

Gov. Dewey, GOP Power, Not To Run

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey personally urged Sen. Irving L. Ives, of New York, to be a candidate for governor in a three-hour conference early today, a spokesman for Dewey disclosed.

There was no word as to how Ives responded to Dewey's urgings. Harry O'Donnell, press secretary for Dewey, announced:

"Gov. Dewey and Sen. Ives conferred last night for three hours. The governor urged Sen. Ives to become a candidate for governor."

Dewey planned to meet briefly this afternoon with members of the GOP State Executive Committee. His schedule then calls for him to fly to Syracuse for a speech later in the day.

Dewey, twice a nominee for President, said in a statewide telecast last night that he would not under any circumstances be a candidate for public office this fall. He gave no reason other than a desire to return to private life.

The decision, which Dewey has closely guarded as a secret, came despite repeated urging by many Republican leaders that the 52-year-old governor seek a fourth term.

President Eisenhower, who "had hoped" Dewey would run again, was told in advance that he would not. But the announcement caught many state Republican leaders by surprise.

It came only one day before a scheduled meeting of the State Republican Executive Committee. Formation of a "draft Dewey" move reportedly was to have been the meeting's main order of business.

Dewey's withdrawal was expected to have powerful repercussions at state and national levels.

At every Republican National Convention since 1940, he had been a leading spokesman for the so-called "liberal, internationalist" wing of the party.

In 1940, he staged the first of three climactic convention battles with the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who spoke for the more conservative Republican elements. A Dewey-Taft stalemate that year resulted in the presidential nomination going to the late Wendell Willkie.

In 1944 and 1948, however, Dewey won the nominations for himself. But he lost the elections to Franklin

Chiang Sends Jets Against Commie Bases

By SPENCER MOOSA
TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist warships and planes—including U. S.-supplied F84 Thunderjets—learned up again today to pound possible Communist invasion bases on the mainland, the Defense Ministry announced.

It was the first time Nationalist jets have been in action against the Reds.

The ministry said bombs and shells rained for the third day on Communist batteries which have shelled Quemoy, Nationalist island just off the coast opposite Formosa, and on bases where the Reds may have been massing troops for an invasion.

A special communique described today's attacks as the heaviest so far. Targets included concentrations of tanks, artillery positions, barracks and other military installations.

Air Force pilots made dive bombing and low level strafing attacks on Red targets from which enemy reaction was much weaker, the ministry said.

British shipping companies in Hong Kong warned their ship captains to stay clear of Amoy after a freighter was attacked by planes in Amoy harbor yesterday.

Gen. Chang Yi-ting, army spokesman, said he had no information on reports that two former U. S. destroyers took part in the bombardment of Amoy and other Communist bases within gun range of Quemoy.

The destroyers, turned over to the Nationalists last month, are the former USS Hilary P. Jones and the former USS Benson.

Even as the Nationalist sea and air attacks continued, top government officials conferred on plans for a five-hour visit to Formosa tomorrow by U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Some Nationalist sources cautiously predicted that the threat of a Communist invasion of Quemoy, if one actually did exist, has diminished since Nationalist attacks began this week.

"It is too early to say," Chang told newsmen, "whether our joint operations against the Communists have been effective."

He reported, however, that the Communists fired no shot at Quemoy Tuesday or Tuesday night. A few sporadic shots were reported Wednesday afternoon.

Chang said intelligence reports indicate the Communists have four army corps, about 100,000 men, in Fukien Province, of which Quemoy, Amoy and other coastal islands are a part.

The spokesman said Communist artillery within range of Quemoy had been almost doubled prior to a five-hour bombardment of the Nationalist island Friday.

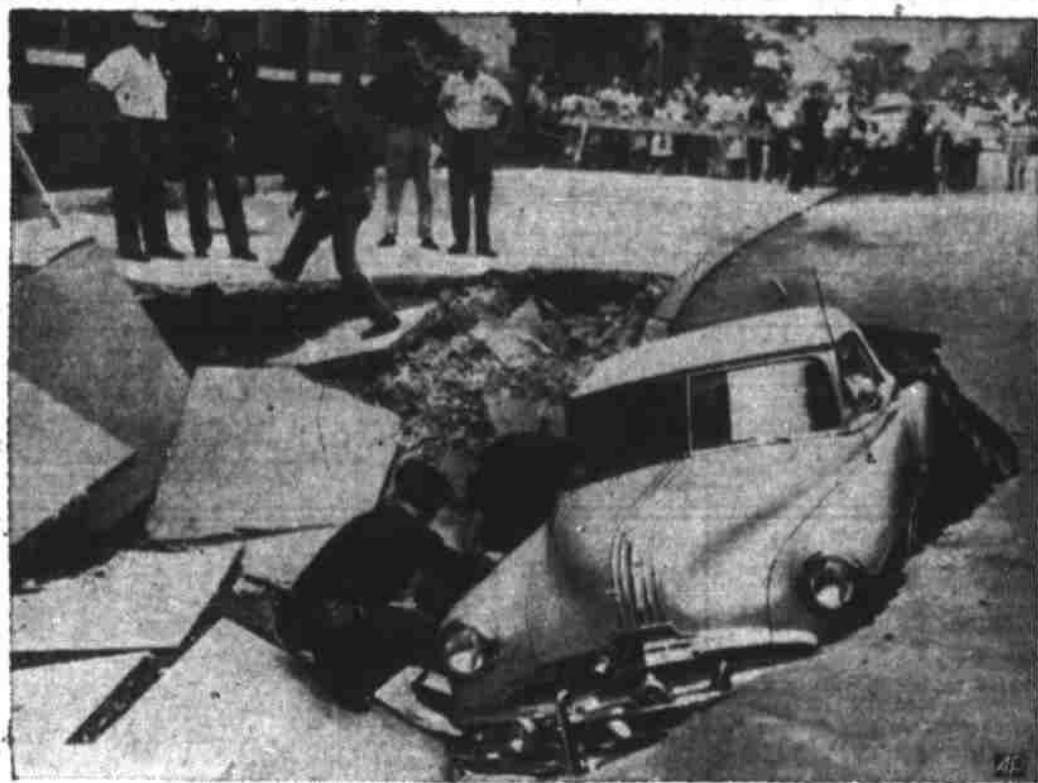

The Nationalists have said their combined attacks are in retaliation for the Red bombardment.

The Defense Ministry said yesterday's assaults scored direct hits on two Communist gunboats, damaged another, sank four motorized junks and more than 10 wooden vessels. It said more than 100 military junks were damaged.

The attacks have concentrated on Amoy, big Communist island base just a few miles inshore from Quemoy, and on nearby island strongpoints.

A British freighter was caught in Amoy's outer harbor during Tuesday's aerial attack but escaped with only slight damage from machine gun bullets and shrapnel, the vessel radioed Hong Kong today.

Defense Brings Up Mattered Remark

WASHINGTON (AP)—A witness at the McCarthy censure hearings testified today he heard Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker mutter "you S.O.B." at Sen. McCarthy at a public hearing in New York last Feb. 18.

William J. Harding Jr., New York City salesman, related the alleged incident.

Harding was called as the second witness as Edward Bennett Williams, attorney for McCarthy, began presenting the senator's defense against the censure charges. One charge is that McCarthy abused Zwicker.

Williams called as his first witness Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, former commander of Ft. Monmouth, N. J., and sought testimony from him about a private conversation with Zwicker.

Lawton declined to testify about the conversation. He cited a directive by President Eisenhower forbidding disclosure of private conversations within the executive branch of the government.

Lawton said he was taking his stand on advice of "various counsel" at the Pentagon.

Williams protested that the Army was "gagging" Lawton without justification, but said he would not demand that the censure investigation committee order Lawton to testify.

Chairman Watkins (R-Utah) said, however, the committee should consider that question on its own.

Watkins ordered a recess of the public hearing at 11:10 a.m. EDT while the six-member committee discussed in closed door meeting whether it should direct that Lawton answer questions.

Williams told a reporter during the recess that unless Lawton returned to the witness stand, McCarthy himself would be the next witness.

Williams said the investigation committee end this week—a view that Sen. Watkins also gave some support to.

Before the recess, Sen. Case (R-SD) suggested at one point that the committee call Zwicker to testify, saying that through direct examination of him the committee might be able to develop the testimony that "counsel for Sen. McCarthy wants to develop" from Lawton.

Williams commented that he didn't think Zwicker would be "eager to testify to the facts I hope to develop" through questioning Lawton.

Harding told the committee that he has lived in New York for 60 years and conducts a small sales agency. "I am a salesman," he said.

Harding then related he was in the audience on the morning of Feb. 18 when the McCarthy investigations subcommittee was conducting hearings on the case of Maj. Irving Peress, labeled by McCarthy as a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

He related that McCarthy asked Zwicker to stand up and answer several questions. When Zwicker sat down, Harding testified, "I distinctly heard him mutter under his breath: 'You S.O.B.'"

Harding told the committee Zwicker then turned to two officers sitting on his right and said further:

"You see, I told you this is what we'd get."

Zwicker was then commander of Camp Kilmer, N. J., where Peress had been stationed. McCarthy contended at the time that Peress should have been court-martialed instead of being given an honorable discharge.

Peress, as a witness before McCarthy, has refused to answer questions as to whether he had had Communist associations. He pleaded the Fifth Amendment which says no person is required to testify against himself under penalty of perjury.

"I think I heard him say it again," Harding said of the "S.O.B." remark.

Enrollment Peak Is Seen For HCJC

An all-time peak in enrollment is expected at Howard County Junior College this year by Dr. W. A. Hunt, institution president.

More inquiries have been received this year than ever before, Dr. Hunt said, and more transcripts of credits have been filed at the college office than in any previous year.

This morning the freshmen orientation meeting was attended by 75 new students, the largest group ever to gather for such a session. This indicates to college officials that the freshman class will number between 100 and 125.

Last year's enrollment, the previous peak, was more than 400 students. This included both day classes and night students.

Students can register Thursday and Friday between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. and Saturday between 8 a.m. and noon. Registration booths will be closed between 5 and 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday, it was announced.

Individuals interested in night classes can register during the same periods as regular students. Course listings can be obtained at the college.

A number of airman and officers at Webb Air Force Base have indicated that they wish to take courses. Dr. Hunt said that he expects between 50 and 75 men from the base to enroll this year.

Every night but Wednesday has been set aside for student activity next week. A reception will be held Monday night, and activities will close Friday night with a dance at the student union building.

Howard County Junior College faculty members were honored Tuesday night with a dinner given by Dr. and Mrs. Hunt. Members of the board of directors were present, and Jack Hendricks entertained the group with organ music.

Dr. Hunt said that all positions on the faculty have been filled.

Hurricane May Bypass Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The hurricane alert for South Florida was lifted today as Edna, an erratic giant packing 115 miles per hour winds, swung to the northward in the Atlantic.

An 11 a.m. EST advisory reported:

"The more northward turn relieves the threat to Florida but the northeastern Bahamas will continue to have high seas and 'strong winds today.'"

The advisory placed the season's fifth hurricane about 300 miles east of Miami near latitude 26.0 north, longitude 75.7 west.

It was moving northward about 10 miles per hour.

Edna was reported 270 miles east of Miami at 8 a.m. and had moved some 30 miles farther away by 11 a.m.

Early morning reports indicated Edna was drifting north-northwest and interests in the northern Bahamas were told to continue precautions.

At 5 a.m. EST, the season's fifth hurricane was about 140 miles east of Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, and moving northwest at 11 miles an hour.

Radar reports from reconnaissance aircraft fixed the center about 300 miles almost due east of Miami.

Future movement of the tropical giant probably will be toward the northwest, the Weather Bureau said. It had inched toward the northwest during the night but showed no signs of losing its punch.

Grand Jury Calls For 'Cleanup Of Our Town'

The Howard County Grand Jury, in a special session since last Thursday, raised several questions but answered none in a report filed with the district clerk Tuesday.

Its report—a list of seven recommendations—was presented to District Judge Charles Sullivan in a corridor outside the grand jury room.

The report called for officials "to clean up our town" but was not specific as to what the grand jury had found in the way of lawlessness. It recommended that if "after a reasonable length of time our city and county are still infested with the elements of dope, bootlegging and prostitution and other undesirable vice" that assistance of state and federal agencies be requested.

The grand jury asked that "mass poll tax receipts be watched closely." It did not explain the term. Then it suggested that voting Box No. 1 be divided "into necessary boxes." It asked that the commissioners court charge election judges with their duties,

U. S., 7 Other Nations Sign Asia Defense Pact

By ROBERT EUNSON
MANILA (AP)—Eight nations of the East and the West signed a collective security pact today which in effect warns the Communists against any further aggression in Southeast Asia.

It took just three days for the United States, France, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan and the Philippines to reach complete accord.

The treaty hangs a big "no trespassing" sign on small nations in the area. It binds the eight nations militarily and economically, and declares each party will meet the "common danger" of armed attack in the treaty area or against any member "in accordance with its constitutional processes."

Australia's Richard G. Casey was first to sign the historic document. He began affixing his signature to the various copies at 5:02 p.m. (4:02 a.m. EST).

The documents, about 12x18 inches, were bound in dark blue leather. The ministers signed with individual gold pens.

"Casey was followed by France's Guy la Chambre, New Zealand's

IONIA, Mich. (AP)—Dr. Kenneth B. Small, acquitted slayer of his prey's wife's admirer, was freed today from Ionia State Hospital for the criminally insane.

Finding the 31-year-old Detroit dentist sane, Circuit Judge Morris K. Davis ordered his release.

Three psychiatrists including Dr. Perry Robertson, medical superintendent of the state hospital, testified Dr. Small was sane and his release would menace neither persons or property.

'Coffee Break' Is Blamed For Ulcers Among Women

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
CHICAGO (AP)—A surgeon blamed cigarette, cocktail and "coffee break" today for an increase in the ulcer rate among women.

Dr. Leo J. Starr, professor of surgery at the University of Oklahoma Medical School, said the incidence of the serious, bleeding-type ulcer has increased among both men and women in the last 10 years, but at a faster clip for women.

One of every four ulcer sufferers today is a woman. The ratio formerly was one in five.

Dr. Starr said the coffee break now is standard practice in many offices and industrial establishments.

He believes this has resulted in a higher rate of coffee and cigarette consumption among women workers.

Cocktail parties, he said, could help account for an increase in the ulcer rate of both sexes.

In a speech and interview at the annual congress of the United States and Canadian sections of the International College of Surgeons, he said cigarettes, coffee and alcohol stimulate the secretion of ulcer-producing acids.

The cigarette and coffee taken together during a short coffee break is especially hazardous for some people, he added, because no food is taken to act as a buffer for the acids.

His study was based on 457 cases of bleeding ulcers, 27 per cent of whom were women.

Texas Cotton Crop Estimate Is Below Previous Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1954 Texas cotton crop today was estimated at 3,375,000 bales—down with the rest of the nation from the estimate made a month ago.

The latest estimate on the national crop was 11,832,000 bales—848,000 bales less than the August forecast of 12,680,000 bales.

The August estimate of the Texas crop was 3,400,000 bales.

In 1953 Texas had a crop of 4,350,000 bales, which was 26 per cent above average.

The Agriculture Department estimated the condition of this year's crop in Texas at 69 per cent of normal.

County Enrollments Below Expectations

Enrollments at the Vealmoor, Center Point and Gay Hill schools are slightly below estimates for the fall semester.

Late registrants are expected to boost the enrollment in all of the schools, however.

Vealmoor reported a first-day registration of 31. Forty-two had been expected and still may be attained.

Center Point enrollment totaled 59, where 62 had been anticipated.

At Gay Hill, there were 71 first-day students, whereas 81 had been expected.

School Enrollment Increases 6 Per Cent On Opening Day

School opening Tuesday brought a six per cent increase in enrollment.

Total for all schools at the end of the first day was 4,798, and W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, said that there was an even chance that the total would reach 5,000 by the end of the week.

Elementary enrollment the opening day aggregated 2,200 as against 2,119 on the first day a year ago. This was an increase of 7.4 per cent.

Junior high enrollment, dropping slightly below anticipated levels, stood at 951 as against 915, or a gain of 3.8 per cent. The senior high enrollment also slipped a little below estimates in hitting 683 for a net gain of 5.9 per cent over the 642 on opening day of 1953. Total while enrollment was 4,565 as against 4,270 last year.

Lakeview enrollment the first day was 235, which was five less than the number who showed up for school the opening day last year.

Senior high was experiencing further increase Wednesday, with a gain of about 15 by noon. Junior high, with an unaccountable lag in the seventh and eighth

Ex-Sen. McFarland Stages Comeback In Arizona Primary

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Ernest W. McFarland, staging a spectacular political comeback, today holds the Democratic nomination for governor of Arizona.

Surprising even his most optimistic supporters, the former majority leader of the U. S. Senate overhauled State Sen. William Kimball in a lopsided race that was decided within four hours after the polls closed yesterday.

He led from the start in all 14 of the state's counties and even carried Kimball's own district.

"The Democratic voters of Arizona have not only spoken, they have shouted," Kimball wired the victor. "Congratulations."

McFarland led 42,056 to 16,104 in incomplete returns from 344 of the state's 529 precincts. He will oppose Gov. Howard Pyle, the Republican incumbent, who had no opposition for renomination.

In Arizona's two congressional districts L. B. Adams of Phoenix, minority leader in the State House of Representatives the past four years, won the Democratic nod in the 1st District. Stewart Udall, member of a pioneer Arizona family, won in the 2nd.

Salk Thinks Vaccine Effective Long Time

By WEBB MCKINLEY
 ROME (AP) — Dr. Jonas E. Salk, whose polio vaccine is undergoing one of medical history's most closely watched tests, reported today that man eventually may gain long-term immunity against polio from as little as two injections.
 The young bacteriologist from the University of Pittsburgh submitted his eagerly awaited report to physicians and scientists of 49 nations, gathered in Rome for the International Poliomyelitis Congress.
 Salk developed the vaccine which has been given to 425,000 children in the United States in a massive trial supported by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.
 Its effectiveness will not be known definitely until next March, when the field test results are evaluated and announced by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. of the University of Michigan, Salk's former mentor and also a delegate at the congress.
 But Salk reported there already is evidence that the vaccine generates antibodies — virus-fighting particles — in the blood streams of vaccinated persons. He said they are equal to antibodies found in the blood of persons who have recovered from the disease.

 "The indications are that such can be accomplished with as few as two injections," he reported, "provided the potency of the vaccine and the interval (between shots) are both adequate."
 It is still not certain how long the effect of the vaccine will last, Salk said, adding:
 "That there is still much to be learned is clear indeed. Nevertheless, it does appear . . . that by suitable manipulation of the dose of vaccine and the intervals between inoculations, it should be possible with relatively few injections properly spaced to provide long-term immunity."

Rotarians Hear Report On Derby

Objectives of the Soap Box Derby were discussed and Rotarians heard a report on the 1954 All American Derby at their luncheon Tuesday.
 The Derby has been developed on the theory that "busy boys are better boys" and to give youngsters training in the use of tools, elementary engineering and design, R. W. Whipkey told the club. He and Charles (Lefty) Morris, the Big Spring Derby champion, were guests at the luncheon.
 Whipkey quoted W. G. Power, advertising manager for Chevrolet, sponsor of the nationwide event, to the effect that the Derby has been promoted "to interest boys 11 to 15 in some wholesome activity" such as building and racing coasters. He estimated the program reached 35,000 boys this year.
 The speaker also told of attending the All American Derby at Akron, O., with young Morris. He said Lefty was "unlucky at the draw" for places in the national races. Had the Big Spring lad drawn any other heat, he would have advanced further in the races.
 Efficiency with which the races were run, the courtesies extended guests by the people of Akron and other highlights of the races were mentioned.
 In charge of the program was Tommy Jordan. Other guests were Alden S. Condit, of New York City; Aviation Cadet Guido Eisermann of Antwerp, Belgium; Lt. Enzo Raglio of Turin, Italy. J. H. Friday was introduced as a new member.

 BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — An article barring international communism from political activity was put into Colombia's new constitution yesterday by the Constituent Assembly.

Reds 'Interview' General, Find He 'Attacks' U. S. A.

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's leading Communist newspaper today quoted Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries as saying the Americans want war and that "one must fight all American attempts of aggression."
 "One must also fight SEATO," the commander of the Dien Bien Phu fortress was quoted as saying in a purported interview published by Neues Deutschland, official organ of the Soviet zone's Socialist United (Communist) party.
 The paper said De Castries was interviewed by its correspondent in North Viet Nam, Dr. Fritz Jensen, last week shortly before the Communist-led Vietminh released him.
 De Castries, now in Saigon awaiting transfer to Paris, has talked only briefly with newsmen since his release. The French have refused all requests for interviews with him.
 Neues Deutschland claimed the French general said he was content with his treatment in Vietminh captivity and that he considered Ho Chi Minh, the Indochinese rebel leader, "one of the greatest men of our epoch."
 (De Castries during his four months imprisonment dropped from 154 to 138 pounds. After his release he had been fed almost entirely on rice, had been kept in solitary confinement and had suffered from dysentery.)
 The Red organ alleged that De Castries, asked what he thought about American aid in general and SEATO in particular, made these statements:
 "The Americans have lots of war material which they want to sell and 80-per cent of their economy works for war. This means they want the guns to go off. If they cannot produce more war material, a crisis breaks out and they are lost."
 "This is the true face of American aid. The so-called defense of Western culture is only a propaganda trick. Therefore one must fight all American attempts of aggression. One must also fight SEATO."

Cap Rock Reports Heavy Power Use
 Slight gains in miles of line energized and members connected, but much heavier consumption, were reflected in the August report of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative.
 During the month the average kilowatt hour consumption was 1,120 per member, whereas for July it was 720. The system purchased 3,511,880 KWH and sold 3,142,979. In July it had purchased 2,614,920 and sold 2,104,771.
 There were 2,806 members connected, a gain of six for the month. The number of miles energized was 1,817, also an increase of six. Bills for the month averaged $18.69, well above the $14.51 for July. September totals, however, may be down considerably since the big end of power demand comes from the irrigated areas of central Martin County.

Arkansas Men Set To 'Develop' Mars
 LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Three "far-sighted" men have formed the Planet Mars Development Corp. "to subdivide and convey title of such area or areas of said planet Mars to competent persons for suitable remuneration."
 Rex Sutton, George B. Pratt and R. B. Ramsey had articles of incorporation drawn up and submitted them to the secretary of state.
 The incorporators claimed several advantages that should draw buyers:
 1. No road-building troubles (there are no mountains).
 2. You will live twice as long (there are 687 days in a year).
 3. Mars has a mean temperature of 48 degrees (not too hot, not too cold).
 4. No drainage or irrigation problems (there is no water).

Hot Governor's Race In Georgia Tops Demo Vote

By ROBERT MOOREFIELD
ATLANTA (AP) — Georgians nominated a governor, a U.S. senator and 10 representatives in today's Democratic primary. The ballot included a king-size list of nine candidates for the governorship.

Numerous other state and local posts also were at stake.

Nomination in a Democratic primary virtually assures election in Georgia.

Nine candidates seeking to succeed Gov. Herman Talmadge, who by law cannot succeed himself, have indulged in one of the wildest and hottest campaigns in decades. Much of their oratory dealt with the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision against segregation in public schools. The major candidates promised to maintain separate public schools for white and Negro children. The race for governor developed no national issues.

One candidate outlasted the others in campaign stamina. State Rep. Charles Gowan of Brunswick carried his bid for the governor's chair right up to poll time. He scheduled a 60-minute radio program for the Wednesday morning breakfast hour. The other eight candidates had brought their wordy campaigns to a close either Monday or last night.

Besides Gowan, the candidates for governor are Edmond Barfield, Atlanta; Ben Garland, Jackson; L. Gov. Marvin Griffin; House Speaker Fred Hand; Agriculture Commissioner Tom Linder; Arthur Nesson, Atlanta; Mrs. Grace Thomas, Decatur; and former Gov. M. E. Thompson.

Barfield, Nesson and Mrs. Thompson conducted only modest campaigns.

Sen. Richard B. Russell is unopposed for re-nomination.

Seven congressmen have no opposition. They are Paul Brown, E. L. Forrester, Phil M. Landrum, Henderson Laham, J. L. Picher, Prince H. Preston and Carl Vinson. James C. Davis has one opponent, two candidates oppose Don Wheeler and three seek the office of the last, A. Sidney Camp.

The Coahoms High School chapter of the Future Farmers of America, with Wayne White as instructor in Vocational Agriculture, has settled down to a year of hard work.

The Texas Section of the American Society of Range Management recently held a meeting and field day on the H. C. Nokey Ranch, just south of Sheffield in the Pecos-Terrill County area.

The Nokey Ranch had about 11 inches of rain this year, but over the past eight years has had to get along with an average of seven inches. In spite of this moisture situation, visitors at the field day saw many good grasses going to seed in a large pasture that had just been moderately grazed until the spring of 1953 when the livestock were all removed. Cedar in this pasture has been killed with machinery.

The better grasses found in this particular pasture included Sideoats Grama, Cane Bluestem, Vine Mesquite, Hall's Panicum, Fall Witch Grass, Green Sprangletop and Texas Cup Grass.

Nokey is well known as a registered sheep breeder, and has judged a number of livestock shows throughout the Southwest. Among those attending the field day were a number of agricultural instructors in colleges and universities, ranchers, range specialists and students of range management practices. It was developed at the field day that while West Texas ranges have suffered greatly from the drought, still where ranges were properly stocked, and not over-loaded, the better grasses had actually increased.

Leo Merrill, range specialist at the Ranch Experiment Station at Sonora, told the visitors that the short grasses such as Curly Mesquite and Buffalo, lost 90 per cent even where lightly grazed, but that Sideoats Grama and Cane Bluestem lost only two per cent under such grazing.

Clayton Puckett, rancher from Fort Stockton, warned that a rancher should not try to borrow money on grass not yet produced, that ranchers should stock in proportion to the grazing they have, and that they should not gamble on rain and grass that they might or might not, have.

This year's 4-H World Champion Junior Rodeo was a splendid show and those responsible for it certainly deserve the congratulations of the community, and of those fine boys and girls who participated in the various events.

And from what was seen there nobody need worry about calf roping championships coming to Big Spring in due time when such fellows as Toots Mansfield, Sunny Edwards, E. P. Driver and others finally give up saddle seats for seats in the grandstand.

There's a good crop of top calf ropers coming along in this area. The management of this rodeo also deserves a lot of credit for the programs they got up. In this respect they did a better job than the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Rodeo last month. They set a style in programs this time that the oldsters can profitably copy. These programs didn't leave any doubt as to where the cowboys and cowgirls were from.

A lot of people missed a lot of exciting entertainment by not attending every one of the three Junior Rodeo performances.

Yesterday the billionth animal passed through the old entrance gates to the great Chicago stockyards.

The billionth animal, cattle, sheep and hogs, since the stockyards was opened on Christmas Day in 1865.

The world-famous fortunes of the Armour, Swift, Wilson and other meat-packing families have been made in these yards. They have paid stockmen in excess of $29 billion for these animals.

Today the stockyards is a modern municipality with paved roads and sidewalks, fire and police departments, banks, a newspaper, up-to-date stores, a hotel, and a ranch flavor.

It is estimated that 238 billion pounds of meat on the hoof has gone through these yards. That is reckoned to be enough beef, pork, and mutton to provide the meat for 160 million people for 16 years. The title of this stockyards as "the world's largest" has not been challenged for 89 years. In 1869 nine railroads subscribed for $925,000 of the $1 million stock needed to build the yards.

Walter T. Wheeler, assistant superintendent of the yards, is 75 years old. He has been working for the Chicago Stockyards for 62 years.

In the September issue of "True West," the new magazine edited by Fred Gipson of Mason, which issue is now on the stands, there is an interesting story of Bob Slaughter's famous ride to save his father's cattle empire north of Big Spring many years ago.

The story was written by Curtis Bishop, who formerly lived in Big Spring, and who is well known as a historian of cattieland.

Bob Slaughter was then 10-years-old and he rode 238 miles in 41 hours, never out of the saddle except long enough to eat and change horses.

His father, Col. C. C. Slaughter, owned the Lazy S outfit, headquartered north of Big Spring. One day, in Dallas, Col. Slaughter accepted a "hot" draft for half a million dollars from a trio of bogus English noblemen for the ranch — lock, stock and barrel. In return he gave the imposters an order to his foreman directing the latter to turn the whole thing over to the buyers.

Seventy-two hours after the bogus noblemen had departed from Dallas, in a hack, for Borden County, Slaughter learned the draft was no good and that the buyers weren't who they had represented themselves to be.

Slaughter also knew that a man could not overtake them before they got possession of the ranch and cattle, and there wasn't any other available means of communication that was fast enough.

But Slaughter did believe that the light, 10-year-old boy, riding a four-pound English jockey saddle, and changing horses often enough along the way, could beat the crooks to the ranch and deliver an order to the foreman canceling the one previously given the buyers.

The boy made the ride, but he was so worn out when he got to the ranch headquarters that he couldn't talk. But the cowboys found the note in his pockets.

When the bogus nobleman arrived a few hours later, they weren't shot, but they didn't ranch the cattle and it was made quite plain to them that they had had their ride for nothing.

It's a good story. And, "True West" is a good magazine. It's different from anything else that has been offered.

Whole Town Going Begging For Residents In S. Dakota

By HAROLD S. MILNER
PICKSTOWN, S.D. (AP) — Is the housing shortage bothering you? If so, there's a whole town going begging for occupants here shortly.

It's a town adequate for 3,000 to 5,000 population.

It was built to accommodate workers and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers personnel who constructed huge Ft. Randall Dam here, and cost about nine million dollars. It will be abandoned unless some suitable use can be found.

All the government wishes to retain is about 50 houses to accommodate some 100 employees who operate the dam's powerhouse and other facilities.

The layout includes a church, a 500-capacity school, a theater and a 30-bed hospital.

It's complete with a half-million-dollar hotel with 122 rooms and three apartments. There's a garage, fire and police station, large recreation hall, a huge warehouse and a modern shopping center. The railroad tracks run to the door.

But don't start packing, because you can't move in yet. The Army hasn't decided what disposition will be made of the facilities.

Disposition will be governed by congressional action directing the corps to recover at least a part of the government's investment.

Gov. Sigurd Anderson and Executive Secretary Hugh Carlson of the State Natural Resources Commission are leading efforts to keep Pickstown alive. They believe

Parents Will Perform A Service By Insisting On School Careers

There has come to be a disposition on the part of too many parents to regard urgent appeals for their youngsters' schooling as an evidence of wanting to earn more state aid for schools. No one will deny that the greater the average daily attendance of our schools, the greater the amount of foundation aid will accrue. In a growing community with its ever increasing demands for more classrooms and more teachers, every additional penny that we earn in state funds means a step toward meeting these expansion demands. Yet, this is relatively unimportant when it comes to a reason why all school children should be in school. It is the rarest of examples where those who quit school to "make money" do not live to regret it.

Public Interest Would Justify Acquiring Property For Safety

It always is easy to perceive or anticipate a need; it is not so easy to provide finances. This is no less true in the municipal realm than in private affairs, yet we all have a way of providing for things which we want badly enough or which cry most for our attention. With this background to qualify any suggestions, we would like to project the idea of "expanding funds" as they are necessary in public interest for purchase of property which would contribute to safety although it is not part of or right-of-way or any installation. We have seen instances where opening of streets, establishment of the correct street lines rather than those followed through common usage, the altering of grade, etc. have produced some surprising if not startling results. There is a certain place in the city where a small hill completely obstructed vision on a fairly sharp curve. It so happened that the lay of streets made it possible to solve the problem by setting up opposing one-way streets. Had this not been possible, it would have been to the public's interest to have bought the little hill outright and have it cut down to afford a clear vision of what lay ahead. In town there are several instances where offsets occur in a street where two additions come together. This resulted from some faulty surveys or from too casual acceptance of plats of new additions many years ago, but whatever the reason, the result is inconvenient if not dangerous. Here again, the public interest would be served by acquiring enough property to smooth the abrupt jobs into flowing curves. These examples are more numerous than you think. Would it not be fitting to give some consideration to appropriation of funds by city and county, in conjunction with the State Highway Department where indicated? In the case of the city, at least, this involves the spotting of some source of revenue for such purposes. And, that, of course, is where more thinking comes in?

These Days—George Sokolsky

Regardless Of Views On Trade, Reds Are Attacking Religion

Charles P. Taft is president of the Committee for a National Trade Policy, Inc. which is an innocent enough name. All sorts of persons are interested in a national trade policy, from those who believe in a high tariff to those who favor free trade, and all stops in between. This committee is more or less for free trade in the free world. So Mr. Taft objects to an article I wrote some time back and notified one of my editors to that effect. The editor kindly sent me Taft's letter which contains, among other items of complaint, the following:

"In the full text of George Sokolsky's recent column headed 'Marginal Industries' he has repeated uncritically some of the current high tariff misrepresentations. 'But in one respect he added his own comment by referring to 'nasty' competition in Christmas toys 'from the atheistic countries behind the Iron Curtain.' 'While it is true that the Communist Party functionaries in those countries seek to submerge the church, it is quite evident that the effort has not succeeded, as was so clearly demonstrated in the great church gathering recently in East Germany. To label such strong supporters of the church as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania as 'atheistic' is completely at variance with the known facts. One of the most potent forces in the fight against Communism is Christianity, Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant, and to damn these unfortunate countries as 'atheistic' is to ignore the fact that they are the most religious of nations. Perhaps he might find the time to study the history of the Berzozniki, the Society of the Godless, which devoted itself to the destruction of God in Soviet Russia. Perhaps he has never heard of Cardinal Mindszenty or of Archbishop Stepinac, or of the torture and martyrdom of Christian missionaries in China. He can find full documentation on these subjects. more, because it tells the story better than I can."

"The party, which is developing extensive work in the Communist education of the masses, cannot tolerate a neglected scientific-atheistic propaganda. It is the duty of party organizations to eliminate as soon as possible shortcomings which exist in this sphere and to activate scientific-atheistic propaganda. In our socialist society, all objective possibilities and prerequisites have been created for the complete overcoming of all remnants of capitalism in the consciousness of the people, including religious prejudices and superstitions. It is necessary to create a large-scale all-encompassing impetus to scientific-atheistic propaganda, and to improve its content decisively."

Determined Builders

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hunt decided on a new home they didn't go around looking for a lot of advice. They are building it themselves—in spare time. The project grew out of an addition Hunt made to his old home. It was so successful that he spent the next winter drawing plans for an entire new home. He thought it might take five years to build, but now hopes to make it in two since the Hunts are working on it at night to get more "spare time" for the project. In the day he works as maintenance engineer for the Bank of Virginia. Mrs. Hunt is an accountant for the city health department.

Dewey, True Political Pro, Leaves Door Open For '56 Presidential, Senate Bids

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, in deciding not to run again for the governorship of New York, has left the door wide open to bid for the presidency or the United States Senate in 1956. In a televised broadcast to the people of New York last night he said the time had come for him to return to private life and he will not be a candidate for any public office "this fall." He did not say (1) he had given up all political ambitions or (2) that he was retiring to private life for keeps or (3) that he would not accept appointment to high public office, perhaps by President Eisenhower. There has long been speculation here that he might succeed Secretary of State Dulles if the latter ever retired. This would require appointment by Eisenhower, who received a big assist from Dewey in getting the Republican presidential nomination in 1952. The six-year Senate term of Herbert H. Lehman, 76-year-old Democrat and former New York governor, ends in 1956. If Dewey has abandoned hope for the presidency, he might shoot for Lehman's job two years from now. Dewey is a two-time loser as a Republican nominee for president. He lost to President Roosevelt in 1944 and President Truman in 1948. In the next campaign, 1952, he worked for Eisenhower. Two presidential defeats by the Democrats might seem enough to cool off Dewey. But they may have only aggravated his ambition. If Eisenhower does not seek re-election in 1956, Dewey may try again, if the Republicans let him. They might not let him. The two defeats rammed with some members of his own party. Not so much the 1944, war-year trimming by Roosevelt, but the 1948 beating by Truman. That year Dewey looked to the political experts at least, like a sure winner until the ballots were counted. Later he was accused of having been so overconfident of victory that he coasted in the campaign instead of making it all-out, as Truman did. And his part in the 1952 Republican convention—in helping steer the nomination to Eisenhower and away from the late Sen. Taft of Ohio—embittered a number of Taft's supporters.

Chance Has Played Part In Lives Of Many People

NEW YORK (AP)—How many people do you know who set a pattern to their life when very young, said to be such-and-such out of this world, and this is how I'll get it? I want and were able to achieve their goal as they had planned it? Such people are the exception. I personally know of none. Life has a way of upsetting our timetables. We are only partly a product of our own dreams and sense of determination. For we are also, to a great extent, prisoners of such exterior influences as chance, misfortune or a pair of bright eyes. Here is how chance entered and affected the careers of some of America's business leaders: Raymond Loewy, now head of the largest industrial design firm in the world, studied electrical engineering in Paris. At 26 he had no job, little funds. At his brother's suggestion he decided to come to New York. During the voyage he was asked to contribute something for a shipboard auction for a charitable cause. All Loewy had was his pencil. He made a sketch of a young woman aboard the ship. The sketch was purchased at the auction by a British diplomat, who was so impressed with Loewy's talent he gave him a letter of introduction to Conde Nast, publisher of Vogue. The letter landed Loewy a job, started him on a fabulous career. Herbert L. Laube, president of the Remington Corp., manufacturer of room air conditioners, originally was a construction engineer. He made the drawings for an exhibit hall in San Bernardino, Calif., in 1934. Then he learned he wouldn't be paid until the exhibition opened six months later. His room rent was overdue. He had less than $2 in his pocket. He went for a walk that evening, feeling pretty blue. During the walk he chanced to meet Herbert C. Parker, manager of an ice machine company. Parker offered him a job. "I knew nothing about ice machines, and I took the job without even asking what the pay would be," recalled Laube. But he soon had gathered the know-how to become a pioneer in the still mushrooming field of air conditioning. John J. and James A. Farrell Jr., sons of a former head of the U. S. Steel Co., now operate the Farrell Ship Lines, which ply to Africa. Chance played an odd role in their family history. Their grandfather, Thomas Whalen, was an embattled Irish rebel and a fine whist player. He was so good at whist that English officers who frequented the inn in the town in which he lived enjoyed passing an evening with him at the card table. One night, before a rubber was finished, a friendly officer arose, and before leaving said loudly: "Early tomorrow I must serve a royal warrant on Thomas Whalen." Realizing the warrant probably meant his hanging, Whalen took the hint. He left the inn, and Ireland as well, and came to America. Herbert Hoover, now 80, was a 14-year-old orphan when he went to work as an office boy in his uncle's real estate firm in Oregon. A chance conversation with a visiting mining engineer led him to adopt that as his own profession, and started him on the road that led to the White House. Women drivers were involved in about 12 per cent of the U. S. auto accidents in 1953.

Dior Unlikely To Get Anything Off Any Chest Other Than His

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note. After thinking it over and having had opportunity to look over a few pictures on the subject, I predict that Dior will not get away with his attempt to sack up the female form in a roaring '50's. This prediction is not predicated upon the stability or sagacity of the gender sex, when it comes to styles, for there is little under the sun that some women won't put on (or take off) in the name of style. Rather, I think there are too many factors weighing against Dior's latest bit of zanyness. For one thing, the designer who frequently is fashion-maker, is trying to take all the camp out of the body beautiful. That may meet with the approval of the puritanical and the elderly, but not with those who have been accustomed to the sharp curves. While Dior may be unconsciously attempting an extension of the doctrine of equality in the declaration of independence by making all chests flat and hips straight down, he will discover formidable opposition. In fact, the girdle and hoop makers, along with the foam rubber people have beat him to the punch. If Dior thinks he is trifling only with women this time, he is in for disillusionment. Our ingenious pad-makers and bulge-binders already have developed a robust industry on the strength of equalizing the female of the species on a more voluptuous line. I can't imagine these people with great sums at stake throwing in the size B cup without a fight. Finally, there are too many of us who can remember the styles of the 20's. If the male population hadn't been busy puffing up the stock market until it burst, men would surely have rebelled. Those sack dresses, with a gathering at the waist to remind you of a sack of oats tied in the middle, did nothing—absolutely nothing—for the ladies. About the most that can be said for those dresses is that they gave plenty of movement for the Charleston and Blackbottom. Otherwise, a young woman in her Sunday best looked worse than the old girl on washday now. No sir, the people won't stand for it again while memories are still faintly green. If Dior wants to get something off the chest, let him take it off his own. —JOE PICKLE

'Big Few' Pattern In Business Imperils Big-League Baseball

Baseball, as it unfolds this year in the big leagues, epitomizes patterns in big business. The American League is dominated by a "Big Two," the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees. The Chicago White Sox are nearly up there, so you could call it the "Big Three." The rest of the clubs are far, far behind. Here, the resemblance to the automobile industry leaps at you. In autos, General Motors Corp. and Ford are the dominant enterprises. Chrysler Corp. is still in third place. And just as weaker auto companies seek strength through merger, so baseball clubs seek patronage through migration. The St. Louis Browns moved to Baltimore. Kansas City has put in a bid for the Philadelphia Athletics. The Boston Braves shifted to Milwaukee—quite profitably. In the National League, the New York Giants, in first place, and the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Milwaukee Braves constitute a dominant Big Three. The other clubs are out of the race. Again, the pattern of the "Big Few," so characteristic of American business. As in the song, the rich get richer both in business and baseball. The Big Few in business spend heavily on research to develop new techniques, new products. If one product goes out of favor, another product may take its place. In textile companies which have specialized in cotton or woolsens have gone into synthetics. So, the big company is able to keep up with progress and move ahead of rivals with lesser resources. The Big Three or Four or Five solidify their positions. In baseball, the powerful teams attract crowds, make money. This money can be plowed back into the business—into developing farm teams into buying crack players from other clubs, in signing up promising high school and college players with fat bonus payments. And the good young player is attracted by the top teams. He wants to be a Yankee or a Dodger, just as the talented college graduate picks du Pont or General Electric for an industrial career. So the good teams get better. Can they afford to? That's the dilemma of the big leagues, of direct unlimited competition. Obviously, the Yankees and Cleveland want to stay at the top. The World Series is always a great monetary prize as well as a source of pride. To strive to excel is the most human of all qualities. A business can survive and prosper even if it's not at the top. Philip Morris and P. Lorillard keep going along side of R. J. Reynolds, American Tobacco, and Liggett & Myers—the Big Three of the tobacco world. In rubber, independents still hold on to markets in spite of Goodyear, Firestone, U. S., and Goodrich, the Big Four. That's because when you buy a tire, or smoke a cigarette, you're not concerned about whether the tire or cigarette company is tops in the industry. But when you go to a baseball game, you want to see a winner. I recently told a friend that I was going to see the Philadelphia Athletics play the New York Yankees. He said: "You mean you're going to see the Yankees!" In Philadelphia, business men have made an effort to stir up interest in the A's. The theory is that a big-league team brings people into town, therefore creates business. Nevertheless, attendance is abysmally low. As the low-down teams become less competitive, the interest of fans wanes. They'll pay to see the Braves play the Dodgers or the Yankees battle with Cleveland. But the big leagues cannot survive unless customers watch St. Louis and Washington too. To survive in the big leagues, a ball club can't carve out a special niche for itself like a small company in a big industry. It's got to win games. The constant loser is bound to be a constant loser of money. A ball club must be in the "same league" as the Big Three or Four, or the fans won't be interested. That's the business problem of baseball today. It's got to be that baseball in most cities is no longer a sporting proposition.

She Writes Hit Plays To Avoid Housework

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor

Never underestimate the power of a housewife who doesn't like housework. Jean Kerr, pretty young wife of Walter Kerr, New York drama critic, and mother of four sons, all under 9, writes Broadway hit shows to avoid cooking and washing dishes. Says she: "Ever since I was first exposed to a kitchen full of pots and pans I've been trying to avoid housework. I honestly think that is the main reason I keep writing these things. But even when I'm working madly on a new play, I can't help feeling guilty when my maid gives me a cold stare, because it's plain she doesn't believe writing is really working."

The most recent of Jean's housework preventives is the current comedy hit "King of Hearts," on which she collaborated with another housewife, Eleanor Brooke of Washington, D. C. To make it more of a family matter, the play was directed by Jean's husband. Previously she wrote the dramatic version of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," turned out "Jennie Kiss Me," and collaborated with Walter on the Broadway play "The Song of Bernadette" and on sketches and lyrics for the musical hit "Touch and Go."

At present the highly successful husband and wife team is at work on a new musical, "Goldilocks," which pokes fun at the early days of the movies and is due on Broadway after Christmas. Jean met Walter when he was teaching dramatics at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., and she was a student at Mary Wood College in Scranton, Pa. Walter induced her to take a summer course in his class, married her as soon as she was graduated and proceeded to collaborate on plays and children.

The Kerrs live in New Rochelle, N. Y., with their sons Christopher, 8, twins Colin and John, 4, and Gilbert, 1—a plus a wire-haired terrier. "You'd never believe what a commotion four small boys and and saw it," says Jean. "People are always wondering how I can a dog can kick up unless you heard write in the middle of all that. Well, this is how I do it. I get in the car, take along a pad of foolcap and plenty of paper, and drive down to the most solitary spot I can find overlooking the sound. I don't even have a radio in the car, because if I did I wouldn't write—I'd just listen. Then, since there's nothing else to do, I write.

Batchelor Says Fear Why Balkers Stayed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Most of the Americans who chose to stay with the Communists did so because of fear, Cpl. Claude Batchelor said today at his court-martial. Batchelor, 22-year-old Kermit, Tex., youth, is on trial on charges of aiding the enemy while a prisoner of war. His court-martial at Fort Sam Houston began Aug. 30.

In the latter pages of a long statement scheduled to be completed today and read into the court-martial record, the corporal said: "I think that most of them stayed because of fear. Very few of them had the intellect to really understand that they were fighting for peace." Batchelor was speaking of the POWs at Kaesong prior to the "explainer" talks by United Nations personnel. The statement said that Cpl. Edward Dickenson of Cracker's Neck, Va., had already been repatriated at this time. Dickenson was tried and given 10 years at hard labor on charges similar to those against Batchelor. "Dickenson was not too well liked (in the POW camp), anyway," Batchelor's statement said.

Batchelor said letters from his mother and "commonplace Americans" set him to thinking and changed his Communist sympathy to hating communism. "If I get the chance," the statement ended, "I want to do something to make up for what I have done that might in some way have been detrimental to my country."

The non-repatriates were forbidden to read letters from home but Batchelor eventually read his secretly in a latrine. He described a letter from his mother as "...very appealing and quite different from what I had expected. She was writing extremely anti-Communist, pleading for me to come home. She did not seem to know much about politics but nevertheless her letter was enough to make me think a great deal."

"Before, from previous letters, she always wrote (sic) against war but none of the letters were anti-Communist. She always wrote the same things the Communists were preaching concerning war and loss of life and I took for granted that she, too, thought the United Nations was unjustified in the war in Korea. "School children, housewives, teachers and various others who all thought they should sit down and write us about our wonderful America," were among those who wrote letters, he said. Several were from residents, of his home town.

"The letters caused me to do quite a bit of thinking and the more I thought the more old doubts I had had before crept into my mind. "More and more," the statement said, he became "fed up with the whole mess and began to gather a hatred for communism." "This was leaving me in a very mixed-up state of mind. I knew that what we were doing there was making world-wide publicity. To do anything now would require a lot of thinking. One had to make absolutely certain he was right. "Then there was fear. "Before, while believing many of the things the Communists were preaching, I had known no fear. I had believed that what I was doing was right and that even though a reactionary government might be warlike—as I believed my government was—might do as the Communists said, I was still not afraid."

"I feel terribly bitter toward the Communists for having nearly ruined my life. It is not easy for a person to face the fact that he has been used as a tool for something as bad as communism. I have a personal score to settle with the Communists."

From R. L. BEALE To JOE HILL ... Goes TESCO Electrification Award

Electrification Award Is Given Coahoma FFA Group

The Coahoma High School chapter of the Future Farmers of America was presented with a check in the amount $150 by the Texas Electric Service Company at the chapter's regular meeting in the Coahoma Auditorium Tuesday evening. The presentation was made by R. L. (Jimmy) Beale manager of the Big Spring office of TESCO, and was received by Joe Hill for the chapter. Hill is the chapter president. This money will be used to send two chapter members to the FFA's next national convention, according to Wayne White, chapter advisor and instructor in Vocational Agriculture at the Coahoma school. The boys who will go to the convention, White said, are Hill and Wayne Davis. The award was for a chapter achievement in winning an electrification contest sponsored by TESCO in a number of area high schools. The winning of the contest was a chapter activity, it is explained, and not just the work of a few boys. In contesting for the award they engaged in a study of electrification, particularly in its application to modern farm life. The work of the chapter members, which brought them the top award in the area, White said, included the building of incubators; the building of electric table lamps in the school shop; the repairing of all types of electrical equipment, also in the shop; the installation of electric lights and other equipment in barns and caged-ben laying houses at the homes of the members, and other activity and study in the electrical field. The two who will attend the convention, White said, were selected on the basis of their chapter activity, and the parts they played in carrying on the electrical program at the school and in their homes throughout the contest period. Beale was accompanied at the FFA meeting by Leroy Olsak and W. B. Hardy, Jr., of the TESCO staff.

Two 'Roll-Away' Accidents Occur

Two freak "roll-away" accidents headed the list of traffic mishaps today, and a hit-and-run collision was reported to police Tuesday. Cars belonging to N. G. Barton, Midkiff, and O. W. Rackley, 1101 N. Gregg, apparently rolled from their parking places this morning into obstructions. Both went more than a block. Barton's car was parked at 703 Lancaster, he told officers, and it rolled into a house belonging to R. L. Penny at 610 Lancaster. The mishap occurred at 5:34 a.m. Shortly afterward, about 6 a.m., the car belonging to Rackley struck a telephone pole at Ninth and Gregg. The owner told officers he had parked the vehicle at the Nut Drive In and that it apparently rolled down the street. Mrs. Ed Heine, 15th and Eleventh Place, reported the hit-and-run collision about 4:20 p.m. yesterday. She told officers that a pickup truck struck her car in front of the high school. The truck was not stopped, she explained. Mrs. Heine said that several boys and girls of school age were riding in the truck. The right door and front fender of her car was damaged.

Assault Charges Due To Be Filed

A man being held in the county jail probably will be charged with aggravated assault as a result of an attack on his wife last night, sheriff's officers said. Deputies said the man "shot up the town." Two weapons, a 22-gauge automatic shotgun and a .22-calibre automatic rifle, were confiscated by the officers who arrested the man at his home near Webb Air Force Base about 11 p.m. Deputy Bobby West said a shotgun blast had penetrated a door in the house. He said the man's wife had been "whipped."

Investigator Hired To Try To Clear Sheppard In Death

CLEVELAND (U.P.)—Defense Atty. William J. Corrigan said yesterday a private investigator has been hired to find the killer of comely 31-year-old Marilyn Sheppard.

He declined to name the detective or say how long he has been at work.

The victim's husband, Dr. Samuel Sheppard, a handsome 30-year-old osteopath, is awaiting trial on a first-degree murder charge.

In a second attempt to free him on bail from county jail, Corrigan said he would subpoena "about half a dozen" witnesses when the request is heard in court later this week.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin set the trial hearing for Friday, but said he would postpone the hearing until Saturday if witnesses were brought in. No postponement has yet been made.

The accused osteopath has maintained he suffered injuries while fighting the man who killed his wife July 4.

South Carolina Demo Factions In Senate Feud

COLUMBIA, S.C. (U.P.)—Former Gov. J. Strom Thurmond's written entry into the U.S. Senate race in South Carolina today fanned a factional fight among state Democrats.

Thurmond led the split in the Democratic party when he ran for President on the States Right ticket in 1948. He will oppose State Sen. Edgar A. Brown, who helped keep the state in the party fold in 1952. Thurmond supported Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

Brown was named by the State Executive Committee to run for the seat vacant since the death of Sen. Burnet R. Maybank last Wednesday. Maybank had been renominated in the June Democratic primary. There is no Republican candidate.

In traditionally Democratic South Carolina nomination spells election, but when the state committee named Brown as the candidate, claiming that time did not permit a primary, opposition arose.

After Brown was announced as the party candidate, Gov. James F. Byrnes, who supported President Eisenhower in 1952, appointed Charles E. Daniel, a construction firm president, to the unexpired term which ends Jan. 2. It was Daniel's debut in politics.

There was no comment from Byrnes or Brown on Thurmond's announcement.

Thurmond, governor from 1947-51, was defeated for the Senate by Sen. Olin D. Johnston in 1950.

South Carolina election laws require that ballots have write-in space.

Brown, considered strong in state politics, is national Democratic committeeman.

Woman, Now 100, Still Keeps House

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. (U.P.)—Mrs. Andrea Glaras is celebrating her 100th birthday today. And tomorrow she may be doing the family wash.

Mrs. Glaras keeps house for her son John, a 65-year old widower. For years she has done all the household jobs.

She was born Sept. 8, 1854 in Bergrove Tripolous, Greece. She hasn't any advice for persons wishing to live to be 100.

"It's up to God how long you live," she told well-wishers.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Natives of Guatemala at center for chicle.

The subject of chewing gum brings back several memories to me. While I was in seventh grade, my teacher made this statement to the class:

"It is all right if you chew gum, provided that you do the chewing inside your room."

My teacher felt that a person, while chewing gum, made a sight which was far from pleasant. At the present time, some girls and women refuse to chew gum in public because they think that this would hurt their "looks." Others seem to have little, if any, thought on this point.

One of my university classmates made this somewhat amusing statement:

"In my home there was a strict rule against the chewing of gum. Once a year, however, my mother used to take my sisters and myself to a park. On that day we could chew to our heart's content. Each of us had three or four packages of gum, and we would chew several sticks at a time. What long strings of gum we used to pull from our mouths!"

The gum-chewing custom, or habit, is less widespread in Canada than in the United States. The United States, in fact, is the world's chief gum-chewing country. Present-day gum is made mainly from chicle, but there was a time when spruce gum was most popular. A sticky substance called resin comes from various trees, including the spruce. Resin can be chewed for an hour at a stretch, if a person wants to keep it in his mouth that long.

The tamarack was one of the other trees which supplied chewing gum, but a big change came about. Tropical forests in Latin America were tapped, and tons of chicle were gathered and sent to the United States.

Chicle is a material, almost like rubber. It is taken from sapodilla trees, many of which grow in Central America.

The chicle is treated in various ways, and flavors are added. Mint is the most common flavoring. Peppermint and wintergreen are other flavors.

With the rise of the chewing gum custom, there has been a fall in the chewing of tobacco. Surely it is "cleaner" to chew gum than tobacco!

Runaway Children Return Home From Outdoors Stay

SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—A 13-year-old boy and his 9-year-old sister, whose Japanese stepmother was described as a "timid soul who cannot punish children," are home after a week of outdoor living in San Francisco's parks.

Ronaldo and Clarinda Couturier, children of Army W. O. Eugene A. Couturier, were taken home by police yesterday. They had run away a week ago, just a day before Couturier came home from Korea on emergency leave.

The children had run away earlier in August and their stepmother, Mrs. Iko Couturier, called her husband home.

The youngsters spent last week sleeping in parks, eating with newfound friends, and avoiding searching policemen.

"We played on the swings in the parks during the day and climbed trees," the boy said. "At night, we'd sleep under the bushes. It got pretty cold."

Now and then someone would give Clarinda a quarter or a dime, and they would buy candy bars.

They ate at the homes of playmates, whose parents thought they were neighborhood children.

Couturier said his wife, whom he married in Japan after the children's mother died, is "a timid soul."

"I guess Ronaldo took advantage of her. Japanese mothers discipline their children with persuasion and kindness and never hurt them."

"I want to talk to the kids and find out what the story is. We got along fine before this, and we're going to straighten it all out."

Old North Church Given Significant Post Office Box

BOSTON (U.P.)—The Boston post office today made available to the Old North Church the historically significant Box No. 1776 for the collection of funds to replace the hurricane-felled steeple.

Frederick Kimball, clerk of the Lantern League, sponsor of the $150,000 campaign, said he expects many history-minded persons to point out that the famous lanterns were hung from the Old North steeple for Paul Revere in 1775, not 1776.

"We are well aware of this," he said, "but Box 1775 already belongs to someone else."

He added: "The year 1776 is probably better known anyway as the year of independence."

In Bermuda, cars more than five years old may not be sold for operation on public roads.

MISTER BREGER

Mustang Mentors

These men are guiding the Andrews Mustangs in preparation for the football game with the Big Spring Steers Friday night. The contest, to be unrec'd in Andrews, will be the season's opener for both teams. Andrews coaches, left to right, are Vernon Johnson, J. D. Partridge, Glenn Frazier, Max Goldsmith and Don Orr.

Middlecoff Is Favorite At Odessa Tourney

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., star of the PGA tournament trail, was the favorite today as top golfers moved into Odessa for the $7,500 pro-amateur.

The tournament opens tomorrow with the team of Middlecoff and Don Cherry, the crooner from New York, rated the hottest in the field.

Middlecoff played a 9-hole practice round yesterday and had a 6-under-29 with a hole-in-one on the 173-yard sixth hole and an eagle on the par five seventh over the Odessa Country Club course, Cherry, playing with Middlecoff, shot a 30.

Tommy Bolt, another tournament star, is supposed to play in the pro-amateur but hasn't shown up yet and it isn't known if he's coming.

Well-rated duos in the tournament are Billy Maxwell, Odessa, and Rex Baxter, Amarillo; Doug Higgins and Ernie Vossler, Fort Worth; Buster Cupit and Bobby Cupit, Dallas; E. J. Harrison, St. Louis; and Bobby French, Odessa; Bo Winger, Oklahoma City, and Don January, Dallas; Abe Beckman and Wendy Green, Midland; Loddie Kalpa, Kansas City, and Bobby Malone, Fort Worth; Chuck Klein, San Antonio, and Ben Barrow, Odessa; Labron Harris, Stillwater, Okla., and Joe Waiser, Oklahoma A&M, and Jack Hardin, El Paso, and Billy Erfurth, Lubbock.

The tournament is a 72-hole medal play affair and will run through Sunday.

Andrews To Meet Unknown Tonight

CHICAGO — Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N.Y., with an eye on light heavyweight champion Archie Moore's crown, meets unknown Bobby Hughes tonight in a nationally televised 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium.

Andrews, 24, sporting 28 victories in 31 fights—half by knockouts—disposed of Danny Nardico in four rounds in his last Chicago appearance June 23.

Hughes, a 26-year-old from Warren, Ohio, who has kayed 14 of his last 17 opponents, will be making his first appearance before the TV cameras. He has had 35 fights, winning 22.

The fight will be telecast at 9 p.m., EST, by CBS.

QBE Set To Promote Procession Into Andrews

Quarterback Club members are appealing to fans to join a caravan on the outskirts of Andrews Friday evening just before the Steers open against Andrews.

Jack Y. Smith, co-captain of the club, said that plans called for Big Spring cars to hold up on the eastern outskirts of Andrews at 7:20 p.m. Friday.

The Andrews sheriff will furnish an escort through the city and to the stadium, where the game gets under way at 8:15 p.m.

"We decided against a motorcade to Andrews because of the dangers involved," Smith said. "It will be much safer for each car to travel its normal speed to that city and then assemble for the procession through town."

Indications are that there will be several hundred cars from Big Spring making the 60-mile trip to Andrews for the opening game.

At the regular weekly meeting, held Tuesday evening in the senior high study hall, new emphasis was placed upon securing additional members.

At the present time, the club needs 1,400 more to reach its goal of $3,000. The membership fee is $1 and proceeds are used to finance the club activities. Included is the taking of 16 mm movies of all the games. These are projected at the club meetings and are made available to the coaching staff for play analysis.

Texans' Track Plans Hit California Snags

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The efforts of Texas oil millionaires Clint Murchison and Sid Richardson to operate their Del Mar race track for charity has run into opposition from California legislators.

"I can't see that it's good for racing operators to hide behind charity," Sen. Clarence Ward of San Mateo said yesterday at a hearing of the California Interim subcommittee on horse racing.

Attorneys for Murchison and Richardson outlined the plan through which the Texans proposed to use most of the profits of the track to fight juvenile delinquency.

Texas Is Solid Favorite; Baylor, Rice Rate Next

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—Texas is the most overwhelming favorite in 40 years of Southwest Conference football but since nobody has offered to forfeit, Coach Ed Price is preparing to play the season out.

The fact that only about once in five does the favorite come through in this rough-and-tumble league leaves hope for the other six members.

Texas is two and three deep in veterans at all positions and has everything it takes to win not only the championship of the conference but to make a big splash nationally. The Longhorns have a schedule that could bring No. 1 rating or it might wreck Price's hopes of winning or tying for the title three times in four years of head coaching.

Texas opens the season next week against Louisiana State at Austin. Then come Notre Dame, Washington State and Oklahoma before the conference strife.

Baylor, although chock full of sophomores, and Rice, with a modicum of the powerful line that swept Alabama in the Cotton Bowl, are rated the best chances of overturning the Longhorns' chuk wagging.

Baylor's sophomores, to go with 11 solid veterans, are about the best first-year men the Golden Bears ever have had. They feature the finest passer to come out of Texas high school football in years—Doyle Traylor—and a center named Bill Glass, who already has beaten out a letterman, James Ray Smith, an All-America possibility, anchors a well-built line.

Rice pins its hopes on one of its classiest backfields, Dicky Moege, sensation of the Cotton Bowl, is back stronger and bigger. He showed what's to come in the first Owl scrimmage when he ran for four touchdowns without half-trying. Rice has plenty of top backs to go with him, too, and enough good men who got to play behind the mighty 1933 line return to indicate the Owls won't be pushed around much defensively.

Woody Woodard, in his second year as coach at Southern Methodist, has a team that should be considerably stronger. It features the greatest running attack that can be recalled on the hilltop and a tough, capable line. Duane Nutt, an excellent passer, is the man under the T.

Paul (Bear) Bryant, who came from Kentucky to try to rebuild Texas A&M into a power, is talking gloomily, but he has 15 lettermen and should have a strong running game. His line looks good, what there is of it. The Aggies aren't very deep.

Texas Christian might match its schedule with any team in the country—Kansas, Oklahoma, Southern California and Penn—and it has the youngest squad in its history to play it with. There are a dozen lettermen but not too many of them are backs.

Ronnie Clinkscale, a senior who runs like a rabbit and is a top-drawer passer, is keyman of the team. Arkansas could use a good tailback and it has to go among its numerous sophomores to get one. There's not much veteran strength in the ranks of the Razorbacks but Arkansas has one mighty fine back, Henry Moore, who can run with the best of them, and his line revolves around Bud Brooks, a guard who's a top prospect for all-conference.

Texas is due to do more passing this year than last and it has the guys who can do it, too. The most notable is Charley Brewer, junior quarterback, who heads what could be the finest backfield in the league with what Billy Quinn, the 1932 sophomore sensation, back in running form. Quinn was hampered by injuries all last season. There are 23 lettermen in Longhornville, the line is mighty and the backfield should run like sixty.

Stons also can play fullback or left half, but he's likely to see most service at halfback because the fullback job should be taken care of by letterman Mac Taylor. Taylor did a good job of filling in for injured Koss Johnson in the Cotton Bowl. He is backed by two big, hard-running sophomores—Jerry Hall, 1933 squadman, and sophomore Mack Throckmorton.

At ends, there is little experience but a good looking crop of newcomers. The one real veteran, Marshall Crawford, junior letterman, should be one of the league's best. Crawford will start at right end, while Lamonte Holland will be at left end. Other end candidates are sophomores with Jim Peters, John Held, Jim Briggs and 200-pound Bob Woodbright among the brighter prospects. Two of the 1933 ends, Don Costa and R. E. Wortham, have been shifted to guard.

Line coach Joe Davis must develop replacements for such terrific men as Dick Chapman, Len Rucka, John Hudson and Max Schuebel. The picture isn't entirely dark. There are lettermen available from tackle to tackle, most of whom will rate promotions from last year's No. 2 line. Among the standouts are 2-year letterman senior tackle Layton Coleman, 210-pounder; letterman guard Lew Harpold; rugged Don Watson, 215-pound junior center; Latson Cox, 225-pound tackle, and a squadman tackle who may beat out Cox for the starting job in 220-pound Eddie Reysburn.

In the backfield, the outlook is quite good. Moege may provide Rice with the finest running back in league history. His great play near the season's end when he ran for 201 yards against Arkansas, had a brilliant pass catch and the season's longest touchdown run (81 yards) against Baylor, and stormed to 205 yards against Alabama in the Cotton Bowl stamp this 19-year-old boy for greatness. He also is a fine pass-receiver, top-notch defensive man and probably will do the kicking.

RICE STILL DANGEROUS DESPITE GREEN TEAM

(This is the first in a series discussing Southwest Conference football prospects.)

HOUSTON (AP)—Jess Neely begins his fifteenth season as coach or Rice—more years than the rest of the Southwest Conference's coaches combined—and he and his varsity aides average 25 years as grid teachers. Unfortunately, the Rice players aren't as experienced as their tutors, so the Owls aren't rated the title favorite role they held this time last year.

While Texas is the biggest pre-season favorite in conference history, you can't write off Rice. Any club with that much coaching savvy and a break-up-the-game runner like Dicky Moege is dangerous.

Sixteen lettermen of last year's conference co-champions who whipped Alabama in the Cotton Bowl have finished their eligibility. But 13 lettermen are back, along with eight squadmen who saw some game duty, so it won't be an entirely green outfit.

The biggest replacement problems are in the line where just one starter—all-conference Kenny Paul—returns. He's little, as line-men go (just 190) but Paul will adequately take care of the right guard post.

Other end candidates are sophomores with Jim Peters, John Held, Jim Briggs and 200-pound Bob Woodbright among the brighter prospects. Two of the 1933 ends, Don Costa and R. E. Wortham, have been shifted to guard.

Line coach Joe Davis must develop replacements for such terrific men as Dick Chapman, Len Rucka, John Hudson and Max Schuebel. The picture isn't entirely dark. There are lettermen available from tackle to tackle, most of whom will rate promotions from last year's No. 2 line. Among the standouts are 2-year letterman senior tackle Layton Coleman, 210-pounder; letterman guard Lew Harpold; rugged Don Watson, 215-pound junior center; Latson Cox, 225-pound tackle, and a squadman tackle who may beat out Cox for the starting job in 220-pound Eddie Reysburn.

In the backfield, the outlook is quite good. Moege may provide Rice with the finest running back in league history. His great play near the season's end when he ran for 201 yards against Arkansas, had a brilliant pass catch and the season's longest touchdown run (81 yards) against Baylor, and stormed to 205 yards against Alabama in the Cotton Bowl stamp this 19-year-old boy for greatness. He also is a fine pass-receiver, top-notch defensive man and probably will do the kicking.

At quarterback, senior letterman Atchley Proctor and junior letterman Finky Nisbet are battling for the first string berth, with soph Phil Harris good insurance at the post. Moege's understudy at left half is Page Rogers. At right half, Gordon Kellogg returns after starting most of last season. Pushing him is letterman Morris Stone, went out early last season with an injury, and chunky junior Mendel Lavigne, a spring training sensation.

Stons also can play fullback or left half, but he's likely to see most service at halfback because the fullback job should be taken care of by letterman Mac Taylor. Taylor did a good job of filling in for injured Koss Johnson in the Cotton Bowl. He is backed by two big, hard-running sophomores—Jerry Hall, 1933 squadman, and sophomore Mack Throckmorton.

At ends, there is little experience but a good looking crop of newcomers. The one real veteran, Marshall Crawford, junior letterman, should be one of the league's best. Crawford will start at right end, while Lamonte Holland will be at left end. Other end candidates are sophomores with Jim Peters, John Held, Jim Briggs and 200-pound Bob Woodbright among the brighter prospects. Two of the 1933 ends, Don Costa and R. E. Yanks Go On Road, Indians Stay Home

By BEN PHEOGAR

The world champion New York Yankees go West today. Barring miracles, they will be ex-champs by the time they get home.

Not since the last century has a band of Yankees headed into Indian territory with such a faint chance of survival.

The Yankees play 11 of their remaining 17 games on this tour of Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Philadelphia. They now trail Cleveland by 4½ lengths.

While the Yankee covered wagon grinds around the circuit for the last time, the Indians will be happily ensconced in their wigwam on the banks of the sky blue waters, clipping off their foes one by one.

The big battle, which might go down in history as Casey's Last Stand, is set for Sunday when the Yankee caravan reaches Cleveland for a double-header.

The Yankees can't be eliminated positively until after that engagement.

Manager Stengel is gambling right at the start with Tommy Byrne tonight in Baltimore, which according to American League geography, is west.

A wild man in his previous stints in the majors, Byrne was bought from Seattle last week in a desperation move. Tonight is his first start.

While the Cleveland Tribe stays home, that other bunch of wild Indians, the Milwaukee Braves, heads East in a lightning foray after the National League title.

The best road club in either league, the Braves open their 12-game tour in Pittsburgh trailing the league-leading New York Giants by 4½ games with 19 to play.

The trip includes Friday and Saturday games against the Brooklyn Dodgers, who are in third place and still are trying to find out how it happened, and a three-game set next week in the Polo Grounds starting Tuesday night.

The Giants picked up an important half game last night in an 11-inning thriller at Philadelphia, where they shaded the Phillies, 3-1. Only one other game was played in the majors. Washington edged Philadelphia, 5-4, before a gathering of 460 fans, the smallest crowd ever to attend a game at Washington's Griffith Stadium.

Monte Irvin followed two walks with a double to the right field fence for two New York runs in the 11th. Davey Williams walked to start the inning and moved to second on a sacrifice. Curt Simmons struck out pinch hitter Eric Roden and walked Willie Mays intentionally, bringing up Irvin.

The Giants had scored a run in the second and Granny Hamner tied it with his 13th homer in the eighth. Simmons gave up only six hits in losing. Ruben Gomez, with help from Hoyt Wilhelm when the Phillies loaded the bases in the 11th, picked up his 14th victory.

The Giants are back home today for a two-game series with Chicago, followed by two each with Cincinnati and St. Louis before the Milwaukee invasion.

The Dodgers, at home, entertain their remaining 17 games, entertain St. Louis tonight in the first of two games.

Developed the great Jim Thorpe and Charles (Chief) Bender, old-time baseball pitching great.

Today men who had known him in all stages of his career had added their bit to the record of the illustrious coach.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, one of the all-time football greats himself, who still is active at 92 as advisory coach at Stockton College, said: "Pop was a great leader in football and one of the excellent creators. He was not just a coach but helped develop part of the game."

Funeral services, under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge, will be held tomorrow at 3 p.m. here. The body will be returned to Springville for burial.

Brooklyn Wonders What Happened In Title Race

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN (AP)—Now that the Brooklyn Dodgers have all but given up any hope of winning the National League pennant, the time has come to ask two questions:

1. What caused the downfall of a club that was virtually conceded the flag before the start of the season?

2. What's in store for rookie

Manager Walt Alton? The answer, briefly to the first—if you care to listen to those closest to the club—is a combination of injuries and players not living up to expectations.

To the second: no one knows, not even President Walter O'Malley.

"There is a ready explanation of why the Dodgers are in third place and not first place," O'Malley said, "you cannot blame the manager for it. He is not responsible for Roy Campanella's hand injury; for Carl Furillo's slump; for the loss of Johnny Podres for six weeks; for Carl Erskine's failure to live up to 1933; for the lack of respectable pitching from Don Newcombe and for Preacher Roe's almost total ineffectiveness."

Well, then, will Alton be retained next year?

"We are not making any announcement about it until our usual time," answered O'Malley. "We will go into it after the season is over. This certainly is no time to discuss the matter."

Group Is To Start Classes At 5 A.M.

OXNARD, Calif. (AP)—The Oxnard Evening High School plans classes at the crack of dawn.
Reason: A group of businessmen wanting to learn Spanish couldn't agree on an evening class time. A morning hour was suggested.
"I told them that if they were crazy enough to want to go to school early in the morning I'd be foolish enough to teach them," said Police Capt. Robert J. Hinnostro, the instructor.
So, starting next Tuesday, the businessmen will attend classes Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7 a.m.

Commie Leader Invites Laborites

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikolai Schvernik, president of the Soviet Union under Stalin and now head of the nation's trade unions, has invited British labor men to visit Russia.

The invitation was sent by telegram yesterday to the British Trades Union Congress. The move was part of the Russian campaign to woo Britain, especially her workers and the Labor party, to friendship with the Soviet Union.

Schvernik said discussions between the trade unions of the two countries could lead to prohibition of hydrogen and atomic weapons as well as collective security.

Labor Secretary Says Outlook Good

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell foresees a "levelling off" of the economy, "then an upturn" and says "economists have told me that unemployment should decrease this fall."

In an interview yesterday, Mitchell said the United States has "gone through the mildest contraction of the economy that we ever had in a post war period."

There are 62 million employed, Mitchell said, with 3,300,000 unemployed.

Of the Pittsburgh district, Mitchell said "you have special problems here because of the concentration in coal and steel. But I do not look for the situation to get worse in this area."

Missouri Thinks Polio Patient Is Youngest

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—St. Francis Hospital here has what is believed to be the youngest polio patient in the United States.

Judy Ann Ponder, who was born Aug. 21, was admitted to the hospital with the disease yesterday. She became ill two days before.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ponder of Cape Girardeau.

Corns Prove Handy

BALTIMORE (AP)—Charles A. Daukant's "big feet and corns" saved him from a stiff fine on a drunken driving charge.

In Police Court yesterday, a policeman testified that after stopping Daukant at an intersection, he smelled alcohol on the motorist's breath and that he staggered noticeably.

Daukant admitted having "three beers," but said the

Laugh Turns Awry

ENID, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Irene Ehrlich enjoyed a laugh at the expense of a fellow teacher with four Larrys in a class at El Reno, Okla.

That was before she sat down to call the roll in her own classroom at North Enid Elementary School yesterday.

Mrs. Ehrlich found that she not only has five Larrys but three Stephens as well.

Kansas Firm Fined On Hot Oil Charges

EL PASO (AP)—The Lario Oil and Gas Co. of Wichita, Kan., was under federal court order today to pay $19,800 fines on guilty pleas to 33 charges of hot oil violations.

The concern operates in Ector County, Tex. Its officials pleaded guilty to charges of sending 25,723 barrels of contraband oil through a pipeline to Cushing, Okla.

Throng Attends Field Day Event On Farm At Potosi

ABILENE (SC)—More than 1,000 visitors attended the farm and ranch field day held southeast of here Tuesday on the farm of Sam Bream, Jr., 2 1/2 miles north of Potosi.

The event was sponsored by the Abilene Reporter-News and was described as that newspaper's first annual field day.

Cooperating with the Reporter-News were the Soil Conservation Service, implement and fertilizer dealers, the REA, the Agriculture Department of Abilene Christian College, and others. The visitors included farmers, ranchers, business and professional men and women, instructors in vocational agriculture, county agents and others.

Dinner was served on the grounds at noon by the Home Demonstration clubs refreshment booths were open during the entire day.

Major demonstrations included legumes, grasses, terrace building, soil fertility and range management. There was no cotton demonstration on the agenda.

The day's guest speaker was O. F. Armstrong of Abilene, field planning engineer for the State Soil Conservation Board. Armstrong spoke in the place of Paul Walser of Temple, who had earlier accepted a place on the program but who suffered a heart attack Saturday.

The grass demonstration, as distinguished from that on range management, placed emphasis on the value of cultivated grasses such as Blue Panic and Sudan, with preference to the Blue Panic, in any all around ranching or farming program. This demonstration was in charge of James Clifton of Anson and Randall Reeves of Sweetwater, both technicians with the SCS. The legume and soil fertility demonstrations were led by Keith Justice and F. M. Churchill of ACC's Department of Agriculture, and the legume discussion was in charge of Charles Hewitt of the Stamford SCS unit.

Ed N. Wisbenkamper, the Reporter-News managing editor, was the day's master of ceremonies. He was assisted by Bob Cooke and Duane Howell of the newspaper's agricultural staff.

Large chair-filled tents were erected by the sponsors and some of the exhibitors where visitors could rest in the shade. Giant coolers of ice water were on hand at all times and the refreshments were kept cold in electric boxes made possible when the REA ran a line to the scene of the field day especially for that purpose.

During the day implement dealers gave demonstrations of all approved mechanical practices, such as deep plowing, stubble mulching, terrace building, plowing and others.

The crops used in the demonstrations were planted particularly for the purpose, it was explained.

Through arrangements between the sponsoring newspaper and the farm owner, no rain had fallen on the Beam place since May, the visitors were told.

Justice, in conducting the soil fertility demonstration, placed emphasis on the need for soil analysis and explained how samples for these must be taken and how they are made in the ACC laboratory.

The SCS was represented in the project by Jim Luminie, area conservationist, and J. B. Harlan, work unit conservationist, both of Abilene.
