DESPAIRING GESTURE

A foreign correspondent recently wrote from the scene of Japan's activities in continental Asia that Japan was capable of committing national hari kari—the quaint form of suicide favored by the people of the flowery kingdom. This suicide, thought the correspondent could take the form of embarking in a war against one of the most powerful nations in the world. The thing might develop as the despairing gesture of a nation ruined by its unsuccessful victories in China. 1917 saw Germany make a similar gesture that drew America into a war that still teetered in the balances. Now it seems Japan may be doing likewise in her arrogant blockade of British and French concessions at Tientsin.

DON'T SHOOT

Please, neighbors in the south part of town don't shoot our bird dog if you see her prowling around. She is a great retriever and retrieves everything she finds loose. Every few days we go out and build a great big fire at her treasure heap. The last time we operated the South Slaton incinerator we had three big leg bones of cows, two dead hens in an advanced stage of decomposition, five discarded paper bags with the remains of some one's lunch, one dead cat and half a sheep pelt. There were a few other items that went in to make a nice warm fire. Be sure Kit, her name is Kit, never means any harm, and we are glad to maintain an unofficial incinerator. So if you have anything you want to get rid of and don't have time to haul off, just put it in a paper bag or a tow sack and leave it in the alley some night. Kit will bring it in and we'll put it through the incinerator.

A YELLOWHOUSE LAKE

Out of Water! That may indeed be the cry of people of Lubbock County within the next generation. Wells are being driven every day on the Plains and the underground cisterns are being drained of the water that has been stored there through centuries of natural conditions. Now with hundreds of irrigation pumps lowering the water table and conservation measures being followed to keep water from going into natural reservoirs and into the underground supplies, the time may not be far removed when state regulation of water will have to be practiced. Within that time it is possible to build a great reservoir in the Yellowhouse Canyon that would in a few years store enough water to supply all the cities in the county. Such a reservoir would not only release the underground supplies to other needs, but would make the basis for a great outdoor playground in the West where there are too few such spots. Yesterday would not have been too soon to embark on preliminary surveys and investigations as to the water that could be impounded and the time required to store adequate supplies and the cost of such developments. Not only the cities and citizens of Lubbock County but all the people of the South Plains would be glad to see a worthy Yellowhouse Lake built because it would serve as an outing spot for the population that has no such opportunity within a hundred miles.

Storm Smashes Window Monday

In the flurry of cloud and wind Monday afternoon, a six by eight foot plate glass window in O. D. McClintock's furniture store on Texas Avenue was blown in. Another pane of the same size was broken, but still remains in the frame. Several valuable pieces of furniture were damaged by the flying glass.

Palace Of Eats In Formal Opening

V. G. Browning this week announces the formal opening of his new Palace of Eats at the corner of Ninth and Garza Streets.

The building has been completely remodeled and renovated. A color scheme of Blue and silver is carried out throughout the decorations and fixtures. Woodwork and linoleum have been fitted to the scheme and the fixtures, specially made under the famous Duro Chrome patents are the last word in material and design for restaurants. The stools at the counters are luxuriously padded with the leather in blue and silver, and the chairs and backs of booth seats have the same rich upholstery. The table tops are of a new plastic material that is fireproof but still has a flat finish that does not show scratches or wear. The partition wall with swinging doors to the kitchen is painted a fresh white that shows always a care for cleanliness.

Always a popular eating place, the new Cafe promises to be a meeting place for social meals as well as the regular place for many to find food fancies perfectly provided for from day to day.

V. G. Browning, Proprietor and Manager, is rightfully proud of his new establishment. He has been in business in Slaton since 1923 in various locations. He is convinced that Slaton will support a first class restaurant and the demand he has realized existing has inspired him to present to Slaton this new up-to-date eating place that will draw patronage from sources far removed from the corporate limits of the city. Many Slaton people are congratulating him on the improvement he has made in his business and in the facilities of the City.

Highway Improved On Short Stretch

A rather extensive project to reduce the hazards of the strip of highway between Slaton and Lubbock is making rapid progress. The work is the widening of the barrow ditch, and making less abrupt the shoulders that lead off into the ditch. The Santa Fe, co-operating, has removed all fences between the highway and the rails, and one common ditch will now serve both the highway and the railroad. The West Texas-New Mexico Utilities Company has had the earth removed from the base of the poles, and where necessary has reset the poles deeper into the ground so the high bank on the one can be eliminated. Where the improvement is practically completed, the appearance is greatly improved, and the added safety that will be gained is impressive.

Slaton Golfers To Amarillo

Chick Garland plans to leave Sunday for Amarillo where he will defend his title to the championship of the Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament which opens Tuesday. Garland who won the cup last year with a snappy 15 thinks he ought to get in a few rounds of practice on the greens before he meets the rough competition that is certain to be there. E. E. McAlister Santa Fe engineer will also represent Slaton in the meeting of young men who are half a century old or more.

Slaton Girls Attend North Carolina Meet

Misses Esolita Alcorn and June Keyes left Saturday to attend the Y.W.A. Encampment of the South that is being held in Ridgecrest, N. Carolina, 18 miles of Asheville in the district that is noted for its scenic beauty and splendor.

The meeting began Tuesday and will last 10 days, having noted speakers from many sections of the south, inspirational services, study and recreation to fill the time with worth while endeavors.

Briggs Robertson, jr. has returned from a trip to Chicago. He accompanied his father, Briggs, sr. there on a business trip.

MRS. DALE NIX

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Nix, married here June 16th, are honeymooning on the West Coast and attending the San Francisco Fair.

The bride is a graduate of W.T. S.T. College at Canyon and a former teacher in the Canadian public school system. She is vice president of the Ex-Student Assn. of W.T.S.T.C. and has been pledged to the National Honorary Society for speech majors, the Alpha Psi Omega. While in college she was a member of the Dramatic Club, the college orchestra and the Elaphian Society.

Band Concerts Given Weekly

In the absence of Director Nevins Joe Hadden of Lubbock is meeting the Slaton High School Band each week for practice and directing the Saturday evening concerts given in the City Park. Good crowds are always in attendance on the Saturday programs. The band is also giving two concerts each month at Buffalo Lakes.

Broken Halyard Breaks Service

Metal Chain Ordered For Flag Hoisting

A broken halyard broke into the flag service that was recently taken up at the Slaton Post Office. The cotton rope issued by the Post Office Department stood the wear and tear of daily hoisting and lowering only two months, said Postmaster Kirby L. Scudder. As a consequence no hours of display could be observed even on Flag Day. A requisition has been made on the Post Office Department for a metal halyard that will be put into use as soon as received. Then the flag display that has been lacking for the past fifteen years will be resumed. The Post Office Department has not until this year supplied the local office with a flag for display, and Slatonites have been proud to see the colors displayed daily during the time the hoisting equipment supplied was in order.

Attending Cleveland Rotary Convention

Chas. Taylor, president-elect of the Rotary Club of Slaton is this week in Cleveland attending the Rotary International Convention in session there the 18 to 24th. Mrs. Taylor also went along to enjoy the elaborate program always prepared for Rotary Ann.

THREE SLATON BUSINESSMEN ARE OFF FOR VACATION

Three young Slaton businessmen, Gug Robertson, Howard Hoffman, and J. S. Edwards, jr., left Sunday for an extended automobile trip.

The group will visit Yellowstone National park, Seattle, Washington, Van Couver, B. C., and Grand Curc dam, after a fishing trip into Canada. They will also spend several days at Lake Louise, and return by way of the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco, Boulder dam and Grand Canyon.

Gene Kirkpatrick has returned to Slaton to spend the summer vacation period after visiting his mother in Albuquerque, New Mexico. He is a student in Schreiner Institute at Kerrville.

SPORTS IN LIMELIGHT THIS WEEK

Boxing Meet Draws Champs

Out at Tiger Field tonight will break loose the biggest mess of fighting ever to have been seen in West Texas. There is a lot of young men who have blood in the eye and curled hair in the gloves that are to put on an exhibition worth walking a couple of miles to see.

No Flies On The Flyweights

There are decidedly no flies on the flyweights that will be there. Curtis Lebow, district winner in the Golden Gloves will be there, and two Slaton boys are among the eight already entered. No doubt there will be few words but hard blows passed. In the bantamweight division are such sluggers as Noah Valadze of San Angelo, Bell of Slaton, and Frankie Bills of Pampa. District Golden Gloves Champion, District A.A.U. Champion, Diamond Belt Champion, and T.A. A.F. Champion are about all the titles Kenneth Terry of Abilene has to worry about, but he'll be here and maybe it will be some of the other featherweight contenders who will really do the worrying. Billy Bates of Slaton is entered in that class.

Among The Grown Men

When you get among the men who are nearly big enough to be grown, you discuss the lightweights Lloyd Vick of Merkel, Jimmie Smith, San Angelo, Denver Hubert of Pampa, Brooks Roe of Seymour and Slaton's James Stotts will make interesting watching. Welterweights will show Stanford of Roosevelt, Pond of Abilene, Hornback of Pampa, Caldwell and Roe of Seymour. Don Robertson of Slaton is slated to meet Clyde Jones of Abilene in the light heavyweight division. In the heavyweight division are James Brown, San Angelo; Truett Fulcher, Colorado City, and Hubert Lamb of Wilson.

Coach Curtis Hamilton, promoting the event, is much pleased with the interest shown already. The entries guarantee that there will be never a dull moment and spectators who don't have a good time at the tournament, just ought to have taken a checkerboard or a set of jackstraws along for a bit of good clean fun.

Girls Get Break In Swim School

A strong feeling that girls are important came to light recently, and plans are now on foot for a swim school for girls in Slaton. Coach Jack Miller, who has been meeting the boys of the town for the past weeks and teaching them to swim, will organize a swimming class and meet it for twelve lessons.

While facilities do not include a tile and marble pool, there is water of adequate depth and arrangement, with proper sanitary precautions always observed in the pool in Slaton. The presence of a skilled and experienced instructor and guards assures safety. The fact that young people will surely go into the water whether they have permission or not and whether they can swim or not makes a sound argument for teaching them to swim. The boys have been favored this month; now the girls get a break.

The class will probably begin its meetings next week. A late afternoon hour seems to be favored by the instructor and those already enrolling.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking our friends for their help and courtesies while our son and brother Leonard was in the hospital, following his injury. Especially do we thank the doctors, and nurses at Mercy Hospital, for their every care. Everything was done that was possible for his comfort and speedy recovery.

Mrs. Flora Jones and Family
Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Catt and family left this week for Montrose, Colorado to make their home.

Jack Lamb At Fly Tournney

BUFFALO LAKES, June 16—Sportsmen on the high and windy Plains of West Texas will take definite steps forward in promulgation of summer sports June 23-24 when Buffalo Lakes, swimming and fishing resort near Slaton and Lubbock, conducts the First Annual South Plains Bait and Fly-Casting tournament.

Although such tournaments already have been proved successful in other Texas fishing centers, the event will be the first of its kind ever staged on the South Plains.

Patterned after like meets in Waco, Fort Worth and Gulf points, the tournament will be based upon accuracy and distance of the fishermen in casting at targets anchored in the lake.

Qualifying trials will be held Friday, June 23, beginning at 5 p.m., with participants falling into brackets according to their scores in the qualifying rounds. Finals will be completed Saturday, June 24.

Lubbock merchants have contributed first and second place awards for each of the four divisions—Championship, first, second and third flights. The fisherman taking the highest score in the qualifying rounds will be given a tempered steel rod and reel by Buffalo Lakes. Sherrod Bros. and Carter of Slaton will give as a prize for the fisherman making the longest cast a casting line and two choices of casting baits.

There will be no registration or entrance fee charged participants; officials announced, except for a ten-cent gate admission charge.

To eliminate unfairness in competition, promoters of the tournament announced that classification of equipment would figure in division of the contestants.

The tournament will be comprised of entrants from approximately ten West Texas counties, bordered by Garza on the south, Dickens on the east, Hale on the north and Lamb and Hockley on the west.

Jack Lamb, nationally prominent fly-caster, will be one of the judges. Another will be chosen from an Amarillo sporting goods concern and the third will be picked from Lubbock.

Lamb will give an exhibition of casting Sunday, June 25 at the scene of the tournament.

West Texas Storms Do Much Damage

West Texas storms have thus far left Slaton and vicinity unscathed. At Snyder and at Colorado City damage is estimated to reach more than a million dollars as one was killed and streams had to carry off cloudbursts that amounted in some places to eleven inches. Tuesday evening clouds forming in the southwest swept around through Hockley County with destructive force, killing one and laying waste scores of farmsteads. Northeastward the storm passed through Shallowater and a hundred miles further to carry on the flood and destruction. Six, eight, and ten inches of precipitation were reported from different areas.

Brasfield Sells Wool

Jesse Brasfield took six thousand pounds of wool to Brownwood last week and sold for a spot price of 15 cents. Other offerings for Plains wool have ranged from ten cents upward. Prices for western wool have ranged as high as twenty-four cents this spring, but allowance is always made for the amount of dirt that is in any wool and a twelve pound fleece from the plains brings as much as an eight pound fleece from a country where sand does not blow so freely, quality and staple always considered.

Brasfield has three hundred head of sheep, also about two hundred lambs he is marketing as they reach marketable weight. He plans to take another load of wool to market soon.

July Fourth Plans Are Changed

A part of the plans for Slaton's July 4th celebration this year have been changed and instead of producing a pageant as officials had intended, they will present a general program of entertainment in the evening, including a brief talk on peace, musical numbers, presentation of awards, crowning of the queen of the celebration, dance numbers and readings. The program will include numbers from Harley Sadler shows, playing Slaton July 3-4, and will be presented on Slaton's lighted football field, where seating space provides for more than 3,000 people.

Following the parade in the morning, sports events beginning around two o'clock will fill a major portion of the afternoon until four o'clock. A tent show matinee will follow, then early in the evening sports events will start at the football stadium. A special program of fireworks will close the entertainment, then the crowds will be invited to return down-town for evening shows.

Final details of the celebration will appear in the newspapers next week.

Modern Way Cafe Is Clean And New

The Modern Way Cafe and Ice Cream Parlor on North Ninth St. this week gets before the public with announcement of the service to be found there. "It is the determination of the management," says Mr. L. L. Stone, Proprietor, "to provide in Slaton a cafe service that will be attractive from all angles. New and adequate equipment, an air-cooled building, new fixtures, curb, counter, table and booth service at the fountain, ice cream made from Borden's Ice Cream, Mix, and prices on all that will interest the careful and hungry will be maintained here."

Mrs. Roy Ely is in charge of the kitchen, and announcement of the Cafe Specialty is made in the advertising columns of this issue.

Demp Cannon And Mo. Teacher Wed

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Demp Cannon of Slaton and Miss Marjorie Henley of Marshall, Mo., which took place in Kansas City, Mo., May 29. The wedding was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Henley.

He is a 1937 graduate of Texas Tech where he was captain of the Red Raider football team. He played quarterback position. Cannon graduated from Slaton High school. He was a member of the Double T organization and the College Club, social group.

Huckabay Grandson Critically Hurt

G. W. Huckabay, 21, son of C. C. Huckabay of Odessa and a grandson of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Huckabay of this city, was critically injured near midnight Saturday June 17 when a taxi collided with the car he and a companion were driving from Midland to their home town. The other occupant of the car was killed and little hope was held for young Huckabay, as he suffered a severe skull fracture.

Upon being rushed to a Midland hospital, an operation was performed to relieve the pressure on the brain and now hope is held for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Huckabay and family at one time lived here and have been frequent visitors in the homes of their relatives.

Dr. Huckabay and son, J. E., returned Sunday night from the bedside of the injured boy and Tuesday Mrs. W. L. Huckabay and daughter, Mrs. R. L. Cantrell, went to Midland to be with him.

Mr. L. E. Foote of Las Vegas, New Mexico Wednesday joined his wife who is here at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Jessee. Mr. Foote will return home Monday, but Mrs. Foote, a registered nurse, will remain in attendance on her mother until more definite improvement is evident.

RAYMOND LEE JOHNS, MANAGER

It has been some years since Slaton has had a motorcade to advertise itself and its activities before folks in other towns and cities. In view of the fact that we are planning this year to entertain our neighbors with the biggest July 4th celebration in years, we think it necessary that we visit our friends in our surrounding trade territory and let them know they will be welcome and that we plan to make the day pleasant for them.

A motorcade made up of volunteers who can get off and take their automobiles will be assembled on the east side of the city hall Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock; June 27, just one week previous to the day of the celebration. Already some six or seven cars have been pledged to participate in the motorcade. About 25 band students plan to go and furnish the music. A car equipped with a public speaking system will make the trip and furnish amplification facilities for the speakers and the musicians.

The group will leave Slaton as soon as they can be assembled and visit Southland, Post, Tahoka, O'Donnell and perhaps Lamesa, returning by way of Wilson the first afternoon. Wednesday's route includes Idalou, Lorenzo, Ralls, Crosbyton, Floydada, Lockney, Plainview, Hale Center, Abernathy and Lubbock. Placards and stickers advertising the Slaton celebration will be distributed in the various towns by the motorcade. Both trips will begin in the afternoon at 1 o'clock and return to Slaton as soon as possible after the last town has been visited.

It will be very much appreciated by those who are planning the motorcade if all who can will take their cars and join the trippers both afternoons, June 27-28, one week before July 4th, and help us make everyone in this part of the country Slaton conscious, so that we will have the largest crowd in history.

JOIN SLATON'S PRETTY-YARD CONTEST! With your cooperation we hope to take a step through this summer that will be of great benefit toward beautification of Slaton to the point where it has never been before. In this contest being sponsored by your Chamber of Commerce appropriate prizes will be awarded winners, including trees, shrubs, cash and merchandise from your local merchants.

See another part of this issue for the entry blank, fill it out and return it to the Chamber of Commerce office as soon as possible. You may call in person and fill out your blank in the office if you like.

G. M. Blackwell of Blackwell Mattress Co. left last Friday for a business trip to Holland, Michigan, where the Karr Innersprings, the foundation of the Spring Air Mattresses are made. He expects to be home Saturday of this week.

All food merchants recognize the good policy of keeping their establishments open daily and long hours for the convenience of their patrons. But there are four outstanding patriotic and Christian holidays. Namely, 4th of July, Armistice, Thanksgiving, and Christmas which we assume you agree our employees are entitled to celebrate in an appropriate manner. Your purchases made the day preceding the foregoing outstanding days will be highly appreciated by the management.

Telephone Teamwork in Texas

Some people are surprised to learn that there are 396 telephone companies serving Texas. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is the largest, it is true. But there are others—395 of them—which have the important job of providing telephone service in about 830 Texas towns and cities.

The Southwestern Bell is glad its lines connect with the lines of these other Texas telephone companies, blanketing the state with a vast network of wires—so that boundaries between companies are not barriers to quick, state-wide telephone service.

Through teamwork and friendly co-operation, 396 Texas telephone companies work together to furnish Texas with telephone service that is fast, accurate, and dependable.

• Long Distance in Texas is cheap. You can telephone 100 miles for 60 cents (3 minute conversation, day rate, station-to-station).

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Congressional Patronage Grab Shoves Political Wheelhorses Into Justice, Commerce Jobs

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CABINET: Patronage

An able economist, Republican Willard L. Thorp was borrowed from Dun & Bradstreet to be advisor in the commerce department's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Next Harry Hopkins named Republican Thorp chief of the bureau, but a patronage-minded Democratic congress turned him down. This was Secretary Hopkins' first conflict with patronage, but another was destined soon in which Attorney General Frank Murphy would also learn about patronage. Up for simultaneous congressional consideration came two appropriation bills, one to give Mr. Murphy's department $1,000,000 for Thurman Arnold's ter and son-in-law. Although their relatives seemed near agreement, Il Duce and El Caudillo were not yet Franco's independence was not comfortable.

Needing peace above all to reconstruct his nation, the generalissimo must nevertheless be imperialistic like other dictators. This means a strong hand in Tangiers, which all good Spaniards demand be regained from France. It also means re-establishing Spain's lost world prestige, necessitating an increased influence in Spanish-speaking Latin America. This program plays right into the Axis hands, stimulating conflict between Spain and the democracies and thus assuring Spain's aid should Rome and Berlin declare war.

EDUCATION: Consolation

Not since 1923 have graduating college students found jobs awaiting them. Though this year's crop of seniors will fare somewhat better than 1938's, a decade of hard luck has revolutionized the graduate's outlook, made him glad to take any job, and placed an entirely different interpretation on the significance of a college degree. Sample: To the University of Chicago's 799 graduates, President Robert Maynard Hutchins addressed this gloomy message: "We know now that graduation . . . does not carry with it the promise that the graduate will ever be able to earn a living. . . . We must recognize that you may never make a nickel that you would not have made if you had never come here, that your education will not hoist you by so much as a single rung up the social ladder."

Then, to soothe parents who wondered why their youngsters should be asked to waste four years, President Hutchins offered the following left-handed consolation: ". . . Higher education should help the graduate make intelligent use of the leisure which thoughtless engineers and a blind economic system have given him."

Neither expansion plan called for political wheelhorses, but Messrs. Hopkins and Murphy must take wheelhorses or nothing. Sponsored by Tennessee's Sen. Kenneth McKellar (who can allegedly smell patronage further than any other seven men in congress) a proviso was adopted requiring congressional approval for all men hired under either appropriation at a salary of $5,000 or more. Almost incidental to this ruling was the fact that congress cut Mr. Murphy's bill from $1,000,000 to $300,000, and Mr. Hopkins' from $225,000 to $133,500.

Murphy grudge: To proceed with detailed investigation and prosecution of antitrust cases, Thurman Arnold needs smart young lawyers minus business or political connections. One good reason is that wheelhorses would instill New Dealism into the drive at a time when the administration needs business' friendship. Political lawyers are notoriously ineffectual, Mr. Arnold believes.

Hopkins grudge: Special assistants created under the commerce bill would work with business representatives directly on whatever problems might be presented, a job obviously requiring men who have been too busy with economic affairs to meddle in politics.

SPAIN:

Friendly Relatives

Last March 17 Dictator Francisco Franco accepted a friendship non-aggression pact with Portugal, whose mere moral support against the Loyalists was slight compared with the guns, planes and men of Rome and Berlin. Observers immediately predicted a cast-iron military pact with the Axis, but weeks dragged into months until the world suddenly realized General Franco would be no pushover: like a smart politician he was playing both democracies and dictatorships for all they were worth, staving off an Axis pact so long as possible.

Mid-June found Franco's brother-in-law and minister of the interior, Ramon Serrano Suner, visiting in Italy with persuasive Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's foreign minister.

Politicians Believe Roosevelt Now Campaigning for Third Term

Bombshell by Ickes and Blast by Secretary Early Accepted as Having Presidential Approval; Attacks Upon Garner Are Without Justification.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Politics long has been described as a game, and it is. In consequence, there are certain rules to be followed. They are rules that are born of experience, and the participants in the game of politics know full well what will happen when those rules are violated.

Outstanding among these rules—none of which are written, of course—is a thorough understanding by a President of the United States that he must remain silent about his choice of a successor just as long as it is possible to do so. Otherwise, he obviously loses some of the support that he can command from members of his party. Any pronouncement that he favors this one or looks with disfavor upon that one immediately produces a split. Those not blessed with the presidential smile become embittered and assert their enmity.

Another rule is that once a man is elected President, he automatically becomes a candidate for a second term. This results from the fact that whether he is good, bad or indifferent as the head of the political party that sponsored him, that party cannot dump him overboard for the sake of the party itself.

Now, however, there is a new condition developing—one for which no apparent or obvious rule exists. Tradition has set up a rule in this country that no President shall seek a third consecutive term. All Presidents have followed it, heretofore, and some indication has been given by them as early as was convenient that they intended retiring. The most recent situation of this kind, of course, was the famous statement by the late Calvin Coolidge who was the author of "I do not choose to run." Mr. Coolidge had served a part of the term to which Warren G. Harding was elected and was elected for one full term. He considered he had served two terms, and thus stated his plans for return to private life, albeit the announcement had people guessing.

Believe Roosevelt Is Planning for Third Term

The problem that now confronts the politicians, and about which there is no rule, concerns President Roosevelt's course. According to old precedent, Mr. Roosevelt is under no compulsion to suggest whom he favors as a successor. Indeed, he would be borrowing trouble were he to do so at this time. But members of his own party and voters generally are wondering more and more whether he intends to seek a third nomination and election, and thus climax his record as a breaker of precedents.

There are many political leaders and students of politics who are convinced beyond a shadow of a doubt that Mr. Roosevelt is campaigning even now for his third nomination. They base their conclusion on countless small indications, and the drive for this result that is being carried on by a small group of White House intimates.

And to make the confusion worse, there has come the announcement by Secretary Ickes of the interior department that Mr. Roosevelt must be renominated and re-elected. This was like a bombshell in the ranks of the anti-Roosevelt Democrats who read into those lines, printed in the magazine, "Look," the first publication of united efforts on the part of the President's advisers with the consent of Mr. Roosevelt.

But if the Ickes statement was a bombshell, a subsequent statement by Stephen Early, one of the secretaries to Mr. Roosevelt, must be regarded as an explosion of an entire powder storehouse. To the on-looker, Mr. Early's statement cannot be ignored; it must be accepted as having presidential approval because of the intimate relationship between the two men, and if it has presidential approval, it is tantamount, as far as I can see, to an announcement of Mr. Roosevelt's intentions.

Early Declares Voters Will Not Be Confused

Writing in the Saturday Evening Post, Mr. Early concluded his discussion of unfair criticisms of Mr. Roosevelt with a fervent declaration that the voters will not be confused. With the gracious consent of Mr. Wesley Winans Stout, editor-in-chief of the Post, I herewith reprint the salient paragraph from Mr. Early's article that has served to spread in new and broader form the feeling that Mr. Roosevelt will seek re-election to a third term:

"Certain it is that with the approach of 1940, as has been the case every four years since this democratic form of government was adopted by the people of the United States, new rumors, new whisperings, variations of truth and untruth will come to mix with the old. Fortunately, it is equally true that the vast majority of those who vote in the next presidential election will take salutary pleasure in expressing their contempt of all that the double-

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Her Husband's Funeral Pyre"

HELLO EVERYBODY: India! Land of mystery and—"Suttee!" Suttee, as you know, is the quaint little Indian custom of burning the widow on the funeral pyre of her dead husband. It is a Hindu practice of long standing and from this gruesome sacrifice the soul of the immolated widow is supposed to receive a special blessing and follow her husband's spirit into that land of greater mystery—the hereafter!

The British government has prohibited Suttee for many years but it is suspected that many secret cremations still claim their living victims.

Mrs. Miriam Richardson of Caldwell, N. J., makes the page today with a tale of Suttee and she knows her stuff. Miriam's parents were missionaries in India for a great many years. Their grass and mud bungalow was situated in a no-man's-land of trees, underbrush and jungle grass in the Central Provinces, which was in the heart of a vast jungle district. The jungles were infested with wild animals. For 20 years of her life she was lulled to sleep by the gruff, coughing roars of man-eating tigers, the weird yowling of cowardly jackals and the insane laughs of hyenas!

Late one night, Miriam says, there came a frantic knocking on the bungalow door with calls of "Memsahib, Memsahib!" Her mother hastily opened the door, thinking that perhaps one of the Christian natives had been fatally mauled by a tiger. An old native woman stood there wringing her hands. Her daughter—whose husband had just died—was about to commit Suttee and the woman wanted the help of Miriam's father and mother to save her.

His hand was to light the fire! The fire that would consume his living mother and dead father!

Miriam's Mother Starts on Mercy Errand.

They started at once, a chokadar—night watchman—being left to guard over Miriam. Her father grabbed a lantern and the distracted native woman led the way through a wild jungle path. Soon the beating of tom-toms thronged all around them and they came to a clearing lit by hand torches.

In the center of the clearing, Miriam says, was a funeral pyre—a prepared bonfire of dried wood on which reposed the body of the dead man. Around it, at respectful distances, thronged the native crowd. Through the crowd and near the pyre wandered Hindu priests, their faces bearing the painted ghastly gray ash marks of their calling.

"The native woman pulled my mother to the women's quarters," Miriam writes, "here no man was allowed. My father remained with the men in an effort to dissuade them. In the center of a walling group of women sat the young widow. She swayed to and fro, moaning and beating her breast with her fists. From the dull gleam of her eyes, mother knew that she had been drugged and hardly realized the frightful fate that was in store for her.

"Mother went straight to her and putting an arm around the girl started a fight against time. She wanted to delay matters long enough for the effects of the drug to wear off so that she could reason with the distracted girl. Once a little boy—his naked body covered with ashes and pain—interrupted her. The boy was the widow's son. He carried a lighted torch in his little hands and he had been sent, he said, by the priests to get his mother. His hand was to light the fire!—the fire that would consume his living mother and dead father!"

Can you imagine how that kind of a possession would appeal to an American mother? An innocent youngster being hoodwinked into thinking he was performing a holy act by actually burning his mother alive! WITH HIS OWN HAND!

Responsibility Shifted to a Child.

It looks to me as if the Hindu priests wished to shift the responsibility of the whole fanatical sacrifice to a child. Well, anyway, the sight of the little child with the torch made Miriam's mother redouble her efforts to stop the whole thing. She switched the conversation to the mystical side of Christianity. She sang hymns translated into the native tongue and the widow showed some signs of losing the effects of the drug. A painted priest appeared in the doorway. His eyes flashed in fanatical anger. "Come, it is time," he said.

But the determined American mother drove him away, too. She knew that priests are forbidden the sanctity of the women's quarters. He left muttering threats as she spoke to his victim of the God he hated. The widow was crying quietly now and listening.

Meanwhile, Miriam's father was doing his part. He was going from group to group—pleading with some—threatening others. A few native Christians appeared and helped him. The priests raged but all feared the heavy hand of British law and soon the missionary had his way. The torch was applied to the funeral pyre WITHOUT ITS LIVING VICTIM.

Body of Husband Burned Alone.

The fire crackled and roared, Miriam says. Scorched human flesh smelt heavy on the oppressive jungle air—priests sulked—but the body burned alone.

It was not until the last ember had fallen and the last tom-tom had ceased its savage strain that her mother and father started back through the jungle over which the first signs of dawn were creeping. The native mother and daughter went with them and cried out their gratitude at every step. They promised to become converts to a faith that could win against the power of the Hindu priests.

"But," Mrs. Richardson ends, "the arm of the Hindu priests in that superstition-ridden land, is long. Thwarted once, it clutched at its victims again. The women were spirited away later and when last heard of were living as 'temple women' in the power of the priest whom they feared more than the God of the Christians!"

Mrs. Richardson lives in New Jersey now—far from the sounds of the jungle of India—but I'll bet she still hears in her sleep the mysterious throbbing of the Hindu tom-toms. Don't you?

'Back Drop' Aids Television Transmitting

A black "back drop" for the screens of television transmitting tubes results in more sharply focused and detailed television image according to a patent (No. 2,156,391) issued to Willard Hickok of Bloomfield, N. J.

The "back drop" is a film of graphite at the back of the transparent mica support on which are mounted the photo-electric elements that convert the scene being televised into an electric image and which is broadcast through the ether.

It is explained that when the scene is focused on the ordinary photo-electric screen of the "telescope" tube, light from the image is reflected, bounces off the walls of the tube back on to the screen so that a double image may be formed. At the same time the photo-electric elements scatter the light. All this, it is indicated, blurs and makes hazy the image to be broadcast.

The black "back drop," which is the subject of the patent, on the other hand, absorbs the light which would thus ordinarily be reflected. The result is a sharper, more detailed image.

France, which lost $934,000,000 in 1935, offers the only encouraging picture in today's gold problem. While other countries bordering Germany have frantically shipped their metal elsewhere, the strong-arm government of Premier Edouard Daladier is now enjoying an influx of gold and capital. Biggest reaction in the U. S. is a steady increase of adjusted demand deposits in federal reserve banks. In early June, as gold hoardings reached their new peak, reserve bank deposits also hit a high water mark.

SYNOPSIS

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafield Simms, wealthy New York.

Down the path Jane went, the two pussy-cats like small shadows in her wake, until suddenly a voice came out of the dark. "I believe it is little Jane Barnes." She stopped. "Oh, is that you, Evans? Isn't it a heavenly night?" "I'm not sure." "Don't talk that way." "Why not?" "Because an evening like this is like wine—it goes to my head." "You are like wine," he told her. "Jane, how do you do it?" "Do what?" "Hold the pose of youth and joy and happiness?" "You know it isn't a pose. I just feel that way, Evans."

Again her hand was on his arm. He laid his own over it. "You're the best ever, Jane," he said, huskily—and presently he went away. Jane, going in, found that Baldy had telephoned. "He hasn't got here until seven," Sophy told her. "You had better run along home," Jane told her. "I'll cook the steak when it comes."

Sophy was old and she was tired. Life hadn't been easy. The son who was to have been the prop of her old age had been killed in France. There was a daughter's daughter who had gone north and who now and then sent money. Old Sophy did not know where her granddaughter got the money, but it was good to have it when it came. But it was not enough, so old Sophy worked. "I hate to leave you here alone, Miss Janey."

"Oh, run along, Sophy. Baldy will come before I know it." Jane went through the kitchen to the back door, throwing an appraising glance at the things in the warm-

Jane loved her little home with almost passionate intensity. She loved to have Baldy in a mood like this—things right once more with his world.

She knew it was so by the ring of his voice, the cock of his head—hence she was not in the least surprised when he leaned forward under the old-fashioned spreading dome which drenched him with light, and said, "I've such a lot to tell you, Jane; the most amazing thing has happened."

CHAPTER II

When young Baldwin Barnes had ridden out of Sherwood that morning on his way to Washington, his car had swept by fields which were crisp and frozen; by clumps of trees whose pointed tops cut into the clear blue of the sky; over ice-bound streams, all shining silver in the early sunlight.

He had the eye of an artist, and he liked the ride. Even in winter the countryside was attractive—and as the road slipped away, there came a few big houses surrounded by wide grounds, with glimpses through their high hedges of white statues, of spired cedars, of sundials set in the midst of dead gardens.

Beyond these there was an arid stretch until the Lake was reached, then the links of one country club, the old buildings of another, and at last on the crest of a hill, a view of the city—sweeping on the right towards Arlington and on the left towards Soldiers' Home.

Turning into Sixteenth Street, he crossed a bridge with its buttresses guarded by stone panthers—and it was on this bridge that his car stopped.

Climbing out, he blamed Fate furiously. Years afterward, however, he dared not think of the difference it might have made if his little flivver had not failed him.

Once when he stopped, a woman passed him. She was tall and slender and wrapped up to her ears in moleskin. Her small hat was blue, from her hand swung a gray suede bag, her feet were in gray shoes with cut-steel buckles.

Baldy's quick eyes took in the details of her costume. He reflected as he went back to work that women were fools to court death in that fashion, with thin slippers and silk stockings, in this bitter weather.

He found the trouble, fixed it, jumped into his car and started his motor. And it was just as he was moving that his eye was caught by a spot of blue bobbing down the hill below the bridge. The woman who had passed him was making her way slowly along the slippery path. On each side of her the trees were brown and bare. At the foot of the hill was a thread of frozen water.

It was not usual at this time to see pedestrians in that place. Now and then a workman took a short cut—or on warm days there were picnic parties—but to follow the rough paths in winter was a bleak and arduous adventure.

He stayed for a moment to watch her, then suddenly left his car and ran. The girl in the blue hat had caught her high heels in a root, had stumbled and fallen.

When he reached her, she was struggling to her feet. He helped her, and picked up the bag which she had dropped.

"Thank you so much." Her voice was low and pleasing. He saw that she was young, that her skin was very fair, and that the hair which swept over her ears was pale gold, but most of all, he saw that her eyes were burning blue. He had never seen eyes quite like them. The old poets would have called them sapphires, but sapphires do not flame.

"It was so silly of me to try to do it," she was protesting, "but I thought it might be a short cut."

He wondered what her destination might be that this remote path should lead to it. But all he said was, "High heels aren't made for—mountain climbing—"

"They aren't made for anything," she said, looking down at the steel-buckled slippers, "useful."

"Let me help you up the hill."

He surveyed the steep incline. "I am perfectly sure you don't want to go down."

"I do," she hesitated, "but I suppose I can't."

He had a sudden inspiration. "Can I take you anywhere? My little flivver is up there on the bridge. Would you mind that?"

"Would I mind if a life-line were thrown to me in mid-ocean?" She said it lightly, but he fancied there was a note of high hope.

They went up the hill together. "I want to get an Alexandria car," she told him.

"But you are miles away from it."

"Am I?" She showed momentary confusion. "I—hoped I might reach it through the Park—"

"You might. But you might also freeze to death in the attempt like a babe in the wood, without any robins to perform the last melancholy rites. What made you think of such a thing?"

He saw at once his mistake. Her voice had a touch of frigidity. "I can't tell you."

"Sorry," he said abruptly. "You must forgive me."

She melted. "No, it is I who should be forgiven. It must look strange to you—but I'd rather not explain—"

On the last steep rise of the hill he lifted her over a slippery pool, and as his hand sank into the soft fur of her wrap, he was conscious of its luxury. It seemed to him that his mustard-colored coat fairly shouted incongruity. His imagination swept on to Raleigh, and the velvet cloak which might do the situation justice. He smiled at himself and smiling, too, at her, felt a tingling sense of coming circumstance.

It was because of that smile, and the candid, boyish quality of it, that she trusted him. "Do you know," she said, "I haven't had a thing to eat this morning, and I'm frightfully hungry. Is there any place that I could have a cup of coffee—where you could bring it out to me in the car?"

"Could I?" the morning stars sang. "There's a corking place in Georgetown."

"Without the world looking on?"

"Without your world looking on," boldly.

She hesitated, then told the truth. "I'm running away—"

He was eager. "May I help?"

"Perhaps you wouldn't if you knew."

"Try me."

He helped her into his car, tucked the rug about her, and put up the curtains. "No one can see you on the back seat," he said, and drove to Georgetown on the wings of the wind.

He brought coffee out to her from a neat shop where milk was sold, and buns, and hot drinks, to motormen and conductors. It was a clean little place, fresh as paint, and the buttered rolls were brown and crisp.

"I never tasted anything so good," the runaway told Baldy. "And now I am going to ask you to drive me over the Virginia side—I'll get the trolley there."

"Would I mind if a life-line were thrown to me in mid-ocean?"

ing over, and stood waiting on the threshold, hugging herself in the keenness of the wind.

Presently her brother's tall form was silhouetted against the silvery gray of the night.

"I thought you were never coming," she said to him.

"I thought so, too." He bent and kissed her; his cheek was cold as it touched hers.

"Aren't you nearly frozen?"

"No. Sorry to be late, honey. Get dinner on the table and I'll be ready—"

"I'm afraid things won't be very appetizing," she told him; "they've waited so long. But I'll cook the steak—"

He had gone on, and was beyond the sound of her voice. She opened the fat parcel which he had deposited on the kitchen table. She wondered a bit at its size. But Baldy had a way of bringing home unexpected bargains—a dozen boxes of crackers—unwieldy pounds of coffee.

But this was neither crackers nor coffee. The box which was revealed bore the name of a fashionable florist. Within were violets—single ones—set off by one perfect rose and tied with a silver ribbon.

Jane gasped—then she went to the door and called:

"Baldy, where's the steak?"

He came to the top of the stairs. "Great guns," he said, "I forgot it!"

Then he saw the violets in her hands, laughed and came down a step or two. "I sold a loaf of bread and bought—white hyacinths—"

"They're heavenly!" Her glance swept up to him. "Peace offering?"

"There were gay sparks in his eyes. 'We'll call it that.'"

She blew a kiss to him from the tips of her fingers. "They are perfectly sweet. And we can have an omelette. Only if we eat any more eggs, we'll be flapping our wings."

"I don't care what we have. I am so hungry I could eat a house."

He went back up the stairs, laughing.

Jane, breaking eggs into a bowl, meditated on the nonchalance of men. She meditated, too, on the mystery of Baldy's mood. The flowers were evidence of high exaltation. He did not often lend himself to such extravagance.

He came down presently and helped carry in the belated dinner. The potatoes lay like withered leaves in a silver dish, the cornbread was a wrinkled wreck, the pudding a travesty. Only Jane's omelette and a lettuce salad had escaped the blight of delay.

Then, too, there was Philomele, singing. Jane drew a cup of coffee, hot and strong, and set it at her brother's place. The violets were in the center of the table, the cats purring on the hearth.

'Pronghorn' Distinct From Other Antelopes

A recent census of the American antelope, or "pronghorn," shows these animals are decidedly on the increase. A survey made during the years from 1922 to 1924 showed there were only about 26,600 antelopes left of the millions which once roamed the range. The last census shows there are now 131,555 in the country.

In other words there are more than five times as many on the range as there were 15 years ago. There is no animal on this continent more typically American than the "pronghorn." He is so distinct from all other antelopes that he is classified as a species, genus and family all by himself, says the American Wildlife Institute.

Antelopes are very vain about their speed and cannot resist an opportunity to match their prowess with anything that runs. They have long been the swiftest animals on the range. Any fast moving object is a challenge and the antelopes dash along in a parallel course until they are well in the lead, and then as if to make a convincing display of their prowess, they dash across the front of their competitor's line of travel and soon disappear over the horizon.

Jeannie Layne

Above is a likeness of Jeannie Layne, clever acrobatic dancer with Harley Sadler's stage show which comes to Slaton for the 3rd and 4th of July. Miss Layne is one of a large number of vaudeville artists who are featured with the show this season. In addition to Miss Layne, Henry, world toured artist and magician is featured, presenting a mirthful melange of magic, art and sand paintings. Henry has just returned from a foreign tour that took him to 12 countries and was immediately engaged by Harley Sadler for this season's run. Also included in the vaudeville are the Farren Twins, stars of radio and stage, the Musical Battens, Vera Gorman, blues singer, Eddie LeVerne, accordionist, Billy Heath, Kenedy Swain and others. The opening play for Monday night July 3rd in Slaton is "He Couldn't Take It," with Harley Sadler as "Dad" said to be his favorite part. On the second day, the 4th, the company presents "The Texas Ranger" a play of the great southwest, with Harley as "Toby."

BREAD BAKING DEMONSTRATED AT CLUB

Miss Elizabeth Brooks, Assistant County Home Demonstration Agent showed the members of the Slaton City Line Club how to make yeast bread at their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon June 21 at the Clubhouse.

This is the recipe Miss Brooks gave and used: For about 3 1/2 lb. bread use 2 3-4 cups liquid, either milk or water; 1 to 2 cakes yeast; 3 tablespoons sugar; 2 tablespoons fat; 9 cups flour and 4 tablespoons salt. Mix 5 or 6 minutes then put in a greased pan to rise and double bulk. When ready for baking, place in oven and bake for about 45 minutes.

The bread was served, with other food, to the 20 members present and two guests, Mesdames Delma McCollum and H. E. Cavenor.

The Club will sponsor a food sale Saturday at Sherrod Bros. & Carter Furniture store, for benefit of the Girls' 4-H Club which is now raising funds to send their delegate, Janice Hall to the Short Course at A.&M.

MAKES THE GRADE

MEASLES
Here are some of the things you need to know about this disease:
1. It is an acute infectious disease.
2. The exact cause is unknown.
3. It is highly communicable by direct contact, and probably by third persons and articles.

4. All ages are susceptible but most adults have had it.
5. Symptoms:
 - a. Red watery eyes
 - b. Running nose and sneezing
 - c. Incessant hacking cough
 - d. Fever (not influenced by medicine) may go to 105
 - e. Skin rash—red spots earliest on temples, edge of hair and behind ears, spreading to face and body. Later become dusky red and blotchy and have a raised feeling.
6. Onset—9 to 14 days after exposure. Outer limits 7 to 21 days.
7. Duration of infectivity—highest in the catarrhal stage before eruption appears but lasts 3 weeks.
8. Quarantine—should be at least 3 weeks from onset of symptoms.
9. Convalescence—rapid, in absence of complications. Symptoms usually disappear in 10 days.

Complications during the disease:
Bronchitis and Broncho-pneumonia; stomach disorders; ear infection; diarrhea; convulsions.

Later results:
Chronic bronchitis; enlarged tonsils and adenoids; tuberculosis of the lungs—usually a quick course to death.

Formerly if one was exposed to measles there was nothing to do but have the disease and nothing influenced the course of the illness. Now, however, two courses are open. Both make use of the protective substances in the adult immune blood.

After the exposure or early in the disease, whole blood is taken from the adult and injected into the hip muscles of the exposed person. This may protect the one taking it from having the disease or may only modify the course. However, the complications are so serious that any modification is desirable. There is prepared from whole blood an immune serum, available commercially, that works as well or better and is not as painful to use. It is rather expensive but very valuable in reducing the severity of an attack or protecting against it. One of these methods should be employed in every case.

A word about quarantine. Previously this ordinance has not been enforced in Slaton and many thoughtless people make no attempt to effect any measures that will protect others. They do as they please, allowing visitors and permitting a child convalescing to go about to other people's homes or to school and Sunday school, although the child is still capable of transmitting the disease. These individuals are the first to criticize others for the same practices. What then is the solution? The answer is—practice the golden rule—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Inquire of responsible authority what are the reasonable rules of quarantine for your disease, then effect them of your own free will, setting a good example for your neighbors and friends.

The maintenance of good health in any community is a matter of cooperation of the people with each other, with the Doctors, and with the City authorities.
— Slaton City Health Department.

PAUL REVIEWS HIS LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Philippians 1:12-14, 21-24; 3:12-14; II Timothy 4:7, 8. GOLDEN TEXT—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.—II Timothy 4:7.

Self-examination may be a most profitable experience if carried out in the right spirit and for a good purpose. It may be very humbling to look at one's experiences and accomplishments in honest appraisal, but the very humility which is thus brought about may be the first step toward better things and may prove to be a real means of blessing.

Paul, whose life we have been studying together for the last three months, made a review of his own life and experience in various places in his epistles. We cannot study them all, but in the brief portions before us we find that the apostle had laid hold of those certainties without which life is largely meaningless and useless. He had found victory over both himself and his circumstances. He was perfectly clear about his eternal destiny. He had a goal toward which his life was directed in earnest endeavor, and he had in view the reward which was to be his when he met his God. What an excellent opportunity we have to bring out the truth as related to ourselves on this coming Lord's Day.

I. Living Above Circumstances (Phil. 1:12-14). Paul had been imprisoned for the gospel's sake. Did that stop him? No, for he made the very guards who were assigned to watch him at his house the objects of his ministry and they, in turn, became missionaries of the cross. He sought to win each one as he took his designated period of guard service and then sent him out as a testimony to "the whole Praetorian guard and to all the rest" (v. 13, R. V.). What a consistent and glowing Christian life Paul must have lived day by day.

Not only were some of his Christian brethren encouraged by his example to preach the gospel, but we note in verse 15 that others, taking advantage of the fact that Paul was in prison, went out to preach just to show that they were as good as he, making their very preaching an expression of their envy of his popularity. Paul showed victory over circumstances by thanking God that the gospel was preached, even though it was done in a wrong spirit.

II. Facing Eternity With Joy (Phil. 1:21, 24). To Paul, departure from this life would mean his entering into perfect fellowship with Christ and unlimited service for Him. He therefore had a strong desire to depart and to be with the Lord. He would not, however, turn away from his present privilege and duty. If it was God's will that he should abide in the flesh, he purposed that it should be literally true of him that to live is Christ. If that be true in a man's life, then it must necessarily follow that to die is gain. The reason men fear death is that in place of saying "to live is Christ," they say "to live is money," "position," "pleasure," or even "sin."

III. Pressing Toward the Goal (Phil. 3:12-14). These are the words of the man who possibly was the greatest Christian and Christian worker of all time. Was he satisfied with himself? No, the Spirit of Christ in him and the vision of the goal which he had not yet attained made him press on.

The spiritually minded Christian has no word of commendation for past success, he gives Christ the glory. He does not permit past failures to hold him back, for they have been put under the blood. He is not content merely to hold his own, for he knows that to stand still is to go back. Christian friends, let us by God's blessing and grace take a forward step today, and tomorrow, and the day after, that we may, like Paul, press on toward the goal to the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Scripture speaks frequently of the reward which shall come to the faithful Christian at the close of a life of holiness and service for Christ. It is no doubt commendable that Christians do not often speak of their reward, for it should be true of every servant of Christ that the love of Christ should constrain him. On the other hand, it is important that we keep before us the fact that at the end of the road there is recognition by "the Lord, the righteous Judge," and that we may properly look forward to the receiving of the crown of righteousness from His hand. The life of the Christian has glorious meaning from beginning to end, yes, and on through all eternity!

A Paradox

Keller, the Irish barrister, was barred from the larger success he desired by an irresponsible wit. One day, meeting a solemn judge who had attained to a high position by the assumption of a serious manner, he cried: "I salute you, sir! In opposition to all the laws of natural philosophy. You have risen by your gravity; while I, alas, have sunk by my levity."

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how Pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of food distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your drugist today!

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The art of living—life itself—is really just producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if you wish to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that causes body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all work out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have been more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

New Easy-to-Sew and Keep-Cool-In Patterns

AS YOU see from the diagram, the pretty daytime dress (1754) consists of just two pieces to sew together. Then make the easy darts at the neckline and waistline, so that your dress will be slim and softly full over the bosom, edge the sleeves and neckline with lace or ruching—and there you are! Anybody can do it, and it's so attractive and comfortable. Linen, gingham, batiste and lawn are nice materials for this.

Cool, Comely Jacket Frock.

If you're looking for an extremely smart and pleasantly youthful jacket ensemble in women's sizes, 1761 is the pattern for you. Gatherers make the bodice just full enough, and the paneled skirt, cut to a high waistline, is beautifully slenderizing. The smart jacket is the most flattering length—certainly to make your hips look slim. Chiffon, georgette, linen or pure dye silk print are pliant fabrics in which this design looks particularly well.

The Patterns.

No. 1754 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 34 requires 3 yards of 35-inch fabric and 2 1/2 yards of lace or ruching.

HOT WEATHER BILIOUSNESS

Have you noticed that in hot weather your digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious, and your bowel action sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the symptoms of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. They call for calomel, or better still, Calotabs, the tasteless calomel compound tablets that make calomel-taking a pleasure.

Calotabs give you the effects of calomel and salts combined, helping Nature to expel the sour, stagnant bile and washing it out of the system. One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of water—that's all. Next morning your system feels clear, your spirit bright, and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work or pleasure.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in checker-board (black and white) packages bearing the trade mark "Calotabs." Refuse imitations. Trial package only ten cents; family package twenty-five cents, at your dealer's (Adv.)

STRAWBERRY-WHIPPED-CREAM ICE
See Recipe Below.

Cold, Frosty and Delicious

Do you remember how, as a child, a party just wasn't a party unless you had ice cream? Do such childhood memories even now create little appetite longings for that frosty, flavorsome dish—longings that send you hurrying to the kitchen to make up a batch of your own favorite frozen dessert?

Homemade ice creams and sherbets are more popular than ever now that efficient modern ice cream freezers make quick work of their preparation. (You can freeze smooth, velvety sherbets and ice cream in 5 to 10 minutes flat!) And when the advent of torrid weather calls for something special to encourage appetites made indifferent by the onslaught of heat waves, these delicious treats come into their own!

Here are some simple hints on making freezer ice creams with a collection of brand new recipes for cool, refreshing, frozen desserts—recipes which I've tested in my own kitchen and found to be as practical as they are appealing:

Hints on Making Ice Cream Freezer Ice Cream.

1. Follow directions in the recipe.
2. Scald freezing container, dasher and cover before using.
3. Crush or crack the ice finely.
4. Fill freezing container only 2/3 full of ice cream mixture, to allow for expansion.
5. Cover tightly.
6. Adjust the dasher so that the handle turns easily and smoothly.
7. Use three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt, arranging in alternate layers.
8. Turn the crank slowly and steadily until turning becomes difficult.
9. When the mixture is frozen (5 to 10 minutes, with a modern ice cream freezer), wipe around the top of the container with a cloth, and remove cover carefully, so that no ice or salt falls into the mixture.
10. Remove the dasher, and pack down the cream with a spoon.
11. Replace the cover, and drain off the water from the freezer.
12. Repack with ice and salt. Cover with burlap bag or heavy paper, and allow to "ripen" for about an hour before serving.

Peppermint Candy Ice Cream.

1/2 pound peppermint stick candy
1 quart thin cream
Break the stick candy into pieces. Pour the cream over the candy and place in the refrigerator overnight. Then pour the mixture into the freezing well of an ice cream freezer, pack with three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt, and freeze.

Strawberry or Raspberry Preserves Ice Cream.

(Serves 5-6)
1 pint coffee cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup strawberry or raspberry preserves
Combine all the ingredients and pour the mixture into the freezing container of a modern ice cream freezer. Assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with ice and salt, using three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt. Freeze.

Buttermilk Ice Cream.

(Makes about 1 1/2 quarts)
3 cups buttermilk
1 cup crushed pineapple
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white (stiffly beaten)
Combine the buttermilk, pineapple, sugar and lemon juice. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white, and pour into freezing container of ice cream freezer. Assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with a mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Freeze.

Cream-Less Ice Cream.

(Makes 2 quarts)
3/4 cup sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk (scalded)
2 eggs (beaten separately)
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon salt
Combine sugar and flour and blend with scalded milk; then cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from flame and pour three tablespoons of the mixture over beaten egg yolks. Blend thoroughly, then add to custard mixture, together with salt and vanilla extract. Chill. Pour mixture into freezing container of modern ice cream freezer. Pour the stiffly beaten egg whites over and then assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Freeze.

Strawberry Whipped Cream Ice.

(Serves 6)
1 quart strawberries
2 cups sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 pint cold water
1 cup whipped cream sweetened with 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar
Mash the berries, add the sugar and lemon juice, and let stand for about an hour. Add the water, and pour the mixture into the freezing container of an ice cream freezer. Assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with a mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Turn the crank slowly and steadily until the mixture thickens (about five minutes). Carefully remove the cover and the dasher, fill the hollow with sweetened whipped cream, cover with wax paper, replace the cover and repack with ice and salt. Let stand for about three hours before serving.

Lemon Cream Sherbet.

(Makes about 2 quarts)
3/4 cup lemon rind (grated)
1 cup cold water
1 cup lemon juice
4 cups sugar
2 eggs (beaten)
2 cups milk
2 cups heavy cream
Put the freshly grated lemon rind in a saucepan with the cold water. Bring to a boil and strain. To the liquid add the lemon juice and the sugar. Stir well. Beat eggs and to them add the milk and cream. Assemble the freezer and pack with ice and salt. When the freezer is ready, combine the two mixtures for the ice cream, pouring the fruit mixture slowly into the milk and cream. Stir quickly, pour into the freezing container, cover and freeze.

Star Dust

- ★ A Second Abe Lincoln
- ★ Kenny Wins Protesters
- ★ Bob Burns' Make-Ready

By Virginia Vale

EVEN after the many portrayals of Abraham Lincoln that we have had on stage and screen, Henry Fonda has given us, in "Young Mr. Lincoln," one that is different. He could have walked through the part, because by nature he had been fitted to play it. It would have been no effort at all for him to look like Lincoln, with a little help from the make-up man.

But he gives such a superb performance that he seems really to be Lincoln as a young man; he is shrewd and tender and kind, not yet marked for greatness and for tragedy.

There are other excellent performances in the picture, notably those contributed by Alice Brady, Donald Meek and Richard Cromwell. Put "Young Mr. Lincoln" high on your list of the pictures that you must be sure to see.

Kenny Baker, of radio fame, has won new laurels for himself on the screen. When it was announced that he would play "Nanki Poo" in the screen version of "The Mikado" there were loud protests from the dyed-in-the-wool Gilbert and Sullivan fans. What, they demanded, would a crooner do with the role? He'd be horrible, they declared, in contrast with Martyn Green, Sydney Granville, and the other members of the celebrated D'Oyly Carte Opera company, who have concentrated for years on Gilbert and Sullivan products.

Now they're acclaiming him. It's no surprise to the rest of the cast. After he sang his first selection, "A Wandering Minstrel," they realized how good he was. Elizabeth Bergner, who was working on a neighboring set, behind screens, promptly gave orders that the screens were to come down and work on her set was to stop every time that Baker sang. And those who protested that he was a crooner now agree with Victor Scherzinger, the director who insisted on having Baker, that the lad's not a crooner at all, but a lyric tenor.

David Niven may have lost out in private life, when Merle Oberon became Mrs. Alexander Korda, but he's doing all right in his professional career. Assigned to appear in "Whose Wife?" opposite Loretta Young, it's stated by the producers that he has the most important characterization of his screen career. "Whose Wife?" is an original screen play by Gene Towne and Graham Baker, and Tay Garnett will direct it—with those three topnotchers involved it's got to be good.

Bob Burns has a method all his own for preparing his material for those Thursday night broadcasts. He doesn't have a word ready at rehearsal time—just runs through the "spots" with the guest stars and Bing Crosby and rehearses his bazooka solo.

After the rehearsal he goes to a dressing room, armed with his pipe and tobacco pouch. Two hours later he's ready. His script consists of a few key words jotted down on the back of an envelope or a scrap of paper—things like "Aunt Boo's mousetrap" or "Snazzy's automobile," to remind him of what he wants to say. Probably that's the reason for at least part of the informality of that program—something that a great many people are striving to inject into other broadcasts, without marked success so far.

ODDS AND ENDS—In "The Sun Never Sets" Douglas Fairbanks Jr. shows an astonishing resemblance to Clark Gable. . . John Garfield objected so strenuously to making any more prison pictures that George Raft will replace him in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing" . . . Joan Crawford hasn't given up the idea of doing a musical play on Broadway. . . Sigrid Gurie will make two pictures a year for Universal for five years; remember her in "Algiers" (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

The Plumber's Hack Saw Did This Trick.

BETSY was all agog to have a bed with no foot piece and a padded head to match her spread. Ingenuity would have to substitute for money, and she was seriously considering this and that when the plumber was called to fix a leaky pipe.

As a tiny tot Betsy always said, "Let me watch," when workmen were coming and at 16 she hadn't grown up much. The plumber took a fine saw out of his tool bag and sawed a pipe in two just as if it were wood. Right then something clicked for Betsy. That old iron bed in the attic! It could be cut down. It was cut down, as shown in the sketch.

The top of this bed is padded with cotton basted to muslin. Betsy used an old comforter for padding. Her mind seems to jump with the greatest of ease from water pipes to iron beds and from padding to old comforters.

Former Resident Honor Graduate

By telegram Mrs. J. R. McAtee was notified recently that her son, Worland Peter McAtee, has just been graduated from Washington University, Washington, D. C. with honors and now has the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence.

Worland Peter graduated in 1928 from Slaton High school, where he was a very popular and intellectual student. He represented this city in the "My Home Town" contest his senior year and had many other awards bestowed upon him in the course of his schooling.

He later spent a year at St. Edward's Academy in Austin and another year at Texas University. For two years he attended New Mexico University in Albuquerque and graduated there in '32 with a B. S. degree. He was leader of the Young Democratic party of that state and led the campaign that put Clyde Tingley into the governor's chair.

Immediately after his graduation he was appointed to a government position in the insurance compensation office of the FERA.

He married in 1933 and asked for a transfer to Washington, D. C. in order to continue his study of law. This request was granted, and working in the daytime and studying at night, he accomplished what he set out to do, the hard way. Throughout his entire career, this enterprising young man has worked his way through college, holding a job and studying at night, but never swerving from his goal.

He is expected to return to New Mexico where he will "hang out his shingle."

Clem Kitten Home Has Electric Water System

The white bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Kitten that is near the Mercy Hospital, just outside the city limits, will soon be completed.

The interior is finished in off white with light floors.

There is a living room 14x16 ft.; a bedroom 14x16 ft. with an 8 ft. closet; another bedroom 10x10 ft. with a closet; kitchen 14x16 with a dining space, a 16 ft. cabinet with stove built in; a hall with a linen closet; a bath in white tile with black trim and medicine and linen spaces and an enclosed back porch with an entrance to the cemented basement.

An unusual feature of the place is the electric water system that is in the garage, supplying the home with a water equal in force to the city's. The well in the garage has no tower and is automatically controlled by electricity, guaranteeing an adequate supply of water at all times.

Mrs. L. L. Stone will leave the early part of next week to join her sister and together they will embark on a month's vacation trip in Canada, the New England states, New York World's Fair and the East Coast of the United States.

Americanism-

By June Scott, winner of the American Legion Essay Contest.

"All men are created equal," is a principle upon which Americanism is based. Americanism may be defined as one's protection and opportunities granted by the laws of a government by the people for the people. The three most important characteristics of Americanism as in the constitution are "(1) freedom of speech, (2) freedom of press, and (3) religious and political freedom." The morals of Americanism are preserved by the constitution and laws of this country, and the Monroe Doctrine furnishes further evidence by stating, "Americans for the Americas" and by forbidding the European powers from further aggression and invasion of the Americas.

The persecution of Jews in Germany shows how our laws protect us from the same fate of those unfortunates as the constitution reads "nor shall any person be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law" and it also reads "Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction."

To create a spirit of loyalty, a principal feature of Americanism, the citizens with voting powers are urged to participate in elections and other government functions. To protect the suffrage of citizens, the constitution has added the XV and XIX amendments which reads "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude or sex."

The devotion of a person to his country, its customs, and the principles for which it stands may well be termed—Americanism. With this thought in mind, the men who drew up the constitution constructed a preamble that reads, "We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

A standing motto of Americanism is "Live and Let Live." All persons regardless of "race, color, and previous condition of servitude" are protected by laws of our constitution and entitled to make a living for themselves and their families, with the opportunities to draw better wages and advancement. They are allowed to organize and demand better wages and conditions with shorter hours. Our radio programs are so constructed that they give us enjoyment, knowledge, and acquaint us with conditions in our country and also foreign countries. We are not required to listen to any program, that is freedom.

Due to the first amendment of the constitution which gives us Religious and Political Freedom, we are not forced to attend a Military Institute unless we so desire or in case of necessity of protecting our country from ruin and destruction from invasion by foreign powers.

In concluding I wish to stress the following three points about Americanism: (1) All men are created equal, (2) Our constitution protects all citizens; (3) Religious and Political Freedom are guaranteed.
