Evaluation Of Schools Planned

Program organized by Slaton Independent School District. The program, a long hard look at all school activities, will begin next fall and will continue for possibly as long as a year before a final, comprehensive report is written.

Slaton school trustees last Thursday night voted to employ Dr. Morris S. Wallace, professor of education at Texas Tech. and formerly head of the education department, to coordinate the self-evaluation.

When the accreditation committee of the Texas Education Assn. recently visited Slaton schools, one of the "suggestions" of the visiting accreditation team was that Slaton conduct a self-evaluation program. Suggestions by accreditation teams are almost always carried out.

Dr. Wallace, experienced in conducting self-evaluations for schools according to a prescribed procedure, spoke to the school board here last week and pointed out some of the advantages for a school and community conducting such a program.

"If a city can publicize the fact that the school is accredited by the highest regional accrediting agency available, it will be advantageous to the community in attracting new people and new industry."

Dr. Wallace described an evaluation program as simply "a look at how well we are doing our job, and should we make any changes. . . we should take a look at what our goals are, and discover how well we are achieving these goals."

Exhibiting a manual which sets out standards for certain kinds of activities conducted by schools, Dr. Wallace said, "If there are areas in which you do not meet the standard, the final report not only will say so, but also will say why."

He said the self-evaluation program (SEP) would be directed by a steering committee made up of administrators, counselors and possibly including a school board member. A number of other committees would be involved in specific areas and participation on these groups would include all teachers and faculty members and selected members of the community.

After the long-term look at Slaton's programs and activities as measured against accepted standards is completed, and the preliminary reports of the various committees written, a visiting team of outsiders will be brought in by Dr. Wallace to make a separate evaluation of the system.

Cost of the entire program was estimated at $2,500. A dinner meeting tentatively is planned — possibly in October — to kick off the SEP.

Dr. Wallace said he wanted to make it clear to the teachers and community that the self-evaluation program is not concerned at all with evaluating individuals as to how well they teach or do their assigned jobs. "We simply want to find out what you are seeking to achieve, and how well you are doing it."

With principals of the various schools present, the school board also voted to re-hire all teachers in the system.

Bob Kern of Pember Insurance presented figures on workman's compensation insurance. The board voted to accept Kern's proposals for the coverage.

Supt. J. C. McClesky gave reports on finances and average daily attendance, with the latter having reached a level which should qualify the system for more state financial help next year.

Representatives of the Classroom Teachers Assn. and two candidates for the school board also were present.

COED INJURED — Doris Chan, 24-year-old Texas Tech student, was seriously injured Monday morning when her car overturned three miles west of Slaton on FM 41. At latest report, she remained in intensive care at Methodist Hospital. (SLATONITE PHOTO)

Who keep track of such things tell us how we Texans are approaching the problem of tornadoes are most likely to occur. Although they hasten to add that tornadoes can occur anytime, they say the most likely times for tornadoes in Texas are the months of April, May and June. They are most frequent during the hours of the day. The release which explains this again that a tornado is issued by some guys with a lot of equipment up in Kansas City, which is a safe place to be when forecasting a tornado in Lubbock or Lamb counties. When a tornado is spotted, a tornado warning is issued and it's time to go hide in a hole.

The first clouds in seven months in a couple of weeks ago, somebody in the area got so excited they sounded the "cellar" alarm. Probably they thought a cloud looks like a cloud. At the time some guy in Kansas City was saying they are okay down there in Texas. The word to the radio stations, and that the tornado watch has been frequently a good time to be wary. Assume that if turbulent weather threatens Kansas City, they would be the old fellow in Brownsville they should take cover.

OF OUR finest sources of information Texas A&M Extension Service. I really don't know what this organization is supposed to do. I called them once to see if they'd send me down to the bank to plead my case. They said they'd send me down to the bank to plead my case. They said they'd send me down to the bank to plead my case.

of the information they send out is interesting. Some of it is useless, so far as I'm personally concerned, although I'll be glad to have it if someone may care. For example, one two-page story said that "trees furnish shelter from wind . . . and floods (h-m-m) . . . providing shelter and food for birds, and man."

are just two feet high. By the time they are just two feet high, a lot of animals will be extinct, and in 40 years, so will the guy who planted them. The extension people: labeling offers consumers a new way of thinking about nutrients in food products (with labels like they are, some of that stuff is just like gold in it). . . adds a new dimension to fashion (whatever that means). . . The cost of a brick varies from one section of the country to another, with the "lowest" brick costs recorded in Montgomery, Ala. (for Gov. Wallace). . . Children's books for leadership . . . red meat prices leveling off (yeah, at 70,000 feet).

JOKE DEPT.: In England, a busful of tourists pulled to a stop at a certain spot and one of them demanded of the driver, "What happened here?" "Where they signed the Magna Carta," replied the guide. "When did they do that?" "1215," replied the tourist. "1215," replied the driver. "My gosh, Irene, we just got here 40 minutes!"

Youth Mini-Mission Set This Weekend

This weekend will bring a new approach to youth involvement and Christian living to the young people of the Slaton area as the Mini-Youth Mission kicks off Saturday evening at 6:30 with a skating party. The event, sponsored by the senior high school division of First Baptist Church, is meant to include all high school students and young singles in the area.

The skating party will be held in the Steve Bourn Memorial Center on 20th Street, and at 7:30 p.m. food will be served in the Fellowship Hall of the Baptist Church. A rap session will follow, according to local committee chairman, Dru Ann Beard.

The majority of the youth leaders for the mission will be college age young people from Lubbock, with Barry Merrell as coordinator.

Merrell spent one year with the Christian singing group, Renaissance, two years with the Continental Singers, and has coordinated several youth lay witness missions. This new innovation invites young people to participate in the two day mission in living.

Sunday morning at 8:30, the young people are invited to meet again for breakfast in the Fellowship Hall again, with a recess at 9:30, to allow them to leave for their own churches if they wish. For those staying, a rap and report session will be held at 9:45. Again Sunday night, at 7:15, another rap session will be held.

Young people from the area are invited to come and bring a friend to all of the sessions during the two-day mission, as they seek to explore something different.

Little Dribblers

9-10-YEAR-OLDS
In the second week of play there were some close games and a lot of action.

Monday, March 11, Hackberry Co-Op, coached by Tom Burrow, beat Bryant Farm Supply, coached by James Coffield. Tom Burrow and Mark Meurer scored 8 points each for the winning team, and Randy Crabtree was high scorer for Bryant with 5 points.

In the second game, Clarence Voigt coached Wendel TV to victory over Smith Ford, coached by Larry Johnson, 30-14. M. Voigt had 14 points, Robert Gordon 10 for the high scoring Wendel TV team. Mask scored 8 points, making him high man for the losers.

Tuesday, March 12, Wendel TV beat Hackberry 24-14. Lewis, with 10, and Voigt, with 8 points, led their team to victory. Burrow, for the Hackberry team, would not give up — he scored all 14 points for the losers.

Friday, March 15, Wendel TV beat Bryant Farm 37-14. Voigt scored 19

Rabies Still Health Threat

COLLEGE STATION -- Fewer and fewer dogs are infected with rabies each year, but the disease is still a major threat to our health, notes Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Now the threat comes mainly from wildlife. Over 80 per cent of the rabies cases reported in the United States during July and August 1973 involved wildlife. And the disease is most prevalent in hot, summer weather.

Of 261 rabies cases confirmed by the Texas State Department of Health in 1973, 200 involved wildlife. Skunks were the animals most frequently found infected with the disease. Bats, foxes, raccoons, ring-tails and coyotes accounted for most of the other wildlife cases.

"All warm-blooded animals can be infected with the virus disease," says Armstrong. "The Texas Health Department confirmed 15 cases in horses, one in sheep and 23 in cattle last year as well as five in dogs and 17 in cats," says Armstrong.

The disease is usually transmitted by the bite or lick of a rabid animal since the virus is carried in the infected animal's saliva, explains the veterinarian. Once in the body, the virus infiltrates the nerve fibers and attacks the nervous system, resulting in death if no treatment is given.

"When infected with rabies, wildlife are a threat in areas of human habitation as well as in their native habitat," continues Armstrong. "An infected wild animal may suddenly become tame and approach people and their environment in a friendly way. Thus children should be warned to stay away from such seemingly tame wildlife as well as dying animals."

When a human is bitten by a wild animal, do not hold the animal for observation. Instead, kill it humanely and have it examined by a health department official for evidence of rabies infection, points out Armstrong. The signs of rabies vary in wild animals and the duration of the virus excretion before clinical rabies develops may be longer than in cats and dogs. The 10-day observation period still applies for dogs and cats.

Give immediate attention to any wound involving possible exposure to rabies, advises Armstrong. Wash the wounded area and flush with soap and water, detergent or water alone. Then apply either 40-70 per cent alcohol, tincture or aqueous solutions of iodine or 0.1 per cent quaternary ammonium compounds.

Obtain a physician's treatment as soon as possible. This includes application of an antirabies serum and possibly precautions against tetanus.

Vaccine treatments are usually started at this time also, noted Armstrong. If the animal is found negative for rabies by laboratory examination of its brain, the treatment can be stopped. If tests show the animal was rabid, serum is administered and the course of vaccination is completed.

Proper nutrition simplifies weight control. This comes from choosing foods that provide needed energy — but no more.

Cotton Pageant Set April 6

COLLEGE STATION -- The Student Agronomy Society in the Department of Soil and Crop Sciences at Texas A&M University will hold its 40th annual Cotton Pageant and Ball April 6.

The event is a social highlight each year at the university and honors King Cotton, the state's major cash crop.

The pageant will be staged in the Rudder Theatre Complex with the Cotton Ball following in the lobby of the complex.

Leon Blackwelder of Pilot Point, social secretary of the sponsoring Student Agronomy Society, said proceeds from the pageant and ball are used to finance an agricultural tour of the state for junior and senior agronomy majors. He also said that King Cotton and eight members of his court will soon be announced by the society.

During the pageant, a queen and her court of eight princesses will be selected from young ladies (duchesses) representing colleges, universities, clubs and other organizations throughout the state.

Any club or organization wanting to sponsor a duchess should contact Blackwelder at the Soil and Crop Sciences Department, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843, or call 713 845-3042, extension 35.

IF HIT IN EYE

If hit in the eye — resulting in blurred vision — contact an ophthalmologist immediately. Sometimes, retinal detachment follows such a blow. If not detected and treated promptly, this serious injury can cause blindness, warns Dr. Barbara Sears, health education specialist, Texas A&M University System.

MOON WALKER

A man who has walked on the moon will address University of Texas graduates May 18 at UT's 91st Commencement.

Astronaut Alan Bean, a 1955 engineering graduate of UT Austin, will speak at 8 p.m. graduation exercises on the south terrace of the Main Building.

The U.S. Navy captain, who also commanded Skylab II, has been cited as a Distinguished Alumnus by the UT Ex-Students' Association and a Distinguished Graduate by the College of Engineering.

JOBS FOR DIGNITY

Employment opportunities in the U.S. are bountiful, when compared with those available in underdeveloped countries. Moreover, it is the poor in such countries who suffer most, since they lack the skills to obtain whatever jobs do exist. The self-respect gained from being able to support oneself and one's family means new dignity to the world's poor.

Catholic Relief Services helps Third World residents attain this dignity by sponsoring vocational and technical training programs and establishing marketing cooperatives.

In Kerala State, India, for example, CRS has given grants for sewing machines to St. Joseph's Social Welfare Center, which provides training in needlework, garment making, and home science to girls from indigent families, enabling them to earn a livelihood.

CRS also sponsors training courses in carpentry, welding, masonry, plumbing, shoe repairing, electricity, and public health, as well as modern agricultural techniques.

To continue this vitally important work, Catholic Relief Services needs your help. Please contribute to the American Catholic Overseas Aid Fund at any Catholic Church or send your tax-deductible contribution to ACOAF, Empire State Building, New York, N.Y. 10001.

Drop In The Bucket

This Spring, thousands of children throughout the country are showing their concern for their less-fortunate counterparts overseas through a program—"Operation Drop in the Bucket."

Youngsters in Catholic elementary schools and confraternity classes are filling buckets with nickels and dimes to help Catholic Relief Services feed and clothe the poor children the world over, irrespective of race, creed, or color.

Last year, CRS reached 3.5 million hungry kids through school feeding programs, and gave millions more a realization that someone cares just by distributing tons of used clothing in some 64 countries. In Vietnam, for example, 20,000 orphans in 119 authorized agencies turned to CRS for assistance.

You can share in "Operation Drop in the Bucket" by sending your tax-deductible dollars to support the humanitarian endeavors of Catholic Relief Services. Mail your contributions today to ACOAF, Empire State Building, New York, N.Y. 10001. The poor of the world are depending on you—don't fail them.

Don't Be Gypped On Garden Cures

COLLEGE STATION -- The spring season is prime time for fly-by-night salesmen peddling lawn and garden plants, products and often "magic" cure-all materials.

"By practicing a little precaution, the amateur horticulturist can prevent his dollars from being stolen," says Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most nurserymen and others in the lawn and garden business are honest, reliable people. But the increased interest in gardening as a hobby among homeowners has brought an influx of gypsters, points out Janne.

"No one in Texas can sell nursery or florist plants without a salesman's certification of inspection from the State Department of Agriculture. Ask to see it upon purchase," suggests the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Consider doing your business with local, reputable merchants with an address where they can be contacted. This will prevent any "here-today, gone-tomorrow" businesses from offering unobtainable future services. Always check with the local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce before dealing with door-to-door operations, advises the horticulturist.

Janne has other words of precaution.

"When buying a service, never pay for a job in advance. Always have service agreements put in writing. Have the seller state exactly what will be done and what materials will be supplied. Do the same with pest control services, too."

As far as printed materials are concerned, be skeptical of "sensationalism" in advertising. Read the fine print, especially concerning the size and condition of plants. And have a reference book available to check Latin names that often accompany advertisements, Janne adds.

He also suggests pricing items at a local nursery before going the mail-order route.

SCHOOL ZONE--SLOW
Brightly colored clothing can give your child added protection as he walks to school, now that the nation has reverted to daylight savings time.

Many parents are worried about the safety of their youngsters now that they must leave home for school in near darkness. Clothing is important.

A child wearing a shocking pink cap, or a fire-engine red jacket, with reflective tape can be easily seen by motorists.

Drivers should use their heads and their headlights during early morning hours, using extra caution in school zones.

Elementary school children are hard for drivers to see. Most are shorter than the hood of the average car, and they could dart across the street when you least expect it.

Remember, as a driver you are presumed to have adult judgment. Children do not.

DISPUTED OWNERSHIP
When you buy a home, determining your rights of ownership can result in a courtroom battle if you wind up on the receiving end of a land title challenge. A recent example in a midwestern state will illustrate.

In this situation, a buyer we'll call Mr. Jones purchased a residence from a seller we'll refer to as Mr. Smith--with no indication there was land title difficulty ahead.

After the closing Mr. Green--the tenant--brought legal action against Mr. Jones--the buyer--claiming he had a previous right to purchase the property and stating that a deed allegedly releasing Mr. Green's interest in the real estate was fraudulently obtained.

As the court proceeding continued, a settlement was reached where Mr. Green--the tenant--was confirmed as the buyer of the home. Fortunately, the financial loss and legal fees of Mr. Jones were completely paid by his owner's title insurance.

It's wise to look into the protection of a title search and owner's title insurance before you buy a home. Learning about these and other aspects of purchasing real estate will help you better plan for secure and enjoyable ownership.

For free information on things to consider in buying a home, write American Land Title Association, Box 566, Washington, D.C.

Sister Mary Agnes Celebrates Diamond Jubilee

On Tuesday, March 19, in a quiet service in the Mercy Convent Chapel, Sister Mary Agnes celebrated her Diamond Jubilee as a Sister of Mercy. At a concelebrated Mass with Bishop Lawrence de Falco of Amarillo officiating, and Monsignor Peter Morsch, St. Joseph Church, Rev. Jerry Keough, Chaplain, and Rev. James Daly, Guadalupe Parish concelebrating, Sister Mary Agnes renewed the vows she made 60 years ago.

On Feb. 21, 1892, Elizabeth McCabe, the youngest of three girls, was born in Ballinamore, Leitrim County, Ireland. Both her mother and father were school teachers. When Elizabeth was 12, her father died. At the age of 19, Elizabeth made the decision to enter the community of Mercy Sisters in far off Stanton, Texas. Sister Patricia, who had been born in Ireland, but spent her childhood in Texas, was already a member of the community, but Elizabeth was the first of many girls to leave Ireland to go to the Sisters of Mercy in Stanton.

At her reception into the Mercy Community she was given the name Agnes. Her first years as a Sister of Mercy were spent in teaching in the schools of Stanton, Menard, and Big Spring. In 1927 a delegation of Slaton citizens asked the Sisters of Mercy to staff a hospital here.

The Slaton community agreed to donate and pave a site and to raise $20,000 toward the construction of the hospital. Sister Mary Agnes was appointed by the Mercy community to plan, organize, and oversee the construction. The work was undertaken by the Brennan brothers, and on Thanksgiving Day, 1929, Mercy Hospital was dedicated. The cost of the hospital was $180,000.

Shortly following the opening of the hospital the full weight of the depression was felt by the entire community. To keep the hospital open, the three Sisters appointed to serve here, Sister Mary Agnes, Sister Mary Cecelia, and Sister Mary Brigida, worked long and hard. Mrs. A. J. Blume, who was operating room supervisor recalled, "We did everything—laundry, cooking, cleaning,

The elevator was used only when absolutely necessary. We had to save electricity. The Sisters used a hand lawn mower to cut the grass. No one had any money."

"They had a garden in the back and got the vegetables from that. And there were chickens, too. When they got enough eggs they sold them to buy groceries, and later ate the chickens, too. All the nurses worked 12 hours, but Sister Agnes got up a lot at night, too, because she took the x-rays. Before and after school and during vacation the school Sisters helped with cleaning, cooking and laundry."

The roles in which Sister Mary Agnes served were varied—administrator, bookkeeper, technician and nurse. For many years she was night supervisor. Through the years Sister

SISTER MARY AGNES

Agnes won a special place in the hearts of the Slaton people. Many recall her kindness and concern which was never of the sugar-coated variety. Rather, it received its savor from a bit of salt, and not infrequently, a bit of pepper was added.

The years have brought many changes. Sister Agnes is now retired and the Sisters of Mercy no longer own nor operate the hospital. But the concern Sister Agnes feels for the people she served has not abated. Many telephone calls and visits attest to her place in the hearts of the Slaton people.

Other Sisters of Mercy now living in Slaton who served in the hospital include: Sister Mary Columba, a former administrator; Sister Mary Mercedes, currently serving as night supervisor; Sister Mary Rita who retired in 1973 following many years of service in the dietary department; Sister Mary Rudolph, long a member of the nursing staff; Sister Mary Dymna, currently employed in Central Supply; and Sister Mary Carmel, laboratory and x-ray supervisor. Sister Mary Odilia, a native Slatonite, also served as administrator.

"Though the years have often brought hard work and disappointment, they have been good years," Sister Agnes commented. When asked how she would

I Can Do All Things

"I can do all things in him that strengtheneth me" (Phil. 4:13) So wrote the apostle Paul. Confident enthusiasm can help the child of God carry out his responsibilities, however hard they be.

It is true that the world generally encourages to him who would serve the Lord. It is true that often even those who should actually hinder. But there is one who can help who will lend us of his strength and wisdom, test and trial.

Are you following his lead today? If you do not begin at once by obedience to his gospel (John 8:24). Repent, and be baptized for the remission of your sins (Acts 2:38). Follow that you may claim the crown of life (Rev. 2:10).

A sincere welcome is yours at all Slaton churches of Christ:

Take up your cross and follow me...

TAKE UP YOUR CROSS AND FOLLOW ME . . . . .
Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross, and follow me.

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

For the Son of man shall come into the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works.

Verily, I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.

—St. Matthew 15: 24-28

New Look At Water Import Plan Anticipated

"Re-evaluation of the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico Import Project may come sooner than most of us had hoped possible," according to A. L. Black, president of Water, Inc. Even federal officials involved in branding the project "economically infeasible" less than a year ago are having second thoughts, he noted.

Black was referring to comments made by members of the Southwest Federal Regional Council during a briefing in Austin. The Council is made up of representative of regional administrators and directors of federal agencies operating in Texas and its four bordering states.

Willard E. Lewis Jr., special assistant to the Secretary of the Interior, Albuquerque, N. M., noted that despite the Bureau of Reclamation and Corps of Engineers findings announced last year, the "door was left open to further consideration of the economic feasibility if circumstances changed in this country." "I would suggest to you," Lewis said, "that we may well be entering a time when the economics of agriculture changes substantially."

"The basis of that study (on importing water) essentially was on the basis of surpluses, and by and large those surpluses do not exist now -- and it may well be that under other economic conditions that the project might some day be feasible from an economic standpoint," he said.

Council Chairman Arthur W. Busch, regional administrator, Environmental Protection Agency, opined that if interbasin transfer of water becomes a reality, the quality of it is "paramount". He concluded that pollution control efforts may make more water available for movement to other areas "subject to political realities."
