds seven good-size eggs, and its round shape enables you to cook more irregularly shaped foods such as pork chops. It provides ample room for complete one-dish family meals.

6. A cinch to wash! Special finish keeps food from sticking, round shape makes the G-E easier to clean. And you can immerse it in water—right up to the end of the temperature chart. Handle hooks over dishpan or sink. Visit your G-E dealer this week—enjoy easier cooking, perfect food.

The Case of the

by William T. Brannon

author of "Yellow Kid Weir:
America's Master Swindler"

KATE EIDER SAT beside the desk of Capt. William Young of the St. Louis police and told him why she was convinced her brother Will had been murdered.

Will, a clerk at the general-delivery window of the St. Louis post office, had met Dora Dodge, a green-eyed blonde beauty, when she called for mail. Most of it was from Dr. Loren Doxey of Burlington, Ia. She told Will that Dr. Doxey was a cousin who was handling her affairs. Before the family was aware of what was happening, Will and Dora eloped to Clayton, where they were married.

They went to live in a cottage and had few visitors. Kate thought this suspicious, but her mother reminded her that, after all, they were newlyweds. When Will changed his insurance to make Dora his beneficiary and took out more, Kate was again suspicious, but her mother pointed out that it was proper for a man to provide for his wife.

Then Will became sick; the doctor first diagnosed his illness as indigestion, then as intestinal tuberculosis. When Will died a short time later, the doctor certified that as the cause of death. A few days later, Dr. Doxey appeared and helped the widow pack her furniture and other belongings for shipment to Columbus, Neb.

Kate followed them to Nebraska and learned that Dr. Doxey and Dora were husband and wife, and that they had left town temporarily. Dr. Doxey had only recently returned from Burlington, Ia., to be followed a few weeks later by his wife. Investigating further, Kate learned that Dr. Doxey had made unusually large purchases of cacodylate of soda, often used in treating heart disease.

A drug clerk said he had mailed a package of the drug for the doctor—to Dora Dodge, General Delivery, St. Louis. What interested Kate most was that cacodylate of soda contains arsenic.

"I'm sure Will was poisoned," Kate insisted.

The body was exhumed and a physician at the Washington University School of Medicine performed an autopsy. He reported that he could find no trace of intestinal tuberculosis, but there was arsenic in all the organs. The attending physician then admitted he had made a mistake in his diagnosis. But he knew nothing of the arsenic; he had merely left some sedative tablets with Will's wife.

It seemed plain now that the whole thing was a plot to get Will's insurance, which had been paid to Dora. She was brought back from Nebraska and charged with murder. Dr. Doxey was charged as an accessory.

The prosecution brought out all these facts at the trial and it seemed certain that Dora and Dr. Doxey would be convicted. Then the defense produced two eminent toxicologists who had also examined the body. They agreed there had been traces of arsenic, but not enough to kill. Cacodylate of soda, they testified, was not a deadly drug. A rabbit had been injected with 500 grams and had shown no ill effects; the rabbit was displayed in court.

After deliberating all night, the jurors returned a verdict of not guilty.

"How could you possibly free such a bad woman?" the prosecutor demanded.

"We studied the judge's instructions," the jury foreman replied. "Nowhere did he say we should find her guilty of murder because she was a bad woman."

"God will punish her!" the prosecutor cried.

A few days later, Dora Doxey rushed into the defense attorney's office. Her face was haggard and her blonde hair was unkempt.

"I've got to tell you," she sobbed. "I can't sleep."

She confessed that she had murdered Will, but not with arsenic. She had given him an overdose of morphine.

Then she turned and ran from the office. The attorney watched through a window as she joined Dr. Doxey.

The lawyer rushed to the office of the prosecutor and told him what had happened. Both men agreed they had been duped.

Dora and Dr. Doxey had made it easy for the prosecution to find out about the arsenic and to proceed with the trial, knowing it would be easy to prove that this hadn't been the cause of death.

They also knew that they couldn't be tried again for the same crime. That would be double jeopardy.

The defense attorney was agitated, but the prosecutor was calm. "I wouldn't worry about it," he advised. "The law of retribution will catch up with them."

Before long, it did. With the slate wiped clean and Will's insurance money in the bank, Dora and Dr. Doxey decided on a holiday before returning to Nebraska. They went to a resort near Denver, Colo. They had been there less than a week when a freak flood washed away the cabin in which they were sleeping and both were drowned.

Mooseheart's House of God

by Frederic Downing Slayton

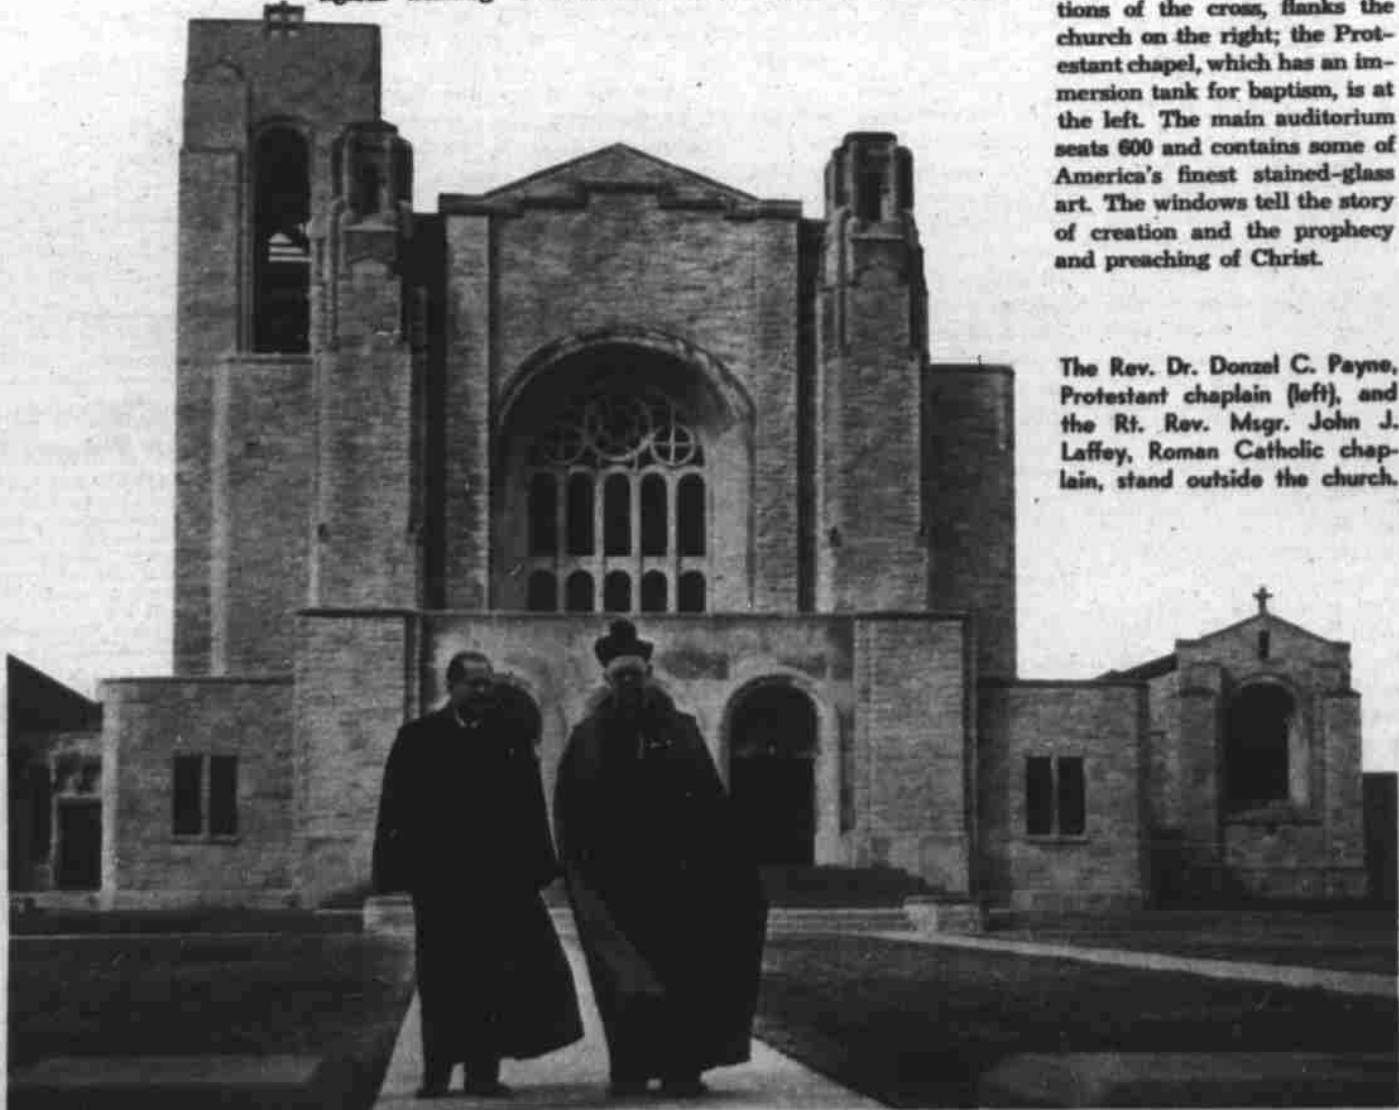

WHEN THE Loyal Order of Moose built Mooseheart, Ill., as a home for children of deceased members, they were faced with the problem of religious training. Because the Moose are nonsectarian, the children would be of all faiths and creeds.

The answer was the House of God, a two-million-dollar church which serves both Protestant and Roman Catholic children. At 7:30 a.m. Sunday, Catholic Mass is celebrated; at 11 o'clock, Protestant services are held. A Catholic chapel, with a confessional and stations of the cross, flanks the church on the right; the Protestant chapel, which has an immersion tank for baptism, is at the left. The main auditorium seats 600 and contains some of America's finest stained-glass art. The windows tell the story of creation and the prophecy and preaching of Christ.

Smart Merger: FAMILY ROOM AND KITCHEN

WHEN BOB AND NANCY GELOW bought a 60-year-old coach house in Glencoe, Ill., they installed an open-plan kitchen-family room that's ideal for a household with young children. This arrangement makes it easy to serve from the kitchen to the dining area in the family room, and allows Nancy to keep an eye on the children or converse with guests while in the kitchen. The family room has a beige-and-brown asphalt-tile floor and random-width Wisconsin ash walls. Both materials offer decorative interest and require minimum upkeep. The step-saving U-shaped kitchen features a storage wall that keeps dining needs and household utilities within easy reach.

Marion Strader Interiors

View of family room from kitchen shows a brick hearth that's raised for protection of youngsters. Covering windows are apple-print chintz draperies. Note handy toy chest underneath.

Slip-covered in brown tweed and accented with red cushions, studio bed in family room serves as both sofa and guest bed. At right angle to it is a knotty-pine table desk at which homemaker can work while watching children at play.

Arranged for top efficiency, this kitchen also presents an attractive picture. Birch cabinets have black Colonial hardware; formica counter tops are a gay red color.

Closet wall facing the work area of kitchen provides ample storage space for cleaning materials, china, glassware, and canned goods. Dutch door at end leads to a screened family porch. Soffit paper is a provincial pattern.
