Reversal of Radio Application Made Last Week

Tentative decision to grant an application to Plainview Radio for a new radio station at Plainview was announced last week by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington.

Granting of the application would mean denial of a competing application for Star of the Plains Broadcasting Co. for a station at Slaton.

Recommendation from the hearing examiner was for granting of the permit for the Slaton station.

The annual Heart Fund Drive will get underway this week end in Slaton when the Girl Scouts will conduct their Tag Day in the downtown area all day Saturday.

Heart Sunday contributions will be made in a house-to-house solicitation Sunday afternoon between 1 and 4 p.m., under the direction of the Athenian Study Club. Club members will be assisted by representatives from other study clubs in town and youth from local churches.

Club representatives will meet at the home of Mrs. S. H. Jaynes at 10 a.m. Thursday, February 20, for their instructions and Heart Fund Packs.

Church youth will be under the leadership of Beverly Kercheval and George Privett. They are asked to meet at Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church at 1 p.m. Sunday for their instructions and materials.

Quota for Slaton for the 1958 Heart Fund Drive has been set at $600.

Pony League Planning Session Set Monday, 7:30

Parents of boys 13 and 14, and others interested in working with that age group in Pony League Baseball this summer are requested to meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Slaton High School when the program for the summer will be outlined.

Bill Smith stated this week that the meeting was not limited to parents of boys that age, but was open to anyone interested in the work being done with youth.

"We're going to wake up the first warm day and realize that summer is here," Smith said, in emphasizing the importance of the meeting.

Mrs. Pat Worsham and son, Ricky, visited last week in Abilene with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Murphy.

Westview Church Campaign Will Begin Monday

February 24-28 have been set as the dates for a Sunday School enlargement campaign for Westview Baptist Church, according to the Rev. Bryan Ross, pastor.

Campaign director will be John McLaughlin, associate in the Sunday School Department of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. McLaughlin will bring the message at the Sunday evening service and will be teaching during the week.

"Building a Standard Sunday School" will be studied each week-night from 7:30 until 9 p.m. A 15-minute assembly will divide two teaching periods each evening. Graded Training Union study books will be taught for boys and girls 14 and under.

Purpose of the campaign is "to learn better methods of Sunday School organization and growth," the pastor said. He added, "the classes are for all adults, whether or not they are now Sunday School workers."

McLaughlin is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He was music and educational director of First Baptist Church, Lufkin, before assuming his present position.

Ross stated that the enlargement campaign is a part of a simultaneous association-wide effort in which most of the 45 churches in the Lubbock Baptist Association are taking part.

Mr. and Mrs. James Green, Steve and Susan, of Plainview visited Sunday with Mr. Green's brother, B. B. Green, Mrs. Green and Roy Clay.

Public Schools Week Observance Planned Here for March 3-7

Work is underway for the 1958 observance of Public Schools Week in the Slaton school system. Set for a statewide observance March 3-7, open house will be held during this period in schools throughout Texas. Visits to the schools by school patrons and others are being urged.

Held each year primarily to acquaint Texans with the programs and accomplishments of their public education system, this will be the eighth annual observance.

The observance this year will be held under the slogan, "Texas Public Schools—Democracy in Action."

The Texas Committee for Public Schools Week stated this year that visitors to the schools should see a program in each school that will emphasize the American heritage and include knowledge and acceptance of responsibilities and privileges of citizenship. "More effective training for citizenship usually results where the school, home, church and community work cooperatively."

Texas' first public school system was established in 1854 by the School Law, under the provisions of the State Constitution, which stated: "... it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools."

CEMETERY VANDALISM—This sunken grave was the result of apparent vandalism which occurred at Englewood Cemetery sometime during Monday night. A car ran over a water hydrant—which was located about 10 feet from a road—and the water was left running. A large area was flooded, with the result that the grave shown above caved in. Cemetery officials said that this was not the first vandalism to occur there. Cars have been driving over graves, and other acts have been committed there in recent weeks.

RISE IN SPAIN

It is sometimes impossible to guess from afar what are the precise political alignments of those who oppose a dictatorship. However, anyone interested in the truth will discount news reports that opposition to the Franco regime in Spain, especially among the youth, is all Communist.

The Franco police may pick up some Communists, but resentment is widespread. Sons of prominent Falangists and, more broadly, of good Spanish families are now disgusted with the regime in surprising number. And there are responsible reports that intellectual circles support the revolt of the young.

Now clear that, both inside of Spain and among the Spanish exiles, a constitutional monarchy will be acceptable as a means of effecting the change from dictatorship to a regime which guarantees liberties. Judging from reports and appearances, this is most likely to happen when Franco passes. Nor is it at all unlikely that a revolution will erupt, tumbling Franco and his regime. The storm has been gathering in Spain for at least two years now.

Economically, Franco has just about failed, although a recent grant of American aid will help his tottering regime. The regime was never popular. Now, with a seething youth, the Spanish people are recovering from the profound spiritual exhaustion of the Civil War of 1936-1939. The most dangerous sign of all for Franco is that the Falangists seem to be splitting and cannot be trusted.

In this situation, it is not at all unlikely that Khrushchev will be opposed to the coming Spanish revolution. For when the Spanish people rise the captive nations of Khrushchev's empire will respond with renewed hopes for liberty. That is precisely the spirit that the Communists oppose.

SMALL BUSINESS AID

"Plight" is a favorite word of those who view this or that situation with alarm. One hears about the plight of the farmer, of the factory worker, of the school teacher. Lately there has been quite a bit of talk about the plight of the small business man. And though the word has been over-used, its connotations of trouble have real meaning in this instance.

The plight of small business, its predicament, deserves some sympathetic consideration. This conclusion is not one reached merely by haphazard observation. It is based on the results of a year-long study as to how the present tax laws affect small business. These findings have now been incorporated into a bill introduced in the Senate by its small business committee.

One of the main provisions of this measure would permit smaller concerns to retain more of their earnings for growth. It would also permit tax allowances for re-investment. Alternative methods of depreciation allowances on used property would be provided. Interpretations of the Internal Revenue Code would be clarified. These and other provisions would correct what committee members regard as tax disadvantages under the present laws.

There is by no means general agreement as to how the situation of small business could be improved. The Senate committee's bill is not likely to be adopted without contest. The weight of evidence drawn from hearings in 14 cities during the past year does, however, support the idea that small business is in trouble and needs help in competing with the giants. Reasonable help should be forthcoming.

TO PREVENT DELINQUENCY

The continuing newspaper headlines about juvenile delinquency call to mind two classics in the field of child psychiatry which can now be most profitably read. These books are "Love Is Not Enough" and "Traumata from Life," both by Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, and published by the Free Press of Glencoe, Ill.

Dr. Bettelheim is director of the faculty of that institution. His books deal with methods used at the school he directs, and the emotionally ill children who are admitted to this school.

If pilot schools of this type could be set up around the country, important training centers could thus be developed. This would provide the country with more of what is needed—that is, adequately trained personnel for a campaign of preventative psychiatry to deal with the roots of juvenile delinquency.

STRENGTH FOR THE WEEK

To Be A Christian—In My Head

We are all familiar with the Negro spiritual, "Lord, I Want to Be a Christian in My Heart." There is a truth here. Genuine Christianity is of the heart; it is an experience to be felt rather than a creed to be believed. The Christian church was born at pentecost when the Holy Spirit of God became an experience in the lives of men. John Wesley recorded his great awakening in these words, "I felt my heart strangely warmed."

But it is never enough to be a Christian in the heart. Religion, which embraces all of life, involves mind as well as heart. Much violence has been done in the Christian cause by people whose hearts were right but whose minds were wrong. To leave out the mind is to violate the great commandment of Jesus, "Thou shalt love the Lord Thy God With All Thy Heart and With All Thy Soul."

If God has united the mind and the heart in a person, what God hath joined together let no man put asunder.

It was said of one sincere, but misguided Christian, "He has a heart of gold and a head full of feathers." A head full of feathers makes a poor contribution to the Christian cause.

Most of the pharisees, who had a vital part in the crucifixion of Jesus, were undoubtedly sincere in their belief that legalism and animal sacrifices would save the world, but their heads were "full of feathers."

Leaders of the established church in the Middle Ages were probably quite sincere in burning the "heretics" of the church in oil, but they certainly lost their heads in decapitating the opposition.

Among the leaders of the opposition to the protective child labor laws of the British in the 18th century were the conservative clergy, undoubtedly sincere. But if they thought they could love God and allow helpless children to work in the mines 16 hours a day, they should have had their heads examined.

heart, rather than a hot head and a cool heart. We had better add another verse to the spiritual, "Lord, I Want to Be a Christian in My Head."

Mrs. Dane Clevenger and her daughter, Marilyn, of Albuquerque came today for a week end visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Swanner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall Davis and Dr. and Mrs. Glen Payne spent the week in Juarez, Mexico.

On the contemporary scene, those who are critical of an organization because one member, among hundreds, is a "rascal," are usually doing their thinking with their hearts rather than with their heads.

Before leveling our guns at the heads of the opposition, it is wise to ask, "do I have all the facts?" "Are my prejudices clouding my conclusions?"

We usually arrive at an intelligent opinion in a matter if we keep a cool head and a warm

Role of Church in Combatting Delinquency Outlined by Noted Texas Juvenile Authority

(Ed. Note:—This is another in a series of articles on the state's growing problem of juvenile delinquency by one of Texas's foremost authorities on the subject, District Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas.)

I am frequently asked by people concerned with the role of the church: "What is the effect of church attendance on delinquency? — Do boys and girls who go to church regularly become delinquent?"

The question is difficult to answer. In fact, there is no single answer. The part the church plays in the development of children depends upon many factors — the individual child, his parents and home situation, and the type of church program and its leaders.

Here are some statistics, however, which I think will be of interest:

What the Studies Show

A study made of 105 delinquents and 105 non-delinquents showed that 46 of the delinquents were regular church attendants and 64 of the non-delinquents (only 18 more) attended regularly.

Another study of 761 delinquents in New Jersey revealed that 54% attended regularly, 21% occasionally, and only 25% never attended.

Recently Elaine Holcomb, wife of the pastor of the Lakewood Baptist Church in Dallas, made a study of 200 boys and girls in the Texas schools for juvenile offenders. Two-thirds claimed actual church membership and slightly over three-fourths claimed to attend church and Sunday school.

The study also revealed that at about 12 years of age there was a decline in church interest and that the youth activities of most of the churches of the delinquents made little appeal.

Must Be Affirmative

Of vital importance was the fact brought out in the study that a large proportion of the religious instruction had been of a negative character and had failed to make religion a part of their lives.

From the findings in these and other studies it would appear that somehow many of the churches are falling down in their responsibility to young people. Despite attendance and membership in church and Sunday school, surveys reveal that much too large a percentage becomes delinquent.

Church Attention to Problem

One religious leader has said that the church must "re-examine its program and re-direct its activities so as to make religion function as a dynamic force in the home and early life of the child."

An official of the religious education department of one of our large church groups has said that "the rising tide of juvenile delinquency shocks the church into taking account of the fact that there is a great need towards which the church could well direct a greater amount of attention than it has in the past."

Church Leaders Tell How

What then can the church do to meet the challenge of today's most pressing problem—juvenile delinquency? Here are some suggestions from church leaders who have given consideration to the problem:

1. Religion must be presented to young people in such a manner that it can be applied to life situations as they meet them each day.

2. Church and home work together in a program in which the home becomes a laboratory and the parents partners with the church's teachers in the training of children.

Give Feeling of Significance

3. There should be many more church-sponsored activities which will give them a sense of significance in the life of the church. Discussion groups with right leadership can be as popular as game and recreational activities. Giving a child a creative role to play in a church group can be the means of channeling him into such roles in worthwhile non-church activities also.

4. The relationship of the minister with the youth in his community must be more than derived in an occasional contact at a youth meeting and his relationship with their families must be more than a mere handshake after services or a conversation about the weather and crops during a pastoral visit.

Personal Relationship of Minister

The minister who takes the time and makes the effort to know and understand the members of his congregation may not only spot trouble but can act in solving the problems that life brings to every family.

The church can and should be a potent factor in the developing of children and in preventing delinquency.

Whether it is or not depends upon church leaders—ministers and lay people as well. It requires work, time, effort, and vision.

AT SELF'S SERVICE STATION

TALK HAPPINESS! The world is sad enough. Look for the places that are smooth and clear, and speak of them to rest the weary ear.

TALK FAITH! The world is better off without your uttering ignorance of morbid doubt. No one will grieve because your lips are numb.

TALK FAITH! The dreary never-ending tale of mortal maladies is worn and stale. You cannot charm, interest or please by harping on the minor chord, disease. Say you are well or all is well with you, and God hears your words and make them true.

TALK SERVICE! And you will be expounding the virtues of our service station. For by making this your headquarters you will be taking the safe route to keep your car in condition, which is another necessity of life.

money has been pretty tight with us. And Bill has been saying we just couldn't afford a new car now. Well, he gave me the surprise of my life today. He drove home a big new FORD! It's a Custom 300 Sedan and the prettiest car you ever saw. It drives like a dream, Mom! And just listen to this—Bill bought it for less than the similar model would have cost us last year. Be sure to tell Dad about this... and maybe you'll get one of these grand new Fords, too.
Love,
Mary

The Message Did Go Thru

Old West Custom Revived As Pony Express Delivers Message

The color and excitement of the old west touched Slaton briefly Sunday, when the Slaton Rangers delivered an invitation to the Idalou Roping Club by Pony Express.

The invitation, fashioned by John Fondy, owner of Fondy's Western Leather, and president of the Slaton Rangers, was a 4"x8" leather plaque with this message burned into it: "Fellow Riders, you are invited to be our guests Monday, March 3, at 7:00 p.m. at the Roosevelt Clubhouse. Games, Fun and Refreshments. Signed: The Slaton Rangers, Delivered this 16th day of February by the Pony Express."

The 16 mile stretch of road to Idalou was staked out in mile lengths, with each rider carrying the invitation for a mile and then passing it on to the next rider.

The express run was begun at 2:00 p.m. and the plaque was in the hands of Bugg Miller, president of the Idalou Roping Club at 3:00.

The unique invitation is on display at the Phillip "66" Station in Idalou, and was autographed on the back by each Ranger participating in the ride.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Macey of Earth visited with his sister, Mrs. Ettie Mathis, Sunday.

Miss Kay Castleberry spent Saturday night and Sunday in Lubbock as guest of Miss Linda Kay Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Atnip spent Sunday at the ranch of Mr. and Buford Powers in Lynn County.

'58 To Be Decisive Year In Texas Traffic Safety

The statewide Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents drive to make 1958 a decisive year for traffic safety will be given added impetus during the coming months when the Texas Safety Association, newspapers and local safety groups join hands in a Signs of Life Campaign.

TSA is also developing final plans for full cooperation with the Boy Scouts of America in the Spring Traffic Safety phase of their Safety Good Turn—1958, which kicks off during Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7-13.

The Signs of Life program, specially highlighted in February, is a continuing campaign to encourage recognition and strict observance of the basic traffic signs, signals and pavement markings. Observance of grade crossings, warning signs and signals is particularly stressed.

Both the Signs of Life and the Boy Scout Safety Turn programs are extended efforts to heighten public interest in and support for—the basic goals of traffic accident prevention.

J. O. Musick, TSA's General Manager, recently stated that, "Improvement of driving standards, increased voluntary compliance with traffic laws, cooperation with traffic officials and support of local groups are the principle means by which the traffic toll will be reduced."

"The Back the Attack banner, originated by the National Safety Council, unites all state safety programs into one mass effort to help America turn the tide and make 1958, truly, traffic safety's decisive year," Musick said.

Mrs. Jerome Shillingburg of Dublin and her brother, Floyd Cannon, of Idalou were guests in the home of Mrs. Shillingburg's sister-in-law, Mrs. F. D. Bostick, and Mr. Bostick Saturday.

CIRCUS TIME?—It looks kinda like a circus around the homemaking rooms at Slaton High School, as the FHA girls are making preparations for a style show. Shown here with some of the props are Sue Liles, Jan Smith, and Della Scoggins, as they tell Mackie Klattenhoff about their plans for the show. The three girls were named Girls of the Month for November in the Future Homemakers of America, and Mackie was Boy of the Month in the Future Farmers of America.

Texas Christian Churches Lead Nation in Per Capita Giving

Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in Texas have 134,346 members in some 550 congregations, according to a 1957 yearbook of Christian Churches. Only five other states have a larger membership, and only four others have more Disciple congregations.

Yearbook data show that baptisms added 4,135 members to Texas Christian Churches and 8,148 were accepted as transfers from other churches. Net gain in membership was 2,146.

While church membership increased, church school enrollment decreased by nearly 2,000, according to the new figures. 1955-56 enrollment was 92,452; in 1956-57 enrollment is given as 90,364.

Texas Disciples of Christ gave $72.68 per capita for local church expense and $12.01 for missions. Per capita averages for the United States and Canada were $49.74 for local expense and $7.91 for missions.

Tech, SMU Vie In Dallas This Saturday Night

Texas Tech's Red Raiders play the defending champion Southern Methodist Mustangs in Dallas Saturday.

An overflow crowd is expected at the basketball game, since Texas Tech Student Council has voted the journey to Dallas an "official school trip."

After the SMU game the Red Raiders have games remaining with Texas A&M in Lubbock February 25, with Texas Christian at Ft. Worth March 1 and with Rice in Lubbock March 4.

For the third time this season, Tech set a Southwest Conference attendance record, when 10,270 fans turned out to see the Red Raiders beat the University of Arkansas 69-48 in Lubbock last Saturday. The loss by the conference-leading Razorbacks was the worst they have suffered this season, surpassing the one handed them by the nation's No. 1 team, Kansas State. It was one of the best defensive games in Tech history.
