his parents, had met Astronaut Neil Armstrong, who was the first man to step on the moon. In 1964 the Wilkins family met Armstrong at the National Model Airplane contest held at the Naval Air Station in Dallas. Brent was on television with Armstrong in conjunction with the contest. He is shown looking at a Monday newspaper with a picture of Armstrong on the front page.

.S. Scores Touchdown On Moon!

...triumphant astronauts were winging toward a splashdown today with residents joining millions of people in the moon travelers who "came in taking one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind."

at 9:56 p.m. (CDT) Sunday, proclaiming, "That's one small step for man, a giant leap for mankind." Twenty minutes later, Aldrin followed. His first words were, "Beautiful, beautiful... a magnificent desolation." The proud Astronauts planted the U. S. Flag in the moon dust, then talked to President Nixon on earth by radio-telephone. "This has to be the most historic telephone call ever made," the President said, "I just can't tell you how proud I am. Because of what you have done, the heavens have become part of man's world. As you talk to us from the Sea of Tranquility, it inspires us to redouble our efforts to bring peace and tranquility to man. "All the people on earth are surely one in their pride of what you have done, and one in their prayers that you will return safely." The pair walked and made experiments for some two hours on the alien soil as millions watch from the home planet some 240,000 miles away. They had landed on the moon some 6 1/2 hours before. They reentered the lunar module at 12:11 a.m. Monday, rested and prepared for the blast-off and re-docking with the command ship. This vital maneuver was made and the Astronauts started their journey home, with the splashdown scheduled Thursday in the Pacific Ocean.

OLD TIMER (name withheld)—The United States is first in everything, and I'm glad to see us prove it to all the nations by landing on the moon first.
NAME WITHHELD—I think it's the biggest waste of all times. There's nothing on the moon, and we could use all that money for something better, like getting the war over with in Vietnam.
MELBA ETHRIDGE—I think my tax money could be spent on better things. I believe many people who work hard to make a living and pay taxes might feel the same way.
KATHY WALTER (teenager)—The Apollo 11 mission was exciting, but I don't feel it merits the extensive, melodramatic coverage given it on television, radio and newspapers and magazines. The public prayers, the "They Cannot Be Rescued" headlines, and constant coverage of the "history-making event" are, in my opinion, over emphasized when compared to the passiveness given other history-making events. How about the Vietnam war (where thousands of lives are risked, not just three), the technical and scientific discoveries being made which may save thousands of lives, and the rapidly starving, overcrowded conditions of people in the far East?

LAVON NIEMAN—Landing on the moon was most certainly a historical event and since it was accomplished, I'm glad it was during my lifetime. But what next? How many more millions of dollars of our tax money will be spent for such as this? In my opinion, I think it would be better to spend the money on spreading the gospel all over the world and concentrating on getting the war over in Vietnam.

COMMENTS ON MOON LANDING

BILL N. BALL—Phenomenal! I think it's the ultimate step, to date, in the fulfillment of the destiny of man.
WALTER HEAD—It was just great... not only the trip to the moon, but the tremendous work and knowledge it required to put man on the moon and send back live pictures to earth.

City Ambulance Service Decision at Crossroads

The question of emergency ambulance service for the city of Slaton was spotlighted again this week when city officials were notified Tuesday that England's would discontinue ambulance service after July 31. Slaton City Commission has discussed the ambulance matter in recent sessions but no formal action has been taken. Mayor David Hughes said Tuesday that the commission is considering placing the service under the supervision of the police department. "We have been studying the costs of equipment and manpower," stated the mayor, "and the police force has already completed necessary first-aid training in order to be qualified as ambulance attendants." If the commission approves the proposal, the purchase of a vehicle and equipment would be required. The mayor also said it would probably entail the addition of one more patrolman to the police force. H. M. (Bud) Englund -- in a letter to city officials-- announced that England's would be "forced to discontinue ambulance service for the transport of patients in emergency or non-emergency situations effective 12 midnight, July 31, 1969." The letter is also published in this issue of The Slatonite. In a public notice on June 19, Englund's had published a statement on its position in the matter, pointing out that its permit to operate an ambulance had not been renewed by the Texas Department of Health. The notice also explained that Federal regulations concerning the operation of ambulance services were forcing them to discontinue the practice. The city commission discussed the idea of taking on the responsibility of ambulance service at its June 23 meeting. A field representative of the State Health Department also appeared at the session to answer questions on the matter. No action was taken, but the commission decided to study the expenses involved in adding the ambulance service. The ambulance matter was not included on the agenda for the first city session this month. The commission meets again Monday, and Mayor Hughes said he felt sure some type of action would be taken at that time. Englund said he had offered to help the city in anyway and work with them as long as possible in solving "this vital community service problem." A number of cities and counties have assumed the responsibility of ambulance service in recent months as a result of funeral homes discontinuing the service. In preparation for probable service as emergency ambulance attendants, eight officers and four dispatchers of Slaton Police Department received certificates for having com-

'Very Quiet Week' Reported by Police
A "very quiet" week was reported by Slaton Police the past seven days. Only six arrests and seven traffic tickets were reported. One minor accident was investigated by officers. Louise B. Bratcher was driver of a vehicle involved in a collision with a parked car on S. 9th street Sunday. Total damage was pegged at $75.

August Tabbed 'Sparkle Month' In Community
"Sparkle Month" is to be observed in Slaton during August, according to plans being formulated by the beautification committee of Slaton Chamber of Commerce. The committee, headed by Tommy Wallace, hopes to make the campaign more than just an "ordinary clean-up drive." Emphasis will be placed on beautification of buildings and lots located in the approach areas to the city. Wallace met with the Chamber's retail trade committee last week, inviting them to actively participate in the campaign and help lead the way to a noteworthy project. Businessmen will be encouraged to clean up and fix up the downtown area. The City of Slaton is also making plans to cooperate in the clean-up drive. The city commission last week prepared a list of uninhabitable buildings and will seek to have these structures voluntarily removed or destroyed. Condemnation proceedings could follow, in some cases if the property owner does not cooperate or cannot be located. The City has also sent notices to property owners who have city sewer lines available but have not hooked on to the lines. Failure to use available sewer lines is a violation of a city ordinance.

AND THEN IT RAINED---Ray Cook, who farms the V. G. Browning farm west of Slaton, is shown with Gary Cook and Ted Dixon as they laid irrigation pipe Monday afternoon. The land hadn't been watered since planting time, and Cook said the cotton still looked good. After laying the irrigation pipe, the area received a good rainfall Monday night. (SLATONITE PHOTO)

Showers Boost To Cotton Crops

A "near perfect" thunder-shower moved over the Slaton area Monday night and early Tuesday morning, giving a big boost to cotton prospects which already were bright under hot, cotton-growing weather for several weeks. The rainfall measurements ranged from .25 to an inch to more than 2 1/2 inches in the area. Slaton had about one-half inch. according to some rain gauges, while others reported closer to an inch. The heaviest rainfall in the Slaton area was reported west of town. B. B. Jones was reported to have 2.5 inches about seven miles southwest of the city, and Harold Voigt reported about the same on his farm six miles northwest of Slaton. One farmer reported .90 of an inch about five miles southwest of town, while measurements of .40 and .50 were recorded around the Southland and Gordon communities. Wilson also reported about one-half inch of moisture. Although most of the cotton in the area was not in dire need of rain, it fell "just right."

Mejorettes Win First Place
Only one first place trophy was awarded at the Camp of Champions majorette school held July 13-15 at Roswell's branch of Eastern New Mexico University. . . . and Slaton's high school majorettes came home with the coveted trophy. Majorettes are Lebra Robinson, Vicki Milliken, Melissa Holoman and Dru Ann Beard. The girls earned the money for their trip on various fund raising projects. In judging the majorettes, performance, attendance at workshops, ability to learn and routine twirling were considered.

to suit most farmers. The Slaton area escaped the more turbulent weather which hit around Lubbock. High winds and some hail left damage in and around the Hub City. The rain, which started about 11:30 as a light shower, fell slow and steady around midnight Monday. It served as a big boost to dryland crops and to grain sorghum crops, which were most affected by the dry, hot weather of recent weeks.

Chamber Offers Service
An employment service has been initiated by Slaton Chamber of Commerce. It was announced this week by manager Ted Weaver. Chamber directors approved the service as a no-cost benefit for employers and persons seeking employment. Persons seeking jobs may make application at the Chamber office, located in the Municipal Building. Slaton businessmen and firms will have access to the applications at the C of C office. No charge will be made for this service.

Direct Distance Dialing Set for Slaton in 1970

Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) will be initiated in Slaton in the fall of 1970, Jerry Martin, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, announced today. DDD will allow all customers in the Slaton exchange to dial the digit "1" to gain access to long distance calls. Introduction of Direct Distance Dialing is another step toward providing the best possible telephone service for Slaton," Martin said. DDD calls from one and two party customers will be automatically identified and recorded for billing purposes. Calls from rural party line telephones will be interrupted briefly by an operator to secure the calling number. She will enter the number into the equipment. Martin pointed out that the DDD equipment will punch into paper tape calling number, the called number, the time of day and the length of the call. The tape is used for billing purposes. If the called telephone is not answered, the equipment will eliminate billing of that call. "Wrong number calls will be easily handled, also," Martin added. "Customers who reach a wrong number will immediately call the operator and give her information on the erroneous call. She will take steps to eliminate billing of that call."

ber they are calling. Martin explained that it will not be necessary to dial Area Code 806--the Area Code for Slaton and the Panhandle-South Plains region. "Since many calls from Slaton are to other telephones in the 806 Area, elimination of those three digits will make use of DDD even faster," Martin noted. However, he emphasized that all other area codes must be dialed. DDD calls from one and two party customers will be automatically identified and recorded for billing purposes. Calls from rural party line telephones will be interrupted

Water Is Topic Of No. Two Amendment

Perhaps the most important amendment which area citizens will be voting on Aug. 5 will be the second one on the ballot, Amendment Number Two. This proposed amendment adds a new Section 49-d to Article III of the Texas Constitution which is designed to grant to the Texas Water Development Board the powers and flexibility of operation necessary to develop sufficient water resources for present and future economic development in the state.

Specifically, the proposed new section broadens the powers of the Water Development Board, permitting the board to participate in the development of all types of water resources. To increase water resources, it increases the constitutionally-authorized amount of Water Development Bonds by an additional $3.5 billion, subject to the approval of a two-thirds majority of the legislature. It eliminates the present four per cent interest rate ceiling on Water Development Bonds. It eliminates the 1982 termination date for the Water Development Fund which is derived from the sale of Water Development Bonds and it extends the maturity schedules for Water Development Bonds from 10 to 50 years. Finally, it authorizes the Texas Water Development Board under such provisions as the legislature may prescribe to receive grants and to contract with the United States, other states, foreign governments and others for acquisition and development of water resources and facilities and to secure such contracts by the general credit of the state.

BACKGROUND
Section 49-c was added to Article III of the Texas Constitution in 1957. This section created the Texas Water Development Board as an agency of the state for the purpose of making loans to local governmental agencies which sponsored construction of projects to conserve and develop the water resources of the state.

The section also authorized the Water Development Board to issue and sell $100 million in bonds to provide for a Water Development Fund and authorized an additional $100 million, subject to the approval of a two-thirds majority of the legislature.

In 1962 Section 49-d was added and authorized the Water Development Board to acquire conservation storage space in reservoirs to be constructed on Texas streets by federal or local governmental agencies.

In 1966 Section 49-d was amended to permit the acquisition of a variety of water-resource projects in addition to reservoir storage space. It also authorized an additional $200 million in bonds.

The Water Development Board derives its statutory powers, responsibilities and guidelines from the Texas Water Development Board Act. In addition to those set out in the constitution, the Act, as amended, conferred on the board the power and responsibility to develop a statewide water plan to serve as a flexible guide for the orderly development of water resources in Texas.

The Texas Water Plan was completed early this year, and, if carried out, will require the construction of tremendous water development and conservation facilities during the next 50-year period.

The proposed amendment contains those constitutional changes necessary to implement the Texas Water Plan.

ARGUMENTS FOR
The future economic growth of Texas is dependent on adequate water resources and the passage of the proposed constitutional amendment is necessary to insure that those resources will be available at the time they are needed. Studies made by the Texas Water Development Board and by the United States Bureau of Reclamation show conclu-

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From C. Thomas, Los Angeles, California: I remember the simple pleasures of life in a small town in Mississippi almost half a century ago.

A boy had only to cross the street to enjoy the "world outdoors" — a wooded fair-land filled with underbrush through which many bare feet had marked a series of trails, to the crab apple trees, the shallow slough and to the tree house high in the ancient pecan tree.

Never too far away to hear the first call to supper, a boy and his friends, armed with "B-B" guns, were often on safari in the deep depths of the jungle, stalking the blackberry bushes for a wily cottontail who had little idea he was playing the role of a ferocious lion.

The discovery and conquest of an occasional poisonous snake brought forth a trophy that was taken homeward for all the neighborhood to see. Garter snakes were a special prize, always taken alive and tucked away inside a shirt, to be revealed when the first girl came close enough to see.

Many years ago this playground of an acre or so disappeared. Trees and brush were leveled, the slough was filled and houses built side by side.

Salty Spot
For more than 100 years, the British colony of Bermuda had a colony of its own—Turk's Island, an islet in the West Indies where Bermudians raked salt for trading purposes.

It is interesting to note that Texas' present economic growth is far outstripping the state's available water resources. Unless additional water resources are developed, the state's economic growth will be stymied and, in many areas of the state, economic conditions will actually regress.

The Texas Water Plan offers a means of developing adequate water resources in an orderly, efficient manner over a 50-year period. Although Texas water resources are fairly adequate at the present time, the adoption of the proposed amendment is necessary to implement the Texas Water Plan and avoid extensive water deficiencies in the future since long periods of time are required to construct the facilities necessary for water-resource development and distribution.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST
The burden to the Texas economy of the bond issue and the construction project envisioned under the Texas Water Plan will be made greater even though all the bonds will not be issued at the same time.

Although the Water Development Bonds are revenue bonds that will be amortized ultimately by water users, there will be certain interim costs incurred prior to the time water becomes available to the users, and these costs will probably be levied on a statewide basis. Annual outlays over the 50-year period encompassed by the Texas Water Plan will be substantial.

Report Upsurge in 4-H Projects

A record enrollment of 968,000 boys and girls in the national 4-H Agricultural program was reported for 1968, according to figures supplied by the Cooperative Extension Service in 50 states and Puerto Rico. This is an increase of nearly 19,000 over the previous year.
The popular program covers a broad area of agriculture. Crops, livestock, poultry, management, marketing, experimental and research projects attract young farmers from every section of the U.S.
Since not all farm youths will remain on the farm, the 4-H agricultural program is an important training ground for future careers, says a 4-H spokesman. Agri-business today employs about 40 per cent of the working population.
The 4-H Agricultural program has been sponsored for 17 years by International Harvester, a pioneer 4-H backer. Incentive awards are provided on an annual basis. Harvester also will be host to 1969 state and national award winners who attend the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. In addition IH hosts a spectacular luncheon for the entire Congress delegation of some 2,000 persons.
Scholarships of $600 each will be presented to six national winners during the Congress. All state winners will receive an expense-paid trip to Chicago for the week-long event starting right after Thanksgiving.
Results of increased participation in the program is also reflected in the number of county medal winners last year. Nearly 6,900 young farmers claimed a medal.

Paul Martin Ready For Derby Race

Paul Ray Martin isn't on his way to Akron, Ohio yet, but he's practically on his way to the soap box derby race to be held in Lubbock Monday. Should he win in Lubbock, he and his family will head for Akron for him to enter the race there.
Paul, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Martin, Rt. 1, Slaton, has been working on his soap box for several weeks. Slaton Co-Op Gins are Paul's sponsor and the name is written in white paint on his royal blue racer. The inside is lined with blue upholstery.
The race will be held at Erskine and Highway 87, near Mackenzie Park in Lubbock, Monday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. There is a grassy area for spectators.
Paul will take his racer for final inspection Saturday. His racer weighs 248 pounds and rules require it to not weigh over 250 pounds. His racer is 78 inches long and cannot be over 80 inches long.
Paul will be a freshman student at Slaton High School. He not only built his soap box in his spare time this summer but raised a fine crop of black-eyed peas and is selling them to local grocery stores.

...a total ELECTRIC gold medallion home sets the stage for modern living!!!

A good prop man creates the proper stage mood desired by the playwright -- and, that's what Reddy does. He sets the stage for clean, comfortable, convenient modern family living. He does -- when the home you live in proudly bears the Total Electric Gold Medallion seal.

A Forgiving God

"And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more."
 -- Jeremiah 31:33

The forgiving nature of God has been shown to mankind time and time again. Paul the apostle reminded the Hebrews that God had spoken to them through His Son -- through a perfect life, one of sacrifice and of devotion, and one which was given up in a spirit of forgiveness for all men.

We should live the good life not because we fear God; but because we love God. We should live the good life because we know God, and God's commandments. We should avoid temptation and sin not because we fear punishment or consequences, but instead because we understand what God expects of us and we wish to serve our life in a pleasing manner.
