

WHO'S SMART?

Perhaps over two thousand years ago the Polar Eskimos designed and started living in air-conditioned houses.

More than a thousand years ago the "cliff dwellers" on Mesa Verde built and operated a water collecting and storage system which 20th-century engineers, after failing with other devices, had to learn.

The "megalithic" temples and palaces of the Mayas in Yucatan were built perhaps ten centuries ago, and the enormous blocks of stone moved into place without either the wheel or beast of burden.

And now explorers and archaeologists have discovered that the famous road system of the ancient Incas was used by a courier system which covered 300 miles from sunup to sun-up. That's faster by 100 miles a day than the fabulous Pony Express of the early American West—probably faster than anything before the electric telegraph.

Every now and then modern man is reminded that he isn't quite so smart as he sometimes thinks he is—that some things, after all, were thought up before 1902. A good thing for us to reflect on. A good thing to ponder, also, that if Daniel Boone couldn't drive an automobile, neither could many of us find our way at all through his country.

Humility is a rare and precious attribute.—Christian Science Monitor.

WHY 'GOBBLEDEGOOK'?

The General Services Administration has set out to educate government offices out of "gobbledegook" and into "straightaway English." We wish it well. It will be quite a job—not because government administrators are stupid people. Far from that. But because the causes of "gobbledegook" run deep into the nature of all government operations and of many other big and long-established organizations.

"Gobbledegook" comes into being first because governments—national, state, and local—have to carry on strictly in accordance with the law, the letter as well as the intent. A "bureaucrat" who in his correspondence departs too far from "what the law says" may find himself in more trouble than the average businessman or housewife imagines. And "the law" is framed by legislators, and most legislators are lawyers, and legal language, although it has come quite a way toward simplicity, has still quite a way to go.

Another reason for mouthfilling prose is precedent. "How was it said last time?" Safer not to get too original. Saves time-consuming thought, too. That's why business offices kept on saying, "Your favor of the 13th received and contents noted . . ." and things like that long after no one spoke that way.

It takes courage to break away from tradition, effort to phrase thoughts simply. So, in order to "facilitate" printing of this page and to "ameliorate" the labor of the reader we shall "proceed to" the "finalizing" of this editorial.—Christian Science Monitor.

REWARDING STUDENTS

Honor students, according to a woman educator, should be given dinners and special trips such as are now given to champion athletes in an effort to build up the prestige of scholastic achievement.

On the surface, this suggestion by Lucile Mowery, guidance director at the Parma-Schaaf Junior High School in Parma, Ohio, has much to commend it. Winning athletic teams are given all sorts of honors not only by their classmates but by service clubs and community organizations as well. Honor students get no such attention. This does seem to put a premium on athletics.

It may be, however, that giving special recognition to honor students would not be approaching the problem from the proper direction. Students should be expected to do their very best at all times without special awards. A job well done should be acknowledged, but not as an avenue to glory. Students should learn early in life that on all occasions they are expected to do their very best, and that only on special occasions can they hope to receive extra honors for their work. The real rewards of scholarship are in learning itself.

Yet, having made this point, it cannot be denied that Miss Mowery's suggestion has appeal. Perhaps, though, the schools themselves rather than community organizations are the proper vehicles for rewarding scholastic achievement. An attempt should be made to give them extra encouragement without giving the impression that they can expect special awards for every job they do well.

CURTAIN CALL

Something To Hold To

"In fierce storms," said an old seaman, "we can do but one thing; there is only one way. We must put the ship in a certain position and keep her there."

This, Christian friend, is what we must do. Sometimes, like Paul, we can see neither sun nor stars, and no small tempest lies on us. Then we can do but one thing; there is only one way.

Reason cannot help us. It only makes us more conscious of our plight. Past experiences give us no light. As we remember them, we are more discouraged than ever. Dreams of a better day are not satisfying in our hour of need. The encouraging words help some; but they cannot get at the seat of the trouble. There is only a single course for us to follow. We must put our soul in one position and keep it there.

As we read in the text, we must stay upon the Lord; and, come what may—winds, waves, rough seas, thunder, lightning, hail, roaring waves—no matter what, we must lash ourselves to the helm and hold fast our confidence in God's faithfulness, His power, and His everlasting love.

We do not know the future; but we can have faith in the one that controls our future. Presently we live in a world that is rocking and reeling. Our only hope is to be found in an invisible God that has numbered the hairs of our heads, and is conscious of the death of a sparrow. Our eyes are dim and our hearing is weak because of our humanity; but we can be compassed through life by the all-seeing eye of Jesus, if we will stay on Him.

Paul said, "I know in whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day." By faith, we can sail through the mine fields of the sea to the other shore safely and unharmed.

Punch-line to the year's hottest power story—

Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire V8"!

This is the engine that's writing a whole new chapter in the book of automobile performance records. This is the engine that has stock car timers doing a "double take" at their stop-watches wherever experts gather to compare the abilities of the 1955 cars.

For example, in the recent NASCAR stock car competition at Daytona Beach, Florida, Chevrolet literally ran away from every other car in its class—and a raft of others besides. In the one-mile straightaway run for low-priced cars, the first two places—and six of the first ten—went to Chevrolets. And in acceleration runs from a standing start against all comers, Chevrolet beat all other low-priced cars—and every high-priced car except one!

What's behind this blazing performance? A compact honey of a V8 that only the world's leading producer of valve-in-head engines can build. Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry (that means less piston travel... longer engine life)! And it delivers the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-priced field. It's so efficient that it requires only four quarts of oil instead of the usual five... needs less radiator coolant, too. It's the most modern V8 under anybody's hood!

It puts a new kind of fun in your driving life. You're in charge of 162 high-spirited horsepower—or if you're looking for even more excitement, the new "Super Turbo-Fire V8" (optional at extra cost) puts 180 h.p. under your toe!

Pick the one you'd rather have fun with, then come in and get behind the wheel. You'll see why the Motoramic Chevrolet is showing its heels to everyone else on the road!

No other low-priced car has any—no high-priced car has all—of these great Chevrolet features!

Body by Fisher—Nine engine-drive choices in any model—12-volt electrical system—Anti-Dive braking—Outrigger rear springs—Ball-Race steering—High-Level ventilation—Double-Arch cowl construction.

THE SENIORS of Slaton High School are to be commended for their fine performances given in their annual play last Thursday night. A large crowd of citizens attended, and the young people gave unusually polished performances in the novel play "Curtain Going Up," which revealed some hilarious and exciting events that a mythical senior class had in presenting a similar play.

The cast required very little prompting, and if any of them felt stage fright, they failed to show it. Nancy Clifton was particularly convincing in her role as Miss Irene Burgess, the play director; and David Collins revealed hidden comedy talent in his role as a darkey. Roy Lynn Wells almost "stole the show" as a slovenly janitor, while Skipper Tumlison was a natural as the muscled athlete. All the others, too numerous to mention here, turned in fine performances and helped make the evening a memorable one.

A CAR dealer who was having trouble collecting installments, wrote a customer: "What would your neighbors think if I repossessed the car?"

Two weeks later he received this reply: "All the neighbors think it would be a lousy trick."

THE CUSTOM of kissing children good night is dying out. Parents nowadays can't wait up for them.

HERE & THERE: The County Park is shaping up as a real recreational spot for Slaton citizens, with the Little League ball park being the latest addition to the facilities. With tennis courts, swimming pool, picnic grounds, Little League baseball, scout hall, Tiger's Town and the Clubhouse for banquets and other meetings; the County Park should attract thousands of Slaton people this summer . . .

Wouldn't it be a good idea for Slaton to have a "spring house-cleaning" before the Frontier Day Celebration June 3-4, which will attract many out-of-town people. Trash and paper should be removed from vacant lots and streets and a general clean-up staged.

A MAN and his wife, married for 10 years, suddenly were visited by a tornado. It ripped the roof off, picked them into the air, and set them down a mile from the spot. The husband, seeing his wife sobbing, said, "Don't cry, dear. You're safe."

She moaned, "I'm crying because I'm so happy. Don't you realize that this is the first time we've been out together in 10 years?"

SEVERAL complaints have been heard recently about children riding their bicycles on the sidewalks — especially in the downtown area. This is a dangerous practice for both the bike riders and the pedestrians, as well as being against the law.

ONE of the "pressing" problems on this scribe's mind this week is what to wear as the maid-of-honor in the Lion's Club "Womanless Wedding," Friday, May 6, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Perhaps our biggest clothing problem is the matter of suitable shoes. My feet are not the most dainty in the world and combined with weak knees that I will have that night from having to parade down the aisle; high heels might result in an un-maidenly fall. Perhaps a pair of these strapless, toeless, heelless things that women some-

Recovered From Severe Illness, High School Freshman Back Home

"It feels real good to be home." That was the sentiment expressed Friday by Lucille Lewis, 16-year-old Slaton High School freshman, after a six-weeks stay in a Galveston hospital, where an operation was performed to remove an infected spleen that almost took her life.

The infected spleen had resulted in Miss Lewis suffering a severe anemic condition with several months of hospitalization and 14 transfusions prior to being transferred to John Sealy Hospital at Galveston. She had three additional transfusions at John Sealy, making a total of 17 prior to her operation.

It was a joyous homecoming for Miss Lewis and despite the long train ride Thursday from Galveston, she was able to sit in the living room Friday and watch her favorite television programs. She was accompanied on the trip by her mother, Mrs. L. W. Lewis.

"My brother and sisters were asleep when we arrived home, and they were really surprised to see us," Miss Lewis said. Her brother, Eugene, is six years old, while her sisters are Betty June, 17, and Dorothy Ann, 9. Mr. Lewis, employed as a painter for Santa Fe

Red Cross Week Being Observed

Volunteer members of the American Red Cross will join with the volunteers of 72 other countries the week of May 8-14 to celebrate International Red Cross Week in honor of the organization's founder, Henri Dunant, born 127 years ago on May 8, 1828, in Geneva, Switzerland.

Observance of International Red Cross Week will take place throughout the United States with many chapters holding open house activities.

The organization came into being after Dunant had witnessed the battle of Solferino in 1859. It was from his personal experience on the battlefield that led him to find a way to protect the sick and wounded in time of war.

This beginning resulted in the first Geneva Convention in 1864 for the care of the war-wounded and the start of the international Red Cross movement.

Since that meeting in Geneva, the Red Cross emblem has come to be recognized as the international symbol of mercy. It now has 73 national societies in all parts of the world.

The American Red Cross also cooperates closely with the International Red Cross Committee and the League of Red Cross Societies. During 1954 it aided 17 countries hit by catastrophes. This included war ravaged Vietnam and Korea. Assistance was also given to victims of the Danube floods and hurricane sufferers in Haiti.

In addition to many of the services offered by the American Red Cross, sister societies also engage in a number of activities not carried on in this country. These include operation and maintenance of hospitals, clinics, children's homes, refugee camps, nurses training institutes, and many other

Blakes Return From Touring Nine States

Minister M. E. Blake and Mrs. Blake have returned from a month's trip into nine states covering about 5,000 miles. Mr. Blake held two revival meetings while he was gone. One was at The Dalles, Oregon for 11 days and the other one was at Jerome, Idaho for eight days. Leaving Slaton they drove to the Grand Canyon and saw Boulder Dam. One night was spent in Las Vegas, Nev. and they also visited in Reno. The Blakes then went through Death Valley in California then to Medford, Ore., where they visited with friends. The state capitol in Salem, Ore. was visited by the Blakes and they said they had a very interesting time going through the paper mills and watching the river barges pushing the logs on the river. In describing the country they were very enthusiastic about the drives along the rivers with the beautiful flowers and trees. In Idaho they enjoyed seeing the ring-necked pheasants. They are as common and numerous as the sparrows are in Slaton. Mr. Blake said their main concern was the weather. While they were in Idaho it snowed almost every day. In Salt Lake City there was a five inch snow storm and they had to travel over a mountain that had about four inches of ice on the highway. He said Texas had nothing to brag about as far as the weather was concerned as they ran into a snow storm, an ice storm and a sand storm in eight hours time. On their return trip they went through the Mormon Tabernacle and Museum and made a tour of the grounds. Farmington, N. M. was the last stop before arriving home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bowman Jr. spent the week end in Ft. Worth visiting Mr. Bowman's grandmother, Mrs. N. E. Carter, who has been ill.

WESTERN DINNER GIVEN FOR SHS SENIORS BY METHODIST

An annual western dinner was given Monday, May 2 at 7:45 p.m. in the First Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, for the senior class of Slaton High School, by the First Methodist Church. The western theme was carried out by a covered chuck wagon with old flat irons, tubs, pots and frying pans. The guests received their silver, napkins and plates from this wagon. The beans were served from a large pot hanging over a campfire. From a table laid with a red and white checked cloth and centered with blooming cacti, the remainder of the food was served. Candles were placed in bottles and lights glowed from lighted lamps and lanterns. For more atmosphere, Davy Crockett and his trusty rifle was placed in a chair and a "western" scarecrow was in one corner of the hall.

A large group enjoyed a menu of barbecued weiners, potato salad, red beans, onions, bread, iced tea, and doughnuts. For the program a quartet composed of Peggy Kenney, Mary Lee Buxkemper, Martha Allred and Sue Corley sang, accompanied by Mrs. M. G. Davis. Tracy Crawford sang two solos, also. The Rev. J. L. Mayhew brought a short talk to the young people. A film, "Sports in the Southwest," was shown by P. L. Vardy Jr. This film was furnished by the Santa Fe Railroad. For an appropriate closing the entire group sang "Blest Be The Tie."

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hoover, Gay and Timmy attended church Sunday at Vandellia Village Church of Christ in Lubbock. Their son, Bobby Hoover, is the minister. They went from church to the Pioneer Park, where lunch was prepared and served picnic style for all the Churches of Christ in Lubbock. An estimated 2,000 people attended. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Brown of Smyer, Mrs. C. E. Warder and Murli Holdren of Slaton.

West Ward Wins Traveling Trophy In County Meet

The traveling trophy was won by West Ward School of Slaton in the county elementary interscholastic League literary and athletic contests Friday night and Saturday at Lorenzo.

With a total of 96 points, the Slaton students edged out Roosevelt to bring home the trophy for the first time. Principal James D. Perkins pointed out it will be necessary for West Ward to win the county meet three successive years before it will become the school's permanent possession.

The Slaton elementary choral group tied Falls for first place in competition Friday night. Mary Ruth Green and Bentley Page Jr., both won second in sub-junior girls and boys declamation.

Results of Saturday's competition follow: Thelma Lee Kidd, first, story telling; Linda Shelton and Johnny Morris, team, third, 5th and 6th grade spelling; James Cole and Cherie Arrants, team, first, 7th and 8th grade spelling and plain writing; Karen Henry, second, ready writing; Bill Clark, first, number sense (missed only two out of 125 questions); boys softball team, first; and girls softball team, third.

In the track events, Dale Gordon placed first in shot put.

Ernest Hillen, who is a barber at the Palace Barber Shop, was transferred Tuesday from the hospital in Big Spring to Mercy Hospital. His condition is reported to be poor.
