SLATON ENTRIES HEAVY IN SOUTH PLAINS STOCK SHOW

A large group of boys from the Slaton area, members of the Slaton High School FFA Chapter or the Lubbock County 4-H Club, are among the several hundred young men who will be in Lubbock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

From throughout Lubbock County entries have been received for 50 barrows, 65 lambs and 19 calves. These include four barrows, four calves and 20 lambs entered by the Slaton FFA Chapter. The total entry list for the regional show includes more than 870 animals from throughout West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

The Slaton FFA entries in the barrow division have been filed by L. C. Strube and Henry Adams.

Calves will be shown by L. C. Strube, Allen Strube, and Jimmie Hogue.

The chapter members to show lambs are: Quinton Strube, Lee Adams, Alton Brookshire, Donald Spradley, Leroy Kitten, Charles Woodfin, Bonor Elston, Claud Myers, Mike Haddock, William Kahlich, Loren Gilliland, Roy Jones, Thomas Enox, Larry Johnston and Robert Heaton.

Three from Slaton, Route 2, who are members of the Roosevelt FFA Chapter will show lambs. They are Gene Thomas, Ed Reynolds and Dalton Boyles. Thomas will also show a barrow.

Rudy Dominguez, Box 514, Slaton, and Tommy Richardson, Route 1, Slaton, will show lambs, as members of the Lubbock County 4-H club.

As a special feature of the show this year two princesses will be selected as official hostesses of the show. One of the young ladies will represent 4-H clubs of the area and the other girl will represent the FFA chapters. They will be selected Saturday at a program in the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Building.

"42" PARTY PLANNED
A "Forty-Two" party sponsored by the Order of Eastern Star will be held at the Club House Friday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds will go to the welfare fund.

It's Thumbs Down On Frontier Day

There will be no Frontier Day celebration in Slaton this year.

That was the decision voted Tuesday night at a meeting of the directors of the Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. R. D. Bisbee, B.C.D. secretary-manager, explained Wednesday that the action was taken only after a thorough study of the matter by board members and a telephone survey of town opinion.

Two main factors influenced the decision, she said. One is finances. The 1952 version of Frontier Day cost approximately $1,100. The B.C.D. doesn't have that kind of money to spend this year because of its sponsorship of the swimming pool project. The other is floats. Several local organizations which entered floats in last year's Frontier Day parade have expressed doubt that they would enter floats this year.

Rotary To Back Slaton Scout On June Jamboree

Slaton Rotarians last week voted $112.50 toward sending a deserving Slaton Boy Scout to the Third National Boy Scout Jamboree to be held in mid-June near Santa Ana, Calif.

The action virtually assured that sufficient money will be on hand to send a local boy to the big annual event. At least two other organizations—as well as more than a dozen individuals—have expressed interest in helping out on the project.

Even so, it's not entirely possible that we'll be able to send a boy California way in June, it was explained Tuesday by L. B. Hagerman, executive board member at large for the South Plains Boy Scout Council. There are more requests for reservations to the big jamboree than there are reservations, Hagerman explained.

A reservation request has been entered for a Slaton scout, however, and local officials expressed hope at mid-week that the necessary technicalities could be swept away without too much difficulty.

Minimum cost for sending a boy to the jamboree is $195. That includes jamboree fees, insurance, meals, hotel, side trips, transportation and all troop and patrol equipment—in fact, everything other than the boy's own personal equipment and his "spending money."

Meanwhile, it was announced this week that J. L. Mayhew, Jr., also has entered his reservation request at the Scout office and has embarked upon a project to earn (Continued on Class Page)

Slaton To Host Caprock Track Meet Here March 28; Expect 15 Schools

Definite plans are in the mill for a king-sized high school track meet to be held here on Saturday, March 28, it was announced Wednesday by Willard Hedges, S.H.S. track coach.

Hedges already has definite acceptances from Tulia, Abernathy, Floydada, Ralls, Crosbyton, Tahoka and Spur and tentative acceptances from Levelland and Muleshoe.

"I'm hopeful that we can get as many as 15 or more schools entered so that we can stage a track meet that will arouse a lot of interest," Hedges said.

The meet will be called the Caprock Relays. If the interest evidenced for this year's meet is sufficient, Hedges hopes to make the Caprock Relays an annual affair to be held here on the fourth Saturday of March each year.

Ribbons have already been ordered, and Hedges hopes to have trophies for special event winners. Preliminaries will begin at 10 a.m., and finals will get underway at 1:30 p.m., Hedges said. Admission price for the afternoon events will be 25 cents for students, 50 cents for adults.

Hedges' Bengal thinclads, on the basis of early season performances, should be right in the running at that meet. The Tigers performed admirably against a potent Brownfield team in a three-way meet held at Brownfield last Thursday. Point totals in the meet included Brownfield 66, Slaton 46, and Tawaka 21.

Tigers who placed in the meet included:

- 100-yard dash: Duane Sooter, 3rd, and R. A. Thompson, 4th.
- 220-yard dash: Sooter, 1st.
- 440-yard dash: Tim Bourn, 1st, and Ronald Smith, second.
- 880-yard run: Travis Gentry, 3rd.
- 1 Mile run: Bryan Morgan, tie for 1st, and Jerry Owens, 3rd.
- 180-yard low hurdles: Felix Wylie, 4th.
- 120-yard high hurdles: Thompson, 2nd, and Harold Trout, 3rd.
- 440-yard relay: Slaton 3rd. (Thompson, Bourn, Wylie and Sooter).
- 1 Mile relay: Slaton 2nd. (Ronald Smith, Tim Bourn, Chester Fondy and Buddy Sexton).
- High jump: Thompson, 3rd.
- Shot put: Waymon Muse, 2nd, and Don Brush, 3rd.
- Discus throw: Muse, 2nd, and Fondy, 3rd.
- Pole vault: Muse, 1st, and Stan White, tie for 2nd.
- Broad jump: Thompson, 3rd, and Sooter, 4th.

This Saturday the Tigers will participate in the Snyder relays, and a week from tomorrow they'll be in Odessa for the West Texas Relays.

To Open Bath House Bids On March 18

The Slaton Board of City Development Monday afternoon was awarded contract by the City of Slaton to construct a bath house in connection with the municipal swimming pool project which is underway in the park, with the understanding that the BCD in turn will award and let a sub-contract for construction of the bath house to the lowest qualified bidder.

Bath house bids will be opened at the BCD office at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, March 18. A special BCD meeting will be held shortly thereafter to consider awarding of contract, swimming pool committee members said.

Plans and specifications are available either at the BCD office in City Hall or from Atchison & Atkinson Architects, Sanford Building in Lubbock.

Plans call for the bath house to be approximately 60 feet by 20 feet. It will be constructed of buff tile, will be situated on the west side of the swimming pool, and will face west.

The rain that fell in the Slaton area this week was not by any means enough to insure a crop, but it was enough to raise the hope that springs eternal and to start the farmers dreaming and planning.

A check of rain gauges in the area showed from .55 to a little over an inch. Hubert Schwerter, about three miles west of town on the Woodrow road had .55 inch and Edwin Forrest reported slightly better than an inch at Forrest Ranch. Joe Kitten, about 3½ miles west on the Cooper road had between .75 and .80 inch and Nestor Kitten, 2 miles south had .88 inch.

Robert Bednarz and Bobby Jones, who live 6 miles west of town, had close to 1 inch. L. B. Hagerman reported that his rain gauge at 755 South 10th showed three-fourths of an inch and Charlie Walton, 445 West Lynn, said his gauge showed between eight and nine-tenths.

As the local farmers rejoice over the rain, they continue the search for good irrigation wells and better means of using the irrigation water they have.

C. Of C. Committee Plans Landscape Of The Pool Area

Plans for landscaping the municipal swimming pool area were discussed at a March 11 meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Parks and Recreation Committee meeting under the chairmanship of Ted Swanner.

The group is meeting with the County Commissioner to plan parking areas at the pool. They hope to get the parking space graveled. They also discussed plans for future picnic grounds for the area north of the pool. They are working out lighting possibilities for the area and are hoping to get more recreation facilities.

Capt. McDannel is now stationed at RAFB. Previously his active duty with the Air Force has been limited to the training phase, with the exception of one combat tour in Korea. He was a B-17 and B-29 pilot instructor at Roswell, N. M., during World War II.

Following VJ Day, he was assigned to various projects in connection with the further development of Atomic warfare. This included participation in operation "Cross-Roads" at Bikini in the summer of 1946. Between World War II and the outbreak of the police action in Korea he was variously in sales connected with newspapers and television.

In the fall of 1950 he was recalled to active duty with the 452nd Bomb Wing, a reserve unit that had been training near his home, Long Beach, Calif. Upon reactivation he was assigned combat duty in Korea flying the B-26, a light bomber.

Capt. McDannel flew 69 missions as a duty pilot and was also a bomb squadron commander. Returning to the states in August of 1951, he again picked up where he left off in 1946 as a pilot instructor in the B-25. His present assignment at Reese is Assistant Wing Operations and Training Officer.

The use of concrete pipe in irrigation is not new to farmers in this area, but it is rapidly gaining in popularity. Local farmers attribute its increased use to the fact that it is the best method they have found for getting water from a well on low ground to higher areas of the farm. They claim that it provides a great saving in water, does away with the problem of break-outs in elevated ditches, with the weed control problem around ditches, and permits them to farm the land formerly occupied by elevated ditches.

The installation of concrete pipe has been part of the government conservation program. The government paid 40¢ per foot under the original plan. Last year a limit of $500 maximum payment was placed on the program, and this year the limit was dropped to $133.60. This figure was arrived at by a division of available funds among the different conservation practices authorized. If some of the practices for which farmers signed up are not carried out, the extra money in the fund will be divided among those who have carried out the practices they signed for, but still with the $500 maximum limit.

Walter Bednarz is one of the area farmers who is putting in a lot of the pipe this year. He started about a month ago to lay 2821 feet of pipe. He thinks concrete pipe is about the best investment that can be made on an irrigation farm. He mentioned the advantages listed above, the fact that it will last a lifetime, and says he thinks it will pay for itself in fuel savings alone, not to mention the use of the land that would have been needed for an elevated ditch.

He thinks the ideal irrigation system would be concrete pipe with openings about every 40 feet with canvas pipe between the outlets and spouts on the canvas. This would entirely eliminate the digging of ditches and save time and labor. The trouble with that type of irrigation system is that the initial cost is too great.

Bobby Jones also describes the same system as ideal—the farmer's dream, he calls it. He has 1700 feet of concrete pipe that was put in 2 or 3 years ago before he moved to the farm.

Robert Bednarz put in 1500 feet two years ago and found it more than satisfactory. Originally he had used an elevated ditch and it gave him trouble from start to finish.

Joe and Nestor Kitten are also using concrete pipe with good results. Joe put in 500 feet to get water uphill. He says it is cheaper in the long run than an elevated ditch, and much more efficient.

Nestor has a good well in a low corner. He put in 3500 feet of pipe this year and 2200 feet several years ago. He uses it not only to get water uphill but also in areas where the downhill grade is steep enough to cause ditches to wash out. It is buried 48 inches deep and is 16 inches in diameter, so that it is 32 inches under the surface. He estimates the cost of the pipe at $1.20 per foot, not counting the cost of valves and the (Continued on Class Page)

Annual Stock Show Here Unfolds Before Enthusiastic Crowd Despite Chill Wind

BY LOU TOMPKINS

The twelfth Lubbock County Stock Show here Saturday began under sunny skies with a gentle wind from the north. But it ended with a cold, blustery north wind accompanied with sand. This abrupt about-face in the weather made many scurry here for additional wraps while others joined forces in groups to buffet the elements.

Much praise should go to A. C. Strickland, general superintendent. Wearing a colorful campfire-style hat that attracted almost as much attention as some of the oinking porkers, the veteran SHS vocational agriculture teacher kept the show moving in rapid-fire order. And his helpers who deserve praise also are Harvey Hennigan, ag teacher at Roosevelt; Thomas Neely, Lubbock ag teacher; Olan Rice, Cooper ag teacher; and Jack Carrothers, Lubbock assistant County Agent.

An eleven year-old boy took a way the much-sought-after grand championship fat hog award. Nolan Robnett of the Lubbock 4-H club was very proud of his Hampshire barrow which won him the purple ribbon.

Judge Ray C. Mowery, head of Texas Tech's animal husbandry department, took considerable time in choosing between Robnett's red hog, Richard Powers', Lubbock FFA, heavy Duroc Jersey, Joe Evans', Shallowater FFA, light Poland China, and Jimmy Allday's spotted hog. "Now there are four entire good ones" was the comment from Judge Mowery, "but there are a few flaws." And he then went on to explain what corrections would be made to have a more perfect animal.

Robnett shared honors with Charles Mason, Roosevelt FFA, and Don Bell, Cooper FFA, for the grand champion.

FFA, who exhibited the grand champion Angus calf, and Richard Powers, Lubbock FFA, who showed the grand champion Duroc gilt. Reserve championship awards went to Richard Powers, Lubbock FFA, on his heavy Duroc Jersey hog; Jim Steele, Roosevelt FFA, for his Crossbred lamb; and Wesley McLeod, Roosevelt FFA, who showed his Hereford calf.

Showmanship awards went to John Powers of the Lubbock FFA and to Don Stanton of the New Deal 4-H. The judges for these awards were Bob Rusk and Raymond Holt from the Agriculture Department of Tech. The Lubbock Jaycees will honor these boys and their fathers at a luncheon at the Caprock Hotel.

The event that caused cheers from the crowd was the calf scramble. The ten youths who held on to the calf's leg, head, or tail until a rope could be put around his neck were Jim Allday, Lubbock FFA; Quinton Strube, Slaton FFA; Jack Stanford, Cooper FFA; Frank Fritch, Lubbock FFA; Frank Griffin, Cooper FFA; C. O. Cowan, New Deal FFA; Keith Dempsey, Cooper FFA; James Dunn, Shallowater FFA; Wayne Isom, Idalou 4-H; Nolan Robnett, Lubbock FFA.

First place in team or club points went to the Lubbock FFA. Roosevelt FFA took second place and FFA club of Cooper got third place. Each of these clubs was presented with a banner.

In judging last year's scramble calves, the placings were as follows: Charles Mason, Wilson FFA, first; Bill Haws, Frenship FFA, second; Bennett Wells, Roosevelt FFA, third; L. C. Strube, Slaton FFA, fourth; Charlie Coleman, Wilson FFA, fifth; Jimmy Hogue, Slaton FFA, sixth.

In The Gloom, A Fast Ball

As this is being written, the world had just learned of the death of Josef Stalin. The nationally-distributed magazines were spotlighting stories by economy experts on the apparent end of inflation and speculating on how far deflation will go. The farm journals were filled with gloomy yarns about the lack of rain, the farmer's plight, and the prospects of severe wind erosion during March and April.

But in a lot of South Plains homes and offices and barber shops, a very different sort of subject is being given considerable consideration.

Amidst the gloom, the talk is about baseball—for shure 'n begorra—the major league clubs have launched spring training. It's a great time of year for the menfolk. Over coffee cups and fence rows, the prognosticators are coming back into their heyday for the first time since the close of football season.

Some are saying the Yankees have got it again in the American League. Others believe Cleveland's Indians finally will come into their own in 1953. And there seems to be a fairly widespread hope in this neck of the cotton fields that somebody will dethrone the high-flying Dodgers in the senior circuit.

All of this talk about baseball is a significant slice of Attitude Americana. Come what may—inflation, deflation, drouth, flood, change of administration in Washington, or what have you—it usually takes a back seat when baseball season rolls around.

"Play Ball" is a mighty pleasant cry in a world beset by fear and unrest.

And it's mighty comforting to observe that the average American male has the priceless gift of being able to sit back and enjoy things that are worth enjoying.

Freedom And The Individual

A writer in our letter column today raises an issue that strikes to the heart of modern life. How free can the individual be in these tremendous times?

Our deeply considered answer is that he can be as free as he ever was, and freer than in most periods of history. But to recognize the truth of this one must elevate one's concept of freedom—and of the individual.

For obviously the demands of collective living are greater than ever before. The anarchic individual, intent on satisfying his own selfish wants and following his own undisciplined desires, is hedged about by a thousand prohibitions peculiar to our age. He must pause for traffic lights, register for military service, join a trade union, pass a loyalty test, keep off the grass, sign on the dotted line. A decision in the Kremlin may instantly affect his life, a decision in Washington may crucially affect his sales.

Here is an accenting of restrictions and responsibilities which have always been present in civilized society. Man cannot live in brutish isolation. His problem has always been to find the best balance between his rights as an individual and his duties as a citizen. He has always been threatened on one side by the anarchy of irresponsible individualism and on the other by the despotism of organized collectivism.

While the collectivist tendencies of today may seem more all-engulfing than at any time since the birth of modern individualism in the Renaissance and Reformation, there is also a higher concept of individual freedom with which to combat them. This concept does not merely argue for self as a separate, isolated entity but reaches through to a spiritual selfhood which is brother to the good in all men.

Thus the enlightened individual seeks self-development in cooperation with his fellows, respecting all men's need for self-development, accepting with equanimity such restrictions as promote the good of society as a whole, but snatching with the likeminded to fight every tyrannical encroachment on man's freedom to be his best self.

He may not be able, like the frontiersman of yesterday, to roam the untamed plains at will; but as he hurtles along the modern speedway, obedient to the traffic rules which are his protection as well as his discipline, he may be a freer man than many a frontiersman before him, insofar as he understands the spiritual sources of freedom. For true freedom derives from God, is not a grant of the state or a gift of mere circumstance.

We look back with gratitude to the sturdy example of independence set by that arch-individualist, Henry Thoreau, but we do not see ourselves as less free than he because we pay taxes to support the Korean war. Thoreau refused to pay his tax because he refused to support a war that seemed to him designed to extend slavery. But the Korean war is a great cooperative venture designed to prevent the spread of slavery, and the man who has caught the sense of "belonging" to this collective stand of free humanity will accept freely the sacrifices he must make for it.

Certainly the individual today must be constantly alert to the dangerous pressure to collective, but he must oppose it with that sense of individual responsibility which loves its neighbor as itself. The founder of this newspaper, Mary Baker Eddy, has written of happiness: "It is unselfish; therefore it cannot exist alone, but requires all mankind to share it." So freedom is not something to be clutched jealously to one's bosom, but to be demonstrated through sharing it increasingly with all mankind.—Christian Science Monitor.

About Adlai

Adlai Stevenson conducted himself as a gentleman, a wit and a good sportsman during his unsuccessful campaign for the presidency. He is now proving that his campaign attitude was not merely a campaign pose. Mr. Stevenson's behavior since last November has been in entire keeping with his character theretofore. And the country is ready now to accept him as basically what he has seemed to be.

The News is happy to be confirmed in its early opinion that America had the rare choice at the last election between two candidates of high mental and personal qualities. The News feels that America chose rightly in November. But it is good to believe that, under the influence of Mr. Stevenson, the Democratic party will be reformed, realigned and re-inspired.

One-partyism under the Democrats was bad. One-partyism under any other name will be just as bad—or possibly worse. Although out of office, Adlai Stevenson's influence is neither small nor in vain.—Dallas Morning News.

Straining At The Gnat

I am not suggesting that the lesser virtues are not virtuous. Sometimes they are, sometimes they are not.

What I am suggesting is that they are lesser, and we ought to reach out beyond them—to the greater. The thin-lipped virtues may have their place—I do not stop to question it—but what they add up to is something less than goodness and considerably less than character.

What I am saying is that if you don't swear, don't cheat, don't lie, don't gamble, don't lose your temper, don't transgress any of these meritorious prohibitions and proscriptions, and yet refuse the claim of the world for brotherhood, the cry for a universal, just community, it would be better if you cheated, lied and all the rest and still had room for the great claims, the great purpose of your age.

What I am saying is that if you never listen to a dirty story but you do listen to race prejudice, you are far from pure. You are straining at the gnat and swallowing the camel.

What I am saying is that petty pieties and paltry virtues are all too often a cloak, a mask, with which great sins are falsely compensated and disguised.—A. Powell Davies, D. D.

Expediting Imports

For a long time Congress has talked about simplifying and cutting down the discouraging amount of red tape involved in bringing foreign goods into this country for sale. Studies have been made by private trade interests, by the Treasury Department, by congressional committees, and by a firm of business consultants employed for the purpose by the government. But the record, insofar as actually doing anything about the obstacles and vexations is concerned, has been one of complete inaction.

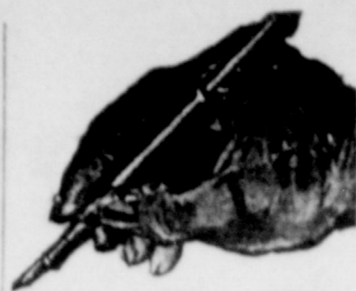

There is hope that in the new Congress action at last may be taken. Outgoing Secretary of the Treasury Snyder has left a report on suggested changes for his successor, George M. Humphrey, when the latter finds time to look at it. Mr. Humphrey has said he favors a simplification of customs procedures much like that embodied in legislation which the last Congress failed to pass.

The proposed simplification has nothing—or at least nearly nothing—to do with the rate of duties on imports, which is in the realm of controversy. Indeed, it is hard to see how the matter of simplifying customs procedures could be opposed in any quarter. Once it has been determined that certain foreign goods or articles are to be admitted, it seems nothing less than absurd to surround their entry with irritating and costly restrictions which, in some cases, make importers conclude it is not worth while to try to do business with foreign countries.

Countries in Western Europe to which we have been pouring out millions of dollars in direct aid have shown a strong preference for paying their own way by trade with this country. President Eisenhower has expressed the belief that an increase in foreign trade is better than continued foreign handouts by the government. This aim of "trade, not aid" will not be helped to realization by keeping imports surrounded with harassing rules, cumbersome procedures and a tangled growth of red tape.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Mr. A. M. Jackson
Slaton, Texas

Dear Mr. Jackson:
Well, a check of our records reveal that once again it's subscription renewal time to your paper. We've also checked your paper for subscription rates recently, and enclosed is our check for another year's subscription.

It has always been our custom to use this annual letter to express our sincere attitude of appreciation to you and your paper for its part in the growth of our South Plains area during the past year. I've said this in dozens of previous letters to you. And with each letter and each passing year I realize more and more that the reason the South Plains of Texas is the newest and richest part of the United States is the result of the attitude of our people, as typified by the newspapers of the South Plains. I see you and your paper as the civic leader, crusader, and chief booster of your town and area.

The days when towns in an area fought each other for growth and prosperity are gone forever. We all realize that the more our neighbors progress and prosper, the more our area prospers, and the more we as individuals prosper. It's on this basis that we of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce base our method of operations.

If you and your city ever find that the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce can help you in any way, we'll be glad to—and we'll help you work for your city.

Sincerely yours,
A. B. Davis, Manager
Lubbock C. of C.

Under the same conditions, the plants, stands and the yield and quality of hybrid corn produced from medium sized flat or round seed is just as good as from the large flat planting seed. The smaller seed cost less money because more land can be planted from a bushel of seed.

Texas 4-H girls last year at achievement events showed more than 16,000 garments they had made. Extension clothing specialists worked with 150 county home demonstration agents in the state in programs that resulted in 44,000 women receiving training in clothing work.

Research and trial demonstrations show that controlling hardwoods during their dormant season is both practical and profitable.

George Washington did not belong to any political party.

The first nutrition specialist was employed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in 1924. Last year county home demonstration agents conducted 750 leader training meetings in foods and these leaders in turn gave more than 4,000 demonstrations.

The number of home visits the state dropped in 1952 as compared with 1951.

Getting Out On The Limb—

The other day while I was kicking around I stopped in a local furniture store and eyed a massive contour chair, which I thought might prolong my life if I flopped in it for a spell. It wasn't built for a wiggler, and it doggone near took a block and tackle to hoist me out.

I switched over and tried a few more. One I buried so deep into that my knees were higher than my chin and my feet were dangling two feet above the floor. There was another number that had style but lacked comfort. When I started to get up it zipped back a yard and I fell on my youknowwhat and had it not been for the sudden drop I would hardly have noticed there had been a change in the softness of upholstery.

I've tried them all, and found all wanting. Meanwhile I think back on a grand old rocking chair my dad used to own. This old rocker had a back that towered two feet above his head. The upholstery was woven rush. The rockers were long and wide. There wasn't a squeak in a million rocks. —The Post Dispatch

Floyd Hill, the notorious Texas fugitive who escaped from the Fort Worth jail last week, was in Crosbyton Wednesday afternoon. At least, Crosby county sheriff's officials received word from the FBI, giving a description of the car and license number, and the number of people riding in it. This car was coming out of Oklahoma and was spotted by officers east of Guthrie. Officers there followed it to the Dickens county line, Dickens officials kept it in sight thru that county, and the stage was set for a showdown here in Crosbyton.

Five cars of officers including two cars of highway patrolmen were in the party, which awaited Hill at the east limits of the city. When the car was spotted, the officers gave chase, forcing it against the curb two blocks west of the square, with the officers' cars forming a semi-circle around it. Officers swarmed from the cars with pistols and sawed-off shotguns ready for action.

Yep, you've already guessed it—it was the wrong party. —The Crosbyton Review

A Difficult "Situation"

Did you see that "Classified Ad" last week? The one that wanted a farmhand who had to be "an expert agriculturist, sheep herder, tractor driver, bridge player," plus being "an authority on chemistry and mathematics"?

Slim Thomas, who ran that ad more or less as a joke, called and said, "I got 23 answers and almost every one claimed they could meet all those qualifications! That means I want to keep the man I have—'Handy' Peters."

"He was thinking of quitting but now I've got to talk him into staying. Handy never pretends to be an expert, he's just a good all-around hired hand."

From where I sit, Slim's smart to be wary of people who consider themselves to be all-around "experts." Some folks will "expert" on anything—from the clothes a man should wear to whether he ought to drink beer or butter-milk. Personally I don't want to "classify" myself as knowing all the right answers.

All we old roues can breathe freely now that the North Carolina supreme court has ruled that a female cannot be assaulted merely by looking at her from a distance. The court absolved Mack Ingram of the crime of assault on a white girl for which he was convicted last November, when the girl charged he had "leered" at her from a distance of 60 feet. As a suggestion to even up the matter of justice, we submit that the girl should be taken out behind the wood shed and a four-foot axe handle applied to the place so generously supplied by Nature for such occasions. —The Ralls Banner

Voltaire, the famous Frenchman was a dwarf in body and a giant in intellect.

In his "Zadig, a Mystery of Fate," is found the following question put to Zadig by the Grand Magi:

"What, of all things in the world, is the longest and the shortest, the swiftest and the slowest, the most divisible and the most extended, the most neglected and the most regretted, without which nothing can be done, which devours all that it little and enlivens all that is great?"

Here is Zadig's answer: Time. Nothing is longer, since it is the measure of eternity.

Nothing is shorter, since it is insufficient for the accomplishment of your projects.

Nothing is more slow to him that expects; nothing more rapid to him that enjoys.

In greatness it extends to infinity; in smallness it is infinitely

CITATION AWARD FOR FISH

Harold Wilson of Slaton was one of 25 who received citation awards for billfish landed in the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., area. Smith and wife agreed to assume and pay off as part of the consideration for said deed the above described vendor's lien note and acknowledged a lien against the property for said amount.

RAINFALL—

(Continued from Page One) hook-on at the pump. He tried canvas pipe when it first came out but found it very unsatisfactory. It didn't quite make one season. He says the only disadvantage in the use of concrete pipe is that you can't see the discharge on the pump and don't know whether you're getting a full pipe or a half pipe.

Hubert Schwertner has that problem licked. He elevates the water and drops it into the stand pipe at the pump so that he can always see how much water is being pumped. His main purpose in using concrete pipe is to conserve water. He can water twice as much land with it as without it. His wells are small and he was losing too much through seepage and evaporation. He has 2585 feet, which is all he'll need unless he can get another well.

These are only a few of the area farmers who are enthusiastic about the use of concrete pipe. Many are dreaming of the time when they can use this system exclusively and take some of the killing work out of irrigation. Seldom has any new development in farming methods caught on as quickly and completely as the use of concrete pipe has here.

ROTARY TO BACK—

The $195 necessary to put him aboard a bus of South Plains Scouters bound for the big Santa Ana get-together in June.

Mayhew's reservation, his father explained Tuesday, is also in doubt in that it was entered shortly after the reservation deadline, and the youngster will have to wait and see if there's to be room.

Reservation allotment for the entire South Plains Council was originally set at 175 boys.

No definite plans had taken shape here at mid-week concerning selection of the Slaton Scout whom local Rotarians and others hope to send to the jamboree. Several Scout officials here, however, expressed the belief that a good method of selection would be to allow each of the four local Scout troops to choose their best Scout, and then leave the decision as to which of the four is best qualified to a panel of impartial Scouting experts from outside Slaton.

Slaton Women Give Their Favorite Tested Recipes

Mrs. Searcy Henry's favorite cake is a Lady Baltimore with an unusual filling. She has been making this cake for 8 years. It seems to be one that turns out very good and is simple and easy to make. Her 14-year-old daughter enjoys making it too.

LADY BALTIMORE CAKE

1 cup butter
1 cup milk
3/4 cups cake flour
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
4 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp orange flavoring
6 egg whites
Cream butter, add gradually sugar which has been sifted before measuring. Beat until smooth and creamy. Sift flour and measure, then sift with baking powder and salt. Add alternately with milk to first mixture, add flavoring, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into well oiled layer cake pan and bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F. for about 35 minutes.

Use fruit and nut filling between the layers and a boiled icing for top and sides.

FRUIT AND NUT FILLING

3 cups sugar
1 cup water
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1-4 cup chopped dried figs
1-4 cup dried apricots
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup chopped raisens
1-4 cup chopped maraschino cherries
1 tsp. orange flavoring
1 tsp. vanilla
1-4 tsp. cream of tartar

Combine sugar, water, salt, and cream of tartar. Boil to soft ball stage, about 236 degrees F. Pour slowly, beating continuously, onto egg whites. Add flavoring; continue beating until mixture will spread. Pour 1/2 into a bowl and add fruit and nuts to this portion. Spread between layers of cake. Cover top and sides with the remainder of icing.

Mrs. Henry often makes this filling with raisens, cherries and pecans, omitting the other fruits. It makes a very moist and very delicious cake.

Sheriff L. S. Johnson states that criminals are making a racket of getting '32 license plates for their cars, and driving them when on robbery jobs. In this manner these fellows are likely not to be caught up with by peace officers.

"Mutilate the plates, and make them unusable as soon as the new '33 plates are placed on the cars" is the good advice of Sheriff Johnson.

Talk of oil near Salt Gap may have induced false dreams of prosperity for the hardy folks of that western McCulloch community.

While checking up on this "prosperity" last Friday he found the stick on his gas meter wavering close to the empty mark. Unassumingly he pulled along side two fuel pumps in front of the Salt Gap post office—the only "station" in sight.

After an urgent search and brief wait for an attendant, a small boy came flying up the road.

"Who sells the gas," asked the naive reporter.

"Ain't none," said the boy. "Ain't been any gas station open here in two years."

And there are very few hills coasting into Melvin.

Interest in the forthcoming liquor and beer election continued to soar in Cochran County this week with placards and bumper strips advocating "vote dry" appearing on many autos and in many business windows.

The election, only a little more than a week away, will be to determine whether or not to legalize the sale of beer and other alcoholic beverages.

Dallas Sewell, 73, of Lubbock was convicted in Ralls justice of the peace court Wednesday on charges of speeding.

The case gained interest through testimony that Sheriff Roy Hillin had knocked the man down after a 70-mile-an-hour chase.

According to Hillin, he was advised about 3 p.m. Sunday that a "drunk" driver was on highway 82, traveling west. About the same time a light panel truck appeared which the informant said was the car in question. Hillin, with A. K. Addison of Lubbock as a passenger in the sheriff's car, gave chase and caught the man about three or four miles down the highway.

Hillin said Sewell ignored his command to halt. He then gave Addison his gun and told him to fire behind the speeding car. Addison said he fired six shots at the right side of the highway, but did not hit the vehicle. The sheriff said Sewell used profane language after his apprehension, which resulted in Hillin knocking the man down.

Escapes from Floyd county jail in the break at 1:30 o'clock Saturday morning, were both back in the county's bastille again Monday afternoon.

Sheriff Earl Cooper is hoping they will be there when their trial is called up on a charge of burglarizing the Lakeview store the night before Thanksgiving of 1952.

What promises to be a real gone school show, is the gigantic ebony talent variety revue, to be staged in the new Wheatley School auditorium come this March 13th at 8 p.m. And it's on a Friday, too. The Evans High School of Slaton, Texas, that stole the show with its musical numbers at last year's Wheatley dedication is bringing the show to town, and a jolly good time is promised for those who plan to attend same.

AMP TRAP—Dr. Harry Shambaugh of Schenectady, N. Y., sets his electronic rat trap to catch some "amps." Once sprung, the trap operates so as to sweep across a series of contacts seen at left. Amperes of current are thus measured by the scientist in General Electric's laboratory to study effects on certain insulating materials.

Chicks may be culled during the first few days. This is the time when you will naturally be looking after them the most, and you can soon tell which chicks are the weaklings. By getting rid of those that obviously can't make the grade, you will be assuring yourself of a better flock.

As the chicks grow larger, there is more opportunity to cull them. By the time they are ready for the range, a healthy, vigorous flock of growing birds is the result. These are the kind of birds that are likely to go through the outdoor season in good shape, with the loss of few additional birds.

Later, when you're readying the flock for the laying house, you'll want to be "tough" in your selection. Follow these pointers for potential production.

The head should be clear-cut, rugged, alert. The comb and wattles should be full, red, and waxy. The eyes should be prominent and keen. The bird should have ample capacity, that is, the body should have depth and the spread between the pubic bones should be good.

Avoid birds with crow heads, small comb and wattles, shallow bodies, and any body deformities. Of course, there is always the possibility that a bird is slow in developing. For this reason, it is well to hold the doubtful birds a while to see if they come around. However, the most successful poultry operations are those which have a rigorous, year-around culling program. These are the ones which produce eggs most efficiently, and the culling of perhaps one-third of the original stock is considered economical.

More than 250 interested farmers and business men participated in the annual Soil Fertility Day meeting held in the Littlefield High School auditorium Monday, hearing speakers discuss various phases of soil fertility problems common to farms on the South Plains.

Duke Thornton, agricultural chemist from A & M College spoke at length on the use of commercial fertilizers in a soil building program. Thornton also answered numerous questions from the audience during a question and answer period just prior to the lunch period.

CHICK CHATS

Presented By: Dr. Salisbury's Laboratories

CULL YOUR FLOCK FROM THE START

The "survival of the fittest" is one of nature's laws, and it certainly applies in poultry-raising. For one reason or another, one chick does better than another and the poor doer usually has to fall by the wayside. This is the way it should be, for the good of the entire flock and for the grower's profit.

Culling must be practiced continuously in poultry-raising. Culling is the practice of eliminating the poor birds and keeping the flock uniform and healthy. Why keep obvious runts in the flock? They cannot make good chickens, and they take feed and space, besides being more susceptible to disease.

Chicks may be culled during the first few days. This is the time when you will naturally be looking after them the most, and you can soon tell which chicks are the weaklings. By getting rid of those that obviously can't make the grade, you will be assuring yourself of a better flock.

As the chicks grow larger, there is more opportunity to cull them. By the time they are ready for the range, a healthy, vigorous flock of growing birds is the result. These are the kind of birds that are likely to go through the outdoor season in good shape, with the loss of few additional birds.

Later, when you're readying the flock for the laying house, you'll want to be "tough" in your selection. Follow these pointers for potential production.

The head should be clear-cut, rugged, alert. The comb and wattles should be full, red, and waxy. The eyes should be prominent and keen. The bird should have ample capacity, that is, the body should have depth and the spread between the pubic bones should be good.

Avoid birds with crow heads, small comb and wattles, shallow bodies, and any body deformities. Of course, there is always the possibility that a bird is slow in developing. For this reason, it is well to hold the doubtful birds a while to see if they come around. However, the most successful poultry operations are those which have a rigorous, year-around culling program. These are the ones which produce eggs most efficiently, and the culling of perhaps one-third of the original stock is considered economical.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—In the Senate is a bill that has turned out to be the most controversial and most costly of the legislative session to date.

It is a wrangle between two factions of optometrists.

The bill occasioned two full days of debate in the House before it finally passed by a vote of 97 to 41.

House Bill 5 is the designation of this measure, whose original purpose was to prevent optometrists from advertising and to break up the optometry chain stores.

The proposition, authored by Representative Stanley Banks, Jr., of San Antonio, has the support of the Texas Optometry Association, a statewide organization of independent optometrists.

Opposing the bill are the advertising optometrists, including the chains.

Proponents of the legislation say they want to lift the standards of the profession and increase the authority of the state board of optometry so that it can tighten regulation and thereby eliminate any undesirable practices.

Opponents contend that the bill would invade their private rights, and that the public would have to pay more for glasses if the measure should pass.

Amendments in the House toned down the bill's provisions, but did not remove objections of the opponents, who are redoubling their fight against the measure in the Senate.

The attitudes of three members of the House summed up various viewpoints on the bill:

Representative Banks: "It raises the standards of the profession."

Representative Douglas Bergman of Dallas: "It's just an attempt to stifle free enterprise."

Representative Bill (Jitterbug) Henderson of Houston: "Let the people decide where they want to buy glasses. I say get the government out of business."

Another bill that caused a good deal of controversy—one to ban resort lodges from state parks—was killed in the House, 63 to 59.

Barring revival of the bill, which seems unlikely, the state parks board can sell bonds to private investors and build resort lodges at Inks Lake near Burnet, Lake Texoma, and Possum Kingdom Lake. Each project will cost about $1 million. When the lodges are built, they will be leased by the parks board to private operators.

Highway Department top brass is toiling to perfect a presentation of their $500 million road improvement program for a joint session of House and Senate.

"We plan to lay the full facts before the Legislature at one time," says Chairman E. H. Thornton, Jr., of the highway commission.

He added that the commission will not undertake to tell the Legislature how to raise the money because "that is a legislative prerogative, and an administrative agency should not interfere in it."

The department has estimated that it will take an additional $100 million per year for the next five years to bring Texas highways up to standard and maintain them.

It would take a constitutional amendment to complete a proposal by Senator John Bell of Cuero to help solve the state's water problems.

The proposed amendment, which passed a Senate committee test unanimously, would authorize the charging of fees for the use of Texas waters. The money would be used to build dams and reservoirs.

If passed by the Legislature, Bell's proposal would be voted on by the people next Nov. 7.

A strong advocate of the proposed amendment is Senator Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo, who says his area's water shortage is critical.

Senator Bell predicted that if the amendment passes, local communities will build $250 million worth of dams for water storage, flood control, and irrigation as soon as the money is available.

A Senate subcommittee may report next week on a bill that sets out to establish a uniform plan of taxing gasoline and compensating service stations for shrinkage caused by varying weather.

The original committee hearing on the bill attracted 1,200 service station operators and gasoline wholesalers.

Service station operators contend they were suffering losses because they receive less gasoline than they pay for, since weather changes cause gasoline to alter in volume. Gasoline jobbers countered that it would cause them undue hardship if they were required, as the bill provides, to compute the four-cent sales tax on each gallon of gasoline at a uniform temperature of 60 degrees.

It would take a two-thirds vote of the Legislature and a majority vote of the people to pass a proposed constitutional amendment by Searcy Braacewell of Houston to increase the pay of top state officials.

The amendment would increase the governor's salary from $12,000 to $25,000, the attorney general's from $10,000 to $15,000, and the comptroller, treasurer, and secretary of state from $6,000 to $12,000.

Senior Boys Are Guests Of The Rotary Club

BY WESLEY REED

On March 19, 1953, the senior boys were guests of the Rotary Club.

They all gathered in and started eating at 12:30. A Rotarian was placed at every other plate so that he could introduce the boy on his right.

For dinner they served roast beef, potatoes, gravy, vegetable salad, and coffee. They also served refrigerator pie for dessert. After dinner Mr. Swanner, the club president, introduced some new members and a man from Tech College, J. Everts Haley, who made a talk on Americanism. He discussed Americanism and what it is, for about 30 minutes and the meeting was adjourned.—The Tiger's Cage.

Sheriff L. S. Johnson states that criminals are making a racket of getting '32 license plates for their cars, and driving them when on robbery jobs. In this manner these fellows are likely not to be caught up with by peace officers.

"Multilate the plates, and make them unusable as soon as the new '33 plates are placed on the cars" is the good advice of Sheriff Johnson.

Talk of oil near Salt Gap may have induced false dreams of prosperity for the hardy folks of that western McCulloch community.

But a Standard writer thinks not. While checking up on this "prosperity" last Friday he found the stick on his gas meter wavering close to the empty mark. Unusually he pulled along side two fuel pumps in front of the Salt Gap post office—the only "station" in sight.

After an urgent search and brief wait for an attendant, a small boy came flying up the road.

"Who sells the gas," asked the naive reporter.

"Ain't none," said the boy.

"Ain't been any gas station open here in two years."

And there are very few hills coasting into Melvin.

Dallas Sewell, 73, of Lubbock was convicted in Ralls justice of the peace court Wednesday on charges of speeding.

The case gained interest through testimony that Sheriff Roy Hillin had knocked the man down after a 70-mile-an-hour chase.

According to Hillin, he was advised about 3 p.m. Sunday that a "drunk" driver was on highway 82, traveling west. About the same time a light panel truck appeared which the informant said was the car in question.

Hillin, with A. K. Addison of Lubbock as a passenger in the sheriff's car, gave chase and caught the man about three or four miles down the highway.

Hillin said Sewell ignored his command to halt. He then gave Addison his gun and told him to fire behind the speeding car. Addison said he fired six shots at the right side of the highway, but did not hit the vehicle. The sheriff said Sewell used profane language after his apprehension, which resulted in Hillin knocking the man down.

CHICK CHATS

Presented By: Dr. Salisbury's Laboratories

CULL YOUR FLOCK FROM THE START

The "survival of the fittest" is one of nature's laws, and it certainly applies in poultry-raising. For one reason or another, one chick does better than another and the poor doer usually has to fall by the wayside. Signs To Watch For

Later, when you're readying the flock for the laying house, you'll want to be "tough" in your selection. Follow these pointers for potential production:

The head should be clear-cut, rugged, alert. The comb and wattles should be full, red, and waxy. The eyes should be prominent and keen. The bird should have ample capacity, that is, the body should have depth and the spread between the pubic bones should be good.

Avoid birds with crow heads, small comb and wattles, shallow bodies, and any body deformities.

AUSTIN—In the Senate is a bill that has turned out to be the most controversial and most costly of the legislative session to date.

It is a wrangle between two factions of optometrists.

The bill occasioned two full days of debate in the House before it finally passed by a vote of 97 to 41.

House Bill 5 is the designation of this measure, whose original purpose was to prevent optometrists from advertising and to break up the optometry chain stores.

The proposition, authored by Representative Stanley Banks, Jr., of San Antonio, has the support of the Texas Optometry Association, a statewide organization of independent optometrists.

Opposing the bill are the advertising optometrists, including the chains.

Proponents of the legislation say they want to lift the standards of the profession and increase the authority of the state board of optometry so that it can tighten regulation and thereby eliminate any undesirable practices.

Representative Douglas Bergman of Dallas: "It's just an attempt to stifle free enterprise."

Representative Bill (Jitterbug) Henderson of Houston: "Let the people decide where they want to buy glasses. I say get the government out of business."

Another bill that caused a good deal of controversy—one to ban resort lodges from state parks—was killed in the House, 63 to 59.

Barring revival of the bill, which seems unlikely, the state parks board can sell bonds to private investors and build resort lodges at Inks Lake near Burnet, Lake Tex-

Highway Department top brass is toiling to perfect a presentation of their $500 million road improvement program for a joint session of House and Senate.

"We plan to lay the full facts before the Legislature at one time," says Chairman E. H. Thornton, Jr., of the highway commission.

He added that the commission will not undertake to tell the Legislature how to raise the money because "that is a legislative prerogative, and an administrative agency should not interfere in it."

The department has estimated that it will take an additional $100 million per year for the next five years to bring Texas highways up to standard and maintain them.

It would take a constitutional amendment to complete a proposal by Senator John Bell of Cuero to help solve the state's water problems.

The proposed amendment, which passed a Senate committee test unanimously, would authorize the charging of fees for the use of Texas waters. The money would be used to build dams and reservoirs.

If passed by the Legislature, Bell's proposal would be voted on by the people next Nov. 7.

A strong advocate of the proposed amendment is Senator Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo, who says his area's water shortage is critical.

Senator Bell predicted that if the amendment passes, local communities will build $250 million worth of dams for water storage, flood control, and irrigation as soon as the money is available.

A Senate subcommittee may report next week on a bill that sets out to establish a uniform plan of taxing gasoline and compensating service stations for shrinkage caused by varying weather.

The original committee hearing on the bill attracted 1,200 service station operators and gasoline wholesalers.

Service station operators contend they were suffering losses because they receive less gasoline than they pay for, since weather changes cause gasoline to alter in

It would take a two-thirds vote of the Legislature and a majority vote of the people to pass a proposed constitutional amendment by Searcy Bracewell of Houston to increase the pay of top state officials.

The amendment would increase the governor's salary from $12,000 to $25,000, the attorney general's from $10,000 to $15,000, and the comptroller, treasurer, and secretary of state from $6,000 to $12,000.

Soufflé Salad

(Basic Recipe)
 1 package Lemon or Lime Jell-O
 1 cup hot water
 1/2 cup cold water
 1 to 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
 1/2 cup Weillmann's or Best Foods Real Mayonnaise
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Dash of pepper
 1/2 to 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
 1 to 2 cups vegetable or fruit mixture
 Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Add cold water, vinegar, mayonnaise, salt, and pepper. Blend thoroughly with fork or rotary beater.
 Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and chill (without resetting control) 15 to 20 minutes, or until firm 1 inch from edge but soft in center.
 Turn into bowl and whip with rotary beater until fluffy. Add onion. Drain vegetables and fold into Jell-O mixture. Pour into 1-quart mold or individual molds and chill until firm (30 to 60 minutes). Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Serve with additional mayonnaise, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
