that local FHA girls will be at work Saturday "tagging" persons for donations to the Heart Fund.

This year's drive is being headed throughout the state by Dr. E. N. Jones, president of Texas Tech. He said that the annual campaign for funds with which to "combat the nation's Number One Killer—Heart Disease" will continue throughout February.

In the governor's proclamation designating February as "Heart Month" in Texas, it was pointed out that heart and circulatory diseases account for more deaths each year in Texas and throughout the nation than all other causes of death combined.

Goal for Lubbock County this year has been set at $20,000. No definite amount has been named for Slaton's portion of the county quota.

Highlighting the Heart Fund campaign will be "Heart Sunday," set for Sunday, Feb. 24. At this time there will be a house-to-house canvass for funds for the Heart Fund.

Three Diseases Caused by Lack of Sanitation Prevalent in Slaton Area

Three diseases, all caused directly or indirectly from a sanitation problem, are prevalent in Slaton residents," Dr. John Locke, Slaton physician, told members of the Slaton Lions Club Friday.

In contrast to this, he said that in Slaton's Mercy Hospital, the Number One cause of death of children in this age group was diarrhea.

out the city, the first place to look for the cause is in the water system, Locke stated. The water system is the one thing in common between all persons in the city.

Any organic matter in the pipeline—or any contamination quickly obliterates the chlorine, he stated. Some septic tanks, and some outdoor toilets are located near water lines in Slaton. When the water pressure is up, there is some seepage out of the pipeline. But when the pressure drops, the seepage reverses, going into the pipeline, rather than out of it, Locke said.

water line, or when a new line is cut in, that also puts contamination into the system.

ribile disease," he said, and also described it as being rare. Last year some 360 cases were positively identified by spinal tests in the Panhandle-South Plains area. This compares with 1955's 10-Health Service has been assigned to Lubbock County for study of the disease. Thus far it has been traced to flies carrying the disease from horses, and can be transmitted from mosquitoes.

disappearing throughout the nation, has been climbing in Lubbock County, and is now progressing at twice the rate of four years ago.

mal of slightly over 100 cases. An agent of the U. S. Public Health Commission.

When a disease becomes widespread in a city, through all age groups, and in all localities throughout the city, the first place to look for the cause is in the water system, Locke stated. The water system is the one thing in common between all persons in the city. The type of diarrhea here is not of a typhoid or food poisoning type, such as is prevalent in most other areas. Slaton's water is tested each month, Locke said, in accordance with state regulations. The physical system of the water plant is adequate, he said, for the water here is similar to water found anywhere. In purification of the water, however, Slaton uses a hand chlorination system. This is helpful, for chlorine is always helpful in purification, but it is not adequate. Any organic matter in the pipeline—or any contamination quickly obliterates the chlorine, he stated. Some septic tanks, and some outdoor toilets are located near water lines in Slaton. When the water pressure is up, there is some seepage out of the pipeline. But when the pressure drops, the seepage reverses, going into the pipeline, rather than out of it, Locke said. "System Easily Contaminated" "All commodities made prior to 1950 will throw refuse into the water lines whenever the pressure drops," according to Dr. Locke. Each time repairs are made on any water line, or when a new line is cut in, that also puts contamination into the system. Automatic chlorination is not the entire solution to the problem, he said, but it will do much to alleviate the situation which now exists. Even when towns have a perfect physical water plant, and a perfect distribution system, chlorine is added to take care of the small amount of contamination which will occur by the time the water reaches the end of the lines. "Horrible Disease" In his discussion of encephalitis, Dr. Locke said that six cases were reported in Slaton before any were reported in Lubbock. "It is a hor-

County Agent

"Oscar" from the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association in 1954.

He took it upon himself to initiate a program that would convince farmers and ginners of the valuable materials that were wasted in the "monument to waste"—the burr burner at every gin in the area.

Agricultural observers estimated that the program resulted in close to a million dollars extra production on Lubbock County farms alone during the past season.

Sherrill graduated from Texas A&M College in 1931. Two years later he joined the Extension Service, serving as county agent in Coryell County two years before coming to the South Plains in 1935 as county agent of Hockley County.

He was named Lubbock County Agent in March 1947, following 12 years in Hockley County, and three and a half years in the military service during World War II.

In his post as irrigation specialist for Extension Service, he will travel over the 42 Panhandle-Plains counties comprising Districts 1 and 2, talking irrigation problems with farmers and conducting group meetings and field day programs.

"DESK 116"

By Rep. H. J. Blanchard

During the first three weeks of the session, only one bill has been passed as yet, and this of course was an Appropriation Bill for $2,300,000 to pay the members of the Legislature during session. Considering that there is a move on to raise the pay of legislators, this figure would be materially larger in the future. To a lot of people, $2,300,000 doesn't seem like a lot of money, but to me personally, this seems like an astronomical figure.

One of the current topics that is making the rounds here is a proposed bill for registration of lobbyists. I must confess I was a little shocked at the way in which lobbyists work. Every day there are from one to a dozen men at the main door wanting to take all the members to dinner. Many times you do not know who they represent or what their interest is, but you can never forget that they are there representing a specific interest.

Up until today, there have been 268 bills introduced and this does not take into consideration the large number of House Concurrent Resolutions which propose to amend the Constitution of Texas. With Committee meetings five days a week, I have thus far been unable to read but a small portion of these bills.

The lobbyists are here either to support or oppose every bill introduced. These men are particularly well informed, and feel that they serve a very real purpose in being able to tell you the benefit of their side of the story. This gives you an opportunity to get the pro and con of a bill so you can then read the bill and reach a full understanding of what it proposes to do upon enactment.

It is the general feeling of the members, at least those who have expressed themselves, that this proposed registration do a great deal to curtail the unethical practices heretofore worked. I shall work for a registration law.

A great deal has been written the papers concerning segregation and the code of ethics for legislators and state officials. At the same time, I will keep you posted on exactly what is happening in these matters and will request the people of Lubbock County to give me the benefit of their views in connection with this proposed matter that may come as the session goes along.

I am down here with the intention of doing what the people of Lubbock County desire to do, and in the absence of their views, I shall vote to the best of my ability in every respect.

man of discernment and appreciation of the finer things of life from line three of his verse, lay odds on one thing:
The guy is a bachelor.

Some of us here at the Warm Springs Foundation are working with the idea of forming a sort of an Association for Former Patients. It seems to me often our "exes"—especially those who need no longer return to patient check-ups—fade out of our horizon.

We are interested in them, of them are interested in us, and we believe most of us would like to have interest in them. The organization we envision would have a public devoted to an exchange of patient news, and we might have a reunion once each year. We would sincerely like to hear from any of our exes who are interested in such a plan.

That, to be sure, would be a revolting development. Impartial, however, to the point of view expressed by the poet, Edwin John Pratt, who came up with the following stanza in his "History of John Jones":
"When he lost his pipe, he swore,
Just a mild damn, and nothing more;
And once he cursed
The government; but then he reckoned
The Lord forgave him for the first,
And justified the second."
And while I'm on the subject of poetry and pipes, I can't help but admire the well-known lines and the outlook of one James Thompson:

"Give a man a pipe he can smoke,
Give a man a book he can read;
And his home is bright with a calm delight,
Though the room be poor indeed."
Now I'll admit I don't know anything about this James Thompson fellow, but he does strike me as a

Two eggs laid before Christmas usually bring more money than three laid afterwards. That's why it pays to develop big, early-laying, heavy-laying pullets on PURINA GROWENA. Costs no more to feed than many poorer and cheaper rations—because it takes less PURINA to put a pullet on the nest.
