40 GAIN—One of the numerous good gains chalked up by Slaton's Tigers in 45-6 conquest of Ralls Friday night was one by Ronald Smith, Bengal right half. It came on the first play from scrimmage in the third quarter when Smith took a handoff from Perry Reynolds and scampered around left end from the Tiger 29 to the Ralls 48 before being hit out of bounds by Jackrabbit Tackle A. J. Langdon (not in picture). Some fancy stepping got Smith past Ralls defenders Noel Davis (No. 67) and Phil Roberts (No. 87). The Bengals scored three plays later when Chester Fondy rumbled over from three yards out for the fifth Tiger touchdown. (Slatonite Staff Photo by Richard Perry)

Slaton To Vote On $90,000 Water Bond Issue Tomorrow

Tigers Overpower Ralls; Play O'Donnell Tonight

Better Service On Northbound Mail

An arrangement which will mean better service on northbound Slaton mail was announced this week by Postmaster T. E. McClanahan. Heretofore, northbound mail has left Slaton only on the morning train. Now there'll be a northbound mail pouch on the 5 p.m. bus to Lubbock, the postmaster said. The schedule will provide better service for both regular and air mail letters. Northbound mail for the 5 p.m. bus should be in the post office not later than 4:30 p.m., McClanahan emphasized.

Okay Of Issue Would Clear Way For More Water

An estimated 300 resident property owners are expected to go to the polls here this Saturday between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. to register their votes on the $90,000 waterworks and sewage improvement bond issue called by the Slaton city commission on Sept. 14 as a means toward improving this city's water situation. Voting places tomorrow will be as follows: Ward No. 1 (Southwest Slaton): City Secretary's office; Ward No. 2 (Northwest Slaton): Retail Merchant's Association office; Ward No. 3 (Northeast Slaton): Police office; Ward No. 4 (Southeast Slaton): Chamber of Commerce office. The bond issue is split into two parts. In substance, resident taxpayers will ballot for or against (a) the issuance of $85,000 in waterworks improvement and extension bonds, and (b) the issuance of $5,000 in sew improvement and extension bonds.

SHARP BLOCKING PAVES WAY FOR 45-6 CONQUEST

With a rousing 45-6 rout of Ralls here Friday night that sent the hopes of local grid fans rocketing to a higher pitch than in several years, Slaton's Tigers will trek to O'Donnell this Friday night for an 8 p.m. engagement with Coach Ed Robertson's thrice-beaten Eagles.

When they board the bus this afternoon for the 35-mile trek to the Lynn County city, a lot of Tigers will be thinking about the narrow 14-13 licking given them here last year by the Eagles.

Things promise to be different this time, however. Gone from the Eagle fold is their brilliant quarterback of last year, Benny Clark. He's a Texas Tech freshman now. Graduation took 10 others, and 11 other squadmen—six of them probable starters—moved away.

The District 4-A Eagles are winless in three starts. They dropped their opener to Meadow 34-6, were edged by Post 19-13 the next time out, and took a 44-7 shellacking last Friday from the Tahoka Bulldogs.

Have Good Backs

Even so, the Eagles are not to be taken lightly. Back from last year's starting team are three good starting backs: Derry Moore, Tommy Modisette and James Raines.

Modisette, 130 pounds, and Raines, 150, are both breakaway runners who can go all the way and in the 146-pound Moore, Coach Robertson has found a capable T-quarterback to replace the brilliant Clark. Moore is touted as a better-than-average passer and a clever ball handler. His favorite passing (See O'Donnell, Page 4)

VOTE STREETLIGHTS

Erection of a mercury vapor streetlight midway in the 100-block on West Lynn and a residential streetlight at Tenth and Dickens was voted Monday by Slaton city commissioners.

Meyer Rites Read Sunday In Posey Lutheran Church

Funeral services were held Sunday at 3 p.m. for William H. Meyer, 86, of Rt. 1, Slaton, who died late Thursday night in Lubbock Memorial Hospital. The Rev. H. F. Treptow officiated at services in the Posey Lutheran Church.

Meyer, a retired farmer, had lived in the Slaton Community since 1915. He was born in Germany and came to this country in 1885 at the age of 18.

He is survived by five sons: Will of Slaton, Fred of Tahoka, Otto, Charlie and Edwin, all of Lubbock; two daughters, Mrs. Robert Stolle and Mrs. James Talley, both of Slaton; thirteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Englewood cemetery under the direction of Williams Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Herbert Brinkmeyer, Alvin Brinkmeyer, Fred Schroeder, Fred Stolle, Chester Smith and Clarence Lobstine.

Announce Schedule Changes At Evans, East Ward Schools

New dismissal time at East Ward School and at Evans School is 12:30 p.m., it was announced this week by Supt. of Schools Lee Vardy.

The change, which became effective Wednesday, has been made to allow students to help with the cotton harvest, the superintendent explained.

Classes at the two schools begin now at 8 a.m. instead of 9 a.m. and recess periods have been eliminated so that a full schedule of classes is held prior to the new 12:30 p.m. dismissal time.

No definite date has been set for resumption of the regular class schedule.

CITY VOTES $300 ANNUALLY FOR WELFARE

The Slaton city commission on Monday night authorized an annual grant of $300 for support of the Lubbock City-County Child Welfare Unit.

The unit, organized in June of 1949, places underprivileged children in responsible foster homes, and has handled 699 cases—several of them from Slaton—since it was organized, it was explained to commissioners by Travis Reynolds, vice-chairman of the organization.

The City of Lubbock and Lubbock County each give $6,000 per year to support the unit. All of the money contributed locally goes for child support, because the unit's supervisor and two case workers are paid out of state and federal funds, Reynolds explained.

Slaton's $300 annual contribution toward support of the unit will be paid in quarterly $75 installments, according to the decision voted by the commission on Monday.

Smith Resigns From City Police Force

A. W. "Andy" Smith resigned this week as a member of the Slaton police force. Smith had been a night patrolman since Sept. 1, 1952. He plans to move to San Angelo to ranch four sections of grassland.

The city commission has authorized the employment of Alvin O. White, 855 West Division, as a replacement for Smith.

LOCAL SCHOOL ENROLLMENT INCREASES

Enrollment in Slaton's public schools has leveled off at 1,311 students, it was announced this week by Supt. of Schools Lee Vardy.

That's 52 students more than the 1,259 who registered for the first day of classes on Sept. 8.

The present enrollment breakdown includes East Ward, 109; West Ward, 705; Evans School, 136; Eighth Grade (at the high school), 85, and high school, 276.

M. C. Craddock of Los Angeles, Calif., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Craddock, recently.

An Editorial . . .

This Saturday local property owners go to the polls to register yes or no votes on what this newspaper considers one of the most important bond elections ever held here.

The question at hand, in substance, is whether we voters will authorize the expenditure of $85,000 to improve this city's water system and $5,000 to improve Slaton's sewage system.

The key facts at the base of the issue are that we haven't enough facilities to produce an adequate supply of water for city consumption, and that we haven't enough water storage facilities. The latter fact looms as the more important of the two.

City water officials probably would use a more technical terminology, but the facts boil down to these: Water consumption drops off sharply during a good rain, and conversely, it reaches a peak during drouthy periods. During periods of good rainfall, the city should be in the position to take advantage of the lowered water demand by storing away large quantities of water for use in those periods when demand will be at peak levels.

Unfortunately, Slaton is not in a position to do so. This city's overhead water storage facilities total only 120,000 gallons, considerably less than half the MINIMUM amount of storage recommended by the State of Texas for a city of this size.

In a nutshell, what water we're able to store away during a good rain for future use is a proverbial "drop in the bucket" compared to what we need.

Should tomorrow's bond issue be okayed by the voters, city officials plan to use a big part of the $90,000 to provide Slaton with adequate overhead water storage.

During the summer just past, Slaton didn't have enough water to meet even the needs of present inhabitants. It's preposterous to look forward to a growing Slaton until that situation is improved.

Tomorrow's bond issue is a key to future growth.

Too, another gratifying prospect of the matter is that city commissioners have pledged no increase in taxes to foot the bill for the $90,000 bond issue. Current thinking is that a small monthly water and sewage charge will provide sufficient revenue to meet the bond payments as they come due.

Just as water is the basic requirement for a growing body, so is it the basic requirement for a growing city. A "no" vote at tomorrow's election is a ballot for stagnation and decay.

A "yes" vote is a ballot for a modern, growing Slaton with businesses, homes, schools and churches of which we can all be justifiably proud.

New Building For Postoffice May Be Ready By Jan. 1st

It will be a close squeeze, but going to do my best to have it ready for occupancy by the first of the year."

There were Oran McWilliams' intentions this week concerning the new post office which will be built on his property immediately south of Reed's Drive-In on the east side of the square.

Head of the post office connected to McWilliams last Friday as postmaster general's office. He is currently in charge of the new post office. The terms most of the trio of new buildings at the southwest corner of the square had been considered the likely site for the post office.

The building will front west and be 30½ by 90 feet. McWilliams said. It will have a modern floor and glass front with the back and to be constructed of concrete block.

Other features will include a floor with asphalt tile covering, air-conditioning, two ceiling fans, three rows of fluorescent lighting, end-to-end throughout the building, two restrooms, janitor room, and burglarproof windows at the rear of the building.

The post office department will be housed in the building from McWilliams under a 10-year lease agreement, and McWilliams has agreed to an additional 10-year agreement.

Prints for the building were ready this week, and construction will be let sometime next week, McWilliams explained.

AGRICULTURIST ADDRESS CLUB

A practical "what, when, how" explanation of cotton production by a Pacific coast agriculturist has been tentatively scheduled as the program for the monthly dinner meeting of the Slaton Agriculture Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 6, it was announced this week by Robert Hall, program chairman.

The meeting will be held at the Club House. Membership is open to anyone who is interested and farmers are especially welcome. Contact to Joe S. Walker, Jr., president. No invitation is necessary to attend meetings of the club which meets on the first Friday night of each month for dinner and program.

LOCAL POSSE TAKES TROPHY AT N. M. FAIR

Twenty-eight members of the Slaton Ranger Posse with their horses and their miniature pony-drawn chuck wagon rode parade Saturday morning at the opening of the New Mexico State Fair at Albuquerque. They were on horseback from 7 a.m. until 1:30 p.m., riding 7 miles in parade and about 7 miles to get to the site where the parade formed.

Saturday night the Slaton Rangers rode grand entry at the rodeo and were awarded a trophy for second place. The Santa Fe, New Mexico, posse took first place.

Ranger President, M. C. Eakin, says a hundred thousand would be a low estimate of the crowd gathered to witness the parade. There were out-of-state cars from every state. The Slaton Posse got good introductions from the sound trucks and members considered the trip fine advertisement for the city of Slaton.

"We were treated exceptionally nice and were well taken care of during our stay," says M. C. Eakin. The trip was the longest made in the history of the Slaton Rangers posse. Members left Slaton at 6 a.m. Friday morning and their horses were transported by truck. The group returned home Sunday.

Ag Students Receive Merit Certificates

A. C. Strickland, Grady Smith and L. C. Strube of Slaton were guests at the Sept. 28 session of the Lubbock Agriculture Club, held at the Lubbock Community Clubhouse.

Smith was presented a certificate of merit on cotton production and Strube received a certificate of merit for supervised farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Webb visited Mrs. Webb's mother, Mrs. H. C. Burge of Wichita Falls last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson and Nancy of Seminole were week end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McGehee from Lazbuddie visited Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dowell and family on Saturday.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Self over the week-end was Mrs. Self's nephew, Douglas Attaway, a student at Texas Tech.

Touchdown Club To Organize

The Touchdown Club was scheduled to hold its first meeting of the year at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, Oct. 1, at the city hall, it was announced Monday by Alex Webb.

Chief business at hand, Webb said, was to be election of officers and the outlining of club plans for the remainder of the Slaton High School football season. All members of the 1952 Touchdown Club and all others interested in supporting high school football here were urged to be present for the organizational session.

URGES YOUTH TO AVOID CLOSED POOL

Kids will be kids, but where that involves slipping into a closed swimming pool for a cooling dip, it can be dangerous, Chamber of Commerce President Bob Ayers pointed out this week.

Since Slaton's pool closed on Sept. 7, quite a few Slaton youngsters have been doing just that, and it's a justifiable cause of concern to Ayers and other swimming pool committeemen.

"The best swimmer might suffer a cramp and drown before anyone could get to him," Ayers pointed out.

The C. of C. president is asking all parents to advise their children concerning the dangers present in swimming in the closed pool.

Water is still in the pool, Ayers explained, because it helps minimize the possibility of cracking.

Too, the water in the pool is no longer filtered or chlorinated as it was when the pool was open, he emphasized.

COLLIDES WITH BIKE

Last week Patsy Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Edwards, collided with a bicycle and blacked her eye and bruised the left side of her face as she was leaving West Ward School at lunch time. Patsy is a first grade student. She had gotten into her father's car, then jumped out to bring her little cousin to the car and ran into a bicycle on which two children were riding. She missed a half day of school. The children on the bike were reported to be unharmed.

Russia's A-Bomb and Our Reply

Maybe it was a coincidence, but Russia's announcement of its improved A-bomb hit the front pages simultaneously with our own announcement that the Thule air base in Greenland is being put to use. It is about 5,100 miles from New York to Moscow. It is about 2,100 miles from the Thule base to Moscow. A wide arc of Russia proper and Siberia lie within easy striking distance of the Thule base.

Russia announces its new powerful A-bomb with the "hope that a ban will be placed on all types of devices for mass destruction." In the United Nations Security Council Russia has been adamant against any proposal for inspection of armament on mutual protective basis. Russia wants an agreement among nations for banning the "devices for mass destruction." But Russia insists that the other countries take her word for compliance on her part.

Our establishment of the Thule base is not merely the establishment of another military installation. It is revolutionary. It is a new strategy based on a new concept of world geography in which distances are reckoned in great-circle arcs. It is a concept that may make the North Polar region the arena of the next great conflict. It is geography adapted to the atom age.

We establish the Thule base with the hope that we will not have to use it in war—with the hope that an agreement can be reached under which all such bases, as well as devices, for mass destruction can be abolished. Russia will agree to abolish them when she is convinced of the futility of her dream of world conquest through the use of the them. For every new bomb that Russia announces, we will have a bomb, and a base from which to throw it.—Dallas Morning News.

Fashions for GI's

GIs are about to acquire "socks appeal."

The Army, it has been announced will soon issue a new type of sock described by the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers as "a handsome ribbed affair made of the finest mercerized yarn."

"Lack of an attractive sock does to a soldier's uniform what lack of a front tooth does to his face," an Army officer is quoted as saying. "It may not be so important in itself, but it ruins the whole effect."

... And had you heard? GI trousers, it is rumored, are likely to be shortened to follow what is called "the trend in civilian suits." As the hosiery association logically points out, this will make socks all the more conspicuous.

While the length of a soldier's trousers or the design of his socks may not stir the fashion furor that attends each quarter-inch change in the length of feminine skirts, it's reassuring to know that the GI proudly wearing his country's uniform can step with equal pride right into the full glare of the fashion spotlight, to walk with the world's "best dressed."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Those Extra Acres

Last spring, just as in every other spring, West Texas farmers prepared their land for planting cotton. They knew that it was dry, that conditions were not favorable, but they wanted to be ready if rain did fall.

In many areas the rain didn't come soon enough, so the cotton wasn't planted. But the intent to plant existed for thousands upon thousands of acres.

It is those unplanted acres which are worrying West Texas farmers today. We are almost certainly faced with acreage controls on cotton next year since the national crop already exceeds the level which makes controls necessary under present laws. West Texas farmers want those unplanted acres counted in on their base acreage from which allotments are figured. It seems only fair that these acres should be considered.

The state PMA committee, charged with handling an allotment program, wants to measure the acres, the farmers want them measured, many West Texas organizations want them measured. But Washington PMA officials say they can not be measured, that adjustments will be made for such situations.

PMA Chairman Claude McCan believes a measured acreage figure would provide a basis for the adjustments. The acreage should be counted as cotton. It should be measured as cotton and ought to be used in any figures which provide a cotton base for West Texas. The intent was clearly there. Farmers need those extra acres and the PMA must give proper and just consideration to this proposal.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Teachers Lost In Scramble

A recent story in the New York Times said some branches of industry are conducting a "mad scramble" for college seniors and are "even picking them off the campus in the manner of baseball scouts."

The statement was based on a survey of 195 companies by the National Industrial Conference Board. The survey also revealed that the average beginning salary offered by industry to college graduates holding bachelor of arts degrees is $3696. The average beginning salary offered a person with a master's degree is $4440.

The average beginning salaries for both categories are much higher than the top minimums required by the present Gilmer-Aikin salary schedule for experienced Texas teachers. Minimum teaching salary required for the new graduate with a bachelor's degree is $2463. The top minimum required after that person has attained twelve years of experience, is $3051. The minimum for a person with a master's degree and no experience is $2628. The highest salary required by our present salary schedule is $4032 for the holder of a master's degree who has 28 years of teaching experience.

The figures make obvious the reason Texas is losing teachers much faster than it is gaining new ones.—Texas Schools.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK...OCT. 1-8

An Informed PRESS---

An Informed PEOPLE

As a part of National Newspaper Week, we, the publishers and staff of the Slatonite, want to state the aims and goals of our Newspaper . . . our obligations to the public, to ourselves, and to good journalism . . . Goals that are high, but not out of reach . . . that will help us produce the best Newspaper possible for you . . . our readers.

* Any newspaper is faced with three responsibilities: one to its owner, one to the public, and one to good journalism.

* Before any newspaper can fulfill its debt to the public it must first meet its obligation to its owner. It must make money.

* A newspaper is a business as well as a public service. It must be a business which pays its own way without government subsidy or gift from class or industry. It must put out material worth the price of subscription and advertising.

* If it does this and maintains its self-respect, in that it prints the news as it happens with respect to its importance, it is a public service. Otherwise it might become a private service sold to the highest bidder. The greatest shame here is that the ignorant will accept its front page as the truth and the informed will lose respect for all honest journalism. Because of this, truth is the greatest virtue of journalism. Truth in newspaper writing is not an idealistic goal, but a thing which must be attained and kept.

* The newspaper must speak the truth, not as the publisher sees it, but as it happened. Cold fact and commentary must be separated.

"A free press and a free society are essentially one. As the press can know freedom only in a democratic state, so democracy itself is fortified by a free press.

"This strengthening of our society is, of course, the antithesis of the ignoble service performed by the press of totalitarian countries. The effectiveness of a free press is virtually to be measured by the integrity, candor and responsibility of its criticism."

—Dwight D. Eisenhower

* A newspaper must print all the news, not what appeals to the majority or slights the minority. For this is prejudice, and the shame of a public service. Creation is not the responsibility of the newspaper. Reproduction is. A good newspaper contains a full, unbiased account of what happened.

* If it is written in a manner which will induce thinking it approaches literature. If it is written in a clear style, bringing action to the reader, making him feel the situation, and written so all who subscribe to it can understand, it is literature. And it is fulfilling its responsibilities to its owner, public and itself.

Tiger Scoring Far Ahead Of Pace Set By 1952 Gridders

A "statistic" of some interest is the fact that in rolling to a total of 36 points in their first three games this year, the Slaton Tigers have scored more points than the 1952 Bengal team in their first seven games.

Through the first seven games of the year, the Tigers scored 97 points. They added an additional 36 points in their final three, totaling for a season scoring total of 133 points. Their highest scoring output was 26 points against the Morton Indians.

Thus, only three games deep in the season, the 1953 Tigers are only 30 points away from matching the season scoring output of the 1952 Tigers.

Defensively, too, things look different. The first three 1952 Tiger opponents—Petersburg, Abernathy and Seagraves—rolled to 63 points against the Tigers. The first three 1953 Tiger opponents—Coahoma, Seagraves and Ralls—have managed only 31 points, with only Coahoma scoring more than once against the local aggregation.

S.H.S. SNOOPER

Boy, this week sure went by quick. Monday was here before I could even get our Friday. Well, anyway here I am with more scoops of news about S.H.S.

Before I forget it, there was something rather funny said in Study Hall the other day. Someone went up to the desk to see if they could go to the office. The teacher told them they would have to fill out a pass and then go to the office and get another pass to go home. Well this kinda floored the student, so he asked why. Naturally the teacher didn't know—but anyway his comment was, "This school is getting more like a prison every day." Frankly, I agree! (In some ways.)

The band has been going to school early again this week and working on new marches and practicing marching also. Some of the members went into Mr. Townsend's office and asked him about entering the fair contest. At first I don't think he much wanted us to, in fact he said he didn't much want us to, but sure enough the next morning in the paper Slaton had been entered. You know what, Mr. Townsend is just a good egg.

Lindell Grigsby, who is from Lubbock and plays a baritone in the band, sure is getting popular with all the kids here. We sure hope you enjoy going to school here and being in the S.H.S. activities, Lindell. By the way, girls, he isn't hooked yet.

Miss Brewer was sure talking to some girls in her class secretly the other day. Why don't you tell the others too?

Well I was only able to get three lists of the class officers this week so here they are: Sophomores: Jerry Don Ross, president; Mike Haddock, vice president; Mary Lee Buxkemper, secretary; Barbara Felty, treasurer; Barbara McCoy, reporter; and the representatives to student council are Sue Corley and Billy Caldwell. The Juniors are: John Richey, president; Ray Wilkins, vice president; Betty Willis, secretary; Norma Corley, treasurer; representatives to the student council, Ronald Smith and Pat Wells. The Seniors are: president, Arlie Hoover; vice president, Tommy Bickers; secretary, Barbara McGinley; treasurer, Neta Sanders; and the student council members are Darrell Wiley and Jo Ann Haliburton. Next week I will have the Freshman officers.

The FFA members elected their officers and they are: president, L. C. Strube; vice president, Stiles Belcher; secretary, Leroy Kitten; treasurer, Travis Gentry; reporter, Harold Moore; historian, Bryan Morgan; parliamentarian, Curtis Eakin; second vice president, Sam Moore; third vice president, Loran Gilliland; sentinel, Butch Hargrave; and conductors, Quinton Strube and Daniel Schuette.

Student council president election was held Thursday and the candidates were Bryan Morgan and Joe Sparkman.

Did you know that the Home-making teachers don't know who I am? Sure, everyone knows who my helper is, but they can't figure out who I am. My helper has tried to tell you that she isn't the main one, but you just won't believe her. Well believe me, she isn't

Social Security Man Slates Visit Here Thursday, October 8

More than 61,000 persons aged 75 and over started collecting old-age benefits under social security in 1952. John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office, said this week.

Over one-third of these superannuated beneficiaries reached their seventy-fifth birthday sometime during 1952, he declared. It can be assumed, he added, that more of these 75-year-old workers were employees still working in occupations brought under social security by the 1950 amendments to the law. They had acquired the minimum of a year and a half of work after 1950; consequently, they were able to get the higher benefits payable on covered earnings after 1950.

Hutton points out also that many of them were self-employed persons whose earnings did not start counting toward social security insurance payments until 1951. They are now able to start collecting old-age monthly payments and continue active in their trade or business, as there is no restriction on the amount of a beneficiary's earned income after age 75.

About one-third of the 75-year-old beneficiaries who came on the rolls in 1952 are getting benefits based in whole or in part on work in jobs covered by the social security law before 1950. Many of these are persons who became insured before 1951 but kept on working after age 65.

To assist in all matters pertaining to social security a representative of the Lubbock office will be in Slaton on Thursday, Oct. 8, at 2:30 p.m. at the Red Cross Room, City Hall.

Pupils to be promoted are Charlie Bill Behlen, Anna Margaret Pettigrew, Vicki Nowlin, Patricia Davis, Robin Davis, Sharon Tompkins, Karen Martens, Ray Madison Ayers, Ivy Irene Fagin, Kathy Joplin and Linda Longtin.

Mrs. H. F. Martens and Mrs. E. A. Nelson will have charge of the program.

The sermon for the 10:45 a.m. worship service will be "Let Us Break Bread Together." Attention will be called to the fact that on this Sunday churches of almost every communion will be observing the Lord's Supper.

A warm welcome is extended visitors to attend the Rally Day services.

Forrest Davis, city water superintendent, will be in Houston Oct. 18-21 to attend the annual convention meeting of the Southwest Section of the American Waterworks Association.

Mighty Midget Starts Revolution

THIS IS A "TRANSISTOR"... the most important single invention ever developed by telephone scientists. Now used mostly for military purposes, it promises to revolutionize the design of many everyday electronic devices, from hearing aids to television sets. In telephone equipment it is expected to replace vacuum tubes — doing the same job, but taking up far less space and using far less power. Not all the new ideas developed by telephone research are as exciting as this. But every year an average of 260 inventions and improvements are made to help us keep our telephone service high in value—low in cost. SOUTHWESTERN BELL... THE FINE CAR at half the fine car price

Duplicating America's costliest cars, feature after feature, Ford is worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!

A FEW MINUTES on the telephone calling the dealers who sell America's finest cars will reveal there are at least eleven models among four makes with price tags over $4,000!

Now the interesting thing is that in feature after feature the Ford car duplicates each of these fine cars, and for less than half the fine-car price!

Look under the hood of the most expensive cars and what do you find?

A V-8 Engine! Well, the Ford car has a V-8, too. In fact, it has had a V-8 since 1932, and since that time Ford has built more V-8's—by millions—than all other manufacturers combined. And there's no other builder in Ford's price range that's seen fit to offer one yet!

But the engine, as fine as it is, is only one of many things that make a fine car fine.

Automatic shifting, for example. All the fine cars offer it in one form or another because it's one of the things that make a fine car fine. But if you've never driven a Ford with Fordomatic you've missed one of the finer things of life. This amazing transmission not only does away with clutching and shifting forever—it gives you exactly the amount of power you want, when you want it—automatically.

Fine car power steering, too. The big, heavy costly cars offer it for the same reason they offer power brakes. It's a man-sized job for a 120 pound woman to handle a car weighing two tons or more without it—especially when parking. Our "Master-Guide" has two distinct benefits.

First, it gives a hydraulic power assist right down at the wheels and just enough to take out the work. You don't relinquish one particle of control—rather your control is more complete and far easier.

Second, being hydraulic, "Master-Guide" power steering absorbs those fatiguing steering wheel tremors caused by ruts and roads in bad repair. And you don't pay a fine car price for "Master-Guide."

But there is another fine car feature—the Ford ride. Books have been written on the subject of riding quality in an automobile, but the payoff comes on the pavement—or lack of it! Many people associate a comfortable ride with excess weight, but it's not weight alone that makes for comfort. If it were, those big five-ton trucks which you see every day would be the most comfortable vehicles on the road.

Without being technical we can tell you that what's been done with the suspension and springing system gives the Ford a softer ride, a smoother ride than many cars which tip the scales at better than an added half ton.

What about room? Here's an interesting point. If you've felt that only a costly car offered enough room, you just ought to sit down in a Ford even if you're out-size and six feet four! The so-called big car is bigger on the outside, but unless you buy a limousine with those little jump seats, it's not one passenger bigger inside.

Visibility is another fine car Ford feature. We say Ford cars offer "full-circle" visibility because they all have huge, curved one-piece windshields and a huge rear window to match... plus side windows that mean every passenger gets room with a view!

How beautiful is a Ford? A great English poet, John Keats, once wrote "Beauty is Truth, Truth Beauty"—well, he could have been writing about our car for its beauty comes from honest, clean lines in every dimension. In fact, we think most people agree—even our competitors —that the appearance of a Ford Car leaves very little to be desired. It is "at home" wherever it goes and it goes everywhere.

But what about Ford quality? Does it too match the fine car? Is the sheet metal of the body panels as thick? Is the finish as good? How about the trim and things like that? Well, as far as we can determine, the sheet metal is identical in thickness in practically all instances. As to finish—we believe Ford's baked-on enamel has no equal in any car. Ford upholstery fabrics and trim are less costly, but they're less delicate, too, and if anything, more durable.

How then is it possible to give you this fine car at half the fine car price?

Part of the answer lies in Ford manufacturing skills and knowledge as evidenced by the V-8 engine. Part of it comes from the ever increasing numbers of cars Ford produces and the economies they make possible. And, part of it comes from Ford's willingness to give greater values than might be expected in cars selling in Ford's price range. And that's the Ford idea.

They are calling him "weepee" Fikes these days. When coach Jay Fikes appeared at the Lions club yesterday as guest speaker, every Lion in the club whipped out a big old red bandana handkerchief and began to weep copious tears at the sad, sad story Coach had to tell.
Fikes is again fielding midgets, with a line averaging 39 and 3/8 pounds this fall. If we can just keep from getting skunked throughout the season the coach will be overjoyed, considering what he has to put on the field—according to Fikes, that is.

Talk about fish stories, brother, this latest one we've heard tops them all, and if it proves what we hope it will, could be the best news of the century for the irrigation farmer.
It seems that a well on the Clark farm 5 miles east and a mile north of Olton has, on three separate occasions, pumped small fish, resembling mountain speckled trout.
We do not, in any wise, doubt that the well pumped fish, but as to where the fish come from, we, and many others, would certainly like to know.
Seems possible to the Rambler though that they could come through an underground river from the great Rocky Mountain range to the west.
Anyone can look into a well and see the water moving in a south-easterly direction. Therefore we draw a simple conclusion that the water is coming from somewhere and going on somewhere else, just as surface river water does.
Talking about wells, though, is an awfully deep subject!

Current jokes seldom appear in this column because they've usually made the rounds before we hear them. And few things are more stale than a twice-told joke. With the knowledge that most Tullians have already heard this one and with sincere apologies we are repeating what we consider to be the best of the dry weather jokes, so numerous last summer.
It is said that it became so dry in West Texas during the recent drought that the Baptists resorted to sprinkling and the Methodists just used a damp cloth.

Short Pants . . . Well, it looks like short pants are liable to stage a comeback. And they might appeal to some of the youngsters who never had the privilege of wearing them through childhood and then graduating proudly at about 15 or 16 to long pants. The subject is even under discussion in the highest levels of international diplomacy. For instance, the U. S. Secretary of State was asked about the rising hemline in feminine frillery—he was for it; he was asked about short pants—he was against them. I grudgingly score Mr. Dulles 100 per cent on those two answers, but prophesy that you'll see grown men in Crosby County wearing short britches next summer.

SLATON - RALLS GAME FIGURES

The statistics sheet emphatically bears out that Slaton's Tigers fully deserved the rousing 45-6 non-conference victory chalked up here Friday night at the expense of a hapless Ralls Jackrabbit even.

The Bengals rolled for 14 first downs and an impressive net offense of 380 yards, while the Jackrabbits could muster only 5 first downs and a net offense of 113 yards, with a considerable amount of that yardage compiled in the final quarter against Tiger second and third-stringers.

The Tigers picked up a net 264 yards rushing and completed four of 10 pass attempts for another 116 yards. Ralls got a net 119 yards rushing (only 37 yards in the first half) and failed to connect on any of four aerial attempts.

Some Performance
Game figures reveal that Jerry "Flea" Reynolds turned in an outstanding offensive performance for the local eleven. The pint-sized Bengal quarterback picked up 104 yards on the ground, completed four of 7 passes for 116 yards and tossed two others for points-after-touchdown, intercepted a Ralls pass late in the second period and returned it 48 yards for a Tiger score, and played heads-up ball defensively.

Reynolds' completed passes were to Ronald Smith for 28 yards in the first quarter, Joe Sparkman for 51 yards and a touchdown in the second quarter, to Sparkman again for 12 yards in the third period, and to Harold Trout for 25 yards in the final period.

Breaks Help
The Tigers intercepted two Ralls passes and recovered three Jackrabbit fumbles. Ralls intercepted two Tiger passes, both of them thrown by second string quarterback Dickie Thomas, and recovered one Bengal fumble.

The Tigers were penalized six times for 60 yards, while Ralls did not draw a single penalty. Infractions were ruled against the Jackrabbits on two or three occasions, but on each occasion Slaton elected the play instead of the penalty.

The Tigers punted only twice for a 14 1/2 yard average, and the Jackrabbits punted four times for a 20 1/2 yard average. The Ralls punting average would have been considerably better but for the fact that Chester Fondy broke through to block a Billy Campbell punt early in the fourth period to give the Tigers possession at the Ralls 27, and set the stage for the final Slaton tally, which came two plays later.

Tiger scoring to date is as follows: Sparkman, 38 points; Reynolds, 37; Smith, 12; Fondy, 7, and Wiley and Trout, 2 each.

Jerry Scores
Sparkman set the stage for the first Tiger score when two minutes deep in the first period he recovered a fumble by Ralls Quarterback James Shurbert to give the Bengals possession at the Ralls 41. Nine plays later Reynolds faked a pass, cut thru the line and, with a tricky change of pace, scooted around three Jackrabbit defenders 21 yards to score.

On the first play of the second period, the Tigers climaxed a 68-yard scoring drive when Reynolds moved through a gaping hole between right end and right tackle and went 10 yards to score. Trout, all alone in the left end zone, took Reynolds' pass for the extra point.

Pulls One In
Nine minutes deep in the second period, the Tigers tallied for the third time when Joe Sparkman went high in the air to pull in a 13-yard pass from Reynolds and raced down the left sideline past three Jackrabbit pursuers to score. Reynolds flipped a pass to Darrell Wiley for the point to give Slaton a 20-0 margin.

With less than a minute to play in the first half, Reynolds intercepted a Jackrabbit pass at the Ralls 48 and miraculously wove his way through a maze of defenders to score. Sparkman carried over standing up for the extra point that gave the Tigers a comfortable 27-0 halftime lead.

Nice runs by Sparkman and Ronald Smith and a 25-yard pass from Reynolds to Trout set up another scoring opportunity early in the third period and Fondy crashed over from 3 yards out for the score. Late in the third canto, the Bengals widened their margin to 39-0 when Smith took a hand-off from Reynolds and careened around his own left end 14 yards to paydirt with David Collins throwing a key block at the 4-yard line to clear the way.

Blocks Kick
Chester Fondy set up the final scoring opportunity for the Bengals when he crashed through the Jackrabbit line early in the fourth period to block a Billy Campbell punt and Tommy Shearer covered it to give the Tigers possession at the Ralls 27. Two plays later,

GOOD FOR TD—Tiger halfback Joe Sparkman pulled in this long pass from Jerry Reynolds in this long pass from Jerry Reynolds on Friday night's 45-6 win over the Ralls Jackrabbits. Sparkman snared the pass at the Ralls 38 and raced down the left sideline past three Jackrabbit pursuers for the target is Harold Sanders, 160-pound junior end.

In 220-pound senior guard Gerald Moore, the Eagles have a lineman who is expected to give Tiger backs lots of trouble. Moore, who is fast for his size, played center last year and has been a defensive standout for the Eagles this year.
The Eagle line is expected to average about 166 pounds per man. Eagle backs average 139 pounds.

Better Blocking
The Tigers' impressive 45-6 win over Ralls here Friday featured a dazzling display of offensive power, but Coaches Homer Tompkins and Willard Hedges were most pleased by the sharply improved blocking of the Tiger line and the stout defense displayed by the Bengals.

David Collins, Waymon Muse, Don Wright, James George, Harold Trout, and Darrell Wiley all showed sharply improved blocking and tackling. Collins, 155-pound guard, turned in an outstanding game, throwing two key blocks that paved the way for Tiger touchdowns.

Tiger Quarterback Jerry Reynolds had a field day against the Jackrabbits, running and passing for 220 of the 380 yards picked up by the Tigers, and calling his plays to near perfection. The 139-pound key performer in the Tiger spread formation ran for two touchdowns on gallops of 10 and 21 yards, returned a Larry Moses punt 48 yards for another touchdown, and found teammate Joe Sparkman with a 51-yard pass play good for a fourth tally.

When Sparkman recovered a Noel Davis fumble at midfield four minutes deep in the final period, Coach Homer Tompkins cleared his bench and let second and third-stringers finish the contest. Ralls pushed over a token touchdown against the subs, but generally they exhibited some stout defensive play. Leroy Bloodworth, 168-pound right tackle, shone especially bright on defense for the second stringers.
Best comic touch in the rollicking 45-6 triumph came shortly after the insertion of the second and third stringers. They were on the field for three plays before Quarterback Dickie Thomas realized that the Bengals were playing with only 10 men, and called for little Phil Pearson to come scurrying from the bench to give the Tigers a full team.

The Youth Protector
Crib To College Accident Insurance for Boys and Girls

Eager, energetic children are bound to have ACCIDENTS! Bumps and bruises, burns and broken bones are a painful part of childhood. Baseball, football, swimming, playing in the street, bicycles and playground activities all bring their toll of injuries to thousands of youngsters every day.

The Youth Protector Policy is designed for children of all ages, from tots of two to teen-agers of seventeen. It pays the bills incidental to routine accidents from which there is complete recovery . . . gives you the money you need for doctor, surgeon, nurse and hospital fees. But the Youth Protector goes much further than that. It also provides . . .

Special Dismemberment Benefits
If your child is so unfortunate as to be permanently handicapped through the loss of limbs or sight, the Youth Protector "stretches" to give you special benefits. First of all, in cases of dismemberment or loss of sight, the policy will pay a regular monthly income until your child reaches age 18. Then, in addition, your boy or girl would receive, at 18, either a lump sum payment of up to $10,000 . . . or instead, you may elect to continue the monthly income payments for a further period of 50 to 200 months!

You see, throughout life, a handicapped child needs special attention, perhaps expensive treatments, or costly schooling. Lacking a hand, foot or the sight of his eyes, he must be rehabilitated and prepared for the time when, in spite of his handicap, he will earn his own living. Parents have a far greater and more costly problem with such a child than do the parents of normal children. It takes money, and plenty of it, to fit the handicapped child for a reasonably secure future.

FOUR TYPES OF BENEFITS . . . IN ONE POLICY!

1. Medical Expenses up to $500.
2. Monthly Disability Payments of up to $50 for dismemberment or loss of sight, until child reaches age 18.
3. Lump Sum Payment of up to $10,000 at age 18 in cases of dismemberment or loss of sight . . . OR in lieu of a Lump Sum Payment at age 18, it may be elected to receive the monthly indemnity for a further period of from 50 to 200 months.
4. Accidental Death Benefit of up to $1000.

WEST TEXAS ROUNDUP

Three Brady nimrods, K. D. Gens, Frank Roddie, and Korky Gens, should have been fishing yesterday afternoon instead of hunting.

They were out at a big earthen pond in the Dodge community fishing doves off the wing that morning. Roddie cut down on the bird and it fell right in the big hole of the tank and within the eye of any eye a big bass came up and devoured the bird. There weren't too many feathers left on the bird. Roddie had blasted into it with a 12-gauge pump shotgun.

One of the trio had a single one of the bird on a fishing hook with him at the time. So they continued with their shooting but were very careful not to shoot them so they wouldn't be in the water.

Lorenzo teachers, along with the teachers of Texas, are up in arms over the failure of the Shivers Administration to get legislation providing for a minimum teacher pay, says W. O. Cherry.

Cherry cited an editorial from the Orange Leader as representative of the opinion and that of the majority of the Lorenzo faculty.

Editorial reads in part: "Governor Shivers reads the newspapers he's bound to know thousands of Texas children in the prospect of entering the classrooms in their schools in September and finding the teacher's seat vacant. Why doesn't he do something about it?"

The worst teacher shortage in any state has developed in this state with many of the classroom teachers out hunting for jobs in business and industry this summer. The shortage is going to be terrific.

Governor Shivers... is largely responsible for the teacher shortage and right now he is the only man in the state in a position to do anything about it.

School districts with unfilled positions have only one course left. Lower their standards for teachers and go out and hire anybody who can come close to meeting the qualifications for a classroom instructor."

Anyone living in Presidio county can hunt doves in the county without a license, according to Clarence Vann, game warden.

In answer to the many questions he has received on the subject, Mr. Vann said that a resident of any county could hunt doves in his county without a license.

A resident needs no license to hunt quail and duck either, but everyone over 16 years old must have a duck stamp.

A license is needed for deer and turkey, whether the hunter is in his own county or not.

The rules apply during the set seasons.

After learning that the Mexican government was demanding $1.75 per hundred in the field for cotton pulling on the South Plains on the labor contracts, Cong. The new figure is still too high, and a more "realistic minimum figure" should be decided upon, Mahon said.

IT LOOKED GOOD—Midway in the third quarter of Slaton's 45-6 rout of Ralls on Friday night, Tiger Left End Harold Troutt made what appeared to be a spectacular catch of this 10-yard pass from Quarterback Jerry Reynolds. Troutt pulled the ball in at the Jackrabbit 30 while falling to the ground, but officials ruled the pass incomplete to the dismay of Tiger followers who believed it complete. Blocker on turf in foreground is Chester Fondy. Tigers scored their sixth touchdown eight plays later when Ronald Smith cut around left end and went 14 yards to score with aid of key block thrown by David Collins. former Lutheran pastor here describes sights of London travel on continent

Ed's Note—The following is an excerpt from a letter written to the Rev. C. C. Ehler, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church at Wilson, from the Rev. Lowell C. Green, former pastor of Evangelical Lutheran Church, Slaton and Immanuel Lutheran Church at Posey. Pastor Green is at present working toward his doctor's degree in theology at the renowned University of Erlangen in Germany. The following is a vivid account of a recent trip he took through England, Belgium and Germany.

For the trip—which took the place of the trip to the Near East, which had gotten too expensive and too lengthy—I bought a small motorcycle costing about $145.00 dollars. Another student went along. We were gone exactly three weeks, spending about five days in Belgium, nine days in England and the remainder in Germany. Cities in which we stayed overnight were Frankfurt-Main, Aachen, Brussels, Bruges, Canterbury, London, Stratford-Avon, Winchester, Muschen-Gladbach, Schoenemoor, and Goettingen.

I can get very enthusiastic about Belgium. The city halls in Louvain, Brussels, and Bruges were magnificent Gothic structures from the Middle Ages. Wonderful cathedrals and churches, rich art museums, and charming old houses and shops completed the enchantment, which was heightened in Bruges by the canals (as in Venice) and the bell tower.

Yes, I can say that no place on the whole journey appealed to me more than Bruges! You have doubtless read that Webber (The famed authority on church architecture) has to say about the famous cathedrals of Belgium. Well, we heard the one at Bruges, and enjoyed it tremendously. Each hour, quarter, and half on the clock is struck by the bells, which play from the mechanical roll some tune (folk tunes, etc.).

But we were also fortunate enough to be in Bruges on Monday night when a regular concert was played on the campanologist. He played for about three quarters of an hour, and as we listened in the quaint old marketplace below we were just spell-bound! The Belgian manner of playing bells is to play them more or less in harmony, with descants, trills, etc. The tower had 48 bells, and you can imagine what colorful thing it is to hear! When I get back again—if you are interested ask me to describe the difference between bellringing in England, Belgium, Germany, and Italy. It's fascinating.

In the famous cathedral at Bruges we also had the fortune to run into the organist. (You'll recall that I have a knack for that sort of thing!) He was a friendly young man and a talented pupil of the famous Flor Peeters who is organist at the Royal Conservatory in Antwerp. He very graciously played for us for nearly an hour playing the "Grand Piece Symphonique" by Cesar Franck, and "Flemish Rhapsodie" by Flor Peeters.

The organ was a magnificent three-manual affair built pretty much along the French lines, the cathedral itself was typical medieval Gothic structure in the French style, and everything converged in such a way that we felt we had experienced a high style of French organ playing in its proper setting! (As you doubtless know, Belgium is a combination of French and Dutch people; this young man was of the French or Walloonish background, apparently.)

Belgium is full of art. It was a land of artists—especially of the "Flemish school". Everywhere one sees works by Van Dyck, Van Eyck, Brueghel, Rubens, David, Isenbrandt, etc. This we had already discovered in the churches at Louvain and Brussels, but it was even more amazing at Bruges. One church at Bruges even had a statue of the Virgin and Child by Michaelangelo. The museums of course are even fuller. We saw the museums both at Brussels and Bruges.

But no less amazing was the art gallery in London. Here one had a more widely representative collection. It was almost unbelievable, the riches which were to be found in this London museum. Of the Italian school, for instance, we found not only the great masterpieces of Botticelli, Fra Angelico, or Raphael, to mention but a few, but even works of Leonardo da Vinci and Michaelangelo (paintings).

The Dutch school was also terrific. There must have been at least a dozen pieces by Rembrandt, to say nothing of other Dutch and Belgian masters such as Franz Hals, Vermeer, Rubens, and the others mentioned above. Likewise France was well represented, especially by the Impressionists. As one might expect, Germany wasn't too well represented, but there were a few pieces by Durer, Cranach, Holbein, and other lesser lights. There was a small but good Spanish collection including works by Goya, Murillo, Valisquez, El Greco, etc. And of course the English section was filled with works by Gainsborough, Reynolds, and others.

But more breathtaking was the British Museum in London. All I've got to say is that the English are good at filching big-time monuments from their colonies! In the Assyriological and Egyptian rooms, for instance, one couldn't help wondering if there were any memorial tablets left in those countries, and I did ask one of the guards when they were going to get the Sphinx!

There were big statues and carvings as big as your church. Some of the pieces in these rooms went back to nearly 4,000 B. C. And of course another object of interest was the Rosetta Stone.

No less interesting were the collections of ancient manuscripts. We got to see for instance the Greek manuscripts (of the New Testament) Alexandrinus and Sinaiticus, as well as many old papyri.

Newer displays including the Magna Carta or papers dealing with Shakespeare, etc. Among the literature autographs were originals for Bronte, poems by Burns, Wordsworth, the original for Kipling's "God of our Fathers. Known of Old" and literally dozens of other things of similar character, representing Shelley, Keats, Wilde, Browning, et al. Among the music manuscripts we found all the major composers represented, including Bach, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Handel, Brahms, Mozart, et al. In another display were famous letters by men such as Luther, Melancthon, Goethe, Heine, and others. Well, enough for the British Museum. Concerning the rest of London, I'll be brief and just say that we saw most of the usual sights. We were there for 4 days.

One gets a definite conception of what English Gothic is and how it differs from French and German Gothic, after a few days in England. To tell the truth, I began to get tired of Gothic Churches. We saw the Gothic cathedrals of Canterbury, St. Alban, Bath, Salisbury and Winchester, and also Southwerk, which is much inferior, being completed only during the past century. We also saw St. George's at Windsor (outside only; didn't have the admission money handy!), Shakespeare's church at Stratford, and many town and country churches, including those at Devizes and Stokes Poges (where Gray wrote his Ellegy).

You can see that I could go on and on describing the trip, but probably I might as well quit now. I'll just mention though that we got to see Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" at Stratford, and enjoyed it very much. And I'll also add that in Germany we also saw many wonderful places that I hadn't seen before, including ancient Romanesque churches from the 11th Century at Limburg (seen from a distance only.) Hildesheim, Minder, Fulda, and perhaps several others. Anyhow we were glad to get back. The last two days made us rather sore as we bounced along cobblestone streets and roads.

The recent discovery that X-disease in cattle can be caused by lubricants makes it important that cattle be kept away from grease racks, machinery, sheds and oil drums. Cold weather causes cattle to come closer to the farm buildings and caution against this danger is advisable. Chlorinated naphthalene compounds are known to be a causative agent of X-disease which has made inroads on the cattle population in many of the states.

On Sept. 20, 1950, and after the capture of Kimp Airfield, fighter squadrons of the First Marine Aircraft Wing flew in from Japan and began operations from bases in Korea with strikes in support of troops advancing on Seoul.

Water will get top billing in the 1953 agricultural exhibits of the State Fair of Texas. Each of the 12 Extension Service Districts will feature a different phase of how water is used in present day agriculture.

Defoliation Gains Popularity In Area; Early Harvest Anticipated

Area farmers, A. A. O'Brien and Herman Schilling, hold firsts in crop defoliation. Schilling was the first area farmer to use defoliation in connection with cotton harvesting. This year will be the sixth year that he defoliated his entire cotton acreage. O'Brien was the first area farmer to apply defoliant this year. His cotton was defoliated Sept. 21 and is almost ready for a one-time-over machine harvesting.

A. A. O'Brien, who has defoliated the last three years, says he gains about 2 grades by doing so. If cotton is sold on the open market the basis widens from the time the harvest is begun until December when it is completed. There is a gain in price in harvesting early, and O'Brien likes to avoid the rush season, when trailers pile up at the gin. He has 184 acres in cotton this year and will harvest it with a self propelled Oliver and a tractor drawn machine. He has found that he loses a about 100 pounds per bale by having a tractor pull the machine. He puts the cotton on the trailer loose, with one man to move it back.

O'Brien says defoliated cotton opens white while frozen cotton opens yellow. Last year from 29 acres of defoliated cotton he got 54 bales, 50 middling and 4 spot. (The reason for the high yield? Twelve tons of barnyard manure and irrigation.) Hand pulling costs $40 a bale, says Mr. O'Brien, and machine harvesting $20 a bale if you have to hire the machine. That's not the only saving according to O'Brien. You also can get it out early and get a better grade. His crop fruited and matured about two weeks earlier than other years. This was caused by the drouth and the fact that he stopped watering earlier. Defoliation makes the bolls open faster, and all these things combined will enable him to complete his harvest at a very early date this year. He estimates he can pull 50 bales per day if he can get enough trailers.

He used Golden Harvest defoliant this year and is pleased with the results. In fact, he says he has had a lot of spectators watching the fast results.

Schilling has 210 acres in cotton this year and was defoliating this week. All of his cotton has been machined during the past five years except what he used for planting seed. He would prefer to harvest all of it by machine. He thinks a farmer averages a better grade that way than by hand pulling all of it. Very often in hand pulling the last pulling is so poor you can't afford to get it out of the field at the price demanded for pulling it. He says sack hands knock off a lot of green bolls and pulling a sack through the middles wastes a lot of cotton. He also mentioned that defoliant causes the top bolls that would be hickory nuts or bollies to dry up and open and make a better grade of cotton.

Jim Moore, who did the defoliating for both these men, says it has been a problem to defoliate on the plains until the past two years, but with the new defoliants highly effective work is possible if it is applied properly. He stresses the fact that defoliation also serves as a check on disease and insect. The sun rays can penetrate and stop diseases which cause deterioration of lint and seed. With removal of leaves practically all insects leave the field immediately. Earlier harvest also permits earlier stalk destruction and thus serves as a greater aid in insect control.

Donald Jones, A. R. McGuire, Clarence Kitten, and John Sanders are among the area farmers who are defoliating this year. Many more will make the decision to use defoliant during the Oct. 3-15 period.

It is fast becoming a new trend in cotton harvesting.

Retirement System For City Employees Slated For Study

City commissioners Monday took under advisement a request from City of Slaton employees to be included under the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

The commissioners have asked for more information on the plan, and have promised the matter additional study in the near future.

In general, a regularly-salaried city employee contributes about 5 per cent of his monthly wages under the plan and the city matches that contribution for each employee.

The City of Slaton payroll is about $4500 per month, so that the city's contribution would be approximately $225 a month should the plan be adopted here, City Secretary J. J. Maxey explained.

City employees here are not now covered by Social Security, nor by any other form of retirement plan.

Maxey said a majority of city employees here favor coverage under the TMRS plan.

Ninety-eight Texas cities are covered by the plan. They include Lubbock, Amarillo, Tahoka, Littlefield, Brownfield, Borger, Shamrock, Childress, Spur, Denver City, Colorado City, Odessa, Midland, and others.

The system had an employee membership of 9,815 in 1952. Only regularly-salaried employees are included. Excluded are all elective city officials.

● SHORT GRASS

by gpt

Was having coffee and doughnuts with Rev. Ed Gorom the other day, and it reminded him of another time he had coffee and doughnuts.

Ed said he was in a South Texas drug store with a friend, and that he ordered coffee and a doughnut. The friend, who ordered coffee only, commented, "I'll buy your coffee, Ed, but I'm not gonna pay for the doughnut. If I had wanted to raise you, I'd raised you a Baptist."

Rev. Gorom is pastor of the First Christian Church here.

Was talking to Claude Cravens the other day, and he says he's in favor of the $90,000 bond issue to improve water and sewage facilities here, but he says he's in favor of spending a few dollars, too, to make the city hall lawn look a little better.

"What grass there is," Cravens observed, "is slowly marching backward from the curbs."

Was putting away a few vittles at the Red Arrow the other day and talking over Slaton High School football prospects with Carl Lewis when a Chesterfield cigarette representative came into the cafe. With a minute-and-a-half spiel of fast talk concerning Chesterfield's merits, he was offering each cigarette smoker in the cafe his choice of a sample packet of regular or king-sized Chesterfields.

Irving Greenberg was storing away his noontime repast just down the counter from me, and after duly interrupting the moustachioed jeweler's lunch with his sales talk, the glib salesman inquired of Irving, "And, sir, do you prefer the regular or the king-sized?"

"Both," promptly replied Greenberg, without turning his head.

The salesman, nonplussed, laid a small pack of each on the counter.

Was talking to Dick Cheatham the other day, and he thinks the Lubbock Westerners will beat Odessa this year. Can't say that I agree, Dick.

Was talking to Phil Brewer the other day and we agreed that what a man needs is a good nine-months-a-year job so that he can attend the many good football games that are played all over the Southwest during September, October, and November.

Was talking to Robert Hall Davis the other day, and he thinks that Jack Kirkpatrick and not Jerry Johnson should be Texas Tech's No. 1 quarterback. We agree.

Was talking to a Folger's coffee representative who was in the office the other day, and he says he looks for coffee to hold at its present price for the remainder of this year, and then to drop gradually in early 1954.

Was talking to Bill Troutt the other day about Slaton's football team, and he says what impresses him about the Tigers is not so much that they're an improved ball club, but that they're hustling as he has never seen them hustle in previous years.

This week's grid predictions:

Slaton 33, O'Donnell 7
Tahoka over Seagraves
Post over Crosbyton
Abernathy over Stanton
Spur over Haskell
Floydada over Paducah
Texas Tech over Okla. A&M
Texas over Houston
Georgia over Texas A&M
Baylor over Miami (Fla.)
T.C.U. over Arkansas
Duke over Tennessee
Colorado over Missouri
Col. of Pacific over Tulsa
Illinois over Stanford
Penn. over Penn. State
Oklahoma over Pitt.
Rice over Cornell
Ohio State over California
Ga. Tech over S.M.U.

Was interested to note from the Tech-West Texas program that only 15 members of Texas Tech's talent-laden 52-member grid squad are seniors. Seventeen are juniors, 11 are sophomores and 9 are freshmen. So Coach DeWitt Weaver should have bright prospects for several years ahead. This is the year, however, that the Raiders should go if they're gonna go.

Broadmindedness, much as we dislike to admit it to ourselves, is a quality which very few of us ever achieve. And in an era so dominated by materialism and bigotry, it's a quality for which all of us should strive more conscientiously... or at least place the opportunity before our children.

Here's an article (by John W. Christie, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Wilmington, Delaware) on the subject which I think approaches the subject from a readable and logical viewpoint:

A good many years ago I studied for a session in the United Free Church College of Glasgow. Shortly before Christmas I was invited to spend part of the holidays in a hospitable home in Stirling. One evening, with a light snow falling, as I was walking down the street, my attention was attracted by a little group of excited children a bit ahead of me. They were accompanied by a man and paused in front of each store to window shop. The windows of that day, however, were so wee, so high, and so full of a number of things, that these children would have had a difficult time of it to see what was on display, had not their guardian stooped down, picked them up, one by one, and lifted them high enough to give them a good look at the wonderful things those windows contained. As I caught up with them suddenly I realized how moving was the scene

Designate County Crop Wage Area

B. T. O'Connell, office manager for the Texas Employment Commission at Lubbock said this week that Lubbock County has been designated as a Crop Wage Area.

Crop Wage Areas, he said, are designated as such only when Mexican Nationals are expected to be employed in the area to help farmers harvest their crops.

A survey will be undertaken in this county shortly to determine the range of wages being paid domestic workers. The survey is made necessary by a Law passed in Congress — Public Law 78 — which provides, in part, that before Mexican Nationals can be admitted to this Country for farm employment, it must be first determined whether or not the wages and working conditions of domestic farm workers will be adversely affected. Mexican contract workers, according to the Migrant Labor Agreement of 1951, as amended, requires that the latter be paid at a rate not less than the prevailing wages which domestic workers are receiving at the same time for similar work in the same area of employment.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Doyle spent the week end in Hot Springs, New Mexico.

at which I had been casually glancing. The man, whose strong arms were making it possible for these children to see, could not himself see anything. He was the blind organist of one of Stirling's kirks.

I have often thought of this incident. We have been living in a time of very great, as well as very rapid, advance. Our children, with better training than we had, are ready immediately to accept and to make use of new discoveries. If, however, innovations run counter to what we have known, some of us are quite slow to embrace them.

We do not like them, and we know we never shall understand the processes by which they were developed. Is it farfetched to wonder whether our little story has anything to suggest to us as, for example, we ponder the changes in our new church-school materials, or listen to someone who dislikes some of the unfamiliar phrases of the Revised Standard Version, or read of the novel experiments being made in the realm of race relationships? Doubtless a portion of us who were trained in another day will find it impossible fully to understand these new things. Shall we, therefore, refuse to permit our children to hear and discuss these matters, and decide them for themselves? This was not what our organist did. Manifestly he took hold with both hands of his opportunity to help his children to see what he knew he himself could never see.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

One for the Books!

Noticed the Missus had a red ribbon tied around her finger at breakfast one morning last week. "What's that for?" I asked. "Your memory slipping?"

"It's not for me," she answers, "it's to remind you, and everybody else who asks what it's for, to contribute to the Woman's Club Library Fund. We need $200 and we figured we'd get more help if we could get people to ask us about it."

Well, as it turned out, the red ribbon worked just fine. The ladies are having the library all fixed up—and there's enough money for some new books, too.

From where I sit, it would be a fine thing if we had some sort of private reminder when we forget the rights of our neighbors. Like when we start telling them what we think is best. I may like a travel book and a temperate glass of beer while you prefer a cup of tea with your historical novel. Let's both remember not to "put the finger" on the other!

No Place On Earth, Outside U. S. Chosen By More Than One Answerer

Answers to this week's question indicate that there is no one place in the world, outside the United States, that is more appealing to people of this area than other places. Under the supposition that they were to live outside the United States for the next five years, the nine persons questioned chose nine different spots in which they would make their temporary home. The question was: "If you were to live abroad for the next five years and could choose any foreign country, where would you live?"

Miss Claudia Anderson, "Anywhere. I enjoy life wherever I live. I would like to get out of the sand. I've always wanted to go to Europe and to Bethlehem. Bethlehem would be my choice."

Mrs. Fred Schmidt, "I would live in England. I have a dual reason for my choice. My ancestors came from England and my husband's mother's family was reared in England. There are seven generations of them buried in one cemetery near Liverpool. He still has many relatives living there. There are many things that would be vitally interesting to me because of the family. Another reason that I am particularly interested in England is that I have several teacher friends who have taught there as exchange teachers and they have told me of so much of interest to be seen there."

Bill Layne, "I'd go to Canada; that's where I was raised. I came to Texas when I was 18 or 19 and I had 5c when I landed in Tullia, but I met nice people and got a long fine."

Mrs. K. W. Campbell, "I think I'd want to go to Honolulu. I talked with a Colonel in the Army who said it was the most beautiful place he'd ever been. He said the flowers were out of this world."

Mrs. Roy Carpenter, "I believe I'd live in France. I've read a lot about it and think it is an interesting place. My father was in France when he was overseas with the army and he told me a lot a-

Forced by circumstances to take shelter in a mountain cave, James Stewart and Janet Leigh find themselves irresistibly drawn to each other. The scene is from "The Naked Spur," M-G-M's punch-filled outdoor action drama which opens a two-day run Sunday at the Slaton Theatre. Filmed in Technicolor on locations in the Colorado Rockies, the new offering also stars Robert Ryan and Ralph Meeker.

but it." W. T. Joines, "I don't know. I'd rather go east than west, but I prefer to stay right here." Mrs. George Brassell, "I don't have any idea, but if I was sure I had to go I'd study up on it a lot before I made my choice."

W. J. Klattenhoff, "At the present time I could say Western Germany because of the favorable rate of exchange there. I wouldn't want to go to Spain. The rate of exchange is even better there, but I don't speak Spanish. One could live in Spain for one-third of what it costs here. The nicest living over there would be Switzerland. If I had to spend five years abroad, I'd choose Switzerland. It is a beautiful country."

Mrs. W. B. Flores, "We have always talked a lot about going to Jamaica or Brazil or Venezuela. In fact sometimes we have checked on jobs we could get there. We have a friend who spent two years in Venezuela and brought back pictures that made us want to go more than ever. The pictures were so beautiful, flowers, shrubs, orchids growing wild. I'd rather go to Venezuela; we could go thru the other places on the way."

T. A. Worley, "If I had to live in a foreign country, assuming I didn't have to make a living, I'd go to Johannesburg, North Africa or the Gold Coast of Africa. There's good hunting and fishing there; I think I could get caught up on my hunting and fishing."

Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Loke were Mrs. Loke's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Jernigan, of Lubbock.

Mrs. John Rails and John Roy Denning, of Fort Worth are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Anderson.

What They Write

The following is a copy of a letter received by the L. E. Brasfields from their daughter, Miss Virginia Brasfield, who is spending a month overseas in connection with her work. She is employed by the Adjutant General of the Army. She is accompanied on the trip by her friend, Miss Hilda Koontz. Her letter gives an interesting account of travel and living conditions in several foreign countries.

Thursday A. M.
9-17-53
In Germany enroute to Switzerland

Dear Mom and Dad,

I'll warn you in advance that this will be difficult to read, as I'm riding along on the train and it is going at quite a clip. We're headed out of Germany toward Switzerland, and am I glad for the prospect of rest until Monday. It has been gruelling so far, although everything has gone well so far, I could give the speech in my sleep, I'm sure.

We left D. C. for New York at 3:30 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 4th, after working on last minute details until 1:30 a.m. Hilda's brother and his wife drove us up, in 90 degree heat, even in the middle of the night. Got a few cat-naps on the way, which helped. We started passing customs, etc., around 10:00 a.m. and finally got aboard. It was a very stirring experience, pulling out of New York harbor to the band striking up "Anchors Aweigh." Hilda put a little bit of a damper on things by crying and wanting to get off when they started removing the gang-plank. We stayed on deck waving to the crowd of thousands, until we could see them no longer. The last lady we waved to was the Statue of Liberty. Then we were strictly at the Mercy of God, the angry sea, and the Captain of the ship. It was as smooth as glass until Saturday about dusk when we hit what they call a "swell ocean," which makes the ship pitch and roll. We were in the lounge entering a bridge tournament when Hilda suddenly disappeared. When I found her, she was leaning over the rail, but the results were the same. It wasn't long before our two other cabin-mates had joined her, so I had to take over as the nurse. Although I listened to an awful lot of gagging and up-chucking, didn't feel a twinge nor miss a meal, all of which were sumptuous. This situation lasted until late Monday. Although we didn't get to enjoy many of the free (?) entertainments and luxuries of the ship, did get a lot of studying done and a little extra sleep. We docked at Le Harve, France, on Wednesday, Sept. 9th in the early hours of the morning. We got up to see land again, but they wouldn't let us off to walk along the pier. We pulled out again and made our way slowly across the English Channel to Southampton, England, where we disembarked. We got off the ship at 5:00 p.m. and passed customs in a flash. We were met and put on the boat-train for Waterloo Station in London.

Arrangements have been made for someone to meet us at every stop, take us to our hotel, take us back to the train when we leave, and also assist us in necessary changes of trains (which has been very necessary, in Germany.) So far we haven't made a bobble in the schedule, even yesterday when we had only 9 minutes to change trains. Hilda also hurt her back on the way over, and although taped up, can't lift any luggage—so I usually have to make a wild scramble to get four pieces of luggage off and on trains. They never stop more than two minutes at each station, but are always on time if not ahead of schedule. We were in London until Monday morning when we flew by KLM Royal Dutch Airlines to Amsterdam, Holland. It was Hilda's first plane ride, but fortunately it was very smooth. Made only one appearance in Amsterdam, so had time for a canal ride to see some of the city. When they got into the North Sea, Hilda thought it favored the Atlantic Ocean too much. Late the same day we took the train to Cologne, Germany. We passed customs on the train at the border, also got some German money from the purser. It is not nearly so difficult as the English money. Dutch was also quite easy. About the time we got used to one, we leave for another country and have to start over again. The places we stopped in Germany, besides Cologne, were Koblenz, Wiesbaden, Frankfurt, and Heidelberg. We traveled by train except the portion from Koblenz to Wiesbaden. That part we were aboard a steamer to travel the Rhine River. It was beautiful, as you will see from my pictures (I hope).

Last night in Heidelberg we visited with an Army Chaplain and his family whom Hilda knows quite well. It sure sounds good to hear English spoken in the manner to which I'm accustomed. As I said before, we're on the way to Switzerland until Monday, when it will be back to work. It has been gruelling so far, but will soon be over. I wouldn't want to take a job over here for several years. One month is enough for me. I'd never learn the language. For instance! "NICHT HINAUSLEHNEN!" means "do not lean out the window," but I can't pronounce it. We've been wondering how a deaf and dumb person would ever learn to use sign language in German. Don't know how we'll make out in Switzerland, as they speak German, French, and Italian, according to the closest country. The same holds true for the money. As you can see, we'll be glad to get back in our own American ruts.

After Switzerland, our itinerary will include Venice, Italy (the 21st and 22nd); Florence, Italy (the 23rd and 24th); Rome, Italy (the 25th, 26th and 27th); Nice, France (the 28th, 29th, and 30th); traveling the 1st of October; Paris, France (the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th); leaving at 4:30 p.m. the 5th of October for HOME! I'm ready now.

I'll fill in all the customs of the people, my impressions, etc., along with the pictures, the next time I'm home. They say it takes six or seven days for an Air Mail letter to arrive. Would like to hear how every one is, if you can write to me so the letter will have time to catch me at any or all of the above places. Ask some of the others to drop me a line, too. It is my first thought of a morning, and my last one at night, and during the night, when I'm awake—hope everyone at home is well. Didn't know how far from home it would seem. The soldiers I've talked to feel the same way about it, and now I can understand better.

The hotels where I'll be staying are as follows: Lucerne, Switzerland, Carlton Tivoli Hotel; Venice, Italy, Luna Hotel, 21-22; Florence, Italy, Savory Hotel, 23-24; Rome, Italy, Flora Hotel, 25-26-27; Nice, France, Plaza Hotel, 28-29-30; Paris, France, Continental Hotel, 2-3-4-5. Hope you can read them.

It sure will be good to get back to my little Chevrolet, so I can go and come as I please, in other words, lead the American way of life again. We liked the English people very much, although their food was abominable. I was hungry almost the whole time we were there. The Dutch made the best impressions, both people and food.

—and new money. Goodbye now. Love, Virginia

Rotarians Hear Ralls Man Tell Of Trip Abroad

In an address before Slaton Rotarians at their Sept. 24 luncheon meeting, Past District Governor Edd McLaughlin of Ralls recounted details of the International Rotary convention held at Paris, France, and described conditions in other European nations which he visited this summer.

McLaughlin, a member of the Rotary International board of legislation and a world traveler, was introduced by Howard Swanner. With McLaughlin was Dub Appling of Ralls.

A few of the highlights of Mr. McLaughlin's talk are: "The people of Western Europe are friendly to the U. S. and appreciate the American help; Germany is glad that American troops are there; I don't think we will have a war with Russia; Italy appreciates Ambassador Claire Booth Luce as our representative in their country."

In international relations he said that the Rotary Club had done wonders for good but that the field was open for much more to be done in creating friendly relations with all nations.

"The influence of Rotary will be felt in a greater degree in the future," said Mr. McLaughlin. "All people of all nations want peace and friendship and are folks just like us," he concluded.

They drove through snow and mountains and the trip was wonderful. The only thing needed for that kind of traveling is better roads. Mrs. Crow drove about 200 miles and about 6,000 miles that was on unpaved roads.

Slaton Women Give Their Favorite Tested Recipes

Mrs. A. A. Russell didn't get a chance to choose her recipe for publication. Apples are in season and so many people have been giving rave notices about her apple sauce cake that we just asked for that recipe instead of leaving the choice to her. Everyone who has tasted this cake has asked for the recipe. It is easy to make and always nice and moist. With extra fruit added it may be used for fruit cake. Mrs. Russell uses different fruits and spices for variety.

APPLE SAUCE CAKE

- 1 1/2 cups cooked apples (fresh or canned)
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup raisins
- 2 cups pecans
- 1 tsp. soda dissolved in 5 lbs. hot water or apple juice.
- 1 tsp. each of cinnamon, nutmeg, vanilla and if desired, all spice
- 1/2 tsp. salt

3 cups flour
Maraschino cherries may be added for variety and color.

Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for an hour to an hour and a half or longer. Mrs. Russell uses an angel food cake pan. It may be baked in two loaf pans or, as Mrs. E. A. Gentry suggested last week, in an iron skillet.

Mrs. Russell was born in South Texas and moved here when she was 3 1/2 years old. Her husband is a farmer.

She is a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, Slaton, and an active member of the Missionary Society. She is a member of the Ladies Society to the B. of L.F. and E.

Mrs. Russell has been very much interested in ceramics, but is not doing any work in that line right now. Viola keeps a beautiful yard, but lists only her roses in the hobby and special interests category. She and her husband share hobbies of canasta, TV and boating, but she leaves the surfboarding to her husband; she isn't having any, and is emphatic about her disinterest in that sport.

Wesleyan Service Guild Meets Thurs.

Mrs. S. L. Alderson was hostess to the Wesleyan Service Guild last Thursday evening. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Nan Tudor.

During a brief business session some changes and further plans were made in connection with the Guild program for the year.

Mrs. J. B. Caldwell gave an inspiring devotional. Mrs. Nan Tudor was leader of the program for the evening and gave a talk on "Jesus' Ministry to Rural People." Mrs. J. B. Brooks spoke on "Curing Short Sightedness."

Mrs. Floyd Jordan closed the program with a talk on "Taking Help to Places of Greatest Need."

A social hour followed at which time the hostess served refreshments to ten members and two visitors, Miss Gaynelle Guilmore and the new coordinator of Women's Society of Christian Service to the Guild, Mrs. H. M. Christian.

Those present were: Mesdames G. C. Wilson, Nan Tudor, J. B. Caldwell, H. H. White, J. B. Brooks, Frank Merrill, Ray Conner, Milton Hancock, Francis Perry, the hostess, Mrs. S. L. Alderson, and guests, Miss Gaynelle Guilmore and Mrs. H. M. Christian.

Officers Installed By Fidelis Matrons

The Fidelis Matrons Class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. K. C. May for the final class meeting of the year and to install officers for the coming year.

The meeting was opened with sentence prayers. Two officers were nominated and elected by the class and then business was dismissed and installation services conducted by Mrs. J. B. Huckabay.

Mrs. Huckabay used for her theme, "Flying." The service was opened with scriptures referring to this theme, followed by a very inspirational message to the officers. The class teacher, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Jr. was presented first and the others in the following order: president, Mrs. W. J. Riddle; vice president, Mrs. Carter Caldwell; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John B. Winchester; group captains, Mrs. K. C. May, Mrs. Glenavian Hill.

Games were conducted by the fellowship vice president. As a token of appreciation of the class, gifts were presented to the outgoing president, Mrs. May, and Mrs. Huckabay as installing officer.

Refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Mesdames J. B. Winchester, W. J. Riddle, J. C. Smith, Jr., Willard Hedges, Glenavian Hill, Floyd Guelker, Eugene Eddings and J. B. Huckabay.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hilbers are spending two weeks at Hot Springs, New Mexico, and will visit with their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Herring and children of Hurley, New Mexico. They plan to return October 10 or 11.

Mr. and Mrs. August Kitten and Calvin spent last week end at St. Lawrence, Texas, where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schwerter and Dale, spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Florence Wilde, and visited with other relatives and friends.

Area Furnituremen To Hear Address By Sales Expert

Several Slaton furniture dealers are among the 75 Lubbock area store owners and salespeople who will meet at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 7, to hear an address by Howard J. Wischaupt, popular business lecturer who has taught the essentials of selling to 76,000 students.

The Lubbock meeting is one in a series of 19 gatherings to be held throughout Texas in October and November.

"Selling—and hard-hitting selling—will be necessary to put business volume up where you expect it during the coming three months, and a lucky break usually happens when preparation meets opportunity," Wischaupt has pointed out in previous addresses.

The Lubbock area meeting will discuss final results of Texas Home Fashion Time, the furniture industry's nationwide promotion of new styles. This 10-day event closes October 4. Its slogan is, "Friendly Texans Like Friendly Homes."

The October 7 meeting will be sponsored by the Retail Furniture Association of Texas.

WATCH OUT FOR THESE DISEASES

There are several diseases or conditions which cause trouble in the fall or winter—in other words, the laying-house period. Among them are fowl pox, laryngotracheitis, Newcastle disease, fowl cholera, blue comb, lice and mites, and coryza, colds, and roup.

Pox and laryngotracheitis are virus diseases which may severely affect egg production. They are preventable by vaccination, which is recommended whenever the diseases are recurrent year after year. Newcastle disease, also caused by a virus, should be prevented as a routine precaution by vaccination.

Fowl Cholera

Cholera is one of the deadliest diseases of poultry. It strikes suddenly in fall and winter, and must be checked promptly to avoid heavy loss. Treatment with sulfaguanoxaline is standard against fowl cholera, and bacterin vaccination is often recommended, along with sanitation, in preventing this disease.

Blue comb often hits soon after housing and seems to "choose" pullets that are somewhat fat. Death loss varies a great deal, but blue comb is extremely hard on production. Blackstrap molasses with bran and oats is recommended as a treatment, or molasses may be given in the water.

Lice and mites are troublesome external parasites which become a special problem when birds are confined. They should be controlled through good sanitation and treatment with special insecticides.

Coryza and Roup

Probably the commonest of winter troubles is the coryza-roup group of diseases. Coryza is an infectious condition marked by soft facial swellings; roup is usually the result of a cold, and the swellings of the eye area are hard and evil-looking.

Since in these conditions there are accumulations of thick mucus in the nasal and mouth passages, an inhalant may be used to ease the distress. Coryza can be controlled with sulfathiazole used in the drinking water.

FEEDING FOR MORE EGGS

The average sized hen consumes about 64 pounds of feed per year just to maintain her body and about 9/100 of a pound of feed to produce one egg. Thus hens laying 250 eggs per year will consume an average total of 86.5 pounds of feed (mash and scratch), or 4.15 pounds of feed for each dozen eggs. Now compare these figures with the consumption of a hen that lays only 100 eggs per year. She will consume a total of 73 pounds of feed, but this amounts to 8.8 pounds of feed per dozen eggs—or 4.65 pounds more than required by 250-egg hens. This clearly shows the profit-value of high producing hens that are fed properly. USE AYERS SUPREME 20% PROTEIN EGG MASH.
