A crowd of about 2,000 witnessed the fray that was made very colorful by the Slaton Pep Squad and Band

In the first quarter Bullard, Slaton, ran 52 yards for the first touchdown, The deceased was married to Miss on an intercepted pass and Henry kicked goal, making the score 7 to 0 at the end of that quarter.

Burleson, Littlefield, made a touchdown in the second quarter with a short line drive but they failed to kick goal. On the following kickoff to Slaton, Bullard made a sensational run of 92 yards for the second touchdown for the Tigers, and Henry again kicked for extra point. Later Littlefield completed a pass to MacKnight who made the second talley for the Wildcats and Burleson carried the ball over for the extra point making the score at the half 14 to 13 in Slaton's favor. The third quarter was scoreless, but in the fourth quarter Bullard ran 12 yards to score; Henry kicked for the extra point. Late in that period Bullard ran 23 yards for a talley and Henry failed to kick goa,l thus making the final score 27 to 13.

Slaton showed a weak line against Littlefield, but the work of Clack and Gregory was outstanding. Maxey was good while in, but unfortunately his early head injury kept him out most of the time. Bullard was a one man show with his repeated spectacular runs and credited with all four touchdowns. Littlefield's Lee, Burleson, Elms, and N. Walker were stars. O. Walker captained the Wildcats and Maxey the Tigers.

A peculiar feature of the game was that at the end of the half altho Slaton had the larger score, Littlefield had made 6 first downs to our 1. Victory Dedicated To Team Of '36

There was a reason for the inspired playing of most of the Slaton team last Friday night against Littlefield at the Tiger stadium. It was last season that the same team snatched a district championship out from under the nose of our team in the scoreless tie game on Thanksgiving Day. And it was to the members of that team Mr. Rowe then presented to this that have graduated and gone to college that the last game was dedicated-and not in vain.

Better Be Nothing It is better to be nothing than a knave.-Antoninus.

Constipated? It's Nerves Not Poisons That Make You DIZZY and DOPEY

Modern doctors now say that constipation swells up digestive organs causing pressure on nerves in this region. This nerve pressure causes frequent bilious spells, dissiness, headaches, sour stomach, dull, tired-out feeling, sleepless nights, coated tongue, bad taste and lose of appetite.

Don't fool with laxatives that give slow action, overnight relief, or are timed to act in 12 to 24 hours. What you want is QUICK results. GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES. Flush the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone, the bowels return to normal size and nerve pressure stops. Almost at once you feel marvelously refreshed, blues vanish, and life looks bright again.

That is why so many doctors are now inesisting on gentle but QUICK ACTION. That is why YOU should insist on Adlerika. This efficient intestinal evacuant contains SEVEN carminative and cathartic ingredients. Adlerika acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. Adlerika relieves stomach distress at once and often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never under-stand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood, 2. paring for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through," joined." Thus Hugo L. Black, now Associate Justice Black of the Supreme court, admitted to an immense radio audience that the charges against him were true.

Black asserted that since he quit the Klan he has had nothing whatever to do with it.

He cited his record in the senate and in private life to back up his assertion that he was entirely free from religious or race prejudices. While he apparently repudiated the of the American Federation of Laprinciples of the Klan, he did not bor in Denver, he was not able to explain why, on receiving a life pass card after his election to the | tic picture of the fusenate, he said to a gathering of ture of unified labor.

"I realize that I was elected by L. Lewis and his C. men who believe in the principles | I. O. continues unthat I have sought to advocate and abated, and there which are the principles of this or- a r e "dogfights" ganization.

Black emphatically declared his devotion to the principles of the generally concern-Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and said that he was of "that group of liberal senators who have consistently fought for the civil, economic and religious rights of all Americans, without regard to race or creed." Some of his best friends, he added, were Catholics and Jews, and members of the colored race.

At the outset of his address Black undertook to turn the tables on his accusers by asserting that the "campaign" to discredit him "fans the flames of prejudice and is calculated to create racial and religious prejudice."

"When this statement is ended," he concluded, "my discussion of the question is closed.

There was a definite note of defiance in Black's address, but it is fair to assume that the American public was not satisfied with his explanation. From all parts of the country came renewed protests Industrial Organization." against his presence on the Supreme court bench, and various large associations "resoluted" about it. Many of the senators who voted to confirm his appointment because they accepted the assertion of his friends that he was not a Kluxer are resentful at the deception practiced on them-but what can they do about it now?

President Roosevelt, up to the time of writing, had maintained silence. One of his aides explained that the President decided some time ago that there was no course of action open to him in the Black

When Justice Black took his seat, the chamber of the Supreme court was crowded to capacity. Albert Levitt, an attorney, was on hand to ask permission to file a suit seeking to force Justice Black to show cause why he should not be declared ineligible to sit. The court deferred action on the request. Another motion to the same effect was filed by Patrick H. Kelly, a Boston lawyer.

Special Session

ON HIS way from the West President Roosevelt made a speech at Grand Forks, N. D., in which he declared his intention of continuing his fight to "reform" the Supreme court. He also announced attempts to pass crop control and labor legislation would be made at a special session of congress which probably will be called about November 15.

Rail Strike Averted

THERE will not be a nationwide strike of railway workers. Such a disaster was averted when the mission for the duke's American five operating railroad brotherhoods | trip in order to avoid an open rupaccepted an offer of the companies ture with him. He resented the of a flat raise of 44 cents a day. They and the fifteen "non-operating" unions had demanded a 20 per | had threatened to return to Engcent wage increase. Thinks about Minding Your Business.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—A society is forming in England for the defense of the former Edward VIII, now the duke of Windsor and honorary citizen of all places in this country named for the Simpson fam-

This society does not hope to restore the duke to the throne. That would not only annoy the archbishop of Canterbury, he already having things to annoy him, such as Americans, but would seriously upset Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who upsets so easily that it seems strange the British never have thought of calling him Reversible Stan. Besides, the throne would be quite crowded if the duke tried to snuggle in there along with the present occupants.

What some of us over here thinkand that goes for many Canadians, too-is that England has a crying need for a society dedicated to the broad general principle of minding its own business and suffering the duke and his wife to mind theirs. We have a rough idea that both of them can better endure long-distance snubs than officious meddling in their private affairs. Just being an ex-king is a hard enough jobeven if you can get it to do.

Political Afterthoughts.

M ASTER ROLLO, aged seven, and city raised, was visiting relatives in the country. On his first morning he came in wearing a worried cast of countenance.

"Mother," he said, "I've been out under the mulberry trees."

"Yes." "Mother, do mulberries have hard backs and six legs and crawl around on the ground?"

"Why, certainly not."
"Then, Mother," said Rollo in stricken tones, "I feel I have made a dreadful mistake."

What's the point? Oh nothing, only got to imagining what the brooding regrets of some members of the administration and a majority of the members of the senate must be when they recall the alacrity with which they moved to fill a certain recent vacancy in a certain very high court-in fact, the highest one we've got.

Hirsute Virility.

DARISIAN boulevardiers believe a dense arboreal effect of whiskers is proof that the wearer is indeed a man, without, in all cases, being absolutely convincing about it.

We haven't gone that far yet, but I would like to know whence comes this notion of appraising masculine vigor by the amount of hair along the breast-bone? Morbid, I calls it.

Two distinguished authors battle when one intimates the other is scantily adorned in that regard, forgetting that, in the immature summer peltage of his kind, an author has but a scanty growth as compared with the richer winter coat. And then prying reporters ask the new glamor prince of the movies whether he has any fleece at all upon his chest, their tone indicating they rather expected to find trailing arbutus there, or at least some shy anemone.

Years ago in the hospital, when I was being shorn for an operation I remember remarking to myself that here was the only barber who'd ever worked on me without trying to sell me a bottle of hair tonic.

Miss America-1937.

A T LAST some rational excusein moral values, anyhow-has been found for a so-called national beauty contest.

The seventeen-year-old New Jersey girl chosen as "Miss America of 1937" is not going into vaudeville, is not going to make any personal appearances, is not coming to Hollywood for a screen test, is not going to accept a radio contract, is not even going to write her life story for publication. She will return to school and to the normal home life of a well-raised normal girl-that is, unless she changes her mind about it all.

If she shouldn't change her mind, she stands out as probably the sanest young person of her age at present residing on this continent, or, should we say, this planet.

If she should change her mindwell, the American populace has been fooled many a time and oft before. Our grandfathers didn't believe human beings ever could fly. Our fathers didn't believe anybody would ever lick John L. Sullivan. Only the other day our United States senators didn't believe their fellowstatesman, Mr. Black of Alabama, could be a Klansman. They thought that low but persistent sound of "Ku-Klux, Ku-Klux" was but the voice of a modest hen.

IRVIN S. COBB. -WNU Service.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.-With hindsight, all | Roosevelt was going to read his enemies on the court enlargement plan out of the Democratic party and into oblivion whether they were Democrats or not-seems rather stupid.

Of course not even the President could have foreseen that Mrs. Roosevelt would take the ball when he went into Wyoming, and produce a situation which made the voters of that state think Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney was the fair-haired boy at the White House, by that spectacle before a Wyoming audience of Joe O'Mahoney introducing his colleague, Sen. Harry H. Schwartz, to the First Lady.

But he could easily have calculated the effect it would have on the voters of Idaho to have a conference with the old lion, Sen. William E. Borah, alone for more than an hour!

Of all people, the President should have realized at once that even the bitterest anti-Borah man or woman in the state would get at least the suspicion that Borah was rather important in the Roosevelt picture. They would know, for instance, that the international situation is causing gray hairs in Washington as well as other world capitals, and that Borah is one of the best informed persons on the diplomatic situation, and on Russia-which some regard as the key to the situation-in particular. So they might suspect that Roosevelt was asking Borah's advice, Borah happening to be the ranking Republican on the senate foreign relations committee, of which he was chairman until the Democrats got control.

If such a picture should be dismissed as too fantastic, something else mighty weighty would have to be substituted, to satisfy normal human curiosity and desire for speculation. For nothing was announced! Even Borah, shrewdly as usual, refused to say.

Its Real Importance

Now the importance of this is not the effect on the Republicans of Idaho, nor even on the Democrats as a whole, but on the fervent Roosevelt admirers. Court fight or no court fight, they could not help getting the inference that Borah had become one of the President's close advisers. What else would explain Mr. Roosevelt's giving him more than an hour of time so precious while visiting their far-flung but thinly populated state!

It was rather definitely settled before the President started out that he would not make direct attacks on those who had opposed him, those whom, in the popular parlance, were to be purged from the ranks of the faithful, and relegated to political oblivion.

The idea, it was thought by New Dealers, was that the President would build up the probable political opponents of his enemies. For example, he would make a big fellow of Schwartz in Wyoming, and encourage the young Democrat who is expected to run against O'Mahoney in the next Democratic pri-

In Idaho it was thought that no attention, save possibly cold courtesy, would be shown Borah. Everyone has known for years that James A. Farley was desperately anxious to beat Borah in the next battle.

Way of the Irish

The Irish have a way with them, better illustrated than by the young Boston Irishman who in part represents the sovereign state of Wyoming in the United States senate.

Joseph C. O'Mahoney, it will be recalled, was one of the group of willful men who stopped President Roosevelt's pet proposal to enlarge the Supreme court dead in its tracks. Only the opposition of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler roused more resentment in the inner White House circle than that of O'Mahoney. And for precisely an opposite reason.

The bitterness against Wheeler was very human. Folks are apt to dislike intensely someone they have treated badly, and Roosevelt and James A. Farley had treated Wheeler very badly indeed. Although a "For Roosevelt Before Chicago" booster, and therefore entitled to eat at the first table as far as White House gratitude, patronage, pork and recognition are concerned, he had been treated like

When somebody who has been badly treated turns on his former friend and hits hard, it is not in the friend's heart to blame himself. That would not be human. So he feels twice as resentful for the worm turning as though it had been anybody else.

Which, plus the fact that Wheeler, being branded as a radical, spoiled against the President, has kept Senas White House resentment is con- as they need!

But Joe O'Mahoney ran a close this talk of a purge-that President | second! Jim Farley got to be friends with Joe back in 1931 and early '32 when he was picking up support for Roosevelt's nomination. Farley brought Joe to New York headquarters and found him most valuable. So after inauguration he made him assistant postmaster general.

Farley thinks he helped put O'Mahoney in the senate. Actually Joe had lots of friends up and down the wide spaces of thinly populated Wyoming, acquired when he was secretary to the late Sen. John B. Kendrick. He had become a political power in his own right, or Farley would not have been so solicitous when he was delegate hunting. But, human nature being what it is, Farley thinks he "made" O'Mahoney.

So he and Roosevelt were pretty sore when the youngster decided to fight the court change.

As the presidential train neared Wyoming it developed that the President had invited Sen. Harry H. Schwartz, the governor, and lots of other officials to ride on his train, but had not invited O'Mahoney. The intention was obvious.

But Joe appeared, smiling and happy apparently, and climbed on the train! The President paid practically no attention to him, and lots to his colleague, Senator Schwartz, to the governor, and the other Democratic organization leaders.

But Mrs. Roosevelt didn't understand about the "purge." She made quite a fuss over Joe, as she is apt to do about anybody she likes, and she likes lots of people. This was all in plain sight of the ordinary citizens, who could see the First Lady and the recalcitrant senator hobnobbing on the back platform at every stop!

"The People's Lobby"

The words "The People's Lobby" do not mean very much to most of the folks out in the country. It might be exaggerating to say they meant much in Washington, though the acute and personable Benjamin Clarke Marsh who heads it is not only well known but loved by hundreds of newspaper men and offi-

Also it is rather difficult to classi-"The People's Lobby," as to whether it is radical or conservative, New Deal or anti-sometimes even as to whether it is humorous or serious.

But Ben Marsh has just made an appeal to President Roosevelt, which on its face is as liberal as all out-of-doors, but in its implications, as they are taken by some of the conservatives, as reactionary as the Ten Commandments, or the reminder that man shall eat bread in the sweat of his brow.

It is a double-barreled request that Marsh made of the President. One barrel demands a subsidy for consumers. It insists that the federal Treasury shall make up to the consumers of this country in regular checks something like the old AAA checks-or the new AAA checks, for that matter-what the various New Deal agencies and schemes add to his cost of living.

Without a word of criticism for the idea of paying farmers not to raise crops, or to restrict their acreage, and apparently conceding that the government owes it to the farmers to guarantee them prices which assure them the fruits of their toil, the petition insists that this increase should not come out of the hides of the consumers, many if not most nationals of other countries are apt of whom are just a little further to comment from time to time, for down in the underprivileged class one reason or another, but seldom than the farmers, and on whom these benefits for the farmers are now a heavy load, and likely to become a back-crushing one.

Puts Wallace on Spot

Then there is a polite inquiry about the ever-normal granary. Marsh and his aides want to know if the Henry A. Wallace plans for this institution are calculated on normal consumption, or whether they are calculated on the amount of farm products this country would consume if price were no object.

It is hard to figure whether the petition or the question is the more embarrassing. If one carries the petition for a consumer subsidy to its logical conclusion, shaping it with New Deal concepts as to what the underprivileged should have, it works out to either Utopia or chaos according to the mental slant of the person doing the calculating.

On the other hand, the question certainly puts Secretary Wallace on the spot. Of course he has calculated his estimates as to the evernormal granary on consumption which may practically be expected -not on possible consumption if every man, woman and child should have all they need. Nothing else, obviously, would aid on prices. But it is asking rather much of the President, or Secretary Wallace, the argument that only the Liberty mal granary plan actually contem-league and the wicked rich were plates that millions of people in this country shall not have as much ator Wheeler in first place as far milk, eggs, meat, grain and cottor

Unexpected Visitors Must Take a Chance

DEAR Mrs. Post: My husband and I were planning to go with another couple to a big dance in town when the day before out of town relatives just arrived without any notice at all. We tried to persuade them to go to the dance with us but they said they did not care for dancing and also they had not come prepared with evening clothes. We even tried to supply the clothes, but no, they would not go. We felt that we should go since we had promised our friends. We explained the situation and they seemed very sincere in wanting us to go without them. They stayed home with the radio and the dog. Next day they acted hurt and before leaving remarked that they were glad their visit had not interfered with our pleasure. I certainly feel that they have branded me as a discourteous hostess and can't help wondering whether I was wrong.

Answer: A question like this is so hard to answer because if I say you were perfectly right in going out, the chances are that some of my readers would feel about it as your guests apparently did. And yet the real fault was that of your guests who came without asking you if it would be convenient to have them. And this is a thing which in my opinion no one should take for granted-not even a nearest relative. unless she knows there is plenty of room and also that her hostess will feel free to do just as you did.

ABC's in Manners: Invitations and Greetings

IS THE tissue paper left in commencement announcements or invitations when they are mailed?

And why your answer? Answer: It is correct to remove the tissue paper before mailing the announcements or invitations. But if you think the ink has not dried sufficiently to prevent the clean page from getting smudged, then this is a sensible enough reason for leaving

Use Double Sheets.

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have always been under the impression that correct writing paper for a man was cut in single sheets, but recently you suggested to a reader that in his particular case the paper should be double. Has the style in men's writing paper changed or is it that I have been under a wrong impres-

Answer: I am sorry but I am afraid you have been under the wrong impression. Social paper, or at least that which can be used for formal occasions such as notes of invitation, answers to invitations, etc., should never be on a single fold paper. Of course when file copies need be made of personal letters then they as well as long business letters are necessarily written on single paper of typewriting size.

Junior Bridesmaid

D EAR Mrs. Post: I have a sister only eleven years old, but big for her age. She is my only sister and at an age that seems to make it impossible to include her in my wedding party either as a flower girl or as a bridesmaid, and yet I know the poor child will be heartbroken if you can't find some place

Answer: Make her a junior bridesmaid. That means that she wears a dress as nearly as possible like those worn by the bridesmaids, but modified to suit her age. If you have a maid of honor, your sister should follow the ushers either walking alone or else walking with another junior bridesmaid. If she walks immediately before you, this would make her your maid of honor, which she can perfectly well be if you have not already invited your best friend.

Deaths in Business

DEAR Mrs. Post: At various times our company receives notices of the death of people who are connected with business firms with which we do business. We don't know whether we should make any acknowledgment of this announcement or not, and if so, what.

Answer: This is probably only intended as a notification so that you will no longer address business letters to this name, and no acknowledgment is necessary. On the other hand, if you happen to know someone in the company whom you feel will be really upset by the loss of this associate, it would be kind to write to him.

Drinking Your Bouillon EAR Mrs. Post: Is it proper to pick up the wide bouillon cups drink from them? They almost too large, but my husband insists that their handles are not only intended for ornamentation. Answer: Your husband is quite right. Moreover, you use both han-dles, one held in each hand. CHAPTER-XIV-Continued

The inspector pulled a paper from his pocket. Mark Trent glowered at it as if it were a rattler with head raised to strike.

"Here it is. The real thing. Signatures and everything o. k. found it-Sam joined the two men before the fire. "Jed's right, m'lad. The inspector found the paper in your desk. That's your cue, Brooke. Go on from there.' Brooke went on. She told of her suspicion the first time she had come into this very library that there was a reason other than a passion for the sea in winter which had brought two men from the city to live in Mark Trent's house; and she told of Mrs. Gregory's admission, the afternoon before the Supper club party, that she had witnessed a will of Mary Amanda Dane's and that she had been warned by Jed Stewart not to speak of it. And how, almost before Mrs. Gregory's car was out of the drive, Henri Jacques had confronted her with a paper and the lie that he had found it in her desk. "Don't speak! Don't!" She interrupted her story sharply as Mark Trent opened his lips. "Let me

"I took it with the idea that if I didn't, he might make more trouble with it. I let him think that I was considering his proposition that I pay him for keeping quiet. Of course I wasn't, but I can't expect you two men who have been suspicious of me from the moment you learned of my friendship with Mrs. Dane, to believe that. I was coming directly to this house with it. First, locked in my room, I looked at it to be sure it wasn't a blackmailing scheme of Henri's. It wasn't. It was Mary Amanda Dane's will leaving all her property, except legacies to the Jacques, to her nephew, Mark Trent." "Stop and get your breath, Brooke; you'll crack-up if you don't," Sam warned. "I won't crack-up and I won't stop till I get this thing off my mind. It has been a hideous nightmare, holding back that paper, I mean. Of course the contents of that will were a shock for a minute; but I knew that Mrs. Dane had been just. Then I thought of | and said: the play, that the sudden appearance of a missing will-there's drama for you, Sam-might upset the performance; so I locked the thing in my desk. I had planned to bring it here this evening. When I got back from headquarters tonight, I went to my desk to get it. The drawer was empty. Now I know that Inspector Bill Harrison, your sleuth, had found it, Mr. Trent." "That's enough, Brooke." Mark Trent's voice was low and authoritative. "I don't believe that you have had that will. I know-' "Wait a minute!" Inspector Bill Harrison cut in. "Come over here." He spread out the paper on the desk. He drew a flat leather case from his breast pocket and removed from it a white scrap. "Exhibit A. Watch!" The scrap fitted into the torn corner. There was a glint in his eyes as they passed from face to face of the three men bending over to read the finely written lines. "I don't know what the rest of you folks think," his voice was as soft as velvet, "but, in spite of the fact I found it in her desk, I'm sure Miss Reyburn hasn't had the you do with that paper?" will in her possession ever since it was signed, because-' He laid the tip of a square-topped finger on the torn-off corner: "Because I found this scrap caught in Mrs. Hunt's bag the night

For the length of time it took the old clock in the hall to chime the quarter hour, there was silence in the library, a silence as tense as if the still body of a black-haired woman with the open bag gripped in one bruised hand lay in their midst. Inspector Harrison broke the spell.

"And that ain't all I've got to show you. Bring him in, Tim!" Brooke's breath stopped as a tall policeman with huge ears pushed a cowering figure into the room. Henri! Henri here! Would he dare perthat will in her desk?

"Sit down, Brooke."

With hands on her shoulders Mark Trent drew her from behind the chair and forced her gently into the seat. She felt his presence behind her as he said sharply:

"It's your move, Inspector. Let's get this thing over with.'

"It ain't my move, Mark. It's Henri Jacques'. He's going to tell ler in the U.S. You're on the air, Jacques. Spill it!"

The command held the crack of a lion-tamer's whip. Henri drew his fingers over his slack lips. He made two attempts to speak before he

"I'll tell the whole story, Mr. Mark, and it isn't so bad as the inspector's trying to make out, I swear it isn't. I didn't kill-"

"Start at the beginning!" "I will, Inspector, I will." Brooke looked down at her clenched fingers. She couldn't keep her eyes on Henri. Once she had seen a dog being beaten who groveled as he groveled now. His voice shook as he went on:

"It was like this, Mr. Mark. Madame Dane sent for Clotilde and me to come to the living-room one afternoon. It was the nurse's day off. She was in the wheel chair and Ma-ence. She laughed kind of shaky "'I don't know much law, Anne-Anne was Madame Gregory-but I've learned how a will has to be signed to make it legal.""

"Did Mrs. Gregory say anything?' "Yes, Mr. Mark. She said, 'Do you think you should do this without consulting your lawyer?' and your aunt said that Mr. Stewart was away and she didn't dare wait till he came home because she hadn't been feeling well. We wrote our names. Mrs. Gregory left, Clotilde went back to the kitchen, and then the old madame handed the paper to me and said: " 'Put that in my safe upstairs, Henri. I'll give it to Mr. Stewart when he gets back, but first bring me a glass of sherry. I'm tired.' "She looked so white I thought she was going to faint. I jammed the paper in my pocket and ran. When I came back with the wine, Miss Reyburn was standing by the mantel laughing; you remember that afternoon, don't you, Miss?" "Direct your question to me, not to Miss Reyburn, Henri. What did "I was coming to that, Mr. Mark. The old madame was taken very sick that night. Not until after she'd been gone a week or two did I think

"Then of course you read it?" "Yes, sir."

"You showed it to Clotilde?"

"Yes, sir. "When did you and she decide to fasten the theft of it on Miss Reyburn?' The voice which came from behind Brooke's chair set her a-shiver. A steadying hand rested on her "We-we didn't think of it, Mr. Mark. Mrs. Hunt suggested that.' "How did she know about it?"

silver to the white cottage, she'd dispose of it; that it was rare and worth lots of money, that a dealer would believe that it was hers, that he might suspect me. That seemed reasonable. Mrs. Hunt knew of a man to help. She said she'd take care of that will, too, she'd get money out of you for it and we'd go fifty-fifty."

"Go on, Henri!" Mark Trent's voice was hoarse.

"I gave it to her. The afternoon before the filling station mur-holdup, I showed the man she sent where the silver was, forgot the keys and left them in the doors. I remembered them in the middle of a movie, came home, went upstairs very quiet and got them. The man who was to move the silver to the old limousine was waiting in my room. While you were all laughing and eating downstairs I let him through into the Other House by the upper connecting door. He took the stuff through your house-the Japs were out, and I pretended to go to bed. He was to make a cross on the white cover when he had it in the car. I drove it to the cottage. I went in to tell Mrs. Hunt the silver was outside, ready to take to the city. She-she was on the floor. I swear she was. I swear I didn't touch her.'

"But you took that paper over there on the desk out of her bag, didn't you?"

"I told you once I did, Inspector. I felt it belonged to me. But I swear I never touched her." 'Take him out, Tim.' Henri stopped to hurl defiance at Inspector Bill Harrison. "You think you're smart, but you wouldn't have known anything about this till we were safe out of the country, Inspector, if that expert thief Mrs. Hunt brought into the game hadn't stopped to wash and shave in Mr. Stewart's bathroom. Pretty snappy guy he was. I suppose he had to dress up fine before he called on her. She paid for pulling him in. He got her jewels all right, and he was out to get Mrs. Gregory's tonight. I wasn't in on that deal, Mr. Mark."

"Take him away, Tim." Inspector Harrison's eagle eyes followed the two men from the room before they came back to Brooke. "Sorry I had to touch your desk, Miss Reyburn, but a high falsetto voice phoned me you had the will-I know now that it was Henri Jacques-so I went through your rocm while you were all at the play. I guess you're glad the truth is out. The minute I heard of that bath stunt I knew who to look for. That guy has made a specialty of breaking into houses week-ends where the folks were away, of making himself at home in the tub and carrying off what he wanted when he left, mostly men's clothes. Maggie Cassidy was right when she said he was a swell dresser. He ought to be. He's had his pick of the best. It's kind of funny when you think of it, ain't it? When I accused him of killing Mrs. Hunt, he crumpled and spilled the whole story. He had seen her rings when she engaged him to move the silver. Wanted them. Knocked Hunt out first. He's a quick worker. He and his pals aren't killers. There wasn't a gun in the gangload. There's a joke to it, they don't one of them know yet that | ure is striking. silver's safe and you've got your vines do not bear figs. Nature is aunt's money. "Thanks, Inspector, I'll tell you how much I appreciate what you've done, later. Sam, get Brooke's wrap. I'll take her home. You and Lucette stay here and get the inspector something to eat. Wait for me, Bill, there are a few points that need clearing up. I have something to talk over with Miss Reyburn, then I'll come back." "You are not going home with me and we have nothing to talk over.' Did he think that he could wipe out the memory of his suspicion of her in this lordly manner? Brooke asked herself.

"Oh yes, we have." Sam chuckled. "One of the thirty-six dramatic situations. Snap into it, Brooke. It is apparent even to this boyish intelligence that Mark wants to talk to you alone. Fair enough. Why make him go on the air? Be kind to him, he deserves well of his countrymen." They crossed the terrace in si lence. The snow had not been cleared from before the door of Lookout House. Mark Trent swept Brooke from her feet and carried her into the vestibule. He kept an arm about her as he opened the door. Something turning like the wings of an autogiro in her throat, cut off her protest. The green living-room awaited them, softly lighted, faintly fragrant. Above the mantel the Duchess looked down with grave eyes; below, coals, murmurous as purring kittens, gave out a gentle glow.

"Take off your wrap." Brooke slipped from beneath the velvet and the hands tightening on her shoulders. She barricaded herself behind a high-back chair. With one arm on the mantel, Mark Trent faced her. His eyes, smiling a little, maddeningly cool, filled her with rage. She challenged: "You would come. Why? Didn't ers that you had known about that

Lesson for October 17 CHRISTIAN SPEECH AND CONDUCT /

LESSON TEXT—James, Chapter 3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth.—

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Words I Say.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Bridle on the Tongue
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC— Christian Speech.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—

Christian speech and conduct may well be studied in the book of James, for he stresses the importance of works as demonstrating faith. There are two common errors-one is to attempt to be justified by good works apart from faith in the Lord Jesus Christ-the other is to talk about believing in him and then fail to live in accordance with one's profession. Some have assumed that James fell into the former error, urging works as a substitute for faith, but an intelligent reading of his epistle clearly indicates that he is in no sense contradicting the Scripture doctrine of justification by faith, but is showing that professed faith which does not result in Christian living is in reality a dead and useless thing. I. Christian Talk (vv. 1-12).

As he enters upon his searching and convicting discussion of the tongue and its misuse the writer distinguishes between 1. Two kinds of talkers (vv. 1, 2). a. "Teachers" (v 1.) who have a peculiar responsibility because they stand as the representatives of God at the sacred desk. It is not a place to be sought after, and the man who fills it at God's call needs divine grace and direction that he may speak the truth.

b. "We all" (v. 2). The speech of every one of us counts either for or against God, even though we may not fill the teacher's chair or stand in the pulpit.

2. A single danger (vv. 3-12). All of us have the one danger-lack of "tongue-control." Developing that thought the text first points out that a. Powerful things need control (vv. 3-5). The horse is a wild and useless animal without the directing and restraining bit. A ship without a rudder will be lost. A tongue needs direction and control, for while a little thing, it is tremendously powerful. b. An uncontrolled tongue is dangerous (vv. 6-8). How vivid is the imagery of the words before us. A fire spreading and destroying, an untamed animal running wild in all its fury, a deadly poison eating away the life-such is the uncontrolled tongue. We recognize the truth of these things. We see how vile and careless speech debases man, how words chosen for their power to destroy pour forth from the press, over the footlights, from man to man and literally "set on fire the course of nature" (v. 6). c. An uncontrolled tongue is inconsistent (vv. 9-12). Again the figpours forth fresh pure water to sustain life does not at the same time bring forth the bitter brackish watruth out of them. Well, Mark, your ter. Fig trees do not bear olives, consistent and dependable.

But the tongue-ah, that is another matter! How sadly do we confess our failure, for here do we "offend all" (v. 2). We bless God, and defile and destroy man, with the same lips. "These things ought not so to be" (v. 10).

II. Christian Walk (vv. 13-18).

The word "conversation" in v. 13 is an English word which now means "talk" but which formerly meant "manner of living." 1. Words and works must agree (vv. 13,14). It is only right that those who speak of following Christ should prove it in their manner of living. Talk may be smooth and broad in its claims, but the demonstration of its reality and honesty is in the daily walk. This calls for dom will not suffice. 2. Earthly wisdom is false (vv. 15,16). There is a wisdom apart from God. Men of the world are brilliant and able, but scrutinize their wisdom and you will find that it is "sensual"-that is, of the senses-or natural as distinguished from spiritual. All too often it is downright "devilish" (v. 16).

3. True wisdom is from above (vv.

17,18). Undefiled, unselfish, uncompromising, but not quarrelsome or stubborn, impartial and sincere-and "full of mercy and good fruits" wisdom which is divine-earthly wis-

-such is God's wisdom for the Christian's life. Strength Unto Strength The strength of a man consists in finding out the way in which God is going, and going in that way too.

Engine oil too, squirms through

Quicker Oiling - Quicker Starting with WINTER OIL-PLATING

You know that your engine must be oiled instantly throughout, or be tortured at every cold start.

You can imagine trying to rush cold oil everywhere at once, through scores of tiny oil-holes and passages.

How long before lubricant gets to where it is badly

Less than no time at all!... with Conoco Germ Processed oil-patented. This is the Winter oil that gives you far greater surety than mere fast flow. It OIL-PLATES your engine. Before any other oils can even start to go where needed, exclusive OIL-PLATING has already arrived! In fact, it's been there all the time, because Germ Process action on all moving parts leaves them lastingly OIL-PLATED. OIL-PLATING cannot drain down. It smooths and speeds the first turn of your ice-cold engine. Saves battery juice. And you save quarts of oil this Winter, by changing now to Germ Processed at your Conoco Mileage Merchant's.

Write for "The Story of Oil-Plating", Dept. 1, Conoco, Ponca City, Okla.
