However, a "rough draft" of expenditures presented by City Secretary Gerald Kendrick left little doubt that the commission will have to find a source for revenue beside the ad valorem tax money.

One source has been expected by citizens for some time. The city commission has put the word out on a number of occasions that water rates would have to be increased after Canadian River water came to the city.

Mayor Jonas Cain And, pointed out at the regular commission meeting Monday night that the city will have a $90,000 bill on Canadian River water this year. This includes first payment on the CRMWA project and costs for treatment of water.

The commission has been studying several water-rate increase proposals, but none of them will provide all the additional revenue which apparently will be needed this year.

So, the stage is set for an all-important meeting at the next city commission session. Some definite tax totals and the (See CITY, Page 7

More Rainfall Boosts Crops

Hopes for fine cotton and grain sorghum crops continued mount in the Slaton area this week following another round of heavy thundershowers over the weekend.

A shower Friday afternoon was followed with heavy amounts of rainfall Saturday night, with measurements of .50 of an inch to 3.5 inches reported around the area. Slaton recorded about 1.5 inches Saturday night, while 3.5 inch readings were given around Southland and southwest of the city. Skies were partly cloudy and the humidity reading above normal for much of the period. Forecast Wednesday was for continued cloudiness and scattered thunderstorms. Some areas around Slaton have recieved more than 20 inches of moisture this year, well above the annual average, No high winds or hail were reported with the heavy showers here Satruday night. However, wind-whipped rains and hail were reported in other areas of the South Plainsparticularly around the Plains and Seminole areas. A tornado funnel was sighted near Lubbock Saturday evening, but it never touched ground, Lubbock had a 76 degree reading Saturday for the lowest maximum in the state.

Deadline Friday

The search for an appropriate slogan for the city of Slaton neared an end this week as the deadline date for entries comes on Friday, Aug. 30.

More than 200 entries were counted earlier this week, so judges should have plenty of phrases to look over before presenting the $50 cash award. The contest is sponsored jointly by Slaton Chamber of Commerce, The Slatonite, and KCAS Radio. The winning slogan should fit the "total" Slaton and be suitable for promoting the community in various ways. The slogan will probably be used in Chamber letterheads, highway signs and possibly bumper stickers or othe such items. Entries will be accepted untill 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30. They should be neatly written or typed and turned into the Chamber office, or mailed to

TEAM READY FOR CHALLENGE Tiger Coach Optimistic About Move to 3-AAA

"This season will be a great challenge to us and to the kids," Tiger Coach Ernie Davis told Slaton Lions Tuesday during the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting at Bruce's.

"We think we have a good team, and the boys think so, , we're going out to win,' Davis said of the team's chances in the new Class AAA district. "The big difference between AA and AAA ball is depth," Davis added . . . "we think our first 11 will be as good as the others."

Davis told Lions the Tigers would travel to Abernathy Friday afternoon for a scrimmage session. He said the staff has been experimenting on different combinations in the backfield and line, and the scrimmage would "determine which place people belong."

One of the most notable "experiments" has veteran quarterback Jimmy Williams run ning from a jalfback post. This combo also has Hobby Chapple at quarterback, Morris Dixon or Nicky Farrell at halfback, and Richard Washington at fullback.

When Williams is the man under, the rest of the backfield is composed of Washington, Dixon or Farrell, and Larry Moore, big 195-pounder who was a junior varsity tackle last season.

One of the reasons for the halfback problem is the absence of Carlton Bradshaw, injured in an auto accident just before

Labor Day? You Got That Right

> Labor Day will be just another day of labor for many Slaton residents.

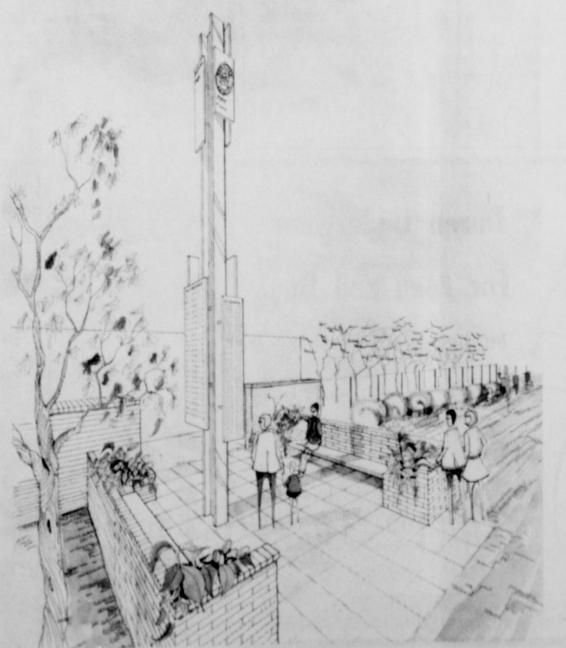

There was no definite word from some firms, but it appeared most retail stores will remain open Monday, Sopt. 2. Those observing Labor Day as a holiday include Citizens State Bank, SlatonSavings& oan, the City of Slaton, Southwestern Public Service, Pioneer Natural Gas, Slaton Lumber, and probably several professional offidrills started. The big half back had surgery on a shoulder Monday, and Davis hopes to have his services for perhaps the last half of the season.

Davis said the squad was "coming along fine" and showing a great attitude in twoa-day workouts. No serious injuries have been reported. Halfback Essie Scott has been bothered with a knee injury from baseball season, and Williams turned up with the three-day measels Monday. He is ex-pected to play in the scrimmage Friday, however.

Top linemen in practice sessions so far include tackles Randall Choate (termed as a good college prospect by Davis) and Roy King, guards Buddy Pettigrew and Brice Hill, center Ronnie Romines, and ends Brent Lamb and Randall Partain.

Pettigrew and Williams are leading the way as linebackers, while Hill and Robert Englund are vying with Lamb and Partain for the defensive end jobs. Dixon and Chapple are the No. I defensive halfbacks, and Washington is the safety.

Mrs. Ferrell played wedding prelude music of "Ava Maria" and "Thine Alone" in addition to the wedding marches. "Because" and "More" were sung by Mrs. Bain and Wittner sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride chose a street length dress of white basket weave wool with long slim sleeves. It was semi-fitted with slightly dropped waistline and rolled collar. Her mantilla of white lace was accented with pearls.

She carried her own Bible which was a childhood gift. It was covered with white antique satin and decorated with lace motifs and satin streamers. She carried a bouquet of white edelweiss atop the Bible and added a handkerchief edged with old fashioned tatting made by Mrs. Lee J. McDaniel of Amarillo. In her shoe she had an antique coin given to her by the late Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Speck of Aspermont. tension of electric service into rural areas during the last 30 years had enabled many to stay in rural areas and had attracted others -- to operate agricultural, business, and industrial enterprises, or just to live. But, the experts also agreed, the rural leadership represented in their Dallas audience is needed now to develop additional opportunities to assure a prosperous future for rural Texas. And each expert dexcribed the professional and organizational assistance available from his development agency or firm.

The adult booster organization provides game films for the coaching staff and offers financial support through the school's athletic department. The club voted to meet each Monday night at 8:30.

Coach Ernie Davis reported his satisfaction with the first week of drills, and said he was happy to announce no serious injuries resulting from the two-a-day practice sessions.

The Tiger mentor was also pleased with the attitude of his gridders, who are preparing for the move up to Class AAA football. Davis feels confident the Tigers can compete in the 3-AAA district, but the coaching staff is concerned about depth.

Davis claims two Tiger backs will rate with any in the district. He was referring, of course, to fullback Richard Washington and quarterback Jimmy Williams -- both of whom started on offense and defense last season.

Washington was the top AA scorer on the South Plains and was selected to the all South-Plains team, Williams is stronger and faster this season, and Davis has been experimenting with Williams at a halfback position.

Randall Choate, another returning starter, has been impressing coaches with his offensive blocking and defensive work. The 217-pound senior

Raider Coach At Rotary Meet

Texas Tech Assistant coach Tom Wilson--former star Raider guarterback -- was guest speaker for the regular weekly luncheon meeting of Slaton Rotary Club last Thursday in the Community Clubhouse.

Wilson presented a film on Tech football highlights of 1967 and gave a short preview of prospects for this season, Wilson said he was optimistic about Tech's chances in the SWC race this fall, adding that Tech had "reached the stature where we can take on anyone on the gridiron and give them a battle."

Letterman Brent Lambholds The Raider coach predicted another exciting race in the conference with four or five junior varsity to claim the other teams capable of capturing the championship. Tech's biggest concern is an "untested offensive line" said Wilson.

While Joe Matulich will be No. 1 quarterback when drills start, said Wilson, the coaches have graded he and Tom Sawyer "Matulich is No. 1 equal. now because he won two games for us last season," Wilson added there was not much difference in the first two backfields.

Carroll McDonald was program chairman for the week and introduced Wilson as the guest speaker. Claude Cravens presided at the meeting and David Hughes introduced visiting Rotarains and guests.

Wilson Seeks 3rd Title With New Coach, Slat

A new head coach and a new district schedule are in the football picture at Wilson, but the winning tradition is the same as the Mustangs shoot for their third district championship in a row.

Al Mitts, an assistant under Coach Bobby Davis last season, has taken over as head grid boss. The Mustangs were moved to District 6-B with New Home, Jayton, Hermleigh, Roby and Sands.

Mitts has nine lettermen from last year's title-winning team that posted a 9-3 won-lost record. The Mustangs lost such star performers asquarterback, Johnny Scott, halfback Gary Moore and tackle Lenroe Brieger, but the Mustangs will be bigger this year and the defense could be tougher.

The Mustang coach is also high on sophomore signalcaller David Wied, who he thinks might be a better passer than Scott -- an All-South Plains pick last year. Mitts is quick to add, however, that pass receivers will have to prove themselves to make Wied effective. Senior fullback Delton Moore

(155) and junior halfback Don Steen (160) provide the basis for a good running game, Opening the holes up the middle will be returnees Curtis Bishop (160) and Dan Savell (148) at guards, and Clinton Martin(165) at center. Senior Ronnie Baker (148), a letterman at end, could be one of the pass receivers to team with Wied, Mitts thinks the Mustang interior line will be in good shape with people like Dan Lee Stone (185) and Mac Young (160) at tackles, and Woody Follis (155) and Steve Brieger (158) at linebackers.

The Mustangs have a tough non-district slate, playing most of the teams who were conference foes last year. These include Anton, Ropesville, Sundown, Meadow and Cooper. First game will be at home against the tough Anton Teamthe only club to defeat Wilson in league action last year. Assisting Mitts on the coaching staff are Steve Hill and Joe Downey.
