2 More Steel Firms Set For Wage Parley

PITTSBURGH (U)—Two more of the "Big Six" basic steel producers lined up their top bargainers today to find out how much of a wage increase the CIO United Steelworkers want.

USW President David J. McDonald continued to head the union negotiators as they took their demands to Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

McDonald has personally directed all negotiating sessions since they began Tuesday in sessions with U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer. The union has announced it is seeking a sizeable wage increase but has given no indication of what it considers reasonable.

Government Union Leaders Meet In Britain

LONDON (U)—Union and government negotiators met for two hours today in their first full talks to end Britain's crippling 12-day-old rail strike and then adjourned until tomorrow.

Informed sources said, the two sides traded views and the adjournment does not mean any breakdown.

Hopes stayed high for a quick end to the strike, which has slowed the nation's industrial boom. Some London newspapers said it might come within 48 hours.

Despite these hopes, however, Jim Baty, leader of the striking Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, told newsmen after the meeting:

"Nothing of a material kind has developed to date."

The peace talks began at the Ministry of Labor minutes after Queen Elizabeth II warned in a speech opening Parliament of "the grave situation created by the interruption of the railway services."

The 67,000 strikers of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen were represented by their Executive Council. On the other side was the British Transport Commission, managers of the state-owned railways.

The Labor Ministry assigned Sir Alfred Neden, its chief mediator, as chairman.

No comment from the 20 drivers sticking to more formal wear.

Yank Jive Digs Into Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (U)—Dixieland music has penetrated so far into Communist Yugoslavia that you can hear jive with a drive three nights a week in a Belgrade dive.

The citadel of Yugoslav jazz is devoted almost exclusively to American music — is a dance hall called October 20th in memory of the day the Red armies of Russia and Yugoslavia liberated Belgrade.

The lively scene there is something to behold.

Down at one end of a low-ceilinged room is a five-piece band equipped with the traditional instruments — piano, drums, brass, clarinet.

Texas Hit By Chain Of Violent Thunderstorms

TRANSPORT FIRM'S BUILDING FALLS Winds pile roof on trucks parked in garage

Crop-Killing Sandstorm Grinds Over Area; Lamesa Man Killed

A crop-killing sandstorm ground across the area Wednesday afternoon, firing a lightning bolt that killed a Lamesa man and wrecking an oil transport terminal building in Big Spring.

The sand front arrived in Big Spring at 4:25 p.m. on a gust of wind clocked at 55 miles per hour at Webb Air Force Base. Visibility dropped immediately to an eighth of a mile.

Storm clouds which rode on the front wet sidewalks and set off the lightning bolt that killed R. S. Huddle near Lamesa.

Huddle, 36, was killed instantly as he pointed his tractor toward his farm home just west of Lamesa. At Hale Center, Earl Rogers, 54, also was struck by lightning and was killed "as he worked on his tractor in a field."

The winds tore down the garage portion of the Oil Transport Company's installation just northeast of Big Spring on the Snyder Highway. Three trucks were damaged, but no one was injured.

At Lake J. B. Thomas the high winds, estimated in excess of 60 mph, smashed a boat belonging to the Colorado River Municipal Water District. It had been moored to the side of an oil well mound and winds banged it against the rip-rap as though it were an egg. O. H. Ivie, production engineer, said that as soon as the approaching storm was sighted, he ordered the barge, which was unloading stone on the mound, to the south side of the man-made island. Before the order could be executed fully the gale struck. Ivie was enroute from the mainland to the mound and at a distance of less than 25 yards he said it was impossible to see the barge and

Within thirty minutes to an hour yesterday afternoon possibly half the county's cotton and feed crop was buried under blowing sand or burned by peeting sand grains.

The sandstorm was the most damaging of the year—did far more damage than the two bad ones a few months ago. This time most of the fields had been planted and much of the crops were up to a good stand.

Hardly a community escaped damage, although the Valley View community in Martin County suffered little loss. Walker Bailey said he lost only a few acres and that neighboring fields also escaped damage. East of his farm in the Hartwells Community he said it looked as if some fields suffered a total loss.

The damage wasn't confined to this area but reached across several counties.

Around Fairview, farmers were hit heavily. Northwest of Fairview the deep breaking that A. J. Pirkle had done really paid dividends, because he lost only five or six acres. Pirkle has one of the sandiest farms in the county but he had broken it 18 to 20 inches deep, besides having a good stubble when it was listed.

The damage wasn't confined to this area but reached across several counties.

Another bargaining session was scheduled for early afternoon.

Meanwhile, scattered walkouts of both GM and Ford workers across the nation were subsiding, although about 25,000 GM workers and 5,000 Ford workers were reported still idle.

Lockheed Cops Bid On Turboprop Design

LOS ANGELES (U)—Lockheed Aircraft Corp. has won a $5-million-dollar contract with its design for the first commercial turboprop transport to be built in the United States.

The contract is for the design and development of a turboprop transport aircraft with a capacity of 40 to 50 passengers.

The aircraft is expected to be completed by late 1956 or early 1957.

The Lockheed turboprop transport is designed to be a low-cost, high-speed aircraft for short-haul routes.

The Lockheed turboprop transport is expected to be a major competitor of the Boeing 737 and the Douglas DC-9.

Rain, Dust Linger Over Wide Areas

Abilene had the heaviest rainfall total for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m., with 2.05 inches.

Heavy rains in North Texas—including 1.29 at Carrollton and Denton, 1.75 at Muenster, 1.01 at McKinney, 1.50 at Denton and 1.60 at Silled—meant welcome increases in the amount of water stored in the lakes that supply water for Fort Worth, Dallas and surrounding communities.

Tornado reports flew thick and fast for a time, but there were no reports of the dread funnels touching the ground despite two alerts from the Weather Bureau.

Thick dust swirled with the squall line and San Angelo reported its worst duster in the memory of old settlers. Thick dust at Sweetwater caused 10 automobiles and a truck to smash together, injuring four persons.

Most of the Wednesday weather violence was in a vast area that extended from the Oklahoma line to Waco and west to the San Angelo-Midland-Odessa section.

Although the combined damage probably was heavy, rains up to 4 inches in some places were valuable for refilling reservoirs and building up depleted subterranean moisture.

Area by area, here's what the most widespread storms of the year did:

Camp Walters. Any injuries were minor, Col. Riley W. Harris of Camp Walters said.

Fort Worth-Dallas: The dust-wind-rain pattern was followed in the Fort Worth and Dallas section. Dallas rainfall reached as high as 1.15 inches with an official report of .97 inch.

Lubbock: A wall of dust swept through the city, followed by .49 inch of rain in 20 minutes and a total of .50 inch for the storm.

Shamrock: Lightning struck a transformer near the 4-room home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Oldham, 18 miles south of Shamrock. It set the house afire and the home burned down. The couple was in a neighbor's cellar at the time.

Mineral Wells: Awnings were ripped from buildings, trees uprooted and roofs damaged. The wind picked up chairs from the Baker Hotel swimming pool and tossed them across the street.

Seymour: The mercury dropped 28 degrees in three hours—from 92 to 64, rainfall 1.06 inches. At Red Springs, west of Seymour, rain measured 2.65 inches.

Ranger: A tornado dipped near a field about a mile south but did no damage. It hit about 4:10 p.m. Eastland: Winds measured 75 m.p.h. on the anemometer at Radio Station KERC. Rain totaling 1.10 inches pounded Eastland in an hour and slacked off.

EDEN'S PARLIAMENT FACES CRITICAL PROBLEM Barges cart cargoes from docks in Bristol, England

Queen Opens Parliament Under Shadow Of Crippling Rail Strike

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II opened a new session of Parliament today under the shadow of Britain's gravest industrial crisis since the general strike of 1926. After only a passing reference to the crippling 12-day-old national railroad strike, she pledged the vast resources of the Commonwealth to the cause of peace. She stressed that in all efforts Britain "will continue to work in close accord with the United States."

pageantry of the ceremony was reduced at this Parliament opening. Because of the rail strike, the Queen rode to Westminster in a car instead of the usual slow horse-drawn state coach. There was no colorful escort of troops lining the route from Buckingham Palace to the Parliament Building.

Rioting Prisoners File Out

Part of the 50 prisoners who riot at the St. Louis, Mo., workhouse file out of their cell block quietly, hands atop their heads, after police quelled the disturbance with tear gas. A fire hose lays stretched across the floor.

List Of Americans Held By Red China Drops From Original 23

Once the Communists said there were 23 American soldiers captured in the Korean War who refused to go home after the armistice.

The list is dwindling. Two since have returned. Two more are reported wanting to get home soon. At least six others have signified in letters a desire to return at some future time. One has died.

That accounts for almost half of them.

Two returned from Korea before their 21 companions left for Red China with promises of education and good jobs.

First to come back was Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, of Big Stone Gap, Va., on Oct. 20, 1953. He's now serving a 10-year term in an Army stockade at New Cumberland, Pa. An Army court-martial convicted him of informing on other prisoners.

The other, Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, Kermit, Tex., yielded to the written persuasions of his Japanese wife. He was given a life sentence by court-martial on similar charges but it later was reduced to 20 years. He came back Dec. 31, 1953.

Letters to relatives indicate that two more now want to return from Red China. They are Cpl. Otto G. Bell, Olympia, Wash., and Cpl. Lewis W. Griggs, Jacksonville, Tex. Both are believed to be in South China or going there soon.

A letter from Bell to his wife suggested he would have tried to return sooner but he believed that Dickenson and Batchelor were executed.

The Chinese Red Cross notified relatives of Sgt. Rufus O. Douglas, San Angelo, Tex., June 15, 1954, that he had died the week before of "a rheumatic heart disorder with complications." His aunt, Mrs. R. C. Howard, of Texon, Tex., said he never had heart trouble and "I think the complications were caused by them—the Reds."

Six others once had written relatives they wanted to return home, but that was before they announced they were refusing repatriation. Some of the six still may harbor that wish. They are:

Sgt. Albert C. Belhomme, Ashland, Pa.; Sgt. Scott L. Rush, Marietta, Ohio; Pvt. James G. Veneris, Hawthorne, Calif.; Sgt. Harold H. Webb, Fort Pierce and Jacksonville, Fla.; Pfc. Morris R. Willis, Fort Ann, N.Y., and Cpl. William A. Cowart, Monticello, Ark.

The prisoners still in Red China are:

Cpl. Clarence C. Adams, Memphis, Tenn. His mother Mrs. Gladys Peoples said he was deeply religious and must have been tricked.

Sgt. Howard G. Adams, Corsicana, Tex.

Sgt. Richard G. Corden, East Providence, R. I. He was quoted by Peiping radio April 30, 1954, as saying Red China's industrial progress "fills me with inspiration and great affection for the Chinese people."

Cpl. John R. Dunn, Baltimore.

Pfc. Samuel David Hawkins, Oklahoma City. A letter last November said he was studying world politics at Peiping University.

Cpl. Arlie H. Pate, Carbondale, Ill., whose father Howard Pate has said, "When he comes to his senses, we want him to come back like he always wanted to and help me on the farm."

Cpl. Lowell D. Skinner, Akron, Ohio, whose mother Mrs. Brady Skinner believes "either malaria or some terrible illness has weakened his mind."

Sgt. Lawrence V. Sullivan, Omaha, whose father Ralph Sullivan said "he would have to be mentally deranged" to make the choice to stay.

Pfc. Richard R. Tenneson, Aiden, Minn., whose mother Mrs. Portia M. Howe flew to Tokyo in a vain effort to try to persuade him to come home. Last December he wrote he was working in a paper factory south of Peiping.

Cpl. William C. White, Plummerville, Ark., son of Mrs. Mattie Gorman.

Cpl. Aaron P. Wilson, Urania, La.

Spellman Sees Nazi Rebirth In Argentina

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman says recent anti-Catholic measures in Argentina suggest a renaissance of nazism, accompanied by a strange hidden influence.

The Roman Catholic archbishop of New York told a Fordham University graduating class yesterday that it "now appears that a new curtain of tyranny is descending on our blessed American atmosphere and blighting the Argentine."

Cardinal Spellman said persecution "might have been expected" in an avowedly atheistic or openly anti-religious country, and added: "But when this violent outbreak occurs in a nation such as Argentina, whose populace and whose government have been traditionally and predominantly Catholic, there must be hidden somewhere a strange influence."

A year ago, the prelate said, Argentine President Juan D. Peron "stated that he considered himself a Catholic and a servant of the doctrine of Christ."

Cardinal Spellman said "the rapid sequence of amazing events occurring in a Catholic country with a systematically organized program of violence against the bishops and clergy and the imprisonment of many of the religious and clergy who dared to criticize the ruling party and its leaders . . . suggest a renaissance of nazism in the Argentine."

The cardinal designated Sunday, July 3, as a day of special prayer and general communion "for all the suffering peoples behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains."

He urged Catholics in his archdiocese to pray "in a special way for the bishops, priests, religious and laity of the Argentine, where persecution has now broken out in this our New World."

Catholics Move Indoors Following Peron Police Ban

BUEENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's embattled Roman Catholic authorities have moved their annual Corpus Christi procession indoors following a police ban on the annual outdoor ceremony.

Church sources said last night the annual procession honoring the Eucharist would be held Saturday in Metropolitan Cathedral instead of in Plaza de Mayo, on which the cathedral fronts.

The procession usually is one of the largest Catholic gatherings of the year in Argentina. Corpus Christi Day is today, but church officials scheduled the procession for Saturday because President Juan Peron's government has withdrawn recognition of the festival as a religious holiday.

Church sources said the police, in banning the outdoor procession, told the Catholics last night they could request permission to hold the procession today.

The government cancelled the legal status of most religious holidays as part of its continuing dispute with the church. Last November Peron accused some churchmen of working against his regime. Catholic authorities denied the charge.

Ice Cream Party Set For Racers

Nearly 50 boys who will be competing for fame and prizes in the July 4th running of the Soap Box Derby will have a special meeting Friday evening.

The boys — and their Dads — will be guests of the Lions Club at an ice cream party at the City Hall fire station, beginning at 7:30.

There, they will receive some final instructions on construction of their racers, and on dates when the vehicles must be ready for final inspection.

They also will be advised of their individual sponsors. Firms over the city have agreed to sponsor the various entrants, and to help defray cost of building the racers. Assignment of boys to the sponsoring firms will be completed by Friday evening.

Any on display will be some of the valuable prizes which will be up for various winners in the great racing event.

First prize winner gets a free trip to Akron, Ohio, where in August he will compete in the All-American Derby where a $5,000 college scholarship is at stake. He also will receive a trophy.

But there will be dandy merchandise awards for other winners, and a cash award of $3 for the winner of each heat in the July 4th race.

All Soap Box boys are urged to be at the event Friday evening to see the awards and to get important instructions.

The Soap Box Derby is sponsored by the Lions Club, The Herald, and Tidwell Chevrolet Company.

CADETS PHASING OUT

As of next Wednesday, aviation cadets will be a thing of the past at Webb. Class 55-P, which graduates then, will be final group to complete pilot training here.

From now on only student officers who received their commissions in college ROTC or through the National Guard will be sent to Webb for basic single engine jet training. Three other F1TAF bases have also been designated to handle only student officers.

Changes in the training program will be very slight, and will only affect the military training phase. Student officers will not march to and from the flight line, but will be required to stand review formation once a week.

Among the physical changes resulting from the training program changeover will be the use of the former Cadet Dining Hall as an officers' mess. The Cadet Club was closed the first of this month.

AIRMEN PROMOTIONS

Airmen promotions at Webb for the June-July cycle have amounted to new chevrons for 156 persons thus far, and the possibility exists that several more may be made before the June 22 deadline.

The lone master sergeant vacancy went to Woodrow Welch, of the 3560th USAF Hospital, which also profited Ricardo Rocha to the grade of technical sergeant. Welch is NCOIC of the Registrar Section, and Rocha is NCOIC of surgery.

Others promoted to tech sergeant were Bondy H. Booth, Wing Hq. Sq., James L. Wrinkle, M&N Gp. Sq., and Wilby C. Dobbs and William C. Revis, both of the 3561st Flight Line Main, Sq.

CREDIT UNION GROWING

Webb's Federal Credit Union has made great progress during the month of May, and is still continuing to expand as the days go by, according to Lt. Chester M. Henry, treasurer.

During the one month the membership increased from 55 shareholders to 265, and almost $5,000 worth of shares have been sold since the credit union began operations.

Loans are still being limited to $100 because of the large amount of applications being received. But it may not be long before the loans are increased, Lt. Henry predicts.

ACADEMY REMODELING

The NCO Academy at Webb closed down after the graduation of Class 55-19 on May 28 for overall remodeling and other improvements, said M-Sgt. William A. Pearce, senior instructor at the academy.

Some of the new improvements include a new air conditioning system, new tile floor, repainting of the barracks and other minor repairs. The work will be done by the Installations Group, and it is expected to be ready for use within a few weeks.

SPIRITUAL LIFE CONFERENCE

Webb Protestants, along with others from throughout the Air Force, have been invited to attend the annual Spiritual Life Conference at Estes Park, Colo., July 18 through 22.

Theme of this year's conference will be "Christ, the Master Teacher," and the Chief of Air Force Chaplains has expressed the hope that as many officers, airmen and their dependents as possible will attend.

Estes Park is located about 70 miles north of Denver, adjoining the Rocky Mountain National Park. Religious activities, as well as relaxation and recreation, form an important part of the daily activities.

SAFETY RECORD BROKEN

The accident-free safety record of Webb's refueling section was finally snapped, but not before members of the unit had piled up a string of 9,133 man-days without a reportable accident. A minor mishap accounted for the halt in the climb to 10,000 days.

Though they will have to start all over in working toward a new safety record, the refueling section is secure in the knowledge that they set a mark that is 733 man-days better than any other on the base.

Operators of the heaviest and largest equipment at Webb, the refuelers are on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Their equipment ranges in weight from 26-ton tractor-trailer units down to smaller units with a gross weight of eight tons.

Legislature—Well, It Did Adjourn

The 54th session of the Texas Legislature came to an end late Tuesday after 145 days, as compared to the 145-day average of recent years. The members were $700 apiece out of pocket, since under the new $25 per diem covering the first 120 days of a session only, they put in 25 days of work for free.

For magnitude and variety of problems confronting it, the 54th was a notable session. It tried to rewrite the state's water laws to bring them into focus with reality, and it came down to the wire with this whopping issue still unresolved.

It is simply too big an issue to be resolved with any degree of intelligence and efficiency at one fell swoop.

One also may conclude that it is approached with such utter selfishness that that its ultimate solution is clouded in grave doubt.

This session did nothing toward solving the perennial question of what to do with the state's tangled tax situation. It merely fell back upon the old expedient of hanging a heavier load on the "cripples"—like cigarettes and gasoline—without touching the fundamentals at all. It even refused to make a token test of the taxability of natural gas that flows into interstate pipelines, as a means of slowing down siphoning it off for the benefit of other states without a just return to producers and to the tax coffers.

Meantime, the legislature might employ the interim in a study of improving its own machinery in the direction of simplification and efficiency. Also, set up a group along Hoover Commission lines to study the state's muddled tax structure.

Foundation Idea Needs Follow-Up

While the matter of an industrial foundation is not something into which you would jump on 15 minutes notice, neither is it something which should be blessed with words and forgotten.

R. L. Hunt, executive vice president and manager of the Kilgore Chamber of Commerce, outlined some of the mechanics of a foundation at the meeting of the local Chamber directors here Monday. There were no new or startling disclosures, for most people are familiar in the main with fundamental qualities of a foundation. He did do an effective job of telling how the plan had been developed in his city (and at Tyler where he had been on the C-C staff), and in so doing had some forceful case histories. One of the first questions asked is: will it work? Mr. Hunt was able to answer factually in the affirmative, and yet caution against expecting miracles.

There were some things which he said which need stressing. One is that the availability of funds (and hence ultimately of sites with utilities and even a building, if needed) puts a community in the position of being able to do business quickly when the opportunity is presented.

Another, and this is most important, it puts the community in the attitude of thinking about industries in a sane manner. Sober consideration of industrial history for most towns shows clearly that in a vast majority of cases industry is best developed with local people, local resources and local capital. Such institutions are inclined to have a strong civic consciousness.

There is one other facet, and it namely that an investment in a foundation is an expression of confidence in the possibilities of the community. When people believe in a thing or in a town, much can be accomplished.

J. A. Livingston It's The Money Saved That Counts

You've witnessed it. So have your neighbors. There's Jim McGranahan, or Jim Jones, or Jim Carmichael. Went to college. Got to be an engineer. Started off making $100 a week. Soon got up to $200. Always had a new car. Always had the latest home furnishings. Whenever he got a raise, he would move to a bigger house. Always in back to someone.

Then there was Ed Marquard, or Cohen, or Skinner. For years, he never made much more than $85 a week working at a Mod Haskins' corner garage. Lived in a modest house. His kids always looked nice, but not flashy. His car was clean, but second-hand. But one day you learn he has bought out Haskins. Another day, you read he has purchased two lots on the edge of town to erect a small office building. Makes you say, "Ed ticks it away."

Meanwhile, Jim became the vice president of the local box company. Must make $300 or $400 a week, you figure. Maybe more. Belongs to the country club, takes a trip every so often to Europe, or Jamaica, or Hawaii. Eldest daughter goes to one of those fine eastern colleges; son goes to prep school. Has a cook, a gardener. House one of the finest in town. You know he's got a big mortgage on it. He came to the savings and loan of which you're a director.

Jim and Ed make you think of Aesop's tortoise and the hare. No, that's not right. The Squirrel and the Lion would be better. Saves for the winter of old age. Jim's the lion—powerful. Easy kill, easy eat. There's always more where that came from. These squirrel and lion tendencies exist side by side in most of us, according to the latest Survey of Consumer Finances of the Federal Reserve Board.

If somebody said to you offhand, "Who's more likely to buy furniture and household goods on the installment plan—families with high incomes or families with low incomes?" you might theorize, "Families with low incomes."

The Reserve Board study, which was prepared by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, does not support that. Only 45 per cent of the families with incomes of $3,000 or less customarily use credit to buy household goods as against 60 per cent of the families with incomes over $5,000.

That's partly because many families in the lower brackets don't go in for dishwashers, washing machines, driers, and other high-price-tag items. It's also because some of these families don't meet the standards set by credit men of merchants and loan companies. But it's also because some families, regardless of income, try not to borrow.

Now, let's add a new dimension to the question. Assume two families have the same income. But one family has more than $500 in bank deposits or government bonds for an emergency. The second family has no rainy-day asset.

QUESTION: Which of those two families is more likely to use installment credit? Answer: The one with no reserve fund. Only 32 per cent of all families with $500 or more in liquid assets are accustomed to using credit, as against nearly 65 per cent of the families which haven't saved. Explanation: The reason the first family has reserves is that it doesn't live up to its (a) income and (b) borrowing capacity.

Now we come to a third dimension. Again, two families—the first with an income of less than $3,000, the second with an income of more than $5,000. But the first family has more than $500 laid aside. The family with the larger income hasn't squirreled away anything. Question—Which family is the more likely to use installment credit?

According to the Michigan survey, only 20 per cent of the low-income families which have saved more than $500 will use credit. In contrast, more than 70 per cent of those with incomes of more than $3,000—but with nothing saved—will borrow to buy.

Borrowing is a matter of habit, discipline, judgment, and upbringing. It depends less on income than inclination. Persons who have saving inclinations put something aside, regardless of income, and are less likely to borrow than those who don't save. That's what the Survey shows.

If you're like 75 per cent of Americans, you've got something in reserve. Sometimes you borrow. Sometimes you spend more than you take in. But, on balance, over the years, you've been more squirrel than lion.

Expensive Eggs

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Five-year-old David E. Gardner used his father's cigarette lighter to gather eggs in the hen house at night.

He found nine eggs and burned the hen house to the ground. David and the chickens managed to scramble to safety.

Municipal Scandal

HOUSTON (AP)—Casper J. Haynes tells a favorite of outtime traveling salesmen in Texas. They used to make a point of spending a night at the hotel in the little town of Ganado. Then each would write a letter to his wife, saying he'd "spent the night between Edna and Louise," a couple of other tiny towns.

Coming Of Age In Labor, Management

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eighteen years ago newspapers carried pictures of Walter Reuther, his face bloodied, after a beating by company tough guys for trying to organize auto workers into a union.

This week newspapers carried pictures of the same Reuther, all smiles, sitting beside smiling John S. Bugas, a Ford Motor Co vice president, after their agreement on an historic contract.

Those bloody days of 1937 may seem primitive now. In the intervening years, the United Auto workers has become the largest union in the CIO. It has organized all the auto makers' plants and the industry has learned to live with it.

An historian, looking back on this week 20 years from now, may think the UAW President Reuther and Bugas worked out the contract was as sensational as the principle they agreed on: a guaranteed annual wage.

Both sides negotiated as businessmen. Neither made swaggering threats beforehand, thus making compromise possible. Both compromised. The company yielded more than it originally offered; Reuther accepted less than he demanded.

That historian, looking back with the hindsight of history and the evidence of events which haven't occurred yet, may decide the maturity both sides showed in this case was the coming of age of American labor and management.

Perhaps that is true for the UAW and the auto industry and they will henceforth live peacefully. But it won't be true with other unions and other industries and it may not be true for the UAW and the auto makers.

This week's Ford-UAW settlement, friendly as it was, was a cold-blooded business. If Ford defied the union and the workers struck, the company might have lost disastrously in the fierce competition with General Motors.

If GM now doesn't grant the UAW what Ford did, and there's a strike, the giant of the industry may suffer terrible damage. But in any auto strike that lasted long the workers would suffer terribly too.

It is nice to think labor and management in the auto industry have become mature. But if they are mature now, their coming of age had its roots in a factor both sides recognized in each other; both held enormous power to hurt each other.

But it will be a long time before all unions and industries will work out their problems as peacefully as the auto industry and the UAW.

This may be particularly true in the South, where the merged AFL-CIO plans big organizing drives. In some areas of the South the growing pains haven't started yet.

Should've Had A Geiger Counter

RUIDOSO, N. M. Leaves from a touring notebook:

Francisco Vasquez Coronado, one of old New Mexico's earliest tourists, made a major mistake 415 years ago when he set out on the first great treasure hunt through this territory.

He didn't bring along a Geiger counter. Coronado, his heart lusting for loot, spent two fruitless years searching for the golden streets and jeweled towers of the fabled seven cities of Cibola. The expedition, one of the great land explorations of history, was a financial flop. Coronado found seven dusty Indian villages but not gold.

He should have been looking for uranium. Uranium fever has swept the Southwest as gold fever did in other centuries.

"I don't know of anyone today who is actively prospecting for gold," said a resident. "But there are thousands looking for uranium."

A visitor gets the impression that half the motorists and pedestrians he meets on hill-trails are wearing hearing aids.

"They aren't ordinary hearing aids," he is told. "Those people are listening for uranium."

City dwellers spend weekends seeking the clicking hidden wealth. Tourists arrive with Geiger counters in their suit cases, hoping to find a fortune on their vacations.

You don't have to go out in the hills yourself to hope for a profit from the uranium rush. Some automobile dealers are offering 1,000 free shares of uranium stock with each car sale.

All a lazy man has to do is buy a new car—and wait for his uranium dividends to roll in. So far it has been a long wait. Uranium has turned out to be as scarce

as well, as scarce as uranium. Private fliers have installed special equipment in their planes so they can look for the precious metal while on routine business flights.

The Apache Indians, hitherto so jealous of any encroachment that they have forbidden overnight camping on their sprawling 460,536-acre reservation, opened it to uranium prospecting last week for the first time.

Prospectors for a fee of $200 each can search up to six months on the reservation and lease 20 acres of any area in which they discover one.

The Apaches are naturally hopeful uranium will make them as wealthy as oil did the Indians of Oklahoma.

The Indians figure that, no matter how the uranium boom turns out, they can't lose. It's a comfortable feeling for them. They haven't enjoyed anything so much since the buffalo days.

Cruise Planned
EVERETT (AP)—A couple of British Columbia men with a small boat and a large case of waders just are getting ready to start a round-the-world cruise which "might take three years—we're not in a hurry."

Barney G. Stoney, 44, Vancouver, is the skipper. His crew is Brian C. Laurence, former British army dispatch rider.

They have a 33-foot fishing boat. They plan to loaf down the Pacific Coast, visit the Caribbean, then return through the Panama Canal and head west.

Deer Damage Trees
SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Deer browsing on small trees planted in the state's reforestation program on the big Tillamook burn area have become a major threat to plans for restoring timber, the Oregon forestry department says.

Fire used to be the biggest threat, but now insects in the ground trees, and field mice eating the seeds, have become major worries. In some areas, damage from deer is estimated at up to 80 per cent of the young trees.

Porcupines are another hazard. In the Lakeview area the Elks Club offers prizes to boys and girls who kill the most porcupines. The animals eat bark from the young trees, causing heavy loss.

Interpreters Unneeded
SAN DIEGO (AP)—The Pacific Fleet Training Command scurried around for interpreters when told the Pakistan Minesweeper Muhafiz was coming for training in American Navy ways.

When the ship arrived, its skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Muz Lodi said: "We look forward to visiting this community. We've heard a lot about it."

He and all the crew speak English. He said it was a Pakistan navy requirement.

Around The Rim A Good Job-If You Can Get It

If you want to get into an occupation more explosive than the medical profession, take-up flying. That is, if you aren't too old.

One of the most critical shortages in the country involves the supply of airline pilots.

The airlines people are hunting them with all the gusto of a football coach on the tail of a 10-second halfback. And good pilot material—the kind with enough training to land one of the airline jobs—is more scarce than football stars. There were only 9,527 of them on duty with all the scheduled airlines in the country last year.

Expanding air services, limits on the amount of time a pilot can fly per week, and the fact that bigger planes are requiring bigger crews are the principal reasons for the increase in the need for fliers.

After World War II, the airlines could almost shake qualified pilots out of every tree. But that supply is gone now—either too old or "rusty" and engaged in something else. And the Air Force and Navy are holding onto their pilots as long as they can, these days, putting strict limits on those sources.

Some companies are considering the idea of setting up schools to train their own fliers, literally from the ground up. Other concerns are studying the possibility of sending potential fliers to commercial flying schools to bring them up to the minimum requirement of 750 first-pilot hours and an instrument rating.

The life of an airlines chauffeur is appealing for a number of reasons, including the "glamor" attached to the job, the opportunity for travel about the country and abroad, and the pay.

Starting salaries average about $5,000 per year and range up to $15,000 or $20,000 for captains, or plane commanders. Modern passenger planes require crews of from two to four pilots, and because of the regulations, limiting a pilot's monthly flying time, make it necessary for a company to employ three or four crews for each plane it operates.

The steady expansion of air fleets and the six to sixteen new pilots needed for each new plane have combined to create the pilot shortage. And the high standards a young man (not more than 80 years of age) must meet as a beginning airline flier put him in a pretty elite group.

Strong Men At The Heads Of Allied Nations

EN ROUTE FROM EUROPE — Unforgettable impressions of the men who make the policies in Europe today are carried away by the writer upon completion of a series of private conferences during the last two months—some with key statesmen of "the summit" and some with the personalities who sit alongside them in the top councils.

Foremost is an impression of Sir Anthony Eden, Prime Minister of Great Britain, an earnest, resourceful, likable man, whose sturdiness and firmness—first displayed when he broke with the appeasers in the Chamberlain cabinet of the '30's—is coupled with an awareness of present-day intrigues by the Communists. His long experience in government will prove invaluable now. He maintains a flexibility of approach which is a tradition of British diplomacy. He is far better informed about America's ideals and purposes in the world than most of the people in government circles in Britain. He is a specialist in foreign affairs, but finds his time taken up considerably nowadays with the intricate cross-currents of domestic policy.

Edgar Faure, Premier of France, is a levelheaded, hard-working individual with perhaps the most difficult job in Europe—how to develop a majority from time to time in the French Parliament out of a lot of blocs and factions and split parties. He makes an impression of sincerity. He has a keen appreciation of American support and calls constantly for a common policy among the allies, not just in facing the Soviets but in extricating France from the morass of dilemmas growing out of the situations in Indochina, Tunisia, Morocco and Central Africa. He is a good friend of the United States. While he does not always see eye to eye with us—for example, on Far Eastern policy—this is due largely to the same lack of understanding of American ideals which is characteristic of so many people in Europe who are influential in forming public opinion.

General Franco, head of the Spanish state, is a quiet, softspoken, indefatigable man of deep conviction, who wonders at the tragic lack of information about Spain which prevails in other countries. There can be no denying the progress Franco is making in a country where only a few years ago more than a million persons were killed in a civil war and where, if Communism had succeeded in that war, there would today be no air bases for American military forces which are so essential to the defense of Europe. The men around him are able. Talks with the foreign minister and with other leaders reveal the planning of Spain to take her rightful place in the family of nations.

Germany's statesmen, especially the younger men around Chancellor Adenauer, are about as alert a group as the writer found anywhere in Europe. There need be no fear about the course of German policy if fate takes Adenauer from the scene. My talks with the new foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano, and with Minister Franz Josef Strauss and with Chairman Georg Kiesinger of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Bundestag gave me a new light on the tremendous influence for peace in Europe that Germany can be. Even Erich Ellenauer, the leader of the Socialist opposition—a kindly man with whom this correspondent spent an evening—is well aware of the importance of maintaining American friendship. Altogether, the German picture has in it many elements of strength for the West.

Speaking of foreign ministers, Americans can have reason to be glad that Harold MacMillan heads up the foreign office in Britain. It is not just because he is half-American and is a close friend of President Eisenhower, but because he can be counted upon to apply himself zealously to the task of removing Anglo-American misunderstandings.

The unsung heroes of diplomacy today, however, are the ambassadors who work tirelessly to explain America to Europe and to smooth out the many embarrassing situations caused by thoughtless partisan back home.

Thus, it is fortunate that a man of the ability, pleasing personality and intimate knowledge of Britain which Wm. H. Aldrich possesses, should be the American ambassador at London. He stands high in England, not merely because of the excellent service he has rendered Britain in war relief causes in the past, but because today he reflects—so carefully and tactfully—the American viewpoint.

Over in France, Ambassador Douglas Dillon is doing a remarkable job. He speaks French fluently and carries on an intimate, day-by-day contact with French leaders, besides presiding over one of the busiest embassies in the world. Career men in all our embassies are extremely important and indispensable, but-business men of the broad-gauged perspective of Ambassador Aldrich and Dillon, with their background of knowledge of the economic picture, are invaluable today as the representatives of the United States.

Former Governor John Lodge of Connecticut is new at his post as ambassador at Madrid, but he is studying the Spanish language daily and catching onto the Spanish problem very rapidly.

Our ambassador, to Germany, James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, is making speeches to the German people in the German language and conveying the American viewpoint effectively.

The writer had a long talk with Charles E. Bohlen, American ambassador at Moscow, while he was in Paris recently. Mr. Bohlen's ability to read and speak Russian is a tremendous asset. He has perhaps the most perplexing assignment of any of our ambassadors.

Hollywood Review Newton Tosses Away Pirate's Crutch

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Robert Newton has tossed Long John Silver's crutch away after playing the crusty old pirate in Australia for a year.

The British actor has returned to his Hollywood home after completing one of the most interesting film projects in recent years. It was a daring venture that could provide him with a hefty annuity.

He told about the deal between rehearsals for his first acting engagement since his return—"The Suspect" on NBC's Video Theater.

"First of all, we made the feature version of 'Long John Silver' in Cinema-Scope and color," he said. "After we finished that, we made 26 half-hour TV shows, also in color."

"It was really a pioneering project. When we first arrived in Sydney, there was nothing but a large, barnlike building for a studio. We brought all our equipment from Hollywood."

"After we finished the feature, we did one TV show a week for 26 weeks, I think I had only one Sunday off. It was hard work but it was worth it. The results were spectacular. The air is so clear down there and the scenery, especially the surf, is spectacular. And we shot it for half what it would have cost here."

Part of the financing came from Louis Wolfson. Yes, the same fellow who raised all that fuss at Montgomery Ward. Joseph Kaufman produced and Bryon Haskin directed. Both are veteran Hollywood hands. The only other performer from here was comedienne Connie Gilchrist.

"We picked up the rest of our actors in Australia," said Newton, "and they were good, too—not experienced but eager to learn."

If Long John catches on with the kids, a la Davy you-know-who, 13 more films will be made here. The series would be exploited as was Davy what's-his-name, with merchandise, songs, books, etc.

On the chance that the character will prove popular. The feature version of "Long John Silver" has been held back from release. It will be shown after the TV series has had some exposure. The film is now playing abroad.

Car Prospects

DETROIT (AP)—The National Used Car Dealers Assn. has become the National Independent Automobile Dealers Assn. Some industry sources suggested the change meant there will be a lot more new car selling by dealers not franchised by the car makers.

Some used car dealers claim that despite statements that new car bootlegging is on the way out many new cars still are available to them on a wholesale basis. In new car bootlegging a dealer with excessive stocks sells at wholesale prices to used car retailers in distant areas. Frequently the used car dealer then re-sells at prices below the prevailing figure in his area. This has resulted in loud protests from franchised dealers.

Has A Color Scheme

"I love colored mascaras," says Anna Bancroft, Warner Bros. actress, to Lydia Lane. She goes on to explain which moods call for blue, brown, black, green or purple shades with eye shadow to match.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Make-Up Can Be Used For Various Moods

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—When I was at Warner Bros. recently, I stopped in to see Anna Bancroft. She had just finished her last scene for the day and I found her at her dressing table, removing her make-up with mineral oil.

"I'd be lost without it," she said, dipping a ball of cotton into a saucer in which she had poured some oil. "It cuts grease and removes make-up without clogging your pores because it has no affinity for the skin."

I noticed Anna's dressing table contained a small glass filled with brown and black eyebrow pencils, all of which were sharply pointed. "You can't possibly get a natural effect without a sharp pencil, and unless I keep a number of sharp ones on hand I'm tempted to use a dull one when I'm in a hurry."

"I love colored mascaras, too," Anna confided, showing me a drawer full of blue, brown, green and purple shades with eye shadow to match.

"Eyes to me are a woman's most important feature, and I play lip-up—even to using a very pale lipstick in contrast."

Anna confessed that she was a moody person and liked to change her make-up according to how she felt.

"If I'm wearing a turtle neck sweater and bull fighter pants, I use only black pencil and mascara with shiny make-up and no powder."

"If I'm going somewhere special in my best blue satin and white fox, I'll wear sapphire blue mascara and matching eye shadow, and powder well over my foundation for a flat finish.

"Make-up can be more dramatic for gala evenings," Anna agrees, "but rouge should always be applied with subtlety. Use it sparingly and choose a pale color which blends in with your skin tone."

"In fact, when rouge is applied correctly it should never show. I like a liquid rouge for this reason. It gives a natural highlight and goes on as easily and smoothly as foundation."

"The spot for applying rouge varies with your bone structure, as well as the shape of your face. I place mine starting at a high point on my cheeks and working outward. One of the points the studios always stressed when I was a model was that we must learn to blend our rouge so that no one could guess the color was not our own."

Orange Refrigerator Cake Good For Meals Or Party Fare

A dessert that can be prepared long before serving is this refrigerator cake that has a zesty tang and is good for ending any meal or for party serving.

ORANGE REFRIGERATOR CAKE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1/4 cups sugar
- 3/8 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 cup juice 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 Teaspoon vanilla
- 3 egg whites, unbeaten

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Drop in shortening and lemon rind. Add two-thirds of milk, then vanilla, and beat 200 strokes, 2 minutes by hand or on mixer at low speed. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater. Add remaining milk and egg whites and beat 200 strokes. Bake in 2 square 8x8x2-inch greased pans in a 350 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Chill layers and split in half. Spread orange filling and sweetened-whipped cream between layers and cover top with whipped cream. Refrigerate for several hours before serving and keep refrigerated until all is served. Serve in slices cut 1 inch thick.

ORANGE FILLING

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
- One-eighth teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 3 egg yolks, beaten slightly
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt thoroughly in top of double boiler. Add lemon juice and rind and mix well. Add egg yolks, orange juice and butter and blend. Place over boiling water and cook until smooth and thick, stirring constantly (about 20 minutes). Cool.

Bridesmaid Luncheon

Twelve attended the bridesmaid luncheon given Tuesday by Mrs. Charlie Adams and Mrs. Byron Lillie for Jo Ann Smith. The affair, given in the Adams home, was the last in a series of "honor parties" for Miss Smith before her marriage that evening to John Franklin Howell Jr. of Sonora. Gifts were presented to the attendants by the bride-elect at the luncheon.

Pvt. and Mrs. Buddie Cosby of Texarkana are guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tidwell. Pvt. Cosby will return to duty Friday, but Mrs. Cosby will remain here for part of the summer.

Habit Is Force That Makes Overtime Work!

By ANNE LAFEVER

It's a funny thing, isn't it, what a strong force habit is! Chances are that you put your clothes on in the same order, never thinking much about the fact that you pull on the left stocking first, each time, or maybe it's the right one that is first.

Of course, it's a time-saver not to have to think of what to do next—especially when the alarm clock fails to go off and minutes are scarce. Or maybe you just "snatched another wink," which turned out to be half an hour. That really does make for hurried dressing, eh?

But, much as habit helps in many instances, it can certainly get a tight grip on a person—and how well do I know it!

Recently, I attended a wedding in a neighboring town. Of course, there was no call whatever for me to cover it for our paper, but you know the first thing I did after I was seated in the church—I began taking note of the decorations!

Not content with that, I made mental notes of the titles of the wedding songs, but finally, it dawned on me that I was there just as a guest, and nothing more. I settled back to enjoy the rest of the ceremony, which was beautiful.

However, at the reception which followed, I reverted to type again—and I don't mean printer's type! I found myself peeping around the corner to see what kind of cloth was on the table, what flowers were used and who was serving refreshments.

When it suddenly occurred to me that the table could be covered with a tow sack and centered with a bunch of broomweed for all the difference it would make to my newspaper, I relaxed and the cake, drank the punch "and a good time was had by all."

Why Your Child Needs Those Tetanus Shots

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

The tetanus germ is different from many other kinds of germs. It has the special ability to form spores. These spores are a form of the germ that can live under conditions that would kill the regular germ. They can withstand drying and sunlight and even boiling.

Tetanus spores can only grow when they get into a dark warm place away from air.

If there happens to be a tetanus spore on some object that gives you a deep puncture wound there is danger you might get tetanus.

If you get a wound from which there is danger of tetanus and you have never had tetanus shots, you must have tetanus anti-toxin. It is the only thing that will act quickly enough to prevent tetanus after an injury. We cannot make tetanus anti-toxin in the laboratory. The only way we can get it is to inject horses with the germ and then take blood from the horse.

Horse serum makes some people quite sick.

We can avoid using horse serum if we give shots of a material called tetanus toxoid before a wound occurs. The toxoid is made in the laboratory and has no horse serum in it. It is, however, not powerful enough to use alone after the wound. If we give a person two shots of tetanus toxoid two months apart he will have a good deal of immunity to tetanus in his body. It won't be quite enough to completely protect him from a bad wound, so that at the time of injury you boost his immunity by giving him an additional shot of tetanus toxoid.

It's sensible and intelligent to see that your children, you, and the rest of your family too have tetanus shots regularly every two years.

MRS. DON DUNBAR

Dunbars At Home In Carlsbad After Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Don Dunbar will be at home in Carlsbad N.M., following their wedding on Friday at the Westside Baptist Church.

The bride is the former Rosetta Flowers, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Flowers, 1705 Ayford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. A. S. Smith, 1004 Goliad, and Virgil Dunbar, 1105 E. 13th.

Before a background of fern and white gladioli, the Rev. Cecil Rhodes read the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Marian Murphy, pianist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Zealida Meador, as she sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a dress of white Chantilly lace and net made with a fitted bodice of lace. The full net skirt was worn over an ice-blue taffeta skirt. Her veil was fingertip length, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and white carnations.

The matron of honor, Mrs. E. O. Sanderson, wore a dress identical to that of the bride. It was pink and she used harmonizing accessories.

Doyle Dunbar was his brother's best man. The groomsmen, who also seated the guests, were Roger Flowers, brother of the bride, Mr. Sanderson, Don Gregory and D. W. Overman.

The bridal couple received guests assisted by their parents. For the reception, the refreshment table was laid with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white stock. The three-tiered cake was frosted in blue and white. Serving was done by Mrs. Kirk Perry and Mrs. Sanderson.

For a wedding trip to San Antonio, the bride chose a light blue two-piece suit made with push-up sleeves. Her accessories were white and she wore a gardenia from her wedding bouquet. She is a graduate of Big Spring High School and has been employed at Woodworth's. The bridegroom was graduated in 1934 from the same school, and he is employed by Wacker's in Carlsbad.

Out-of-town guests were the bride's two grandmothers, Mrs. O. F. Flowers and Mrs. Ben Vardin, and her aunt, Mrs. Kenneth Flow-

Father Moore Is Honored With Party

Father Moore of St. Thomas Catholic Church, who will leave for Ireland on June 14 was honored at a surprise party Wednesday evening in the church hall.

Planned as a "goodwill party," it was given by the St. Thomas Altar Society especially for Father Moore. Anchors and life savers in green and white and streamers of crepe paper were used in the decorations. A map, showing a ship between Ireland and America, completed the motif.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cloth with an arrangement of bells of Ireland and majestic daisies, centered with an anchor. White tapers in crystal holders flanked this, and green napkins bore the inscription "God Speed Father Moore."

Bingo was played. A "special prize" was awarded to Father Moore from the guests, who included the members of his parish, personal friends and members from Webb Air Force Base. About 125 attended the party.

LOOKING 'EM OVER
With Tommy Hart

The Longhorn League needs strong leadership to survive its present crisis. The man they're trying to get for the job does not come without qualifications, which you can best judge by the following letter he wrote to the then league proxy and each director within the circuit.

He is C. Roy Anderson, district judge at Carlsbad, N. M. His letter reads in part:

"This letter is being written by me as an individual and not on behalf of the Carlsbad baseball club. Its sole purpose is to call attention to some things I have noticed in the operation of the Longhorn League and its various clubs, which seem to me to be deserving of attention. I am neither complaining nor suggesting; but I am interested in the continuation of professional baseball in this area on a self-supporting basis as possible. I saw the Carlsbad baseball club lose approximately $30,000 over a period of two years, with an average attendance the first year of 1,500 and an average attendance the next year of approximately 850.

"I have been told that it is legitimate under the National Baseball Association rules adopted by the Longhorn League to suspend or to place on the Temporarily Inactive List or the Disabled List, players almost at will. My own observation on the operation of the Carlsbad club last year and the year before, as an outsider, was that there was always some player—and at times several players—on the Suspended List, Temporarily Inactive List or Disabled List, when there is no apparent reason for such suspension, inactivity or disablement other than to evade the active limit restrictions of the league.

"This year, and just a few nights ago, the San Angelo baseball club came to Carlsbad from Hobbs, and Marshall Esperson was dressed in civilian clothes sitting in the stands as a spectator, not injured, and apparently not having been guilty of insubordination or for failure to observe the rules of the club; nor was he temporarily absent during the playing season on account of bona fide illness or injury or for any personal or business obligation. . . . I have been advised that at the same time at least one other player on the San Angelo club—namely, Gil Guerra—has been placed on the Suspended List under similar circumstances—and probably to make room for other players and to evade the active player limits set out by the league. I am told by several who have been closely associated with baseball in the Longhorn League that this has been the custom of some managers, upon an asserted claim of right under Section 19 of the National Association Agreement.

"I would point out that there is nothing in Section 19 of this agreement, as read in its entirety, which provides that a manager or any other person can employ (such lists) to evade the active limit list in effect in this league.

"It is my belief that part of the excessive money spent by the Carlsbad club during the 1953-54 seasons can be traced directly to the continued evasion of the active-list restrictions by the method to which attention is called in this letter. I am also of the opinion that unless the clubs are ready to abide by the rules and regulations of the league, and unless officials of the league are determined to enforce such rules, the possibility of continued operations in this territory is poor indeed.

"Evasion of salary limits is another thing that has occurred in this town in previous years, almost with flagrant disregard of regulations and without any action, insofar as I know, by league officials. I suspect the same thing is going on in the league in some instances this year, and I feel there is no justification for it if the club owners and the league officials desire to make it possible for professional baseball to survive in our relatively small towns.

"We in Carlsbad have seen the continued reappearance of just a few umpires this year, until the color of their eyes, their physical traits, etc., are known to all the fans; and this, in my opinion, is not conducive to proper reception of baseball or its continued support by baseball fans. It seems to be that some adequate system of assignment should be adopted whereby umpires are rotated from town to town throughout the season, to prevent the repeated appearance of the same umpires in the same parks night after night.

"I have observed that there is excessive fraternization among some of the umpires and some of the players. Fans have expressed the opinion to me that some of the players—particularly catchers—and some managers, seem to be able, by fraternization continuously throughout the game, to remove any appearance of neutrality on the part of the umpire. I think the league should adopt a rule . . . prohibiting fraternization. . . . In this connection, I also feel the umpires do not take charge of the games as they are supposed to and that some of the managers are able to . . . unnecessarily delay games by making protests on decisions.

In my opinion Judge Anderson more than meets the qualifications for the league's highest office.

Church League Will Play Games Tuesdays, Fridays

The newly organized church softball league will begin competition at 7 p.m. Tuesday on the City Park diamond.

Alan Adams, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, and Sidney Clark of the First Baptist Church conceived the idea of a church league and are in charge of the teams.

The teams which will participate are the First Baptist Church, Westside Baptists, the First Methodists, and the First Church of God.

There will be two games nights on Tuesdays and Fridays. On Tuesdays at 7 p.m. the First Baptist team will play the Westside Baptists and at 9 p.m. the First Methodists will play the First Church of God.

Adams and Clark invite everyone to attend the games and support the ball clubs.

Steve Sebo, football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, was a star baseballer at Michigan State. He won the team batting championship twice.

Mitchell Nearing 3rd Championship

SEGUIN (U)—Allen Mitchell, of San Antonio was on the way toward a third Texas Left-handers Golf Assn. championship today.

He beat Don Hurst of Denton 4 and 3, in the opening round of match play yesterday.

Other top-rated entries seeking the crown—Lloyd Fikes of San Antonio and Colin Campbell of Nixon—also came through impressively. Fikes beat Jess Newmap of San Antonio 4 and 3. Campbell defeated Bill Upton of Weatherford, 3 and 2.

While Mitchell is after his third championship he is not the defending titleholder. Jack Wijkerson of Tyler, who has won the tournament the past three years, is not playing this year.

Bobbies Invade Wigwam Tonight

Garrett, Little Pace Tourney

Big Spring seems to have eight rather than seven teams aligned against it in Longhorn League play.

The eighth adversary has been Old Man Weather, which has taken a special delight in wrecking the Cosden Cops' playhouse all year.

With Jupiter Pluvius as a dancing partner, the old man cut a rag here last night and kept the lights of Steer Park from being turned on. Big Spring was to have played San Angelo in the rubber game of a three-bout series and a good crowd was in prospect, since the teams had engaged in a small-scale war the previous night.

The contest was to have been the last of a five-game home stand.

Tonight the Cops will be in Midland where they open the first of a two-game series.

On Saturday night, the Bobbies move on to San Angelo for three nights.

Rosie Hill, who has found that second victory of the season very elusive, will probably go to the mound for Big Spring against the Warriors this evening.

Hill picked up his only win of the year in a relief role several weeks ago.

He's a better hurler than that, however, as he proved so conclusively against Artesia here last Sunday. A ninth-inning run again sent him down to defeat just when it appeared he had the decision sacked up.

Change In Names Fails To Help

By The Associated Press

What's in a name? Not much, as far as the Ponca City Cubs of the Sooner State League are concerned.

The ball players on the club started the season as the Gainesville Owls and didn't go very far.

About three weeks ago, the Texas team was transferred to Ponca City and they became "known as the Jets."

Tuesday the management decided to change the name again to conform with the parent Chicago Cubs. The Cubs have lost two straight to Ardmore and are mired in seventh place.

Ardmore defeated the Owls-Jets-Cubs 3-1 yesterday as Mike O'Connor hurled a four-hitter and struck out 11.

In other games, Shawnee got a "gift" run in the 10th inning to defeat McAlester 3-2, and Muskogee whipped Seminole 9-4 when the Seminole defense collapsed.

The Paris at Lawton game was postponed because of rain.

Rain Mars Tourney In Washington

WASHINGTON (U)—Fifty golfers from 26 nations tee off today in the International Golf Championships over a Columbia Country Club course soaked by rain and with more showers promised.

HOUSTON (U)—John Garrett, Houston collegian, and Jack Little III, Corpus Christi schoolboy, led the way into match play in the Texas Amateur golf tournament today, with two former champions also in the field.

Garrett, Rice star and Southwest Conference co-champion, and Little shot par 71 over the 6,550-yard River Oaks Country Club course yesterday to share medalist honors.

In the opening round of match play today, Garrett meets John Vennard of Houston, who qualified with a 78, and Little plays Roger Naylor of Houston, who had a 77.

Ex-champions who qualified for the 32-man championship flight were Don Schumacher of Dallas, who won in 1936 and 1939 and was runner-up last year, and Dick McCreary, who took the title in 1948. Schumacher made it by two strokes as he registered a 77 while McCreary got under the wire with a 78.

Double rounds of match play today and tomorrow will cut the field to the 36-hole finals Saturday.

The team championship was won by Corpus Christi Country Club with 311.

Other qualifiers: Bob French, Midland, 74; Jimmie Russell, Graham, 74; Richard Jennings, Lubbock, 75; Billy Green, Midland, 75; Dan Winters, Abilene, 76; Gene McBride, Wichita Falls, 79.

Mary Ann Downey Dominates Play

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (U)—Mary Ann Downey, a rather stockily built brunette from Baltimore, threatened today to make a farce of the 50th annual Women's Eastern Golf Assn.'s amateur tournament.

She carried an eight-stroke advantage into the final round of play over the 6,197-yard par 73 Farmington Country Club layout. Miss Downey had rounds of 73 and 74 for a 36-hole total of 147.

Trailing Miss Downey by eight strokes was Margie Burns, a scratch player from Greensboro, N. C. She shot one of yesterday's three best rounds with a 76 for a total of 155.

Newcombe Racks Up 10th Win In Rain And Cold

BROOKLYN (U)—Don Newcombe doesn't like cold weather and doesn't rate himself a hitter but recent records belie him.

It was cold and rainy at Ebbets Field last night, but the big Brooklyn right-hander racked up his 10th victory without a defeat, as the Dodgers turned back the Cincinnati Redlegs 3-1. And Newk figured in two of the league leaders' runs. He carried home the first run after a single and drove home the third with a double.

"I don't like cold weather," said Newcombe after hurling a four-hitter and striking out seven with only 91 pitches. "But I never got a chance to cool off because Staley (Gerry) also pitched a good game and it was wrapped up in short order." The time was 1 hour and 58 minutes.

Newcombe still is long way from the major league record of 19 successive victories hung up by Tim Lincecum of the old New York Giants back in 1888 and matched by Rube Marquard of the same club in 1912. But he is a different pitcher from the one who had only a 9-8 record last season after returning from the service.

In 81 innings this year, Newcombe, who'll celebrate his 30th birthday next Tuesday, has given up 73 hits, handed out only 9 walks and struck out 57. He has a 2.44 earned run average.

Last night he retired the last 16 Redlegs in order. The only blot on his record was Ted Kluszewski's 16th homer in the fourth.

Dozen Americans Survive Play

PARIS (U)—Licut. Joe Conrad, newly crowned British amateur champion from San Antonio, Tex., and 11 other Americans were among the 32 players who went out for two more rounds of competition in the French amateur golf championship today.

And the experts say they'll still be at least five Americans among the eight left in the competition when the last putt is dropped today.

Favored to win, through to the quarterfinal round were Conrad, Don Bispinghoff, 20-year old North South champion from Orlando, Fla.; Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., captain of the U.S. Walker Cup team which downed the British; Bruce Cudd, 21-year old college student from Portland, Ore. and Joe Bullins of Winston-Salem, N.C., an Army private stationed in France.

Why does Seagram's 7 Crown outsell any brand of whiskey in the U.S.A. by millions of bottles?

because . . . It's not where it was made—it's how it was made that counts. . . . and SEAGRAM has processes belonging to no other distiller for making not just whiskey but making QUALITY in whiskey. The result is that in every bottle of 7 Crown is a quality and perfection of taste so fine that it can be found today only in a bottle of 7 Crown!

Cleveland Had Best Forget Long Ball

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

It might be a good idea if General Manager Hank Greenberg told his Cleveland Indians to forget about breaking the American League home run record and get them busy hitting the singles that win ball games.

Particularly since the Tribe is snarled in a slump just when the first-place New York Yankees—the team with the homer patent—are due to pay a weekend call.

Greenberg got the homer idea last spring. "Wouldn't be surprised if we hit 196," said Hank, with an eye on the record 182 hit by the 1936 Yankees.

Manager Al Lopez agreed. "Singles?" he scoffed. "I'll take the home run any time."

Oh yeah? In the last six games, the Indians four times have hit three home runs in a single contest. Result? They've lost five of the six, including the four homer-happy games.

Going for the fences, the Tribe has batted just 2 2 2 in the slump, and has slipped into third place, 4½ games behind the Yanks.

And here's the kicker: Even with the increased homer pace, which has netted 53, Cleveland is just second best. The Yanks have clubbed 70.

The Indians had one of their three-homer games last night, but wound up losing to Boston in 12 innings 5-4. The Red Sox had only one homer—and six singles.

The Yanks also were beaten, 3-1 by Detroit. The second-place Chicago White Sox lost to Baltimore 302. And Kansas City toppled Washington 3-2.

The National League played 'em close too. Brooklyn beat Cincinnati 5-1 as Don Newcombe became the first pitcher to win 10 this year.

The New York Giants regained third from Milwaukee, defeating the Braves 5-4 in 10 innings. Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 3-1.

Rain postponed St. Louis at Philadelphia.

Boston beat the Tribe on Jim Piersall's double and a fielding error. Vic Wertz had tied it at 4-4 for the Tribe with his solo homer in the ninth. Gene Stephen's three-run homer gave the Red Sox a 4-1 lead in the fifth. Al Rosen homered for the other runs scored by the Indians, who had only six hits.

Detroit had only six hits too but made the most of Bob Turley's 10 walks to hand the Yankee right-hander his fourth defeat. Frank Lary, with the help of four double plays, won his sixth.

Tuesday's four-player deal between the White Sox and Senators failed to pay off immediately. Jim Busby, reclaimed by the Sox, hit into a bases-loaded double play at Chicago, where Hoot Evers won it for the Orioles with an eighth-inning homer.

And at Kansas City a two-run homer by Clint Courtney—the ex-White Sox catcher—wasn't enough for the Senators. The K's took it on a pinch single by Enos Slaughter in the ninth.

Newcombe was in command all the way for the Brooks, who moved nine games ahead of the second-place Cubs. The unbeaten right-hander, despite rain and cold, tossed a four-hitter, fanned seven, walked none and retired the last 16 men he faced. Newk, who was 9-8 a year ago, also singled and doubled to figure in two runs.

A pinch single by Bobby Hofman won for the Giants. The Braves had tied it at 4-4 in the ninth with the help of two New York errors.

At Pittsburgh, Dale Long's bases-empty home run in the ninth packed it away for the Pirates.

Jim Davis was the loser. Ron Kline won his third.

MORE PLAYERS ARE NEEDED

There are job openings in the newly organized Teen-Age Baseball Association.

Workouts have been going on since Monday in the 13-14 and 15-16 year groups but not enough boys have reported for drills to fill out the half-dozen teams that are being organized.

The drills continue through today, after which time the player draft will take place. Today's program starts at 5:30 p.m.

The Salvation Army diamond at West Fifth and San Antonio streets is the scene of operations.

No date has been set for the official opening of Association competition.

LL Contests Are Weathered Out

The Texas Little League is having a hard time keeping up with its schedule.

For the second time this season, circuit competition had to be called off Wednesday due to the elements.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., June 9, 1955

Lane May Have Stretched Luck In Deal For Busby

NEW YORK (U)—There's only one gambler left in the big leagues today, and that is Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox. The American League is buzzing over the two player deals swung by the master trader in recent days and wondering if he has not finally stretched his luck to the breaking point.

Here's what it amounts to. In order to acquire Jim Busby, a fleet and stylish outfielder from the Washington Senators, Lane has stripped his pitching staff right down to the bone just when the Sox have become embroiled in a make-or-buy struggle with the Yankees and Indians and the double-headers are beginning to pile up.

In maneuvering to land Busby and tighten up his defense, Lane parried with his two best relief pitchers, Harry Dorish going to Baltimore and Bob Chakales to Washington. Dorish is recognized as one of the best short-term men in the game. In the general shuf-fling of talent, the Sox came by no pitcher of any kind.

As of the hour we write, Manager Marty Marion had exactly eight curvers at his call, and two of those were of extremely doubtful value. Bob Keegan, a big winner last season but a sore arm disappointment this year, had worked only 24 innings and yielded 17 earned runs. Morrie Martin had been baxed for six earned runs in 10 relief innings.

That left a thin, anxious line consisting of Billy Pierce, Sandy Consuegra, Jack Harshman, Mike Fornieles, Virgil Trucks and rookie Dick Donovan to try to hold the fort against the Cleveland and Yankee sluggers, with no relief column in sight.

The only conclusion we can draw at this point is that Lane isn't through and that his mind continues to tick madly along as the June 15 deadline for deals approaches. Our best guess would be that the Barnum of the midway has a promising reliever spotted somewhere in the minors. Until he does come up with one the Sox are on treacherous ground.

Bartzen Favored In Tennis Meet

SAN ANTONIO (U)—Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas and Tommy Springer of El Paso were favored today to push into the Texas Sectional Tennis Tournament finals.

Jaycees Are Near LL Championship

LAMESA—The Jaycees, for all practical purposes, have the Little League title sewed up.

With only one more regular game to be played and make-up tilts set for Friday and Saturday, it would take a miracle to overhaul the club which has won 6 and lost none.

Nearest competition is the Kiwanis entry with a 4-3 record. The Lions are definitely out of the picture with 3-3 and the Rotary is in the bottom side with a 0-6 record. This week's play ends the first half of the season.

El Pasoans Win Over Lubbock

By The Associated Press
Last-place El Paso came through in 11 innings Wednesday night to earn one of its infrequent West Texas-New Mexico League victories.

The Texans edged the Lubbock Hubbers 4-3.

In the only other game, the Amarillo Gold Sox tripped the Abilene Blue Sox 5-4.

Pampa's game at Albuquerque was postponed by wind and dust, and Plainview's tilt at Clovis was postponed by wind and cold.

DeMarco Sure He Will Win

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (U)—A 17-10 underdog in his first title defense, welterweight champion Tony DeMarco arrives in this hotbed of Carmen Basilio supporters today quietly confident he'll still be wearing the crown after Friday night.

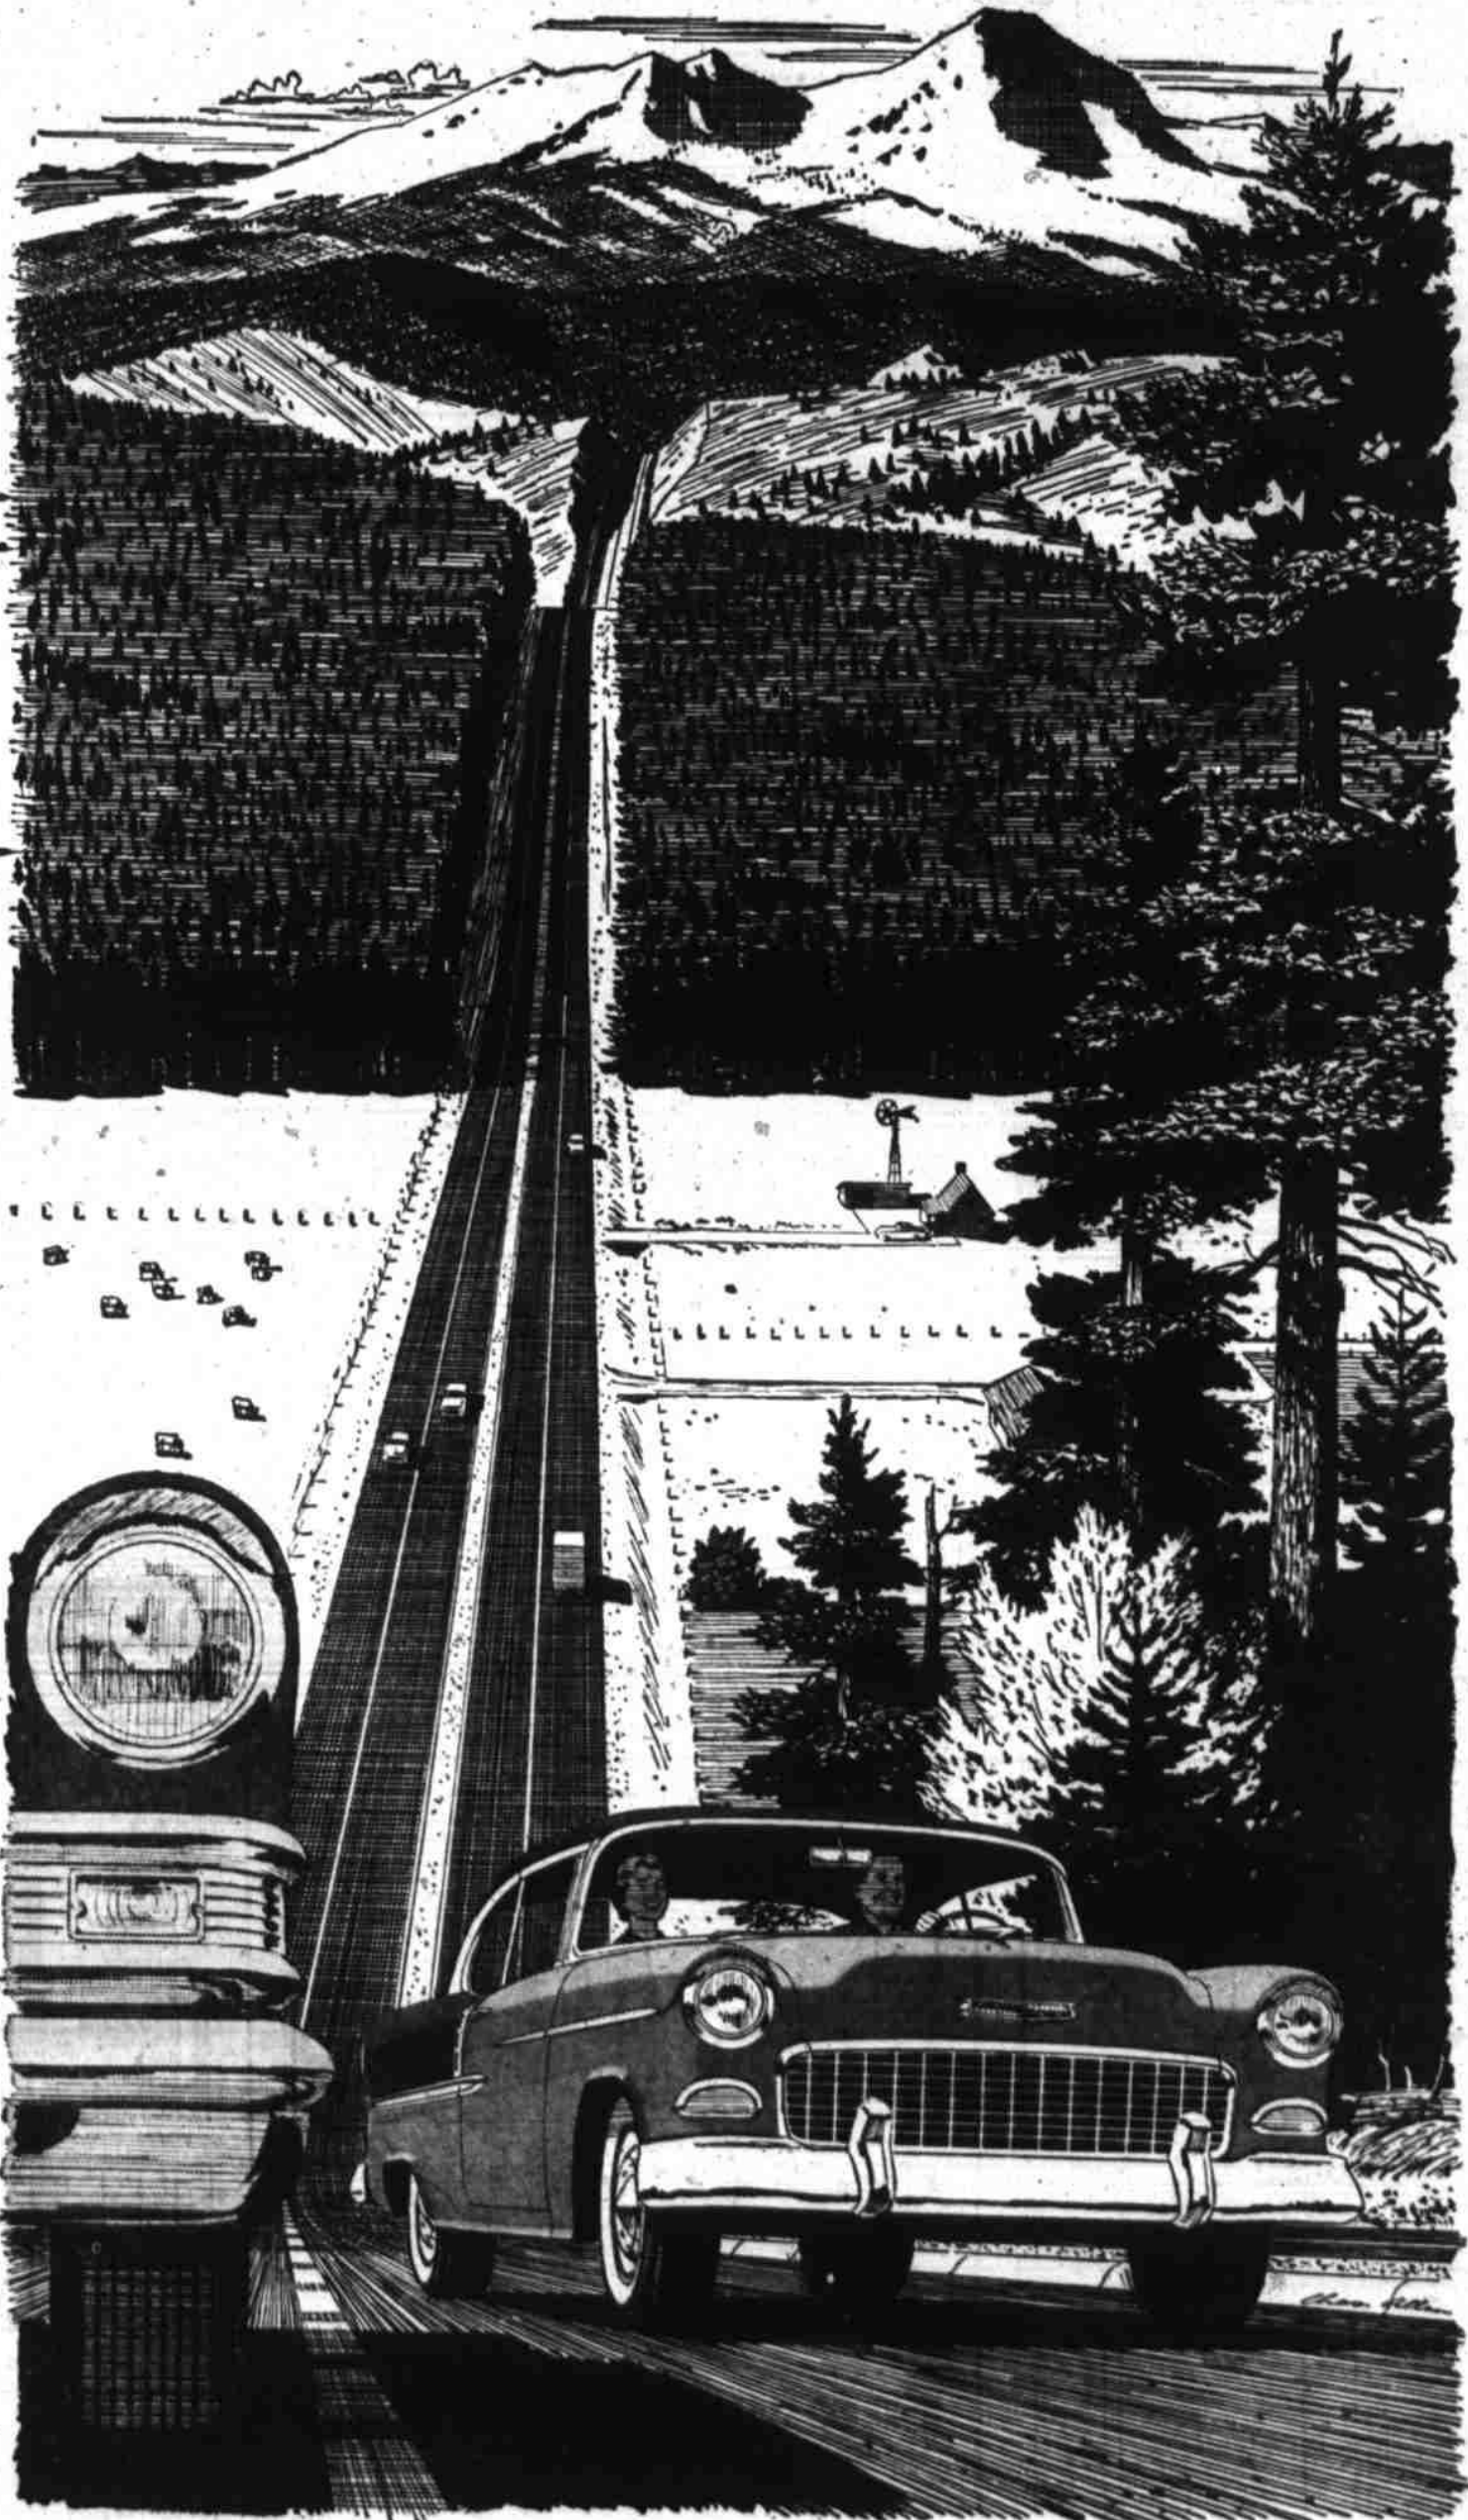

The Boston buzz-bomb looked strong and sharp in sparring 51 rounds at his mountain training camp at downstate Monticello. His party was to make the 150-mile trip here by plane.

DeMarco and Basilio clash tomorrow night before a sell-out crowd of 9,000 at the War Memorial Auditorium.

The fight will be televised and broadcast nationally, starting at 9 p.m. (EST). Central New York will be blacked out of the telecast.

Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners!

162 H.P. V8
180 H.P. V8

See that fine fat mountain yonder? You can iron it out, flat as a flounder . . . and easy as whistling!

Just point one of Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners at it (either the 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire V8" or the 180-h.p. "Super Turbo-Fire") . . . and pull the trigger! Barr-r-r-o-o-o-O-OOM!

Mister, you got you a flat mountain! . . . At least it feels flat. For these Chevrolet V8's gobble up the toughest grades you can ladle out. And holler for more. They love to climb, because that's just about the only time the throttle ever comes near the floorboard.

And that's a pity. For here are engines that sing as sweetly as a dynamo . . . built to pour out a torrent of pure, vibrationless power. Big-bore V8's with the shortest stroke in the industry, designed to gulp huge breaths of fresh air and transmute it into blazing acceleration.

So most of the time they loaf. Even at the speed limit they just dream along, light and easy as a zephyr, purring out an effortless fraction of their strength.

. . . Until an emergency screams "NOW!" . . . until your foot bangs down and that V8 explodes into action . . . a tornado of fiery concentrated urge that snatches you ahead to safety like the crack of a whiplash!

An engineer can run his eye over the specifications of these V8's and instantly understand why they are so hyper-efficient . . . how friction is held so low they need just four quarts of oil instead of the usual five or more . . . how big valves and short manifolds let them "breathe" deeply for maximum power . . . how the 12-volt electrical systems (exclusive in Chevrolet's field) provide twice the punch for cold-weather starts and faultless high-speed firing.

But you don't have to be an engineer to know that these are the sweetest running V8's you ever piloted. Just come in, slip behind the wheel, point the nose at the nearest hill, and feather the throttle open. These V8's can do their own-talking . . . and nobody argues with them!

Stealing the Thunder from the High-Priced Cars with the Most Modern V8 on the road!

Ike Approach To Big Four Talks Scored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today the Eisenhower administration's approach to Big Four talks is marked by "doubts, fears and hesitations that a great nation like ours should not exhibit."

Humphrey and Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), Foreign Relations Committee members, in separate interviews urged President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles to set forth a clear and complete agenda for the projected "summit" meeting.

Russia must be confronted with promises Stalin made to the United States and Britain at the Big Three wartime Yalta conference, the senators said.

"We got promises and agreements from Russia at Yalta that we should now insist on holding them to," Capehart said.

Humphrey attributed largely to "domestic politics" the "doubts and fears" he said have been repeatedly expressed by Eisenhower and Dulles about possible gains from the meeting which the West has proposed be held at Geneva in mid-July.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday: "Let's don't expect too much from the first one, but let us do hope that we have opened up a new . . . atmosphere in the whole business, and maybe then our work will be fruitful instead of constantly frustrating."

Humphrey said the administration is "carefully laying the groundwork in case things don't go well. They can then exonerate themselves by saying, 'We told you so.'"

He said Eisenhower and Dulles appear "scared to face up to the questions that need to be and must be discussed," and he continued: "We must seize the initiative on this conference and we must go into it loaded down with good ideas thoroughly thought out. Of course we should alert people to the possibility that the conference may fail. But we should not allow pessimism to throw a blanket of doubt over the whole conference."

4 Big Springers To Attend State FFA Convention

Texas Future Farmers, some 4,000 strong, will converge on Houston the week of July 15-22. That is the week of the 27th annual convention of the Texas Association of Future Farmers of America. The convention will be held in the Sam Houston Coliseum.

Ronnie Burk, Larry Nix and a delegate unnamed as yet will attend the convention from Big Spring along with Roland Baumhardt, high school FFA teacher. According to Lester Buford, area FFA supervisor, Burk and Nix are entered in the state entertainment contest. Buford said that a delegate will be chosen in an FFA meeting to be held later in the month.

Boys that will attend the convention will represent some 1,000 FFA chapters in Texas that have a total membership of more than 40,000.

Outstanding FFA boys and chapters will receive more than $5,000 in cash awards for their work in different fields of vocational agriculture. Highlights of the convention will be the election of a new slate of state officers and the choosing of a new state FFA sweetheart.

Nehru Impressed In Russian Visit

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — What does Indian Prime Minister Nehru think of the reception he is getting in Moscow?

"If stories from Indian newsmen accompanying him are any indication, the Russians have made an immediate favorable impression on Nehru."

The correspondent of the British-owned Statesman, which often reports Indian Foreign Ministry openings, wrote from Moscow: "Nehru has seen very little of Russia as yet, but he has already been thoroughly impressed by the welcome he has received and the conspicuous deference with which he is being treated by Soviet leaders."

The Hindustan Times, which is close to Nehru's Congress party, said it dispatches from its editor touring with Nehru: "Popular enthusiasm knew no bounds wherever she appeared in public. . . Nehru was deeply touched by the affection shown by workers and people" of Moscow.

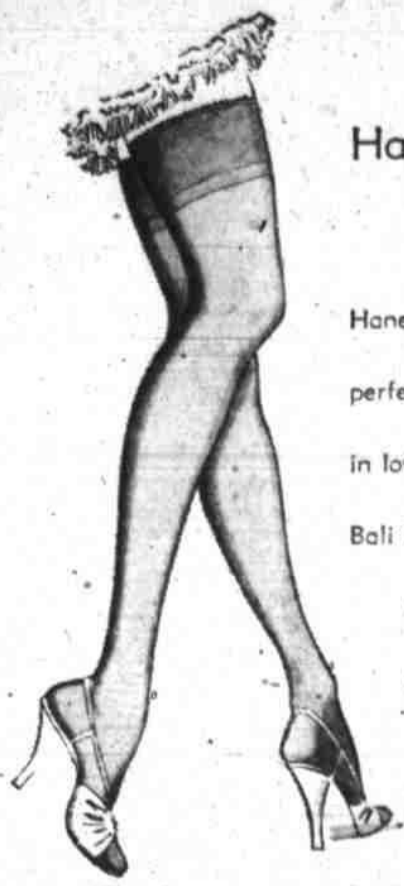

Tanker, Freighter Collide In Channel

RAMSGATE, England (AP) — The Swedish tanker Johannis caught fire and was abandoned by her crew of 42 early today after a collision in the English Channel with the Panamanian freighter Buccaneer.

By dawn at least 24 survivors and one dead had been reported recovered by ships in the vicinity, about halfway between here and the Belgian coast.

However, coastal stations reported the small tanker ship Gloria had rescued "a number" of seamen and was taking them to Dover.

The 10,788-ton Johannis had 41 men and one woman aboard. The 7,256-ton Buccaneer radioed she also had caught fire but later reported she had the blaze under control and was standing by the Swedish ship.

School Revenues Ahead Of Outlays

The Big Spring Independent School District is in excellent financial condition in relation to its budget for the current fiscal year. Receipts for the first nine months of the budget year lack only $62,398 equaling the budget estimate for the entire period. And disbursements are $27,829 short of the amount set up for the year.

That gives a margin of $122,000.43 in the receipts over disbursements column.

Revenues totaling $1,058,283 have included $943,127 for the general fund and $115,296 for interest and sinking. Receipts for the year were estimated in the budget at $1,120,281.

Expenditures thus far have totaled $936,253. Budgeted disbursements totaled $1,164,182, leaving the $227,829 differential. The expenditures have been $827,254 from the general fund and $109,098 from the interest and sinking fund.

Principal sources of income have been current taxes, $437,725; per capita apportionment, $282,596; foundation school funds, more than $250,000; and delinquent tax collections, $16,447.

Douglas Plans Jet Transport

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The Douglas Aircraft Co. plans a jet transport designed to cross the United States in 4½ hours and span the Atlantic in 6½ hours.

The jet-powered DC8 will be in the air by December 1957. Donald W. Douglas, president of the company, said yesterday. He said deliveries to airlines should begin in 1959.

Douglas termed it America's first jet transport designed for passenger service. He said it would carry 80 to 125 passengers at top speeds in excess of 550 miles per hour.

Fischer Hopes For Release Of Other Yanks In China

SWEA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Capt. Harold Fischer Jr., home after two years captivity in a Red Chinese prison, says he hopes Americans will "continue to work for the release of men still held in Red prisons in China."

The double jet ace spoke yesterday at a gala celebration. An estimated 7,000 persons—nearly 10 times the population of his tiny north Iowa home town—gathered to welcome him back.

The captain, one of four Korean War fliers released by the Chinese Reds recently, said the celebration was "the high point of my life. It's terrific."

Then he said solemnly: "I know this (the celebration) is not done for me but because I am a representative of the many others who could have been in my place.

"If you want to do something for me, here's what you can do.

"Continue to work for the release of men still held in the Red prisons in China."

He said he knows the United Nations will help them as it did him and the three other airmen released with him—Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, Wynnewood, Pa.; 1st Lt. Ron Parks, Omaha; and 1st Lt. Lyle Cameron, Lincoln, Neb.

The fliers released by the Chinese Reds recently, said the celebration was "the high point of my life. It's terrific."

Official 'Guess' Close On Freeway Right-Of-Way Cost

County commissioners did some sharp guessing last year when they called the 1954 road bond election.

The $325,000 bond issue voted for freeway right-of-way in Howard County will just about cover the cost of clearing the U. S. 80 freeway across Howard County.

That was $46,508.54 left in the fund June 1, according to the monthly financial report on the county by Auditor Lee Porter. That sum is expected to be slightly more than enough to wind up the county's obligations for securing and clearing the roadway.

The May report didn't reflect expenditures made early this month for right-of-way, nor did it show funds which must be placed in escrow as a result of about 30 condemnation suits against property of unknown ownership.

And the expense of removing fences and other obstructions still in the right-of-way must be paid out of the balance.

Porter's report also showed payment of the last installment on the 1945 road bond sinking fund. The final payment was $15,090.19, leaving $1,311.82 in the fund, the auditor said.

The monthly report showed $23,485.15 expended in May from the road and bridge fund, dropping its balance from $128,450.51 to $112,638.81.

The jury fund spent $1,214, with its balance declining from $15,987.98 to $14,973.24.

General fund expenditures totaled $6,356.89, dropping that balance from $48,262.41 to $43,067.14.

Disbursed from the officers salary fund was $9,224.20, pulling its balance from $26,140.49 to $21,827.77.

Permanent improvement expenditures totaled $1,257.92, with the cash balance falling from $9,096.50 to $7,971.93.

ATOM TESTS

No Evidence For Effect On Weather

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau says it has been unable to find any evidence that atomic explosions have had — or can have — any effect on the weather beyond a few miles from the blast.

"Although it is not possible to prove that atomic explosions have or have not influenced the weather, it is believed that such an effect is unlikely." The bureau recently told Congress after a study of the question.

The bureau investigators—meteorologists L. Machta and D. L. Harris—said that their survey was limited to the effects of atomic explosions touched off at the Nevada Proving Grounds up to this year.

But they said also that preliminary examination of available information from the H-bomb tests in the Pacific "does not indicate that any obvious changes in the weather have been produced by these explosions outside the test area."

Background of the Weather Bureau study was this:

Both the bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission had been getting letters from people in many parts of the world blaming unpleasant weather on the atomic explosions.

The bureau had not previously been able to pin down any association between the blasts and poor weather, but it wanted to be sure. Questionnaires were sent to most of organizations in the United States employing meteorologists.

Out of 80 replies received, about 50 per cent said they could see "no possible connection" between atomic blasts and subsequent weather.

The others offered these theories as to how there might possibly be such a link:

1. That atomic "debris"—that is, radioactive particles from the bomb itself, and dust and dirt stirred up by the blast—might serve as a "cloud-seeding agent." That is, the debris-might touch off rain in the same way that dry ice or silver iodide sometimes can if dropped into the "right kind" of a cloud.
2. That the radioactive character of the debris might produce changes in the electrical character of the atmosphere, possibly leading to observable weather effects.
3. That the dust resulting from an atomic blast might interfere with the amount of solar radiation reaching the earth.

The Weather Bureau—equipped with information from the AEC and aided by cooperative studies carried on by Air Force and private scientists—believes it has knocked down these three suggestions this way:

1. Experiments show, the bureau says, that Nevada dust has "very poor" properties for serving as a cloud-seeder.
2. As for changing the electrical properties of the atmosphere, atomic debris deposited on the ground could change the electrical conductivity of the air near the ground. But, the bureau says, the change would be in such a shallow layer near the ground that it would be insignificant in terms of usual atmospheric phenomena.
3. An atomic cloud passing overhead could increase the electrical conductivity of the air in a local sense. But perhaps its most significant effect—and there's no proof of this—would be a beneficial one, in that the electrical change might tend to reduce the amount of lightning from a thunderstorm cropping up coincidentally in the area at about the same time.

As for atomic "dust" interfering with the amount of solar radiation reaching the earth, the bureau says this:

It is true that a sufficiently large dust cloud can interfere with solar radiation—a fact demonstrated by the 1883 eruption of the Krakatoa volcano in the Dutch East Indies which tossed dust equivalent to several cubic miles of earth into the air.

"However," Machta and Harris said in their original report in the technical journal Science, "according to the best available information, there appear to be many orders of magnitude separating the amount of dust required to produce any significant reduction in worldwide incoming radiation and that produced by the Nevada explosions."

What about the possibility of weather being affected just by the blast force of the explosion?

The Weather Bureau says none of the weathermen it quizzed felt that the energy of the explosion itself could have a significant effect on the weather.

The Weather Bureau also discounts the theory that tornadoes have become more frequent since the United States began testing bombs in Nevada.

Its rebuttal: While there has been an increase in the number of tornadoes reported, it is believed that much of it can be traced to better reporting systems, rather than to a real increase in tornado frequency itself.

Neither was any connection found between atomic blasts and the droughts that have affected areas of the Southwest and the plains states in recent years.

Wrecks In Howard, Neighboring Counties Take 43 Lives In 1954

Forty-three people were killed in 1954 traffic accidents occurring in Howard and seven surrounding counties, records released by the Department of Public Safety show.

Those people were killed in 34 different mishaps, most of which were on highways. Another 292 individuals were injured in an additional 210 accidents.

The accidents were in Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Martin, Mitchell, Sterling, Scurry and Howard counties.

In the entire state of Texas, there were 2,431 people killed in 2,017 accidents. The total number injured in 1954 was 102,726. The state had 208,352 fatal, injury and non-injury accidents.

The leading cause of the rural fatal accidents was summed up by Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety. "Speed too fast for conditions," he said.

Area law enforcement officials say that speed was the primary cause of accidents in this district.

There was a total of 687 accidents of all types in the eight-county area.

In Howard County there were nine fatal accidents and 12 deaths. Six of these accidents were on highways, and they accounted for nine of the fatalities. Two accidents on farm-to-market roads resulted in two deaths, and one county road accident ended in a death.

There were 138 people injured in Howard County during 1954, the records show, and they were hurt in 69 accidents. The county had 224 mishaps.

Borden County had only one death in a traffic mishap during 1954, and it came in a farm-to-market road accident. Fifteen individuals were injured. Six mishaps, and the total number of accidents was 14.

Glasscock County had the best record in this area. There was one death in the county on a farm-to-market road accident. There were only 13 injured, and these were hurt in seven mishaps. The total number of accidents was 25.

In Dawson County four people were killed in four highway accidents, and one was killed in a county road mishap. Fifty-three were injured in 26 accidents, and the total number of mishaps was 86.

The Martin County total shows four fatalities—three in highway mishaps and one in a farm-to-market collision. Thirty-five individuals were injured in 21 accidents, and the total number of mishaps for the year was 75.

Scurry County had the only fatalities in a city. Six people were killed in two accidents in Snyder. Five more were killed in highway mishaps in Scurry County, and one was killed on a county road mishap. Total number of deaths was 12.

Sixty-five people were injured in Scurry County, and the total number of accidents was 128.

Two people were killed in Sterling County in two highway accidents, and 27 were injured in 11 accidents. Total number of accidents was 41.

Six were killed in Mitchell County in five mishaps. Four of these were killed on highways and two on county roads. Fifty-two were injured in 32 mishaps. The total number of accidents was 94.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Arabs playing game of chatur angam.

Does Iraq produce more oil than any other country in Asia?

No. The crude oil, or petroleum, of Iraq amounted to 140 million barrels in a recent year, but Kuwait produced almost twice as much, and Saudi Arabia more than doubled the amount.

Kuwait, by the way, is pronounced Kou-WITE or Kou-WATE. It is a small protectorate of Great Britain, and is located on the Persian Gulf, southeast of Iraq.

In some recent years (but not all) the yearly output of crude oil in Iran (or Persia) has been larger than that of Iraq.

Q. Have profits from the oil of Iraq made life easy for the people of that country?

A. Hardly that, but there has been help to the national treasury. The country's receipts from oil are far larger than from the big date crop.

Q. What are the chief food crops of Iraq besides dates?

A. Wheat, barley, rice and figs.

Q. Is Mosul an important city of Iraq?

A. Mosul (pronounced mo-SOOL) is important in a mild way. It was built on the right bank of the Tigris River, opposite to the location of the ancient city of Nineveh.

The fine cotton textile known as "muslin" was named for Mosul, where it seems to have originated. At the present time Mosul is best known as a center of the nation's oil production.

Q. Did the game of chess start in Iraq?

A. Probably not. More likely chess was invented by a Persian or by a resident of India. Nevertheless a crude form of chess, known as chatur angam, is popular among the natives of Iraq.

Q. Does the kingdom of Iraq belong to the United Nations?

A. Yes.

YOUNGSTERS' NO. 1 HERO

Davy Crockett Gear Goes 'Like Hot Cakes' In City

By LA DOYCE LAMBERT

Who do you suppose is the favorite here of young Big Spring—Roy Rogers, Flash Gordon, Gene Autry? Not on your list! It's Davy Crockett by far.

This is proved not only by the fact that the song is a hit parade favorite and that the movie is a top money-maker, but also by the fact that Davy's wearing apparel is popular too.

Davy Crockett hats and shirts are selling here like hotcakes. It's getting to where a lad doesn't feel like a full-blooded American boy if he doesn't own a coonskin cap or a shirt like Davy used to wear.

This fearless frontiersman who "killed himself a bar" when he was only three," has inspired virtually every youth in the land. He has become the image of early American courage and daring. Walt Disney is responsible for Davy's recreation, and everybody is jumping on the band wagon to get his share of the goldmine.

Local stores report that the coonskin caps are the most popular, but they also have Davy Crockett belts, billfolds, shirts, and monograms which are hard to keep in stock. The caps come in several sizes either with a picture of Davy on the top or more expensive solid fur ones.

The leather belts have Davy's name on the back and the big metal buckles contain a carving of him and his trusty rifle, Betsy.

The shirts are of real western style with pearl buttons and leather striping on the front. Also available are monograms of Davy and his rifle which can be ironed to almost any kind of clothing.

Exercise Can Avert Tensions

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Maybe your aches, pains and tensions are due to hypokinetic disease.

That means lack of motion or exercise.

And there's evidence, a medical team said today, that lack of exercise makes you a more likely candidate for heart attacks, for diabetes, backaches, tensions or "nerves," fatness, stiff neck and a few other ailments.

The case for exercise and physical fitness for health and longevity was presented to the American Medical Assn. by Dr. Hans Kraus, Miss Bonnie Pruden Hirschland and Dr. Kurt Hirschhorn of the Institute for Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, New York University.

They cited studies, some of them their own, showing:

Heart attacks are twice as common among London bus drivers, who sit down all day, as among bus conductors, who move about.

Fifty-six per cent of several thousand U. S. children couldn't pass six simple muscle tests, as against 8 per cent of European youngsters.

Among 5,000 adults with backaches, 80 per cent had no organic or physical difficulty, but couldn't pass six simple exercise tests for strength and flexibility of key muscles for posture. Given some corrective exercises, their backaches disappeared.

The medical team said the physically inactive person shows signs of aging earlier than the exerciser. The nonexerciser is less well equipped to meet stresses and sudden emergencies.

Underexercising "may well contribute to organic disease by storing emotional tension and producing all the diseases associated with stress," the report declared.

It said some studies find a greater tendency in the physically inactive for ulcer of the duodenum or first part of the intestine, for cancer of the lungs, appendicitis, cancer of the prostate gland, diabetes and cirrhosis of the liver.

SERVING BIG SPRING

MRS. E. H. HAPPEL
... and the result of her hobby

Local Artist Good At Bossing, Cooking, Too

A housewife who is 78 but feels 25 is Mrs. E. H. Happel, who says she's got the boss in the house is real pleased to still be able to do the cooking for her family.

She is a pert little woman with a bright outlook on life and a ready laugh. When a doctor told her she should reduce she told him all her life she had asked the Lord to give her some extra flesh and now that He had answered her prayers she didn't think it would be right to try to take it off.

A woman who has been active in many affairs, she was married to Dr. E. H. Happel, a dentist, in 1902. Her wedding dress was of light blue satin and her slippers, size one, were made of the same material. A friend in the merchandising business bought the material in New York for her and had the slippers made. Her gloves were size five, and she tipped the scales at 85 pounds.

Never was a poorer couple married, according to Mrs. Happel. They came to Big Spring on their wedding day and have lived here ever since. Three years after their marriage, the railroad put on a five dollar rate to the Dallas Fair and they threw caution to the winds and took a belated honeymoon trip to the fair. Three years ago, when their golden anniversary came around, they had suffered the loss of their oldest daughter Mrs. Sidney House, and no observance was held.

Until a year ago, Mrs. Happel organized an art class each year, but when she was called to California by a death in the family, she dismissed her class and hasn't started any other. At one time, she made a trip to Lamesa once a week and in one day would teach nine classes in the morning and nine in the afternoon.

Born of a mother who was reared in the Southern tradition, she never learned about cooking until the family came west and lived on a ranch near Pecos. Here her cowboy uncle taught her and her sisters to cook. She baked her first cake at the age of nine and has been at it ever since. She's still southern enough to want rice every day and has it about that often. If the meat she cooks doesn't make its own gravy, she makes some for it.

She vowed when she married she was going to be the best wife in the world and when her first child was born she made a similar vow she would be the best mother.

er. She laughingly says that in this way the Happel family got the world's most devoted servant.

That family was made up of three daughters, the late Mrs. House, Mrs. Adrian deGraffenried, who is a local resident, and Mrs. "Doc" Aiken, who lives in Louisiana.

She is still keeping her house and when she learned that her grandson, Frank House, would be discharged from military service, she asked his wife and children to come to her home and wait for his return. The family is with her and she delights in helping care for the two great-grandchildren, Janet, and Alton Edward, who is just two weeks old.

A special dish with the family is Broulet and no holiday celebration is complete in this household unless the mother makes it for them. This is her recipe:

BROULET
3 cups sweet milk heated in double boiler.
Mix 3 rounding tablespoons of flour with a pinch of salt.
4 cup sugar
3 eggs slightly beaten
Pour this mixture into the heated milk stirring until it thickens.

In a separate pan, brown two tablespoons of sugar until deep brown. Pour this into the above ingredients. Flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla and one cup of crushed nuts. After this has cooled, whip one pint of whipping cream, and add to each a little of custard and top it with three cherries. This makes six servings.

Guests at a recent party of garden clubs were delighted with the various cookies served there, and all wanted the recipes. Rosa Timmerman, who supplied the recipes, has asked that they be printed on the food page, thus making their distribution easier.

Here are the two which she gave us:

CINNAMON CRISPS
1/2 lb. butter or oleo
1 cup sugar
2 cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons cinnamon
1 egg yolk
1 cup or more finely chopped nuts
1 egg white

Cream butter and sugar; add egg yolk and mix well gradually adding the cinnamon and flour that has been sifted together. With hand, spread thoroughly and very thinly on greased cookie sheet.

Spread unbeaten egg white evenly over entire top. Pour off any surplus white. Sprinkle top with nuts and press well into dough. Bake in 300-350 degree oven for 30 minutes or more. These must bake long enough to be crisp when cool. Immediately on removal from oven, cut into 2 inch squares.

CHEWS
2 eggs
3-4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup sugar
1-3 cup white Karo
1 1/2 cups chopped pecans
1 cup sifted flour

Break eggs into large bowl and add salt and extract. Beat. Gradually beat in sugar and Karo; add dates and nuts and mix well. Fold in sifted flour. Pour into a greased 8-inch square layer pan. Bake in 375 degree oven for 20-25 minutes. Do not overbake. Remove from oven and while still hot cut ed milk stirring until it thickens.

In a separate pan, brown two tablespoons of sugar until deep brown. Pour this into the above ingredients. Flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla and one cup of crushed nuts. After this has cooled, whip one pint of whipping cream, and add to each a little of custard and top it with three cherries. This makes six servings.

Poplar Packages Perk Up Picnics

It's time to haul out that picnic basket, mom, because this time of year nothing beats a picnic for good, old-fashioned family fun. What to put into that basket? You're the expert on that, with your experience at picking foods that are tasty, easy to fix and easy to eat. And don't forget those little packs of chewing gum, that add to the fun and top off the picnic meal to a peak of perfection!

Pass some gum around on your way to your picnic spot. It will keep the kids in a patient mood without spoiling their appetites. Chewing gum after lunch is a good idea, too. It helps cleanse the teeth, aids digestion and adds extra pleasure to picnic activities. So remember to pick up some packages of chewing gum when you're going that picnic shopping. Those popular packages will perk up a picnic every time.

Make Radish Fans

Know how to fix radish fans? First remove the stems and root tips from the radishes. Then cut the radish almost through in close-together crosswise slices. Dump the radishes into a bowl of ice water and place in the refrigerator until the paperthin slices fan out.

Asparagus, Scallions Make Tempting Dish

Associated Press Newfeatures

Fresh asparagus and scallions — summer's the time to serve them many delicious ways.

Be cautious when you cook asparagus. Lift the cover of the pan several times to keep the attractive green color and leave them on the range only until they are tender-crisp.

If you like to peel the asparagus before cooking, use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler that is razor sharp and pare almost up to the tips. Peeling has its advantages because it enables eaters to enjoy the whole spear.

Try cooked asparagus some of these ways: Cut them in one-inch lengths and fold them into a cheese sauce to be served over scrambled eggs. Or fill a puffy omelet with the asparagus spears and spoon the cheese sauce over; dust with paprika.

Arrange asparagus on cooked ham and add Hollandaise Sauce. If you don't feel up to making real Hollandaise use a recipe for a quick version. Well-buttered toasted English muffins make a wonderful go-along; so do small hot biscuits.

Top asparagus with tiny cubes of bread that have been toasted in lots of butter until they're golden-brown and crunchy.

Brown sliced pecans in butter and serve over asparagus.

Marinate asparagus in a tangy French dressing and serve with salad greens and deviled eggs. Make this salad combination bright with strips of canned pineapple.

Make a fresh asparagus soup using chicken stock for your thin white sauce base and adding a little cream at the end. Serve the soup with croutons that have been toasted in curry butter. This is company fare de luxe!

Team chicken with asparagus to make luscious rolls for a ladies' lunch. Here's the recipe:

CHICKEN AND ASPARAGUS ROLLS

Ingredients:
One and 1/2 pounds fresh asparagus (cooked and drained), 1/2 cup French dressing, 6 slices cooked chicken, 6 finger rolls (split in half lengthwise), homemade mayonnaise.

Method:
Marinate the asparagus in the French dressing in a flat container; refrigerate for about an hour. Split rolls in half lengthwise and spread cut surfaces with butter. Arrange chicken on one-half of rolls, asparagus spears on the other.

er. Top with mayonnaise. Makes 6 servings.

And now the scallions. Or maybe you call them green onions. No matter. They taste good by any name.

Ever try cooking scallions? To do so trim off the roots and enough of the green tops so there's about four inches left. Do this before you wash the onions thoroughly, making sure there's no dirt lurking in the green tops. Put the clean scallions in a deep skillet and cook them in salted boiling water very quickly just until you can pierce the white parts easily with a fork. This probably won't take more than five minutes. Use your slotted pancake turner to lift the scallions from the skillet and drain them well. Serve them fancied up in one of the following ways.

Top them with melted butter and grated Parmesan cheese and arrange on toast. Add strips of crisply cooked bacon, if you like.

Marinate them in French dressing and offer with salad greens.

Serve them with mushroom sauce when you are having broiled lamb chops and parried new potatoes. Add strawberry shortcake for a scrumptious spring dinner. Here's the recipe for the sauce:

MUSHROOM SAUCE FOR SCALLIONS

Ingredients:
One-third cup milk, 1 tablespoon flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1 can (3-ounces) sliced broiled mushrooms.

Method:
Pour milk in small saucepan and bring to simmering over moderate heat. Stir flour, salt and celery salt with liquid drained from mushrooms, until there are no lumps. Add to milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Stir in drained mushrooms and heat thoroughly. Pour over freshly cooked hot scallions; count on about 8 scallions for each serving. Makes about 2-3 cup sauce.

Dice cooked beets and mix with creamstyle cottage cheese; mound on salad greens and serve with crisp crackers.

Remember that fluid milk, made from nonfat dry milk powder and water, needs to be refrigerated. Chill it in a covered container as soon as you have mixed it.

Add diced green pepper or celery to canned baked beans before heating. Makes good texture contrast.

Woman Solon Third In Line For Top Post

AUSTIN (AP)—For the second time in Texas history a woman stands third-in-line to the governorship.

The Senate yesterday elected Sen. Neville Colson of Navasota, for 17 years a member of the Legislature, to its highest honor—Senate president pro tempore.

In the post, the East Texas lawmaker will serve as governor when the governor and lieutenant governor are out of the state. First woman to hold the honor was then Sen. Margie Neal of Carthage in 1929.

Wearing a lavender orchid and a warm smile, Mrs. Colson took the Senate rostrum after her unanimous election and told the senators in tremulous voice she was "grateful" but "pleased mostly by the friendship made here."

Oath of office was administered by Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, who presented her to the Senate as "the outstanding lady of this state."

Her name was placed in nomination by Sen. Carlos Ashley of Llano and 15 senators seconded the nomination with speeches of praise.

"One of the finest minds of the Senate... detailed attention to duty... a consideration of everyone," they said.

A former school teacher and principal, Mrs. Colson came to the Legislature in 1938, serving five consecutive sessions in the House and then was promoted to the Senate where she has completed her fourth session.

A Little Ahead Of His Time
 John Tqdoerto, 8-year-old student at St. Patrick's Military Academy, Harriman, N. Y., is politely escorted from the line of cadets walking to the rostrum to receive their diplomas at West Point, N. Y., by Cadet Thomas Keeley, third classman at the U. S. Academy from Pitscain, Pa. Johnny was merely trying to get a better look at the proceedings, camera and all. Amused cadets at left unidentified.

Air Reservists Live In Uncertain Times

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Sometimes when the kids are in bed, Cliff and Jean Eisele talk quietly of the past, the uncertain present and the dim future.

They are members of America's war generation, poised for all their adult lives between war and peace and trying to hold the skills of both. Though it doesn't often show, they are worried these days.

Cliff's plight is typical of many members of his generation—a full-time civilian and a part-time jet pilot, but one of the "old men of the sky." First it was World War II for Cliff. Then he and Jean, with two children and a third on the way, faced the Korean call-up together. They now have four children and are sweating out "what next?" For info's sake "Indochina? China? Or "the big one?"

If the gong sounds, Cliff will be among the first to go. The nation has no one else to send except others like him. He is a National Guard captain and has been one for seven years. Already Cliff—Clifton M. Eisele Jr.—is wearing goggles-glasses. He figures he can pass the physical as a jet pilot for four to six more years.

He is no exception. About 90 percent of all Guard pilots and all the Air Reserve pilots regardless of branch are veterans of either World War II, Korea or both. The Guard, a part of, yet distinct from, the Air Force Reserve, stands runway alert at 17 scattered bases. At each station are three jets on the runway, ready to go. The pilots are volunteers. Let a plane wander toward a vital area and two of the jets are off the ground in a bit over two minutes, racing to intercept. Mostly they intercept lost civilian fliers, but they take no chances.

"You remember Cliff and men like him—the bright and cocky lads of 19 or 15 years ago who spent their spare time and flight pay in bars, talking about women and engines. Now they talk mostly about engines. The hand that trips a trigger at 500 miles an hour on the gunnery range at 3 p.m. may be changing diapers at 6.

Their average age is Cliff's 32. The average income of an Air Force reservist is $4,500. For the Navy reservist it is between $5,000 and $7,000. They live in neat suburban homes, usually not far from an airfield. The average pilot is married with two children. Most have professional or semiprofessional jobs.

When they get out for a weekend of flying, they aren't playing fly-boy. They've been fly-boys, all the way from Berlin to MIG Alley, yet they are sometimes scoffed at as "weekend warriors." Many employers refuse jobs or promotions to reservists. They might be called up, thus leaving a key business job vacant.

Lt. Col. John O. Gray says one of the toughest jobs of the Air Force is to stop this sort of discrimination. The Air Force actually is having to send some employers on the idea of "no reservists, no defense, no business."

Stu Cliff and the others go out and fly at least 100 hours a year—43 drill periods and 14 days at summer camp.

Cliff tried to put it in words. "I can't afford to give it up. You know it would take about $2,000 to buy the kind of annuity I will get. I've got 14 years in now, and in only six more years I'll be eligible for a pension. Then there's the pay. I get $25 a month."

"He went on," St. Louis says. "When the times come to leap for the big one (jet pilots never fly anywhere—they leave) we're going to have to have somebody on hand. Besides, I like to fly."

How does Jean like it? She remembers June 15, 1954. That was the day Cliff became the only man ever to eject from a jet fighter at under 400 feet and survive. He shrugs and says "I had a couple of angels on my shoulders."

She says: "I felt like screaming at him. You've got to get out of the guard. I just don't like it any more." But I didn't.

In reality, the pay means little to Cliff. He would be anxious to spend about 40 hours a month flying, attending to his own business and to and from the field. He pays his own meals and transportation.

Even so, there's a chance Cliff and men like him might get promoted right out of reserve. In 1952, Congress made promotion mandatory for all qualified pilots who have spent a certain number of years in the same grade. On the surface that's fine, but it doesn't reckon with the military's "rot" organization, which specifically limits the number of officers in each grade in each squadron.

Suppose his squadron already has enough majors. He could be shoved out of the guard and into the Air Force Reserve. But it has the same table of organization, and he might find himself squeezed there in time. Then he would go on the inactive list.

Cliff has a feeling the government, thinking it was "nice" to have him when he was needed, but since he isn't needed now the government would like to save money by encouraging him to quit.

He was 20 when he joined up, got out at 23, went to college, married. He and Jean had two children when he was called up for 21 months during the Korean War. At 30 he finally got his first case as a lawyer.

"I was six years later than most and paid accordingly," he says. But in the past two years he and Jean have done well, moved into their first real home near here.

If he's called up again, his earning capacity will be pretty well shot. He could get out, and lose his pension credits. But if he decides to leave and a lot of others like him did—the nation's defense would suffer terribly. And he knows he'd still be back in uniform if "the big one" came along.

As the Guard stands now, it's in pretty good shape. Brig. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, its boss, says: "The Air Guard is the only real reserve the Air Force has." He is right. It is just about authorized strength—60,800 men and 2,025 planes, including 4,100 jets. The Air Force Reserve has 240,727 men, but only 674 planes, 319 of them jets.

Farmers Protest Salt Water Hike

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Increasing salt in West Texas water is threatening to ruin drinking and irrigation supplies, farmers from four counties said yesterday.

They appeared at a Railroad Commission hearing, asking the commission to halt what they said was pollution caused by oil field waste. The landowners are from Knox, Haskell, King and Stoneval counties. Oil companies operating in the areas said they had followed procedures suggested by the commission and state board of water engineers.

Russians To 'Give' Away Reich Papers

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviets say their newspaper in East Germany, Taegliche Rundschau, will shut down July 1 but it looks as if the East German Communists actually are taking it over.

The East German government news agency ADN last night announced the paper's closing. It said the Soviet government would turn over the printing shops, buildings and other property to "competent organizations" of East Germany free of charge.

The Western Allies discontinued their Berlin newspapers several years ago.

Presbyterians Affirm Ban On Segregation

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—In the wake of a spirited two-hour debate, southern Presbyterians have reaffirmed their church's denunciation of enforced racial segregation during the closing hours of the 85th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern).

ROKs Battle Police

SEOUL (AP)—Korean War veterans, 200 of them, battled with police an hour today in anti-Japanese demonstrations. The melee took place in front of the Capitol as leaders shouted "Charge!" to the veterans who sought to see President Syngman Rhee. They carried banners demanding "Stop U.S. aid to pro-Communist Japan."

Champion Dance Team To Return To Home Screens

By WAYNE OLIVER
 NEW YORK (AP)—Marge and Gower Champion, who were among TV's earliest stars and then danced their way to film fame, will return to home screens soon.

The Champions are adapting their current Broadway musical production "Three for Tonight" for a one-hour telecast on CBS' new Wednesday night drama hour June 22. And they're considering offers from both CBS and NBC for three or four color spectaculars during the fall and winter.

Marge and Gower both appeared in plays and movies before they decided to become a dancing and marital partnership in 1947 but played as a team only in night clubs until their TV debut in Max Liebman's Broadway Revue series in 1948.

The show, often called TV's first spectacular, brought instant national recognition to the Champions and two other relatively unknown performers named Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca.

"After that it was astounding the way we were recognized wherever we went," Gower says. "It also gave a big boost to our personal appearances."

"After the TV series we played the Riviera across the Hudson from New York and went next to the Mocambo in Hollywood, and it was there we began to get offers for movies."

Since then the Champions have been featured in seven major pictures—five for MGM and one each for Paramount and Columbia. Their latest was "Jupiter's Darling" for MGM.

Meanwhile, they have made only three TV appearances. Two were on Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town," first in a telecast on "their life story, and then in another devoted to Columbia Pictures. Their other performance was in a Video Theatre play.
