HOLDUP OF ARMORED TRUCK NETS GANG RECORD SUM

New York police spread a wide net for a new "master mind" of crime-land and his gang as a result of the precisely executed robbery of this "bank on wheels," shown above, in Brooklyn. Ten or 14 gunmen took three guards by surprise as the truck made its last stop on a round of collections, and escaped by motor car and speed boat with $427,000, the largest cash robbery on record. #### WASHINGTON By George Durno Speaker

The House Office Building here showed signs of almost coming to life today. Some of the more important House members made a bee-line to Washington from Speaker Henry T. Rainey's home at Carrollton, Ill., despite their individual campaigns for reelection, and huddles were in progress in several offices.

Selection of a successor to Rainey is giving the boys plenty to think about. The White House is extremely interested in the matter—but how much influence the big mansion can exert is problematical.

As reported generally, Rep. Joseph W. Byrns, of Tenn., looks to be the best bet to step up from his present job as Majority Floor Leader. The question is, how much opposition will he have and who will be Floor Leader?

When the House was last organized, Rep. John McDuffie, of Alabama, ran against Rainey for the Speakership. He was supported by Reps. Will Bankhead, of Ala., and Sam Hayburn, of Texas. McDuffie was soundly defeated as a result of a trade between Rainey and Byrns whereby the latter gave up his aspirations to the chair and ran instead for floor leadership.

A community of interest should exist between Speaker and Leader. House Democrats are busy trying to find out who Byrns will support for the leader's post—or whether Byrns will run for Speaker without commitments in that respect.

The North and West are demanding again that if the Speaker comes from the South the Leader should come from one of the other two directions. Astute politicians predict that this time both jobs will go south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

The Bankhead-Rayburn-McDuffie combination will be in the thick of the fight when the Democratic caucus next December but they are having trouble lining up their ticket.

McDuffie is expected to defer this time to Bankhead in the matter of seeking additional honor, Bankhead having done that for him last time.

Bankhead is the only one of the three who would be fairly accountable to Byrns as Leader. Also, he probably could master greater

R. D. Stallings of Big Spring won the $55 bank night award at the Ritz theatre Thursday night, after five other names had been drawn but were not present to claim the prize. The major award, $245, was not claimed, and will be held over until next Thursday night.

When the dog sights a swordfish he keeps perfectly quiet, but when he sights a shark he howls until the fish disappears.

BUTLER, Penn. (AP)—Currency estimated by postal authorities at $50,000 was taken from a mail truck Friday by three armed men who escaped in an automobile.

State police said the robbers stopped a truck, driven by Marshall C. Lackey on a Butler street. Pointing revolvers at him, they grabbed three mail pouches and sped away.

Hunter Supporters Claim Howard Will Be Carried, Allred Forces Denying

More than 3,500 voters are expected to flock to fifteen Howard county boxes Saturday from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. to decide who will be the next county judge, superintendent, justice of peace, commissioner, and to voice their choice for representative, congressman and district attorney as well as for state office candidates.

While Hunter supporters claim Howard county for their candidate by a handsome majority, Allred leaders were making emphatic denials that their candidate would trail by any great figure in this county. Allred carried it in the initial primary. Many give the McDonald vote to Hunter and the preponderance of the Small vote to Allred.

All indications Friday pointed to another landslide for George Mahon for congress despite a heated campaign here by Clark M. Mulligan supporters in the run off.

The race for district attorney between Cecil C. Collings of Big Spring and Robert W. Hamilton of Stanton appeared to be close over the district with Collings enjoying his big lead in Howard county of the first primary.

Judge H. R. Debenport and J. S. Garlington were pitted in one of the most heated county judge's races in many years. The former led in the first primary while the latter beat out John B. Litterer for a place in the run off.

Perhaps the most heated county race will be decided by a narrow margin when voters choose between Miss Anna Martin and Miss Arab Phillips for county superintendent.

J. H. Hefley, and G. E. McNew will run it out for Justice of the Peace precinct No. 1. All commissioners' races are contested. In No. 1 Reece N. Adams will oppose Frank Hodnett, in No. 2 A. W. Winslow will vie with George White, and in No. 4 W. M. Fletcher has as his opponent, W. B. Sneed.

O. C. Fisher, who carried Howard county in the first primary as a candidate for the state legislature, is hoped to repeat his performance over Mrs. W. W. Carson. Both are from Tom Green county.

Absentee voting totaled $12 for the run off as compared to $56 for the first primary. This surprising large number of absentee ballots in no small part due to the enterprise of county superintendents counties and other candidates.

Rain, falling in slow showers, quenched a death hold of drought on most of North and West Texas Thursday night and brought double relief to this immediate area.

With the ground soaked with a 1.68 precipitation of Wednesday night, more rain moved in over all of Howard county to insure winter pasturage and late feed crops.

Devil's Sink Hole To Be Exploited As Largest Cavern In United States

They witnessed the taking of the first flashlight pictures ever taken in the inexplicable sink hole and were the guests of J. W. Hutt, editor of the Rocksprings Record, at a dinner following the exploration party.

Forty years ago, Hutt told McMahon and Pendleton he looked into the abyss, threw rocks down and listened until moments after the faint reverberation resounded from the bottom of the pit. He filed a story with a Chicago paper, telling of the hole.

But not much came of the story. It was only comparatively recently that explorations of the hole were made. And now Rocksprings natives suddenly awake to find that they have a national drawing card in their backyard.

Standing on the brink of the sink hole, only a faithless darkness appears below.

To enter the cavern, one must be lowered 271 feet down the sink hole. At that level it is possible to stand on the peak of a mountain within a mountain.

SPORT LINES By TOM BEASLEY

Ward Hall, who has just come back from a trip up the way, reports having seen Spec Williamson in action with Joplin in the Western Association. Williamson, as many will remember, played ball with the fast T. & P. team here a number of years ago.

The Sporting News reports the following incident concerning Williamson: "Spec Williamson, St. Joseph second baseman, was hit on the head by a ball pitched by Ralph Bama in the game of July 23 and knocked unconscious. He was taken to a hospital, where X-ray examination failed to reveal a fracture. When Williamson went down, Eddie Decuir, hastening to the side of the injured player, clutched with Early Brucker, who was running to the plate with the water bottle and both of the first-aid volunteers were also knocked out. It was necessary to take stitches in two cuts on Brucker's face, while Decuir suffered a gash over the eye."

The Herald Type Line will clash with the Kiwanians in a practice game on the City Park diamond Monday at 7 p. m. The Line is scheduled to blast the lid off the new schedule Monday with Cosden, but the Oilers will be out of town.

day is far less of a menace than it was half a dozen years ago. To be sure, the utmost vigilance still is necessary. The work that has been done so well in the last 15 months must continue until highway robbery becomes a relatively rare crime. But the worst is over.

We are no longer nourishing a world within a world, in our big cities. The gangster is no longer a high-powered business man whose contacts and influence reach far up through the social fabric. He is what the old-time outlaw was—a lone desperado whose days are inevitably numbered.

The tide of crime has begun to ebb at last. Stanley Baldwin's remark that Britain's frontier has moved from the English channel to the Rhine is a startling exposition of the way in which social warfare has transformed military science. For centuries Britain could be secure by maintaining control of the channel and the North Sea. Napoleon could never hope to win his long struggle unless he could whip the British fleet, Germany, with her magnificent army, could not triumph in the World War so long as Britain remained in command of the sea.

World statesmen are only beginning to realize the extent of the change. It will be a generation, at least, before world politics is fully adjusted to it.

Clubmen Stop Cosden Threats; Many Errors In Game

Lions scampered away with the first game of the softball pay-off series Thursday night with a 6 to 1 decision over Cosden, winner of the first half.

Both teams made numerous errors, and the Cosdenites put men on second and third several times but failed to tally.

Score In Third The Lions scored first in the third. Joe Pickle hit a hard one to left center that was good for a triple. Jake flew out to Wolcott and Joe scored when the fielder threw wild to third.

In the fifth Jake Pickle, advanced on cuts by Neel and Day, and scored on a hit by Williamson. Galarraga got on base on an error and Hall walked to fill the sacks. Miller Harris led the game for the Lions when he caught one of Spike's slow balls and biffed it far over the right fielder for a home run.

Patton Tallies In Seventh Patton counted for the Refiners in the seventh inning when the Lion infield erred.

Weather permitting, the two teams will clash again tonight on the City Park diamond at 8 p. m. If necessary, a double-header will be played.

Cowboys Not Very Strong

Couch Cranfill To Use Green And Untried Material

ABLENT—Forty men will answer the call of Coach Leslie Cranfill when the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys open football training on Sept. 10. Only 12 days later they will play their first game to launch a strenuous season of 10 contests.

Although Cranfill will have twice as many men to work with as he had last year, he will be forced to use green, untried material almost entirely. Only seven letter men are eligible to compete this season and two of these are in doubt about playing this fall.

Twenty sophomores hold the principal hopes of Cowboy followers. From the ranks of the 1933 Freshmen team will come men for every position. The linemen average well over 150 pounds and the backfield includes several dash men.

Ten or twelve other men, including some junior college graduates, are expected to report when training season opens.

The Cowboys will play four games at home, one on neutral ground, and five on enemy territory.

The climax of the home season will be the Home Coming game with the Baylor Bears here on Oct. 1. The St. Edwards Tigers will be met in Wichita Falls on Oct. 6, Trinity, Southwestern, Austin college, and Daniel Baker—all Texas conference schools—and Texas Tech, College of Mines, Sul Ross Teachers, and Amarillo Junior colleges will make out the remainder of the slate.

The following letter men have been invited to report: Captain Odell Winters, Jimmy Neely, end; Otto Rhome, Orville McLeod, tackles; Johnny Hill, Henry Milby, W. E. Routh, backs.

The following sophomores are scheduled to return: Ends—Alton Terry, Brady; Bill Harris, Fort Worth; Efford Anderson, Gainesville; Paulman Scroggins, Abilene.

Yankees May Win If Gehrig Takes Slugging Titles

NEW YORK, (AP)—The ultimate success of the Yankees in their struggle for the American league pennant against the Detroit Tigers may depend on Lou Gehrig's ability to win the 1934 league batting and home run titles, both of which he is within his grasp, as the season wanes.

No one in the league today has come nearer to these two titles than Gehrig, without realizing 100 games either.

For example, he was kept from bagging the home run title in 1931 by one of the strangest plays in the history of the game. The Yanks were playing the Washington Senators at the capital, and Gehrig hit a terrific drive high into the center field bleachers. Lyn Lary was on base, and for some unknown reason Lary thought the ball had been caught, so when he turned third base, he left the base line and ran to the Yankee dugout.

Gehrig came on around, paying no attention to Lary and was called out at the plate because he had passed the spot where Lary left the base line. The drive was scored as a triple. Gehrig tied with Ruth for home run honors that season with a record of 46.

In 1930 Gehrig came so close to winning the batting crown that it took higher mathematics to prove he didn't. Unofficially he was given the title, but after the percentages were reduced to the last fraction, Al Simmons of the Chicago White Sox had a total of .381 to Gehrig's .379.

His great record over the last seven years follows: 1927—Finished third. Heilmann, .365; Simmons, .362; Gehrig, .378. 1928—Finished third. Goheen, .376; Manush, .378; Gehrig, .374. 1929—Finished far down the list with .306. 1930—Finished second. Simmons, .381; Gehrig, .379. 1931—Finished fifth. Simmons, .390; Ruth, .378; Morgan, .381; Cochran, .349; Gehrig, .341. 1932—Finished third. Alexander, .367; Fox, .364; Gehrig, .349. 1933—Finished third. Fox, .356; Manush, .336; Gehrig, .354.

Gehrig Vs. Ruth Until this year, Gehrig has had the misfortune to be at his best when his illustrious teammate, George Herman Ruth, was engaged in clubbing out baseball history. Lou led the Babe in early September, 1927, only to have Ruth run his total to 60, which remains the greatest home run record in the game. Gehrig finished the season with 47, his best total.

Houston Determined To Have Texas Centennial In 1936; To Bid $3,000,000 To Get Affair

HOUSTON (UP)—Houston is determined to have the Texas Centennial Celebration in 1936 if it takes a bond issue of $3,000,000 to get it.

Already the militant challenge of more than 1000 Centennial leaders and an army of volunteer workers is ringing in the ears of every citizen. A house to house canvass of the city to obtain signatures of property owners pledging their support for the bond issue is under way.

It was Houston's first step to bring the Centennial to this city where it would be held on a vast park site two miles long.

Nineteen thousand Houston property owners are eligible to participate in a bond election. A report of the Centennial leaders and volunteer workers will be made next week. If sufficient signatures are obtained to assure passage of a bond issue, Houston's Centennial Committee will make a vigorous fight for the celebration.

If the drive fails, Houston will abandon its efforts, leaders said. However, a successful campaign was predicted.

"We want to sound out the sentiments of the people of Houston on the Texas Centennial," Clarence Wharton, chairman of the local Centennial committee, said. "If the people do not want it we will abandon our efforts. If they do want it we will put up the greatest fight that Texas ever saw to get it."

Wharton said that after the Centennial Houston would have one of the finest sites for a permanent fair in this section of the country.

"We could stage a fair for the vast trade territory of Houston, extending from Sabine to the Rio Grande, an area of 100,000 square miles, from which thousands upon thousands of people would come to Houston every year," he added.

"The Dallas Fair is the powerhouse of Dallas. By getting the Centennial here we could establish a fair here that alone would repay us for the $3,000,000 expenditure contemplated."

Criticism against the Centennial bond proposal was made by the Tax Payers' association and bankers on grounds that it was "foolish to advocate such a large expenditure of money in these awful times."

"We will feel like bowing our heads in shame if this celebration is held anywhere except in the shadow of San Jacinto," former Governor W. P. Hobby said.

"One needs only to read Texas history to understand how strong is Houston's claim to the observance. Historically, it is the logical site for the celebration."

TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

Cong. J. P. Buchanan of Brenham, chairman of the house appropriations committee, has consented to come before a joint committee hearing of the Texas house and senate, in the session starting Monday, to say that the federal government asks enactment of the Colorado River Authority bill and to explain the purposes behind this request which came from President Roosevelt in granting the $4,500,000 Hamilton dam loan.

Gov. Ferguson's original call submitted only the relief bond issue, as he previously had stated would be alone specified. Submission of the Colorado river bill and such other measures as are considered will follow by messages later. The bill will be introduced subject to submission" and set for joint hearing probably early in the second week of the session.

At that time, directors of the Colorado Valley Area and members of the group of county judges and mayors who met here at the call of County Judge Archer and Mayor Tom Miller will come to Austin to submit evidence to the committee that the entire affected area from above Llano to the gulf, is solidly behind the measure.

Representations will be made by the all-Brazos directorate that the Colorado project as accepted as a pioneer leader for those developments planned for the Brazos.

There is little chance that any efforts will be made in this special session to create the future relief set-up that will replace the present system whose law expires Sept. 1, 1935. That will be left to the new legislature in January, it appeared practically certain.

Neither does there seem any likelihood that the old fight to create a new oil and gas commission will be made, or that the effort will get far in the special session.

Always there are suggestions that a session stop short of the 30-day limit, but in recent times they have never panned out. One session was limited to half an hour, when the lawmakers refused to consider any of the things for which Gov. Pat M. Neff called it, or to take pay for the day's refusal to work.

Another straw-ballet claim: June C. Harris, Austin campaign manager for Hunter, said a Guadalupe street restaurant operator in Austin gave her patrons ballots and kept a ballot box three weeks in the second-primary period and at the end counted the vote cast.

Hunter—113. Allred—26.

The government called on Texas in good faith to do its utmost to bear a full share of the destitution relief load.

The state is spending $20,000,000 bread bonds in two years. It would seem that the state is being penalized and regarded like Louisiana, too busy bearing the super-burden of gross politicians like Huey Long to do anything for their destitute, are being rewarded. The federal government has given Louisiana over $10 per capita; Texas, $4.20 per capita, in relief.

But still, Texas will not regret doing its own share as it sees the duty. Certainly, hungry people of Texas or Louisiana are not to be starved because of the machination, the waste or exploitation of politicians, or the recalcitrance of politicians deaf to their needs.

Louisiana is spending more money per capita than Texas on what they call government. The difference in Texas is using some of its money to meet legitimate relief needs; and more of it on honest public improvements; while Louisiana is maintaining the expensive luxuries of irresponsible super-government; political dictators and machine gun armies to support them, when called on again, give of its substance to bear through the depression its victimized citizens, but will have no funds to Charles H. Bryan, leader of the pledge card drive, warned that loss of the Centennial would mean loss of Houston's supremacy as the largest city in Texas.

It was estimated that the bonds will mean a tax payment of 1.8 cents on the $100 valuation for the first year, the amount being reduced each year thereafter.

"The city that gets the Centennial will reap untold thousands of dollars in benefits," Bryan said.

Pundt in Appeal To Howard Voters

John Pundt, Dallas candidate for railroad commissioner of the state of Texas, who was prevented from coming to Big Spring in the interest of his candidacy in the run-off primary, has addressed the following communication to the voters of Howard county, through his representative, R. C. Woolridge:

"In behalf of my candidacy for railroad commissioner, I wish to state to my friends in Howard county that I am not running on the merits of my opponent, Lon A. Smith, but on the merits and qualifications of myself.

"I have carried on a clean campaign from the day I presented my candidacy to the people of Texas for railroad commissioner, Lon A. Smith and his henchmen are spreading from day to day propaganda that is very untrue and I have affidavits in my personal files at my headquarters in Dallas that will contradict the propaganda that Lon A. Smith is spreading over the state of Texas in an effort to be re-elected to the railroad commission. I have only stated in my speeches that Lon A. Smith is 71 years of age, has been on the state payroll for thirty-nine years and has drawn in salary over $200,000 of the taxpayers' money. If Lon A. Smith is re-elected to the present office that he now holds and tries to fill the unexpired six years, he will have been on the state payroll of Texas a period of forty years.

"Lon A. Smith is doing all he can to be re-elected and it can not be denied that he is not using state employees, state automobiles on state time and using state gasoline, which is being paid for by no other than the taxpayers of Texas. The only way that this man can be defeated is by the voters throughout this big state, and the sooner that he is retired, the better off the state will be.

"I am for the working class of people interested in the unemployment throughout our state; favoring the 70 car train with full crew, fair wages and living conditions. I also favor the newly made amendments to the railroad labor act, and the re-employment of the eligible men out of employment, rather than hiring new and inexperienced students. I also favor the reduction of taxation on automobiles to $2.

"I will appreciate your support in my behalf when you go to the polls Saturday to cast your vote, and I promise to the people of Texas that I will fulfill my promises to the letter if elected.

"Sincerely,
"JOHN PUNDT"

San Antonio Team Whips Indians 4-0

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UP)—In their last home stand until September 7, the Oklahoma Indians, Texas league tallenters, dropped an engagement here Thursday night with the San Antonio Padres, 4-0.

OLEES & PIRATES 3 TULSA, (UP)—Mace Brown held the Galveston Buccaneers to six hits Thursday night and Tulsa bunched their blows off Harry Gumbert to easily win the last game of the short series, 5-2, and gain an even break for the two nights.

support a boodle ring of expensive politicians.

Adam Johnson, who returned as state relief director, went through little "hazing" when requirements left him no choice except to spend over half his time signing $20 and $30 checks every day. If he had chosen to spend $1000 of relief money, he could have installed a machine to sign his name on the checks, such as used on the thousands of state warrants issued monthly, but instead he worked until 10 or 11 o'clock every night, getting through this enormous mass of work that it was unnecessary for him to have been required to do individually. The situation at its first meeting.

A two-year effort to get an underpass on the Main-Elm-Commerce extension in Dallas finally resulted in a call for bids at Sept. 11 to be opened jointly by the highway commission and the city of Dallas. The project will cost federal and state governments and Dallas approximately three-quarters of a million dollars.

The public interest finds itself in strange relationships. In the sour gas fight, soon to come up, the public interest of conserving gas will have as its ally the interest of the big gas exporters against Texas independent producers.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and weak and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of pills, mind your diet, eat laxative easily or chemically sweet and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and fragrant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the stomach. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, who often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel like a new man. You'll be glad to get up, eat, and enjoy your life again. You'll be glad to get up, eat, and enjoy your life again.

But don't take for liver pills. Look for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Don't take a substitute. Read directions. ©1933 C. M. Co.

Attorney General Allred Stands for:

Members of the Legislature should be required to make public their connections with corporate special interests.

Corrupt lobbying in Austin must be prohibited. The watered stocks, unconscionable rates and profits of public utilities must be scaled down. Municipal ownership where desired must be made practicable.

The unrestrained pardoning power of the Governor should be transferred to a non-partisan, non-political board.

Vicious, violent lawlessness in Texas must cease! A state police organization should be formed by merging existing agencies. This can be accomplished without added cost.

The highest educational standards must be maintained for our children. Simple justice and equity demands a reclassification of the wealth of the state for tax purposes. The burden should fall heaviest where it can be borne.

The general sales tax is a tax on poverty. If the Legislature passes such a tax he will veto it.

In order that the great eastern chains shall not destroy the independent home owned businesses, a graduated tax should be imposed on chain stores.

Pundt Representative Visitor In Big Spring

M. C. Woodridge, West Texas representative for John Pundt, candidate for railroad commissioner, arrived in Big Spring Thursday night from Lubbock, where he has been in the interest of Mr. Pundt. He made the trip here by airplane from Lubbock, with Doc Booth, of the Waco Airplane company, at the controls. The trip was made in 45 minutes.

Mrs. Georgia Hall and children, Ward, Harriet and Harold have returned home from a two weeks' vacation spent in Kansas City and other parts of Missouri.

The girls who create new recipes have been at it again! Stung into action by the lassitude of summer appetites, the kitchen-scientists have turned their attention to the invention of new combinations and new recipes and the fruits of their labors are now ready to be reaped. Prepare now to enjoy new delights and for your motto choose: "Let no palate go unappeased!"

Recipe-Creators Bring Forth New Foods You've Never Tasted Before

TRY THEM WHILE THEY ARE NEW

These are part of the new crop of foods, for which you must thank the home economists who daily labor that we may add to our cookery repertoire; you will want to try these dishes while they are still new.

In a middle-western kitchen the sight of bushes loaded with more gooseberries than the family could eat inspired the creation of this rare recipe. The healthful date has been used in pies for many years but date and gooseberry pie is new!

Date-Gooseberry Pie
2 cups cooked gooseberries, 1 cup pasteurized dates sliced, 1-2 cup Imperial sugar, 1 cup gooseberry syrup (or water), 1-1/2 tps. cinnamon, 1-2 tsp salt, 1 tps. cornstarch.

Use canned or cooked gooseberries which have been drained. Combine berries and sliced dates. Mix together the sugar, salt, cinnamon and cornstarch; pour over this dry mixture the gooseberry syrup which has been heated to boiling point, or hot water. Cook this until thick and clear. Add this to fruit and cool. Put this filling into a baked pastry shell and serve plain or with sweetened whipped cream on top. Sprinkle cinnamon on top.

Bananas Au Gratin
1-4 cup grated American cheese, 1 tps. dry bread or cracker crumbs, 2 tps. lemon juice, 6 bananas, cut in halves, 1-4 tsp. salt. Roll bananas in lemon juice, then in grated cheese, bread crumbs and salt which have been mixed together. Place in well-greased baking dish and bake for 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven (400 F.) or until brown on top. Serve hot as a vegetable. Make in servings or two helpings apiece for six.

A fondness for the flavor of curry prompted the creation of a new salad dressing that is delicious with chicken and vegetable salads. If you are one of those who do not like curry, simply omit it—you'll have a new and toothsome dressing anyway.

East Indian Cream Dressing
2 egg yolks, 2 tps. mayonnaise, 1 tsp. dry mustard, 1 tsp. cornstarch, 1 tsp. salt, few grains cayenne, 1-8 tsp. curry powder, 3-4 cup milk, 1-4 cup hot vinegar, 2 egg whites.

Beat egg yolks and stir in mayonnaise, then mix dry ingredients and add to oil-egg mixture. Add hot milk gradually and cook over hot water, stirring constantly; as it thickens, add vinegar. Cool, then fold in beaten egg whites. (If you like curry you may increase amount of curry powder to as much as 1-4 teaspoon, but result will be fairly strong. If you wish, omit curry entirely.) When dressing is ready for use, fold in two tablespoons of bottled sandwich spread, or a mixture of chopped pickles, pickles and hard-cooked eggs.

Of course you have tried Angel Food Cake, and Angel Pudding, but here is a "cross between" that adds the mouth-watering flavor of golden dates; their chewiness gives new contrast to the creamy dessert.

Fruit Angel Food
1 cup Imperial sugar, 1-2 cup water, juice 1-2 lemons, 1-4 tsp. cream of tartar, 2 cups pasteurized dates, chopped, 5 egg whites, 1 tsp. vanilla.

Add sugar, water and lemon juice to dates, which have been cut in small pieces. Cook in small saucepan, until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and let cool. Beat the egg whites to a froth; add cream of tartar and beat until nearly stiff. Add vanilla and finish beating until very stiff. Fold in to date mixture, very gently. Pour into greased bowl, set in a pan of water and bake for 1 hour in very moderate oven. Serve with custard sauce. 8 servings.

Eulogy For Dog Composed By Lad

MINERAL WELLS (UP)—John Belcher, 13 killed two birds with one stone in writing Father W. F. Parke, Catholic minister, about the death of his bird dog.

When Father Parke left for Chicago on a visit he put his dog in John's care. The dog died. The sorrowful lad composed a eulogy to the dog and sent it to Father Parke to inform him of the death.

"Nellie, oh, Nellie! with her honest dog face,
Has gone, dear Father, to her last resting place.
Our skill as dog doctors, she put to a test,
But I'm sorry to state, she has gone to her rest."

"Mother, with delicacy, would throw her a bone,
While barbecued meat I would order by phone.
But with all that, and flea-powder, too,
I saw there was nothing we could do,
I had her a few days—I think about seven;
But now Father Parke, she has gone to dog heaven."

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

As the situation is relayed to us from London, a pair of pompous officials of the All-England Lawn Tennis and Cricket club, who as stockholders have waxed affluent on the club's tremendous earnings from amateur tennis, were in serious conversation in the club lounge.

An American reporter in the next chair, who couldn't help overhearing, almost pulled two stitches out of his latest operation as he got the drift of the talk.

"Something must be done about these boys who make their living out of tennis," said the fatter, more asthmatic of the two.

"Right," agreed his companion, between sips of tea. "Here they do nothing the year around except play tennis and have a high old time at our expense."

"What we must consider," continued the first, "is their futures. What are they equipping themselves for? Nothing. What in the world are they going to do when they quit playing tennis?"

THINK OF THE LOST SLEEP!

Both undoubtedly were troubled about it. One finally, after deep thought, arrived at a very plausible solution:

"What we should do at the next meeting is pass a rule absolutely cutting out all this expense money we pay out every year. If they are genuine amateurs they will be glad to pay their own way to get to play at Wimbledon. As it is all we're doing is making a lot of bums out of them."

"You're right," his companion agreed. "But on the other hand I guess you've sort of got to look at it from another angle. These boys are the ones who pull the crowds. You've got to give them credit for that, even if they do hold us up on expenses."

"Perhaps you're right," reluctantly. "I guess there's not much we can do."

They alighted in unison, like men thwarted in a heartfelt desire to make honest, upright citizens out of the world's amateur tennis stars. One little bit more drifted back as they ambled out to watch a match or two.

"I understand we have a complete sell-out for the Davis Cup challenge round."

OH, YOU TENNIS BUM!

It has been some time since the cry of "tennis bum" echoed in the councils of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, which a number of years ago, when this country was at the height of its Davis Cup power, was accused of making things too soft and easy for the younger generation of players—taking them to training camps, encouraging them to devote their time to tennis in preference to business and otherwise showing a complete disregard for their future as useful citizens of the land.

Not only have seven somewhat barren financial years gone by, from tennis standpoint, but seven more—may—elapse before the country finds the winning combination. There isn't anything in sight now capable of halting Fred Perry, Bunny Austin & Co., as a consequence of which our brother Britons can go right on "worrying" and cutting dividends at Wimbledon.

It looks as though professional tennis will have to get along without Frederick John Perry, the volatile British ace, for at least another year or two.

Last winter it seemed certain that Perry, as well as Jack Crawford of Australia, would listen attentively to the siren call of professional gate receipts. It was said flatly and with some authority by the promoter of the Tilden-Vines troupe that Perry would be in the pro fold after he finished the 1934 amateur campaign. Henri Cochet had just made the jump and things were very much on the upgrade.

There has been a big change. The boom quickly subsided in the Tilden-Vines tour. Cochet, well past his best, failed to come up to expectations as a drawing card. And now Perry as Britain's greatest tennis hero in 25 years, has abandoned all thought of turning pro for the time being. As Wimbledon champion and holder also of the Australian and American singles

LEAVE TERRY ALONE

"I hate a lot of young fellows complaining," said a prominent baseball man, "because Bill Terry doesn't do this or that—just to be a good fellow or to do some newspaper man a favor. The thing they don't realize is that Terry's main interest in baseball is in winning ball games, not giving interviews or posing for pictures. He's out on the field for one purpose: to win with every resource at his command. If it doesn't work he doesn't seem to worry. He doesn't play yesterday's or tomorrow's game today. He attends strictly to the business in hand. That's why he's a great manager and still a great batter."

GROVE STILL GOOD

Lefty Grove's comeback is a bit too late to do the Red Sox much good this year, beyond keeping them in the first division, but the patience of the Boston management in handling the celebrated $100,000 showpaw should mean dividends for the Hub hose in 1935.

There is every reason to believe that the trouble with Grove's mighty arm was only temporary and that he has several more seasons of effective pitching in his system, even though it be true that his future is mainly behind him. Of his victory over the hard-hitting Athletics, signaling his return to form, Cy Peterman of the Philadelphia Bulletin wrote:

"The rubber arm is by no means gone. The old Grove zip is still on the ball and it is the writer's opinion that Lefty will finish this year about as good as he was at the close of last season. Also that, barring accident, he will be mighty tough meat come next April."

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonsfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Chemical Process Officials Visit Here Thursday

P. W. Pitzer, general manager and secretary-treasurer, and "Swede" Rhenstrom, of the sales department, Chemical Process company, Breckenridge, arrived in Big Spring Thursday morning aboard the company's brand new 4-place cabin Waco biplane. The craft was piloted by Rhenstrom, veteran pilot, who will be remembered by many Big Spring people as the first pilot to bring a Southern Air Transport passenger plane into Big Spring upon inauguration of that company's service on March 16, 1928.

"Big Spring has certainly grown since that time," said Rhenstrom, who expressed amazement at the city-like appearance of Big Spring. The Chemical Process company operates extensively in the Howard-Glaescock and other West Texas fields, and company representatives are frequent visitors to this city.

PITTSBURGH—Coming from behind in the late innings Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia Thursday 5-3 in the first game of their series. Lavagetto's "Texas league" double, two intentional passes and Paul Waner's fly to Allen in the ninth inning furnished the winning marker.

GIANTS 5, CARDS 1

ST. LOUIS—Joe Moore's ninth-inning home run with two mates on base gave the league-leading Giants a 5-1 victory over the Cardinals Thursday in the first of a three-game "crucial" series.

Until Moore's four-baser, 21-year-old Paul Dean had all the better of the opposition, whose pitching was started by Carl Hubbell and ended by portly Fred Fitzsimmons, with Luque and Herman Bell in between.

The victory increased the Giants' lead to six and a half games over the second-place Chicago Cubs, who lost to Brooklyn and to seven games over the Cardinals.

Credit for the victory went to Luque, who pitched only two innings.

As has been their custom all season, the Red Birds showed no respect for Hubbell, touching him for eight hits, one a home run by Virgil "Spud" Davis, in the five innings he pitched. All the Cardinals' runs were scored during Hubbell's tenure on the mound.

The defeat was Paul Dean's eighth of the season, compared with 13 victories, four of them over the Giants.

The US Eighty league game the Oilers are scheduled to play with Stanton Sunday has been postponed.

Predicts Woodward Victory In Run-Off

AUSTIN—A definite tide of sentiment in all parts of Texas in favor of the candidacy of Walter Woodward of Coleman for attorney general will result in Woodward's election at the polls Saturday by a majority of 50,000 to 50,000 votes, it was predicted Thursday by Milburn McCarty of Eastland, a Woodward leader in the candidate's state headquarters here.

Senator Woodward carried 158 of 254 counties in the first primary. McCarty pointed out, covering more than two-thirds of the territory of Texas. His total vote was approximately 200,000, he added, and it is generally conceded that Woodward split his vote in the first primary with Clyde Smith of Woodville who ran a strong third, carrying 13 populous East Texas counties which contributed most of Smith's 192,000 votes.

GEORGE WHITE, Com. Prec. 3 W. M. FLETCHER, Com. Prec. 4

Judge Debenport and the commissioner's court have in the past given Howard county an economical, efficient, honest administration.

Services have been increased rather than curtailed, yet the tax rate has been steady and substantially cut since 1928, when it stood at $1.44. The following year it was cut 20 cents, the next year 24 cents, the next year 21 cents, then ten cents, and next year it will be cut 15 cents more to give Howard county a rate of 50-cents, one of the lowest in the state. That is tax relief in action instead of talk.

Judge Debenport and the court have reduced tax burdens in the face of increased charity demands. In 1933 the county expended $3,728.74 in aiding unfortunate citizens. For the first seven months of this year the court has spent $4,538.90 for this same purpose. This figure does not include substantial expenditures necessary to keep the canning plant in operation, thus providing employment to hundreds of worthy, deserving people.

Judge Debenport and the court have provided for new roadways east and west, north and south, yet they are offering another tax rate. In 1933 they expended $29,078.44 for right-of-way and this year they have spent $41,838.70 that this county might enjoy modern highways.

With all these and many other heavy demands upon the county finances, they now have an actual cash balance of $78,922.29 in all funds, and an additional balance of $7,250 in securities, or a total balance of $86,172.29. A praiseworthy record, indeed.

Through intelligent transaction in purchasing sound bonds, Judge Debenport has increased the permanent school fund by $979.50 in the past year. This money will for ever remain to aid education in the county.

Judge Debenport is a capable jurist, handling all legal matter in his court with commendable dispatch. A glance at his record on the county bench will convince any person that Judge Debenport presides over court wisely and with a practical knowledge of law.

Moreover, he has, in many times past, drawn up bonds for school districts without cost to these districts, saving large sums in professional fees. During his tenure of office there has been no occasion to call in professional aid except in oil valuations. This move has doubtless saved the county large sums of money.

SPITE MARRIAGE

by Katherine Stewart Taylor

Chapter 42
ILLNESS

With a murmured response Bob settled; he saw, with a tightening of heart, that Marsha's place at the table was unoccupied. Perhaps she would appear soon.

Bartholomew left the room; Bob looked at Marsha's empty chair to see her face as he had seen it the night before. She had seemed a little girl from the wild fear that had filled her eyes and her stammered explanations that had told him nothing. Why had he said that about her pretending his mother gave her this, that? What part of the devil had prompted those words?

He glanced quickly away from her chair and toward the sunny windows. A bowl of jonquils in the center of the table echoed the outside light with a yellow glare. One window, slightly raised, admitted a frail, small breeze, which carried the promise of the warmer days that were to come. With the mood, and the heart for it, one would know nothing had come, Bob realized.

He tried to eat and failed. He was grateful to her, he decided, as he pushed away his hardly touched coffee cup, for not coming down. If he only could get beyond seeing her as she had looked! Beyond remembering that noise in her eyes, beyond feeling her sob as she had, in his arms!

Bartholomew stood near, crest-fallen from knowing another disappointment. Affairs were obviously far from being as he had hoped! Mr. Robert had no more than touched his food and his face was grim and strained.

"Mrs. Powers breakfasted?" Bob questioned abruptly.

"No, sir; I presumed Mr. Robert, that she had slept late and would breakfast in her room. I had hoped that she was getting enough over the shock, sir. She worked steadily and hard these last long months. Night on night up."

"But the nurses?" Bob prompted sharply.

And he, his wife, Mr. Robert, was the day Mrs. Powers gave your wife the pearls.

"God!" Bartholomew stiffened; perhaps, he reasoned, he had gone a bit too far. "I beg pardon, Mr. Robert?" he said unsteadily.

"It's nothing, Bartholomew. Will you fill my glass, please?" Bartholomew filled the glass; Bob drank deeply from it and rose. When he reached the upper hall he found Hannah, a disturbed Hannah, stopping from Marsha's room.

"Mr. Robert," he heard. "Yes, Hannah." "Mrs. Powers is not at all well this morning, Mr. Robert. I just now ran her tub for her and as she made way to the bath room she was very unsteady. I touched her skin as I put her negligee around her. She's feverish with fever and I thought perhaps we'd best have Doctor Jackson in."

"I'll call him, Hannah, thank you, Mrs. Powers you say is bathing now?" "Yes, Mr. Robert."

He turned into his own room; with her return to her room from the bathroom which adjoined it, he would hear her. And meantime, with a view to understanding Marsha better and so, perhaps, giving her more justice, he would open the box.

He stepped into his room, closed the door after himself, locked it. The box opened readily. Bob took from it a miscellaneous assortment: that made his eyes smart and his throat stiffen. Every small market that had had to do with him, in all chance-boy-to-manhood era, had been preserved, neatly ticketed and with Mrs. Powers' Spencerian writing upon each tab.

He had had a strangely apologetic feeling about opening the box and touching its contents. But the word that there were things in the box for which he would care. Well, he did care for them, and it hurt to care.

The younger, rounder, writing of his boy-written letters gave him another even deeper pang. He had dreamed, then, with enchanting innocence, of marriage some nice girl and of being very happy.

lines in haste. "I want you to take Marsha back with you," he read. "I think no woman could love you more."

That was the end of the message which had, evidently, been written in haste and with some considerable emotion. So she had known, and Marsha had known that his mother's appeal was in the painted box.

He opened Marsha's door. She sat up in her bed as he moved toward her. He saw fright in her eyes; did she think he was going to behave her again? "Please, please!" he begged, "don't be afraid of me, Marsha!"

Woe Sin's Understudy

"I'm not, truly," she assured him, a trifle unsteadily, and she lay back.

By the bed he stood looking down on her, he was alarmed by the flash on her cheeks and by the brightness of her eyes which were raised to his. He ventured to lay a hand on her forehead.

As Hannah had said, she was "afire with fever." She drew a little away; he moved to settle on a small chair that stood near.

"Marsha—" "Yes—" "It's difficult for me to say; all I feel, I've never been so deeply ashamed, if that's anything in the way of apology. I don't know that it is."

Again she sat up. "It's all right, really. It doesn't matter. As you said, a great many men have kissed me. I didn't expect you to when I didn't want you to. But it doesn't matter."

"It matters rather terribly to me, Marsha." She looked at him vaguely. "I put the pearls and the bracelet on my dressing table top," she said.

"Marsha," he stretched an appealing hand toward her. "I didn't mean that I knew my mother gave them to you. I want you to have them."

All lakes and tanks in the southwest part of Howard county were filled with stock water and creeks were running Friday. Farms were assured of fair cotton and good feed crops. Range country was thoroughly soaked.

Ena Gregory Rogell (above), film actress, became the center of a triangle of divorce, alienation of affection and damage suits when her husband, Albert Rogell, movie director, filed for divorce and named William V. or whereby Rep. Jack Cochrane, of St. Louis, is going to run for his House seat again this fall regardless of having stepped out to take a bad shot at the senate.

While Cochrane was jousting against the Senatorial nominations of Boss Tom Prendergast of Kansas City and Senator Bennett Clark, a gentleman named Joseph Lennon copped the Democratic Congressional nomination in the St. Louis district. Prior to the senatorial primary, which the Prendergast machine won, Senator Clark charged that Lennon was merely keeping Cochrane's seat warm in case the Congressman lost out.

Cochrane denied this at the time but word comes back to Washington that Lennon is getting ready to step aside. Rep. Clarence Cannon of Mo. already has set the stage with a statement Cochrane is too valuable a member of Congress to be lost to his constituents.

Mr. Hoover has just acquired a farm near his Palo Alto home and was showing it proudly to Hines. "I'll bet," said Hines accusingly, "you bought it just to get some AAA money."

Rotarians Shed Red Ties, Tears As Member Quits

MIDLAND—Paul T. Vickers, charter member of the Midland Rotary club, left the luncheon of that body Thursday with the neckties of all members who were present and also carried home to Mrs. Vickers a box of candy, as token of appreciation of the club for their citizenship, after a fellowship program had been dedicated to the chamber of commerce secretary who is moving to McAllen.

Through agreement, members of the club wore red neckties to the meeting, that color being a favorite of Vickers. At a juncture in the proceedings, each member removed his tie and laid it at Vickers' plate. Addison Wadley was in charge of the program and paid eloquent tribute to the retiring member's worth as a citizen. Elliott H. Barron and Clinton W. Lackey also spoke, as did various club members who desired to eulogize Vickers.

The retiring club member voiced his appreciation for the pleasant association of Midland people and eloquently thanked those who had dedicated the program in his honor.

Large Crowd Hears Mahon In Final Plea

Candidate For Congress To Close Campaign At Haskell Tonight

George Mahon, Colorado, who was accorded an impressive plurality in the first primary in his race for congressman of the newly formed 19th district, made his final appeal to the voters of Howard county Thursday evening before climaxing it in Haskell Friday evening.

A large and enthusiastic crowd heard Mahon, who formerly served as district attorney for this county, make his last appearance here before the second primary.

That he is related to the Hon. W. R. Ely of the state highway commission was flatly denied by Mahon, who added that he was not related to any "public official in the state from constable to governor by blood or affinity" except for a "brother-in-law who is related in some way to the mayor of Abernathy, Texas."

Although he did not refer to it, Mahon apparently had reference to the accusation made in northern towns of the district that he was related to Ely and would favor improvement on highway No. 1 to the exclusion of others in the district.

He also took occasion to say that he aspired to be "the representative of all the people" and that any one seeking to align the "northern part of the district against the southern part of the district" was not deserving of the office.

Mahon expressed "deep appreciation of support given" his candidacy in Howard county and over the entire district in the first primary. That he carried 11 of the 17 counties over his opponent in the north and was pointed to as a "sectional candidate."

He reiterated his platform which opposes issuance of more tax exempt bonds and securities, proposes redistribution of the burdens of benefits of government, old age pension program, farm and home ownership program, a fair deal to labor, curbing of and distribution of obscene literature, immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, a "farm program for the farmer," and opposes "entangling alliances between members of congress and Wall Street."

Mahon recalled his position favoring "the right of labor to organize and deal collectively." He said that he had, from the beginning been a friend of labor, Mahon also declared that he had announced in favor of immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus when he announced his platform.

He was introduced by Charles Sullivan who pointed to Mahon's total of more than 20,000 or 40 per cent of the cast in the first primary. This, he reminded, was compared to little more than 10,000 for his nearest opponent. Mahon led his opponent in 19 of the 25 counties in the district, he said, and carried 16 counties over all opponents.

Postal Receipts Continue Gains

Postal receipts are climbing to a new high percentage gain for August. During the first 22 days of August a 40 per cent gain has been shown over the corresponding period for a year ago. The net cash gain over the same period last year is $779.79 according to Postmaster Nat Shick.

Net percentage gain of this year over 1933 from January 1 to Aug. 22 is 10.66, said Shick.

Miss Parr Talks To Vincent Club

The timely element in Miss Mayme Lou Parr's talk on "Fall Gardens" before the Home Demonstration Club of Vincent Thursday was accentuated by the down-pour of rain in that area Thursday night.

Miss Parr, county home demonstration agent, addressed a large gathering of Vincent women in the school building Thursday afternoon on the type of garden to plan for the fall season in order to yield a balanced program of canning.

Mrs. Ben Brown is president of the Vincent club. Miss Mabel Lee was announced as clothing demonstrator. The club deferred naming a pantry demonstrator since it is wished that some one with an irrigated garden can be secured for the position.

Tuesday Miss Parr will meet with the Knott club at 2:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. T. J. Brown. Mrs. O. B. Gaskin is president of the Knott club. The theme of the meeting will be the same as that of Vincent.

Miss Parr will spend the latter part of next week visiting with pantry demonstrators and 4-H wardrobe demonstrators to aid them in preparation of demonstrations for the various club meetings.

Pick Allred

Poll Conducted by 13 Big-City Papers Show 10 Favor Allred

DALLAS (Sp.)—James V. Allred will be the next governor of Texas, a telegraphic poll of thirteen big-city newspapers conducted by the Dallas Times Herald, has indicated.

Ten of the editors expressed the belief Allred will win. Only two picked Tom F. Hunter. One declined to make a guess.

Newspapers represented in the telegraphic poll are published in Houston, San Antonio, Tyler, Fort Worth, San Angelo, El Paso, Marshall, Galveston and Temple.

The single telegraphic reply that failed to indicate a choice between the two candidates came from editor of one of the daily newspapers in Wichita Falls.

"We think Allred will win by not less than 50,000 . . . more if Hunter's crack-up which has become apparent gets more largely heralded," telegraphed an editorial representative of one of Houston's three daily newspapers.

"Voters favor Allred by small margin," read a reply from Temple.

El Paso reported "It looks like Allred," San Angelo, " . . . for Allred"; Galveston, "looks like Allred"; Tyler, "We have carefully surveyed the situation around here . . . believe Allred will win."

A San Antonio editor telegraphed "We consider Allred as the winner." The Attorney General has not yet carried his program for state betterment to that city in his campaign itinerary when that report on public sentiment in Bexar county was made.

Marshall reported "Allred will win," Fort Worth reported "race close here but believe Allred will win."

In no other State political race is it more to the people's interest to discriminate between merit and political cunning than in the attorney general's race, for in no other public office are actual qualifications more essential to the public welfare.
