Extra Session Of Congress Foreseen

Some Think Business
Too Urgent To Be Delayed Until '38

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—A few of congress key men, remaining at the capitol despite adjournment, are quietly preparing for a special session they said today they believed inevitable about November.

They described much of the unfinished business left by their homeward bound colleagues as too urgent to await the regular session next January.

Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis), one of the president's most intimate congressional advisors, frankly asserted the administration would court disaster if it delayed its permanent farm program until next year.

Unless production control machinery is set up before farmers begin their winter planting he predicted, bumper wheat and cotton crops may send farm prices tumbling next autumn and jeopardize the prosperity of the nation.

Other congressional chiefs laid their plans to rush through farm legislation in November, if the president decides to call congress next.

The senate agriculture committee scheduled a series of public hearings on proposed crop control legislation in 17 cities, beginning September 30.

The hearings will end November 1, and within a few days thereafter, the committee members said, expects to have its bill ready.

The house agriculture committee planned no hearings, but members agreed informally to gather in Washington in October for a month's work on the farm measure. Chairman Jones (D-Tex) delayed his departure to give further study to them.

Some of those here said privately that the only thing which could forestall a sudden rise in wheat and cotton prices, caused by an unexpected shortage abroad.

Other legislation, most of it highly controversial, will be awaiting action whenever congress reconvenes.

THE PROPOSITION PROBABLY WILL BEAR WATCHING

WACO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor university, today was pondering a proposition from a prospective student who proposed to work his way through school with a bear.

"Have just captured six-months old female bear," said a message from Maurice Holston of Mesquite, N. M. "Want to come to Baylor next fall. Will trade you the bear for three years' tuition and will take care of the animal while in school."

Neff is inquiring into the market value of live bears while followers of the Baylor Bears athletic activities are wondering whether the New Mexico bear is to be acquired as a mascot.

BAND WILL APPEAR AT MIDLAND RODEO

Big Spring municipal high school band, under the direction of D. W. Conley, will represent this city at the Midland rodeo Sept. 3-4.

The announcement that the band would be taken to the meet was made Monday following a conference between chamber of commerce and school officials.

An attempt will be made to organize a large delegation from here for one of the days.

CASE IS APPEALED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 23 (AP)—Attorneys for Lester W. Brockelhurst, who is under death sentence for the slaying of Victor A. Gates near here last May, appealed his conviction to the state supreme court today.

The appeal automatically stayed Brockelhurst's execution, set for next Friday.

12 Perish When Trapped In Forest Fire

Smouldering Area Is Searched For Other Victims

CODY, Wyo., Aug. 23 (AP)— Grimy rescue workers hunted through smouldering ruins of a charred mountain forest today, seeking additional victims of a gale-driven fire which burned twelve of their companions to death.

Two score others were injured—25 so seriously they required hospital treatment.

All the victims, many of them CCC enrollees from Texas, were fire fighters, trapped while battling the blaze in the Shoshone national forest in northwest Wyoming.

The blaze, which broke out Friday from an undetermined cause, was about 35 miles northwest of Cody and approximately the same distance east of Yellowstone park. It blackened 1,500 to 2,000 acres of the dense timber in the Absaroka mountains.

As the flames subsided slightly under a drizzling rain the searchers edged forward today.

"We don't know whether there are more men out there or not," said John Sicker, superintendent of the forest and leader of the drive against the flames in which 500 CCC members, rangers and bureau of public roads employees were participating.

"If there are, it seems impossible they could be alive."

Eight of the bodies were recovered yesterday. Three others were found last night among the gaunt skeletons of trees.

The first person to die in a hospital was Roy Bevens, Civilian Conservation Corps enrollee from Smithville, Texas, who had gasped out, "God, how lucky I am to be alive" after he was carried from the inferno.

Identification of the charred bodies was a laborious process. CCC officers, forest service rangers and bureau of public roads officials all took turns viewing the bodies in a Cody morgue.

The injured were cared for in the three small hospitals in Cody, which drew its name from Col. William (Buffalo Bill) Cody, frontiersman and wild west show promoter.

Several physicians from Cody hiked through darkness over 10,000 feet mountain trails nearly 10,000 feet above sea level to set up a first aid station near the fire.

The supply of picric acid—used in an ointment for treating burns—was exhausted quickly in Cody and nearby towns, and Lasselle Lowry of the Western Drug company appealed to the Associated Press in Denver, 500 miles away, last night to rush five pounds of the acid back in an airplane which carried pictures to the press association.

The acid was quickly obtained for Pifot Bill Munday, Wyoming rancher and flier, who made the dual purpose trip over an unlighted route.

Forest Supervisor Sicker predicted that "with a good break in weather, the fire could be brought under control today."

"As fires go, it isn't large," he explained. "It covers only from 1,500 to 2,000 acres."

"The wind made it treacherous."

Group Elects Mrs. Eubanks Local Woman Head Of Dist. Credit Secretaries' Unit

Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, wife of the Big Spring credit bureau manager was elected president of the district No. 2 organization for credit bureau secretaries in a joint meeting with credit managers and merchants Sunday at Colorado.

She was formerly vice-president of the unit which includes Fort Worth and El Paso, and she succeeds Bob Genaro of Mineral Wells as district head.

Miss Pauline Sullivan was another Big Spring credit representative elected to an official post. She was renamed to her position as secretary of the credit managers association.

Discussions in the various divisions of the one day program were led by Robert A. Ross, Dallas, W. S. Genaro, Mineral Wells, Dr. F. A. Buechel, Austin, James W. Jordan, San Angelo, Mrs. Idella Young Breckenridge, and Basil Whitley, Fort Worth.

Next meeting goes to Fort Worth in March during the dates for the Fat Stock Exposition.

FD Must Give Up Some Of Plans Or Rally New Public Support

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Democratic leaders, worried by the strife within their party, predicted today that before congress reconvenes President Roosevelt must choose one of these far-reaching courses of strategy:

- 1. Reconciliation, at the cost of abandoning some of his most cherished objectives, with the party factions which have refused to support all of his program.
- 2. A new campaign to rally public support and hammer through his controversial issues, ranking disruption of the party beyond all repair.
- 3. One of the new deal's most trusted strategists said privately today that Mr. Roosevelt will base his decision on the trend of public opinion within the next few weeks.

He described as "trial balloons" two contradictory speeches made by the party and finally into the air almost simultaneously last week by near often regarded as White House spokesmen—Postmaster General Farley and Senator Guffey (D-Pa.). Farley assured a young democrats' convention in Indianapolis that there would be "no reprisals" against senators who fought the president's court plan. He promised a return to party harmony.

In a savagely worded radio speech Guffey predicted that the "rebel" senators—notably Wheeler (D-Mont), Burke (D-Neb), and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo)—would be driven from the party.

Reaction to these pronouncements, democrats predicted, will guide, in large measure, the president's future strategy.

The first reaction was promptly supplied by the three senators Guffey had denounced. In their last major addresses of the session they called for a party unity to oust them from the party and finally into the air.

Howard, county supporter, plan to campaign for a road out of here in the west county area.

Search On For Suspects In Assaults

Chicago Roundup
Ordered After Slaying
And Attacks

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—The slaying of a pretty nurse and assaults upon two other women—all in a 48-hour period—sent police on a roundup today of "every man with a razor for any sex offense."

The latest assault victim was Mrs. Anna Hollander, 30, who was beaten and knocked unconscious by a negro in a South Side prairie last night.

She said the man approached her from the field and struck her with his fists. Mrs. Hollander cried out: "Take my purse, take my dress and struck her again."

Frightened by a passing car, her assailant fled after leaving her on the ground unconscious.

Meanwhile, police guarded hospitals, nurses' homes, hotels and other living quarters for young women while authorities questioned more than 100 suspects in the rape-slaying of a 19-year-old nurse and the razor assault upon another a few hours later.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, ordered all districts to "bring in every man with a razor for any sex offense," after Miss Florence Swanson, 34, was slashed with a razor by an intruder early Sunday.

Miss Anna Kuchta was slain and raped by a negro who entered her second floor room at the Chicago hospital through a fire escape window Saturday.

Concerted action by hospitals to guard against further assaults upon nurses was studied by Dr. Harold B. Smith, executive director of the Chicago hospital council.

Big Boost In Farm Income

Crops Worth Nine Billion
Make Best Year
Since 1929

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Government economists predicted today that marketings of this season's principal crops plus government benefits will put $9,000,000,000 in the pockets of farmers, making it their most prosperous year since 1929.

This figure is over a billion dollars more than 1936 cash farm income, which was $7,665,000,000, and more than double the 1932 depression low of $4,228,000,000. The 1929 total was $10,479,000,000.

A. G. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, said 1937 was more favorable in another respect—the larger income is more evenly divided over the nation because droughts failed to damage crops of extensive regions as in 1934 and 1936.

The income survey estimated government payments to farmers in 1937 would amount to $400,000,000 or $450,000,000, compared with $287,000,000 in 1936. Speeding up payment checks accounted for the gain.

Income from farm marketings will run $1,000,000,000 ahead of last year, the economists said, chiefly because of larger crops this year.

BIG GRAIN CROP

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Grain merchants predicted today that Soviet Russia's total grain crop this fall would be the largest in recent years.

Russian sources here indicated that Soviet farmers have taken advantage of good weather to rush a grain harvest that may approach the government's announced goal of 115,000,000 tons (4,209,000,000 bu.). This includes all grain.

He arrived here Sunday and planned to leave Tuesday morning.

Among other things, Dobbs was attempting to arrange with the local post some means of transporting the VFW-sponsored Devils softball team to the national meet in Buffalo, N. Y.

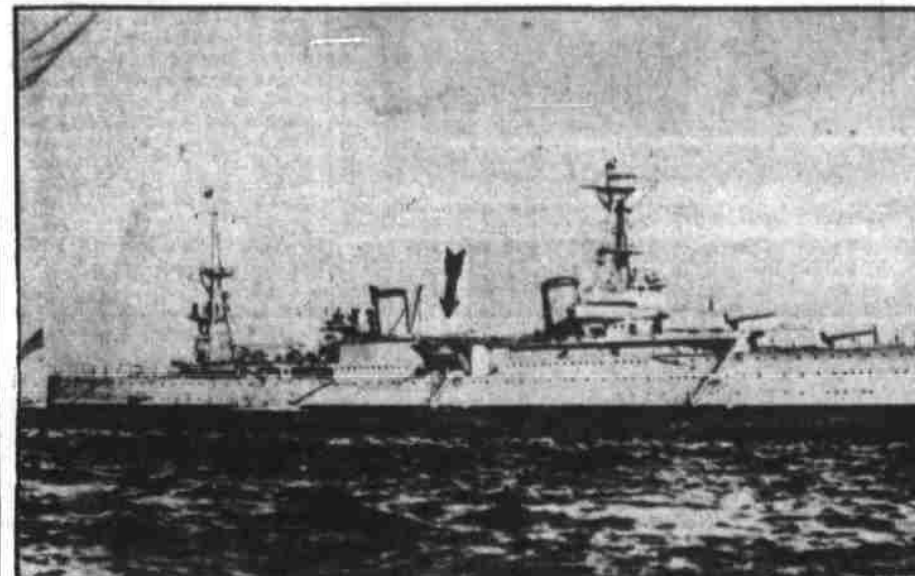

The Big Spring team has been declared VFW champions of Texas and is eligible to compete along with some 16 other teams of the kind in the Buffalo meet.

ROAD BOND ISSUE IS SOUGHT FOR ANDREWS CO.

A campaign is being waged in Andrews county for the support of a $80,000 bond issue, object of which would be the opening of a road from Andrews to the east county line, along the route approved by a district highway engineer for the Andrews-Big Spring road.

The vote has been called for Sept. 14. In event of a satisfactory vote, Howard, county supporter, plan to campaign for a road out of here in the west county area.

U.S. FLAGSHIP SHELLED; ONE SAILOR KILLED

Chinese Launch A Drive To Regain Northern Sector

TIENSIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—Some 60,000 Chinese and Japanese troops were engaged in furious battle 30 miles southwest of Peiping today, the opening clash of a wide Chinese offensive to drive the enemy out of North China.

Japanese headquarters here admitted they were suffering heavy casualties but said the tide of battle was in their favor. Independent sources indicated the fighting, thus far, was indecisive with the outcome not apparent.

Weather conditions were believed to favor the Chinese, equalizing the superior Japanese mechanized land forces and combat aviation. Large areas of central Hopeh province have been turned into virtual swamplands by torrential rains the past week.

Ninety-seven Japanese airplanes brought here especially to participate in this battle, were grounded at Tientsin by deep mud on the hurriedly-built fields.

Details of the first major scale battle in the seven weeks old conflict for North China were meagre.

SALT OR OIL, THIS CITY WANTS EITHER FROM ITS WELL

STAMFORD, Aug. 23 (AP)—Oil or brine well, the city of Stamford doesn't care which under its new drilling contract. Needing a new salt well for its water treating plant at Luaders, the city well will be deepened from Tannehill to King sand, about 1,900 feet.

If oil is found in intervening structures as the Albany driller hopes, the city will receive its royalty and the driller will drill a new salt well to King sand free of charge. If the deepened well produces no oil but salt in sufficient proportion for the city's needs, the city will buy it for $1,000. The city of Stamford already has one producing oil well, located on its old settling tank property.

WASTE OIL BURNED

Burning of waste oil at Gossard Oil corporation refinery east of here Monday morning led to erroneous reports of a tank fire. Huge columns of blue-black smoke arising from the waste oil blaze were responsible for the rumors.

SERVICES HELD FOR CUNNINGHAM BABY

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for Welden Elliott Cunningham, 13-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover B. Cunningham. The baby, one of twin boys born July 11, 1936, has long been in frail health. His condition became more serious last week, the illness resulting in death late Saturday night. The child succumbed at the family residence, 1912 Scurry street.

Burial was made in a local cemetery following rites conducted at the First Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Hickley.

Surviving, besides the parents, are three brothers, Wilbur, the twin; Joe and Grover B. Jr., the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Phillips; two uncles, W. R. Phillips of Big Spring and Vernon Phillips of Sterling City, and an aunt, Mrs. Doris O'Bar of Fort Worth.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Devis Wright, who underwent a major operation Monday morning at the Big Spring hospital, was released today. He will return to his home in Big Spring.

Americans In List Of 1,000 Wounded

War Terror Strikes
In Busy Commercial
Center Of Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23 (AP)—An estimated 400 persons were killed and perhaps 1,000 wounded, including three Americans, by a heavy artillery shell that smashed into a crowded department store section of the International Settlement today.

Newsmen Injured
Scores of Americans marvelously escaped death when a second projectile pierced the six-story United States naval warehouse and crashed through the bottom, but failed to explode.

The wounded Americans were Anthony Birmingham, staff correspondent for the New York Times; Hallett Abend, chief of staff for the New York Times in China, and Blanche Tenney, Shanghai-born American.

Other Americans may have been killed or wounded.

Police said they were unable to estimate accurately the toll of injured and killed, but I counted 300 bodies and know there must have been as many more.

Origin of the department store shell was unknown. Some military experts said it may have been a 120-pound eight-inch shell which Japanese warships off Woosung were firing to protect landing of reinforcements.

At Busiest Corner
The shell struck Nanking road at the busiest corner of Shanghai. On one side of the intersection the huge seven-story building of the Sincere Co. Ltd. department store was crowded with shoppers.

Across the street the newly opened 16-story building of the Wing On and Co. department store was equally jammed. The two stores are Chinese-owned.

They were supported by an all night bombing of Japanese land reinforcements down the Whangpoo river, near the Chinese Woosung forts. The Japanese consular office reported 50,000 fresh troops landed in the face of intense Chinese artillery fire. Military observers said they expected Japanese to launch a heavy offensive tonight.

Chinese said their troops "drove off" a Japanese force moving inland to strike Chinese lines from the rear, but Japanese held the right bank of the Whangpoo near its confluence with the Yangtze.

Most of the approximately 100 Japanese warships in Shanghai waters joined in the protective barrage which preceded landing of reinforcements.

Warships Sunk
Chinese said landing raids by their new mosquito-like sea-sleds had sunk several Japanese warships. The "suicide" boats slip over the water to launch torpedoes.

Bodies In Piles
Japanese troops intensified the air-land and artillery battles on the fringes of the flame-swept city.

I was just leaving the department store when the shell screamed toward the settlement. Suddenly everyone in the crowded street seemed to know it was coming.

It exploded in a mass of humanity.

The fronts of the two buildings were blown away.

After the explosion, bricks, timbers and even steel girders hurtled through the air.

The crowd went crazy. Some probably were trampled to death.

At the Sincere and Co. building the destruction was terrible. Only

Attractive Blouse

Put these in your weekend basket! Your weekend will be both enjoyable and profitable if you take along Mated Howe Farnham's "Ex-Love" (Dodd, Mead; $2). And don't confuse this book with a certain other one which has an "Ex" in the title.

Mrs. Farnham is discussing, albeit in fiction, a very important problem. This is the absurdity of our divorce laws as (particularly) they relate to alimony. It is her readers' good luck that she says what she has to say in the form of a novel which is always entertaining, and often much more.

"Ex-Love" is the story of a marriage which ended in a divorce that stunned, rather than horrified, the man in the case, John Brandt (continued to be stunned until he married another girl, Carlotta was the first wife, and Carlotta resented her former husband's second marriage so much she forced him to pay heavy alimony even after his business failed. The outcome is Mrs. Farnham's to tell.

If you can do with a British woman's letters to her two "darlings" back home, try "Elephant Dance" (Scriveners; $2.75). This is Mrs. Robert Flaherty's story of the film "Elephant Boy" and it's curious manufacture in Mysore, which of course is a part of India. While her husband worked, Frances Flaherty observed and recorded. This is quite a different India from Katherine Mayo's, and in addition to a good picture in words there are many excellent elephant photographs in the short book.

And there is pure entertainment this week by that master of the sentimental novel of home and its people, Kathleen Norris. This time Mrs. Norris explains what happened when a wife named Cam is "taken for granted" by a husband named Bob, and the problem is whether a second husband could be accepted by Cam's children, and whether Cam's children would continue to respect her. Mrs. Norris calls the novel "You Can't Have Everything" (Doubleday, Doran; $2).

Lastly, Anita Blackmon (new) brings Adelaide Adams (new) to mystery readers. Adelaide is called "old Battle-Ax" by some, but she's a good solver of murder puzzles. Title: "Murder a la Richelieu" (Crime Club; $2).

COOKE COUNTY FAIR MENACED BY RAIN

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 23 (AP)—The big top of the famed Gainesville community circus and costly commercial exhibits at the Cooke county fair were menaced today as heavy rain continued.

Elm creek was flowing level over the dam in Leonard park, at the fair grounds, but had several feet to go before overflowing into the western part of the city. Three and a half inches of rain since Sunday morning had brought high water, aggravated by a four-inch rain last week.

Traffic was becoming hazardous over the detour through the park on Highway No. 17, where a new bridge was under construction.

The fair was scheduled to open today. A carnival train which arrived during the night remained on a siding today, awaiting a letup in precipitation before unloading. A crew of men was working to save the circus big top. Commercial exhibits were in the fair park auditorium, which, fair officials feared, would be threatened should the creek overflow as it has done on several occasions.

NEGRO CONFESSES TO KILLING WOMAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—A clean shaver on a dirty furnace led today to what Detective Capt. Ira Keck said was a confession in the killing of Mrs. Henrietta Anderson, 59-year-old government clerk.

Keck said 70-year-old negro janitor, Major McAfee, had signed a statement that he crushed Mrs. Anderson's head with the heavy iron shaker "because he was jealous of her."

After the slaying, Keck said, McAfee washed the shaker with kerosene and hot water and restored it to the furnace. His spic-and-span appearance aroused the suspicion of investigators who questioned the negro until he confessed. He was charged with murder.

The body of Mrs. Anderson, brunet widow and mother of three children, was discovered in her apartment yesterday.

THE SPORTS PARADE

BY HANK HART

Cliff of the whole situation in... of course, old Juke Fluvius. His insistence in dumping things over the weekend forced two ball games in this part of the country to go no-decision, hampered the Sandbelt golfers in the roundup and even forced Ben Daniel to play a round or two at the country club.

Speaking of Daniel, he has a technique in golf all his own. Whether his swing brings results or not is immaterial. His form is classical. He uses the forked stick much as does the Cuban warrior wielding a machete.

The Devil coach doesn't expect to get his football team started until after school opens. He's still very interested in softball.

A fan recently reported that big league ball teams spent less than half their time on the ball diamond in actual play. Following the umpire's signal to play ball, he said, time was wasted in changing sides, throwing the ball around the infield and hand thrown at the batter. He took the recent Detroit-St. Louis game as an example but he didn't list the required time the Brownie gardeners took in relieving the umpire's balls that hit the fence and bounded into no-man's land. Neither did he suggest a fish net for Magrs. West, Bell and Voemik.

Miller Harris, the former manager of the Big Spring Cowboys, shared a bit of the glory in helping Chase defeat Ozona in a Permian Basin league game Sunday afternoon. Miller singled and took a stroll in three trips to the plate and tallied twice in the 3-1 victory. Miller, back in the lineup after a sitting slump, is clotting .338 for the season and has batted in 13 runs with his 23 hits. He has six doubles and one triple mixed up among those base hits but he has not clouted out a home run yet. Another oddity about Harris' ball playing is that he has stolen two bases.

Carmen Brandon, who performed in the Cosden outfield this season, may play baseball in Sulphur Springs next year. According to the Steer mentor, baseball is on the upgrade in that part of the country. The paid admissions there has amounted to more than 11,000 this season, says Carmen, excellent for independent baseball.

Brandon, incidentally, had a great chance to send the Rice football team to the Rose Bowl game in '35, the season the S.M.U. Mustangs got the call. In the Mustang-Owl game that year, he batted down one of Bob Finley's passes in the second quarter. Had he grabbed it he would have had a clear field to the goal line and the Rice line, which played great defensive ball throughout the first three quarters, could have held the mighty Mustangs.

Cleaning the cuff: Curtis Choate, who played several years of Permian Basin baseball with McCamey, has retired from the game. He weighs 225 pounds which is a little hefty for a pitcher. Curt got his start here several years ago. Roy Weatherly, the Texas youth who cut such a big figure in the American league batting race last season, has been farmed out by the Cleveland Indians due to a prolonged hitting slump. He's back with New Orleans. Carl Jones defeated Shorty Hornbuckle in the finals of the New Mexico state golf tournament Sunday afternoon at Roswell. Hornbuckle was defeated, 10 and 8, which is nothing new. He's lost four times in the finals. Vic Ghezzi copied first prize money in the Lake Placid golf meeting Sunday, bettering the mark of Gene Sarazen's by four strokes. Georgia Tech and Notre Dame have arranged for a football game in 1938. Joe Medwick, getting only one hit in nine trips to the plate in Sunday's doubleheader against the Pittsburgh Pirates, is seven points off the 400 mark for the season. Don Legge, first brought a team here in an exhibition-softball game last year, was manager of the Maurice outfit, the team that won the TAAF title in Beaumont Saturday night. Pitching for him was a former San Angelo football great. He is Curly Hays, brother to Harry. Curly is now attending Tulsa. Don Legge Jones, playing golf courses here

AMATEURS BEGIN QUEST IN PORTLAND FOR NATIONAL GOLF CROWN

THIRTY CANDIDATES DUE TO REPORT FOR PRACTICE

Devil Squad May Help A Lot

Replacements Must Come Into Front Lines

Tonnage on the hoof, colossal tackles and strapping secondary candidates with a sprinkling of experience at the key positions, are slated to report to their new leader, Dr. Patrick Murphy, and his familiar, side-de-cam, Carmen Brandon, this afternoon at the high school building, receive their training equipment and begin, with light workouts, a practice session that will lead them to the toughest schedule a local high school gridiron eleven has ever had.

The belated start the Steer squad is getting may handicap their chances for a successful season in that the style of football Murphy teaches differs slightly from that of George Brown and his predecessor, Obie Bristow, used but the mentor is getting underway in his work ten days sooner than Brown and Brandon got their first look at the boys last year.

Short Punt Formations

Brown, director of the Notre Dame system of football with slight variations while the former Abilene assistant runs his plays from the short punt.

Local teams are not entirely unacquainted with the short punt. A big Abilene Eagle eleven spent an hour or more one day last fall in teaching the Longhorns the finer points of that style of play and succeeded in scoring 39 points through and around the herd.

Almost 30 boys are expected to be issued cleats and other light togs today. The squad, which compares with the 33 who reported last year, is a better company of gridder than the lads that answered the call last fall.

Murphy will seek to build his eleven around seven lettermen, a powerful recruit from Vickery high school, Dallas, and a promising horde of recruits from Ben Daniel's Red Devil squad of '36.

From the latter mentioned tribe will have to come two tackles and a guard to rebuild a questionable forward wall.

The newcomers, already spotted as possible regulars, should tip in part of one of the heaviest forward walls to represent the black and gold in some time.

They will come to replace Woodrow Harris, all-conference tackle of '36, Arthur Kasch, Harris' running mate, and Co-Captain Jack Wilson, one of the most dependable men to ever play on a local eleven.

Also missing with that trio are LeRoy 'Stix' Wood, hard driving back, quarterback Louie Madison, co-captain along with Wilson, Ray McCullough, wing, and Bruce Phillips, guard.

The herd begins the season Sept. 17 in a non-conference game with Wink as the opponent and then march out against nine conference foes without a letup.

They play five home games, including the latter with Abilene, San Angelo and Breckenridge.

Morris Upriding Is Upheld

TYLER, Aug. 23 (AP)—The East Texas league's board of directors today has disallowed a protest by Palestine of the eligibility of Outfielder Lou Frierson of the Marshall Tigers.

They upheld U. Walter Morris, league president, who had overruled the protest, at a meeting here last night, but decided that Marshall must cut Frierson off the roster for the rest of the season or be ineligible for the playoff.

Palestine maintained Frierson had been added to the Marshall club in the last 20 days in violation of rules, but it decided his status on that count was clear.

Both Morris and the board admitted, however, the constitution had been violated by adding Frierson as the sixth class to the team, the constitution permits only five. The directors, makes no provision for a penalty in such a case.

GOING STRONG

Schmeling Trails Joe Again, Farr Delights Followers

PROMPTON LAKE, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP)—Max Schmeling, the beetle-browed German who "saw some things" when he got his first glimpse of Joe Louis in the movies is seeing things again.

Max parlayed what he saw once before into one of boxing's most sensational bouts of the past decade, his 12-round knockout of the brown brawler in June, 1936. After watching Louis go through his training maneuvers for his bout with Tommy Farr at Pompton Lakes yesterday he proclaimed to one and all, "I see some things. I am more eager than ever to fight him. I can lick him again."

Shortly before he had exchanged grips with Louis. It was plain that neither boxer will ever nominate the other for the "most popular boy in the class" honor. Their conversation was limited to brief "hellos."

Schmeling, who set out two years ago to regain the heavyweight title he lost to Jack Sharkey after he had won it on the floor before the sailor, still insists he wants the title and nothing else.

"I want Louis," says Mox. "I'm only after the title. I want to fight him this fall but next year is all right, too."

There are many who believe Max will get his crack at the champion this fall and that the date of the bout will be announced Friday—if Louis wins from Farr Thursday.

Whatever it was Max saw yesterday occupied the boxing writers who watched the bomber work out. Louis, more seasoned and in a better frame mentally than ever before, looked like a champion. The short, jarring looks that closed one of Schmeling's eyes in their bout were as potent as they can be when the bomber has 16-ounce pillars strapped to his hands, and the right cross that dumped Jimmy Braddock out of a world's championship was exhibit "B" in the exhibition.

Coast Stars Sweep Parks Net Crowns

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23 (AP)—Southern Californians made an unprecedented sweep of the 15th annual national public parks tennis tournament, taking home with them today all of the four championships.

Lewis Wetherell of Santa Ana, beat Ronald Lubin of Los Angeles, Sunday, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

Mary Arnold of Los Angeles, beat a pretty teammate, Mrs. Gertrude Dockstader, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, to win the women's title.

Lubin and Willis Anderson of Los Angeles, won the men's doubles by defeating Frank Kenney and Ward Parker of St. Louis, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Arnold and Mrs. Dockstader won the women's doubles over Constance O'Donovan and Esther Poltner of Detroit, 6-1, 6-0.

Wildness Of Feller May Hurt Him

Youngster Displays Power But Must Steady On Hill

It doesn't even take a good look any more to show what's wrong with Bobby Feller. Just a peek at the standings will tell you his record, like Babe Ruth's figure, bulges in the wrong places.

With his speed and youth, he may still become the sensation of his baseball generation, but up to now he seems well on the way to going down as the biggest bust since Fred Merkle detoured from first to third.

For all the good he's done the Cleveland Indians this year he might just as well have been back on the farm.

Overlooking for the moment the fact that the Cub's worries have been momentarily sidetracked by a four-game lead in the National league race, look over Feller's figures for the season.

He's been in 15 games for 79 innings, has allowed 61 hits, given up 65 bases on balls, and fanned 69.

His inability to get his pitches within mauling distance of home plate was never so obvious as yesterday. Although he allowed only two hits in the five innings he worked, he walked seven in two frames, five of them in a row, which does not exactly come under the head of control.

Noses No. Five

As a result, the White Sox socked him and the Indians, 5-2, in the first game of a doubleheader. The Tribe came through, 3-2, in the second, but by that time the record books showed Feller's fifth defeat against three wins for the year, with one of the season's queerest performances.

Meantime, the Chicago Cubs, who were supposed to be falling apart, rolled along to a twin win over the Reds, 4-1 and 6-2. Since the Giants' doubleheader with the Phillies was rained out, the Cubs reeled on a four-game lead as they headed east to tangle with their arch-rivals.

The Cardinals came back and took the Pirates for a double "buggy ride," 12-0 and 9-7. Dizzy Dean won his first victory since July 4 and hit his first homer of the year in the nightcap. The Dodgers beat the Bees, 5-1, in six innings before rain ended their scheduled doubleheader.

Joe DiMaggio belted homer No. 36, Lefty Gomez fanned 10 and the Yanks whipped the Athletics, 4-1, in a five-inning meeting. Their nightcap also drowned the record weather. The Tigers trounced the Browns twice, 11-3 and 4-3. The Senators and Red Sox were washed out.

Tournament officials hoped for a warm sun to put the courts in proper playing condition after two days of rain.

The tournament for both men and women doubles teams shaped up as one of the best of national championships with such international stars as "Jaja" Jездзекowski, Poland's Wimbledon champion, members of the American and British Wightman Cup teams, and others from France, Canada and Japan, slated to draw action.

Other teams entered included: Bryan Grant and Wayne Sabin, seeded third; Martin Buxby and Elwood Cooke, fourth; Bobby Riegs and Bernard Coghlan, fifth, and John McDiarmid and Arthur Hendrix, sixth.

PLAY FOR HONORS

AUSTIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—A thrilling event ending victory had carried the Luling Red Wings into finals today of the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation's independent baseball tournament here. Luling defeated the Temple Surgeons 9-7 last night, and will play the Brenham Oilers here tonight for the championship.

NEW ORLEANS TO FLY

OKEMAH, Okla., Aug. 23 (AP)—Omaha, Neb., today held the western sectional title of the American Legion junior baseball tournament, after defeating Tucson, Ariz., 4 to 3, in a play-off here yesterday.

Omaha will meet New Orleans, La., for the southeastern sectional title, and has a chance at the finals, give way to the first French republic in 1791.

TEXAN TO TEAM WITH HENDRIX

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Here's one for all the books: The New Iberia Cardinals were beaten by the Rayne Ricebirds in the Class D Evangeline league the other day, then protested the game on the grounds they were outclassed. It's that an idea for seven American league clubs? South Carolina is planning something new in football plants. Its new stadium will have dugouts for the players.

If old Doc Prothro, now leading the pennant-bound Little Rock Travelers in the Southern association, bobs up in a major league berth next season, don't you be one bit surprised. Looks like Louis will be 4 to 1 over Farr Thursday night.

One reason why Johnny McAvoy, at 56, is one of the best fight referees in New York is that he keeps his legs in shape by playing tennis daily. If Earlright Grimes doesn't come back to the Dodgers next season, Woody English, now doing the field generaling, may get them Friday. The Yanks hadn't tipped their home lot this month.

Connie Mack estimates his famous $100,000 infield of McGinnis, Collins, Barry and Baker would bring $1,000,000 on the market today.

Tommy Farr eats only English cooking, but is looking forward to sampling some American pie next Thursday night, if his teeth are still there.

Five Championships Up In Trap Shoot

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—The steady bombing of 12 gauge shotguns opened main events in the Grand American trap shoot today with five championships tossed on the block.

Today's feature was the "champion of champions" race, with winners of state titles in a contest among themselves over the 100-target route.

Also on the program, which followed a resounding Iowa triumph, Sunday in preliminary events were the "husband-and-wife" championship, the junior and the sub-junior clay target championships.

C. E. Heaton of Fairfax, Iowa, won the Vandalia open handicap yesterday. Penalized at 21 yards, he missed but one of his 100 targets.

Heaton was one target in front of R. A. King of Wichita Falls, Tex., who shot from 22 yards; C. G. Wehr of Hamilton, O., on the 20-yard line, and Phil Miller, the French Lick, Ind., shotgun artist who was as far back as they got the 25-yard line.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Bob Weiland and Dizzy Dean, Cardinals—Weiland pitched three-hitter and hit homer and single driving in four runs in 12-0 opener win over Pirates; Dizzy hit homer, two singles, driving in three runs and scoring three others in winning own ball game 9-7 in nightcap.

Lefty Gomez and Joe DiMaggio, Yankees—Gomez pitched three-hitter, fanned 10 and DiMaggio hit homer, single, driving in two runs in 4-1 win over Athletics.

Luke Hamlin, Dodgers—Fanned five and allowed four hits in whipping Bees, 5-1.

Ted Lyons, White Sox, and Earl Averill and Mel Harder, Indians—Former pitched five-hitter to take twin bill opener 5-2; Averill's homer in eighth won nightcap 3-2 as Harder allowed five hits.

Charley Root and Augie Galan, Cubs—Root turned in six-hitter to beat Bees 4-1 in opener; Galan's triple with bases loaded in ninth won nightcap, 5-2.

Roxie Lawson and Rudy York, Tigers—Former stopped Browns 11-3 in opener with six hits; York's pinch homer won nightcap 4-3, after he hit homer in opener.

Georges Michel of France set the record for swimming the English channel in 11 hours and five minutes.

Fischer On Hand For Defense

Three Texans May Figure Largely In Title Bid

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23 (AP)—With one eye on the weather and the other on the ball, 180 of the country's finest amateur golfers set out today in quest of the national championship over the Sherwood Country club course.

The competitors were survivors of preliminary sectional qualifying trials.

Yesterday it rained so hard that practice rounds were disrupted and lightning struck a transformer near the 18th green.

If that sort of thing should continue, luck would play a predominant part and none of the sharpshooters wanted to rely on that luck.

Today was given over the first half of the qualifying round at 11 holes. Tomorrow the 64 qualifiers will be decided for the match play starting Wednesday.

Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, title defender, faced a tremendous task.

He was up against one of the classiest fields that ever graced the national and the law of averages was against him. Only four men in the 41-year-history of the tournament have ever succeeded there, selves in the championship rolls. They were Bobby Jones, H. Chandler Egan, Jerry Travers and Lawson Little.

Chief among his rivals were Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Albery Scotty Campbell of Seattle, Fred Holsand of Peoria, Ill., Charles Yates of Atlanta, Don Schumacher, Reynolds Smith and Jack Mungler of Dallas, Texas, Charley Koosis of Detroit, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., Walter Emery of Oklahoma City, Don Mos of Portland, and Harry Givan of Seattle.

And added to this list were four former champions—Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Ross Sommersville, and Jesse Gullford.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover

WASHINGTON—Many a New Dealer has boasted that a major accomplishment of the Roosevelt regime has been the moving "of the real capital of the United States" from New York back to Washington.

Roosevelt partisans have declared that before "the New Deal" returned the plain people to authority, New York's financial barons exercised a more or less invisible control of national governmental policies which they described as amounting to a "dictatorship for a privileged few."

New York Eclipsed

In the 1936 race for the presidency, with its sharply divergent polls and prognostications of voter preference, the political shurps as usual—excepting Mr. Farley, of course—red-penciled New York state with its large electoral vote as a very possible determinant of who would be the winner.

But when the Roosevelt juggernaut rumbled to a new record in opposition-crushing, even the Empire State's prestige as a political factor was eclipsed by a sweep that fastened the democratic label on every state except Maine and Vermont.

But now New York has moved back into the very center of the political picture, with the prognosticators predicting that the future of the New Deal may depend in large measure upon the outcome of the mayoralty fight in New York City.

They figure that if anti-Roosevelt Alfred E. Smith and Tammany Leader Christopher Sullivan win the mayoralty nomination for Senator Royal Copeland over Justice Jeremiah Mahoney, backed by New Deal democrats, they might gain control of the entire party organization in New York City.

Even if Mayor LaGuardia, sympathetic to the New Deal, defeated Copeland in the final, Smith and Sullivan might be able to retain control of the party organization in the city and take an anti-Roosevelt delegation to the 1940 democratic convention.

Combined with conservative democrats from the South, the Tammany delegat on might make the going tough for any New Deal candidate for the presidential nomination.

Such appraisal of the possible power of anti-Roosevelt forces at the next convention is predicted upon a sizeable contingent from the South being hostile to Mr. Roosevelt or any candidate he favored for the nomination.

Veteran politicians, however, believe it is a bit premature to begin counting on formidable southern opposition to the present, particularly at a time when he may be preparing to give the go ahead signal on millions of dollars in loans to Dixie's cotton farmers.

Some old line democrats, who have no particular liking for the Copeland-Smith objectives, are fearful nevertheless that a second victory for Fiorello "Little Flower" LaGuardia might turn out to be a sprig of poison ivy for the democratic party from a national standpoint.

The building up of a strong LaGuardia organization, combined with a continued split in the democratic forces of New York City, might deprive the democratic party of a long-time bulwark of strength in presidential contests.

Between elections the Tiger frequently has been looked upon as an unsuitable running mate for the donkey; but when that quadrennial crucial day in November rolled around, the Tiger could almost invariably be counted upon for an effective vote-getting performance.

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 23 (AP)—The field of competitors in the National semi-pro baseball tournament was down to 10 at the close of play here early this morning.

These four teams were eliminated yesterday and today by virtue of second defeats.

Speaking Of Percentages

Many local folk, considering the recent announcement that the federal government, through its PWA, has offered 55 percent of the total on a school project here, have wondered if some means could be devised for raising local funds so that advantage could be taken of the government grant. What they see is the possible development of a project at a cost, locally, of only 45 percent.

Speaking of percentages, we have a much more advantageous proposition in the West Texas hospital. The state has already appropriated $817,000 for first construction; the site, which Big Spring is to furnish, represents a $50,000 outlay, considering the $876,000 total, we are called upon to supply less than six percent of the total.

And that percentage shrinks to a small figure indeed, in the light of future state money to be spent on the institution; for additional buildings will go up as rapidly as biennial appropriations can be made to care for the state's insane. Three and one-half million has been invested in the Wichita Falls institution; approximately a million dollars has been spent at the Terrell unit in 12 years.

We went in for WPA work, not only to help unemployed people, but also to receive federal aid on projects deemed beneficial. Latest available figures on WPA expenditures here, show that in a little more than a year, the city of Big Spring, Howard county, and the school district posted $94,157.50 to go with federal expenditures in the amount of $149,561.43. The local percentage average close to 40 percent.

And while many of these projects were of value, some were organized loosely to provide jobs. Thus, in some cases, there was temporary benefit only.

And it might be noted that while federal disbursements on the various work projects mounted steadily, so did the sponsors' cost in proportion. It was a policy of spending more to get more. There is no such proposition under the hospital arrangement. The $50,000 outlay represents the final cost to Big Spring of an enterprise which will pour hundreds of thousands of dollars into labor and business channels here; and which will continue to pour such funds for years to come.

The labor benefits will be immediate, as will other phases of the expenditure. Additional benefits accruing to the city will be inestimable amount.

The "percentage" asked of Big Spring in the bond issue to be voted no Thursday is small indeed, in proportion to the rest.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—One of the intimate, informal little side-ights which New York is always willing to show you—if you look for them—is the taking of pictures for the smart advertisements which adorn the backs of magazines.

Almost every day you can see models posing at counters, climbing out of cars, entering elevators—apparently casual members of the scene—yet they are trained actresses being caught for toney advertisements of automobiles, hosiery, frocks, all the other trillion and one things that thrill the female (and sometimes the masculine) eye.

Today, for instance, two automobiles whirled up to the curb in 5th avenue, near 48th street, and two lovely young girls got out. Despite a temperature which threatened to make ice-cream cones out of the buildings, these young women were dressed in richly warm fall frocks. They carried school books in their arms. It didn't take the crowd, which miraculously mobilized in the twinkling of an eye, a minute to understand that here was a delineation of what smart young ladies in finishing schools must wear this autumn.

One of the girls sauntered up the steps of a church and sat down. She raised her arm as if to shield her eyes from the sun. The other lapsed into a pose on a lower step. There they were, two trained models, posing on the steps of a 5th avenue church. But, next month, when the ads appear, they will be college misses, gazing across the campus from the steps of some college administration building.

For the moment it seemed strange that, depicting college frocks, the steps of a fashionable church should be used—until, that is, one glanced up and noticed the sign. It said: The Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas!

Not by any means are instances like this few and far between. Not long ago, crossing Central Park, I came up on a Medieval Knight in armor, on a white charger, holding in his arms a golden haired princess right out of Tennyson's Idylls of the King. Her eyes were blue and her tresses were so long that they easily might have reached from the secret window of her tower to the ground, just as they did in the old tales of long ago.

The knight gazed tenderly at the fair-haired Elaine. The camera clicked.

"Okay," yelled the director.

The princess leaped down and reached for a tube of lipstick.

The Knight bawled, "Hey, Joe, help me off this nag."

The cameraman put away his cameras.

The director said, "Gimme a match, Lancelot."

Too Soon To Predict

Such appraisal of the possible power of anti-Roosevelt forces at the next convention is predicted upon a sizeable contingent from the South being hostile to Mr. Roosevelt or any candidate he favored for the nomination.

Veteran politicians, however, believe it is a bit premature to begin counting on formidable southern opposition to the present, particularly at a time when he may be preparing to give the go ahead signal on millions of dollars in loans to Dixie's cotton farmers.

Some old line democrats, who have no particular liking for the Copeland-Smith objectives, are fearful nevertheless that a second victory for Fiorello "Little Flower" LaGuardia might turn out to be a sprig of poison ivy for the democratic party from a national standpoint.

The building up of a strong LaGuardia organization, combined with a continued split in the democratic forces of New York City, might deprive the democratic party of a long-time bulwark of strength in presidential contests.

Between elections the Tiger frequently has been looked upon as an unsuitable running mate for the donkey; but when that quadrennial crucial day in November rolled around, the Tiger could almost invariably be counted upon for an effective vote-getting performance.

HOLLYWOOD—Unreal parade: James Cagney started out on the stage as a chorus boy and a booper, but in pictures he made his fame as a tough guy—first as public enemy No. 1 and then, reformed, as a G-Man.

Now he's back where he started, hoofing in "Something to Sing About."

Edward Arnold's stand-in, William Hoover, looks so much like the star that he can double for him in fight and stunt scenes, even fairly close up. For Arnold's stairway tumble in "Easy Living" Bill Hoover fell three times and wasn't scratched, but went home and was laid up on a stone and was laid up for a week.

AULD LANG SYNE To Jimmy Cagney, who started in the chorus, it seemed like old times when a new film cast him as a dancer.

Says Arnold: "No, Bill isn't especially athletic but he's just a little more so than I am." Louise Hovick (some say she's the girl who used to be Gypsy Rose Lee) was the best-dressed girl on Broadway) is now being touted for "best-dressed" honors by Twentieth Century.

For a publicity squib Louise selects a composite of Eddie Cantor and Roland Young as her "ideal man" and says: "I want my men friends to be rugged individuals with a certain amount of stamina and determination about them."

Hollywood Check-Off The Screen Actors Guild has no trouble collecting dues. The studios are so sure that they'll unwittingly hire an actor not in good standing so they check up on the dues and membership before putting any actor to work.

FLAME TRAIL

By Marie De Nervaud

Chapter 31
TED GIVES HIMSELF UP

For a long moment the two men glared at each other, unconscious for the time being of anything but the conflict of will between them. Then Ted's hand dropped to his side.

"You're right about that," he agreed. "But I have a better weapon than a gun. I reckon I won't need your confession after all." He put his hand in his pocket and pulled out the notebook Kay had given him. "I'll just quote you a few extracts from this diary that was found in the cellar of the blacksmith shop at Clear Water. I know it by heart."

"It's all here!" Josh Hastings broke in hoarsely on Ted's recital. "It's a frame up!" "It is not!" Kay faced him with blazing eyes. "And I have another piece of evidence to prove you were on the spot!"

"And I can testify that Ted Gaynor swore again and again in his delirium that he had seen you bending over him!" Marion added her voice to the chorus of accusation. "Sure you can," Josh Hastings screamed in sudden frenzy. "And I can testify that you're all lying, lying, lying, do you hear! Oh-oh!" He gave a groan and toppled back, moaning, "My head! My head!"

In a second, Marion was kneeling beside him, expertly bracing his head against her knee, while he muttered inarticulately. "It looks like a stroke," she whispered to Ted. "Have you any water?"

Ted made for his saddle, and pulled off the canteen. "A little. Not much." He held it out to her. Marion tried to force some between Josh Hastings' teeth, but unsuccessfully. With a final moan, he slumped to the ground unconscious, and breathing in heavy, stentorian gasps.

"Is a stroke?" Marion rose to her feet. "He may come out of it, and he may not. What shall we do?" "There's only one thing to do," Ted answered. "We'll have to take him with us to Clear Water. I'll give him and myself up there. We'll have to leave the decision of who's guilty up to the Red River jury."

Dismissing a Misunderstanding Accepting Ted's decision as final, the two girls helped him lift Josh Hastings onto his horse. "Across that third ridge," Ted announced, "we ought to strike the Clear Water trail. Are you girls good for it?"

He looked inquiringly from Marion to Kay, and Kay felt her heart contract as she caught the subtle change in his expression as his eyes shifted to her.

After the first wild moment of abandon, Ted hardly spoken to her, except to address her generally, with Marion. And now all the time of that first passionate embrace had given way to a hard cold impersonality.

As clearly as though he had spoken his thoughts aloud, Kay knew what was in his mind. She joined perfunctorily in Marion's assertion that they were ready for anything, but as Ted started off, leading his horse with his unconscious burden, Kay grabbed Marion's hand and held her back.

"Let me go ahead with Ted," she whispered. With an understanding nod, Marion made way for her to pass, and dropped a few paces behind.

"Ted!" Ted started at Kay's voice close beside him. She slipped her fingers into his free hand, which hung loosely at his side, and clung on to it convulsively, in spite of its lack of response to her clasp.

"Ted, you must listen to me!" she began desperately. "I didn't tell Zeke Farley where you were! You must believe me! It wasn't until Shirley told me after I got back that I knew what Tom Runyon had testified at the trial!"

In a few spoken words she told of having seen him and Marion together, and her frantic race for home, and the fall from Flicker's back.

"It was delirious when Tom Runyon found me, and for two days afterwards," she ended. "I was mad with jealousy, Ted! Heaven knows what I said, but whatever it was, I wasn't responsible."

"Jealousy!" Ted exclaimed, a mad happiness coming into his voice as he dropped his mount's bridle, and putting a hand on each arm held Kay off at arm's length. "Why were you jealous?"

"Because I love you," Kay whispered, her head proudly high and her eyes on his, in spite of the wild beating of her heart. The next instant, she was in his arms and all the bitterness of misunderstanding was cleared away in the blissful interval that followed. A bewildered whinny before then and a soft laugh behind, brought them back to the present. "That's all very well," Marion's voice broke in, "but don't you think we'd better be getting on?"

With a happy laugh, Kay broke away from Ted, and stepped back beside Marion, while Ted ran ahead to catch up with his burdened mount.

Familiar Voices Up and down they went, until at last the first streaks of dawn found them following the crest of the ridge along whose cliffs, 50 feet or more below them, the trail to Clear Water Basin wound.

Suddenly Ted stopped, and motioned them to be still. Below them, on the trail, they could hear horses' hoofs and voices. By listening intently, they managed to make out the words. Kay grabbed Ted's arm convulsively, as she recognized the two voices that were speaking.

"Nothing to do now, but let it burn itself out. If they hadn't sent for me to go and fight it at the other end, it would never have made this headway," Tom Run-yon's boasting voice floated up to them.

"Maybe," Zeke Farley was non-committal. He raised his voice as though calling back to someone. "After you've combed this west ridge, you two may as well follow on." There was an answering halloo and he dropped his voice again. "It's a hundred to one that the fire has taken on the job of avenging Scrap Johnson's murder. That Gaynor guy'll never get out of there alive, if you ask me!"

Ted pulled Kay to him, and held her close. "Listen, sweetheart, I'm going to give myself up now, and turn Josh Hastings over to them."

"No, no!" Kay protested, but Ted kissed her remonstrance away. "The sooner I'm free, the sooner we'll be together," he whispered. "Now that I know you love me, I'll put up a fight that will have to convince them of my innocence."

Kay glanced at Josh Hastings' unconscious figure. "If only we could make him confess!" The voices below grew louder and nearer. After a last lingering kiss, Ted went over to the edge of the cliff and shouted, "Zeke Farley! I'm Ted Gaynor and ready to give myself up. I'll meet you a hundred yards ahead on the trail."

A confused and excited babel of voices rose from below, but without waiting for anything further, Ted hurried ahead to the spot where he saw that he could drop down to the trail. (Copyright 1937 Marie de Nervaud)

SEEK NEGROES WHO ROBBED MAN AND ATTACKED WIFE

LONGVIEW, Aug. 23 (AP)—A threat of violence had subsided today as East Texas officers continued a search for two negroes reported by a married couple to have held them up, criminally assaulted the wife, and robbed the husband. Officers said the couple was en route to Arkansas on a visit yesterday when the negroes overtook them and bumped into their auto, firing when the husband drove faster.

When the white man stopped his machine, the negroes entered the car, forcing him to drive to a side road where the robbery and assault took place, officers said. The husband lost $144 and a watch. The attackers returned the couple to their car on the highway, released them and sped away.

Officers questioned a number of negroes last night, but reported none was connected with the case.

INJURED IN CRASH

LUFKIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—Decrumpler, who operates a general store at Pollock, near here, was critically injured yesterday when his automobile and a lumber truck collided.

Mrs. Crumpler and Mrs. Bud Schinon of Lufkin, riding in the car, were less seriously hurt. All three were under treatment in a Lufkin hospital.

Bugs Fatten 'Em At No Cost, So Turkeys May Be Cheaper

CUERO, Aug. 23 (AP)—It may be a little early to be thinking about it, but a beautiful bug crop in Texas gives promise you may be able to eat more and cheaper turkey Thanksgiving. Gloomy government bulletins predicting lower prices have left Texas growers knowingly nonchalant. Grasshoppers, the scourge of the Midwest, descended like an army to fatten a bumper crop of gobblers at practically no expense. That should make you doubtfully thankful that while you are chewing cheap drumsticks, no farmers are suffering from the effects of a price slump. Fred Hansen, poultry expert of the Cuero chamber of commerce and sewing machines, Rix Furniture Exchange, is less worried about the possibility of low prices than they are about the inroads of roost rustlers. The modern turkey snatcher snares the birds with a looped wire and hustles them bootleg fashion to quick but distant markets by fast truck. Hansen predicted one of the greatest turkey crops in history for this area. Reports from other centers were equally optimistic both as to price and quality. Poultry experts were predicting an average price of around 15 or 16 cents wholesale. At any rate, they figure production costs have been so negligible this year as to make turkey farming good business at almost any price. Texas annually ships about 1,800 cars of turkeys to northern and eastern markets.

More Than 30 In Roundup

Lamesa alone was not represented as the Sand Belt golfers gathered at the local country club Sunday afternoon for match play and banquet. Three members from Midland who arrived in time to take part in the evening barbecue swelled total entrants to 34, Manager Shirley Robbins announced. Eight golfers from Odessa, eight from Stanton, four from Colorado and 14 representing Big Spring took part in the play. Rain over the weekend handicapped competitive play but most of the golfers played 18 holes. Most of the golfers who took part in the celebration will return for the Big Spring invitational tournament which begins Sept. 4 and continues through Labor Day.

A few minutes before it had been crowded with shoppers. Hundreds of bodies lay in piles. It seemed as if the force of the blast had gathered them up and rolled them together. Most of them were twisted horribly. Many were burned. Others were torn apart. It will take days to count the dead. It even will take days to find many of the bodies. I did not see the bodies of any foreigners, but shortly before the explosion I saw a number of them shopping inside the store. Nearby hotels housed additional dead. The estimated deaths, even estimated by policemen on the scene, varied from low figures to some absurdly high. It seemed, however, that the 400 figure likely would be accurate when the final story was told. While the belligerent forces prepared for what many said would be the heaviest fighting yet, Americans and other foreigners hurried their evacuation plans.

REPORT MESSAGES FROM RUSSIANS

BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 23 (AP)—Reports from Moscow that radio signals on the wave length of Sigismund Levineffsky's missing transpolar plane had been heard spurred rescue fliers, grounded yesterday in fog, to new efforts today in search for the six lost adventurers.

The signals, heard yesterday, could not be interpreted but soviet officials asked northern Russian stations to broadcast rescue plans in an effort to encourage the fliers if they are stranded in some isolated Arctic point.

In this far northern outpost belief began to grow today the missing ship will be found "somewhere in Alaska." It disappeared a week ago Friday on a 4,000-mile flight here from Moscow.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The bureau of public roads, completing a $75,000 national survey of traffic conditions, filed a report with congress today urging "appropriate steps" be taken to obtain uniformity in state and local highway and motor laws.

The report noted wide variations in speed and other road rules, inspection, license suspensions and requirements of drivers' financial responsibility.

Theft Suspect Arrested Here After Spirited Fight With Policeman

Henry D. Williams, "wanted in Abilene," was captured in the railroad yards here early Monday morning after a spirited battle with a city policeman.

Williams, sought on a theft charge, escaped Officers L. A. Coffey and J. M. Chocot at a local camp about midnight and made his way to the yards where they lost trace of him.

Coffey changed to some old clothes and disguised himself as a hobo and returned to the yards to seek his man. Later he struck up a conversation with him near the flood light in the west end of the yards and found he was the man sought.

As the officer reached for his handcuffs, he said Williams broke to run. Coffey grabbed him and a fight ensued. Locked together, they rolled off a concrete block in the ground below before the suits

Six Escape Texas Jail

Prisoners At Greenville Overpower Officer

GREENVILLE, Aug. 23 (AP)—North Texas officers today sought six of seven men who overpowered an officer to escape the Hunt county jail. The fugitives were believed unarmed.

At large were Harlin S. Lindsay, Alfred J. Crowe and Mack Herman, previously held in connection with the burglary of a Commerce, Tex., department store, and Everett Jones, Pat Adams, and Therman Rounte, all charged with auto theft.

The seventh, Albert Giles of Kansas City, under seven years sentence for burglary of the Commerce store, was captured shortly after the carefully executed escape last night, by Buddy Wolfe, son of Sheriff Frank Wolfe.

A truck driver, Hillard Brown, fought the six off when they attempted to take his automobile, and they fled afoot.

Giles told how the seven used razor blades and scissors to cut a hole in the east wall of the bull pen of the jail to a compartment about two and a half feet wide, affording access to plumbing fixtures, by a door from an outside hallway.

Six of the men, Giles related, squeezed through the hole into the compartment, and the seventh, before entering, called to the jailer that they had dropped a pillow through the iron barred top of the tiny room.

When Jailer George McAllister entered the compartment from the outside the men grabbed him, took his keys, locked him in, and let themselves out through four floors to the street.

Crude Output Must Be Cut

Only East Texas Production For Sept. Not Reduced

AUSTIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—Oil operators in all sections of the state except the giant East Texas field must cut their production sharply on September 1.

The railroad commission set the Texas basic production allowance for September at 1,411,724 barrels daily, a decrease of 53,757 from the allowable five days ago.

But it promises to reach the one and one-half million barrel mark again before the end of September due to well completions, and the average therefore will remain well above the recommendation of the United States bureau of mines, which suggested daily production of 1,415,600.

The biggest surprise of the new order, issued late Saturday, was that it did not contain a cut for East Texas. The proration factor there was left at 2.32 per cent of hourly potential notwithstanding testimony of commission engineers that it should be reduced to halt an excessive pressure drop.

Commissioners did not comment, but some of those familiar with the situation said it would be impractical to curtail East Texas production materially because the field contains approximately 23,000 wells and the poorest of these must be given an output of 20 barrels daily if they are capable of producing that amount.

Woman And Two Children Drowned

HEMPSTEAD, Aug. 23 (AP)—A holiday jaunt to a swimming hole, today had cost the lives by drowning of two children and their hostess.

The dead, all of Houston, were: Mrs. Mollie Ford, Grace Hill, 10, and Bobbie Hill, 12, her brother, children of Mrs. John Donald Hill.

John Cameron of Hempstead, brother of Mrs. Ford, said she drowned trying to save the children, who had waded in the pool and slipped in over their heads.

"Mrs. Ford jumped into the water and drowned trying to save Grace and Bobbie," Cameron said. "Mrs. Hill got the other child out of the water, but she was unable to help Mrs. Ford or the other two children."

Mrs. Hill saved her daughter, Dorraine, Grace's twin.

The Hills were spending Sunday as guests of Mrs. Ford, who had a summer cottage near Hempstead.
