

Car Owners Of Old Cars Protest Their Removal By Police

MARTIN related to the ordinance commissioners, and city resident Alex Webb, termed "a city council day, Slaton Landreth said, some serious out policemen and removal ought the town too, time to ease in question and junk Slaton police removing in an strictly enforce ordinance and a against the ve-they see a man in uniform with a little bit of authority," said Clark.

Mild agreed. "It's only natural that someone will get upset when you come up to him and tell him he has to move something which is on his private property. Anybody with a little background in human psychology will recognize this. That's why we don't act or react when someone gets a little hot under the collar."

The laws state that an abandoned or junk vehicle (one which has not been registered or inspected for the current year) which is visible from any public roadway must be removed.

Mild explained the procedure for removing the vehicle. "After we locate a vehicle, I usually go to the house and explain what is wrong. Then, the owner receives a notice through the mail telling him he has 10 days to remedy the situation. He can register and inspect his car, he can remove it from sight, or he can appeal the notice."

Although the City Council decided Tuesday to review some of the "more questionable cases," the legal right of the citizen is to appeal his case to the corporation court judge. The judge can then grant an extension of time if it's needed.

Mild said if a citizen refuses to let the Police Department remove his vehicle, he can be fined $200 a day. The police tow away the cars at no expense to the owner, and the Texas Highway Department cancels the title. The cars are then processed for scrap metal.

Officer Mild said there were several reasons for removing the cars. "For one thing, they encourage vandalism. Also, they are a habitat for rodents and present a health hazard. And, of course, they're a safety hazard. It's very easy for a small child to start playing in an old car and then cut himself on glass or perhaps hurt himself on rusty, torn metal."

After a lengthy discussion of the situation, Landreth said he would speak to the police.

Although he was contacted later in the day by The Slatonite, Chief Clark did not attend the meeting. "I knew people had been complaining. It's hard to understand. The Commission gets on me to clean up the old cars, and when I finally have enough manpower to do it, the citizens complain and the Commission has to make peace."

The campaign to remove old cars will continue, and citizens wishing to appeal their notices may do so through the corporation court.

In other business considered Tuesday, the Council heard a request by Walter Schillings for the city to give homestead tax exemptions to persons over 65.

Commissioners discussed the proposal briefly, concluding that if those taxes were exempted, the deficit would have to be made up by raising everyone else's taxes. When Landreth said "We'd have to raise taxes for that," Schillings replied, "If you don't you'll have to put us on welfare."

After routinely disposing of the June bills and other old business, the Council adjourned.

EDWARD S. COOK

TOMMY BOYD TO BE FIRST ASSISTANT

Edward Cook Named Slaton Football Coach

Edward S. Cook, a football coach who has been associated with 10 winning seasons in the last 14 years, has taken on the task of remodeling the football fortunes of Slaton High School, which has had just two winning seasons in the last 22 years.

Cook comes to Slaton after three seasons as head coach at Class AAAA McAllen, preceded by six years as head coach at George West. At McAllen, his won-lost record was 14-15-1, and at George West his teams won 48 games, lost 14 and had two ties. In six seasons there, George West had two district titles, was co-champion once and came in second twice.

Cook is 46 years old. His wife's name is Joy and they have two boys, Terry, 13, and Kelly, 10. Cook was hired by the Slaton school board last weekend to succeed Bill Curry as head football coach and athletic director for boys. Curry has resigned to be assistant principal at Seminole High School.

Cook will bring with him a first assistant, Tommy Boyd, 30, who played tackle in high school and college and in the Army, and who was for a time an offensive guard with the Los Angeles Rams. Boyd was an assistant to Cook at McAllen.

Cook played junior high and high school football, track and basketball at Man. W. Va., lettering four years in football and basketball. In Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., he was a running back and a sprinter on the track team. He earned a bachelor of arts degree at Marshall, and later completed courses at Mary Hardin Baylor, the University of Texas and Texas A&I. He is a talented artist and has taught art in public schools.

Cook's first teaching job was at Holland school, and his first paid coaching job was as freshman head coach at Corsicana, where his teams won 32 and lost 8 in four seasons, competing against such schools as Highland Park, Garland and Waco. He then went to Rockdale as first assistant, and was offensive coordinator from 1961-65. The 1963 team lost in the finals to Jacksboro, and in five seasons the team won 41 and lost 15. He also was head track coach at Rockdale.

During his highly successful six seasons at George West, Cook coached five all-state players and one high school all-American, Cliff Hoskins, now playing for Texas Tech. In the six seasons, his team averaged 22.8 points per game to 7.8 for opponents.

Cook was hired by the Slaton School board at a salary $4,000 above state schedule. His assistant was employed at $2,400 above.

Boyd is a 1962 graduate of Abilene High School and was a starting tackle in his sophomore year when the team went to the quarter-finals. He also was on the track team, throwing shot and discus. He attended Baylor and Hardin-Simmons and then the last two years at John Tarleton, now Tarleton State College, where he earned a bachelor of science degree in physical education. He played tackle in college, was drafted by the Dallas Cowboys, but left them to go to the Rams, where he played in 1967.

In 1968 Boyd was drafted into the Army, reached the rank of second lieutenant and spent 13 months in Korea. "Mostly playing football." He was in charge of the entire sports program for the 7th Infantry Division in football and coached the other sports. Later he earned a masters degree at Tarleton and coached at Tarleton as defensive line coach. From there he went to Hamilton as an assistant, and then to McAllen last year. He is a Baptist.

School Lists Vacancies In Teaching, Coaching

Vacancies in the teaching faculty of Slaton public schools for the coming year and adoption of a change in the policy handbook were the main items of discussion by the board of education of Slaton Independent School District in regular meeting Tuesday night.

The board voted to hire Mrs. Jill Rogers for an elementary position and Morris Dixon as 7th grade coach. With the hiring of a new head football coach and first assistant finally accomplished last week after several called board meetings, it was noted that vacancies now need to be filled in fourth grade, sixth grade, building trades, and that a high school English and speech teacher is needed. Also, a letter of resignation was read from Manuel Rodriguez, junior high social studies teacher.

On Wednesday morning, another vacancy developed when assistant Coach Jackie Stewart announced he has accepted the position of head coach at Sudan. He and his wife, Maryann, who have been here five years, will move there later this month.

The board voted to adopt a policy change to comply with a new state law requiring teacher evaluation. It was stipulated that at least one written evaluation be completed each year by the teacher's principal or immediate supervisor.

Supt. J. C. McClesky said he still anticipates a deficit of about $40,000 when the school winds up its fiscal year next month. He also noted that the public hearing on the proposed school budget for the coming year would be at the August board meeting, and observed that the board also must set the tax rate at that time. An increase in the rate is expected.

Slaton Hosting Area Babe Ruth Tournament

The Babe Ruth Tournament is being held here this week, with teams from Levelland, Morton, East Lubbock, West Lubbock and Slaton competing. Monday night West Lubbock defeated East Lubbock 3-1. Each team had two hits. Winning pitcher was Charles Johnson.

Morton beat Slaton 2-0 in the second game on a no-hit game pitched by Rusty Lamar. It was a pitcher's game as Loran Roberts only gave up four hits for Slaton.

Tuesday night Slaton outlasted East Lubbock in the first game 16-14 to stay alive in the double elimination tournament. Stan White was starting pitcher and was relieved by Edward Kitten and Greg Basinger. Lubbock used four pitchers.

The second game saw West Lubbock defeat Levelland 7-4. This left West Lubbock and Morton the only undefeated teams. They were to play each other Wednesday night and Slaton was to play Levelland at 6:30, with the loser eliminated.

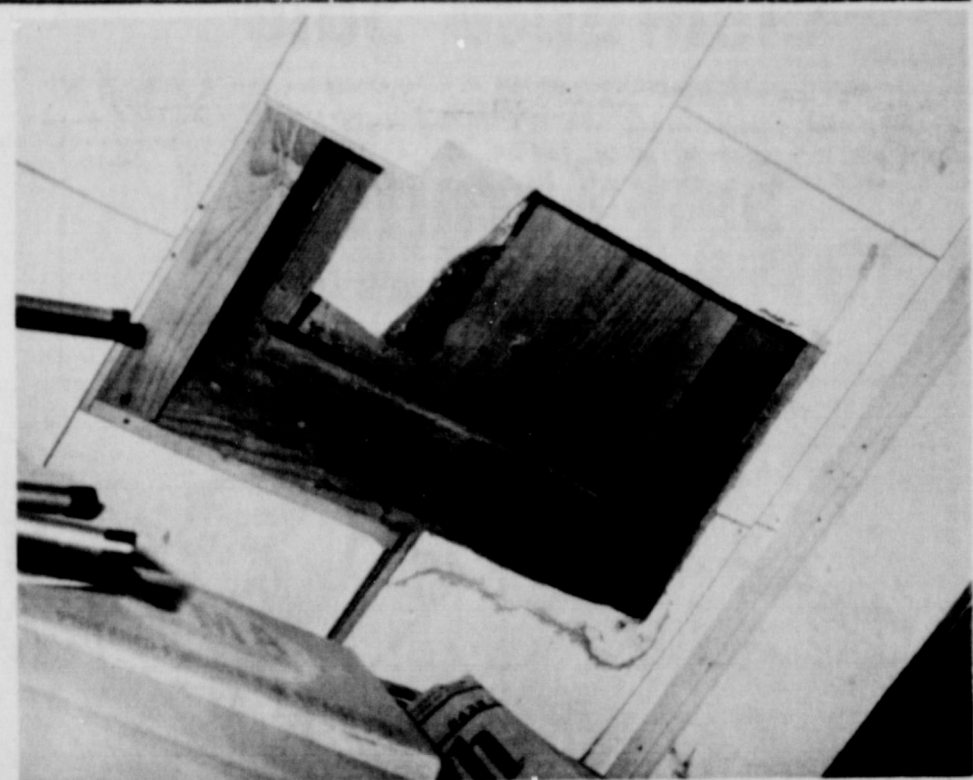

There will be one game on Thursday night and the Championship game will be played on Friday night. The winner will go to the State Tournament to be held in Plainview.

Cross Requests on Involvement

County Red Cross is seeking involvement by local citizens in many vital programs and projects. The Director of the Red Cross, Mrs. Irene Slaton, said that the organization has been active in disaster relief, and also in providing first-hand help to victims of natural disasters, both at home and overseas.

Red Cross nurses and field personnel have brought services to U.S. military men and women, both in war and peacetime, and caseworkers strive to help veterans and their families in many phases of civilian life. Health and safety classes are also integral in Red Cross work, and millions of Americans have taken classes and been certified in water safety, first aid to the injured, and small craft handling. School-children across the nation have the opportunity to join Red Cross Youth Programs, and learn the values and rewards of comradeship with the young people of other nations.

The Lubbock County Chapter is a member agency of the local United Fund, and is a part of the West Texas Division of the National Red Cross, which has its headquarters in Washington, D.C. Despite close ties and co-operation with the Federal Government, the Red Cross receives no funds from the government, nor is there ever any charge for Red Cross aid, instruction, or counselling.

Herber stressed, "We're looking for people in Slaton who care enough about their neighbors to give a couple of hours each month to a Red Cross program for their community. There are places in our organization for everyone: civic leaders, retired persons, business people, housewives, students on summer vacation — we need them all in order to bring better Red Cross service to the people here."

Anyone interested in becoming a part of Red Cross in Slaton should call Mr. Herber or one of his staff at 765-8534, or can visit the chapterhouse at 1811 Broadway, in Lubbock.

Members of the Mercy Hospital Auxiliary are trying to raise money to buy new curtains and bedspreads for all the patients' rooms.

As a fund raising project, the Auxiliary is sponsoring a rummage Sale Aug. 1 and 2 and again Aug. 8 and 9.

A spokesman for the Auxiliary asked that all Slaton residents "clean out closets and donate unused items for a worthy cause."

Anyone interested in donating items should call Mary Grace Privet, 828-3909 or Carrol Kayse, 828-5234.

Prizes will be given on the days of the sales. When someone makes a purchase, his name will go into the box to be drawn for prizes.

The Auxiliary is also accepting donations for the drapes and spreads. Anyone wishing to make a donation or any club willing to contribute should contact any Auxiliary member.

New Test For Donors

A newly developed procedure for screening blood donors capable of transmitting viral hepatitis to patients receiving transfusions is now being utilized by Blood Services of Lubbock, the not-for-profit community blood center serving local hospitals.

The new test called Ausria II-125 was developed by Abbott Laboratories and licensed by the Food and Drug Administration in April of this year.

According to Terry Ingebrigtsen, District Manager, "Ausria II requires four hours to perform, and it has proven to be the most specific and sensitive test now available for the detection of Hepatitis Associated Antigen."

A representative of Abbott Laboratories called this new radioimmunoassay technique a big advance for blood banking since the problem of hepatitis detection has been one of major concern for years.

Chief Kendrick reported that the Fire Department is now operating at full strength, having recently added two men. Tony Privett and Joe Sparkman are the two newest members of the department.

Backing up Kendrick as Assistant Fire Chief will be Bob Kern. Kern replaces Pete Williams and moves up from the position of secretary.

Arvin Stafford was elected secretary. Bradley Moore was selected as mascot, which is a tradition carried on by even the state department.

Kendrick is also the city appointed Fire Marshal and the Civil Defense Co-ordinator for Slaton.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Heck for their kindness to me.

Not long ago I glanced out my window and I saw Mr. Floyd Heck spraying my pecan trees. My trees are large and require a high pressure sprayer to reach the top of the trees. Later last week, he and his wife came back and spraying them a second time. Mrs. Heck drove the pickup while he sprayed the trees and they refused any pay. I understand they were going to spray some of their neighbors pecan trees also.

It is good to know we have people like Mr. and Mrs. Heck living in our country. If we all would take the time in this busy world of ours, to try to do some kind deed for someone, I think this would be a better world to live in.

Texas Launches Massive Action In Effort To Curb Child Abuse

1973-74 may well mark the beginning of massive action to curb child abuse in America.

Texas gave its own response.

Two significant laws on child abuse were passed which will affect Texans, one by the United States Congress, one by the Texas Legislature.

In March of this year, a state plan to stop child abuse in Texas was recommended to Gov. Dolph Briscoe by his Interagency Youth Task Force.

The recommendations included suggestions for increased parent and public education, the creation of child abuse crisis centers, increased action in medical and legal areas, uniform referral systems for all institutions and agencies who come in contact with child abuse, and rapid follow-up on suspected cases of abuse.

Magazine stories on child battering cropped up in many national publications.

Numerous features and at least a dozen editorials condemning public apathy about child abuse were printed in Texas' newspapers in 1973. A series of features on abuse in the Dallas Times-Herald led to Rep. Chris Semos' sponsoring of the new abuse law passed in Texas last year.

A public educational TV special on the battered child got national coverage in February. Beaumont is currently having its own series of video programs on child abuse. They will run for the entire year of 1974.

Two large conferences on the problem, one in Arlington, one in San Antonio, have been held in Texas thus far this year, and untold numbers of smaller conferences, town forums and panel discussions were held during the past year. The Arlington conference was the national conference on child abuse and will be held in Texas every year.

Parents Anonymous, the self-help organization for parents or guardians who feel that they are or may soon become child abusers, is newly organized in Dallas and may soon be spreading across the state. It now has a state office in Garland.

The Family Outreach Center in Richardson acts as a family counselling and referral service, with volunteer help going into homes to give assistance to a family in need. Helping families solve child abuse problems and identifying and assisting abused and neglected children in the community is basic to their work.

A Houston housewife, Linda Corbell, has organized the Child Abuse Prevention Center which provides counseling for parents who abuse their children. The counseling is provided by volunteer social workers, school teachers and other professionals.

Another counseling program in Houston is offered by the husband-and-wife psychologist team of Blair and Rita Justice. They provide advice and group therapy.

The new laws are perhaps the greatest reflectors of change in public attitude.

Texas' new law states that anyone who suspects child abuse or neglect and fails to report it can now be charged with a misdemeanor or punished by a fine or jail sentence.

This legislation, signed into law last June by Governor Dolph Briscoe, prescribes punishment ranging from $100 to $500 or a jail term of ten days to six months, or both, for failure to report a case of abuse.

The new national law, signed by President Nixon in February, establishes a National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect under the Department of H.E.W.

The new center will compile nationwide research on the problem and act as an information clearing-house. It will also provide technical assistance to all states and public and private, nonprofit organizations involved in carrying out "programs... relating to the prevention, identification and treatment of child abuse and neglect."

Equally important, the center is authorized to make grants for training programs to teach professionals in fields which relate to child abuse. Furthermore the center is empowered to create and maintain an unspecified number of child abuse centers serving different geographic areas of the nation.

In part, the new federal law only ratifies the action already taken last year by the national Office of Child Development (OCD). Through a $45,000 grant, OCD established a National Child Abuse Clearinghouse in Denver in fall of 1973. However, beyond the continued life it now gets through the law, the center now has many more responsibilities.

Both the San Antonio Child Abuse Council and the South East Texas Regional Planning Commission, the latter located in the Beaumont-Orange area, have applied for grants from the new national center, for child abuse prevention and education programs.

The new laws are certain to have an effect on Texas.

However, Dr. Alexander Zaphiris, professor of social work at the University of Denver Graduate School of Social Work, cautioned at the recent Arlington conference on child abuse that as necessary as the new laws are, they will not, by themselves, answer all the difficulties.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN TRUCK — William Ruben Brooks, 51, of Leander, was found dead inside the tractor-trailer truck shown here. The body was discovered around noon Sunday in the truck which had been parked for three days at Shamrock Truck Stop. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled death was by natural causes. Services were conducted in Burnet Tuesday. (SLATONITE PHOTO)

"We can't take the utopian position that all abuse can be prevented," Zaphiris said. "New laws will not solve all the problems. As long as we live in an industrialized, urbanized country where adults become frustrated, the problem will not be solved totally."

What will be necessary now, he said, will be to develop good working, preventive programs involving both the children and adults in families where abuse is most likely to occur, as well as educating the general public.

Zaphiris says one has only to look at last year's statistics to see the needs, and to know that perhaps only one case of abuse gets reported for every seven to ten which occur.

Texas Department of Public Welfare, the state office charged with the protection of all abused, neglected or abandoned children, reports that twenty-five children were known to have died and 2,127 were known to have been injured, abused, or neglected by their parents or guardians in Texas from Sept. of 1972 to Sept. 1973.

Texas did not break these figures down as to age group last year, but national statistics on child abuse have consistently shown that the majority of deaths and inflicted injuries occur to children under three. All but a very few occur to children under six.

SPRAYING FOR MESQUITE

Low volume aerial application of herbicides can cut costs and still be as effective as standard dosages in controlling mesquite, according to a brush control scientist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Low volume spraying can reduce the use of diesel oil by 6 pints per acre and water by 18 pints per acre compared to conventional four gallon volumes. This greatly reduces the cost of brush control work.

vent, through which the burglars made entry was only 14 by 8 inches wide.

On Monday, Mrs. Morris Dixon, 105 S. 20th, reported loss of $144 cash stolen from her home. A suspect later was apprehended.

Another theft occurred at Ray's Highlander Center, with Mrs. Joyce Ray advising last Friday that a cash box containing $22.50 was missing.

A wreck which occurred July 1 but not previously on file involved a car driven by Nancy Fisher Miller which struck utility and marker poles at U.S. 84 bypass and Industrial Drive. Total damage was estimated at $935.

Last Wednesday a 1972 pickup owned by Bobby Joe Colfield of Slaton was parked at 930 S. 10th when it was struck by a 1968 auto driven by Melvin Wayne Norwood Jr., 308 Texas Ave.

Police made a number of arrests during the week for drunkenness and several for fighting and disorderly conduct. In one incident Saturday, a woman was arrested for disorderly conduct at a Slaton drive-in restaurant after she brought back a hamburger and demanded one like she had ordered. The manager told police he offered to refund her money, but that she refused, and also refused to leave.

Professor Prepares Spanish Manual For Officers

Suppose you were a police officer writing a traffic ticket for someone who did not speak your language — and you did not speak his.

Could you explain his offense to him and get the pertinent information for the ticket?

Frank Gonzales, assistant professor of Spanish at South Plains College, is trying to close this communication gap between law enforcement personnel and Spanish speaking citizens.

Gonzales has worked for nearly a year writing and preparing a manual titled "Conversational Spanish for Law Enforcement Personnel," to be used in conjunction with a course of the same title. Gonzales will teach the course to law enforcement personnel and students through the Continuing Education Division at SPC starting this fall.

Gonzales wrote his own material because there simply was nothing available in this field except academic Spanish textbooks. And knowing just the grammar of a language is meaningless in everyday use.

"The purpose of this book is to make available some simple, practical Spanish expressions suited for those involved in law enforcement," he says in the preface. "It is designed for law enforcement officers, office personnel, administrators and persons involved in the judicial capacity that come in contact with people who use the Spanish language as their language of communication."

"I have taken the basic language structure and adapted it to law enforcement situations," he said. The manual includes instructional units on interrogations, violations, emergency situations, arrest and booking, highway signs and drugs.

Each unit contains dialogue, sentence structure and variations and an oral self test. There are no written exercises. The work is based on oral and audio learning.

"This is the most current method of language instruction for non-academic people on the market today," Gonzales said.

He is correlating tapes on all the material in the manual for placement in the language learning center of the SPC Library. Several native Spanish speakers will record the material for the tape cartridge program.

"There are cultural notes throughout the manual, such as names and birthdays," Gonzales noted.

The manual is bi-lingual, with Spanish phrases and the English equivalent. Law enforcement personnel can learn how to ask for addresses, telephone numbers, give directions and obtain information on personal characteristics, in Spanish. And they also can learn the phrases on heart attack, complaints, hit and run victims, missing persons, arrests, pleas, bonds, traffic violations and a host of other terms policemen come in contact with every day. The Miranda Warning stating a person's rights and a waiver also are included.

Gonzales gathered his material for the manual from the Texas Drivers License Manual, area police departments and the Department of Public Safety. He received a grant this summer from the South Plains Association of Governments, a 15-county organization, to complete the manual, which he has been working on for about the past nine months.

Gonzales had earlier written a proposal for a grant to SPAG from the Texas Criminal Justice Council. The $20,000 grant to establish the Spanish course for law enforcement personnel, was funded in January.

The manual will be published this summer and will be ready for distribution by the beginning of the fall semester, Gonzales said. The Spanish course for law enforcement officials will be taught at five centers throughout the SPAG area.

Bend your knees, grasp the item and lift it by straightening your legs — don't pull up with your arms and back. For overhead objects, put one foot forward, then gradually shift your weight to the back as the items comes toward you.

Cesspool Tips Available Now

A new, free eight-page illustrated booklet entitled, "The Story of Willie Bacteria, or How To Take Care of Your Septic Tank or Cesspool" is now available to owners of septic tanks and cesspools from Acuff Co-op Butane, Rt. 1, Acuff.

In a light vein, illustrated by cartoons, the booklet explains the workings of the septic tank and cesspool in simplified fashion. It describes the bacterial action of the disposal system and what is necessary for its proper functioning.

Chief attraction in the booklet is a humanized "Willie Bacteria" who is responsible for maintaining the efficiency of the disposal system. When the septic tank or cesspool user ignores the fact that "Willie" is working to keep the disposal system free from disease, and saturates him with an overdose of detergents, acids, lyes, caustics and other irritants, "Willie" is very unhappy, and more often than not, just stops working.

But there is a bright side to the story too, for "Willie Bacteria" has found a way to educate the septic tank or cesspool user, so that "Willie" can do his job under

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

The battle against tuberculosis is one of the most successful being waged by State Health Department authorities — who in 1973 saw the number of new cases drop to its lowest point.

Statistics from the State Health Department's Tuberculosis Control Program reveal that only 2,224 new active cases were reported in 1973 — a case rate of just 19 per 100,000 population.

The next meeting is set for Aug. 5.

This compares to the high mark in 1968 of 3,216 new active cases — a case rate of 29.3 per 100,000 population. Last year's figures, as compared to 1968, represent a 31.8 per cent reduction in newly reported active cases and a 35.2 per cent reduction in the new active case rate.

Statistics don't tell the full story about tuberculosis or other disease for that matter.

The Bureau of Tuberculosis Services attributes the success of its TB Control Program to the active campaign that ensures: treatment and other essential services for the known cases; examinations of persons suspected of having tuberculosis; and, prevention of disease in persons at high risk.

Services are provided through local health department outpatient clinics and in 10 State Health Department Regions, three State Chest Hospitals at Tyler, San Antonio and Harlingen and contracts with other medical facilities for other support services.

The Tuberculosis Control Program as we know it today was placed under the State Health Department in 1965 by the 59th State Legislature.

A significant change has been seen in tuberculosis casefinding, treatment and prevention.

One aspect of the program is centered in the schools of Texas with close cooperation of school officials, nurses, local health departments, health officers and voluntary organizations. All school personnel must have an annual tuberculosis examination. In addition, an average of a half-million first and seventh grade students have been tested annually since 1966. The result has been a sharp decrease in the incidence of TB in children through 14 years of age.

New drugs and new treatment procedures have greatly shortened the length of time necessary to cure a new tuberculosis patient.

Tuberculosis, in fact, has been tamed. But, according to State Health Department authorities, it hasn't been eliminated and probably will not be eliminated anytime in three months in a hospital — either one of the State Chest Hospitals or in a public or private hospital closer to home.

Medical treatment begins as soon as the disease has been accurately diagnosed. Usual treatment consists of two or more medicines, taken orally several times a day. In many cases, the spread of the disease can be stopped in a matter of a few days and the patient is no longer infectious.

Once it is certain that the disease has been checked, the patient can be released from the hospital. And, in just a few weeks, the patient may return to his normal life — including his usual work. Health authorities report that most TB patients, as soon as medication begins, feel better than they have for years.

After release from the hospital, the tuberculosis patient must continue on medication for as long as two years in order to make sure that the disease organisms won't have a chance to take hold again. Because of this long-term therapy, the patient must see a physician regularly. The State Health Department keeps track of patients undergoing therapy, and its case registry at the end of 1973 contained 10,066 names. The State Health Department doesn't underestimate the threat of TB, once the state's leading killer. It recognizes it as a serious public health problem. But, it's a problem that can be cured and is being cured.

Egg Salad Sandwiches With Corned Beef
In a bowl, blend 1 can (4 1/2 oz.) corned beef spread with 3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing. Stir in 4 hard-cooked chopped eggs, add 1/4 cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons chopped dill pickle, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Butter spread; spread 1/2 cup filling on each of four slices of bread. Top with lettuce leaves and remaining 4 slices of bread. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Hard Cooked Eggs
Cover eggs in pan with enough water to come at least 1 inch above the eggs. Cover and bring rapidly just to boiling. Turn off heat and if necessary set pan off unit to prevent boiling. Cover and let stand in hot water for 15 minutes or until hard-cooked. Cool immediately and thoroughly in cold water—shells are easier to remove and dark surface is prevented on yolks.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

NUMBERS GAME

It is true, as some experts contend, that we are losing our individual identity in a computerized society? Think about the question for a moment.

While it is true that the "numbers" game is important, that we have a social security number, a draft registration number, a credit card number, etc., is it not true as well that we live in a time when individual voices around the world are raised in some form of protest?

Numbers are but part of a record-keeping system. Supposedly, numbers end confusion when there is a duplication of names, which often happens. We do not lose our personal identity when someone assigns a number to our name.

We can lose our personal identity only when we cease to use our God-given ability to think and to act. We lose our identity when we fail to meet our responsibilities—to ourselves, to others—when we drift with the tide because it is the easiest thing to do.

We lose our identity when we no longer care, when we cease to try, when we are content with being a nobody.

STRETCHING MOISTURE

Home gardeners can follow certain practices to "stretch" available moisture, points out a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Use a good mulch at least two inches deep around shrubs, flowers and other plants. Soak the soil to a depth of 6 to 10 inches when watering. Apply fertilizer, insecticides or fungicides to plants only when the soil is moist. Cut the lawn one-fourth to one-half inch higher. Take care of lawn and garden work early in the morning or late in the afternoon.

COURTHOUSE SQUARES

the bride.

The bride's chosen colors of apricot and green were carried out in floral arrangements. Refreshments of cake and punch were served by Mrs. Jeanette Dunn, Miss Goria Gass, and Mrs. Kathy Jones, sisters of the bride. Misses LuAnne Fondy and Patti Melton registered guests. The hostess' gift was stainless steel cookware and coffee pot.

Approximately 30 friends of the bride hosted the shower.

Jolly Quilting Club Meets

The Jolly Quilting Club met for its regular meeting at the home of Loretta Kitten last week.

Members present were Neva Burns, Gloss Davies, Carne Hill, Evelyn Heinrich, Elizabeth Kitten, Ruth Phillips, Irene Rickey, Opal Rogers and Lou Walton.

Guests were Cordella Bednarz, Lorene Kitten and Viola Miller.

Plans were made for a hamburger and ice cream party at Buffalo Lakes in August.

The average U.S. family must spend about $40,000 in direct costs from hospital delivery through college graduation to rear its first child.

MORE MILK
Texas dairymen have culled their herds by some 8,000 cows, but they expect to produce about 30 million pounds more milk and butterfat during 1974, reports an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas

Agricultural Experiment Station. With continued good prices, total income from dairying should increase from $261 million last year to about $300 million in 1974. But feed costs have increased 47 per cent while the prices received by dairymen have increased only 30 per cent. That's a net loss of 17 per cent. Due to the increasing costs of milk and dairy products, consumption has dropped some during the past year.
