The commission decided to purchase the Higginbotham -Bartlett property for use as office space for water and sewer and street departments. Only the present office building will be utilized. The property will also be used to park city equipment. It is located just east of the police station.

Police Report Four Accidents

Slaton police made 14 arrests and issued 29 traffic tickets the past week, along with checking one vandalism complaint and one bicycle theft. Four traffic accidents were recorded, one with injuries. Six of the arrests were concerned with alcoholic charges against minors. Two of the accidents involved parked cars. A car driven by Lorene D. McGehee, Rt. 1, Post, collided with a parked car on Bruce's parking lot Monday morning. Damage to the vehicles was minor, but a brick flower bed was estimated to be damaged to the tune of $50.

rangement with two signal lights facing each of the streets, Estimated cost of $8,000 was considered too much by the commissioners.

In connection with the traffic discussion, Police Chief Walter Head introduced a proposal to establish a traffic commission in the city. He said the recommendation was prompted due to the many improvements needed in traffic control devices and other traffic matters."

Head proposed that the commission would have the authority "to coordinate traffic activities, to supervise the preparation and publication of traffic reports, to receive complaints having to do with traffic matters, and to recommend to the commission and Chief of police ways and means for improving traffic conditions and the administration and enforcement of traffic regulations."

The proposal further called for the traffic commission to be composed of seven persons --including four citizens, chief of police, city attorney, and one member of the city commission. The chairman would be appointed by the city commission.

Commissioners expressed an interest in the proposal, and the plan will be studied and possible action taken at the next regular meeting.

Commissioner Henry Bollinger submitted a request for a street light at N. 6th and Dickens. After discussion of the site, the request was approved. Two other requests were taken under consideration.

Don Kendrick, fire chief, appeared at the meeting to request approval of a remodeling project on the meeting room at the fire station. Estimated cost on a low bid was $787. He said the volunteer firemen offered to pay half the cost, The commission unanimously approved the request after a short discussion.

The remodeling job would include lowering of the ceiling, putting panelling on the walls and painting.

The six - months budget study was a routine check of revenues and expenditures. The city's fiscal year starts in October.

The commission also witnessed a demonstration of an oil cleaner which was proposed for use on city vehicles. Noaction was taken on the matter. All four commissioners were present for the meeting.

Painting Donated To Library

Sam said "It's okay Mom, you can paint me another one someday", and Mrs. Tommy Wallace became convinced that her painting of "The Clown" would be a nice addition to the children's area of the Slaton Library. After being approached by a friend without any talent for art and admiring the painting very much, Mrs. Wallace said she would like to donate the painting to the library if her 6-month-old son, Sam, agreed.

She painted "The Clown" in 1965, thinking if she ever had a son, it would be for his room. Six months ago the Wallace's adopted their son to add to a family of three daughters, Shannon, 10, Shell, 8 and Sheryl, 4.

Mrs. Wallace took art in high school, using mostly water colors, and is selftaught in oils. "The Clown" was her second experience in oils.

She is the president of the Slaton Art Club and the Church of Christ, Other members of the Art Club, along with Mrs. Wallace, placed paintings in the library for citizens to view. The paintings will be changed periodically.

Passage of cotton and other farm legislation in Washington has become increasingly more difficult with each attempt since the Agriculture Act of 1938. And 1968 promises to be no exception. With completely inadequate public relations programs for agriculture the decline in farm influence on Capitol Hill has been in almost direct proportion to the decline in farm population. Because urban people and their representatives have not been made to see farm programs in their true light there are "enemies" in both the House and Senate where there should be

There are people urging their Washington representatives to vote against farm programs and farm appropriations of which they themselves stand to receive the greatest benefit.

And this situation becomes even more serious in the present atmosphere of federal budget pressure, the gold crisis and the emotionally potent conditions in our cities.

Under these circumstances there is little opportunity for Congressmen and Senators to make political hay, or even avoid making political poison, by actively supporting farm commodity

So farm programs are a prime target for budget cuts by many legislators. There are 21 bills in Congress that would take the first step toward destruction of these programs, the most prominent of which is a bill by Senator Abraham Rubicoff of New York that would repeal marketing quotas, certificates, acreage diversion and price support payments for feed grains, wheat and soybeans,

The next Congress and by all odds the next President will be even less sympathetic to farm programs, making passage of legislation this year of prime importance.

This tilting of Congress and ill-feeling of the public against farm programs is felt no more keenly by anyone than by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, who told the Executives Club of Chicago last month that "Most people either take agriculture for granted, or they have a closed mind, regarding the programs as patchwork - patch on patch - an exercise in futility." His attempt to allay this impression was admirable and contained logical answers to some of the questions most often asked by the general public about farm commodity programs, Answers that need wide circulation if Agriculture is to repair its public image. The Secretary pointed out the basic reason for farm programs ". . . . for the forseeable future productive capacity will sub-stantially exceed effective demand," he said, and went on to say such programs are necessary to permit "individual farmers as two million separate food and fiber factories - to manage inventories and adjust output lest they smother themselves in their own abundance,"

He told them that "Agriculture today, more than ever, requires stable prices; the farmer more than ever must be able to make his plans with some reasonable income assurance because he must spend more than ever - for machines, fuel, fertilizer in order to farm efficiently, which he must do to stay in busi-

He pointed out that because of commodity programs America's fer better values to his comfamilies are getting more of the most nourishing food in the world for less than ever before; our agricultural products are competitive in world markets and their export comprises more than 50 percent of the Nation's total favorable balance of trade, and over a billion dollars worth of food per year is moved to needy people all over the United States.

The result of letting farm programs lapse, Secretary Freeman stated "could well be the survival of a relative handful of corporate farms with such monopoly power over the nation's food supply their regulation by the government as a utility would

He defended the $2.9 billion cost of acreage adjustment, price support and related programs in which farmers are the primary beneficiaries by explaining it is under 6 percent of the industry's sales of almost $50 billion.

Of the Agriculture Act of 1965 he said ". . . . we are working to improve it as we see the need, but I am convinced we now have the basic machinery to produce the food needed for our foreign policy commitments, to assure abundance at home, to make the best use of the land of America and to stabilize farm income at a level commensurate with that of business and industry, all at a reasonable cost.

"The challenge," he concluded, "is for the critics to offer something better."

The historically proven statement that "depressions are farm fed and farm led" still rings true.

Farm people owe a round of applause to the Secretary for helping more people to understand this. Because until they do the road to passage of workable farm legislation will stretch ahead as rocky as before.

NEW TURTLE FASHIONS CALL FOR COOL DIP

The turtle may not be the fastest thing on four legs, but the latest fashion it has inspired the turtleneck shirt - has swept across the country in record time. The American male. has accepted the turtleneck with such great enthusiasm that menswear stores report they just can't keep up with the de-

And if this new look in shirts pleases the man, it also pleases the woman who has the responsibility for the family laundry. Turtleneck collars and cuffs don't require the scrubbing treatment of the standard shirts, but there is a preferred way to machine-wash turtlenecks for safest, cleanest results and longer wear: cold water

Among the most popular turtlenecks are the soft cotton knits and the combinations of rayon and nylon, all of which prefer cool water - like turtles. One of the reasons why the cool treatment is recommended is to retain shape. Cotton knits often shrink in hot water. Cold water also helps prevent the stretching of synthetic fabrics or blends. And as every turtle knows, turtlenecks should fit snugly. Some of these shirts feature elastic in the neckband. and hot water can shorten the life of elastic or stretch fibers.

Cold water also plays an important part in keeping colors bright. Cold Power laboratory tests find that laundering with the cold water detergent not only helps prevent fading but also the disastrous running of one color into another. The Cold Power detergent also has a germproofing ingredient in it that makes it ideal even for baby's turtlenecked attire.

One final recommendation. after machine-laundering today's turtlenecks in cold water. be sure to set the dryer at the cool setting. Putting a cold water laundered garment into a hot dryer can be as damaging as hot water laundering in the to come from a cool dip into a

LETTERS to EDITOR

I picked up a little epatithe today and I thought I would send it on to you and your readers so they would know how we here in the Army feel about things that are going on in civilian life as well as in the Army.

It goes like this:

MY GOD, HOW CAN IT BE-That one boy lies rotting from malnutrition and tortured in a jungle prison camp in Viet Nam -- and another boy spits and tramples on the flag of his country on the steps of a university of learning?

That one boy lies sightless in a U. S. Naval Hospital from communist inflected wounds -and another boy uses a communist flag to drape himself in definance of laws of this country?

That one man of medicine begins his thirteenth straight hour standing over an operating room table in persuit of life for men serving this country -- and another man of medicine implores crowds of young men to refuse to serve their country?

That one negro holds the face of his dead white comrade in his arms and cries pittifully in a dirty mud hole in Viet Nam -- and another negro screams with hate against his white brother on the streets of countless American cities?

That one boy lies in a coffin beneath the ground because he believed in duty to country -and another boy lies on a dingy cot giving blood to the enemies of his country?

That one man of God shields a wounded boy from an enemy bayonet with his body and dies -- and another man of God uses his cloth as a shield to preach hate, dissention, and lawlessness?

MY GOD, HOW CAN IT BE? Well that's all of it and if you can use it in your newspaper go ahead.

I just want to say that I'm proud to be an American and proud to serve in the military of my country.

And I think everyone should be just as proud of being an American whether they are in the military or in civilian life. Sincerely yours,

Gary D. Geer Fort Polk, La.

Dear Editor.

Today in passing through our cemetery, the thought came to me--our town is always talking beautification, encouraging industry and many other things. and I think some of this line of thought should be devoted to our cemetery.

A cemetry is a show place that represents the type and kind of people in a city. It is a place of respect, love and honor, Ours does not show these things at the present time -- it is almost knee-high with weeds and wild grass. The city has two fulltime employees at all times and there hasn't been any mowing or weed cutting or trimming

Under past management, our cemetery was a complete success, and surrounding towns appraised and commented it as a place of beauty. In my business, I go in every cemetery in West Texas. In past years in other towns I went into, people commented on our cemetery as having been here for funeral services. Now they ask me what happened to our city management who has let our cemetery go down to such shape . . . or they sometimes say, "I was in your cemetery the other day and it sure isn't what it used to be."

I believe our cemetery could stand some changes in management and upkeep. At the present, many people have gone back to attending their own lots for the lack of attention.

If we can't show love, honor and friendship to our deceased friends, founders, and parents who helped build Slaton, how can we expect to influence and impress newcomers from other towns to our city?

Texas politics, much like the weather, offers ; race, you must give credit where credit is due. The one man with the statehouse experience is Preston Smith.

He stands tall in the saddle with real qualifications for the job--six years as a state representative, six years as a state senator, and the last six as lieutenant governor.

The fact that he is a local product is mere frosting on the cake to his record as a well seasoned man for the job. We think Preston Smith would make a fine governor.

"Whatsoever Things"

By DONALD E. WILDMON

Yuri Alereyevitch Gagarin, the first human ever to enter space, was killed when the plane he was piloting crashed. He died as he lived among his fellow Russians — a hero. The report said he "sacrificed his life to save a peasant

Most of us remember Gagarin by the feat he pulled in the year 1961. The date was April 12. He rode his spaceship Vostok I on a trip around the earth and returned safely. Gagarin, a Major at the time, was only 27 years old. He had made history before he had reached middleage.

When he was buried, he was buried with the hero's funeral. His funeral was on Red Square in Moscow. People turned out in droves, and they wept as they sang his praises. His death was a national trayedy.

Death has a way of making us forget many things about people. How was it that Shakesspeare put it? "The evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones." Guess that is about right in some cases. And in other cases it is exactly the opposite.

Somehow we have forgotten what Yuri Gagarin said during that first trip of mankind around our Mother Earth. Oh, to be certain, he said many things. But one of them kinda stands out in my mind. It is, actually, the only thing I can remember him saying. While spinning around up there he sent back this message: "I can see no God."

His intention, of course, was to disprove the belief of millions of people that there is a Creator responsible for this race an dspace. His words did little to dispel any of our beliefs in the Almighty. In reality, they could have strengthened some in their belief.

You see, the existence of a Power behind this universe doesn't depend on one man's ability to see Him And, despite his tremendous educational advances, man can neither "prove" nor 'disprove" His existence.

Gagarin was raised in a system which taught him that there was no Creator. It taught him that this earth was and is purely an accident. That there is no right or wrong but only a state. Taught him that his allegiance was not to anything else other than the state. "The state," he was taught, "is your god."

The state, being his god, took him and buried him and said that all that remained of Yuri Gagarin was his influence. Like millions of others who have died he left a wife and two children, ages 7 and 9. They will be raised in the same society he was.

Yuri Gagarin couldn't see a God on that first trip around the earth. Now he is dead. I wonder if Yuri Alexeyevitch Gagarin can see a God now? -FIVE STAR FEATURES

An efficient judge saves time and tax money by bringing cases to trial on time. And, above all else, a good judge is dedicated to trying every case fairly, seeking truth and justice, with no favorites under the law. 99

Western Day, being one of the most anticipated events of the year, is expected to go quite well. It can only go that way by by everyone really getting in there and making his class float one of the best.
