

Reaping Benefits Of Education

One point that has been made here recently is the need for training young men and then making it possible for them to use their skills at home.

This is not new doctrine. State educators have been pointing to this path for years. A course which provides for the education of our youth, only to see them migrating to other points to utilize their special skills simply means that some of our best talent is going elsewhere.

What is true on a state and regional level is no less true on a local level.

Every one wants good educational opportunities. Looking at it from a business angle, we should go a step further in realizing the benefits of the training we provide as communities and as a state.

There are many angles to a so-called program of industrialization, but this is one important angle.

When specially developed talents are provided at home, they make possible a general improvement of economic conditions and thus benefit accrues to the system which developed them. In so many words, a prospering and progressive community is able to provide still better educational facilities.

The "hitch" is that action is indicated to develop industries which can reasonably expect success in a particular community or area. This calls for some vision and courage among those who already have been successful. If we wait for outsiders to come in and do things for us, we may be waiting a mighty long time.

There doubtless will be failures, for not every venture can be successful; but the more ventured, the greater the number of success. It's the same principle for successful salesmanship—that of contacting more, and more and more prospects. In the aggregate, results take care of themselves.

Need Of Settlement Is Imperative

A five-day postponement of the railroad strike may give rise to hopes for settlement. We use the term broadly, for although only two brotherhoods are involved, a work stoppage by these would have a paralyzing effect on train movements.

Despite the announcement that the government will expect management to do all in its power to recruit train operators, it is doubtful that any effective action may be taken in this direction. Suppose an engineer were secured. Other union crew members are not apt to serve. Although not actively involved, the expectation is that they would actively support their fellow workers. Thus, it is imperative that some point of agreement with management or understanding with government be reached.

The Nation Today—James Marlow

ABC'S Of The Railroad Walkout

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Here's the ABC's of the railroad strike due to start at 4 p. m. Saturday, postponed until Thursday.

Only two—of the 20 big railroad unions—called the strike. Those are the engineers and trainmen, about 250,000 of them.

A strike by them would be enough to tie up the railroads, they're key men. The other unions could hardly operate the roads without them.

But, although the strike was called by only two of the 20 unions, all 20 wanted the same things: Higher pay and some changes in their contracts with the railroads.

All of them put in their demands almost a year ago. They argued with the railroad companies for months.

When no settlement was reached the dispute went before a number of government boards.

The government boards decided the unions were entitled to about only half the wage increase they wanted.

Also, the demands for contract changes would need a lot more time to straighten out.

Not all the unions asked for precisely the same things. Nor did all go through precisely the same procedure. Here's an explanation.

The 20 unions are divided up this way:

1. There are five very big unions, the big five brotherhoods, which operate the trains. They're called the operating unions. The five unions are: Engineers, trainmen, conductors, switchmen, engine-men.
2. There are 15 other unions of railroad workers. They don't run the trains. So they're called the non-operating unions.

The big five asked for a wage boost of at least $2.50 a day. For an 8-hour day, that would be slightly more than 31 cents an hour.

The 15 non-operating unions asked for an increase of 30 cents an hour. For an 8-hour day, this

Britain Needs A Steak

By EDDIE GILMORE (For Hal Boyle)

LONDON (AP)—"I think," whispered my British friend, who was 13 pounds lighter than when I saw him here five years ago, "I can find us a steak."

After seven days in Britain's justifiably weary capital, I needed a steak. I had come here from Moscow where steaks—to foreigners and to some Russians—are as common as samovars and sometimes arms as tough.

Arm in arm, we went steaking. "I'm taking you to a restaurant where I've known the manager for years," said my friend, who happens to be one of England's best-known swing band leaders. "We have a system. If he shakes his head when we come in, we won't be eating why the mystery."

"Because," said my friend, "if he shakes his head it means that what he has listed as steak really is horse. But he won't sell horse to his pals. That is, not as steak."

Considering my ample 222 pounds, nurtured by years of good feeding in Moscow since the advent of "commercial stores" where you can buy numerous unrationed meats, I frankly felt up to horse.

We found the restaurant, one of those neat, tiny places tucked away in Soho.

The manager sighted us about the same time we sighted him. Eagerly I stared at his head. It shook.

"Horse," said the musician with the same sad manner in which he croons.

Too many persons far more able to speak on the subject than I have gone into the question of what Britain has given, what she has gone through and her present food situation.

I'd like to add only that I've

Brynes, Molotov Have Secret Talk

WASHINGTON—The abortive Paris peace conference was one of the most secret ever held in a city steeped in the tradition of secret diplomacy. Armed guards even barred newsmen from the Palace of Luxembourg where the conferees sat. Even more secret, however, was a dinner attended by Foreign Minister Molotov and Secretary of State Brynes at which, over brandy and cigars, they dug their heads to unlock the conference deadlock.

It was shortly after this secret dinner failed that further conference sessions became hopeless and the foreign ministers finally decided to go home.

In inviting Brynes to dinner, Molotov discreetly suggested that Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Connally of Texas not be included. The intimation was that the two foreign ministers could better understand each other if these two senatorial thorns in the side of Soviet diplomacy were left in their hotel rooms.

The secretary of state, therefore, arrived only with his trusted counselor, Ben Cohen, and his chief Russian interpreter, "Chip" Bohlen. Molotov, in turn, invited only two aides, the famous deputy Foreign Commissar Vyshinsky, who prosecuted the seven Soviet generals for treason, and the Kremlin's chief interpreter, Vladimir Pavlov.

Dinner was gay and charming. Jimmie Brynes is delightful at light repartee. While Molotov, underneath his scowl, has a real sense of humor. Usually the Russians serve only Soviet products at their dinners, but this time they made a concession and included French wine.

agree to handing the predominantly Italian city of Trieste over to Marshal Tito. Instead, he offered two counter-proposals: 1.) A plebiscite whereby the people of the region could decide whether they wanted to live under Italian or Yugoslav rule; 2.) A committee of experts to set up a tentative boundary between Yugoslavia and Italy for one year and then let the general assembly of the United Nations decide the issue under Section 14 of the United Nations charter.

Molotov flatly vetoed both proposals. The first, he said, would lead to confusion and possible bloodshed. Regarding the second, he remarked that he knew full well how the British-American dominated assembly would vote.

Brynes, however, refused to yield.

This caused Molotov and Vyshinsky to hit the ceiling. They saw red. They charged that the United States had embarked on a new imperialistic chapter in its history. When Brynes asked what basis there was for such a charge, the two Russians protested that the United States had abandoned its traditional policy of remaining in the western hemisphere and was trying to get bases in Iceland, France, Portugal, Iran, Turkey and China.

Brynes emphatically denied this. He said his government was trying to get out of all these countries as fast as it could. He pointed out that in Iceland only 772 Americans were left, mostly plane mechanics and caretakers. And, getting his South Carolina dander up, Brynes accused the Russians of a vicious, lying propaganda attack.

Senator Morse Goes To Missouri

Senator Wayne Morse, outspoken republican from Oregon, addressed the Liberal Forum, a non-partisan group of St. Louis citizens the other day. A critic of the Truman administration from the left, rather than from the right, Morse was uncertain how far he could go before a mixed audience in the president's own state.

When introduced, Morse began: "I have been looking forward to this trip for a long time. I don't know the state of Missouri very well, but in the last year I have become acquainted with a great many Missourians in Washington. One reason I have been looking forward to this trip is that I wanted to see if the Missourians I meet in Washington are typical of the state. I am glad to see that they are not."

When applause greeted this test, Morse plunged into a vigorous attack on Missouri's leading citizen. (Copyright, 1946, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington Studies Crowded Colleges

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Capitol Hill cocked a sympathetic ear today to Reconversion Director John W. Snyder's report that colleges can handle fewer than half the 2,080,000 Americans who want to enroll this fall.

But the lawmakers generally took the attitude that the problem is one for the states, not Washington, to solve.

Snyder suggested that President Truman name a national commission of higher education to study the matter and make a report on what the chief executive and congress should do.

Most legislators questioned about the idea said they thought Snyder's survey a good one but that they disagreed with his proposed solution.

Molotov Offers Compromise

After the cigars were passed, the two foreign ministers got down to hard-headed business. Molotov led by stating frankly that the Russians were worried about the conference stalemate and were prepared to make concessions if the United States were willing to meet them half-way.

Brynes, falling back on his South Carolina caution, listened, then began to explore what concessions Molotov was prepared to make.

The first was a suggestion that Russia would yield on Italian colonies if the United States would yield on Trieste. Brynes expressed interest but made no comment. He asked for more details.

Molotov then said the Russians might see their way clear to giving up their demand for complete control over Tripolitania, the Italian colony which sits almost astride the British life-line through the Mediterranean.

Brynes expressed real interest and probed what further concessions Molotov had to offer.

The Soviet might even yield on extensive reparations from Italy, Molotov continued, though he added that this would disappoint the Russian people who felt they were entitled to at least $300,000,000 from Italy. Brynes asked Molotov how far he was willing to go, and got the reply that Russia might drop to $100,000,000. This was confirmed publicly a day or two later.

Brynes then asked Molotov what suggestions he had to make on Trieste. Here the Soviet foreign minister was brief and explicit. He proposed that the United States and Great Britain agree to give Trieste to Yugoslavia.

Byrnes Explodes
Usually the height of geniality, Jimmy Byrnes is basically Irish, and at this point he too hit the ceiling. Nobody, he said, could find a single nation in the entire world that was worried about American imperialism or American aggression. The same, he added, was not true of Russia.

Brynes then gave Molotov a blunt warning that the Kremlin was permitting the goodwill which the war had built up for Russia to fade rapidly from the face of the earth. He said he saw no reason for a Russian diatribe at "American imperialism" simply because he had refused to yield on Trieste. The entire question of alleged imperialism had been gone over thoroughly at the Moscow conference, Brynes said, and he strongly

Hogan Throws Sunday Punch To Wrap Up Colonial Prize

FORT WORTH, May 20 (AP)—Ben Hogan, golf's amazing atom, lapped the field in the run for the money today, his course record five-under-par 65 that brought him victory in the rich Colonial national invitation tournament pushing his total earnings for the year to $17,819.50—more than $7,000 ahead of his closest pursuer.

Colonial country club's 6,952 dangerous yards were conquered yesterday by little Ben with the greatest round it ever has seen. Hogan's privilege to witness. Coming into the last 18 holes three strokes behind brilliant Harry Todd of Dallas, the Hershey, Pa., pro who got his start in golf as a caddy on Fort Worth's links, cut the margin to one stroke with a first nine 33 and wiped it out with a blazing 32 on the final nine.

It was all over except the shouting as Ben rounded No. 13 and roared into the stretch. Three straight Hogan birdies led to the bid of the Dallas player for his first triumph in professional ranks. Todd finished with a fine 69 but all Ben had to do was par the remaining holes to win. That, for Hogan, was easy.

Hogan closed out with 279 strokes for 72 holes—one under par—to earn $3,000. Todd finished with 280 and drew down $2,000. Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, six months a pro, shot a 66 on the last 18 to capture third money of $1,300 with 281.

Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., was fourth with 282 and Bob Hamilton, Chicago; Henry Picard, Cleveland, and Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, each ended up with 283 and a tie for fifth.

As the PGA tour sped on to St. Louis for the Western Open by Nelson of Toledo, O., was in second place in money winnings for the year with $10,478.75; Snead was third with $10,176.16; Jimmy Demaret of Houston, fourth with $7,785.00, and Herman Kelsner of Akron, O., fifth with $6,431.24.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Officials of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce have inspired talk of a summer tennis tournament, which President Bill Cox says could be run off at night once the lamps have been installed at the city park courts.

Plans, of course, are not far advanced but indications are such a tournament would have divisions for men's, women's and junior play. One of the purposes of such a show would be to find the ranking players within the town for future matches against teams of neighboring cities.

According to Cox, the junior chamber would supply trophies and equipment and do much of the promotional work in an attempt to give the maximum number of players competing.

Big Spring hasn't been host to any kind of a tennis show for a decade. Such a meeting should prove popular with our town's large tennis-playing family.

A responsible baseball authority—who headquarters in Fort Worth—is telling it about that the Clovis WT-NM baseball league franchise may be placed on the open market soon and Big Spring can have it for the asking.

He would be able to offer some support in helping our argument, he admits.

Our town's fans would be most willing to assume the franchise. Unfortunately, however—and this is what stymied us in the very beginning—we have no ball park, and have no prospects of getting one.

Shortage of building materials make it practically impossible to build a stadium, even if the money subscribed, unless we think in terms of a permanent setup and accumulate the rock for a grandstand and fence.

That same authority, incidentally, reports that Lamesa also faces a questionable baseball future.

Garrulous Tommy Warren, who always had a lot of trouble winning in the WT-NM league before the war, notched his fifth consecutive victory for Tulsa Saturday night by turning back Shreveport, 5-3.

Warren hurled for Midland back in 1939 and was ultimately released because he couldn't go the route.

The West Texas Livestock Auction company's arena in the northwestern section of the city, is built in such a way, we are told, that it would be a perfect spot for wrestling and boxing shows.

Some of the parties who have an interest in the function may contact Dory Detton Enterprises in Amarillo with the idea in mind of giving local fans a weekly grappling show.

The building will comfortably seat an estimated 2000 persons. Crowds like that would guarantee the promoters a profit.

Champion Longhorns Wind Up Campaign

By The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns, champions of the Southwest conference baseball loop, play three more games this week to wind up the conference season.

The Longhorns copped the title last week by defeating Rice once and Texas A. & M. twice, keeping up an undefeated conference record. Baylor trounced Texas Christian to clinch second place.

Texas meets TCU at Fort Worth Thursday. Friday and Saturday they close the season with a two-game series with Southern Methodist in Dallas.

Six Speedsters Gain Privilege At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20 (AP)—Wind, rain and mechanical trouble bedeviled drivers trying to qualify over the weekend for the 500-mile race at Indianapolis motor speedway May 30, but six pilots gained the start; six with 49-year-old Cliff Bergere as head man.

The 20,000 Saturday fans saw practically all of the action. The first two rows of the three-car starting rows were filled late Saturday after a wet track had held up operations until mid-afternoon. The 35,000 who turned out yesterday saw only a few practice spins.

Because of the abbreviated driving time over the weekend, the speedway added today and Wednesday to the days for qualifications. The qualifications will continue next Saturday, Sunday and May 28.

Bergere, grey-haired former Hollywood stunt driver who now lives in Indianapolis, took the pole position with an average of 125.471 miles per hour for ten laps. He drove the four-cylinder Offenhauser in which he finished with five years ago on his fourteenth attempt to win the race.

Other Saturday qualifiers were Paul Russo, Kenosha, Wis., who won No. 2 starting position with a speed of 126.183 miles per hour; Sam Hanks of Los Angeles, No. 3, 124.762; Hal Cole of South Gate, Calif., No. 4, 120.728; Jimmy Jackson of Palm Springs, Calif., No. 5, 120.387, and Louis Durant of Los Angeles, No. 6, 118.973. Cole and Jackson never competed in the Memorial Day grind.

Cats Keep Ahead Of Dallas Club In Texas Race

By The Associated Press

The Fort Worth Cats continue to lead the Texas league with a 4-2 defeat of San Antonio yesterday, running the totals up to 22 wins and nine losses for the season.

The second place Dallas Rebels took Houston to the tune of 9-2. Tulsa grabbed both ends of a doubleheader from Shreveport, Beaumont and Oklahoma City split.

In the Fort Worth-San Antonio battle, Eddie Chandler of the Cats rang up his fifth straight mound victory against no defeats this season.

The Cats broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth when Jake Phillips pounded a triple to right center and score on a single. Another tally in the seventh lengthened the lead.

Dallas scored first against Houston in the opening inning. They added two more in the third, then ran wild in the seventh and eighth to add six more. The Houston Buffs scored once in the third and again in the fifth.

Tulsa eked out a 1-0 win over Shreveport in the opening of a double header. The game was scoreless until the ninth. The Oklahomaans won 4-2 in the second.

Beaumont rode high all the way in the first of a double header with Oklahoma City, winning 8-5. In the second game, Oklahoma City scored twice in the first and again in the ninth to win 3-0.

Today's schedule: (All night games) Houston at Dallas, San Antonio at Fort Worth, Beaumont at Oklahoma City, Shreveport at Tulsa.

CORSICANA, May 20 (AP)—Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas walked off with the eleventh annual Corsicana invitation golf tournament here yesterday, downing Dick Martin, Dallas, 6 and 7, in the 32-hole finals.

REDCAPS START CRUCIAL WEEK AGAINST MOTORISTS TONIGHT

Doc Wilkinson's softball Redcaps begin a week of activity tonight that will either brand them as title timber or knock them out of consideration for the Mundy league championship.

Their foe is the unbeaten Big Spring Motor contingent, which boasts one of the top pitchers of the 12-club circuit in Glen Bremermeyer plus a fair all-around club.

Officially, the Redcaps boast a record of four victories in five tests while the Motorists have finished on top in two starts. The

Charley Watson Ties Bristow

It's been a long haul but Charley Watson has overtaken Obie Bristow in the battle for low scoring honors in the ringer golf tournament now in its third week at the country club.

Watson hacked his score down to 28 strokes Sunday, which includes birdies on all nine holes save No. Eight.

Bristow tried to better par three times on No. Nine during the week but his woods and irons failed to co-operate.

Burl McAllen trails the leaders by only a stroke. He needs birds on Nos. Six and Seven to turn the trick.

The tournament runs through Friday, May 31.

A combination of good weather and a spring urge to indulge in some sort of athletic endeavor resulted in a record turnout of golfers at the country club Sunday morning.

"Usually our players wait until afternoon to begin their rounds, but they were knocking on the doors by the time I opened shop," Pro Shirley Robbins reported. "It's the biggest morning we've had since we re-opened for business."

Boo Ferriss Appears Headed For Second 20-Game Season

Victory No. Five Of Detroit Club Scored At Expense

By The Associated Press

Dave (Boo) Ferriss, the Boston Red Sox' drawing righthander from Shaw, Miss., had a fine start today toward becoming the first pitcher to win 20 or more games in each of his first two years in the major leagues since Jake Weimer turned the trick for Chicago's Cubs in 1903-04.

Ferriss, who last year nabbed 21 victories despite joining the Sox just a few months after receiving his army air corps discharge, boasts five wins without a set-back this season over the Detroit Tigers yesterday. The 24-year-old sophomore's fine performance gave the American league leaders an even break in the twin bill, for Detroit's Hal Newhouser beat the Sox 3-1 on four hits in the nightcap.

The second place New York Yankees moved within four and a half games of the Red Sox by sweeping their double header with the Indians 2-0 and 7-1 before 53,310, Cleveland's largest crowd of the season.

In the opening game Spud Chandler outpitched Allie Reynolds in a brilliant duel to gain his sixth triumph against one defeat. Red Ruffing, aided by Joe DiMaggio's two-run homer, had an easy time in the nightcap as he chalked up his 267th big league triumph.

St. Louis Cards' Manager Eddie Dyer led with his southpaw ace, Max Lanier and Harry Brecheen, and they rewarded him with 9-5 and 4-0 wins before a Philadelphia record crowd of 35,049. The triumphs put the Redbirds back into the National league lead by one full game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers dropped a full game behind the Cards when they succumbed to the right-handed wizardry of veteran Ed Heusser who permitted seven hits in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-0 victory.

The up-and-coming Washington Senators licked the Chicago White Sox twice 4-3 and 7-1, coming from behind to win the opener from 45-year-old Ted Lyons with two runs in the ninth. It was Lyons' 28th consecutive complete game over a three-year stretch.

After blowing a 8-0 lead and losing 8-6 to Chicago's Cubs in the opener, the Boston Braves came back to win the afterpiece 5-3 on a three-run seventh inning rally. In a parade of left-handers, Pittsburgh and the New York Giants divided a double header, the Pirates winning the opener 3-1 and the Giants the second half 5-1.

Following up a 4-3 opening game decision over the St. Louis Browns, the Philadelphia Athletics unleashed an 18-hit attack, including eight doubles, a triple and homers by Hal Peck and George McQuinn to swamp the Sewellmen 13-2 in the nightcap.

Four Ships Involved In Sea Collisions With No Casualties

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—A story of peril and rescue at sea was told today by the coast guard after four vessels were involved in two deep-sea collisions off the fog-blanketed New Jersey coast yesterday.

After a three hour search by a plane, surface craft and a helicopter, seventeen passengers and crew members of one of the ships were picked up. They had gone over the side into life boats. No casualties were reported.

The first SOS flashes came from the merchant ships Abraham Baldwin and Santa Oliva, which collided about six miles north of Barnegat Light, off the New Jersey coast between Asbury Park and Atlantic City.

Listing badly and taking water, the Baldwin was ordered abandoned. Chew and passengers were transferred safely to the Santa Oliva, the coast guard said, but no details of the rescue were given.

The second collision, between the Tiberius and the Amiens, occurred nine miles east of the Shark River, N. J., coast guard station.

The Tiberius sent an SOS, reporting it was afloat but badly in need of assistance. All but a skeleton crew were ordered over the side into two life boats.

The navy tug Sagamore was ordered out of New York to the scene of the accident, and 15 minutes later the Amiens reported it had not sighted the two lifeboats.

Then the cutter Gentian, a PBV search plane, a helicopter and two smaller craft joined the search. Three hours later, the Amiens reported it had sighted the life boats and picked up the passengers and crew members.

Meanwhile, the Tiberius cancelled its SOS and proceeded into New York harbor under its own power with the navy tug standing by. The Amiens and the Santa Oliva also arrived safely in port.
