Slaton's District 4-A (South Half) champions of last year will be competing in one of the strongest conferences of the school's history this fall, with seven conference and three non-conference games slated.

Of interest to some of the local football fans may be some information about the opposition: the Tigers will meet this season.

The Tigers will open their 1950 season tonight against the Floydada Whirlwinds there. The Whirlwinds, who finished the season last year with seven wins and three losses, are under the leadership of Preston Watson, in his first year at the helm of Floydada.

The main problem confronting Watson this year is the lack of experienced men. Only four lettermen are returning from last year's eleven, and only one of the four was a starter. He is Aubrie Guthrie, 1949 all-district center, who this year will be alternating at the pivot post and in a backfield position. The team is made up mostly of sophomores and juniors.

After Floydada comes Abernathy's Antelopes, had-luck team of 1949 in District 3-A. The game will be played at Abernathy. The Antelopes finished in a tie for the cellar last year, posting one win against seven setbacks in conference play. But three of the defeats were forfeits because they had used an ineligible man at the beginning of the season.

Nine lettermen are returning to Coach Boyce Box's eleven. Heading the list of returnees are Jimmie Miller and John Loper, Scatterback and tackle respectively.

Slaton lost to the Antelopes last year 6-13, on a muddy field.

At Muleshoe, Coach Durwood Green will have a crew of experienced backs and green linemen on his 1950 edition of the Mules. Fourteen lettermen are back, seven of whom will patrol the backfield area. Three of the ball-toting boys are two letter men.

Muleshoe has plenty of material to work with, and as the season goes by they should be harder to beat. The Mules beat Slaton last year 26-0, and finished the season with four wins and five losses.

The Tahoka Bulldogs figure to be considerably stronger this season than in 1949. They have eleven returning lettermen, including seven regulars--yet it must be remembered that they are from a team that scored only 56 points against the opposition's 303 in nine games.

Too, the Lynn County boys will be short of reserve power. About thirty men have taken part in workouts, and four of these are this week sidelined with broken bones. Sparked by Quarterback Lynn Halameck, Tahoka will throw a varied offense at the opposition, mixing variations of the T with double and single maneuvers.

Seagraves Eagles, losers to Slaton last year 19-0, will be built around two returning regulars and eleven regulars from the 1949 squad.

Morton will pattern its attack around an even dozen returning lettermen and could field an entire first string of lettermen if necessary. The Indians forward wall will have two 200 pounders in the starting lineup, but will be weak in weight in nearly all the other positions.

After these games comes the most rugged part of the Tigers' schedule. Littlefield, 1949 Class A state champions, isn't blessed with the wealth of material they had at the start of the season's campaign, but Coach Jay Fikes does have enough material on hand to make it interesting for any Class A crews in this area. This year's starting line will average about 165 pounds--fairly heavy as Class A teams go. Heading the Wildcats will be Gene Renfro, 185 pound full back, who is expected to be one of the regions outstanding power runners.

Levelland's Lobos loom as a potential powerhouse in District 4-A football this year. With five linemen and six backfield men coming back from the 1949 squad, prospects of Coach Truett Rattan's crew look a little brighter now than at this time last year.

The Lobos are expected to use a devastating aerial attack, with Don Wise and Zack Reid teaming up in the passing department.

At Post, the Antelopes are reportedly fielding one of the smallest teams in this district. Three starting linemen weigh under 140 pounds, and the forward line averages out at about 150 pounds.

The heaviest member of the squad is 175 pound Fred Long, a freshman who will probably be playing second fiddle for part of the season.

Competing in Class A football circles for the first time since 1941, the Brownfield Cubs will be contending for top honors this season. With the exception of nine lettermen, most of the boys there are up from Junior high school ranks.

The Cubs will afford plenty of competition for the other six teams in the district, as well as for three non-conference opponents.

The Tigers have more boys, more experience, good attitudes. They will have to hustle and drive and never give up to get through such a schedule as they have this year. With a few breaks and a lot of hard work they can make it.

Some question has been raised about the advantages of artificial lighting at night in the hog houses. According to two different experiment stations, work on the subject shows no advantage for lights in the fattening house. Observations were that hogs consume considerable feed at night without any lights.

THE NOSE ON JOSE—Putting Jimmy Durante to shame, Jose Ferrer points to the nose he wears as "Cyrano De Bergerac," his new movie. Ferrer, who played the role on the Broadway stage, is now speaking throughout the country on the classic play and the theater in general.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Davis and Mr. Davis' mother, Mrs. L. A. Engle of Des Moines, Iowa, have returned from Dalhart, Texas where they visited over the week end with relatives and acquaintances.

Mr. S. H. Arrants, from Calhoun, Tennessee, will be visiting for two weeks in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Arrants.

Small Roasts
Small roasts weighing less than two pounds and cut less than two inches thick are not practical. A very thin oven roast has too much exposed surface.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Forrester and son of Dallas, visited Mrs. Chris Marrs over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Z. Ball and daughter, Shirley, went to Tahoka on Sunday for the wedding of John Huckabay.

Mr. and Mrs. Urel Howerton of Sedalia, Mo., and Mr. Ralph Abbott of Houston, visited Mrs. S. A. Abbott.

Hog Gains
Hogs which were confined in a small area consumed more feed and made more gains than hogs which were induced to take daily exercise. There was little difference in economy of gains between the two groups. On the other hand the hogs with exercise had fatter carcasses and thinner back fat.

FAIREY TALES

By Norma Fairey

Well, the youngsters are back in school, so there is more time now for housewives to do the things they have been planning all summer.

There isn't any one plan that can be followed in every case, but the essentials are the same. I knew one woman who planned her spring and fall house-cleaning to take a week.

It seems that there is a gadget for just about everything these days. One of the latest that I have heard about is a magnetic knife holder.

We all like to see previews of things to come, and we get all excited over the new things we will be having soon, but it is really the larger cities that get these new items.

It is just like the children's radio programs. The announcer gets the child all excited about some new object, and he begs his mother to get him the required box tops and quarter.

GUT OF GODFREY'S TEABAG

Everybody's back from vacation so exhausted they have to get away and take a rest.

I sure love to get out in the country—see the grass, the trees, watch the animals—the chickens—the cows. Incidentally, speaking of cows—I passed one on a farm yesterday and there she was standing looking up at the clouds—watching the rain maker trying to get rain out of them. She watched this process for a little while and then she turned to another cow and said: "You know, I know just how that cloud feels. She just ain't got it to give!"

Boy, oh boy! Don't talk to me about insurance. I've certainly got a bunch of it—all kinds too. Some day I'll have to get sick and see if it works!

That Archie Bleyer certainly has a fine orchestra and the men are so alert. For three years now they have been playing the same theme song—and tonight for the first time not one man had to look at the music.

There was quite a to-do the other day in London. The King got together several of his worthy subjects and bestowed upon them the Order of the Garter. Snappy affair, eh what?

Contending Earnestly for the Faith

Now some one has said, "this baptism which is unto the remission of sins is not a baptism in water but a baptism in the Holy Spirit." Well, how does the Bible speak on this subject? The baptism which is unto the remission of sins is a command (Acts 2:38). But no body was ever commanded by the word of God to be baptized in the Holy Spirit.

The Bible mentions the Holy Spirit baptism only as a promise, and that to a limited number (Acts 1:5). Baptism in water is the only baptism unto the remission of sins commanded by God's word (Acts 10:47, 48; 22:16). Hence, this baptism in water must be the baptism every sinner must submit to for salvation. What think ye? Is not your Bible a safe guide? Is it not true? You be the judge.

THE RUSSIANS WORK FOR HAY—A photo released by an official Soviet agency reveals Russian farm workers harvesting hay in the Kherson region with self-propelled mowers. The farmers are members of the Kolkhoz, the common enterprise of collective farms. Their output, buildings and some of their equipment is the common socialist property of the Kolkhoz.

If a person could only stop while he is, at least, not in pain and compare his feelings with the misery of having hay fever he could really enjoy living ever during a sand storm, below zero temperature and when the sun is boiling down and addleing his mind.

Several times I have taken red, green and yellow pills and have had temporary relief, but the pills have such queer effects, I am afraid I am going to float off in the air like a cloud. There is one kind of tablet that really does the job for me, but it made me so woozy that some of my acquaintances have looked at me as if I had been hitting the bottle.

The last time I took one I sold myself a subscription to the Slatonite and put two bucks from my left pistol pocket to my right pistol pocket and even went as far as to consider buying some perfume for myself called "Cave Man" but the effects of the medicine wore off just in time and now I don't smell any better than I ever did and I won't take a tablet until I drip all over the place.

Last week my wife, Miss Norma Fahey and I went to Amarillo over the week end and we took the farm to market road that cuts off eleven miles from here to Plainview. Miss Fahey and my wife kept up such a rapid fire conversation that my wife failed to tell which corners to turn, but we got there all right.

While in Amarillo I climbed all over the new Amarillo News-Globe building and after I got through I felt sure that a mountain goat would have a hard time keeping up with me if I should take the notion to get into a climbing contest.

The big presses are equipped with a drum the same size as a railroad tank car in which a full tank car full of ink is pumped at intervals as required. It is claimed that the plant has a capacity to publish a paper to accommodate a city of 200,000 population, which is what the Avalanche-Journal claims Greater Lubbock is today. How much population Amarillo and Greater Amarillo is I have no idea but both figures are probably immense.

The census counters report Amarillo only a few thousand more than Lubbock, but in actual facts, not counting the Texas Technological students that live in Lubbock, Amarillo appears to be considerably larger than Lubbock.

One thing that I noticed in Amarillo was that the bread was so much better than it is in Lubbock. There is one place in Amarillo where bread that is just like home-made bread is made, and it is said that one has to make reservations to get it or be there early every day before it is all sold out. To me the bread made in Lubbock is lousy.

And another thing that I liked better in Amarillo than in Lubbock was the places to eat. There is a new Cafeteria there where you can get a steak for 90c that is larger and better than the $2.50 kind in Lubbock and for $2.00 Max Arrants could get more than he could possibly eat and when Max Arrants gets full of food then that's a record of some kind.

There's the feeling of fall in the air and it's time to hang out the long handles, to beat the moths out of your five year old overcoat and to tie the holes up that they have left. It is time to wonder what became of the money you had in the bank two months ago and to wonder if your last winter's suit will make it until Christmas when you hope some one will give you a new one but no one ever does.

Lots of folks say that they like fall better than any season of the year but not me. It's the season just before bad colds come, it is just before winter when you cringe every evening before going to bed fearing that a norther is going to come whamming in before morning. Fall is the uncertain time of the year when there is little to look forward to except naked trees, scurrying cats, cold feet, and it is the time when even the few birds we have out in this country, go to moving south.

Personally I'm already wishing next summer would hurry up and come for this one has been a flat failure so far as summer weather goes. Personally I like to get good and hot at regular intervals and I have not reached 80 degrees all summer. Bring on summer 1951, just so it is not equipped with atomic bombs.

As I have always feared the lurid colors for men and some of the shirts the young men are wearing these days would startle a man from Mars, B. G. Guinn at one time promised to lead the parade in the way of fancy shirts but he has lost his nerve or something for I have not seen the murder in the first degree one that he bloomed out with in the spring, for nearly two months. However he started the steam rolling and now the show windows at O. Z. Ball, Anthonys, Payne's and at Clay Oates do not need any light to make them show up at night. The sport shirts supply the illumination and some of the men around town hurt one's eyeballs when they go strolling around in the new sport shirts. It is a good thing that it will soon be too cold for such apparel but I'm badly worried about what will happen next summer.

What do you folks eat at night for what I call supper and nice folks call dinner. What we have at our house could by no means come under such a classification as dinner. In desperation I have been boiling a half a dozen eggs and eating them two at a time each evening until they are gone but I made the mistake and asked the groceryman what eggs were selling at and found that they are over five cents each. That is a lot of money for eggs that make only two bites. One egg would hardly be worth the trouble, guess I'll have to go to eating some of the brown gravel I have been feeding the dog. For a long time I have been feeling sorry for the pooch because he gets such a little variety in his food but after thinking the proposition over I have about come to the conclusion that a dog's life may have some advantages, at least he does not have to worry about grinding out such stuff as this every week.

A REPORT ON A TRIP TO EUROPE

The final chapter in the story of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Seel's trip to Europe.

(PART 3)

While at Cork made a trip to Blarney Castle where the Blarney Stone is located. Only ruins of the castle remain but the grounds and trees surrounding it are lovely. (Did not attempt to kiss the Blarney stone, which is rather inconvenient feat to say the least.)

After stopping a day in Cork, went to Killarney by train. Passed through some of the famous green hills of Ireland and found the trip very enjoyable. Observed numerous fields of turf which is used as a fuel. It looks and burns like coal. It is dug out of the ground, and then comes up again the following year like a perennial crop.

The attraction in the Killarney area lies in the country around it, and there is little to appeal to tourists in the town itself. Tours of the lake country originate in the town and are made mainly by donkey cart. The lake and mountain scenery are beautiful.

The hotel where we stayed is owned and operated by the railway company. It is very nice and by far the best available in that area.

Spent an interesting afternoon strolling through the estate of an Earl. Very lovely grounds, with a view of the lakes and mountains.

People in the Killarney area appeared to be the most backward and old fashioned we encountered anywhere, but they apparently have no desire to modernize themselves and seem to be very happy living as they do.

Weather had been cool in Cork, but in Killarney was almost cold, especially for summer. On the 4th of July, and also other days of our stay here, we sat before a turf and coal fire in the hotel on several occasions, and found it very comfortable.

Our first evening at Killarney we were very surprised on coming out of the movie theatre at about 10:40 p.m., to find that it was still daylight. On making inquiries we learned that it didn't get dark until 11 p.m., and then got light again about 3 a.m., there being about four hours of darkness.

From Killarney went to Dublin by train. Found Dublin a very modern city, especially in comparison with Cork and Killarney.

Southern Ireland has separate currency but it is of the same value as English money. English money is accepted freely in Ireland, but Irish money is not good in England. (Northern Ireland, of course, is a part of the British Empire and uses English money exclusively.)

Prices in Ireland are low, especially for food. Got some fine meals in Killarney for as little as 30 cents each. No food is rationed in Ireland and there was no indication of any shortages.

Took a sightseeing trip of Dublin. Went through Dublin Castle, and the former throne room. We inspected the throne which had been used by kings and queens before Southern Ireland broke away from the British Empire, and one of us sat on it to see how it would feel to be queen for a day. Another feature of our tour at Dublin was the burial vaults under an old church. Here were the remains of bodies which were buried more than 800 years ago, without any embalming or other treatment, but are still in remarkably good state of preservation. Those who desire could shake hands with some of the corpses, so lifelike are some of them. It is claimed that something in the air in that locality has preserved the bodies without any scientific aid.

Just as an indication of some of the variety encountered on a trip of this nature, might mention that in Dublin we went through what is claimed to be the largest brewery in the world. A representative of the brewery explained the different steps in making various kinds of beer, and we observed the machinery and processes used. As a climax samples of the product were served to the visitors. (While doubtless of the very best quality, to one particular sampler at least it was found to be just as bitter and distasteful as the last glass of beer sampled about 25 years ago.)

Went to several theatres in Dublin and found them very good, especially the vaudeville programs. There is one theatre here which puts on exclusive vaudeville shows, in the same style that was so popular in America 30 years ago.

Left Dublin by train for short trip to boat station, and then rode steamship to west coast of England where took train to London. Went to same hotel in London where had stopped on first visit. On Sunday, July 9th, went out to the London Zoo. Chief attraction in the zoo was a polar bear and its cub, some wrestling black bears, a pool of seals, some penguins, a large number of fine birds especially small varieties, in addition to all the other animals found in large zoos.

Regular theatres are not open on Sunday in London but the movies (or cinemas as they call them) are allowed to open at 4 p.m. People here have the habit of taking a Sunday stroll, and both Sundays we were in London there were large groups of people walking in the down town areas, looking in the shop windows and, of course, enjoying tea from time to time in the many nice tea shops throughout the entire country.

London streets are almost overrun with buses. They are double-decked and at times come down the street in droves, each one of course going in a different direction. They move very slowly in the main part of town, but no one seems to be in any hurry anyway. (Subway transportation is available for those who want to get around a little faster.) The people are very patient and line up (or queue up as they call it) for almost everything - to get into theatres or sporting events, in cafeterias and tea rooms, and even for buses on the street. They take all other burdens and inconveniences in the same manner. The average Englishman prides himself on cheerfully taking his full share of any inconvenience or hardship that comes along. This feeling is also shared by the Royal family, who want no special concessions. The present king, for example, would not have to pay taxes on his personal income, but he insists on paying taxes in the same manner as any other subject.

As everyone knows London suffered terrific damage during the war, and many damaged buildings have not been repaired or replaced. The people, however, avoid making a display of the damage or discussing it. In proportion to damage suffered, it does not appear that London has had the help from us in repairing and replacing damaged buildings that Italy has received.

Newsprint is very scarce in England, and conditions in that field appear to have reached the acute stage at the time we were there. The London Times, one of the largest newspapers in the world, had only eight pages in its Sunday edition on July 9th. Daily papers were coming out with only four to six pages.

Wages are low in England, and also in Ireland and other countries in Europe. Noted an item on wages in the London Times which stated that coal miners were the highest paid workers in England, with average wages of $26.00 in American money; and railway workers had just received an arbitration award of fifty cents per week, bringing the lowest paid man in that industry up to about $13.50 per week.

With our stop in London completed morning of July 11th, we took taxi to the railway station and left for Southampton.

Weather in London had been the nicest we encountered anywhere. London is famous for its fog, but we saw none of it at all, and had no rain of any consequence during the six and 1/2 days we spent there. We seemed to have struck an unusually nice stretch of weather; and, while Londoners were talking about the "heavily heat" we found the weather perfectly comfortable, what we would call cool for the summer in West Texas.

At Southampton had no delay in getting by the English Customs officials and got aboard the Caronia very quickly. The Caronia is a very nice looking ship. Is considerably smaller than the Queen Mary but is newer (only about two years old) and has better and nicer accommodations for the passengers while the food is just as good - it couldn't be nicer in either case.

Departed from Southampton about 1 p.m. July 11th. Dropped down to Le Harve, France, to pick up additional passengers, and sailed from there about 11 p.m. Program and activities on the Caronia similar to those followed on the Queen Mary except that, after the first night, clocks were set back one hour each night instead of being moved ahead as occurred on the eastbound trip. (In Europe the time was seven hours ahead of Slaton time.)

Weather was nice and the ship rode very smoothly. Had strong west winds two days, and dense fog for part of two days. At one time visibility was limited to about sixty feet from side or end of the ship.

An added feature on our return trip was a tour through the ship's kitchen; also a view of the engine room and some of the other service facilities and quarters for crew members. The crew members on this ship and also the Queen Mary were the nicest bunch of service people ever seen anywhere.

In going through the kitchen a particular delay was observed among the food being assembled for dinner. This is usually not served to guests, but when some one indicated that it was a favorite dish of hers, our waiter, who was conducting us through the kitchen, explained that the item is known as a "Parson's nose" and is always held in the kitchen for serving to members of the crew, but that he would be glad to serve an order for dinner if desired. This offer was quickly accepted, so for dinner that evening one member of the party had two Parson's noses. (Interpretation of a Parson's nose will be furnished on personal request.)

The ship got into New York harbor about 11:30 p.m. July 17th, but all passengers stayed on board overnight. Next morning, after getting off the boat and onto the pier, had considerable delay in waiting for a Customs Inspector to be assigned to us to check our luggage. We noticed some people having to open up all their belongings, cutting bands on trunks and tearing open various boxes and packages, and were dreading the trouble we would have to go through when our turn came. However, when we got an inspector we had no trouble at all, and got released in about three minutes. If inspectors are satisfied that your declaration of goods purchased abroad is correct and that you are not trying to slip anything by them, there is no trouble at all, but if they think anyone is trying to evade paying any duty they make a very close check and consume a great deal of time. The inspectors pride themselves on being able to judge the people they are dealing with. The man assigned to us told us immediately he could see we were all right, and added that if cannot judge the people he is handling he might as well quit his job. (We must have honest faces.)

While we had a very enjoyable time, we had successfully completed our trip as planned, and were therefore glad to be back in the United States. After staying in New York a while, and making another stop enroute home, we got back to Slaton on July 26th, almost two and a half months after starting out on this never to be forgotten trip.

Peanut Butter

To produce peanut butter, roasted peanuts are ground in continuous mills until the proper consistency is achieved. Ordinarily only salt is added to the butter. The fresh peanut butter is then packaged without further treatment.

LARGE size used office desk - Used 9 column R. C. Allen electric adding machine, $185.00. - Good as new at Slatonite. (f)

Asbestos was first discovered more than 2,000 years ago in the Italian Alps. Its elastic fibers were woven into burial wraps for Roman emperors.

Milk Production

High levels of milk can be produced with grain mixtures containing as little as 2 per cent of fat and cows will probably not suffer ill health on these low fat mixtures.

It is good practice to aspersion feed on clean egg flats around and under the hover so that baby chicks start in on the feed instead of the smaller chunks of litter. Many poultrymen feed the chicks for two or three days on grains fairly well ground and screened. Such "chick grain" seems to prevent the "pasting up" of the vent which often occurs in chicks started on mash alone.

Squint's Drumming For Fair Play!

Squint Miller's mighty proud of the lot he owns that fronts on River Road—one of the prettiest spots around here.

He's been in a stew about it lately, though. Seems that trash-dumpers take one look at his property, stop their car or truck, and out goes a load of rubbish, spilling all over his place and the roadside, too. Wouldn't that make you mad?

Last night Squint dropped by the house. Over a friendly glass of beer, he tells me what he's done.

I put a couple of empty oil drums out there," he says, "with a big sign reading: 'If you must dump trash—use these—I like to keep my property clean!'"

From where I sit, Squint's sign should make any would-be roadside trash-dumpers pretty darned ashamed of themselves. Now and then some folks just have to be reminded that they ought to have as much regard for their neighbors' rights as they do for their own.

Left Dublin by train for short trip to boat station, and then rode steamship to west coast of England where took train to London. Went to same hotel in London where had stopped on first visit. On Sunday, July 9th, went out to the London Zoo. Chief attraction in the zoo was a polar bear and its cub, some wrestling black bears, a pool of seals, some penguins, a large number of fine birds especially small varieties, in addition to all the other animals found in large zoos.

Regular theatres are not open on Sunday in London but the movies (or cinemas as they call them) are allowed to open at 4 p.m. People here have the habit of taking a Sunday stroll, and both Sundays we were in London there were large groups of people walking in the down town areas, looking in the shop windows and, of course, enjoying tea from time to time in the many nice tea shops throughout the entire country.

London streets are almost overrun with buses. They are double-decked and at times come down the street in droves, each one of course going in a different direction. They move very slowly in the main part of town, but no one seems to be in any hurry anyway. (Subway transportation is available for those who want to get around a little faster.) The people are very patient and line up (or queue up as they call it) for almost everything - to get

West Texas Roundup

Highways in two West Texas Counties were among 18 projects totaling $1,536,900 authorized Wednesday by the State Highway Commission in Austin.

Andrews and Ward Counties stand to benefit some $186,000 in improvements on approximately five miles of roadway.

The three-man state Board of Water Engineers will conduct a 21-county hearing in Plainview August 29 prior to designating boundaries of one or more underground water reservoirs for the purpose of creating underground water conservation districts.

The High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association this week reminded irrigation farmers that their testimony at the hearing will have a direct bearing on boundaries designated.

The streets of Anton were jammed full of people the last two Saturday nights for the Free Show put on at the expense of local business firms. The pictures are shown under the auspices of Ed Hart until he gets the LaHarte Theatre remodeled, which will be about September 1. There will be a free show each Saturday night until the regular theatre is back in operation.

At a special meeting of the school board held last Thursday night, the superintendent was directed to announce the opening of school on Monday, September 11. This is one week later than the usual opening date, which delay is occasioned by the amount of repair work still unfinished in the grade school building, where considerable painting and floor repair work has been in progress for several weeks.

The telephone company has drilled a water well on the rear of the lot, which will be used to ground the exchange system.

This news of expansion plans for the telephone company and movement toward installation of the dial system to replace the oft-cursed hand-crank system comes as welcome news to local telephone subscribers.

The telephone company when the firm made application for rate increases to the City Commission in December.

The Brady High School Band will close its camp shortly after noon today. The group has been holding its second annual summer camp on the San Saba River near Lost Creek since Sunday afternoon. Members of the organization have been observing a rather strenuous schedule which includes two hours of marching in the early morning and four hours of band rehearsal during the day.

Two apparent reasons caused the market for Deaf Smith County cantaloupe to drop recently, say local observers. They figure oversupply was the chief reason for the drop to $3 a crate and too the appearance was hurt by recent heavy rains.

But even with all of this Deaf Smith County farmers stand in a good way to gross well over $300,000 from the cantaloupe crop.

A fogging machine has been ordered for Canyon and should be delivered during the coming two weeks.

If you or someone in your family plays the piano, you will want to see our large stock of sheet music. We carry a complete line of classical, popular, and semi-classical selections. We also carry sheet music and band books for band students.

And we have the teaching needs you have been looking for. Staff books, reeds, brass cloths, and conducting batons are only a few of the music accessories which can be found at Adair Music Co.

For the teenagers, who just never seem to get enough of those "Hit Parade" songs, Adair has an endless stock of records, including all the popular hit tunes of today and yesterday.

For any type of musical need, come to Adair Music Co. in Lubbock and pick from the best. Our address is 1207-11 Main St., right in the heart of town. We accept mail orders if you cannot come to Lubbock.

Rain is the greatest need of county farmers now, L. C. Herron, farm agent said, with no let-up in the leaf and bollworm infestations.

"A continuous leafworm crop is still infesting the cotton," Herron said. "Don't just watch for the big worms," he warned farmers, "but check the plants for small worms, newly-hatched as well."

Construction on the $15,000 Lamb county Youth center in the city park will come to a temporary halt in a few days for lack of funds, Mancil Hall, president of Lamb County Youth, Inc., said Wednesday.

With installation of doors when they arrive within a few days, the outside of the building will be completed and construction activities will be shut down until additional funds are forthcoming, Hall said. All of the interior work yet remains to be done.

Slaton Is Marching Forward

It would seem that all of the new homes that have been built in Slaton within the past two years would have relieved the housing situation by now, but such is not the case, for apartments and rent houses are about as hard to find as they were during the war.

While the business section has greatly improved Slaton within the past five years it is often the comment of visitors to Slaton that our business section is not as large as the business sections of most towns with even less population than Slaton.

That this is an advantage to some extent, cannot be denied for it is much healthier for the business firms in a town to be prosperous and in a position to carry full stocks than it is for every line of business to be so crowded that none of the men operating them can prosper.

Of course when there are not enough stores doing business in a town then those offering merchandise for sale become independent, both as to prices and quality and either do not give their customers the proper treatment or run the business off to some other town.

People who have not visited in Slaton in years, but who have made recent visits here are all very complimentary about the improvements that have been made such as the construction of new business buildings and the remodeling of many of the old buildings, but a lot of paint could still be used in Slaton for making some of the business buildings better looking. Not only are many of the buildings in need of paint, but there are many old signs that need repairing or to be torn down or blotted out.

It is most likely that Slaton will continue to grow, and in addition to instilling in the citizens and into the minds of those who are in business in Slaton that appearances count a great deal in the progress of the community it should be borne in mind that the water problem for the town should be given serious consideration.

It would be easy to leave the solution to the Canadian dam project that promises to solve the water situation for all West Texas, but would it not be a much safer and cheaper solution to endeavor to find a source of water for Slaton that would not require the expense of piping water over one hundred and forty miles. Perhaps it can be done for only a few dollars by dumping the cost on the Government but up to now old Santa Claus has not made many visits to this area and it is not likely he is going to bring us water by the Canadian River or by any other dry river in West Texas.

Its Time To Watch Where You're Going

That many of the people of Slaton are concerned over traffic conditions is shown by the fact that a number of suggestions that have been made by serious minded citizens that attention should be called to the fact that racing and dangerous games are being practiced more and more by young people who enjoy such dangerous pastimes.

There are a number of places about town that have become more dangerous than ever where shrubs are now obstructing the view of motorists and where new buildings have been built that do not allow an open view as before they were constructed. While no serious mishaps have come to pass at the corner of Lynn and 10th Street it is now one of the most dangerous spots in town and all of the corners on West Division are danger places that invite disaster.

Some folks suggest that more stop signs be placed at the most dangerous places, but unless the regulations concerning them could be enforced it might be that they would be more harmful than they would do good.

With the opening of school and with the increase in farm traffic and cotton hauling that will come with harvest time the dangers on West Division Street will increase and it is most imperative that motorists keep alert at all times.

The fact that Slaton has a low accident rate is encouraging and it points to the correctness of traffic specialists who say that too many stop lights and rules tend to increase the traffic dangers instead of to slow them down.

It was pointed out in a recent issue of the Reader's Digest that there are more accidents at intersections where light signals are placed than there are at busy corners where no light signals are. This is believed true because pedestrians and motorists alike depend more upon the lights than they do upon watching what they are doing and a lot of the absent minded folks get picked off.

That too much regulations might bring on many difficulties in Slaton should be considered and it is probable that if motorists could be impressed that continual caution is better than any signal light or stop signal then our low accident rate could be maintained.

The big thing at present is that one should bear in mind at all times that moderate speed and continual safety rules are the best regardless of whether these are laws or not.

The Time May Be Getting Short

That many people in this area are disturbed by the fact that the efforts to prepare for war are not enough is evidenced by the recent resolution passed by the Slaton Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars published in last week's Slatonite.

Individually most of us can do little, but if business men go on as usual and our men who are on the fighting front not get the materials they need, or if the war should suddenly expand and our forces are not ready, none of us want the responsibility of being the users of refrigerators, automobiles, typewriters and filing cabinets that should have been made into gas tanks and airplanes.

It would be far better to make the war equipment, even if it should never be needed than to need it and not have even if our luxury items are taken completely off the market.

It is also true that the danger of a world conflict makes imperative that every available man who needs military training should be trained. If this training is never needed, then fine, would not harm our young men, and if needed would most certainly be well worth the cost and time.

The wheels are turning mighty slow and the time that is running out, no one knows, unless it is Joe Stalin.

THE FOLLOWING QUOTATIONS ARE FROM THE SLOTON NEWS, CANYON, TEXAS:

Even kind-hearted people get no pleasure in listening to a narrative about all of your aches and pains.

Once in a while, we cling to the idea that men will, one day, be able to live with each other peacefully.

The average husband admires his wife's economy until she starts checking upon his smoking expense.

One preacher says that the main trouble with young people today is the lack of real, God-loving parents.

Be charitable, if you can, in the judgment of others;

save severity for your own mistakes.

One of the ways to become intelligent is to remember not to believe anything you see in print.

People who grumble about the expense of religion might worry a bit over their own religion.

It's probably a good thing that Ananias did not live in the days of the modern press agent.

When doctors go into conference, the probability is that the patient is either very sick or very rich.

The debate as to whether men or women wear the most unnecessary clothing can be considered settled.

The way to have good government is to have honest voters, as well as honest officials.

The trouble with most picnic dinners is that it takes about a week to get normal again.

Not every reader who urges the editor of The Canyon News to "hop on" something is willing to be quoted by name.

Personally, we are for an improved world and for better people but just how this is to be accomplished remains a problem.

The greatest movement now on foot in America is that of the pedestrians trying to get out of the way of speeding automobiles.

Well, boys and girls, if things come to the worst, we might let the editors get together and run the world—they do it so well—on paper.

Life is a question of balance—to be exact—bank balance.

The word "cocktail," is said to have originated during the American Revolution from the habit of a barmaid in Elmstord, N. Y., who decorated her glasses with the tail feathers of fowl.

ODDS & ENDS—I have never been quite able to understand the philosophy or ideology of the Jehovah Witnesses.

Can not these good and well intentioned people see that if Uncle Sam should utterly disarm, sink his navy and destroy all his military equipment, send all the soldiers and sailors home, and assume an attitude of mere passive resistance, Russia and perhaps some other nations would immediately send their armies of invasion into our country to take complete charge of it.

If all of us, for example were Jehovah Witnesses, refusing to resist an enemy, can't the Witnesses see that these greedy over-bearing, unscrupulous Russians atheist dictators would begin at once the program of making atheists and communists out of all of us—that they would send their armies to close or destroy every church in America, that they would send all our men that they thought might eventually make trouble as prisoners in to their concentration camps; and that they would take our young and most attractive women as the unwilling paramours of their own bestial soldiers? Wouldn't our Jehovah friends use more than passive resistance to protect their homes and their families against such horrors as that?

Can't they see that if our nation should follow their teachings and their policies, the entire people of America in a little less than no time would have only one alternative, to die at the hands of the ruthless invaders or to become their sniveling slaves.

It seems so clear to us that we can not conceive of any one figuring it out in any other way.

—Lynn County News

EDITORIAL — Editor Ernest Joiner of The Ralls Banner evidently has a kind of pre-event poll of things to come, or has a quirk of foreknowledge that most of us have to wait till it all happens for results. Along about a year ago, just prior to the Holy Year events of Rome, Editor Joiner informed those who read as they run, that some bones of ancient vintage would be dug up in the catacombs of the ancient city of Rome, and they would be proclaimed those of Simon Peter the apostle. And sure enough, that's just what happened. But the latest to be proclaimed over about the Vatican is that Mary, the mother of Jesus, ascended bodily straight into heaven, and those who do not believe it are excommunicated and bound for the lower regions of hell. Then Joiner tells his readers to shake hands with the No. 1 heretic. Move over Joiner. But here is one thing we are glad to admit: We believe that Mary, mother of Jesus Christ, was one of the best if not the best woman of her time. And we feel sure that when she was turned over to John as his mother, at the death of Jesus, that she was an honored member of his family until her death. We don't know The Bible does not say what happened to her. John died on the Isle of Patmos, perhaps. And we never had seen anything in the New Testament that indicated that she ever was or claimed to be anything except human flesh or was ever translated. We have also read that no flesh can enter the kingdom of heaven. And we don't believe humans have the power to be translating. We side with Joiner.

—The Terry County Herald

GETTING OUT ON THE LIMB

I see that Elliott is bravely carrying on the family struggle even though his mother was singularly unsuccessful in that field. By this I mean the news item that said Elliott and his former wife, Faye Emerson, kissed each other on the ear an aggregate of 37 times in a night club recently. When I first read it, I feared that such a custom would sweep the country like Canasta.

Now if I were trying to initiate some different form of greeting, I believe I would try eyelash-tangling. As far as I know it has never been practiced by man nor beast. Nor even movie stars.

I figure this idea of mine will sweep the country. Even mothers with babies will be for it because it will be such a sanitary greeting. They can put a nose-mask on grandma and she can tangle with Junior during his every waking moment.

It will also eliminate the injury factor in greetings. In hand-shaking, bones can be crushed; in ear kissing, a jostle at the wrong time can result in the loss of an ear lobe, but the only thing eyelash-tangling can transmit is pinkie. And as soon as the participants are old enough to distinguish between drunkenness and disease, that hazard will be erased.

As soon as I can get the deal banned in Boston and frowned on in Abilene, I figure it is in.

THE HIRSD HAND — Ever had to wait at a grade crossing for what seemed like hours while a freight train switched or stood still on the track while the train crew drank a cup of coffee or something?
We have a clipping from the Liberty Vindicator (between Houston and Beaumont) telling of the conviction of a Southern Pacific conductor by a six-man municipal jury on a charge of blocking city streets more than five minutes.

The jury fined the conductor $5, the minimum fine, and then each of the jurors contributed their 50c jury pay toward paying his fine. The prosecuting and defense attorneys were brothers, too.

Slaton Women Give Their Favorite Tested Recipes

Lately, most of our recipes have been for cakes or pies, so for this time, to break the monotony, we are giving a recipe for a meat dish. Weiners probably rate at the bottom of your list of good meats, but weiners are good for something other than hot dogs. Spiced weiners is an easy dish to prepare, and doesn't take long to cook. Here is how it is done.

- Ingredients:
- 1 lb. weiners
 - 1 tsp. dry mustard

- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup ketchup
- 3 tbsps. flour
- 3 tbsps. vinegar
- 1 tbsps. sugar

Cut the weiners in half lengthwise. Place in deep covered skillet. In your mixing bowl, combine 3 tbsps. flour with 4 tbsps. cold water; add one cup of hot water, $\frac{3}{4}$ cups ketchup, 3 tbsps. vinegar, 1 tbsps. sugar, and 1 tbsps. dry mustard. Pour the mixture over weiners, cover, bring to the boiling point, reduce heat, simmer 20 minutes.

Industrial progress has come to the rescue of pretzel-benders. Tiny three-inch fans blow air on dough after it has been formed into a pretzel shape. This "case hardens" the dough, permitting it to be handled more easily without danger of distorting the traditional pretzel shape.

Better Buy Buick!

If that car of yours has put its best days behind it, there's no time like right now to think about starting out afresh with a taut, new, up-to-the-minute motorcar with all its mileage still in it.

And there's no better place in the world to start than with the beauty pictured here, for a variety of reasons.

For one thing, this Buick SPECIAL is a quick-stepping Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight that's priced lower than some sixes.

For another, it's built with typical Buick ruggedness through and through—a husky that can take a lot of years without crying "Uncle!"

Then, too—this high-styled beauty is proving to be one of the most economical Buicks ever built—easy on gas, easy on upkeep, easy on you in its soft, floating, light-handling comfort.

It even comes with Dynaflo Drive* if you like—and Dynaflo means that you will never have to service or replace a friction clutch, and that rear-end or transmission servicing—even engine upkeep—are cut to a minimum.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Of course, you can't see all of this in the brief span of a trial drive.

But you can experience the good solid feel of Buick strength beneath you. You can satisfy yourself on the lightness of the controls, the utter smoothness of Dynaflo, the quick surge of Buick's Fireball power.

All such things will tell you that this is a car you'll be glad to live with for a long time to come—and you need only to ask your Buick dealer for a demonstration to see precisely what we mean.

Why not call on him soon to talk about signing up?

BY THE CARTON

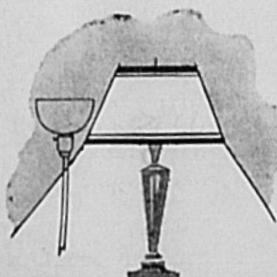

Lamps with empty sockets are about as handy as a ship without a sail! No matter how efficient . . . or how many lamps you may have around the house . . . they're so much excess baggage if your supply of lamp-bulbs is down to the bottom of the carton.

Good light is so necessary to good sight. And a carton of bulbs always on hand is insurance against "bulb snatching" . . . being without . . . or inconvenient rushing to the store.

Yes, BULBS ARE MIGHTY IMPORTANT . . . cleanliness is, too! Your lamps and fixtures should be kept clean. Dust and dirt can rob you of half the light you pay for. Reflector bowls can be washed with soap and water . . . bulbs wiped clean with a damp cloth. Shades may be dusted, washed or dry-cleaned . . . depending on the type fabric. Light-conditioning your home is economical, too . . . low cost, dependable electric service makes it so!

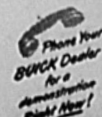

THERE'S A BULB FOR EVERY JOB . . .

- 25-watt—Decorative and functional where the seeing task isn't too demanding.
- 35-50-watt—Reading, sewing . . . where good, strong light is needed for proper "see-ability."

WHAT ABOUT SURPLUS BIRDS?

Poultry raisers continually face the problem of disposing of surplus cockerels, pullets, and undesirable layers. It requires considerable "doing" to utilize these surplus birds and realize their full value. However, a poultryman can usually accomplish a certain amount of success with such "extras" in a flock if he devotes some time and thought to management, growth, and marketability of the birds.

Whatever the age may be, as soon as sex can be detected cockerels should be separated and removed from the pullets. They should never be denied feed, however. They should receive the best quality starting mash and should also be given the best quality growing mash.

Selling as Broilers

The weight of cockerels more or less determines when they should be sold. With this in mind, the raiser should watch both birds and market carefully. If the market is favorable, perhaps he can dispose of the birds as broilers. This is the logical time to do so, because most people need the room for their pullets anyway. If birds are sold at this time, they should be given a fattening mash a week to 10 days beforehand.

If the raiser wants to sell surplus birds as fryers, it will be necessary to keep them until they weigh 2 to 3½ pounds. For this purpose, it is best to maintain birds in small pens, where they can run outside in the fresh air and sunshine. This helps develop a much better color in faces and combs of birds.

If a grower wishes to keep cockerels for roasters, he must feed them until they weigh 4 to 6 pounds. In order to make the best birds, they should be raised on the ground.

Non-Layers

Non-layers are another problem. At this time of the year the number of non-layers tend to increase, especially among old hens. Watch carefully for these birds. When they stop laying, remove them from the laying flock immediately.

Once non-layers have been removed, it is best to crate feed them. In this way, a raiser fattens his birds faster and readies them for quick, profitable marketing. Birds fatten faster this way because of the lack of exercise.

Cull your birds wisely and market surplus pullets, cockerels, and layers. It will help your birds show a better profit when the flock expense is deducted at the end of the year.

Hippopotamus

The average adult hippopotamus at home in the rivers and lakes of East Africa weighs about 5,000 pounds and eats 400 pounds of grass and tender tree shoots in one night's foraging. Fibrous tufts of frayed coarse hair grow from single roots here and there on its head, neck, and tail. Detached from the beast, they appear to be vegetable rather than animal in origin, resembling shriveled brownish leeks.
