The People, Not-So-Silent Partners, Help Newspapers

During National Newspaper week it is good a time as any to pay tribute to the not-always-silent partners in any successful newspaper—the people.

Laymen at once concede that it is essential to have subscribers, or at least a reading clientele. But the people are more than bread and butter; they are mentors, critics, helpers.

Many are naive enough to believe that papers have some magic formula for producing news. They think it is as simple as turning on a machine or clipping from the exchanges. These easy chair methods will fill the paper, but not necessarily with news, particularly news about people and events right around home. Most of this news is contributed by the people, directly or indirectly. Reporters on fixed beats turn up a certain amount of news, but the bulk of the day's fare and most of the better stories result from "tips" given by some individual.

The publisher or editor who keeps his ear to the ground doesn't frequently get his head too far in the clouds. The people have a happy knack of being bluntly honest about the quality of their papers; about a certain article that ran (or failed to run) in the paper; about editorials and sports columns; even about editorial cartoons and comics. The public pulse will tell the astute members of the Fourth Estate whether they are on the right track.

By bringing problems—individual, group and community—to the paper, people eternally stimulate it to public service. Sometimes the axe-grinders are turned away; sometimes the worthy are given a modicum of support and the fringe element too much publicity. But in the main it all balances out in favor of public good, thanks to the folks who make up the public.

There's Not A Good Reason In Carload Of Fire Causes

If we get through this week without the fire engine sirens screaming and the bells dinging, it will be unusual. Somehow we always have to cook up a fire or two for Fire Prevention week.

There may be something ironically humorous about this little difficulty, but there's really nothing humorous about fires. Except in rare instances, they are utterly useless and the result of carelessness.

Most fires result from people who smoke and who are careless about it at the same time. Lighted matches tossed carelessly into rubbish or trash heaps can fire more than a cigarette, and similarly idly flipped cigarettes and cigars can touch off a roaring inferno. Only in the case of a burned mattress does direct retribution come to these foolish people who even go as far as to smoke in bed.

Second in the cause of fires is improper use of electricity. This embodies many things such as unlicensed wiring; overloading a wiring system; using appliances with frayed cords; use of shabby novelty lights, including Christmas tree decorations; leaving electric irons plugged in and all alone on an ironing board; and finally, the eliminating of safety, bridging a fuse with pennies or some other means.

Trash around and in the house; weeds and grass growing against the fence; rubbish barrels against the garage; and cleaning clothes and machines with gasoline—these are some of the many other causes of fires.

There isn't a good reason in the lot of them. So why have fires? Why pay higher insurance rates when just a little common sense and care will earn lower ones? Why lose that which not even insurance can replace when there is no use for such loss?

Washington Merry-Go-Round—Drew Pearson

GOP Stops Michigan Republican Attempting To Clean Up State

WASHINGTON—This is the story of how one republican bucked a lot of other powerful republicans in the state of Michigan.

It's an important story because it throws light on the question of who really pays the bills and pulls the strings behind the G. O. P. scenes. It happens also to be a story where this columnist sat backstage.

One Michigan newspaper recently waded its editorial pen unhesitatingly into the case of U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark and accused him of leaking certain inside facts about the Michigan scandals to the public.

The "leak," however, was the other way around. This column leaked to Tom Clark, not Tom Clark to the column. In fact, this column's readers may recall that for more than a year it has been delving into the Senator Hooper murder case and other strange goings-on in Michigan.

The alleged leak pertained to violation of the corrupt-practices act by Buick's vice-president, W. F. Buist, former General Motors' lawyer, Harry Gault, and G. O. P. National Committeeman Arthur Summerfield, who also happens to be the biggest Chevrolet dealer in the world.

JUDGE GETS COLD FEET

These big G. O. P. whipcrackers were under investigation by another republican, Michigan's Attorney General Eugene Black, when suddenly Judge Philip Elliott, of Flint, got cold feet. Hastily he dropped his one-man grand jury and ordered Black to return all records showing violation of the corrupt-practices act.

It was at this point, last July, that this columnist went to the justice department and urged it take up the Michigan scandals where courageous, beleaguered Mr. Black had left off.

At first the justice department moved like molasses. Michigan newspapers are now accusing Tom Clark of playing politics because of his probe of Michigan. But if there was any justice department enthusiasm for jumping into the Michigan political pot, this writer couldn't detect it. The Federal boys hemmed, hawed and hesitated before wading gingerly into the hot Michigan water.

AUTO DEALERS FUDGE SALES TAXES

To get the full picture of the Michigan scandals you have to turn back to 1944 when go-getting G. O. P. Leader Arthur Summerfield announced a drive to raise $500,000 from then until now, a large chunk of the republican national committee's dough has come out of Michigan, much of it from automobile dealers and manufacturers.

Witch recently, a Detroit grand jury has shown that Michigan auto dealers fudged on their sales taxes to the tune of several million dollars. They simply "forgot" to pay the state. And Michigan Attorney General Black, the lonely clean-up republican, claims that this ronegoing on sales taxes was the payoff for big campaign contributions. When you save thousands of dollars on sales taxes, naturally, you can afford to give hundreds of dollars to the G. O. P.

Black, therefore, moved to open up the smelly mess. A republican himself, he started to call a spade a spade.

Immediately other republicans chorused: "Ingrate!" The republican state central committee met and demanded that Black resign.

"You are a menace to good government, and we hereby respectfully suggest that you immediately resign," the republican state committee telegraphed Black.

Governor Sigler, also republican, promptly denied Black $35,000 he needed to investigate the campaign funds.

And when Black dug up $12,488 unexpended money left over from 1947, the G. O. P. state auditor clamped down an order that this money could not be used to probe G. O. P. campaign funds.

Every conceivable obstacle was put in Black's path. However, with a limited staff, he proceeded with his investigation of the manner in which the automobile industry of Michigan illegally financed and dominated the republican party in Michigan. This investigation was before Judge Philip Elliott in Flint, a state court.

JUDGE PROTECTS FRIENDS

Suddenly Judge Elliott got cold feet. As stated earlier, he abruptly adjourned his grand jury with the amazing explanation that criminal action might be brought against some of his friends.

This weird excuse brought sarcastic comments from two other Michigan state judges. Commented Judge W. McKay Skillman in Detroit:

"I never recall having heard that excuse before."

Remarkable Judge Joseph Moynihan, presiding circuit court judge of Michigan, "I have never, in all the years that I have been connected with the law, heard of a judge withdrawing from a case because that case might involve friends or so-called friends."

He added that he was "amazed and shocked."

What made Judge Elliott's face blanch as he beat his hasty retreat from the grand jury was the sight of various canceled checks contributed by his own auto friends in Flint. On their face they were violations of the corrupt practices act.

CANCELLED CHECKS HIDDEN

Judge Elliott not only dropped his grand-jury probe as if he had seen a ghost, but he sent a telegram to Attorney General Black ordering him to return the canceled checks and all financial records of the various auto companies.

It was at this point that this columnist beat on the door of the justice department in Washington and urged that since state officials in Michigan refused to investigate the Michigan mess, the Federal government should move in.

Note—while the Justice department tried to make up its mind, Attorney General Black in Michigan kept three sets of records of the canceled checks in three different places, so that if Gov. Sigler's state police moved in, at least one copy of the records would remain out of their reach.

DIPLOMATIC POUCH

Winston Churchill is being urged by his own Tory friends to resign as head of the conservative party. Richard Patterson, who did an important job as ambassador to Yugoslavia, but wasn't appreciated, will now be ambassador to Guatemala. The Italian government has found a legal way of getting around peace treaty curbs on the size of the army—more policemen. Italy now has more policemen than ever before in history. They could be mobilized in one week into an efficient, trained, well-equipped army. The Italian police even have their own air force. Alling British Prime Minister Clement Attlee has decided not to resign, chiefly because the labor party is so badly split. One faction is headed by Herbert Morrison, the other by Ernest Bevin, and Attlee has to stay around to referee. Sir Stafford Cripps, recent visitor in Washington, is being groomed as Attlee's successor.

Realizing People Are Funny Ups Happiness

(An introduction is in order. Mildred Young, the new Herald society editor takes over the Tuesday Rim with today's column.—Ed)

Someone thought they had an inspiration once and wrote a poem which begins something like this: "Laugh and the world laughs with you." Most people find only one thing wrong with this statement. They wonder and the world wonders just what there is to laugh about, anyway. But maybe they have just forgotten to look in the mirror.

A certain radio show is entitled "People Are Funny," and indeed they are. We're all funny, if not to ourselves, to someone else, and the sooner we all admit it the more fun we will have out of life and the greater benefit and pleasure we will be to ourselves and others.

At this point, some of you may be thinking with a great deal of disgust about some practical joker whom you have known or have the misfortune to know now, and we agree that some of them are not so nice to know. But that isn't the type of fun we're talking about. Our reference is to a sort of inner outlook on life that doesn't completely let you down no matter how rough the going gets.

We're speaking of a laugh that comes from within, a laugh that sounds and is genuine. It's something of an ability to look at yourself and people as you look at the characters in the comic section of your newspaper. After all, a lot of the stuff we call trouble and even feel is a calamity at times, is often just the very events that are funny to us, providing we are not standing in the victim's shoes. For example, a good many of you probably got a good laugh out of last week's Saturday Evening Post cover, which pictured several people standing at a bus stop following a recent rain. Action for the scene was a dry cleaning truck which rushed by just in time to splatter mud all over the innocent by-standers. Which all goes to show you that what is a tragedy to one is a joke to another.

Our suggestion for getting more out of life is to look at yourself and others in the passing parade. See others as others see you and you will soon find that people are not only funny, but people are very nice to know.—MILDRED YOUNG

Berlin Has Been A Danger Spot Since Last War's End

WASHINGTON, (AP)—THE BIG DEBATE on the Berlin crisis began Monday in the United Nations.

That debate will have its roots in the main events leading up to the crisis. They are outlined here.

These are two kinds of events—economic and political—which are at the heart of the struggle for the future of all Germany. That struggle is between Russia and its wartime allies: The United States, Britain, and France.

Just remember that in 1945 the four nations divided Germany into four zones, each occupying one, and they divided Berlin into four sectors, each occupying one.

The four were supposed to work together to restore Germany economically—by getting trade, business and jobs going again—and in time to restore it politically—by letting the Germans set up their own government.

RUSSIA AND THE WESTERN POWERS couldn't agree on the kind of government they'd let Germany have. So early this year the western powers went ahead with their own ideas and started to create a new German government.

It hadn't been set up yet, but the western powers and the Germans living in their zones are working on it. When it starts, it will be independent of the Germans in the Russian zone, unless the Russians want to take part.

The Russians got so mad about this they began limiting the amount of supplies the western powers could send into their sectors of Berlin.

Then in June the western powers reformed the money in their zone. This was done to try to bring down prices, wipe out black markets, and help business by restoring confidence in the money circulated there.

THEN, ALMOST AT ONCE, THE western-powers cracked back by extending their money reform from their zones of Germany to their sectors of Berlin. So two kinds of money were circulating in Berlin.

The Russians said this was too much of a mess. They cracked back hard; they refused to let the western powers send in any supplies by train, truck or boat in their sectors of Berlin.

The western powers started sending in supplies by plane. They've been doing this since early in the summer. It's tremendously expensive and may bog down when bad winter weather sets in.

Russia not only has refused to lift the land blockade, but is talking of blockading supplies by plane, too. So the West has appealed to the UN.

Over the week end the Russians revealed that the real reason for the land blockade is not the money reform in Berlin but the new government the west is setting up in western Germany.

BUT BERLIN WAS A DANGER SPOT from the beginning. The four powers had their troops in Berlin, each in its own sector. And each was responsible for supplying its own troops and the Germans living in its sector.

But Berlin was in the Russian zone. Any supplies the western powers sent in had to move—if they moved by land or water—through the Russian zone. Russia could stop them any time it wished.

Instead of working together economically, the zones were working separately, with trade barriers between them.

The United States and Britain decided this couldn't go on. If Germany was to be restored to anything like normal, so they agreed to treat their two zones as one, economically.

Russia refused to go along. France refused at first but now is taking part. This was a big clash between Russia and the western powers but not as big as the political explosion that happened last spring. This was it:

Moscow Negotiations Show Stalin's Word Worthless

(Copyrighted by New York Herald Tribune Syndicate, 1948.)

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON—The inner history of the unsuccessful attempt at direct negotiations with the Soviet leaders in Moscow is particularly revealing in two respects. First, it clearly reveals the real objectives which caused the Russians to impose the Berlin blockade in the first place. Second, the story of the Aug. 23 meeting with Stalin proves that the promise even of the great dictator himself is no more than a device for gaining Soviet aims and is thus empty of meaning.

The Soviets had, in fact, two alternative minimum objectives when they blocked the German capital. The first objective became obvious at the initial meeting, early in August, between the Russian dictator and the three Western diplomats.

At this meeting, Stalin seemed genuinely eager to reach an agreement to end the blockade—on one condition. This condition was a public, flat commitment by the Western nations to postpone the formation of a West German government.

This gave rise to the only really serious disagreement among the three Western governments. The three powers were agreed that in case the blockade were genuinely lifted, and a Foreign Ministers' conference on the whole German problem convened, arrangements for forming a West German government should be halted. No promises were made but the sense of this decision was conveyed, in diplomatic language, to Stalin and Molotov.

The French, however, wished to go further. They wanted to go the whole way in publicly promising the postponement of the Western German constituent assembly as a prior condition to the lifting of the blockade. Both in London and in Washington, there was some minority sentiment for such a move. But in Berlin, General Lucius Clay was adamant. He believed that to make such a prior commitment would be a potentially disastrous appeasement of the Soviets under duress. And he made it clear that if this step were taken, he would resign.

Clay's view prevailed when the Western intelligence services discovered that the Kremlin had sent certain instructions to the eastern European propaganda ministers and to the whole Communist apparatus. These instructions were to prepare to play up the forthcoming backdown of the Western nations on a West Germany government as a smashing victory for the peace-loving Soviets and a crushing defeat for the Imperialist West. Thereupon, the three Western Diplomats made it clear to Molotov that no prior commitment to West Germany would be made while the blockade was still in effect. Molotov immediately became as difficult in negotiation as Molotov is capable of becoming.

Stalin and his advisers apparently then decided to try another attack, with the purpose of testing whether the second Soviet minimum objective might be achieved. This objective, it is now clear, was to gain total political and economic control of Berlin, while allowing the Western powers to maintain, at least temporarily, skeleton garrisons in the city.

Nothing so bold was proposed by Stalin, however, in the second meeting, on Aug. 23, with the three Western diplomats. Indeed, although Stalin's attitude seemed oddly indifferent, he made a proposal which sent a shiver of hope through the Western capitals. As first reported in this space, he promised the end of the blockade, if the Soviet mark became the only currency in Berlin, under such terms of course was the point—four-power control.

Whereas in previous meetings the Soviet attitude had been that the issue could be settled on the spot, Stalin now suggested that the wearisome details could be worked out better in Berlin. And in Berlin, Soviet Marshal Sokolovsky made it obvious that Stalin's promise was no more than a useful expedient, an apple to hold before the Western donkey. For the Sokolovsky version of four-power currency control would in fact have left the Western powers in the position of impotent and unwelcome guests of the Russians in Berlin.

At the Aug. 23 meeting, Stalin had agreed to meet the Western diplomats again in eight days, to review the progress made in Berlin. When the Westerners heard that the dictator had gone to the Crimea, they knew that their weeks of effort had come to nothing. The device of Stalin's tempting come-on to the West—a device which had worked on other occasions—had failed when the West stood firm in Berlin. Therefore, Stalin, by retiring to his Crimean dacha despite the agreement to meet again, signified that as far as he was concerned the negotiations were at an end.

New Europe Military Group Is Not A Challenge To War

THE NEWLY FORMED MILITARY command of the western European union—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg—needs in any way be taken as a challenge to war but rather as a further aid to peace.

Has there been well implemented co-ordination of defense in '36 World War II might not have developed. Or if the year had to come, it might have been possible to hogtie Hitler sooner.

The success of the command is premised on the expectation of these European nations that they will have the moral and material support of the United States. As a matter of fact, the alliance is in line with advice from the U. S. government, and American officials have been predicting that Washington will give the closest possible co-operation.

Last June 11 the United States Senate overwhelmingly approved a far-reaching foreign policy resolution by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan.

The treaty-making chamber favored American participation in a regional defense organization set up to carry out the peace aims of the United Nations.

HOWEVER, NO AMERICAN MILITARY support could be given the western European union until Congress had authorized it, and U. S. officials have said it would be months before America could enter any formal military alliance. Meantime the union is going ahead with all the steam it can develop.

The flesh still is mighty weak as the result of the man handling in the late war. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. deputy army chief of staff, said last week that western Europe's military potential "is near an all time low." However, the general added:

"Don't misunderstand me. The manpower potential and the industrial potential of these nations is still great. And with world wide co-operation there is a daily increase in their strength to defend themselves."

Cranberries Build A Railroad Only Five And Half Miles Long

CARVER, MASS. (AP)—CRANBERRIES built a railroad here.

The line is only 5 1/2 miles long, but it carried 125,000 passengers last year.

"It's the last surviving two-foot gauge steam passenger railroad on the continent," said the owner, Ellis D. Atwood, 59, who is the nation's largest individual cranberry grower.

Atwood bought the old-fashioned small engines and cars for his privately operated "Edaville Railroad" from a defunct line in Maine several years ago. It has become one of the chief tourist attractions in this section.

But Yankees think even a hobby should pay its own way, so Atwood's busy little railroad has a function beyond keeping him and the tourists amused. It hauls from bog to boxing factory the 10,000 to 12,000 bags of cranberries he grows each year.

The railroad winds around the 1,800 marshy acres that yield the red berries which built a fortune for the Atwoods in the last three generations.

It fetched $33.40 a barrel in 1946, $19 a barrel last year. This year the opening price was $15, but even at that figure it pays good dividends to thrifty farmers here.

White Mice Claim First Ferret Honor

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Auckland's white mice are laughing at this city's proudest ferret.

They're laughing because the ferret claimed to have made animal history by doing an electrician's job in a factory.

The ferret did his news when it followed the smell of a dead rabbit through a maze of glass piping under the factory. Behind it, the ferret trailed a length of fishing line. This enabled electric wires to be pulled through. But the city's white mice are NOT impressed. "Old stuff," they say.

Their most famous ancestor, they claim, did a similar job 20 years ago. Wires had to be got through a long length of "soufflet" under a building in the city. The same white mouse was borrowed, a length of thread was tied to its tail, and it was sent scampering down the narrow pipe to appear a few minutes later at the other end. By the cotton a string was pulled through the pipe and with the string the electric wire was threaded.

"Definitely old stuff," say the white mice.

Parks Again Steps Into Jolson's Shoes

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Larry Parks is at it again.

The Olathe, Kans., actor once more is stepping into the well-worn shoes of Al Jolson for a sequel to the mammy singer's film biography. I found Larry stripped to his shorts after a heated session of Jolson-mugging.

"People don't realize what hard work this is," he panted. He demonstrated how he works.

After turning on a phonograph, he steps before two huge mirrors, affording a front and side view. Jolson's voice booms the song "Baby Face" through the small rehearsal room and Larry watches himself mouth the words grimace, gesture and cavort.

The number of times he listens to a number runs into the hundreds. That's a lot of Jolson when you consider there are 20 to 30 songs in the new picture, "Jolson Sings Again."

Not only that, he also does some listening at home.

Remembering Larry's aversion toward repeating the role, I asked him what changed his mind.

"It's a better story," he declared. "I saw the old picture again recently and I realized it really wasn't very good.

KASENKINA STORY

Fear Grips Teacher's Heart As Reds Begin Political Corruption Of Her Son

(Turn by grief over the loss of her husband, Demyan, in the great purge, Mrs. Kaseknina carries on bravely. However, a new fear grips her heart as the Young Communists begin the political corruption of her son, Oleg, the desire to take a bold step.)

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA

Edited by Isaac Don Levine

From the moment my husband Demyan was arrested, people began to shy away from me. To be seen with a member of the family of an "enemy of the people"—and that was the badge of dishonor conferred upon every victim of the purge—meant to expose oneself to suspicion, surveillance and jeopardy. I became an untouchable to my colleagues and neighbors, except to those women whose husbands or sons had also been seized.

After my three weeks of futile efforts to get to Demyan in the hope of saving him, when I had become convinced that he was gone for good, I faced the trying choice which millions of other Russian wives and mothers had to make: To continue to cry for justice on the theory that Demyan had not been "liquidated," or to bury the great pain within me, to keep silent about the fate of my husband for the sake of at least saving the future of my only son, Oleg.

My parents even reproached me for not going to Moscow to seek a review of the case of Demyan. But I knew others who had done so, knocking at the doors of the new bureaucrats, and getting nothing but rebuffs and sneers from the masters of the purge. And I felt that Demyan himself would have wanted me to devote the remainder of my life to our boy, knowing full well that safety for Oleg lay in expunging as quickly as possible the memory of his "counter-revolutionary" father. As teachers we knew only too well the almost insuperable difficulties in securing an education and making a career which were put in the path of a lad whose father bore the mark of a citizen disloyal to the Soviet regime.

in the Komsomol headquarters. "Olya, why aren't you in school?" I asked. "Mamochka, pardon me," he answered, "they gave me an assignment, and I had to fulfill it." I decided then and there that to save my boy I should have to leave town with him for good. His education was being neglected and perverted. To add salt to my wounds, Oleg returned one evening all in tears. The young scoundrels had stolen the violin I had given him, and which he cherished. And my loneliness made my heavy burden even heavier.

The last drop in my cup was the way my mother was going to pieces over the plight of her two daughters whose husbands had been snatched away. She had been especially attached to my Demyan-chik. She became sick and began to brood. Often, sitting at the window, she would suddenly call out: "Look, look, here comes Demyan. Now he's peering into the window." I decided that the province of Moscow would be the most desirable district for us to settle in. I then had relatives in Moscow itself. Furthermore, a faint hope stirred within me that being near the capital I might somehow learn something about the fate of Demyan.

But one does not move in the Soviet Union from one place to another at will. One must have a permit or an employment assignment from the authorities. And I knew that I could never get a transfer from the Commissariat of Education of the Ukraine to that of Great Russia. I resolved upon a bold stratagem. Instead of following the prescribed routine, I wrote direct to the Moscow "Obiono," the department of education for the province of Moscow, outlining my qualifications, listing my references, and stating that the reason for my application was my desire to raise my boy in an atmosphere of Russian culture, away from the Ukraine. We did not regard ourselves as Ukrainians.

My letter struck a responsive chord in the heart of a certain Mikhailov, whom I did not then know, who was in charge of all the provincial schools. It happened that he was looking for an experienced natural science instructor to fill a vacancy. He invited me to come to Moscow for an interview, and to bring all my papers and documents along.

Siam King Is Severely Hurt

MORGES, Switzerland, Oct. 5. (AP)—King Phumphon Adulet of Siam was severely hurt in an auto accident here last night.

The 19-year-old king was rushed to Morges Hospital with Arm Radamakuhl, who was with him in the accident. Latest reports said Phumphon had shown considerable improvement, but that Radamakuhl, believed to be his brother-in-law, was in grave condition.

The accident occurred on the main Geneva Lausanne highway. Police said Phumphon was driving a mid-sized automobile towards Geneva. A truck ahead of him stopped suddenly to avoid two cyclists and the royal car crashed into the rear.

Russians To Hold Parachute Practice In Air Corridor

BERLIN, Oct. 5. (AP)—The Russians notified the Western Powers today they plan parachute practice in the air corridor used by American and British planes supplying blockaded Berlin.

The Soviet warning, posted in the four-power Berlin air safety center, said the drill was to begin today from a 2,500-foot altitude. The notice did not specify how many men or planes were involved or how long the exercises would last.

Green Favors Fewer Tieups

DALLAS, Oct. 5. (AP)—There is a general trend toward disbandment of tie-ups between the majors and the Class B, C and D leagues, observes Howard Green, president of the bustling Class-D Longhorn Circuit and general manager of the Abilene club of the West Texas-New Mexico League.

He points to the fact that Abilene has served its working agreement with Fort Worth of the Texas League by mutual agreement.

Green thinks cutting out these tie ups will work to the definite advantage of the smaller circuits.

"In recent years," he points out, "the sandlotter has simply refused to talk contract with the small club owner, preferring to bargain with the major league scouts, many of them reckless bidders. Only the cream of the crop will now receive notice from the big leagues since their commitments to their farm systems will be greatly reduced. Therefore, in seasons ahead the scouts will concentrate on the lower classification leagues in search for players to buy. This will open a source for considerable systems along the B, C and D leagues. With the boom period possibly nearing its conclusion, this could prove the salvation of some minor leagues."

Longhorns Underdogs In Tornado Contest

By The Associated Press
The governor of Oklahoma is willing to bet that Oklahoma whips Texas Saturday, but Coach Clair Cherry hasn't yet told Gov. Beauford Jester "It's a cinch."

Cherry yesterday listed four key Longhorns as doubtful starters against Oklahoma.

One of three regulars who may sit out the game is Center Dick Harris, out for 16 days with an injured knee. Others on the casualty list are Tackle Ed Kelley and Fullback Tommy Landry. End Ben Procter is still limping from a knee injury received in the North Carolina game two weeks ago.

Oklahoma's chief executive, Roy J. Turner, yesterday offered to bet Gov. Jester a fishing license on Lake Texoma that Oklahoma would beat Texas.

Texas was the only team reporting injuries to key men.

Texas A&M's chances against Louisiana State were enhanced when Quarterback Buryl Baty reported for practice. Baty has been out for two weeks with an injured ankle, but Coach Harry Stiteler thinks he'll be able to play this week.

Center Billy Ray Thomas and End Sam Butz may return to action for Arkansas and Tackle Jim Reichert, injured in the TCU game last week, probably will be able to perform his place-kicking duties.

Light workouts for regulars were the order of the day at Arkansas and Southern Methodist University yesterday, but both coaches, John Barnhill and Matty Bell, are slated to start heavy drills today.

Southern Methodist plays Missouri this week and Arkansas meets Baylor in a conference game.

Texas Christian had no serious injuries. Coach Dutch Meyer said Sophomore Jim Hickey of Paris would start out doing the punting for the Frogs this week against Indiana.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice promised "we'll waste no time" getting to work for Southern California. "We have no time to waste," he said.

Neely said he is undecided if he will make any changes in his lineup. The Owls were upset, 26-13, by Louisiana State last week.

"We'll wait until we see the pictures of the L. S. U. game and see if we can figure some way to get better results," he said.

The Texas-Oklahoma game is the only one in Texas involving a Southwest Conference team this week.

George L. Cross, University of Oklahoma president, last night urged students to "behave in a sportsmanlike manner" when they attend the Texas game.

"While I realize the disturbance last year was not started by students, I sincerely hope that Oklahoma students will take particular

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

What gives promise of being the biggest horse race ever staged in West Texas and possibly in the entire state will come off here last Sunday in April (24th).

It will be the first annual Big Spring Sheriff's Posse Futurity, a 440-yard sprint for quarter horses and, if plans of the ambitious organization for which it is named work out, as much as $15,000 will be split between the three winners on a 60, 30 and 10 percent basis.

Entry fee for each thoroughbred will be $100. In addition, the starters will be taxed $100 each. The association expects as many as a hundred horses representing ranches and stock farms from Fort Worth to California to be entered in the classic.

The added purse will be $1,000, which the winners will share along with the entry fee pot. All entries and/or nominations must be made by January 1, 1948.

The horses will qualify for the big race a week in advance, or on Sunday, April 17, in special heats. As many as a dozen horses can be accommodated without difficulty in the big race.

Big Spring's chamber of commerce has accepted the job of handling the entries and fees and will assist the Sheriff's Posse in blanketing the West Texas area with posters advertising the big event.

PICTURES OF HORSES MUST ACCOMPANY ENTRY BLANKS
For the information of those planning to enter horses for the trials, two standard photos of the animal, complete with blemishes and markings, must be submitted with the entry application showing age and breeding. The racing committee wants to make certain that no ringers are slipped in the show at the last moment.

BOTH COLTS AND FILLIES CAN BE ENTERED IN RACE
A futurity race is so named because it features "future" full-grown horses, or two-year old colts, geldings and fillies. The colts and geldings will carry 120 pounds, the fillies 117.

Entry blanks will request the name of the sire and dam as well as other pertinent information.

MANY HORSEMEN WILL SPEND ENTIRE WEEK HERE
Big Spring is expected to be the mecca of Texas and Southwest horse lovers during the week of April 17. Most of those who bring thoroughbreds will probably spend the entire week here.

Plans are being made to accommodate thousands of spectators at both the trials and during the futurity. Visitors will come from a wide area. If the reader doesn't realize what a tremendous interest has been built up in quarter-horse racing, he will be given a fair idea the week of the races.

Admission fees for the futurity, incidentally, will be $1 per person. There will be several supporting races, by the way.

FUTURITY AT RUIDOSO, N. M., TO FOLLOW
The races here will be staged one month in advance of the Hollywood Park Futurity at Ruidoso, N. M., in which the added purse will be $500, or half of what it is here.

Many of the horses which will run in that event will be entered here.

By all means, mark April 24 down as a red-letter day, both for yourself and for Big Spring.

LOCAL BREEDER SOLD SIRE TO MOVIE ACTOR
Johnny Ray Dillard, a local breeder who no doubt has one or more horses entered in the trials, sold a sire to George Brent, the movie actor, last year.

Brent has one of the largest stables of any of the movie folk.

FAR AHEAD

Porkers Earn No. One Spot In Conference

DALLAS, Oct. 5. (AP)—Arkansas has a tight-fisted hold on Southwest Conference football statistics as well as boasting an undefeated record.

James H. Stewart, conference executive secretary, shows Arkansas leading in both offense and defense for the season to date. The Razorbacks, paced by Clyde Scott, that running and passing man, and Leon Campbell, bettering fullback, have rolled up 1,152 yards rushing and passing in three games to lead the University of Texas by 105 yards.

Arkansas is the leading ground team with 917 yards. Texas tops in passing with 420 yards but Southern Methodist and Arkansas have the best percentage in pass completions. Southern Methodist has connected on 16 out of 22 for 727. Arkansas has completed 16 out of 24 for 667.

Arkansas has held three opponents to an average of 135 yards per game as the top defensive outfit of the conference.

Scott leads in ball-carrying with 340 yards net on 38 carries with Lindy Berry of Texas Christian second with 268 on 63 carries. Campbell is third with 229 yards on 36 runs.

Paul Campbell of Texas is the pace leader with 235 yards on 13 completions in 37 throws. Gil Johnson of SMU has the best percentage, however, with 11 out of 12 for 223 yards.

Ben Procter of Texas is the ace pass-receiver of the conference with 10 catches for 141 yards. Morris Bailey of Texas Christian is second with eight catches for 89 yards. George Sims of Baylor tops in punt returns with an average of 39.6 for three carries and Scott is second with 29.3 on three runs.

In punting Bob Goode of Texas A&M is the leader with 39.0 on 24 boots. Gordon Long of Arkansas has averaged 38.8 on six for second place.

Lamesa Seeks Second Win

Donnie Carter, the big back who missed last week's game with Odessa, is shaking off the effects of a siege of pneumonia but may be kept out of the Big Spring-Lamesa football game this weekend by the local coach, Mule Stockton.

Carter was sorely missed last week. He could not, of course, have turned the tide against the Bronces but he would have tightened up the defense a bit and would, no doubt, have supplied the offense with more authority.

The Steers came out of the Odessa game in fair physical trim. Art Davis, shaken up in the late stages of the Bronco outing, will be ready to function against the Lamesans. The Steers will be the underdogs, as it is, against the Lobes but without Davis they probably wouldn't stand a ghost of a chance.

The Tornadoes have won one game this season, that a 7-0 conquest of normally strong Levelland. In their last outing, they were tied by Brownfield, 0-0, at Lamesa.

The Tornadoes showed down to the Brownfield six-yard line at one point but could go no further.

Lamesa will have a definite edge in the kicking department. Frank Rose, Lamesa threat, once booted 70 yards against Brownfield. The Big Spring average was only 19 yards against Odessa.

Art Bizell is the Lamesans' principal running threat.

With eight catches for 89 yards, George Sims of Baylor tops in punt returns with an average of 39.6 for three carries and Scott is second with 29.3 on three runs.

In punting Bob Goode of Texas A&M is the leader with 39.0 on 24 boots. Gordon Long of Arkansas has averaged 38.8 on six for second place.

BEARDEN DOES IT

Bob Feller To Face Sain In First Game Of Series

BOSTON, Oct. 5. — Cleveland's newly-crowned American League champs, still walking on thin air after their playoff success, have named Bobby Feller to face John Sain of the Boston Braves in tomorrow's World Series opener at Braves Field.

Rapid Robert will have to go hard to top the performance of young Gene Bearden in yesterday's 8-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox in an unprecedented sudden death playoff of a tie.

Today the Indians and Braves settle down to plans for a series that must come as an anti-climax to the Indians. It won't come as any anti-climax to their pocket-books.

The big Cleveland ball park with its 95,000 capacity is certain to set a new series record.

If it goes seven games despite the size of Braves Field which holds only 40,000 bulging at the seams, a new record cut for the winning players may result. It's certain to be many thousands of dollars more than an all-Boston series would have provided.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves is expected to make his decision on his second base starter after a morning drill. Eddie Stanley, still slightly handicapped by the broken ankle he suffered in July, and Sibby Sisti, who filled in capably, are the candidates.

Working with only one full day of rest after shutting out Detroit Saturday, Bearden silenced the guns of the fence-denting Red Sox in their own ball yard to gain Cleveland's first American League flag since 1920.

He did it with a little of this and a little of that—but mostly his knuckle ball. He threw the dippy-doodler four out of every five pitches. The knuckler got him home.

"The knuckler did it," said Manager Lou Boudreau. "They just couldn't hit it. I know one of their coaches was tipping the hitters every time he threw it—which was four out of every five—and they still couldn't connect."

Boudreau, the hitting star of his own team's sensational triumph with two homers and two singles, preferred to pass on the glory to the younger members of his team.

"Jim Hegan and Larry Doby made our ball club," he said. "They were the most improved ball players in the league along with Boston's young Billy Goodman."

The manager was boosting the stock of a couple of his younger players. He knew he didn't have to talk up Ken Keltner, whose three-run homer, knocked out Denney Galehouse, Manager Joe McCarthy's surprise starter, in the fourth inning.

Most of all he knew he didn't need to talk about a fellow named Boudreau. If any man ever deserved a most valuable player trophy it's Lou.

Forget all the figures that show him scrambling around on taped ankles to become the best shortstop in the game. Even forget the batting averages for the season during which he chased Ted Williams right down to the wire. Just look at yesterday's ball game.

After a first inning homer he came up in the fourth inning with the score tied at 1-1, and slashed a single to left. Joe Gordon followed with a single and Keltner banged his homer. Before it was over, four runs were in and Galehouse had been replaced by Ellis Kinder.

Not content with a 5-1 lead, Boudreau slammed another homer into the screen atop the left field wall with two gone and nobody on in the fifth.

In the seventh he was walked intentionally in a rally that finally sputtered out with the bases full. Again in the ninth, Boudreau's single helped push around Eddie Robinson with the final score of a game that was fast becoming a rout.

Boudreau also took part in two of the three tribal double plays. He made you forget that other stars like Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr were on the field.

Annual Cosden Links Meet Starts Oct. 13

The annual Cosden golf tournament, sponsored by Obie Bristow and open to employees of the refinery, gets underway at the Big Spring country club Wednesday, Oct. 13.

Linkamen will have the remainder of the week to post qualifying scores. Once match play gets underway, the golfers will have a week in which to complete each round of play.

Bristow provides the prizes for the winners and medalist. Shirley Robbins, country club pro, said he was expecting 30 or more players to compete in the tournament.

Jake Morgan is the defending champion.

Local Sportsmen Fell Antelopes

Sonny Watts and J. D. Sims have returned to Big Spring with something more than a story to tell about their hunting trip into the antelope country around Alpine.

Both Watts and Sims bagged antelope. They made their kills on the Hudspeth ranch on the first day of the season, which was last Friday, about 8:30 a. m., or an hour after it became legal to shoot the creatures.

They composed part of an army of 333 nimrods that went into the area.

Baby seals hatched into flat, transparent bits of life, grow into flat cigar-shaped forms, and then change into their adult form.

Feton, Trudell Win Tag Match

The Canucks had it all their way at the Big Spring Athletic club last night.

As the largest turnout of the fall season looked on, Rod Fenton and Benny Trudell of Canada teamed up to win a tag match from Bill (Ace) Abbott of Abilene and Rex Mobley of Borger.

Abbott and Mobley huffed and puffed but couldn't fend off the savagery of the mayhem-bent tinnars from the North Woods.

In preliminary tests, Fenton made Mobley look bad by beating him while Abbott was losing in an interesting tussle with Trudell.

Billy McEulin was supposed to referee but he didn't show up. Instead, Billy Weidner appeared on the scene and worked as the third man.

Local Golf Team To Invade Angelo Course Oct. 17

Shirley Robbins, country club golf professional, is signing up linkmen for a trip to San Angelo Sunday, Oct. 17, where a series of team matches will be played.

Robbins said he hoped to have 20 make the trip.

The weekly putting tournament at the country club, open to men and women, will get underway at 7 p. m. today, it has been announced.

CATS, BARONS RESUME PLAY

FORT WORTH, Oct. 5. (AP)—Fort Worth and Birmingham resume the Dixie Series here today, all even at one game each.

Big Willard Ramsdell is scheduled to start on the mound for the Cats tonight, opposing Birmingham's Pete Modica.

Fort Worth won the first game of the series, 5-1, and Birmingham took the second game, 8-4.

The Barons, Southern Association champion, will be without the services of Ben Cantrell, outfielder who injured a leg Sunday.

Bobby Bragan, Fort Worth manager and catcher, may be out for the rest of the series. He hurt a finger in the second game of the series.

SMU Is Fourth On Grid Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Notre Dame has renewed its lease on the No. 1 spot in college football's big ten.

On top of the heap at the end of the last campaign, the fighting Irish moved right back into their penthouse in the first Associated Press poll of the new season.

One hundred and fifty-three sports writers from throughout the country gave Frank Leahy's proteges a total of 1,200 points — enough for a squeaking edge over rampant North Carolina and surprising Northwestern.

Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second and on down the line. North Carolina, which has rolled over Texas and Georgia, received more first place votes than the Irish—55 to 50—but fell 16 points short in the overall balloting with 1,190.

Northwestern, conqueror of U. C. L. A. and Purdue, was in third place with 1,025—the only other team to report more than a thousand.

The Irish were the more solid favorite, placing on every "top ten" card except one.

Notre Dame's accomplishments for the young year include a 28-7 triumph over Purdue and a 40-0 rout of Pittsburgh.

Southern Methodist's Southwest Conference champions placed fourth in the opening poll, followed by Army, Georgia Tech, Michigan, Minnesota, California and Penn State, Texas, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Southern California, North Carolina and Georgia.

'Stand In Gap For God,' Urges Lamesa Speaker

The church won't fail but it can fall short to the degree that its laymen fail to "stand in the gap" for God, Stansell Clements, Lamesa, told the First Baptist Brotherhood Monday evening. Clements, president of the district No. 8 Brotherhood, had addressed the laymen to stand constantly by example "for you are the yardstick by which the First Baptist church is measured." He also called for support of the whole program of the church by giving time and exercising talents. He felt that Baptists were not measuring up to their full opportunities and responsibilities in missions. This is a day of "gaps" he said, and God "not only permits but expects men to stand in the gaps and mend the hedges." Mr. Charles White, representing the First Presbyterian church, said that the next city wide laymen's meeting would be held at the First Baptist church during the first week of November. With rural men wanting to participate in the event, he expected 400 to attend. A meeting of the arrangements committee has been set for Thursday evening, he said. Entertainment was furnished by Mary Jane Hamilton, who sang two Irish airs, accompanied by Kitty Roberts. Merle Creighton, Brotherhood president, announced committee with these chairmen: Evangelism, W. L. Mead; Worship, G. G. Morehead; Sunday school, Roy Cornelison; Food, Clarence Eubanks; Finance, Willard Hendricks; Education, J. F. Jones; Benevolence, J. A. WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The stock market developed a weak trend today after advancing for three sessions in a row. Losses of fractions to around a point were in a decisive majority but at the same time numerous stocks managed to hold unchanged or even to inch ahead. Trading was at the same slow rate which has characterized recent sessions. Wall Street didn't pay much attention to the minor setback. Many professional traders, it was pointed out by some brokers, would be inclined to take a short-term profit after a three-day advance. Lower prices were paid for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil, Goodrich, International Harvester, Boeing, Duffields Corp., Paine Webber, General Electric, Paper, Santa Fe, Standard Oil (N.J.), and United Airlines. Issues which made a better showing included General Motors, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Commonwealth Edison, Dey Chemical, American Wellman, Great Northern Preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Loe's.

Distinguished Connecticut Educator, Politician Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 5.—Former Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, who combined in one lifetime distinguished careers as an educator and political leader, died today at his home. "Too old" for further service, he already had retired as dean of Yale's graduate school before he led Connecticut Democrats to victory after 15 years of unbroken Republican rule. He served four consecutive terms as governor. The heart of the 66-year-old former chief executive, weakened by pneumonia, failed at 1:25 a. m. (EST). After a brief rally on Sunday, he had lain in a coma for 24 hours. At his bedside were his sons, Avery and Wilbur Cross, Jr., his only immediate survivors. His death came only a matter of hours after the polls closed yesterday in several Connecticut communities holding municipal elections, some of which included referenda on a constitutional amendment Cross himself had urged recommended during his governorship from 1930 to 1938. Even before yesterday's balloting the proposal to name minor court judges by gubernatorial appointment had received enough votes to assure its adoption. Many other reforms he advocated came about during his terms.

Thurmond Sees Sweep Of South

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 5.—J. Strom Thurmond, States Rights presidential candidate, predicted here last night that his campaign would "sweep the South from Maryland to Texas." Speaking before a crowd of about 150 and a radio audience, Thurmond declared: "We have a chance to gain more than 100 electoral votes and to cause the election to be thrown into the House of Representatives where our chances are good." "Falling that, we will certainly purify the great democratic party and restore it to its historic devotion to constitutional self-government." The States Rights movement, the South Carolina governor declared, would "without fail stop the misnamed civil rights proposals" set forth by President Truman, the Democratic nominee, Gov. Thomas Dewey of New York, the Republican nominee, and by Henry Wallace, nominee of the Progressive Party.

government departments with the establishment of an executive budget, old age pensions and unemployment insurance, a $25 million highway safety program largely credited with bringing Connecticut the several awards it has received as the nation's safest state. Cross lost none of his literary skill as he acquired political acumen. The best evidence of this was the style he employed in his annual Thanksgiving proclamations, so well received that a volume of them has been published.

Likes Pakistan Girl But Elopes With American

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 5. (AP)—An ex-Army musician has eloped with an American girl—while paying nice compliments to a Pakistan beauty who had flown to America to visit at his home. Dick Cardwell, 24, told newsmen today he eloped Saturday with Shirley McFall. They went to Ajo, Ariz., he said, because his parents opposed the marriage. She said the Pakistan girl, Miss Ramona Hussey, whom he first met in India in 1944, "is a fine girl and a real lady, and had nothing whatever to do with it." Miss Hussey, 19-year-old beauty contest winner, said: "There was no romance. Dick and I were never engaged. I just came to visit his parents." Cardwell said "I had four dates with Ramona in Karachi, and then wrote to her. My parents got interested and invited her over here. Navy To Sink Two Vessels In Maneuvers

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 5. (AP)—The Navy today will bombard two tough vessels the Japanese and the submarine Skat and continue through Saturday night. The Skat and the Transport Crittenden will be targets of air and surface forces assembled for the largest amphibious exercises ever held in peace time. Sixty ships, 275 aircraft and 30,000 men are participating. The Skat, credited with sinking 129,000 tons of Japanese shipping, is to be finished off with air bombs northwest of San Clemente Island. The 8000-ton Crittenden gets progressive air and surface bombardment in the same area. Live shells and bombs are to be used tomorrow when the First Marine Division storms the beaches of San Clemente. Thursday the public will watch from bleacher seats on a bluff above Aliso Beach on the mainland north of here as the same Marines wade ashore.
