Annual Antelope-Bengal Brangle Set At Post Tonight; Both Clubs Will Be Seeking First Conference Victory

Tigers Drop Second District Start As Spur Rolls To 25-13 Win In Mud

Stung 25-13 last week by a magnificent Spur Bulldog eleven whose fierce ground game was unhampered by the muck and mire of Tiger Stadium, Slaton's Tigers will be after their first District 5-AA win when they journey to Post tonight for an 8 p.m. engagement with Coach Bing Bingham's fast-improving Antelopes.

Both clubs hold 4-3 season records and both are winless after two district starts. The Tigers will rate a slight edge in tonight's clash on the basis of their impressive performance against non-conference foes, but most close observers of the District 5-AA race predict a nip-and-tuck contest, chiefly on the basis of Post's surprisingly good showing last week against the powerful Tahoka Bulldogs. The highly-rated Bulldogs were forced to stage a scoring drive in the final three minutes of play to salvage a 20-13 win from the inspired Antelopes.

Longtime area grid fans know, too, that previous performances means little or nothing when the Tigers and the Antelopes tangle. It's the annual grudge battle for both clubs, and barring inclement weather, a capacity audience is anticipated.

Big scoring gun for the Antelopes this year has been Tommy Malouf, 155-lb. junior halfback. Other capable backfield performers for the Antelopes are Quarterback Moody Graham and Fullback Fred Long, a 210-lb. converted lineman.

Post features chiefly a running attack, though Graham has demonstrated a remarkable ability to loosen up rival defenses with a good overhead attack. His favorite target is Nolan Williams, 145-lb. senior end.

Post Not Big

The Antelope line is bulwarked by Larry Waldrip, 200-lb. center and linebacker. Aside from Waldrip and Long, the Antelope starting eleven is not a heavy one, and Slaton probably will have a slight weight advantage.

Post's record to date: Ralls, 13-6; O'Donnell, 19-13; Sundown, 0-52; Crosbyton, 22-0; Rotan, 37-14; Abertown, 7-32; Tahoka, 13-20.

Slaton's record to date: Coahoma, 13-19; Seagraves, 40-8; Ralls, 45-6; O'Donnell, 53-8; Amherst, 46-0; Floydada, 18-19; Spur, 13-25.

Bad Spur Start

It was the first district start for Spur, and for a while, it looked like they were to taste their first defeat.

On Spur's first play from scrimmage, Blair fumbled and Harold Trout recovered for Slaton at the Bulldog 33. Seven plays later Jerry Reynolds swept wide around left end behind good interference for 12 yards and the first Tiger tally. Reynolds' placement was blocked, and the Tigers had a 6-0 advantage less than three minutes deep in the first period.

TO ASK FUNDS FOR NATIVITY SCENE HERE

The Chamber of Commerce this week launched a campaign for contributions from individuals and business firms to make possible the erection of a Christmas nativity scene this year on the City Hall lawn.

The props used for the nativity scene here last year were owned by Rev. P. J. Burns, former pastor of the First Christian Church, and are no longer available, it has been explained by Mrs. R. D. Bisbee, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager.

It is estimated that approximately $300 will be needed to purchase the figures and pay for the carpentry work necessary for erection of a lifelike nativity scene. Mrs. Bisbee said.

Providing contributions are sufficient, lifelike weatherproof figures which can be kept from year to year will be purchased.

Only prop available for the nativity scene is a wooden manger which has been used in previous years.

AREA COTTON TAKE NEARS 5,000 BALES

A Tuesday afternoon survey taken by the Slatonite shows that 4,699 bales of cotton—roughly three-quarters of a million dollars worth—have been ginned to date by six area gins.

Ginners said that most of the cotton which has been processed to date has averaged middlings 15.16, but they were in agreement that the heavy rain and hail which fell in the area on Thursday and Friday will mean a decrease in grade for cotton yet to be harvested.

One ginner opined that the downturn will mean a 10 per cent decrease in the cotton harvest in the immediate Slaton area.

The survey included Campbell Gin, Howard & Heard Gin, the two Co-Op Gins, Union Gin and the Posey Gin.

Harvesting operations were halted altogether by the heavy rains, and work crews were not expected to be back in the fields in force until Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

ARREST NEGRO PAIR IN CLOTHING THEFT

Two Negro men—one from Slaton—have been arrested at Lubbock in connection with the Oct. 22 theft of 14 sport coats from Kelley's Men's Shop, 215 West Garza. Bill Kelley said Tuesday. Ten of the stolen sport coats had been recovered at mid-week. The men's clothing firm was entered through a side window sometime during last Thursday night.

MORE NEW TYPE FACES ADDED BY SLATONITE

The type in this story is known technically as 10-point Corona lightface.

The headline for this story is 10-point Erbar bold.

Both are new. They're additions to the growing list of type faces you'll be seeing in the Slatonite and in jobs from our commercial printing department.

You'll be seeing these two new faces especially in advertisements, editorials and news boxes.

They're part of an overall plan to make this newspaper one of the best in the state.

WHAT A MESS—Once neatly arranged merchandise was scattered crazily about 9:30 o'clock last Thursday morning when lightning struck Jack's 5c & 10c Store here during a heavy rain, causing collapse of the roof at the rear of the store. Ray Samples, who operates the firm, estimated damage to the building, fixtures and merchandise to be in excess of $15,000. Repair work was underway this week, and the firm hopes to be open for business on Saturday. (Photo by Marinell)

HIGH WINDS, HAIL, ELECTRICAL STORMS ACCOMPANY HEAVY RAIN THURSDAY-SUNDAY

A rain that could have been a million dollar asset earlier in the season became a liability when it fell on fields of open cotton in a washing downpour accompanied by high winds and hail. Rain totaling as much as 9 inches fell on the area in two storms, one Thursday and one early Sunday morning. Damage was estimated variously from slight to 50 per cent loss. Many of the farmers who suffer serious hail damage had had hail insurance which expired on Oct. 25, just one week before the hail hit their crops. A few had insurance with a Nov. 15 expiration date.

Only a few farmers in this area had large amounts of their cotton gathered. Many were having trouble finding hands. Some had tried for the past three weeks and found hands just before the rain and hail. Others were waiting for a one-time-over machine harvesting. In the area of heavy hail even storm proof cotton was strung out and badly damaged.

Rainfall Measurements

Measurements of rainfall from the surrounding area include: L. L. Green, 6 miles west, 7 inches, some hail with hard wind and rain, damage estimated about 25 per cent; Clarence Kitten, 5 miles SW, estimated 8 inches, loss up to 50 per cent in spots, all-over damage, counting grade loss, 30 to 40 per cent; John Griffin, 9 miles W, 4 1/2 inches, very little hail, expects slightly lower grade because harvest held up; Norbert Kitten, 4 1/2 miles SW, 6 1/2 inches, grade and hail damage estimated 35 per cent; Joe Heinrich, 3 miles S, 5 inches, little hail, most of cotton already lost in June hailstorm.

Alvin Buxkemper, 9 miles S, 2 1/2 inches, no cotton, rain good for next year; J. J. Kitten, 3 1/2 miles W, 6 or 7 inches, hail and water damage about one-third loss on crop; Shorty Kahlich, 6 miles W, about 6 inches, very little hail, $10 to $20 per bale loss in grade; John Stephens, 3 1/2 miles NW, 7 inches, no cotton, happy to see the rain; Otto Heinrich, 4 1/2 miles SE, 4 1/2 inches, a little hail Sunday morning, very little damage; Allose Bednarz, 3 miles W, 1/2 S, 8 inches, storm proof cotton, a little hail damage; Joe Kitten, 7 miles W, 4 1/2 inches, very little hail, no damage, as much rain as he has had all year; Herman Schilling, 4 miles SW, 7 1/2 inches, hail, one-fourth loss.

HALLOWEEN FUNFEST SET AT WEST WARD

More than 1,000 Slaton residents were expected to throng the halls of West Ward School Thursday night to participate in the festivities of Slaton's annual school-sponsored Halloween Carnival.

Activities were scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. with a Mexican-style dinner to be served in the school cafeteria. Concessions—ranging from fishing for unseen prizes to spooky movies and homemade candy—were to begin operation at 7 p.m. with all proceeds to go to the Elementary P.T.A.

Last year's carnival attracted close to 1,500 people, but attendance at this year's funfest was expected to be somewhat lower because of the conflict in schedule with the annual banquet of the Retail Merchants Association.

Leonard Kahlich, 6 miles N, 5 inches, no hail, loss in grade; Ray Kitten, 4 1/2 miles SW, 8 inches, a-

REPORT ON STABILITY

According to a report by the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas, Southwest agriculture is more stable today than in past years, and the class of tenant known generally as sharecroppers has been virtually eliminated.

Agriculture no doubt is much better off today than it has been in years past, but there are lots of agriculturalists, especially the drouth-hit, cattle-priced-depressed ones, who are too wobbly to be called stable at the moment. Such a report makes much better reading in the cities than it does in the country, where the cost of things a farmer uses continues up and the price of things he produces continues down.

As for tenants being virtually eliminated, the only thing about this is that it's not true. There are very few farmers anywhere in Texas who don't have tenant neighbors, and they're good neighbors, too.

In fact, renting a farm on the shares today represents about the only way a young man can get into farming, without the help of an inheritance. A young man who wants to farm can accumulate enough money to buy enough second-hand equipment to farm, but he can't accumulate enough to buy both equipment and the land. Yet if he has the stuff, he can rent a piece of land, and if he knows how to farm and likes to work, he can make enough eventually to make the downpayment on a farm of his own. The tenant system is a route to landownership. Moreover, when handled correctly, it's even a way of life for lots of mighty substantial people.—Soil and Water.

PROMOTING REAL CONSERVATION

The Congress appropriated $195,000,000 to be used in promoting soil conservation measures. The distribution of this money will be conditional, however. No longer will farmers be paid for liming their soil, planting legumes, or following other conservation practices unless these practices are part of a permanent program.

The soil is the number-one asset of this nation, but most of it is individually owned and the owner is responsible for its condition. Under the new policy, it is proposed not to pay landowners for practices which result only in increased production for a single crop year.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said: "The 1954 locally developed state and county programs will be designed particularly to encourage farmers to initiate and carry out soil and water conservation practices which will provide the maximum, and most enduring, benefits. Federal funds will be used only for those practices which are deemed essential in the public interest and which the farmer or the rancher indicates he would not otherwise carry out with his own resources.

Secretary Benson believes that selfhelp is the most valuable and long-lasting of all kinds of help, and that farmers who receive federal money for temporary conservation practices are not contributing to the national betterment of agriculture. Inasmuch as the appropriation for conservation payments has been reduced, the Secretary is anxious that the money be used by states and counties to assist those who are willing to carry out a complete program.—Farm and Ranch

THE SHOWOFFS

If your teen-age daughter struts around talking like Lucille Ball and your son makes like Arthur Godfrey, don't be surprised. It's all because they (the children, that is—not necessarily the stars) are emotionally insecure.

That's what Dr. Paul J. Moses of Stanford University said at an annual meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology at Chicago the other day. He put it this way: "The greater the general insecurity of people, the more they try to identify themselves with superior qualities of an admired and praised person. Radio, movies and television are sources of vocal mannerisms, often borrowed from admired stars."

Far be it from us to challenge the worthy doctor in his own field—we can't even pronounce the name of that group he addressed.

But when we were kids, our parents used to give us a good sound boxing of the ears and a "get away with ye" when we tried to imitate the voices of our distinguished elders. It was called mocking them, and was regarded as an unfortunate but apparently inevitable part of the often discouraging process of growing up. It wasn't cured by reference to emotional instability.

The kids were simply scolded soundly for showing off, and the parents tried to divert such talents as the youngsters had into more desirable channels.

All of which stamps us as admitting that we grew up in a different age—when parents unfortunately (or fortunately) had never heard of psychiatry.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give.—Coffee Cup.

Today's parents might be roughly defined as those who pay the babysitters.

We have created such a fast-moving world for ourselves that folks don't stay home like they used to. Women no longer know how to bake bread and sew well, and men have long since departed from the custom of staying home in the evening with their paper and their pipe.

In fact, people have departed from the custom of staying home. Nowadays, home is a place where you catch a few winks of sleep in between doing things. Home is a place where the babysitter stays while you and the little woman are out trying to keep up with the Joneses.

Meetings, too, are demanding more and more of the time of both Mr. and Mrs. Today's American has become a great joiner. He'll join anything. Finally he becomes so entangled in his series of meetings that he finds himself confused and befuddled when confronted with an evening at home.

Today's youngsters are growing up on Three-D comic books and TV westerns instead of old-fashioned parental guidance and instruction. And bridge clubs and a continual whirl of meetings have supplanted the quiet family evenings of yesteryear for momma and poppa.

Old-fashioned visiting seems to have stopped, too. You just don't drop in on your friends anymore or an hour or so. There has to be an "occasion." You have to be invited. You have to be "dressed."

A lot of gracious living has fallen by the wayside because plain ole Mary and John Smith are in too much of a tizzy over "being modern."

Or so it seems from this corner.

One of Phil Brewer's favorite jokes:

Three professional football players were sitting on a bench exchanging yarns about how they happened to leave school and join the play-for-pay ranks.

"In my senior year at Yale," spoke up one player, "they made me take calculus; when I couldn't make head nor tail of it, they pitched me out on my ear."

"Just the way it was with me at Michigan," commiserated another. "In my junior year I had to take advanced trigonometry, and I wasn't able to understand a thing. So out I went."

"Say," interjected a former Texan Aggie, "did any of you fellows ever run across a subject called long division?"

The late William Wrigley was once riding with a friend in a crack express train from New York to Chicago. His companion was curious to know why the magnate continued to spend so much money on advertising.

"Your gum is known all over the world," he said. "Why don't you save the millions you are spending on advertising?"
Wrigley pondered a second and then asked, "How fast is this train going?"

"About 60 miles per hour," replied the other.

"Then," asked Wrigley, "why doesn't the railway company remove the engine and let the train travel on its own momentum?"

Ever actually stop and try to put down on paper why living in a small town such as this one means more to you than living in a large city? An editorialist for the Surface Creek News at Cedar-Edge, Colo., did. He called it "The Wealth Of A Small Town." It's good, and here it is:

A small town is where everybody knows your business and yet they will make it their business if anyone in the community needs help. It is where the folks will talk about you and then talk for you when the chips are down. It is where there has to be a fire to get anyone on the streets after 9 o'clock and yet there will be public square dancing until 2 o'clock in the morning and not dependent on hot music and cold drinks to keep up the friendly spirits.

In a small town there is a common bond during a disaster and a common thankfulness for rain, or a beautiful day, or a new fire hydrant. There is little thought paid to social position, and the judging of a man is done on his own values—the deep values.

It is where a person speaks to his friend as many times as he sees him during the day, not worrying over the social graces as to whether they have already greeted each other previously. It is where a neighbor's hurt because you are hurt.

The freedom and dignity of the individual is practiced in a small town without a lot of paid coaching by experts who think they know the minds of men. A man expects to earn what he gets and get what he earns.

The building of a park or the paving of a street becomes a personal thing in which the majority of folks see a tangible part of themselves. The yardstick is not set off in degrees that ask "What is there in it for me?"

A stranger becomes the focus of honest curiosity and the returning native always seems to have added a little glamor. The deeds of the town and its men often shine brighter in a faraway place.

The words of a stranger often seem like important words.

A small town is where the lack of convention allows for more time to live well and think clearly. The veneer of fatuous arguments is a thin shell which comes closer to allowing the reality of things to show through. The problems of the people are concerned with nature and close association with others—with things as they are.

This, in part, is a small town and the people who live in it. It is closer to the concepts of freedom, individual initiative, and self-realization than any other segment of the land except the remote rural. It is the balance wheel in our social order. May there be enough vision to see that the wealth of small towns is far greater than that which could be measured by smoking stacks and production lines.

Which proves, among other things, that they have public square dancing until 2 o'clock in the morning at Cedar-Edge, Colo. Betcha Lucifer has his eye on those folks. Such a thing here would be frowned upon with great frowns.

Women never cease to be women. My favorite brunette will eat like a young colt for two or three weeks, then one still evening she'll toddle into the bathroom, step on the scales, and utter a sharp cry of dismay. Then for a week or so thereafter she'll grudgingly confine herself to such curious menus as lettuce leaves, apple slices, a hardboiled egg, and a cup of unsweetened tea. And from behind that unsightly mess, she gazes mournfully at me like a sad-eyed retriever who failed to bring back the duck as I put away a good-sized sirloin, mashed potatoes and gravy, and several slices of well-buttered bread.

Jesse Brasfield was in the office the other day, and left the Slatonite staff a good-sized box of sweet potatoes from his 5-acre yam patch out on Golf Course Road. We have all tried the potatoes and we're all in accord that Mr. Brasfield's are as good as, or better than, sweet potatoes from any other part of the nation. Try them yourself if you don't believe that South Plains soil will raise anything else worthwhile except cotton.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It's the Principal of the Thing!

Every autumn our High School has a contest to see who can get the most ads for The Recorder—the school magazine. The winner becomes honorary Principal for a day.

Skip Roberts won last week, and his first (and only) official act as "Principal" of the school was to announce in a loud, clear voice: "I hereby declare today a school holiday!"

Knowing Miss Gilbert, the real principal, it was no surprise to me that she laughed as hard as anybody else ... and said to go right ahead.

From where I sit, it's no wonder our youngsters think Miss Gilbert's such a wonderful person (even though they know they'll have to make up that day). Her tolerance, her friendly way with people of all ages reflect in everything she does. For instance, at my house Miss Gilbert prefers tea but always respects my preference for a glass of beer. As a real person ... in any community, Miss Gilbert belongs at "the head of the class."

ANOTHER SERIES OF TYPE FACES ADDED IN SLATONITE OFFICE

The latest addition of type faces in your newspaper office is 10 point Corona with Erbar bold. This type will be used mostly in ads, editorials and for news boxes in the reading matter. The Erbar Bold will be used for small heading and also in commercial work.

Results received from ads in the Slatonite depend to a great degree on the neatness of the ad, its ease of readability and the appeal to the reader. The new type will help merchants get more for their money in Slatonite advertising.

Here is a sample of the new faces:

THIS TYPE IS DESIGNED TO GIVE THE Slatonite a cleaner, more readable type to be used in ADVERTISEMENTS, CUTLINES, AND VARIOUS other places throughout the paper. Second only to the type used in the body of a newspaper, this new 10 point Corona with Erbar Bold will be among the type faces most often used in advertising and commercial printing.

To the average reader a newspaper is read and enjoyed or it is laid aside without the reader knowing just why. When they have a well-printed paper with attractive ads and news matter the paper is then read fully and with pleasure. The many small details of type, arrangement, good print, and well written articles make the difference.

It is the ambition of the Slatonite staff to make these small additions and changes from time to time until this newspaper becomes one of the best in the state. With the help and cooperation of the people and merchants of Slaton this can be done.

Mrs. W. T. Wright returned on Friday night from a week's visit in California at Sacramento, Oakland and Stockton. She visited her niece, Mrs. Bob Collins. Sunday they were near the Nevada border and saw wild deer and lovely scenery, but the most beautiful place, according to Mrs. Wright, was the one they saw when they got off the train on their return home. She was accompanied on the trip by her sister-in-law from Rotan, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Culver and son, Tip, who was recently discharged from the Marine Corps, returned last week from a two weeks vacation. They visited relatives in Anniston, Scottsboro and Huntsville, Alabama, and on their return trip visited relatives in Mt. Pleasant, Dallas and Arlington, Texas. They also attended the Dallas Fair.

Father, 94, Visits With Son In Slaton

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cunyus over the week end were his father, Walter Cunyus of Longview, Texas, and brother, Col. Paul Cunyus, wife and children, David and John. Col. Cunyus, who lives at Stephenville, Tex. is the dean of John Tarleton College at Stephenville.

Walter Cunyus is ninety-four years "young" and is very active for his age. He never grows weary of learning and observing new things. One of his favorite pastimes is writing to his family and friends. Every letter includes a poem written from memory that expresses his attitude and philosophy of life. Poems that he memorized 50 years ago are still among his favorites, and he can quote every line and punctuate it correctly. His eye-sight is very poor and his writing hand is absent two fingers and the others amputated at the knuckle. Some of his poems are printed and others written, both legible and beautiful, and his margins are perfect. One of the recent poems Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cunyus received was "Waiting". Incidentally, this is a long poem, every line printed from memory.

During his visit in Slaton, Walter Cunyus especially enjoyed Mrs. Cunyus' cotton farm six miles to the west of Slaton. He also enjoyed visiting Mr. J. M. Olive who is 95 years "young."

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. McClanahan, Mrs. Ford Stansell, Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bolding, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rhodes attended the Baptist State Convention in San Antonio last week. They also visited the Mexican Baptist Orphan's Home there. It now accommodates 85 Mexican children and hopes to take in more this year. The Baptist Churches of Texas support the Orphan's Home.

Mesdames Fannie Patterson, C. S. Wilkenson, R. L. Smith and J. D. Barry will attend Grand Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star of Texas to be held at Fort Worth November 2-5.

"It's wonderful. I'm just learning so much. It's well worth the time I'm putting in. I've been making my own clothes ever since I married; that's over 14 years ago; and I've sewed for my three sons. I had sewing in high school too, but so many things have been changed, and I've learned so many short cuts and new methods that the class has been a real help to me."

This is how one member of the adult homemaker classes feels about the opportunity to study new and faster methods of clothing construction. Mrs. Roy Murphy says her husband laughed at her when she decided to enter the class because she had had so much experience and he felt she was already a good seamstress. But she has learned many things that will make her sewing easier and faster.

About 90 adults have participated in the homemaker classes to date. The clothing class meets from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 3 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays. In several weeks this class will change over to tailoring of wool suits and coats. From 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Thursdays another class has studied draperies and furniture refinishing. This group is now studying copper tooling of pictures and planters, and will take up stencil painting and aluminum trays in the future. After the first of the year a class in repolishing will be started, and in the spring the classes in newer principals of sewing will be repeated.

Mrs. G. K. Haile and Miss Pat Brewer, SHS homemaker teachers who are conducting the adult classes, expressed surprise at how their students are accepting the instruction. They are eager to learn and they practice. Mrs. Haile and Miss Brewer are enjoying the classes too. Their interest doesn't end with class instruction. They make home visits when students need special assistance, such as pattern alterations, measuring of windows, etc.

The whole program is free of charge to students thru the schools, the Texas Education Agency and Vocational Homemaker Division.

A nursery is conducted in the High School building in connection with the courses. The nursery is maintained by Freshman and Sophomore homemaker students as part of the class activities. There are usually three girls in charge and an average of 7 to 10 babies in the nursery. The nursery enables mothers of small children to attend the adult classes.

"Turn your faces to the camera, Crackerjack and Sue," says Diane to her matched pony team, but they remain coy.

DIANE SHAFER RIDES PARADE WITH SLATON RANGER POSSE IN MINIATURE CHUCK WAGON

Six-year-old Diane Shafer lives a story-book life out at the home of Slaton on South Eleventh Street with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shafer. Not only does she have her own saddle pony for riding, she has a baby pony for a pet, and a total of five ponies to play cowboys and Indians and the many other games the vivid imaginations of children dream up.

Diane is not an official member of the Slaton Ranger Posse, but she rides parade with them. She wears her cowboy clothes and rides the miniature chuck wagon drawn by a matched pony team. The ponies, Crackerjack and Sue are coal black. They wear green harness with red tassels and pull a white chuck wagon with black trim.

The baby pony is six months old now and getting a little rambunctious for a six-year-old to handle, but from the time he was born Diane led him around, petted him and played with him like most children play with their puppies.

Diane's chief interest may be her ponies, but they're not her only interest.

She is in the first grade at St. Joseph's School this year and she likes school very much. One of her favorite pastimes is aggravating her "Pop." She likes to play dolls and has a collection of paper dolls. She has a nurse kit and plays nurse a lot. She likes to read funnies and her favorite TV programs are "Date With Judy" and "I Married Joan." She has a collection of little story books, the kind you get at the grocery, and her favorites are Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck stories. If no one has time to read them to her, she reads them for herself; she has them memorized.

Diane says she has no boy friend; she's too young for that. She's wise enough too to know that she's too young to decide what she will do when she is grown. Why should she worry now about what she will do with her adult life; she's having too much fun in her childhood to concern herself with other phases of her life, so she lives in the present and is happy.

By John C. White, Commissioner

Disease Dollar Losses

An uncontrolled livestock disease can be just as destructive as an uncontrolled forest fire.

Livestock diseases have been smoldering since long before the domestication of the animal. In these days of concentrated meat animal production, the threat of livestock disease grows more alarming—taking a big bite out of the growers' profits.

The extent of this problem can be illustrated by a partial list of a few of the better known livestock diseases and their corresponding dollar loss.

Brucellosis, a disease which affects both animal and man, costs the industry in excess of $86 million annually. Mastitis presents an estimated yearly bill of $100 million and Hog Cholera costs livestock agriculture approximately $50 million.

Not even conservative dollar loss estimates have been attempted with such diseases as Anthrax, Foot and Mouth, Pneumonia, Shipping Fever, Swine, Erysipelas, X-Disease, Black Leg, Atrophic Rhinitis, Anaplasmosis and Ketosis, to name a few. If we could determine it accurately, the loss would be staggering.

One agriculturist has hazarded a guess. Dr. L. M. Hutchings, of Purdue University, said, "Based on animal population figures and average values per head, animal agriculture failed to realize a potential gross income of $2,791,000,000 in 1951 as a result of death losses alone."

These figures point up the value of strict sanitation measures on the farm. Good sanitation is the first step in breaking the disease chain. Today's antibiotics, potent drugs, vaccines and improved feed supplements have accomplished a great deal. However, they have a steep up-hill battle if they are not used in conjunction with a sound farm sanitation program.

A sound disease-preventive program should not be regarded as an expensive burden. Rather, it is an investment like that of a fence for livestock. This sanitary fence is a necessity for keeping diseases out and livestock in good health.

The Texas Department of Agriculture at Austin has prepared a chart of recommended disinfectants for combatting the prevalent diseases which affect livestock. A copy will be mailed upon request.

Social Security Man Slates Visit Here On Tuesday, Nov. 6

If you are planning on retiring, it might be to your advantage to have a talk with a representative of your local social security office well in advance of your planned retirement date, John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office, pointed out.

Inasmuch as retirement payments are based on your average monthly wages or average monthly income from self employment, the time you file your claim may affect your monthly check, he declared.

"Don't quit your job until you are sure you are insured," Hutton cautioned. He said that your local social security representative will give you information that may help you decide on the best time to file your claim and will advise of the documents or evidence necessary to prove your right to payments.

Phone or call at your local social security office and ask for the leaflets, "An Easy Way to Estimate Social Security Payments" and "Your Social Security."

The address of the social security office is 1616-19th Street, Lubbock, or you may contact the representative of the office who will be in Slaton on Nov. 5, at 2:30 p.m. at the Red Cross Room, city hall.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCain Sunday and Monday were Mrs. McCain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mann of Hale Center and her aunt, Mrs. R. M. Kelly of Abilene.

Who, ME?

by Robert Osborn

Drivers with at least one year's experience caused 98 per cent of last year's accidents. Only YOU can prevent traffic accidents!

HOW MANY OF THESE NEWS ITEMS CAN YOU REMEMBER?

Like to have a new Ford automobile for $348, F.O.B. Detroit? It's out of the question now, yes, but those were the terms featured in a Slaton Motor Company advertisement in the June 9, 1922, issue of the Slaton Slatonite.

The yellowed copy was one of three brought to the Slatonite office last week by Mrs. L. A. Curry, 805 S. Eleventh. The other issues are dated April 11, 1919, and April 2, 1925. Mrs. Curry found the old Slatonites while cleaning out the garage. They had belonged to her father, the late P. G. Meading.

The 4-11-1919 issue headlined a "moonshining" story.

The story reported, "Moonshining near Fort Worth has started, but it has also ended—for the present at least. Officers seized a complete still two miles northwest of Azle on Saturday. Six quarts of the manufactured article were found and 150 gallons of mash ready to be distilled. Fort Worth officers have also seized several hundred quarts of whiskey in that city which it was claimed was brought from New York City to be used for sacramental purposes. The importer who was arrested, though he insisted that it was to be used in the celebration of religious rites, was disposing of it for $6 per quart. Some of the boozers of that city will now have to go back to the lemon extract-shoe polish route."

The same issue—an 8-page affair—included sizeable ads by Robertson Dry Goods Company; The First State Bank of Slaton; Paul Owens, Jeweler; Howerton's (Furniture, Hardware, Undertaking); Lanham & Smart Grocery; Panhandle Lumber Company; and California Syrup of Figs. "For the liver and bowels."

Among the want ads was this one: "For Sale: Good Jersey milch cow. Inquire of Mrs. L. P. Loomis, first dog south Baptist parsonage."

And this comment: "The editor of the Slatonite is under many obligations to Mr. Geo. Marriott, librarian at the Santa Fe reading room, for a season ticket to all entertainments there. A musical attraction is scheduled for Wednesday evening."

Under a bold heading of "Chamber of Commerce Notes and Activities Briefly Told," the 6-9-1922 Slatonite advised its readers, "Contract for the building of a magnificent $25,000 City Hall will be entered into at an early date. This has been held up pending the outcome of negotiations with the federal government relative to use of a portion of same for the post office."

Another front page story featured the fact that S. E. Staggs had been elected secretary-manager of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce. The 4-2-1925 issue reported that fire had destroyed the Sla-Tex Motor Company in the new Talley & Ragsdale building across the street from the telephone office.

Prominently featured advertisements in that issue included those of Gates Dry Goods Company, Kelly Produce Company, The Miller Variety Store, O. Z. Ball, Jones Dry Goods, Custer Theatre, Barrier Brothers, McKirahan Furniture and Teague's Drug Store.

TECH - MISS. STATE CONTEST SET SATURDAY AT JACKSON

Slaton Tigers—

after the Tiger kickoff, Blair fumbled again and Tommy Shearer recovered for the Bengals at the Bulldog 45. The Tigers drove to the Spur 15, but the Bulldogs stiffened and held at that point to nullify the scoring threat.

Another Break

Less than a minute later, the Tigers got their third big break when Reynolds intercepted a Blair pass at the Tiger 28 and returned it to the Spur 47. The Tigers again failed to capitalize on the break and were able to move no deeper than the Spur 29.

The Bulldogs made a break of their own early in the second period. With the Tigers facing a fourth-and-five situation at their own 45, Reynolds called on Sparkman for the necessary first down yardage, but the Spur line held and the Bulldogs took possession at the Tiger 49.

Six plays later a double pitchout from Blair to Tommy Hightower to Boyce Rankin scored around the Tiger right end from 9 yards out. Don Wright crashed through the line to block George McAteer's placement attempt and the half ended 6-6 with Spur facing third-and-two at the Tiger 21.

The Bulldogs narrowly missed scoring midway in the third period as they saw a sustained downfield march go for naught when David Collins recovered a Blair fumble at the Tiger 3. The Bulldogs were not to be denied, however, and the next time they gained possession of the slippery pigskin they sent Don Bradshaw careening through a good hole at his left guard slot for a 48-yard touchdown scamper. McAteer converted to give the Bulldogs a 13-6 margin.

Blair Scoots

They widened the gap to 20-6 less than two minutes deep in the fourth period when Blair scooted 56 yards on a keeper play around his own right end behind a wave of downfield blocking. Wright and Bryan Morgan blocked McAteer's placement attempt.

Spur got a king-sized break when their inside kickoff glanced off James George's legs and the Bulldogs recovered at the Tiger 48. With Rankin, Hightower and Blair carrying the Bulldog, moved the ball quickly to the Tiger 11 and then sent Bradshaw around right end for the score. Fondy blocked McAteer's placement attempt and the Bulldogs had a comfortable 25-6 lead with eight minutes to play.

A scrappy Tiger eleven fought back heroically in the dying minutes. They took possession at their own 39 after halting another Spur scoring threat and with Reynolds, Sparkman and Smith skirting the ends, moved to the Spur 2. From that point Reynolds smashed into a hole between his own right guard and right tackle and dove two yards for the final Tiger tally. Reynolds flipped a pass to Troutt for the PAT that narrowed Spur's margin to 25-13.

Good Offense

In winning, the Bulldogs displayed a slick split-T offense that ate up big chunks of yardage. Their most consistent gainer was a keeper play between tackle and end with Blair carrying and getting good protection both downfield and at the primary line of defense. And despite the treacherous footing, the Bulldogs used single and double pitchout plays effectively for good gains on end sweeps.

The two quarterbacks—Reynolds for the Tigers and Blair for the Bulldogs—turned in outstanding offensive performances. Don McGinty, Ralph Gibson and Chester Lindsey bolstered the Bulldog line. Don Wright, David Collins, Tommy Shearer and Harold Troutt shone on defense for the Tiger line, and got good support from linebacker Chester Fondy.

An estimated 1,000 fans braved the cold and drizzle in glum silence as Coach Sam Hawkes' Bulldogs swept to their sixth win against no defeats.

In other 5-AA play this Friday, Floydada and Spur collide in an important game at Floydada, and Abernathy plays host to Tahoka. District standings are Floydada 2-0, Spur 1-0, Tahoka 1-0, Abernathy 1-1, Slaton 0-2, and Post 0-2.

AT SELF'S SERVICE STATION

Howdy Folks—Would you say that a pink elephant is a beast of bourbon?

Of course, tee-totalers think that all drinkers should be behind bars.

However, in modern society, the prohibitionists seem to get most of the boos.

And a friend of ours remarked that about all the exercise some fellows get is chinning at the bar.

Do you suppose a reformed drunk dreams about the good old daze?

A pretty sure piece of philosophy says that you can't pull yourself out of trouble with a cork-screw.

And a pretty sure piece of conjecture is, you'll sure like our immediate service and courtesy—Why don't you try it?

Farm Fire Loss Blamed on Neglect of Easy Rules

Last year fires like this cost American farmers 133 million dollars. Most could have been prevented or kept small. To prevent this kind of disaster on your farm, carry out these simple rules now: 1. When building or remodeling, use non-combustible materials. All-steel structures, such as Quonsets, minimize spread of fire. 2. Protect all your buildings (including those of steel) with well-distributed, properly grounded, tightly-connected lightning rods.

3. Make sure electrical wiring is in A-1 shape. 4. Put heating equipment and chimneys in good condition. Make sure that every person who turns on or regulates heating equipment knows how to do it. 5. Take no chances with damp hay. Dry hay properly in field or mow. Check temperature of hay for six weeks. 6. Put fire-fighting equipment in every building and make sure that everybody on the farm knows where it is and how to use it.

Warns Of Jam On Auto Inspections If Car Owners Continue To Delay

Automobile safety inspection stations in this area are going to be jammed unless motorists begin having their vehicles inspected within the next few weeks.

This warning was issued this week in Austin by G. C. Morris, executive director of the Highway Safety Council. He said a cross-section survey of inspection stations, including those in this area, indicated only four cars of every hundred had been inspected.

The inspection period, under the new law, began Sept. 15 and will end April 15.

There are more than 3,000,000 vehicles to be inspected, and during the first 30 days of the seven-month period only a fraction of that number, roughly 125,000 were checked, Morris said. The proportion of cars inspected in this area is about the same as statewide, he said.

"There is almost certain to be a last-minute rush unless there is a speed-up in inspections," he said, urging motorists in this section to avoid the rush by having their cars examined now.

Morris said there was also the safety precaution to be considered.

"Most cars have not been inspected in more than a year and may have developed some mechanical defect," he said.

"You may be gambling with your life if you are operating a mechanically unsound vehicle. Accident figures show that one traffic death in every ten in Texas is caused by faulty mechanism."

The new law, Morris said, calls for the inspection of brakes, lighting equipment, horns, rear view mirror and windshield wipers.

He urged motorists, however, to request that steering parts be also included in this inspection.

Safety experts agree that automobiles should be inspected at least once a year as insurance against mechanical defects. Morris said that if motorists wait until near the spring deadline to have their cars examined, it will mean that many cars will not have been inspected for 18 months, three times longer than practical.

Mr. William Behlen has returned from a three week's business trip to Shiner, Texas doing car-penter work.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

A heartening development has occurred in Washington. As a result, there is greater optimism over free enterprise future.

This conclusion follows announcement four major airlines will carry mail over certain routes at reduced rates on year's experimental basis.

C. W. Harder

The background is interesting. For some time, a feeling existed American air transportation is too closely controlled by bureaucratic edict; that Post Office losses which started ballyhoo for rate increases is tied into same picture.

First the Senate Small Business Committee held extensive hearings on situation. Then pertinent parts of testimony were published over nation, chiefly in independent weekly newspapers.

Hearings revealed that instead of seeking bids on open market for air service, both rates and subsidies the Post Office must pay were set down by edict of Civil Aeronautics Board.

Public reaction to this disclosure was so quick that almost immediately it was announced that some $50-million in air mail subsidies was being taken out of the Post Office liabilities to be paid by CAB who must get money from Congress if it can.

It also revealed that CAB fixed rate for carrying mail for 45 to 53 cents per ton mile is equal or higher than the airlines receive for first class passengers. Independent airlines or those classed by CAB as irregular, offer to carry mail for 15¢ rate.

Immediately on heels of this disclosure, it was announced four major airlines will carry all first class mail they have room for between Washington and New York and Chicago for a rate of 18.86 and 29.04 cents per ton mile.

As yet, the independents, or irregulars, cannot carry mail. In fact, CAB has never permitted them a hearing on matter.

Railroads who receive rate estimated slightly above 16 cents per ton mile are concerned. Competition could lower rail rates, too.

Thus it is possible that if free competition is made to prevail, Post Office deficit will turn out nothing more than wasteful operation forced on a major veteran government department by "Johnny-come-lately" bureaus.

The rapid sequence of events establishes that an energetic and sincere Senate Small Business Committee, and House Small Business Committee can get the facts revealed, and disclosure of these facts in the independent American press composed almost entirely of the nation's weekly and small dailies, will do much to guard free enterprise.

Trend To Yellow In Highway Signs

That highway stop sign may be red instead of yellow, if the present trend continues, according to the Texas Division of the American Automobile Association.

The idea of using red-colored STOP signs has been kicked around by highway experts for many years, but it has not been accepted by most states until recently because of certain difficulties. Red paint, for one thing, fades, and a plain red sign with white letters doesn't stand out as well at night as the lighter-colored yellow.

But now, with the use of beaded reflective sheeting for the lettering, the signs can be made to stand out like a sore thumb at dangerous intersections. And in daytime the red background is perfect, according to the highway engineers who have been testing the new-type warnings. They point out that motorists just naturally think of "danger" when they see red, because red has been accepted internationally as the danger color.

In Florida, the state highway engineer made a comprehensive survey of the effectiveness of yellow signs in time to come to a full stop. When red STOP signs were substituted in the test, at least half the drivers observed the sign in time to stop short of the intersection.

A committee of leading highway engineers has recommended the change from yellow to red, asking the National Bureau of Standards to determine "a suitable red color" for the signs.

Many Texas cities already have switched to the red and white STOP signs.

Plans for farm homes, other farm buildings and much farm equipment are available at the offices of local county extension agents.

FEEDING FOR MORE EGGS
The average sized hen consumes about 64 pounds of feed per year just to maintain her body and about 9/100 of a pound of feed to produce one egg. Thus hens laying 250 eggs per year will consume an average total of 86.5 pounds of feed (mash and scratch), or 4.15 pounds of feed for each dozen eggs. Now compare these figures with the consumption of a hen that lays only 100 eggs per year. She will consume a total of 73 pounds of feed, but this amounts to 8.8 pounds of feed per dozen eggs—or 4.65 pounds more than required by 250-egg hens. This clearly shows the profit-value of high producing hens that are fed properly. USE AYERS SUPREME 20% PROTEIN EGG MASH.

Disabled Vets Get Therapeutic Value As Well As Financial Aid From Poppy

The memorial poppies have been purchased and final arrangements are being discussed in committee meetings for the American Legion Auxiliary sponsored "Poppy Day" to be held here Nov. 7. Mrs. Alvin White and Mrs. Pearl Pinkert will report completed poppy plans at the Nov. 5 meeting of the Auxiliary. Plans for booths are being made and workers are being contacted for on-the-street sales. The possibility of door to door sales is being checked.

These local advance plans do not mark the beginning of the Auxiliary's poppy program. The program begins in the summer or fall when the manufacture of the poppies is started by disabled veterans in government hospitals and in special convalescent workshops maintained by the Auxiliary.

Throughout the following winter and spring months the disabled men are given profitable employment shaping the little red flowers. The program comes to a climax when the sale of the poppies takes place on the streets.

Financial Aid

The work of making the poppies is a true God-send to many hundreds of disabled veterans. They are paid for the flowers they shape, and if not too badly disabled they can earn a fair day's wage without exerting themselves to a harmful extent. The work is adjusted to meet prevailing hospital rules, and is given to disabled and hospitalized veterans, upon the approval of the medical officer, without regard to any government compensation received. For many it is the only possibility of earning money during the year.

As each completed poppy leaves the hands of a disabled man it means monetary help for the necessities and comforts not supplied by the hospitals, a small amount of money added to the little store for the veteran's use when he goes from the hospital to face the battle of winning back a place in the economic life of the country, or help toward buying food, fuel and clothing for his family at home. The men beseech the Auxiliary to be permitted to make more and more poppies. Their need is pitiful and their eagerness to help themselves through earning money rather than to depend on charitable donations awakens the highest admiration.

Only as many poppies can be made as are ordered by Auxiliary units. It is a happy day in a hospital or workshop when a large order for poppies is received. That means work for eager hands and the revivifying experience of a gain earning money for men who have been in long-enforced idleness. It means money to send home and relief from worry over families left destitute.

Therapeutic Value

The poppy making has a beneficial effect in addition to the money it enables the veterans to earn. The hours for sick men in the hospital are long and monotonous. In idleness their minds are prone to dwell on the hardships of their families or on their own disabilities. Mental depression inimical to recovery results. But men whose fingers are busy with the bright red poppy petals do not give themselves up to depressing worry. The hours are made shorter for them and they are given a new interest in life. The occupational therapy departments in the hospitals recognize the poppy work as having high therapeutic value.

The sale of poppies is conducted entirely by volunteer workers and every penny received goes into direct relief for the disabled men and the dependents of the dead and disabled.

Slaton Women Give Their Favorite Tested Recipes

Like so many women of her race, Inez Pette is an excellent cook, and many of her recipes are original. She depends very little on cook books. One of her originals is baked squash, a delicious dish.

Baked Squash

Wash and dice squash; peel and dice a large onion, and boil squash and onion in water salted to taste. When done drain water off and mash with potato masher. Add a large hunk of butter, a little salt and a little black pepper. Beat up an egg and stir it in, but be sure the squash is not hot enough to curdle eggs. Eggs may be added to the half cup of milk, which is also added to the mixture. Add a teaspoon of flour and pour into buttered casserole. Bake like a pudding.

Mrs. Pette has lived in Slaton since 1950. Her husband, Johnnie, cooks for the Superintendent at Santa Fe. The Pettes have two children, Johnnie, Jr., who will be three December 30, and Virginia Carolyn, who will be two January 3.

Inez is a member of the Baptist Church and belongs to the Slaton Art and Social Club and the Stay-Change Social Club, and a sewing club.

Her hobbies are sewing and card games. Before coming to Slaton she worked for six years as matron in the Santa Fe Depot at La Junta, Colorado. She says she couldn't begin to count the number of billfolds and purses that she turned in during those years. She once turned in a billfold containing $300, which happened to belong to the station master's.

TIME TO START

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT

As the days grow shorter, the poultry-raiser is warned to turn on the lights to maintain egg production. When the number of daylight hours are less than 12 out of the 24, artificial lighting is necessary.

It is commonly supposed that the use of artificial lights in the laying house stimulates greater feed consumption, which, in turn, results in an increased egg yield. The true reason for lighting is a much subtler one, having to do with the functioning of the pituitary gland of the bird. This gland directly affects the reproductive process, and as it is stimulated, the desire to reproduce, or lay eggs, is also stimulated. Some increase in feed consumption is necessary to provide the nutrients for egg formation.

Lights Needed

The common recommendation is to use a 40-watt lamp, equipped with a cone-shaped reflector 16 inches in diameter at the base and 4 inches high. At a height of 6 feet above the floor, such a light will cover an area of approximately 200 square feet.

Brighter lights may be used, but no greater stimulation of egg production will result, provided the lighting schedule is not changed. Customary practice is to locate the lights in a line midway between the front of the house and the roosts, and to space them about 10 feet apart in an average 20-foot-wide house. Automatic time switches to turn lights on and off are a great convenience, though not absolutely necessary.

Lighting Plans

Several different lighting plans may be used. Lights may be turned in the early morning and off at daylight, or they may be turned on at dusk and off a few hours later. Some poultrymen prefer to use a combination of morning and evening lighting. With any of these plans, the hours of light provided should be sufficient to give hens a 13 or 14-hour day.

Regularity in lighting is extremely important. Once started, the lights should be used all winter, without interruption. It is desirable to adjust the feeding schedule to the lighting plan; if lights are to be turned on at 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning, feed should be put out in the hoppers after the hens have gone to roost.

KIND HEARTED LADY LANDS IN DOG HOUSE

Mrs. Dick Taylor is in the dog house, and all because of a dog. Because a flea-bitten starving little pup got the best of Mrs. Taylor's tender hearted attitude toward animals. She took in the four-month-old female wire hair about three weeks ago, got rid of its fleas and fed it up until it became fat and sassy, full of pep, and cute as a button. It's a pretty little dog and Mrs. Taylor would like to keep it, but Mr. Taylor has had something to say about that.

Mr. Taylor is not grumpy and he doesn't dislike animals, but somebody has to put a foot down at the Taylor house or they would be crowded right out of their home by the motley crew of strays that have only to wag a tail or look at Mrs. Taylor with big sad eyes and whimper to find a place in her heart and home. The Taylors already have ten cats, rescued strays and their descendants, and two dogs, also rescued strays.

And if Mrs. Taylor were left to her own devices she would pick up every stray animal that people so thoughtlessly carry out to the country in the misguided belief that a happy home will be found. So Mrs. Taylor has been told that if she wants to live a long, healthy, happy and prosperous life, enjoying most of its advantages, she will stop picking up strays and get rid of the ones she has.

She knows that if she could put that doggie in a window, everyone who saw it would want it. It's not for sale; it's to be given away. Do you want it? Call Mrs. Taylor.

Heavy Rain—

out. He had expected to get another 100 bales.

Optimistic Estimate

Farmers said high winds and a lot of sand before the land is dry enough for harvesting activities might mean greater loss, but they are hoping for sunshine and some drying wind. One farmer remarked that the Avalanche reporter who estimated a $5 per bale grade loss should get the prize for the world's biggest optimist.

Water was over the curbs on many city streets following the downpour Thursday morning, and families have been forced to evacuate their homes in the lake area in the northwest part of town.

Telephone company trouble shooters were kept busy when lightning and wet cables knocked out phone service. One rural line was out of order from Thursday morning until late Monday afternoon, an indication of the extent of the telephone difficulty. Lightning struck the telephone line in the yard of the Edmund Kitten place, knocking the box off the house and twisting and breaking wire during the Sunday morning storm. Some rural families were without electricity Thursday and Sunday.

Store Damaged

Lightning also caused a portion of the roof of Jack's 5c and 10c Store to collapse when it struck the building at 9:30 a.m. Thursday. Damage to the building, fixtures and merchandise was estimated in excess of $15,000. If repair work progresses as promptly as anticipated, the store will be open for business tomorrow, according to the manager, Ray Samples.

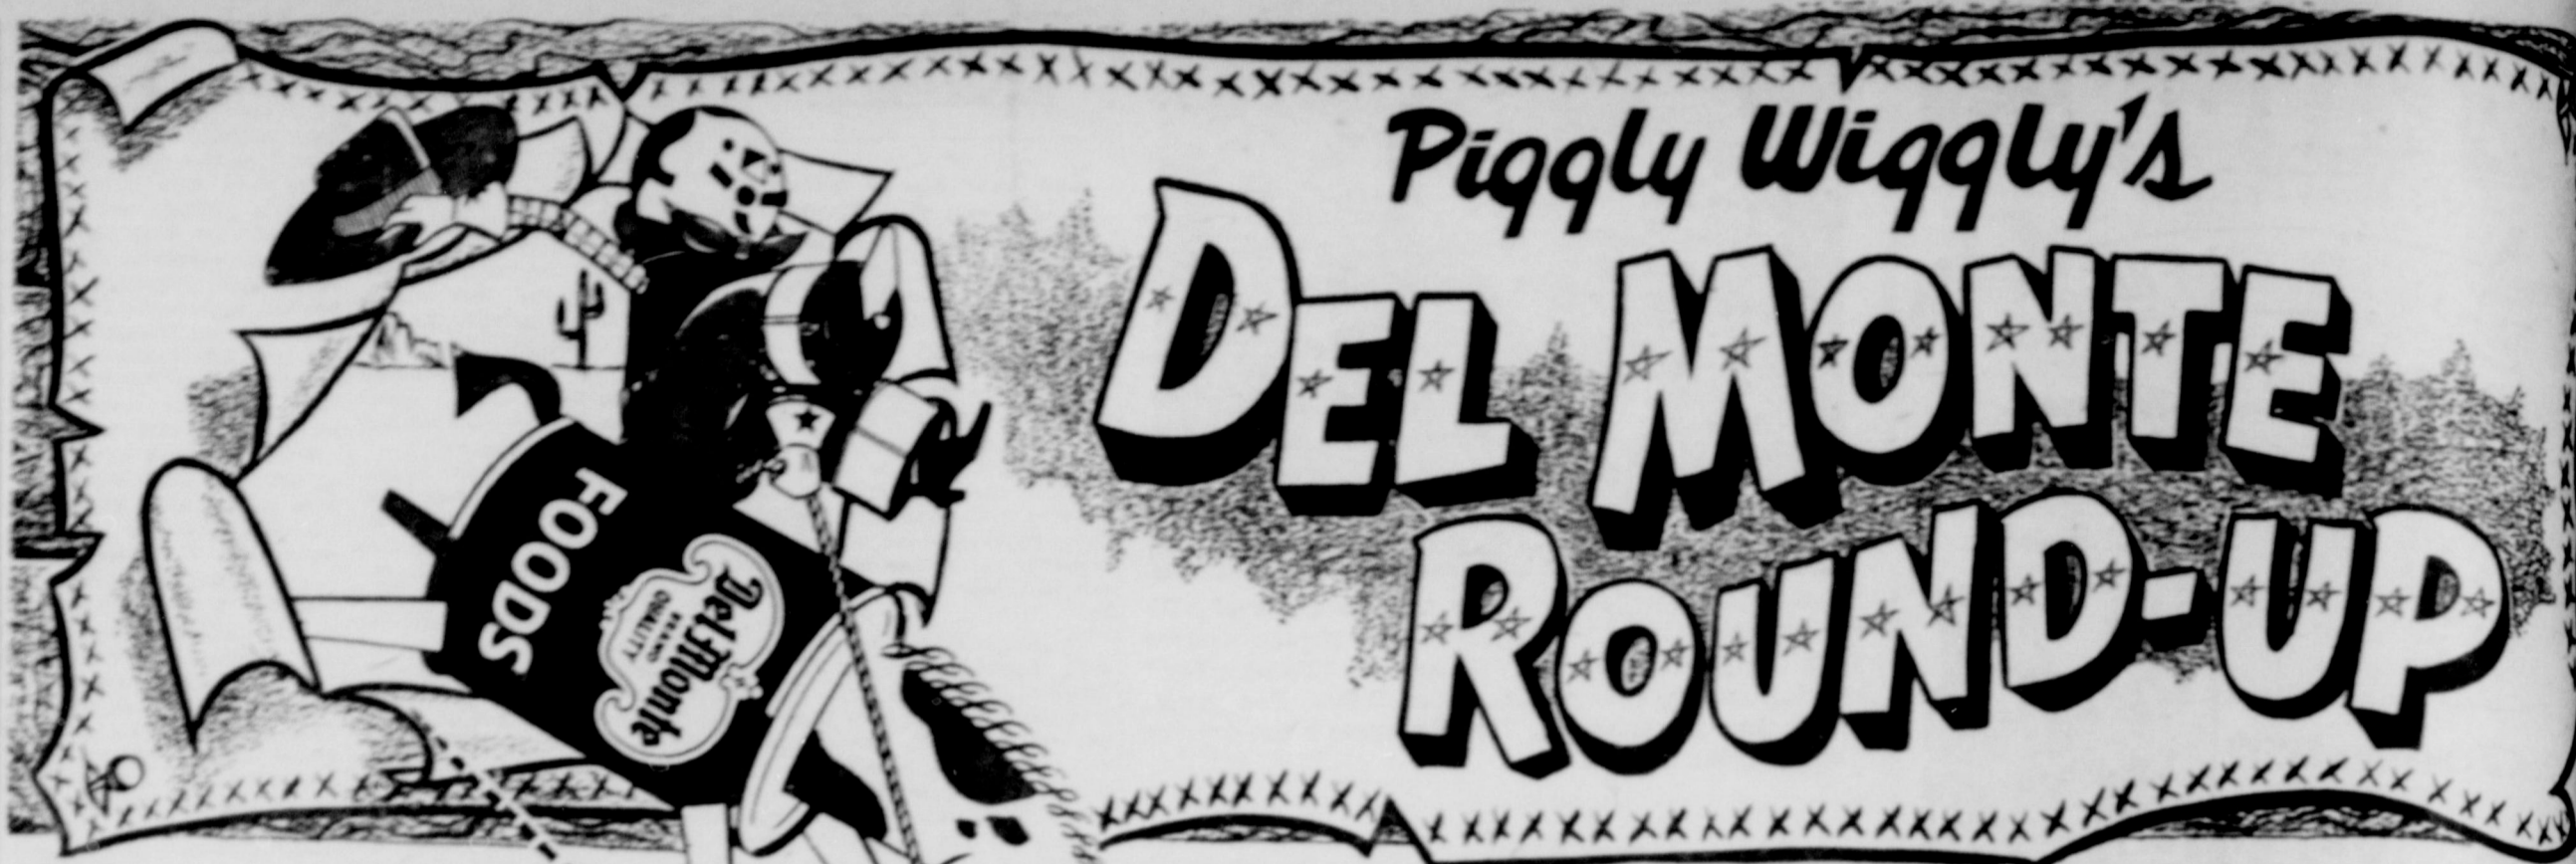

High School Principal, John Gilbert, says classes were dismissed one period Thursday morning to let the students watch the down-pour. "Some of our students may never have seen anything like that, and who knows how long it will be before they'll have a chance to see it again," commented the principal.

A number of people who watched the electrical storm that accompanied the Sunday morning rain reported seeing rolling balls of fire and other unusual lightning phenomena.

Mrs. James Lamb and daughters, Patricia and Dana, of Westminster, Calif., are visiting in the home of Mrs. J. B. Lamb. They have been here two weeks awaiting the arrival of James Lamb, who is aboard ship in Korean waters and is expected home soon.

Visiting in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bolding this week are Mrs. Bolding's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ward of Hugo, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mosser, Johnnie Sue and Terry, visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Gaither and family of Midland, Saturday and Sunday.
