Former Resident Combines Vacation With Business

Former resident, William B. Sikes, was back in Slaton this week combining business with a vacation from his duties as general superintendent of cotton oil mills of Anderson-Clayton Company in Slaton. Hendrick left Slaton for Peru.

ALVARO DEL SOLAR OF PERU stands on the left of W. A. Sikes of Deal's Machine Shop Slaton. Del Solar is in this country to learn about the operation of cotton oil mills and the local machine shop is one of four in the country which does specialized work on cotton oil mill equipment. On the right of Sikes is William B. Hendrick, former Slatonite and general superintendent of cotton oil mills for Anderson-Clayton in Peru.

specialized work. "We are here to learn from Mr. Sikes about the work so we can do the same thing at our mills in Peru," Hendrick said.

Accompanying him to Slaton is Alvaro del Solar of Lima, Peru, who has been in the United States for the past nine months on a cotton mill training program for the Western Cotton Oil Mills, Western Division. Del Solar is gathering information on the operation of mills in this country put to use in Peru. He is a member of the Peruvian Division of Anderson-Clayton Company. In the completion of his training program in the United States he will return to Peru and take the operation of a mill there. Two men are in Slaton to get information from W. A. Sikes at Deal's Machine Shop about specialized machine shop work on cotton oil mill equipment. The local machine shop, according to Hendrick, is one of only four shops in the United States that can do the

Ginners Report Season's End

Area ginners reported this week that the ginning season is in its last stages with only a very few bales of cotton expected to be ginned in the coming week. A total of 25,257 bales of cotton had been ginned up to Wednesday afternoon at the six local gins. The figures for this week showed that only 263 bales of cotton had been run through in the last week, indicating the decline in activity. Campbell Gin reported 5400 bales ginned, Howard Gin, 3135; Posey Gin, 2750; Slaton Co-op No. 1, 4543; Slaton Co-op No. 2, 5929; and Union Gin, 3500.

B. O. Wilke Winner Of Contest To Name "Mystery Farm"

B. O. Wilke of Slaton is the winner in the "Mystery Farm" contest for this week. He correctly identified the C. C. Swope farm located near Slatonite. If Wilke will be pre-empted by The Slatonite sent with a one-year subscription to the paper and two free passes to The Slaton Theatre.

Bryant Flores joined Mrs. Flores and Hillary in Ft. Worth to spend Christmas with Mr. Flores' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Flores.

Former Slaton Resident Is Manager Of The Grand Haven Memorial Airpark In Michigan

William Layne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Layne of Slaton, recently returned from Michigan where he is employed as manager of the Grand Haven Memorial Airpark in Grand Haven. Layne's parents operate Layne Electric and Electric and reside in W. Lynn.

Article and picture of Layne appeared in The Grand Haven Tribune on the occasion of the dedication of a new radio transmitter at the airport where he is manager.

FORMER SLATONITE, William Layne, is shown as he prepares to send a message on a new radio sending device recently installed at the airport in Michigan where he is manager. Layne's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Layne of 335 W. Lynn in Slaton.

In addition to being manager of the airport, he writes a column in the local paper entitled "Air-News". The column is directed toward activities of pilots who are at the airport and anyone else who might be interested in flying. Layne writes for business or pleasure. According to one of the articles he has written, more and more businessmen are using light planes for travel. These planes, according to Layne, are faster and safer than automobiles. Layne is cited as an example of an award-winning pilot who has flown 738,718 consecutive miles without damage to aircraft or to the pilot. "This award is one of the long list of proofs that just how safe flying for the businessman is. Business flying has now progressed to the point that it is now safer than a trip by auto. "Another big advantage for the flying businessman is the travel time he saves. The flying businessman is there conducting his affairs while the non-flyer is still enroute". Many local pilots according to the airport manager use their planes to spot concentration of ducks in preparation for hunting them. At least one pilot in the Grand Haven area, Layne says, plans to fly north for the deer season.

Deer Hunters End Up With Large Cat

A party of deer hunters which included two Slaton men, J. H. George Jr. and J. H. George Sr., had an unusual experience near Sonora recently. While hunting on a ranch south-west of Sonora the men jumped a big cat which they at first took to be a mountain lion. James George Jr. wounded the animal at 300 yards with a .35 Remington automatic. The party then trailed the cat to a cave and one of the party entered and killed it.

When the cat was taken to a taxidermist to be mounted it was decided that it was a lynx instead of a mountain lion. He weighed nearly 60 pounds and with his fore paws draped over a man's shoulders his tail touched the ground. The animal measured 37 inches from nose to tail and four and a half feet from nose to tip of tail. Bobcats, according to the report received by the paper, usually do well to reach 30 pounds.

Past Year Is Busy One For Slaton And Its Residents

The past year, 1955, proved a busy one for Slaton both civic and business wise. Slaton's high school students started school in a new building constructed at an estimated cost of $325,000 and the city reported a tax roll that produced revenue of $74,225.54, in comparison with a beginning of operating on a cooperative basis. Residents voted overwhelmingly in favor of a Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, and the city announced the completion of the largest well ever drilled in the city. Mercy Hospital was named the recipient of a grant of $10,000 from the Ford Foundation in New York, and voters in the county approved a $1,897,000 bond election for the purchase of right-of-way in the county for the construction of highways.

Slaton Negro Killed Instantly In Auto Accident

Emmett Montgomery, a Slaton Negro, died in an accident Sunday evening when the car in which he was a passenger was side-swiped about a mile north of Slaton on Highway 84. According to investigating officers, the Slaton cafe operator was killed instantly.

Montgomery was a passenger in an automobile driven by Clara Means in which Mary Edwards was also a passenger. Both women are Lubbock Negroes.

The accident, according to investigating officers, occurred when a car driven by E. L. Cleveland of Lorenzo side-swiped the Means car while attempting to pass a third vehicle.

Both women were taken to Mercy Hospital in Slaton where the Means woman was held for observation and the Edwards woman under treatment for possible pelvic fractures and lacerations. Both were reported in good condition earlier this week. Cleveland was reported also in good condition at Mercy Hospital.

Agriculture Year Book Received By Local Chamber Of Commerce

In the Slaton Chamber of Commerce office this week was a book entitled, "Water-The Yearbook of Agriculture 1955". Published by the United States Department of Agriculture, the book was sent to the local chamber of commerce by state representative George Mahon.

The book will be placed in the outer office of the Chamber of Commerce where it will be available for lending to anyone who might wish to borrow and read it, according to Mrs. R. D. Bisbee, secretary-manager.

Barbara Grigsby Named Winner In Essay Contest Sponsored By Chamber of Commerce

Barbara Grigsby, a Slaton High School senior, this week was named the winner in a local contest to select entries to an essay contest being sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The local contest was sponsored by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce with prizes offered for the first three place winners. Miss Grigsby received $15, second place winner Margie Glascock won $10 and Peggy Sue Kenney received $5 for the third place essay. Honorable mention went to Sally Cooper and Betty Jo Fondy for their entries in the local contest.

Winning Entry The winning entry in the local competition has been sent to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to compete in district and final judging. The winner of this contest will receive a $250 scholarship to any college or university in West Texas that the winner chooses.

Large Idea No idea as large as having industry come to our city could be sold if the Slatonites are not first sold themselves. Could we after having convinced the people? No, the job of having more industry in Slaton would have only begun. The prospects of Slaton as an industrial city would have to be put before prospective industrial men in every way possible, by newspapers, television, radio and magazines. These means of advertisement must be appealing, stimulate interest and arouse the curiosity of industrial businessmen.

What My Town Can Do To Have More Industry Slaton, as an industrial city, has many advantages as well as disadvantages. What Slaton can do to have more industry will deal mostly with these disadvantages and how to improve them. To have more industry in Slaton the people would have to work hard. An enormous amount of help would have to be put forth by the city officials and chamber of commerce leaders who are in the best position to do the most good. The influence of these leaders would have to be put forth in every way possible to put Slaton in the industrial spotlight. Groups of people would have to be organized to work toward the one main objective, to promote industry in Slaton, one man or even one small group of men could not do the job alone.

People Convinced To establish an industry in Slaton the people must first be convinced that the establishment of an industry would be profitable and worthwhile to them. Committees could be set up. Each of these committees could have a definite job and work on different ideas, but still be interested in only one main objective. The situation of Slaton as an industrial city could be studied by a committee to find out exactly what we have to offer industry. Committee reports on the advantages and disadvantages such as transportation problems, shipping facilities, and climate would certainly interest anyone considering Slaton as an industrial center.

Housing Facilities The housing facilities of Slaton would also have to be improved to supply adequate homes for industrial workers. People will first think of finding a place to live; if they cannot find this place in Slaton they will look elsewhere. In general the conditions of the utilities and housing facilities of Slaton would have to be the best to encourage industrial development.

Development of Home-Town Products The development of home-town products by local people is a strong possibility in increasing industry in Slaton.

Large Amounts of Cotton and Grain The large amounts of cotton and grain raised in the Slaton area could be put to use in several industries. The cattle raised in this area could be put into use in several industries also.

There are many possible ways to increase the industry of Slaton. The sincere interest and aid of every concerned citizen of the city of Slaton could do more to increase industry in Slaton than anything else.

City in Condition The city of Slaton would have to be in condition to meet the demands of an industry. Such things as transportation, homes, water and housing facilities would have to be in the best condition. We would have to provide adequate power which would be necessary for an industry. This adequate source of power could be supplied through the co-operation of the Southwestern Public Service Company which provides the present electrical power of Slaton.

Transportation Facilities The transportation facilities required for an industry could be adequately supplied in the city of Slaton because of the Santa Fe Railroad center located here. There are also good highways leading from Slaton to the many cities of the surrounding trade area.

Increasing the Water Supply In increasing the water supply of Slaton to the volume that would be required by an industry a city bond election would have to be held. This election would concern every eligible voter in Slaton. A bond election would test the Slatonites real belief in having industry in their city.

Development of Home-Town Products The development of home-town products by local people is a strong possibility in increasing industry in Slaton.

Large Amounts of Cotton and Grain The large amounts of cotton and grain raised in the Slaton area could be put to use in several industries. The cattle raised in this area could be put into use in several industries also.

Francis E. Perry, publisher of The Slaton Slatonite, will be installed as the new president of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce at the annual chamber of commerce banquet January 16 at the Clubhouse.

Serving with Perry in the upcoming year will be Don Britt, vice-president and out-going president Melvin Kunkel as treasurer.

Selected Earlier Perry had been selected to head the organization earlier in the month, but had delayed announcing his acceptance until he could decide if he would be able to devote the necessary time to the various duties of the office.

In regard to the delay in his decision, Perry said, "I at first delayed because I didn't feel that I would have the time to devote to the job, but I have decided to go ahead and take it and do the best job I can. I believe that a vote of thanks should go to Melvin Kunkel from the people of Slaton for the good job he has done this past year and I am going to do my best to follow the good example Kunkel has set for me."

Votes Counted At the same meeting the directors counted the votes sent in by Slaton businessmen for the appointment of new directors for the coming year. From the 43 names submitted to the Chamber of Commerce, the directors selected the 15 names with the most votes. These men will be listed on the ballot to be distributed at the annual banquet. Those present will select five new directors from the list to serve three-year terms with the Chamber of Commerce.

The directors also voted to appoint Bill Ball and Joe Teague III to serve out the terms of Dr. T. L. Talbert and Fred Schmidt Jr., both of whom have resigned as directors of the chamber. The terms which the two men fill will expire in January 1957.

Names Selected Those men who have been selected to be listed on the ballot as prospective directors are: H. R. King, Truett Babb, Gordon Davis, Bob Clodfelder, C. R. Bain, Don Crow, Clark Self Jr., R. S. Boyd, Dr. Bob Van Meter, K. W. Campbell, Ray Belt, Dr. J. W. Belote, Truett Bownes, John R. Morris, Robert Hall Davis.

WHY FRANCE IS THAT WAY

Why is the French government so unstable? A government in France is fortunate if it stays in office nine months before Parliament overthrows it and often successors are still more short-lived. Changes in the method of election, proposed by Premier Edgar Faure, seem to make little difference.

The real trouble, observers say, is that Parliament's fundamental divisions reflect the same splits in the electorate. The French Revolution, though more than a century and a half ago, caused class bitterness which has passed through succeeding generations. The descendants of the dispossessed aristocrats of 1789 have never forgiven those who took away their privileges.

The Dreyfus case of the late 1890's and first years of this century, aligned the army, churches and aristocrats, most of whom believed the Jew, Alfred Dreyfus, guilty of treason, against other elements in France who thought he had been framed. The Dreyfus supporters won, but their opponents never forgot their defeat.

A third fundamental division occurred early this century when the religious orders not only lost the privilege of teaching, but were expelled from France. For years elections have turned on a clerical issue.

In addition, the French have twice seen a strong popular government turn into an empire. They took no chances on its happening again. Efficient government does not seem worth that danger.

All these make the chances for stability poor.

TANGIER TROUBLE

A city located in the territory of one nation but ruled by another creates special problems. Goa in India, owned by Portugal but coveted by India, is a present-day example. Portuguese-owned Macao on the Chinese coast is another. Now agitation in Morocco reminds the world that Tangier is still another instance.

Tangier is on the extreme northwest point of Africa, opposite the Straits of Gibraltar. It has been owned by various countries at various times, Portugal and Spain, surprisingly England also. The British acquired it in 1662, but relinquished it 22 years later, finding it too costly to defend. Since 1925, it has been ruled by an international board of consuls stationed there which includes the American consulate.

Now the Moroccan nationalists have taken time off from their agitation against French rule to demand the end of the International Zone of Tangier, with the view of incorporating it with Morocco. This demand goes further than its surface would indicate. Lurking beneath it is the idea that France and Spain, which now supervise Morocco, should move out altogether.

Perhaps they will, before many years, but if so, it will be reluctantly. If they do, Tangier's strategic location makes it unlikely that the great powers will let it come under the control of a Moroccan government whose strength is unknown.

EXIT FOR ATTLEE

Clement Attlee has resigned as head of the British Labor party. He is 72 and has had enough partisan strife. He might have withdrawn before, had he been sure that his successor would not be the fiery radical, Aneurin Bevan. The struggle within the party has now put Bevan in a back seat, and given preference to two of Attlee's moderate aides, Herbert Morrison and Hugh Gaitskell. Either would suit Attlee, who is not likely to try to dictate the party choice.

Attlee is a conservative Laborite, whose administration made ridiculous Churchill's unwarranted campaign that a Labor victory would bring the Gestapo to Britain. Though lacking Churchill's brilliance, he was a man of solid qualities whose premiership, though immediately following Churchill's, did not seem like too much of a letdown.

Though the Laborites do not shy away from the name Socialists, most are essentially moderate, not too far removed from the liberalized variety of Conservative which has largely displaced the old reactionary type.

Here's a suggestion for dealing with poets who glorify snow. They would make ideal targets for a gang of small boys with a good supply of snowballs.

NO TURNING IT BACK

"SO TEACH US TO NUMBER OUR DAYS, THAT WE MAY APPLY OUR HEARTS TO WISDOM." —PSA. 90:12

—Rev. Henry F. Treptow
Through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the dayspring from on high hath visited us, to give to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.
—St. Luke 1:78-79.

The visitation of God always means peace. Our Lord accomplishes many great things in His relationship with His people. No matter what the action of God, His highest motive is peace. For this we should be most thankful. Even at this Christmas season, we as Christians are not fooling ourselves. Some doubters of His prophecies and revelations would have us believe that God mocks us in leading us to believe that peace is His foremost motive. They say that there is no peace, despite the coming of the Prince of Peace in to this world. But they fail to realize that they themselves are responsible for the fact that there is no peace; and not God Himself. Man mocks himself;—certainly God does not mock man and lead him into deception. God has come to save, not to destroy.

Never should we fail to realize that Jesus, the Light of the world, always characterizes "the way of peace". As in the Creation of the world, the Incarnation of the Son of God came to dispel the darkness—"and light covered the earth". In darkness, there is doubt, despair, grief, hatred and ignorance. In light, there is faith, hope, joy, love and knowledge. Praise God: this Light is Christ, the Child of Bethlehem, in His Nativity, in His life of example, in His Suffering, in His Death, in His Resurrection, and in His Ascension. Truly, He is "the dayspring from on high" which has visited us.

This mercy of God;—how much more does it offer us than even the ultimate in the glories of this world. How thankful we should be to be called the children of the Living God. May your Christmas be a faithful one and may the New Year show you even more clearly the wonderful mysteries of God.

By Vern Sanford
Mgr. Tex. Press Ass'n.

AUSTIN, Tex.—One of the most startling events of the past week was the admission by Bascom Giles that he—and he alone—was responsible for the administration of the Veterans Land program.

Giles admitted not once, but four times, during the past week—in two criminal and two civil trials in Crystal City and Austin—that he was solely responsible for the program—under the original policy set up by Board members Beauford Jester, Price Daniel and Giles, in 1949.

Gov. Allan Shivers and Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd had staunchly contended that such was the case, but Giles was silent on this point until this week.

Giles pleaded guilty to two indictments in Crystal City. He drew sentences of six years in prison on each. He did not contest the civil trials for money allegedly paid him as bribes.

A total of $53,000 in cash already has been paid back to the state by Giles.

Still pending against him are 10 criminal indictments and civil recovery suits totaling $171,427.

Cheatham Named DA

Wiley Cheatham of Cuero, whose aggressive prosecution of veteran's land scandals made him nationally famous, has won a double promotion.

Governor Shivers promoted Cheatham from county attorney to district attorney, effective Jan. 1. Then Shepperd named him assistant attorney general to oversee until Jan. 1. In the latter post he heads the criminal division handling prosecution of veteran's land fraud cases.

Cheatham's appointment as district attorney brought on a flurry of complaints from Victoria, where top Democratic leaders wanted the place to go to City Attorney Weldon B. Mallette.

Said Shivers "There have been more attempts to bring pressure to prevent the appointment of Wiley Cheatham than I have ever seen as governor."

The appointment led to resignation of State Democratic Executive Committeeman Gene Houchins of Victoria; bitter denunciation of the governor by State Sen. Wm. S. Fly; and editorial criticism by the Victoria Advocate.

In announcing the appointment, Governor Shivers praised the young DeWitt county attorney for his past work. He promised cooperation of state officials in further investigations.

Shivers May Run Again

Back in the limelight as a potential candidate for governor is Allan Shivers. He made it a point to remind newsmen that he is among the "possibles."

Governor Shivers promised to tell his 1956 political plans "about dogwood time." This, he explains, is usually between mid-February and mid-March.

Although Shivers has been expected to step out at the end of his present term, he never has definitely said so.

Faith IN THE FUTURE ---

Takes a heap o' understandin' these days, even by folks who call themselves "grown-up".
A child may stare stary eyed into the future for his faith is firm, hardships and sorrows to him are still unknown. A mother's kiss can heal the deepest wounds and once again he is playing happily. An adult has faith in many things—his family, his friends, and always, despite past tribulations, FAITH in the FUTURE.

For Faith is progress and progress is our Future. It is our pledge to you to keep our store abreast with the times.

We know our customers are deserving of the best. The best merchandise . . . the best service . . . the best of everything. That's why we continually attempt to make

Your Faith in our store and business has made our progress possible and gives us confidence in the Future.

May the NEW YEAR bring you progress and prosperity and may your Future be as bright as the Rising Sun.

Buick's 1956 power-packed CENTURY hardtops—the 2-door Riviera, Model 66R (at top), and the 4-door Riviera, Model 63.

It's practically no effort at all for a sprinter to walk. It's a breeze for a weight-lifter to pick up a child. And so it is with the 1956 Buicks in cruising—for these are the mightiest powered Buicks yet built.

It's almost a loaf for this beauty to cruise a superhighway at a legal 50 mph. At that point it's using less than 10% of its pedal-to-the-floor power.

And that's just the reason for the record-high power and compression ratio in your big 322-cubic-inch V8 engine. You and your engine can take it easy so much of the time.

You have no qualms about the response at your command. Your power plant has no need to breathe hard—so it saves gas, stays young, lasts longer.

So when you take the wheel of a '56 Buick, you take it easy, and still lead the parade.

You know you can call out the reserves with a touch of your toe.

And you find you silk through a whole day's driving with the flowing ease of today's new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

For not only does this advanced new Dynaflo give you stepped-up gas mileage and brilliant new getaway response at only part throttle. Not only does it permit you to switch the pitch for full-power safety-surge take-off.

It also gives you absolute smoothness in acceleration and deceleration like you get in no other car in the world.

Drop in on us this week for a sampling of the best performance yet—and for a firsthand look at what else goes with the best Buick yet.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

KITCHEN TIME TO BE 75% LESS FOR U. S. HOMEMAKER

"American homemakers of the future will spend 75 per cent less time in the kitchen than their mothers do today."

That's the informed opinion of Mrs. Julia Kiene, manager of Westinghouse Institute at Mansfield, Ohio.

Mrs. Kiene, an enthusiastic one-woman liberating force for the American homemaker, spends 60 per cent of her time in the field working with home economics educators and homemakers.

It's Mrs. Kiene's belief that future homemakers, while conserving time and energy in the kitchen, will be preparing their families better-balanced and more nutritious meals.

Here's how it is going to be done. Packaged and frozen foods are going to replace to an even greater extent the "do-it-yourself" method of food preparation.

And Mrs. Kiene has an armload of facts and figures to support her predictions.

Thirty-five per cent of American homemakers today hold jobs outside the home. Thirty-two per cent of American girls between the ages of 18 and 21 are getting married and going to work to help balance the family budget. Also, the post-war trend to larger families is leaving the homemaker with less time for kitchen chores.

It all adds up to the necessity for streamlining food preparation," Mrs. Kiene emphasized, "and constantly-improving packaged foods are the cheapest help a homemaker can find."

"Let's take cake baking as an example," suggested Mr. Kiene. "The homemaker planning to bake a cake must have on hand cake flour, baking powder, eggs, milk, shortening, and sugar. And remember, for the young couple residing in a small apartment, storage space is a problem. If the cake flour is not used up promptly, it's apt to become weevily. Likewise, the baking powder will weaken."

Let that same homemaker purchase a package of cake mix, and she has all her ingredients in one small box. Her chances of ruining the cake are greatly reduced. She doesn't mess up her kitchen. She has fewer pans to wash. And she has saved over 15 minutes of mixing."

Peas are another of Mrs. Kiene's favorite examples. As she points out, it requires about two and one-half pounds of fresh peas to make the equivalent of a box of frozen peas. The frozen peas sell for about 19 cents a pound while fresh peas are normally about 10 cents a pound.

In Mrs. Kiene's words, "The homemaker who doesn't use frozen peas is paying a little more money for the pleasure of shelling peas."

And then there is "white sauce" which is used extensively for casserole dishes. It requires butter, flour, and milk. A can of soup will make the food every bit as tasty, says Mrs. Kiene, while saving time in cooking and in washing utensils."

Need Change In Teaching
The problem, and a major reason for Mrs. Kiene's many trips is that a large number of home economics instructors are "still teaching the way I was taught a million years ago."

It is important today that American girls be taught to use package foods in their recipes, she said, and that methods of teaching home-making coincide with current trends in homemaking.

The increased cost (about 10 percent) of package foods is more than offset by better balanced meals and the saving in time, in Mrs. Kiene's opinion.

The change to package foods is coming gradually and not without resistance, she added. Those opposing normally fall into two categories, those women whose greatest enjoyment comes from cooking and those who feel they are "shirking their duties" by not starting every meal from scratch.

Tomorrow's Homemaker
Nevertheless, Mrs. Kiene believes tomorrow's homemakers will be relying more and more on packaged meals. And the whole family will benefit in terms of better-balanced meals.

The homemaker who has to rush home from her job to prepare a quick meal for a hungry family usually follows the course of expediency, with balance in diet a poor second. The use of package foods in meal preparation gives her a wide selection of foods without costing her additional time in the kitchen.

Even Pop can put together a good meal without straining his culinary abilities when the food comes packaged, says Mrs. Kiene.

33 Years Experience
And Mrs. Kiene should know. She has had more than 33 years of experience in the home economics field, not to mention the fact that she has raised a family and now enjoys grandmother status.

Prior to joining Westinghouse's Institute at Mansfield, Ohio, she spent five years as a home economics demonstration agent and 10 years as home editor of Capper's Farmer, published in Topeka, Kansas.

She has recently authored two cookbooks, both of which are now in national distribution, and a 32-page children's cookbook. The lat-

The bride wore a light blue silk suit, a white hat and other white and black accessories. She carried a small bible. Her flowers were pink.

Hot Chicken Salad in Green Peppers

Use this delicious hot chicken salad recipe—and stretch one cup of chicken to feed six! Cooking time is short—only 10 to 12 minutes so you save on fuel, too! Yellow corn and soy sauce are the flavor secrets. The serving trick is to stuff the salad into green peppers and while the peppers cook, the salad becomes piping hot.

HOT CHICKEN SALAD IN GREEN PEPPERS

Favorite Stewed Tomatoes
Cheese and Crackers
Lemon Custard Ice Cream

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 1/3 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup uncooked white rice
- 1 cup diced cooked chicken
- 1 whole canned tomato, sliced
- 1/2 cup cooked whole kernel yellow corn
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 3 large green peppers or 6 small green peppers

METHOD: Put the water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

Add the chicken, pimiento, corn, black pepper, soy sauce and mayonnaise to the rice. Mix well. Cut the peppers in half lengthwise (to make "boats"). If medium or small peppers are used, cut out the tops at stem end. Scoop out the seeds and membranes. Stuff firmly with the chicken salad mixture.

Place stuffed peppers in a large deep skillet. Add enough water to come part way up the sides of the peppers. Water should not come over the sides of the peppers into the filling. Salt the water. Cover skillet with a lid and cook about 10 to 12 minutes until the peppers are tender. Water should not boil too vigorously as it is likely to boil over the sides of the peppers. A saucepan or a soup kettle can be substituted for skillet if peppers are too tall for the skillet when lid is on. Serve peppers on a hot platter.

This recipe makes 6 servings.

Radio Valuable Aid To Local Law Enforcement

Slaton police had a busy month, as city officials reported a total of $2,089 in fines collected in city court in December.

Under a new radio set-up installed in the city hall in the past year police can manage to be in more than one place at a time. The installation of a two-way radio in city hall has meant that policemen are now free to spend more time away from the office on patrol while at the same time maintaining contact with the office in case of any emergency which might arise.

Working with the police as radio dispatchers are two local people, Mrs. Inell Avant and Raudin McCormick. Mrs. Avant comes to work at 8 a.m. and stands a constant vigil with the radio until 5 p.m. at which time she is replaced by McCormick. He is on duty until 2 a.m.

Police also keep a daily record of calls which come in both on the radio and on the telephone. In this way they can check back at a later date and find out what action was taken on any incident reported. They can also check back and see who called and reported the incident or asked for help.

The radio dispatchers also keep a daily log of calls from the mobile unit and the telephone. The operators can in this way tell at a glance where the police car is should the need arise to contact it.

With the radio the local police could call for assistance to apprehend a speaker or escaping bootlegger. Should the wanted car start down the Post highway, the local radio dispatcher could immediately contact the Post police department and have a car dispatched from Post to intercept the approaching automobile.

Radio Valuable Aid To Local Law Enforcement

Slaton police had a busy month, as city officials reported a total of $2,089 in fines collected in city court in December.

Under a new radio set-up installed in the city hall in the past year police can manage to be in more than one place at a time. The installation of a two-way radio in city hall has meant that policemen are now free to spend more time away from the office on patrol while at the same time maintaining contact with the office in case of any emergency which might arise.

Working with the police as radio dispatchers are two local people, Mrs. Inell Avant and Raudin McCormick. Mrs. Avant comes to work at 8 a.m. and stands a constant vigil with the radio until 5 p.m. at which time she is replaced by McCormick. He is on duty until 2 a.m. Police also keep a daily record of calls which come in both on the radio and on the telephone. In this way they can check back at a later date and find out what action was taken on any incident reported. They can also check back and see who called and reported the incident or asked for help.

The radio dispatchers also keep a daily log of calls from the mobile unit and the telephone. The operators can in this way tell at a glance where the police car is should the need arise to contact it.

With the radio the local police could call for assistance to apprehend a speeder or escaping bootlegger. Should the wanted car start down the Post highway, the local radio dispatcher could immediately contact the Post police department and have a car dispatched from Post to intercept the approaching automobile.
