A WEEK AT A TIME

by J. M. RANKIN

TURNING A NEW LEAF

Some weeks ago Uncle George Marriott told us we ought to know better than to call a yardmaster a trainmaster. And we ought. But now we come out double and in one issue call a yardmaster a trainmaster and a secretary a chief clerk. We offer apologies to Tom Turner and Russell Satterlee. But to an ex-bull puller the organization of shops and trainmen and yardmen all looks complicated. And we trusted to our treacherous memory about the respective positions held, and our memory let us down. Henceforth if anybody wants to find the authentic assignment of any Santa Fe employe, let him search this paper. It is found here, it can be depended on. We're turning over a new leaf—and making several new ones.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO HUMANITY

The passing this summer of Drs. Charles and William Mayo, world-famous surgeons of Rochester, takes from the world two of its greatest servants. These men built the most famous hospital in the world, but that was incidental; they doubtless made fortunes for themselves, but that was incidental; they were honored by rich and poor, by great and small, but that was incidental. The important point is they rendered a life of service to mankind. They advanced the science of medicine; they carried on research in the particular field of their specialty; they brought hope and extended life itself to thousands of sufferers who came to them; they served in the best traditions of their profession and enrolled that profession by doing distinguished service to mankind. They left a great hospital as a monument to their lives, but their greatest monument is in the hearts of grateful millions who have been benefited directly and indirectly by their contributions to humanity.

MUST BE IRRITATING

Mr. John L. Lewis' name-calling of vice-president Garner is the best recommendation we know for the distinguished Texan. Jack Garner's reputation is not damaged by the criticism of Mr. Lewis. Nobody who knows Garner or knows his record can believe his present position of honor and service in the nation and his rugged physique are the results of a misspent life. Nobody can believe the sober statesmanship of Garner is merely the whitewash covering a sixty year orgy of drinking and gambling. Labor must be in politics, its needs must be made known, its wants should be published, its reasons for supporting or opposing certain candidates should be public property. Not too long ago, John L. Lewis was mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency in 1940. That seems to be dead. The growing sentiment for Garner must be irritating Mr. Lewis to goad him to the un-politic outburst of last week.

TO HARASS OR CURTAIL

Announcements have been made to utilities companies this week by the Federal Power Commission to the effect that the said Power Commission must be furnished with tear sheets of all advertisements and a copy of the billing for the advertising of said utilities companies. We don't know just what is the purpose of this new infringement in the field of private business. If it is intended to harass the utilities companies that are already in a maze of uncertainty about whether to make the improvements they need to make in their services in the face of continued encroachments by the government, then it is becoming serious. If it is intended to curtail in any way the freedom of the press (Continued to Page 6).

To Feature 40 and 8 Judge Bean Court Legionnaires to Frolic At Waco Convention

A "Judge Roy Bean" Court, a "wreck" or initiation for new members, and a barbecue dinner will highlight the program of events of La Societe des 40 Hommes and 8 Chevaux which meets in Waco for a four-day convention in conjunction with the American Legion statewide encampment Aug. 25-29. State officers of the 40 and 8 were in Waco recently discussing with executives of the Convention City Corporation final details of their program.

The advance guard of the Legion will begin arriving in Waco early Saturday, opening day of the convention, and will begin the "Roy Bean" mock court in the downtown vicinity at 9 o'clock. From 150 to 200 members are expected to attend. Proceeds of the court will go into the Legion's child welfare.

The initiation of new members will be held during the evening of the first day of activities, as will a joint banquet with the 8 and 40, auxiliary society, and a dance.

Sunday noon the 40 and 8 members will be guests of George O. Jones, former Waco mayor, at a barbecue at Jones' place on Lake Waco. Other activities of the 40 and 8 and 8 and 40 will be conducted jointly with the Legion and Auxiliary sessions. The two societies are branch organizations of the Legion and Auxiliary.

Gillaspay Store Opens This Week Auto and Tractor Parts Are Stocked

Following his announcement of several weeks ago, Mr. W. T. Gillaspay is opening this week his new store on West Lubbock Street where he has in stock a complete line of auto parts and tractor parts. The new business has been rushed to opening since Mr. Gillaspay purchased the building with this purpose in view. A new front has been built, and the bare east wall of the building has been stuccoed. Suitable fixtures have been installed, and the stock arranged for attractive display. The new store will be a decidedly worthy addition to that part of the city, and will attract business to the town that has previously had to go elsewhere for the service to be found here now.

Mr. Gillaspay has had many years of successful business experience and the present venture is founded on long and careful consideration and a realization of the need for the kind of store that is now opening. Parts and accessories for automobiles and tractor parts will be stocked that are guaranteed for fit and service, Mr. Gillaspay says, and in the advertising columns today he calls attention to his opening and invites your attendance and visit to his place of business.

Revival Meeting At Gorden Church

Minister A. G. Hobbs, Jr., of Monahans opens a meeting tonight at the Gorden Church of Christ. Elmo Burkett will direct the song services in the regular twice-a-day services. Both these men are able leaders in their fields and they and the congregation at Gorden extend a cordial invitation to everybody to attend the meeting through the full time it will run. Closing date has been set at August 13th.

Tiny Twin Babies Die Thursday

The tiny twin babies who were born early Thursday morning at the Mercy Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Reasoner of Route 2, died Thursday afternoon. The boy weighed two pounds, eleven ounces, and the girl two pounds and five ounces, a total of five pounds.

Mrs. C. A. Joplin left this week to visit her son in New Mexico.

Attractive Prizes For Yard Contest

Judging from the list of prizes offered thus far by Slaton merchants in the pretty yard contest to be judged September 20 members of the C. of C. beautifications committee announce that in each of four divisions of the contest an award amounting to $15 may be given for first prize, $10 for second, $7.50 for third and $5 for fourth, while $10 for first prize may be given in each of two other divisions of mercantile yards.

Two divisions of first-year yards will be judged, the four prizes applying to both the back yards and the front yards, while the same amounts will be offered in divisions for both front and back yards over one year old. Also front and back yards will comprise the two mercantile divisions in competition for the last-mentioned prizes.

Members of the committee are C. C. Hoffman, Jr., chairman, Carl Stewart and C. L. Tanner. They report that numerous entries have been received to date.

O. N. Alcorn Resigns City Commission

Mr. O. N. Alcorn, for the past seven years Slaton City Commissioner, tendered his resignation last week and it was accepted with regret by the City Commission in a late meeting.

Mr. Alcorn, who operates a motor transport business here, expressed his regrets that he felt he could not continue to do justice to his obligations to the city's business and to his own private business, so there was no alternative but to offer his resignation. He was also emphatic in his declaration that there has been no discord among the members of the Commission, and he retires from this place of public service with many pleasant remembrances of the fine spirit of co-operation that has always been evidenced by his co-workers.

A special election has been ordered to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Alcorn.

Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce News

RAYMOND LEE JOHNS, MANAGER

Folks, you may think we are tooting our horn quite a bit about our pretty yard contest, but we are really interested in it from all its various angles and have specially invited everyone in town who has a pretty lawn to enter the contest at once, so we will be able to complete our plans for the judging next month. Many of you may have entry blanks lying around the house somewhere, which you have meant to send in but just haven't. Please send them in at once, or call 244 the chamber of commerce office and register your entry over the phone. Read another part of this paper for latest details of the contest, including amounts of prizes to be given.

We want to take this opportunity to welcome publicly numerous new business firms in Slaton and of new families who have established homes here the last few months. One party has told us that, "In all the years that I have moved from place to place I have never found what I thought a finer town grounds and criss-crossed with convenient walks. When the 26th annual exposition opens September 25, everything will be in readiness for the enjoyment and comfort of Fair patrons visiting the show place of the South Plains.

Olin Terry Attends State Fire School

Because Olin Terry, city employe, attended the tenth annual Firemen's Training School at A. & M. College, July 17-22, Slaton instructors will continue to enjoy the very low key rate now in force here.

The school this year was the largest ever held and for the first time attracted a representative from a foreign country and one to represent a county-at-large. Juarez Mexico sent Leonardo Solis B. (correct) to take the course, and Maverick County delegated William Lyall, Eagle Pass, to represent them as a unit, though Lyall's town and other towns also had representatives enrolled.

In addition to lectures on fire fighting and fire prevention, the theory classes also learned about protection of health, bodily hazards, life saving and methods of body recovery. All firemen had to spend three hours of actual work in each section and then at the conclusion of the course were required to pass a written examination on the work taken so that the rate reduction can be held if already allowed and granted if it is not in force.

Cotton School Sought For West Texas

Washington—A regular cotton classing office for West Texas is being seriously considered by the Division of Cotton Marketing of the Department of Agriculture, according to recent reports made to Congressman George Mahon. Mahon has previously conferred with Department officials on several occasions stressing the need for such an office to serve West Texas cotton farmers generally and particularly for service to those farmers participating in the One Variety Cotton Community program.

The recent conference was for the purpose of again urging favorable action and calling to the attention of the Department the wide interest being shown in the proposal by One Variety Committees and

J. D. Rankin 1889 - 1939

As this goes to press the editor is assisting in the last rites for his brother, J. D. Rankin, who was born August 16, 1889, at Gay Hill, Texas, and died at Lubbock, August 2, 1939. He had lived at Lubbock since May 20 when an unfortunate motor accident cost the life of his wife, and inflicted injuries on him that resulted in his death.

He was the eldest child of a family of eleven children, and is survived by his son, J. D., Jr., 15, and his daughter, Mary Theresa, 8; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rankin of Abernathy; five brothers, J. M., Jr., of Slaton, H. C. of Washington, D. C., M. H. of Abernathy, C. C. of White Flat, and Rev. J. S. Rankin of Seagraves; five sisters, Mrs. R. G. O'Rear of Lorenzo, Miss Mary Rankin and Mrs. E. D. Farris of Lubbock, Mrs. J. F. Barron of Lamesa, Mrs. Robert Womack of Abilene.

To this writer he was always the eldest brother who had authority when father and mother were away. He was loved and respected by his brothers and sisters for his kindness and his generosity and unselfishness. He was a thoughtful, indulgent father to the two children for whom he tried to plan the best he could give them in life. His peace-loving, home-loving disposition made him the loved center of his home.

He was a devoted Christian since his boyhood, and loved to devote his glorious cultivated voice to the service of his Christ. In his heart was no hiding place for fear as death approached, for his faith was sure. Though the ties of home have not been close since both of us have had our own homes, his passing will make a lonely place for this brother who by reason of years was closest to him.

Kessels Return From Market

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kessel returned this week from Dallas, where they attended the fall floor shows of new merchandise. Mr. Kessel says he bought liberally of the attractive new fashions there displayed and will have the new merchandise on display soon.

Mrs. K. C. Scott, and daughter, Miss June left last week to visit in Manitou, Colorado.

County Agents throughout the area.

Such an office would supplement similar services now available in Texas through classing offices at Austin, Dallas, and El Paso.

One Variety Cotton Committees should file applications for Department of Agriculture classing services through Mr. George E. Miller of the Division of Cotton Marketing at Austin. Mahon expressed the opinion that if sufficient applications were filed immediately, the West Texas office would be established.

New Golf Course On South Plains

Slaton's new golf course, and the only links on the South Plains with bent grass greens, was opened Tuesday without any ceremony but the words of the building committee, "There They Are." Forthwith these was the best quorum of hit 'em and hunt 'em boys ever seen in the Santa Fe pasture.

This building committee consisted of the club president, N. R. Carter and Royce M. Pember, Secretary. Without them and their tireless work in the face of a club that was practically unanimous in saying "It can't be done," there would be no grass greens. Much talk was engaged in and advice was sought of the only other club on the Plains that had the bent grass, that was Amarillo. If bent could be grown at Amarillo, it could be grown here, which is further south, and has a wetter climate. Charles Akey, Lubbock Pro, has lent advice and counsel from his experience.

The new course lies just north of the Santa Fe depot and a half mile west of the old one. The length of the course is slightly under three thousand yards. The greens are all large, averaging about sixty by seventy feet. The fairways are level as is all the land hereabouts, but sporty hazards have been built so that few golfers will turn in a par score, at least on the first round. Many golfers from surrounding towns have bought memberships in the new club and others are awaiting only the opening of the grass greens to register so they can get practice on the kind of greens that all the important tournaments are played on.

A neat clubhouse, twelve by twenty feet with an eight by twenty porch, has just been finished at the new number 1 tee, and a grounds keeper engaged.

Up to the present writing nobody has turned in any spectacular scores, but several of the top men of the club knocked hard at Mr. Par's door the first round. Others think maybe par isn't impossible and they play doggedly from tee to rough to trap, and so on, hoping they will not be hot some day and pin the old man's ears back.

One of three matches played by the Slaton club this season, two have been in the home town's favor and the other was a draw. First contest was with Lamesa which was the draw. Tahoka and Broadview of Lubbock, have been let down with considerable thumps, Tahoka, 11-4, and Broadview, 15-8. Next match is for Sunday, August 6 when Broadview comes down for revenge—or maybe just for the fun of it.

New Members Are Urged For Band

Approximately twenty members are expected to make the senior band next year and are working very diligently, if not artistically, toward that goal. They meet every morning except Saturday from eight until twelve, and anyone interested in starting are urged to attend these meetings.

The Senior Band meets on Tuesday and Thursday nights, including Band Concerts on Saturday, and the instrumentation will be adequate to compete with any high school band.

A Bass Clarinet and an Alto Clarinet have been ordered, and also sixty white nine-inch fountain plumes. The seniors will have approximately eighty members next year.

Four new additions to the band are Jimmie Faye Ward, who will play Bells; Tibbs, who will play drums; and the Cherry boys who will play the saxophone and horn. All students who wish to become members are urged to come to High School and discuss this, so that instruments can be ordered and work can begin the first of September.

Rev. Paul Stevens and wife with small son, Paul Hayes, left this week to visit Mr. Steven's father in New Mexico.

Achievement Day For H. E. Dept. Parents and Public Invited to Function

As a climax to summer activities carried on by a large group of girls enrolled in homemaking classes of Slaton High school, the department will hold an Achievement day program Tuesday, August 8, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the high school building, so that parents and the general public may view project plans, records and stories. Mrs. Dayton Eckert, department head, announces that the girls' summer activities will be equivalent in time and value to one semester of regular school work in homemaking.

Individual as well as group projects completed by the girls since close of the regular school term will be on display; however, some of the individual plans have been carried on in homes and cannot be shown. Some of the group projects included an inventory of the homemaking department, making a slip cover for an upholstered chair, construction of a utility stool, refinishing of desks and stools in the foods laboratory. Each girl also made a scarf of some kind to be used in the department.

In addition to the group work each girl has been carrying on a home activity during the summer. Girls enrolled and activities are: Jean Evans, Bernice Smith, Doris Faulkner, Billie Allen and Mary Evans, all of whom have planned, made and cared for their summer wardrobes. Jimmie Fae Ward has better storage space in her home. Adelle Crews, Mary Frances Joplin and Merry Nell Culver have improved their kitchens. Mary Lew Jones improved family household linens. Dorothea Nell Childers, Treva Shelton, Morene Walters and Cleo Joyce Marr have remodeled their bedrooms. Weekly club meetings have been held in the girls' homes to give each a chance to see what the others have been doing. Mrs. Eckert has visited each of the home projects and supervised all of the activity.

The work being carried on in Slaton is a part of the general program in homemaking as outlined and set up by the homemaking teachers in Lubbock county last winter. Lubbock county is the only county in Texas having vocational homemaking on the twelve-months plan.

Similar Achievement day programs are being held in each school in the county within the next two weeks. Each school will visit one other program in the county. Roosevelt will visit Slaton August 8th, while Slaton will visit Cooper Aug. 16th.

Dr. R. G. Loveless On Santa Fe Staff With Dr. Payne Will Serve Local Men

Announcement was made this week that Dr. Roy Gordon Loveless has been added to the local staff of the Santa Fe Hospital Association. Dr. W. E. Payne, Santa Fe physician for the past seven years, will continue in the same capacity.

The new appointment will be a convenience to the numerous Santa Fe employes who live here, for with two physicians on the staff, they can be assured that only in rare cases would occasion arise when neither would be available for emergency.

Dr. Loveless has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery since he came here from Lamesa seven years ago. He associated with himself in his practice last year, Dr. O. D. Goshart of Denver. He has enlarged and improved his office and clinic building to almost double its former capacity within the past year, and Santa Fe Hospital officials have made no mistake in adding him to its already worthy staff in Slaton.

Miss Jewel Hughes is a guest in the home of Mrs. Fred Whitehead.

ELIJAH: A LIFE OF COURAGE

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 18:30-39. GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is far from the wicked; but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.—Proverbs 15:29.

"Let courage rise with danger." Such is the plea of Webb's great hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus." Christianity in our day calls for courageous men and women.

Courage should be distinguished from such related things as bravery, valor, or bravado. Bravado is an affectation of a reckless bravery which surely has no place in Christian life and activity. Valor is associated with daring and vigorous action, for example, in battle. To be brave means to meet a challenge with confidence and resolution. To be courageous means to steadily meet perils of which one is deeply conscious, doing so because of the call of duty. Courage holds a deeper and nobler meaning than the other words, carrying with it the idea of moral strength and, in the case of the Christian, faith in God as one devoted to His cause.

Elijah was courageous, and he stands before our Christian youth today as an example of that godly courage which

I. Works in the Open (v. 30). Men whose deeds are evil love the darkness rather than the light. God does not work in the dark. All of His workings are in the open sunlight. Every one is welcome to "come near" and see what is done.

Elijah knew God and he acted like God's man. What a tragedy it is that not all of God's servants have followed his example. If we had the open and above-board dealings of Elijah in the affairs of our churches, we might see more of the fire and power of his ministry. Certain it is that the administration of church affairs which has to be carried out in hidden corners by whispered conversations and by secret manipulations behind the scenes, is not God's work at all, it is the work of man.

II. Asks No Favors (vv. 33-35). Elijah rebuilt the altar himself. He asked no help of the unbelieving prophets of Baal or of apostate Israel. How old-fashioned he seems in this day when so much stress is laid on a false unity of the faiths, and there is so much solicitation and acceptance by the Church of the help of unbelievers in financing the supposed work of God.

Note also that Elijah invited his enemies to make the answer to his prayer more difficult by pouring water on the sacrifice. This was not an act of bravado, it was for the purpose of demonstrating that there was no fraud. He was willing that the enemies of the truth should make the demonstration more difficult if that would be to God's glory. There is a delightful old-fashioned flavor about that act, too, in these days when men are frequently willing to compromise with unbelief and even with sin in order that the work of the Church may be carried on without too much difficulty. Here again we have an explanation of the lack of spiritual power in our times.

III. Honors God, Not Man (vv. 30-32, 36-37).

A man of bravery wants recognition for himself, while the courageous man asks only that the cause for which he fights shall be successful. Elijah had long since demonstrated that he was absolutely fearless, and sought no favor or glory (read the entire story). Now in the tenseness of this moment, he carefully rebuilds the altar of the true God (v. 30), makes it a testimony of unity to a divided Israel (v. 31), and he does it all in the name of the Lord (v. 32).

His prayer (vv. 36, 37) is a profoundly simple expression of a complete faith in the true God and His power on the part of a man who recognized himself as being only the divine servant. He made no plea that God would vindicate him or his ministry, but he did plead that the name of the Lord should be honored in the midst of an unbelieving people.

IV. Brings Eternal Results (vv. 38, 39).

"The fire of the Lord fell." The lying prophets of heathendom were routed. Many recognized Jehovah as the true God. While Israel did not long remember the lesson learned here, the story has continued as a testimony that will strengthen the people of God as long as time continues.

FAREWELL TO CAMP

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

Henry Tubbs Is Well Known

One of the pioneer garage men of the city of Lubbock who deserves the respect and admiration of every citizen of this district is Mr. Henry Tubbs, of the C. H. Tubbs Garage.

The C. H. Tubbs Garage is a Lubbock institution, and Mr. Tubbs is no less so because of his inseparable connection with the firm in the mind of its customers.

Mr. Henry Tubbs has always been ready and willing to contribute his time and energy to the assistance of any plan which promises to benefit this community as a whole, and the people of our district may regard with particular satisfaction the many services Mr. Tubbs has performed for this community. We urge our readers to look to Mr. C. H. Tubbs as a man of whom we may well be proud. His devotion to this city has been constant and his achievements are well merited.

Roche Newton Has Many Friends

Lubbock may well be proud of the citizens who have made the city and the surrounding territory so favorably known. In mentioning some of these men we could not in common honesty omit the name of Mr. Roche Newton, manager of Newton and Co.

Mr. Roche Newton, a leading business man, cannot be praised too highly for his great achievements. His main interests have always been devoted to the welfare and the building up of a greater Lubbock. The value of such a man to the community cannot be over-estimated when taking into consideration the many things he has accomplished that have been an asset to Lubbock and this district.

Mr. Roche Newton is wholly deserving of our sincere praise, and these few words of commendation are but a just recognition of the many activities he has conducted for the general welfare of the community as a whole. The honest and successful conduct of his business affairs is but a reflection of his character.

Virgil D. Shell Is Civic Leader

The men of the community who work for the best interests of the community, usually are leaders in whatever they attempt. They are men who can be depended upon and who are called upon to help with all worthy projects. Such a man is Mr. Virgil D. Shell, a leading contractor over a large district. He stands at all times prepared to assist his community and is ever ready to take off his coat, if necessary, and work for it.

It is because we have men of the type of Mr. Shell that this community has made such a record for growth, expansion and progress, and because of these things is so favorably advertised and so well known throughout the country.

If Mr. Virgil D. Shell feels that a proposed civic project will be helpful to his community no special invitation is necessary to get him interested. And because of his enthusiasm and willingness to help he has won the admiration and praise of his fellow business and professional men. We take pleasure in paying this brief tribute to a man who has ever been in the forefront of the business life of Lubbock.

Local Woman Shows Faith In Community

To be a consistent and persistent booster of the home community very often takes courage and plenty of optimism. It is because of her unflinching faith in Lubbock and the future of the South Plains, and her unflagging efforts to promote its development that Mrs. J. D. Lindsey, of the Lindsey Theatres, Inc., is selected now for this brief tribute.

Mrs. J. D. Lindsey has always followed the policy of building her business ahead of the community, and thus setting a pace that has brought an ever-increasing number of people to make Lubbock their trading center. She is a woman of keen business judgment, whose ideas have been the inspiration of many who know her. Her personality and energy in directing the operation of her company are important factors in its outstanding success.

We are glad to pay this deserved tribute to Mrs. J. D. Lindsey and to point out to our readers that hers is the guiding genius behind the many popular services which her company offers.

J. O. Jones Wins Admiration

We wish in this edition to pay especial tribute to Mr. J. O. Jones, Director of the Works Progress Administration for his many services to the city of Lubbock and his splendid record of achievement. Jones probably has a wider circle of personal friends than any other man we could name. He has cultivated friendships wherever he goes and is at pains to conduct himself in such a manner as to deserve the respect and admiration of all who know him.

A city is extremely fortunate in being able to number among its civic leaders such a personality as J. O. Jones. He has probably accomplished as much toward the development of Lubbock and the South Plains country than any other one man we could mention. He is always ready and willing to lend his prestige and ability to the promotion of any project which promises to benefit the city of Lubbock. Mr. Jones may be depended upon, and his services to the people are too many in number to be described here. It may be sufficient to say that the publishers of this paper consider Mr. J. O. Jones an asset to the community and a man of whom the city may be proud.

Drew Warren and Dewey McNeil Makes Many Friends

A city grows and prospers by reason of the public spirited men and women who take an active interest in its development. Lubbock has its share of these civic minded people, and two who are deserving of special mention are Mr. Drew Warren and Mr. Dewey McNeil of the Sinclair Super Service Station at 1202 Main in Lubbock.

They have not only in their business activities but also in their attention to civic duty assumed a position of the utmost prominence in the community affairs. They have always been ready and willing to contribute their time. They have often sacrificed their personal interests to be of assistance to the city. Their efforts are wholly deserving of commendation and support.

We congratulate Mr. Drew Warren and Mr. Dewey McNeil and their concern and wish them continued success.

Miss Starnes and nephew, Merv Starnes, of Lubbock were guests Thursday in the home of the Marvin Abernathys.

Prominent Leader is Man of Ideals

In Mr. J. A. Raley, Jr., senior valuator for the Federal Housing Administration in Lubbock and directing the operations of the F. H. A. for forty-one counties, the people of this district have a public official who is a proven leader as well as an efficient executive whose particular department in the government is remarkably well operated. We are glad to voice our praise of such a public figure and to tell our readers something about his personal character.

Mr. J. A. Raley, Jr. is, first of all, a man of fine integrity and high moral principle. More than that, he is an able and practical executive who applies sound business practice to the administration of his duties. He is a man whose word is respected and whose ideas are invariably practical. He is energetic, alert, and dependable in working for the best interests of this district.

Beyond these personal traits of character which make Mr. Raley a distinguished citizen, he displays a breadth of experience and knowledge of public affairs which fits him pre-eminently for public service. It is because he understands so fully the needs of this district that he is able to lead in supporting these projects which will insure greater prosperity and happiness for all the people. We feel it is our privilege to thus publicly voice our appreciation of the fine work which Mr. J. A. Raley, Jr. performs.

Cecil White Truck Line Is Business Builder

A firm that may be truly said to lead its field is the Cecil White Truck Line. This company has become a Lubbock institution. It has served the people of this vicinity for many years and over that period of time has established a reputation for reliability for which everyone may be proud.

The Cecil White Truck Line has contributed greatly to the growth of the city of Lubbock and all the surrounding territory. They continue year after year to serve the district in a manner which merits the support of every civic minded citizen.

It is firms of this kind that have based their activities on a policy of honest service which become assets to any community. Mr. J. C. Hilton is the man who is responsible for the kindly feeling held by the citizens of Lubbock and this district towards his company. He is a man who has won the respect and admiration of everyone. We congratulate him on his splendid record and trust he will continue to enjoy many more years of success.

S. R. McKinnon Deserves Mention

Mr. S. R. McKinnon of the Texas Elm & Supply Co., in Lubbock, performs a real service for the people of this district and his contributions to civic betterment are too well known to require further repetition in these columns. His personal success has been turned to the advantage of his fellow citizens, and he is always ready and willing to assist in any enterprise which promises to advance the welfare of the community.

Mr. McKinnon is deserving of our highest compliments and this small tribute is but a just recognition of the many services which he has performed. His reputation for the successful conduct of his business affairs, is no greater than his reputation for the honest practices which characterize his every transaction.

We congratulate Mr. S. R. McKinnon on his splendid record and trust that he shall continue for many years to serve the people of this district.

Temple Trust Co. Aids Agricultural Development

One of the institutions that gives stability to the farming and ranching interest of this district is the Temple Trust Co.

From the day it first opened its doors to the people it has always been under the management of conservative yet progressive men, of broad and liberal views in the matter of caring for their patrons' needs yet men who have carefully guarded the best interests of their customers at all times. This invariable policy has gained for this association the greatest confidence of the people of all the surrounding country and among its customers you will find the majority of the community's most prominent cattle raisers and farmers.

This association, under the capable direction of Mr. Geo. Houghton, the manager, is one of the absolutely essential institutions which makes possible the expansion and growth not only of the individual but of this entire district. In making this review of the onward progress of the South Plains, we wish to compliment the Temple Trust Co., also its officers and directors, and direct attention of our readers to this worthy institution.

Telford Lumber Co. Merits Support

In compiling a list of firms on which this community has depended a great deal for service, we cannot in common honesty omit the name of the Telford Lumber Company. This company has rendered a very distinct service to this community as well as the city of Lubbock. An enumeration of these services is unnecessary since the residents of this district are for the most part familiar with the activities of the company. The uniform excellence of their lumber and building materials set the standard to which other firms attempt to conform, but so far this firm continues to set the pace in its field.

A more civic-minded executive personnel would be hard to imagine than that which directs the policies of this company. Mr. J. H. Kurlh, the president, Mr. S. H. Reid the vice president and Mr.

Joe Telford, secretary and treasurer, are the men to whom we believe the credit should go for the outstanding success and popularity of the Telford Lumber Company. They are progressive business men who have given much of their time and energy to the building up of their city. They have always devoted themselves to the welfare of the general public of this entire district and may be considered civic-minded in every respect.

This paper wishes to compliment this company and its officers on their fine record and wish them many more years of continued success.

Rufus Scarbrough Makes Business His Hobby

It is no coincidence that more frequently than not the man or men who play the leading role in the development of their city are the same men who are pre-eminently successful in conducting their own private affairs. Such a man is Mr. Rufus Scarbrough of the Scarbrough Insurance Agency, and to whom we take this occasion to pay a deserved tribute.

Mr. Rufus Scarbrough has proved very ably that he is an organizer of unusual ability, for it is largely due to his sound and practical ideas that the Scarbrough Insurance Agency holds its high position in the opinion of its many patrons. Mr. Rufus Scarbrough has made his business a "hobby," with the result that it is today one of the most popular insurance firms in Lubbock, giving to its patrons an excellence of service seldom equalled.

It is true also that Mr. Rufus Scarbrough is one of the leaders in the community improvement, and has given freely of his time and energy in the promotion of those enterprises which have benefited Lubbock and the surrounding territory. We are glad to voice our praise of a man who is successful in his own business and who has time also to give to community advancement.

Mark Schwab Merits Praise

There are plenty of men in their chosen fields who are prominent, but who will not permit much to be said about it. It is, however, public property every time a man reaches a position in any community where he is generally recognized as a leader. Mr. Mark Schwab, manager of the Mark Schwab Tire Co., has always done his work effectively, even though it has been accomplished in an unobtrusive manner. His many friends would think it a strange omission were we not to say a word about him.

Mr. Mark Schwab, busy as he is, always manages somehow or other to do his bit in any movement calculated to benefit the community as a whole.

Mr. Schwab's modesty will not permit him to say the things about himself which are said by his friends. This paper is merely performing a civic duty when it pays this small tribute to a man who so richly deserves more profuse compliments. We do not hesitate to recommend Mr. Mark Schwab to our readers as a man who continues at all times to work to the advantage of the people of Lubbock and the Plains country.

A. E. Miller and J. T. Stephens Are Leading Citizens

Mr. A. E. Miller and Mr. J. T. Stephens of Lubbock, are those substantial type of citizens upon whom this community depends a great deal for leadership and guidance. They have in the past and no doubt will continue in the future to give more than their share of time and energy for the welfare of others than themselves. They are the type of men who make friends, and friendships once formed by them are never broken by an unfriendly action on their part. Their success in business is directly attributed to their application of these principles which guide their business dealings. They spare no effort in order that their services to the people of this community shall be commendable.

Mr. A. E. Miller and Mr. J. T. Stephens have never been known to inject themselves into a situation for the mere purpose of gaining publicity. They proceed in a calm, unostentatious manner and accomplish their objective with a quiet dignity. For that reason the true estimate of their worth is sometimes missed. This newspaper sincerely wishes to offer them this small evidence of heart-felt esteem.

J. B. McCauley, Realtor, Inspires Confidence

An established, responsible real estate dealer is an asset to any community, and the J. B. McCauley Co. has had a great deal to do with for service which makes it a pleasure to do business with the firm. Mr. J. B. McCauley lists some of the finest residential property in the city as well as the more desirable farm properties in the adjacent territory. The J. B. McCauley Co. has had a great deal to do with the growth and progress of the city. No effort has been spared by the heads of the firm to see that Lubbock people have the opportunity to own homes which may be their pride and joy for years to come.

Those of our readers who have property for sale may be assured of a rapid turn over, should they list their holdings with the J. B. McCauley Co. Mr. J. B. McCauley has had wide experience in the real estate field. He has made many thousands of friends throughout this district and we congratulate him on his very real contributions to the growth of Lubbock and vicinity.

Honor Is Due Tom Lisemby

The true value of a citizen is not gauged by his personal success but rather by the manner in which he shares that success by his contributions to the community in which he lives. A city grows and flourishes according to the number of public spirited men and women who compose its population.

Mr. Tom Lisemby of Everybody's Service Station, is one of those men who has given much toward the development of Lubbock and vicinity. He has turned his personal success in the business field to the advantage of the people as a whole, and has accomplished much toward making Lubbock a better place in which to live. Mr. Lisemby's magnetic personality and dynamic driving force have raised him to a commanding position among his neighbors and friends.

We compliment Mr. Tom Lisemby in this edition and wish to offer him this small evidence of our esteem.

O. R. Phillips Is Civic Booster

There are a number of business and professional men in Lubbock who stand head and shoulders over the crowd. This especially is true in the case of Mr. O. R. Phillips of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company. Mr. Phillips has always been in the front rank of the business and civic life of Lubbock and the surrounding trade area. He is a dominant person, yet one whose genial personality has earned for him a host of friends and admirers.

Mr. Phillips' intuitive understanding of the needs of the city are a valuable and important factor in the successful promotion of many civic activities. As a result Lubbock is firmly established in the minds of the people, for many miles around, as a growing metropolis which they regard as the logical trading center for this district.

We compliment Mr. O. R. Phillips for his success in business and public affairs and say without fear of contradiction that he will continue for many years to enjoy that success which he has so justly earned.

L. V. Risinger and E. A. Tipton are Constructive Citizens

The city of Lubbock has assumed its place of importance in state affairs because of the efforts of the far seeing business and professional men who have developed the natural resources and extended the trade advantages of the locality. Two of the citizens who have taken a very important place are L. V. Risinger and E. A. Tipton of the firm of Risinger and Tipton. This company specializes in motor rebuilding and crankshaft regripping.

They have devoted a great deal of time and energy to the general welfare of this district and it is fitting at this time that we attempt to express in a small way our appreciation for their unselfish contributions to the general welfare. They are citizens of wide acquaintance, whose many friends admire and respect in them those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. Their upright business methods are a credit to their high sense of honor. We congratulate Mr. L. V. Risinger and Mr. E. A. Tipton on a splendid record of service and wish them continued success.

F. D. Wilson Has Fine Record

In paying tribute to some of our most prominent civic leaders we should be remiss in our duty were we to fail to include the name of Mr. F. D. Wilson of the Universal Land and Loan Co., in Lubbock.

Mr. F. D. Wilson is a man who has contributed much to the welfare of Lubbock and the surrounding territory. His civic spirit is evidenced by the many services which he has performed and which he continues to perform in the interest of the people as a whole. No worth-while enterprise which promises to benefit the city or the surrounding district, escapes the attention of Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson is a man of wide acquaintance whose many friends admire and respect in him those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. His upright business methods are a credit to his high sense of honor. There is always a place in any community for men of his type. We congratulate Mr. F. D. Wilson on his splendid record of service and trust he shall continue to assist us for many years to come.

McFarland and J. E. Mason Are Informed On Ins.

Two of the better informed in Lubbock are Mr. S. J. McFarland and Mr. J. E. Maisen. They have been performing an essential service for the people of this city over a period of years, and during that time have made many thousands of friends both for themselves and their agency. They have contributed a great deal of their time and energy to the growth and progress of this district and has been content to take their reward in the quiet knowledge of a work well done, and in the respect and admiration of their many friends.

The value of such men to this district cannot be over-estimated. Their willingness to perform in the interest of the community as a whole is their most admirable characteristic and they have often made personal sacrifices in order to contribute to the general welfare. We congratulate them on their splendid reputation, and we urge our readers to reciprocate for their many services by considering the McFarland-Maisen Company in all matters pertaining to general insurance.

PICNIC BASKET A PASSPORT TO FUN (See Recipe Below)

Let's Have a Picnic!

When skies are blue and cloudless and the weather's warm, a picnic basket is the passport to fun. It may be a spur-of-the-moment picnic with a simple lunch prepared from supplies on hand in pantry and refrigerator; or it might be a steak fry or barbecue with the food cooked on the picnic grounds; but it's more likely to be an old-fashioned "family style" picnic for a half-dozen to a hundred hungry guests with plenty of good-tasting food of delicious variety.

Whether your picnic is planned for a family, a Sunday school class, or a lodge, you'll find these foods prime favorites with the guests. Recipes are given here in quantities to serve a family; for a larger number the difference is a simple process of multiplication.

Cream Salad Dressing.

- 1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons flour
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
Dash cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon butter
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup heavy cream

Baked Beans

- 1 pound navy beans
1/2 pound pork (from the shoulder)
3 cups water
3/4 cup brown sugar
6 tablespoons molasses
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Camp Coffee.

Early in the day measure the coffee into a sugar bag, allowing 1 tablespoon per cup. Place this in the coffeepot with a little cold water and let it stand all day.

Fresh Peach Ice Cream.

- 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg (slightly beaten)
2 cups milk (scalded)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups coffee cream
2 1/2 cups crushed peaches
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar

Add cream and the crushed peaches, which have been mixed with confectioners' sugar. Pour into container of ice cream freezer and freeze, using 3 parts ice to 1 part salt.

Frankfurters de Luxe.

- 12 frankfurters
American cheese (cut in strips 1/2 by 4 inches)
12 strips bacon

Cabbage Salad.

- 2 cups cabbage (shredded fine)
1 stalk celery (cut fine)
3 apples (unpeeled, diced)
2 to 3 green onions (sliced)
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cup Cakes.

- 1/4 cup water
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs (separated)
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt

By Virginia Vale

VIVIEN LEIGH, the English girl whom you'll see in the movie version of "Gone With the Wind," arrived in New York a while ago for a vacation. The vacation had begun a week or so before, but she had spent the first part of it in the country nearby, resting; after 22 weeks of work, with only five free days in that time, she needed a rest!

In many ways she really resembles "Scarlett O'Hara." She has the squarish jaw and pointed chin that you're familiar with if you read the book, and her eyes, though they're hazel, are near enough to being green so that the effect is almost the same.

As for her Southern accent, it should pass muster even with the most critical of Southern audiences.

She'll have to abandon it when she returns to work, for her next assignment in Hollywood is that of the young wife in "Rebecca," another popular novel. She will play opposite Laurence Olivier—it's rumored that their interest in each other is more than mildly sentimental, but in Hollywood that rumor has a way of bobbing up whenever publicity is needed for a new picture.

If you want more data about Miss Leigh for your scrapbook—she was born in India, received her education in Germany, Italy, France and England, and has a five-year-old daughter.

A President's Attendance Caused Flurry of Excitement in Church

One Sunday during the summer of 1917 the President suggested that we drive quietly over to Virginia and attend the service at the Pohick church, which was the place of worship of George Washington. When we arrived, the little edifice was well filled.

"M" for Noon

According to the United States Naval Observatory 12:00 M is almost universally used to designate 12:00 o'clock noon. M in this connection is an abbreviation of the Latin "meridies," meaning mid-day.

"May I tell you a story?" This is the story:

Knowing our plans, Mr. Jervis had reached the church at 9:30, finding it closed and not a soul about. At the nearest house he inquired whether there was to be a service. The man did not know, but said that the preacher was holding Sunday school at his own home and that Jervis might inquire of him.

Jervis showed his badge, adding that the President and Mrs. Wilson were due in an hour. The minister clasped his hands. "Children, Sunday school is dismissed. All of you run home and tell your fathers and mothers the President is coming to church and I want a good congregation to welcome him." Then he turned to Jervis.

"Young man, I must shave. You run over to the church and tell the sexton to ring the bell—vigorously." At the church Jervis found the old sexton opening the door. He gave the minister's message. The sexton's mouth stood open for a minute. Then he said: "Here, you ring that bell. It's just outside in a tree. I got to go home and shave."—Edith Bolling Wilson in The Saturday Evening Post.

Forty Tribes Dance at Gallup Ceremonials

War bonnets, ceremonial paint and feathers signal the approach of the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial to be held at Gallup, New Mexico, August 17-20, inclusive.

GALLUP, N. M.—Indian drums are sounding in the far places of the Southwest. Soon it will be time for the many tribes to gather "at the place by the bridge" (Indian for Gallup, N. M.)

Here each year seven thousand Indians from nearly forty different tribes join forces to produce America's most colorful and spectacular Indian Show, the annual Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial. For four days they will dance, chant, compete in sports and engage in weird pagan rites before capacity audiences made up of their white brothers. The Gallup Ceremonial is the largest and most authentic Indian spectacle of its kind in the country.

by government bureaus, then we may begin to look for a rapid disintegration of the rights and liberties that have made America a land of freedom.

COMING TO LIFE

It seems that state legislatures are coming to life. For several years there has been a growing tendency of the several states to impose import duties on commodities coming in from other states—in violation though it might be of the Federal Constitution. Automobiles crossing state lines were subjected to delays and sometimes to special charges for registration. Trucks were arrested and the operators jailed for failure to have a license in the state in which they were traveling.

Miss Belva Moss is Wed to Dorsey Gentry

Miss Belva Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Moss of Slaton, became the bride of Mr. Dorsey P. Gentry, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Gentry in a ceremony read at ten thirty a.m. in the home of the bride's uncle, J. B. Moss of Clovis, new Mexico. The vows were read before an altar of fern, palms, and tall baskets of gladioli with graduated candelabras on either side. Rev. Claud A. Lorts, minister of the Central Church of Christ officiated. Mrs. Gott Brandon played the traditional wedding march on the violin.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, F. M. Thwing, wore a blue taffeta dress with full skirt trimmed in dubonnet ribbon. She wore an arrangement of blue flowers in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of matching flowers. For something old she wore a gold brooch belonging to her late grandmother. She also wore the traditional something borrowed and something blue.

Miss Geraldine McAlister, the bride's maid of honor, wore a peach marquisette over taffeta with a full ruffled skirt and carried a colonial bouquet. The junior bridesmaids, little Misses Gloria Jeanne Moss, sister of the bride, and Betty Jo Gentry, sister of the groom were dressed in full length dresses of blue net over taffeta and carried miniature colonial bouquets. The bride's mother wore rosewood lace over taffeta and a corsage of violets. Mr. E. J. Henderson of Post served as best man.

Following the services a reception was held in the home of Mr. Ben F. Moss, where the bride cut a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with garlands of roses, after which a buffet breakfast was served from a lace-laid table decorated with green candles and white phlox, where Mesdames F. M. Thwing of Waco, J. B. Moss and J. S. Admison presided.

The bride chose for her going-away costume a black gaberdine suit with white pin stripe tailored from the same material as that of the groom. She wore white accessories. After a short trip to New Orleans, the couple will be at home at 725 South 12th Street. The groom is connected with the Santa Fe at Slaton.

Miss Dorothy Woodward Honored

Monday afternoon Mrs. Douglas Finley was hostess to members of the Ladies Bible Class of the Church of Christ and guests announcing the marriage of Miss Dorothy Woodward to Mr. Jack Skillen of Slaton. Mrs. O. C. Sikes was Co-hostess.

Lovely bouquets of phlox, daisies, roses, and gladioli were placed at vantage points throughout the house. As the honoree entered and was seated Miss La Voyle Richardson presented softly, an accordion solo followed by "It takes a Heap of Livin' to Make A Home," Edgar A. Guest by Mrs. Rafe Richardson. Mrs. A. L. Sears, of Austin, read a one act play "Ashes of Roses" by Robert McKay followed by Miss Helen Belle Pemberton reading "I Wouldn't, Would You."

A miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Woodward by a small bride and groom who pulled a large pink and white wagon laden with gifts. The little bride, Barbara Ann Finley was dressed in blue with a long white veil caught in her hair by a flower clasp. Her groom, Roy Jean Sherrod dressed in long black trousers, white shirt and black bow tie escorted her as she graciously presented her bride's bouquet of rosebuds to the honoree.

Delicious refreshments carrying out the pink and white color scheme were served after the gifts were inspected by the guests. Plate favors were two pink and white hearts pierced by Cupid's arrow and they bore the inscription "Dorothy and Jack, July 15."

REMOVAL OF INFECTIONS

Most of you have conveniently forgotten the dark days of last winter and spring when you promised yourselves that if the sleepless nights of pain, earache, and tonsillitis ever let up, you would surely have the source of the infection removed. But with the warm days of summer and less exposure these troubles have vanished. Your time and attention have been taken up with vacations and picnics and visits with relatives. This is a reminder that winter with its cold and dust and wind and occasional spells of wet weather will be here shortly. Also that school begins early in September. Therefore you should arrange now to have infected tonsils, adenoids and carious teeth removed before the change in weather begins and before school becomes a deterrent. There is sufficient time before the school term begins for you to recover.

New Quail Project At Buffalo Lakes

Austin—Another project designed to increase the Bobwhite and Sealed Quail population of the lower plains of Northwest Texas has been gotten under way by the Texas game, Fish and Oyster Commission through the cooperation of interested sportsmen. A 465-acre tract several miles southwest of Lubbock along Buffalo Lakes is being used by Charles E. Friley, Jr., game manager of region 9, it is announced by Phil Goodrum, director of research and education for the department.

The tract is believed to be very adaptable for the raising of quail it being tableland, ravines, gulleys and steeply-inclined land. A 100-acre lake is centered in the acre.

The area, to be known as the Yellowhouse Canyon Game Refuge, will not need restocking, but Game Manager Friley is confident that the few birds there will be increased many times over.

Ten small spot patches will be planted. Trees and shrubs to provide shelter for the birds will be planted on the tableland and on the steeply-inclined ground.

The area, located on the eastern edge of the south plains, will be used to demonstrate proper quail management practices and their application in pasture lands. Game experts will also be able to determine the relationships of Bobwhite and Sealed Quail when occupying the same range.

It is believed that not only the land in the project, but that surrounding it will be restocked naturally within a few years.

Friley a year ago instituted a similar project on a 2,000-acre tract near Abilene and a survey is being conducted at this time to determine the rate of increase of quail in the area.

After 3 Years - - Tarzan Returns

Bringing with them a "Tarzan, Junior," Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan come Sunday and Monday to the Palace Theatre in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" fourth of the famous jungle adventure romances based on the Edgar Rice Burroughs characters.

In the new story they find a wrecked plane in the jungle, and rear the baby which is the only survivor. The role is played by five-year-old Johnny Sheffield, America's most amazing boy athlete, who played the child in "On Borrowed Time" on the New York stage. A safari reaches the jungle man and his mate, seeking traces of the plane, and the child becomes the center of a plot over a legacy due him. Tarzan refuses to give the boy up and Miss O'Sullivan is forced to trick her mate to send him back to civilization. A native tribe captures the party, Weissmuller rides to the rescue with an army of apes mounted on elephants, and a dramatic twist works out the problem.

Thrills include the routing of a torture orgy of savages by the ape cavalry, amazing underwater swimming and the rescue of the baby from a rhino. Cheeta, the almost human chimpanzee, provides comedy, as does Baby Bee, smallest baby elephant in the United States. Richard Thorpe, who directed "Tarzan Escapes," again directed and the cast includes Ian Hunter, Henry Stephenson, Frieda Inescort, Henry Wilcoxon, Laraine Day and Morton Lowry. Hundreds of "natives" and wild animals of every description are seen in the jungle thriller.

Forty Tribes Dance at Gallup Ceremonials

War bonnets, ceremonial paint and feathers signal the approach of the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial to be held at Gallup, New Mexico, August 17-20, inclusive.

GALLUP, N. M.—Indian drums are sounding in the far places of the Southwest. Soon it will be time for the many tribes to gather "at the place by the bridge" (Indian for Gallup, N. M.).

Here each year seven thousand Indians from nearly forty different tribes join forces to produce America's most colorful and spectacular Indian Show, the annual Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial. For four days they will dance, chant, compete in sports and engage in weird pagan rites before capacity audiences made up of their white brothers.

The Gallup Ceremonial is the largest and most authentic Indian spectacle of its kind in the country. Usually the Ceremonial is held the last part of August. But a change in dates has been announced by Joseph Lieberman, Santa Fe agent and this year's president of the Ceremonial Association. The event will open on August 17th and run through four days with the last performance scheduled for the evening of the 20th. In addition to seven regular shows, the association has also arranged a colorful street parade each day except Sunday.

A special attraction each year is the unusual display of Indian arts and crafts in the Exhibit Hall where thousands of articles are shown. A score of native craftsmen will be at work showing the technique of Indian handicraft.

Yes, the Indian drums are sounding in the far places of the Southwest, and soon the Navajos, Zunis, Hopis, Utes, Apaches, Lagunas, Acomas and a score of other tribesmen and their families will start the trek to "the place by the bridge," Gallup, N. M.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

U. S. Rupture of Japan Treaty Seen as Isolationist Decision In Wake of British Surrender

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

INTERNATIONAL: Focus on Japan

The word "defeat" laid heavily on Neville Chamberlain's brow. In Tokyo, his British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie had signed peace terms with Japan in which Mr. Chamberlain's government promised not to obstruct the Japanese army in its war with China.

AMBASSADOR HORINOUCI

More bad news is coming. Commerce, which protested vehemently, Mr. Chamberlain gave an explanation something like this: The U. S. was to blame, since she refused to raise a finger to protect occidental influence in China against Jap aggression.

But were they? Critics warned Mr. Chamberlain that U. S. isolation might result from this unprecedented surrender. That very thing looked possible a few days later when Cordell Hull flatly terminated the 28-year "treaty of general commerce and friendship" with Japan.

POLITICS: Rift

Interesting to Republican politicians was the announcement that Ohio's Gov. John W. Bricker would seek another term, and not run for the G. O. P. presidential nomination.

COTTON

IN NEW YORK: Since Britain agreed in her Anglo-American barter plan to take additional cotton for whatever subsidy was established, the 1 1/2 cents per pound rate recently announced will give her roughly 100,000 additional bales, or a total of 700,000 bales.

field to plump for Ohio's Sen. Robert A. Taft, who simultaneously notified his supporters to start digging up Taft-pledged delegates.

But Democratic politicians had even more interesting—if more puzzling—news about 1940. Off to Europe (on the same boat with G. O. P. Chairman John D. M. Hamilton) sailed Postmaster General James A. Farley after a mystifying conference at Hyde Park with President Roosevelt.

But everyone knew the subject of 1940's presidential election had been broached, most observers thought Jim Farley had pressed his boss for an announcement regarding his third-term candidacy, and a few thought there was a definite rift between the two men which will not break into headlines until October or later.

ENGLAND: Irish Wit

Commuters at London's King's Cross and Victoria stations shuddered as bombs exploded. Forty were hurt, one killed. At Liverpool the Mount Pleasant post office and a wooden bridge were blown up.

MEDICINE: Victory

Last summer Trust Buster Thurman Arnold obtained indictments against the American Medical Association, three other lesser medical groups and 21 physicians on the ground that they had conspired to restrain trade under the Sherman anti-trust act.

Best guesses last summer held the indictments were a weapon over A. M. A.'s head to force modification

A. M. A.'S FISHBEIN

No program, no need of it. of its Gibraltar-like stand against socialized medicine. A few weeks later A. M. A.'s board of governors actually did modify this stand and observers thought the case would be dropped.

Late July found A. M. A. scoring a victory. At Washington's District of Columbia federal court, Justice James M. Proctor dismissed the proceedings on ground that the practice of medicine is a profession, not a trade, therefore does not fall under the Sherman act.

While Wendell Berge, Mr. Arnold's assistant, told reporters that a government appeal "seems to me a foregone conclusion," A. M. A.'s Journal editor smiled over his victory at headquarters in Chicago. Said he, expansively: The A. M. A.'s principles and policies neither forbid nor ever have contemplated "any opposition to a well-considered expanded program of medical service, when the need can be established." Thus far, evidently, A. M. A. thinks the U. S. has found neither a fit program nor sufficient need for it.

Bruckart's Washington Digest

Shaping of National Policies Influenced by Work of Congress

Party Defections, Defeats and Victories of President Have Important Place in Picture; Growing Split In Democratic Party Blamed on Roosevelt.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—When one examines political situations and maneuvers, there is nearly always a tendency to overestimate the importance of the current activity. That is to say, an action or a policy just completed is generally likely to be given an appraisal that exaggerates its significance.

For these reasons, there seems to be need for a review of the first session of the seventy-sixth congress. The things that have happened, the party defections and party realignments, temporary defeats for the President and balancing victories for him and his political philosophy, all should be analyzed.

Most every one has been aware, since 1936, that a split in Democratic party strength has been growing. Mr. Roosevelt, himself, led the way and was perhaps the main cause of the present wide breach.

Old-Line Democrats Succeed In Building 1940 Platform There has been much written and spoken about maneuvers underneath, and what the results of these maneuvers are.

Perhaps, the statement of Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania evaluates the circumstance better than I can do. Guffey, New Dealer, closer associate of the President than Mr. Roosevelt sometimes desired, asserted in a recent radio address that Mr. Roosevelt "has had no term in the White House at all, for his work was destroyed by the Supreme court in the first term and was wrecked by Tories in the second years."

When one places the seething mass of legislation, bureaucracy and propaganda under a microscope, Mr. Guffey undoubtedly is correct—if the view is from the New Deal angle, alone. The wild reforms proposed by the brain trust of the first term were knocked down by the Supreme court.

Congress Takes Back Power Delegated to Mr. Roosevelt It becomes less difficult, therefore, to sit back now and use hindsight. We see, practically from the time of the "purge," how congress began to take back powers it delegated to Mr. Roosevelt in the hectic days of 1933 and 1934.

Horse Sense Ulysses, famed Grecian warrior in the battle with the Trojans, at first didn't want to go to war, according to legend.

be just as free to take away from the President as it was to give powers to him before the party breach. In between the extremes just mentioned, and particularly within the current session of congress, there have been unmistakable signs of congressional domination.

To elaborate on the generalities which have been stated above, I may cite such things as the house determination to continue the WPA investigation—something New Dealers did not want. Additional funds were voted for continuation of the investigation of Un-American activities, headed by Representative Dies of Texas—a program openly attacked by the New Dealers.

Many Things That Annoyed New Deal Faction of Party

Reduction of the WPA fund total early in the spring, while small, was just another annoying mosquito bite on the New Dealers' legs.

Changes that were made in the social security laws were never acceptable to the inner circle of New Dealers who constitute the President's principal advisors. But, again, congress showed its teeth in only a snarl.

President Gets Plain Mad The Way Things Are Going It might be proper at this time to call attention to another phase of the situation here, although it can hardly be said to be a part of the circumstance that I have been discussing.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF

"Another Molly Pitcher"

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

Today's soul-stirring tale of a brave little mother who was deathly afraid of guns, but afraid of nothing at all when corporation hirelings tried to grab a piece of her home, is the Battle of Monmouth all over again.

You remember, or do you, how in that important engagement at Freehold, N. J., away back on June 28, 1778, Molly Pitcher took the place of her husband, John C. Hays, an artilleryman, after he was wounded, and served his gun, thus preventing its capture by the British.

It is mighty comforting, I want to tell you, to know there are Molly Pitchers in every generation, stepping forward fearlessly to take the places of their men when necessary. Just such a woman is today's distinguished adventurer.

Not long after a railroad came through the village of Lemont, where the Doolins had their home, there were a number of accidents on a sharp curve close to the Doolin property.

Actions of Company Held Illegal by Attorney.

Mr. Sullivan told him the company had no right to put its line on Doolin property without permission.

Her finger was on the trigger and she was all set to pull it.

the power wire, the only thing Doolin could do would be to go to court. John Doolin didn't have any money to pay for long years of litigation so he beat it for home, resolved to keep the company off his premises.

There, sticking up in the lawn, was a nice new pole that had been put up while he was in the city.

A few days later, on a bright June morning in 1903, a policeman appeared with a warrant charging John Doolin with destroying public property.

With her children clinging to her and crying again, she opened the window shutters, and rested the ancient fowling piece on the sill. Then, in a cold fury, she called down to the working men:

Foreman Orders Men to Take Gun From Her. Then one bully, who appeared to be the foreman, ordered: "Come on, guys, let's go up and take it away from her."

And boys and girls, Mrs. Doolin meant exactly what she said. She was a determined mother, protecting her home and babies in the absence of her husband.

With that they picked up their tools and went to town. Mrs. Doolin had won her battle, but would the men be back tomorrow? Would the company have her arrested for threatening its workmen?

Well, sir, when those men got the low down on the proposition they took off their hats and cheered. "You win, lady, you're a game guy," they told her.

Well, there was one thing about the old-fashioned corporation, it always knew when it was licked. The very next morning the worries of the Doolin family were over.

Well, there was one thing about the old-fashioned corporation, it always knew when it was licked. The very next morning the worries of the Doolin family were over. Right after breakfast two suave lawyers called to say how sorry they were it had happened.

Design Luncheon Mat And Napkin Yourself

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

The luncheon mat and napkin shown here offer a suggestion for a way to use your cut-out designs for simple but effective applique work.

The long sides of the mats are hemmed and the ends faced with one-inch bands of green, as at A. The napkins are also hemmed on two sides and faced with green bands on the other two. The stem for the bright red cherry follows a circular line embroidered in green outline stitch. The leaf is of the green material.

Experiment with cutting the cherry and leaf in paper. When you have cut a design that pleases you, make a pattern in lightweight cardboard. Cut the fabric a little larger than the pattern, clip the edge as at B; then press it over the pattern with a warm iron as at C to make a firm crease.

NOTE: Readers who have not secured their copies of my two books should send in their orders at once. Your choice of the CRAZYPATCH QUILT leaflet showing 36 authentic stitches; or the RAG RUG LEAFLET will be included FREE with orders for both books, for the present.

Oil Up!—Don't forget to oil your vacuum cleaner and electric washer. Oiling keeps them in good condition, and they wear longer.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafield Simms, wealthy New Yorker. However, she still mused over it when she met Evans Follette, a young neighbor, whom the war had left completely discouraged and dependent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work in Washington, offered assistance to a tall, lovely girl in distress. Later he found a bag she had left in the car, containing a diamond ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, and they called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity. He told them Edith's story. Because her uncle desired it, Edith Towne had accepted Delafield Simms, whom she liked but did not love. She disappeared immediately after the wedding was to have taken place. The next day Jane received a basket of fruit from Towne, and a note asking if he might call again. Mrs. Follette, widowed mother of Evans, was a woman of indomitable courage. Impoverished, she nevertheless managed to keep Evans and herself in comparative comfort by running a dairy farm. Evans, mentally depressed and disillusioned, had little self-reliance and looked to his mother and Jane for guidance. Edith Towne phones Baldy in answer to an ad. She asked him to bring her pocketbook. Jane calls on Frederick Towne in his elaborate office.

Jane bought modestly and Briggs carried her parcels. He even made a suggestion as to the cut of the steak. His father, it seemed, had been a butcher.

They drove back then for Frederick. Briggs went up for him, and returned to say that Mr. Towne would be down in a moment.

Frederick was, as a matter of fact, finishing a letter to Delafield Simms:

"I am assuming that you will get your mail at the Poinciana, but I shall also send a copy to your New York office. Edith has asked me to return the ring to you. I shall hold it until I learn where it may be delivered into your hands.

"As for myself, I can only say this—that my first impulse was to kill you. But perhaps I am too civilized to believe that your death would make things better. You must understand, of course, that you've put yourself beyond the pale of decent people."

Lucy's pencil wavered—a flush stained her throat and cheeks—then she wrote steadily, as Frederick's voice continued:

"You will find yourself black-balled by several of the clubs. Whatever your motive, the world sees no excuse."

He stopped. "Will you read that over again, Miss Logan?"

So Lucy read it—still with that hot flush on her cheeks, and when she had finished Frederick said, "You can lock the ring in the safe until I give you further instructions."

A clerk came in to say that the car was waiting, and presently Frederick Towne went away and Lucy was left alone in the great room, which was not to her a forest of adventure, as it had seemed to Jane, but a great prison where she tugged at her chains.

She thought of Delafield Simms sailing fast to southern waters. Of those purple seas—the blazing stars in the splendid nights. Delafield had told her of them. They had often talked together.

She turned the ring around on her finger, studying the carved figure. The woman with the butterfly wings was exquisite—but she did not know her name. She slipped the ring on the third finger of her left hand. Its diamonds blazed.

She locked it presently in the safe—then came back and read the letter which Towne had signed. She sealed it and stamped the envelope. Then she wrote a letter of her own. She made a little ring of her hair, and fastened it to the page. Beneath it she wrote, "Lucy to Del—forever." She kissed the words, held the crackling sheet against her heart. Her eyes were shining. The great room was no longer a prison. She saw beyond captivity to the open sea.

Mrs. Allison and the three old ladies with whom Jane was to drink tea, were neighbors. Mrs. Allison lived alone, and the other three lived in the homes of their several sons and daughters. They played cards every Friday afternoon, and Jane always came over when Mrs. Allison entertained and helped her with the refreshments. They were very simple and pleasant old ladies with a nice sense of their own dignity.

At any rate, they had Jane. Some of the other young people scorned these elderly tea-parties, and if they came, were apt to show it in their manner. But Jane was never scornful. She always had the time of her life, and the old ladies felt particularly joyous and juvenile when she was one of them.

But this afternoon Jane was late. Tea was always served promptly at four. And it happened that there were popovers. So, of course, they couldn't wait.

"I telephoned to Sophy," said Mrs. Allison, "and Jane has gone to town. I suppose something has kept her. Anyhow we'll start in."

So the old ladies ate the popovers and drank hot sweet chocolate, and found them not as delectable as when Jane was there to share them. Things were, indeed, a bit dull, and watched him go down the steps. He waved to her when he reached his car.

"Oh, Evans," she said, "I've had such a day."

"You went into the house together. Jane lighted the lamp. 'Can't you dine with us?'"

"I hoped you might ask me. Mother is staying with a sick friend. If I go home, I shall sup on bread and milk."

"Sophy's chops will be much better." She held her flowers up to him. "Isn't the fragrance heavenly?"

"Towne gave them to you?"

She nodded. "Oh, I've been very grand and gorgeous—lunch at the Chevy Chase club—a long drive afterward—" she broke off. "Evans, you look half-frozen. Sit here by the fire and get warm."

"I met both trains."

"Evans—why will you do such things?"

"I wanted to see you."

"But you can see me any time—"

"I cannot. Not when you are lunching with fashionable gentlemen with gold-lined pocketbooks." He held out his hands to the blaze. "Do you like him?"

"Mr. Towne? Yes, and I like the things he does for me. I had to pinch myself to be sure it was true."

"If that was true?"

"That I was really playing around with the great Frederick Towne."

"You talk as if he were conferring a favor."

She had her coat off now and her hat. She came and sat down in the chair opposite him. "Evans," she said, "you're jealous. She was still vivid with the excitement of the afternoon, lighted up by it, her skin warmed into color by the swift flowing blood beneath.

"Well, I am jealous," he tried to smile at her, then went on with a touch of bitterness. "Do you know what I thought about as I sat watching the lights at Mrs. Allison's? Well, as I came over today I passed a snowy field—and there was a scarecrow in the midst of it, fluttering his rags, a lonely thing, an ugly thing. Well, we're two of a kind, Jane, that scarecrow and I."

Her shocked glance stopped him. "Evans, you don't know what you are saying."

He went on recklessly. "Well, after all, Jane, the thing is this. It's a man's looks and his money that count. I'm the same man inside of me that I was when I went away. You know that. You might have loved me. The thing that is left you don't love. Yet I am the same man—"

As he flung the words at her, her eyes met his steadily. "No," she said, "you are not the same man."

"Why not?"

"The man of yesterday did not think—dark thoughts—"

The light had gone out of her as if he had blown it with a breath. "Jane," he said, unsteadily. "I am sorry—"

She melted at once and began to scold him, almost with tenderness. "What made you look at the scarecrow? Why didn't you turn your back on him, or if you had to look, why didn't you wave and say, 'Cheer up, old chap, summer's coming, and you'll be on the job again?' To me there's something debonair in a scarecrow in summer—he dances in the breeze and seems to fling defiance to the crows."

He fell in with her mood. "But his defiance is all bluff."

"How do you know? If he keeps away a crow, and adds an ear of corn to a farmer's store—hasn't he fulfilled his destiny?"

"Oh, if you want to put it that way. I suppose you are hinting that I can keep away a crow or two—"

"I'm not hinting, I am telling it straight out."

They heard Baldy's step in the hall. Jane, rising, gave Evans' head a pat as she passed him. "You are thinking about yourself too much, old dear; stop it."

Baldy, ramping in, demanded a detailed account of Jane's adventure.

"And I took Briggs to market," she told him gleefully, midway of her recital; "you should have seen him. He carried my parcels—and offered advice—"

Baldy had no ears for Briggs' attractions. "Did you get the things Miss Towne wanted?"

"We did. We went to the house and I waited in the car while Mr. Towne had the bags packed. He wanted me to go in but I wouldn't. We brought her bags out with us."

"Who's we?"

"Mr. Towne and I, myself," she added the spectacular details.

"Do you mean that you've been playing around with him all day?"

"Not all day, Baldy. Part of it."

"I'm not sure that I like it."

"Why not?"

"A man like that. He might fill your head with ideas."

CHAPTER VI

Baldy Barnes faring forth to find Edith Towne on Sunday morning was a figure as old as the ages—youth in quest of romance.

It was very cold and the clouds were heavy with wind. But neither cold nor clouds could damp his ardor—at his journey's end was a lady with eyes of burning blue.

People were going to church as he came into the city and bells were ringing, but presently he rode again in country silences. He crossed the long bridge into Virginia and followed the road to the south.

It was early and he met few cars. Yet had the way been packed with motors, he would have still been alone in that world of imagination where he saw Edith Towne and that first wonderful moment of meeting.

So he entered Alexandria, passing through the narrow streets that speak so eloquently of history. Beyond the town was another stretch of road parallel to the broad stream, and at last an ancient roadside inn, of red brick, with a garden at the back, barren now, but in summer a tangle of bloom, with an expanse of reeds and water plants, extending out into the river, and a low spidery boat-landing, which showed black at this season above the ice.

For years the old inn had been deserted, until motor cars had brought back its vanished glories. Once more its wide doors were open. There was nothing pretentious about it. But Baldy knew its reputation for genuine hospitality.

He wondered how Edith had kept herself hidden in such a place. It was amazing that no one had discovered her. That some hint of her presence had not been given to the newspapers.

He found her in a quaint sitting-room upstairs. "I think," she said to him, as he came in, "that you are very good-natured to take all this trouble for me—"

"It isn't any trouble." His assurance was gone. With her hat off she was doubly wonderful. He felt his youth and inexperience, yet words came to him, "And I didn't do it for you, I did it for myself."

She laughed. "Do you always say such nice things?"

"I shall always say them to you. And you mustn't mind. Really," Jane would have recognized returning confidence in that cock of the head. "I'm just a page—twanging a lyre."

Dust a Constant Enemy Throughout the Home

In the home, dust is misplaced dirt. Its proper habitat may be the broad acres of our farm land, or, resolved into its components, their place may be the seashore, the coal mine and a dozen or more organic sources. Singly, all these range from the harmless to the downright harmful, points out a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Merged as dust, and within the four walls of our homes, however, it should be attacked wherever and whenever it is encountered.

Dust is our constant and ubiquitous enemy, and the worst of it is that it is present in so many places of which we are not readily aware.

When soot filters in around the edges of a loosely adjusted window and settles on the sill, any careful homemaker is quick to remove it, but how many women stop to reflect that not all such soot remains on the sill? Some surely sifts past the sill, drops onto the floor, and is not nearly so likely to get equally quick and thorough attention.

The same is true of all the finer dust that continually is sifting in through loose openings, or is being carried in through doorways, or comes into the house from faulty heating equipment. Furthermore, it settles everywhere on the tops of window and door frames and on ceilings as well as on mantels, furniture and the floors. But this, of course, is not nearly so apparent to the homemaker.

Suppose all the furnishings, upholstery and floor coverings of a room were made in pure white! It would take less than a day to convince even the most negligent housewife that there is constant need for the consistent use of her vacuum cleaner.

Everyone knows, for instance, how soon white clothing soils, yet dust and soot lodge just as consistently on all the exposed surfaces in the home. It is simply that they are not nearly so evident, which makes us forget the constant need for using our dependable family friend, the vacuum cleaner.

Nelson's Prayer Before Battle Nelson's prayer before the battle of Trafalgar found in his diary October 21, 1805, was: "May the great God whom I worship grant to my country and for the benefit of Europe in general a great and glorious victory, and may no misconduct in any one tarnish it, and may humanity after the victory be the predominant feature in the British fleet."

FARM TOPICS

FARMER IMPORTANT IN GAME PROGRAM

Aid Sportsmen With Wild Life Restoration Plan.

By JAY N. DARLING
The key figure in any program of wildlife restoration in the United States is the farmer.

The farmer controls that portion of the outdoors sought by the great majority of small-game hunters of the United States. Without a mutually beneficial relationship between farmer and sportsman, all conservation endeavor devoted to the increase of upland game falls of its prime object—the guarantee of sport to the general public.

It is true that the farmer has been the victim of the hoodlum type of hunter, and it is up to organized sportsmen to combat the evil of trespass on cultivated lands.

Excessive clearing and grazing have, at times, worked to the injury of the farmer through cutting down the supply of helpful wildlife. The drainage shark has promoted schemes that have impoverished the soil, lowered the water table and wrecked the hopes of many a settler as well as destroying vast sources of wealth in fur, fish and wild fowl.

Man's ceaseless war against insect pests would be lost were it not for the help given by birds. Rodent pests are kept down by birds of prey. In certain areas the skunk, a heavy insect feeder and one of the few enemies of burrowing grubs, is highly important to agriculture. Other mammals—at times listed as "vermin"—may be vastly more helpful than harmful to the farmers.

The assembling of source-material for education, in schools and colleges, in the basic principles of conservation is the function of a committee established by the National Wildlife Federation.

Crop Rotation Kills Many Insect Pests

When one sees the annual loss to crops and property caused by insects, he is inclined to think that crop pests are getting more numerous and destructive from year to year. It is a fortunate farmer who has not experienced a loss from these six-footed animals. The Hessian fly takes a yearly toll of millions from American farmers. The chinch bug has ravaged our corn and wheat the past 50 years to the extent of several hundred millions of dollars. Figures in this state on codling moth, sugar beet web-worm and grasshoppers would be equally staggering. Moreover, several human diseases are carried only by insects. All can testify that gnats, flies, mosquitoes, etc., are an annoyance.

Where large acreages of one kind of crop are grown, one can naturally look for increased insect injury from year to year unless preventive and remedial measures are taken. The number of species that attack one plant is often large. About 200 attack clover, 200 affect corn, and 400 the apple. The first year the crop is grown, a person may assume that a few injurious insects will find their way into the field and do practically no injury. The insects will hibernate or pass the winter near by, and find conditions unusually favorable for development the next year should the same crop remain on the land. Each succeeding year the injury can be expected to increase.

On the other hand, where crops are changed the insects will emerge from winter quarters and find no food at hand. This will necessitate a search for it and only a few of the insects that successfully pass the winter will find their way into the new field. This is especially true of insects that pass the winter in the larval or worm stage and are not able to travel far. Of course all insects cannot be controlled by crop rotation.

Minerals for Cow

The minerals that are used most by the dairy cow and therefore most likely to be lacking in the ration are calcium, phosphorus, and common salt. Legume hays, when grown on soils not deficient in lime, will usually supply sufficient calcium. An adequate supply of phosphorus can be secured from the grain ration if it contains as much as 30 per cent of feeds rich in this material such as wheat bran or cottonseed meal. The salt should be supplied by adding one pound to each 100 pounds of the grain mixture and also allowing the animal free access to it in the pasture or exercise lot.

Perfect Percheron

Twelve leading live stock judges recently collaborated in setting up the Percheron standard, reported The Country Home Magazine. They agreed on medium size, short legs, thick bodies, heavy bones, short, straight backs, deep ribs, long, level croup, heavy muscles, moderately straight hocks, and reasonably long, sloping pasterns. Such a horse has life, action and alertness, and he can turn around without breaking down a dozen hills of corn.

Streamlined Farming Replaces Straight Rows

Streamlined farming—farming around the slopes on the level instead of up and down the hills is being used more and more by farmers in the Southern Great Plains who are seeking to conserve their soil and moisture and to prevent erosion. Terraces and strip crops (upper left) hold practically all the water on the land where it falls. Where terraces are not necessary, fields are being plowed on the contour (upper right). Furrows on the contour hold water on grass land and are proving highly successful in improving the range (lower right). Some farmers are finding that placing roads, fences and tree sites on the contour fits well into their conservation program (lower left). Contour furrows, winding about pasture slopes like ribbons, are shown in the aerial view in center. All of these practices and many others can be viewed on Soil Conservation Service erosion control demonstration areas.
